MR. WILLIAM JAMES RASPBERRY

William Raspberry is the Pulitzer Prize-winning syndicated columnist for The Washington Post and the Knight Professor of the Practice of Communications and Journalism at the DeWitt Wallace Center and the Terry Sanford Institute of Public Policy at Duke University.

He teaches public policy courses on the history and impact of equal opportunity and affirmative action; on the effect of socio-economic changes on families, children and communities; on the ways citizens seek political power; and on the press and the public interest.

Mr. Raspberry followed a preministerial curriculum at Indiana Central College and graduated with a B.S. in History in 1960. His newspaper career began with a summer job at the Indianapolis Recorder in 1956. His duties there as reporter, photographer and editor inspired him to join The Washington Post in 1962, after serving two years in the Army. At The Post, he was hired as a teletype operator, and quickly advanced to general assignment reporter, copy editor and assistant city editor.

His coverage of the 1965 Watts riot in Los Angeles earned him the Capital Press Club's "Journalist of the Year" award, and in 1967 he received a Citation of Merit in Journalism from Lincoln University in Jefferson, Mo., for distinction in improving human relations.

Mr. Raspberry, who continues to write for The Post, won the 1994 Pulitzer Prize for his commentaries on crime, AIDS, the Nation of Islam and violent rap lyrics. He has won numerous other journalistic awards and more than a dozen honorary degrees, including one from Duke in 1993. He is the author of Looking Backward at Us, a 1991 book published by the University Press of Mississippi.

Where the winds of Dixie softly blow
o'er the fields of Caroline,

There stands ever cherished N.C. State,

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic gowns represent a tradition handed down from the universities of the Middle Ages. These institutions were founded by the Church; the students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gowns at all times. Round caps later became square mortarboards; the hoods, originally cowls attached to the gowns, could be slipped over the head for warmth.

Many European universities have distinctive caps and gowns which are different from those commonly used in this country. Some of the gowns are of bright colors and some are embellished with fur. A number of these may be noted in the procession.

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. The bachelor's gown is worn closed, the master's and doctor's may be worn open or closed. The shape of the sleeve is the distinguishing mark of the gown: bachelor--long pointed sleeves; master--oblong, square cut in the back with an arc cut away in front; doctor--bell shaped.

Caps are black. The tassels for the Ph.D. degree are gold and those for other graduate and professional degrees may be of the color corresponding to the trimmings on the hoods.

Of all the components of the academic costume, the hood bears the heaviest symbolic burden. The hood must make clear the level of the degree, the faculty in which it was given, and the institution which awarded it. The level of the degree is shown by the size of the hood, the width of the velvet trimming, and in the case of doctors, by the shape. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet, and four feet long, respectively. The velvet trimming in the same order is two, three, and five inches and extends all around the hood on the exposed edge. This same trimming identifies the faculty in which the degree was awarded. For each faculty there is a corresponding color; so a glance at the trimming is all that is needed to identify the faculty. A partial list of the colors follows: Agriculture, maize; Architecture and Art, brown; Science, golden yellow; Economics, copper; Education, light blue; Engineering, orange; Forestry, russet; Physical Education, sage green; Religion, scarlet; Speech, silver gray; Veterinary Medicine, gray; Textiles, wine red. The following faculties have the same color--dark blue: Anthropology, History, Languages, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology.

ACADEMIC HONORS

Honors participants benefit from a more individualized and rigorous approach to their desired degree through special classes, seminars and individual research.

Undergraduate degree honor designations are:

Cum Laude--for GPA 3.250 through 3.499 (white sash)

Magna Cum Laude--for GPA 3.500 through 3.749 (red sash)

Summa Cum Laude--for GPA 3.750 and above (gold sash)

DEPARTMENTAL AWARDS FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING EXCELLENCE

The Departmental Awards for Teaching and Learning Excellence were established in 1999-00. Each year, up to two departments are recognized for their exceptional accomplishments in teaching and learning. Nominations are made by college deans, and dossiers supporting these nominations are reviewed by a committee of faculty, students, and staff appointed by the provost. Each department identified for this award receives a continuing base budget adjustment of $15,000 and a one time award of $5,000.

The department selected to receive this award is listed below along with the abstract of its dossier.

Chemical Engineering

The Department of Chemical Engineering pioneers activities in the field of engineering education. Several of the faculty have devoted much of their professional careers to the development of innovative teaching methodologies, many of which have been adopted by other units throughout the University, as well as by other academic institutions worldwide. At the heart of these methodologies is a genuine interest in preparing students at all levels of education for success in contemporary technological fields and society as a whole. Through active and cooperative learning, students come to understand the importance of interpersonal skills and teamwork, in addition to time and project management. They likewise come to realize their own accountability and ultimately develop a deeper commitment to their education and personal, as well as professional, growth. These methodologies, instituted throughout the undergraduate and graduate engineering curricula, are complemented by a caring and energetic faculty whose recognized mission at the University is excellence in teaching. By adopting this mission, faculty members continually seek new avenues by which to improve their own teaching and produce young professionals who, by their education and enthusiasm, bear the banners of the Department and University high with pride for others to see. In addition to identifying and meeting the educational needs of diverse students at the University, the Department has actively sought to establish (i) distance learning modules to reach students throughout the State of North Carolina and (ii) local partnerships with K-12 schools to motivate and stir the curiosity of students at early stages of development. All these efforts have garnered substantial recognition for the Department of Chemical Engineering, and it is certainly timely for the Department to seek University recognition for its many education-related achievements.

Nominations were received from the following departments, all of which are to be congratulated for having been recognized by their colleges for accomplishments in teaching and learning:

Horticultural Science	Agriculture and Life Sciences
Chemical Engineering	Engineering
Mathematics	Physical and Mathematical Sciences
Microbiology	Agriculture and Life Sciences
Physics	Physical and Mathematical Sciences
