PHIL DONAHUE

Phil Donahue's pioneering approach to broadcast journalism changed and shaped the landscape of American television for nearly three decades. Perhaps best known for his nationally syndicated talk show "Donahue," the award-winning talk show host has also earned acclaim for local, network and public television specials dealing with social issues in America.

Donahue established the first audience participation television talk show as a local program on Nov. 6, 1967, in Dayton, Ohio. Donahue's innovative format examined social and political issues by engaging studio guests and audience members. His show soon became an American institution that aired nationally from 1969 to 1996.

In 1993, Donahue was inducted into the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Hall of Fame for his outstanding contributions to American television. Donahue and his show earned 20 Daytime Emmy Awards, including nine for Outstanding Host. In 1980, Donahue was awarded a George Foster Peabody Broadcast Journalism Award for "sensitive, yet probing interviews on issues relevant to today's society."

Donahue's guests have included presidents, world leaders and elected officials, and celebrities, and he has been credited with enhancing communication between political leaders and the public on highly sensitive issues. During the 1992 presidential campaign, Donahue devoted one of his shows to a debate between Democratic candidates Bill Clinton and Jerry Brown prior to the New York primary. In 1984, Donahue joined Ted Koppel of ABC to moderate a debate between Democratic presidential candidates.

Donahue used his show's popularity to heighten social, cultural and political awareness both at home and abroad. In 1985 and 1986, Donahue worked with Russian political commentator and journalist Vladimir Pozner to conduct satellite telecasts between the United States and the Soviet Union. Donahue later took his talk show to Russia for a week of programs, and he was the first Western journalist to visit Chernobyl following the accident at the nuclear power plant in 1986.

Donahue has also earned recognition for his work on other television specials. He hosted an Emmy Award winning special on NBC in 1981 titled "Donahue and Kids." Donahue also hosted a 1991 public television special titled "Children in America," which focused on problems facing children in society. He has also worked on projects dealing with AIDS, race relations and health care. In addition to his television work, Donahue has authored a best-selling autobiography "Donahue: My Own Story," and "The Human Animal," a book which examines the complexities of human behavior.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Donahue is a 1957 graduate of the University of Notre Dame. After graduating, Donahue spent the early part of his career working in both radio and television. He is married to award-winning actress and television producer Marlo Thomas.

KEN BURNS

Celebrated filmmaker Ken Burns has been making award-winning documentaries for more than 20 years. Burns has combined his love of history, storytelling and film into unique portraits of American society and culture. Noted historian Stephen Ambrose once said, "More Americans get their history from Ken Burns than any other source." Burns earned an Academy Award nomination in 1981 for his first major project titled "Brooklyn Bridge," a documentary on the construction of what was the largest bridge of its era. "Brooklyn Bridge" was more widely seen when the film was broadcast on public television in 1982, and Burns found his niche on PBS as a masterful documentarian.

Since earning critical acclaim for "Brooklyn Bridge," Burns went on to produce "The Civil War" and "Baseball," which are two of the most watched series in PBS history. "The Civil War" earned more than 40 major film and television awards, including two Emmy Awards, two Grammy Awards, the Producer's Guild Producer of the Year Award, a People's Choice Award, a Peabody Award, an Alfred I Dupont-Columbia University Award, the D.W. Griffiths Award and the $50,000 Lincoln Prize. "The Civil War" became the first documentary to gross more than $100 million.

Burns earned similar acclaim for his work on the 18-hour documentary "Baseball." The series garnered an Emmy, the CINE Golden Eagle Award, the Clarion Award and the Television Critics Award for Outstanding Achievement in Sports and Special Programming. Burns was the director, producer, co-writer, chief cinematographer, music director and executive producer for the series, which attracted more than 45 million viewers.

In 2001, Burns followed the success of "The Civil War" and "Baseball" with his third epic PBS documentary "JAZZ," a 19-hour, 10-part series which explores the origins of jazz music. Several of Burns' other films have also been award-winners. He won a Peabody Award for his work on the 1999 PBS special "Not For Ourselves Alone: The Story of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony," a dual biography of the two women who spearheaded the women's rights movement in America. Burns also won a Peabody Award for "Frank Lloyd Wright," an account of the famous American architect. "The West," an eight-part, 12-hour film series on the American West, won the 1997 Erik Barnow Prize.

Burns was awarded the Silver Baton in the Alfred I Dupont-Columbia University Awards in Broadcast Journalism for his work on "Huey Long," a portrayal of the Depression-era Louisiana governor which also enjoyed a theatrical release. Burns' film "The Statue of Liberty" earned various awards and was also nominated for an Academy Award and an Emmy. His credits also include the documentaries "Mark Twain," "Lewis and Clark: The Journey of the Corps of Discovery," "Thomas Jefferson," "The Shakers: Hands to Work, Hearts to God," and "The Congress: The History and Promise of Representative Government."

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Burns graduated from Hampshire College in 1975.

WILLIAM G. HILL

Dr. William George Hill is a professor of genetics at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, where he is provost and dean of the faculty of science and engineering. He is also a non-resident faculty member in NC State's bioinformatics graduate program. A renowned researcher and teacher, Hill has devoted his career to the study of genetics and animal biology.

Hill's research focuses on theoretical and experimental studies on population and quantitative genetics, and seeks to apply the findings to animal improvement and the understanding of evolution. Much of Hill's research is done in collaboration with the Roslin Institute, a leading center for biotechnology in Edinburgh, and with the animal breeding industry.

During his distinguished career at the University of Edinburgh, Hill has served as head of the university's Institute of Cell, Animal and Population Biology and head of the Division of Biological Sciences. He has also served as a visiting professor at NC State, the University of Minnesota and Iowa State University.

Hill serves on the Board of Governors of the Roslin Institute and was a past president and vice president of the British Society of Animal Science. He chaired the RAE Biological Science Panel, served on the Committee of Scottish Higher Education Principals Commission, and served on the Agricultural and Food Research Council's Animals Research Grants Board.

Hill has edited two books "Benchmark Papers on Quantitative Genetics" and "Evolution and Animal Breeding." He has edited several professional publications including "Genetical Research," "Animal Production" and "Livestock Production Science." He also publishes his research extensively.

Hill attended Saint Albans School in Herts, Great Britain, and received his bachelor's at Wye College, which is part of the University of London and focuses on agricultural science. He received his master's degree from the University of California at Davis. He also studied at Iowa State University before earning doctoral degrees from the University of Edinburgh.

E. CARROLL JOYNER

Edward Carroll Joyner is a portrait of hard work, vision, leadership and humanitarian service. Joyner graduated from NC State in 1956 and went on to become a success in business. Throughout his career, however, Joyner used his entrepreneurial savvy to benefit both private industry and the community at large.

Joyner was recognized by his alma mater for his years of benevolence and generosity by selection for the Watauga Medal in 1994. The Watauga Medal is the highest non-academic honor bestowed by NC State and is awarded "to persons who have rendered significant and distinguished service and support to North Carolina State University."

As a former vice president for real estate development for the Golden Corral restaurant chain, Joyner is recognized as the driving force behind the company's rapid growth. The company, which first opened in Fayetteville, N.C., in 1973, is now a leading national franchise and ranked fourth in the "Triangle Business Journal's" list of top-100 North Carolina-based business in 2000. Joyner resigned from Golden Corral in 1982 to focus on new business ventures and personal interests. His endeavors included breeding Angus cattle, founding a new steak restaurant chain, establishing a cattle-feeding business, and expanding his investments into securities, commodities, oil and gas. He also owns and operates two farms, a 120-acre site near Wake Forest and a 1,122 acre-site in Louisburg.

Joyner's interest in the genetic improvement of beef cattle and supporting small cattle farmers led him to establish the North Carolina Cattlemen's Foundation to support beef cattle research at NC State. He served as director of the foundation and is a lifetime member of the associated North Carolina Cattlemen's Association.

Joyner is also a charter member of NC State's Richard Stanhope Pullen Society and a member of the university's William Peele Society. He is a former member of the Board of Directors for the North Carolina State University Foundation and the NC State Veterinary Medical Foundation. Joyner frequently lectures in NC State College of Management's Entrepreneurial Lecture Series and sponsors the college's annual Carroll Joyner Business Plan Competition for students. The university's new visitor's center, scheduled for completion in 2004, will be named in Joyner's honor.

Joyner's philanthropic endeavors are not limited to his alma mater. He has served as a trustee for Warren Wilson College, established the Sula and Albert Joyner Endowment in the Methodist Foundation in memory of his parents, and donated a 50-acre tract of land to the town of Louisburg to help build a proposed $3.1 million park to be named in memory of his daughter.

Joyner grew up on his family's 28-acre farm in Sampson County, N.C. After graduating from NC State, Joyner served in the U.S. Army and returned to Raleigh after his tour of duty to begin his successful business ventures.

CYMA RUBIN

Cyma Rubin, a 1947 graduate of NC State with a degree in textile management, is a Tony and Emmy award-winning producer, director and writer for her work in the areas of theater, film and television.

Rubin has earned critical acclaim for her work on Broadway productions "No, No, Nanette," which won four Tony Awards and was nominated for three others, and "Doctor Jazz," which garnered four Tony Award nominations.

Rubin's theatrical work has appeared around the country and around the globe. She produced "I Love a Piano!" for the New York Cabaret Revue, Gershwin's "Oh, Kay!" for the Kennedy Center Opera House in Washington, D.C., "Mike" for the Walnut Street Theater in Philadelphia, and "Porgy and Bess" for the Houston Grand Opera. "Porgy and Bess" toured Japan and Europe in 1996 and 1997. Rubin has also produced tours for the American Ballet Theater, Ballet Argentino and the New York Boys Choir.

In 1999, Rubin won the Emmy and Telly Awards for best documentary for the 90-minute Turner Network Television special, "Moment of Impact: Stories of the Pulitzer Prize Photographs." Rubin produced and directed the program.

Rubin also earned recognition for her production work on the film "Greaser's Palace," which captured a London Film Festival Award and was named one of the top-10 films of 1972 by "Time" magazine. She also produced two films for CBS, "A Few Days in Weasel Creek" and "Welcome Home, Bobby," which earned recognition at the Rio de Janeiro Film Festival.

Rubin served as curator for the first American exhibition of Pulitzer Prize winning photographs, which opened in New York in May of 2000. The collection of photos was later published in the book "Capture the Moment," which Rubin produced and edited.

Rubin is president of Business of Entertainment Inc., an independent entertainment production company. She is a member of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, the American Film Institute, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Metropolitan Opera Guild, the Friends of Carnegie Hall, the Museum of Modern Art and Phi Kappa Phi. She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Friends of the Library at NC State.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic gowns represent a tradition handed down from the universities of the Middle Ages. These institutions were founded by the Church; the students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gowns at all times. Round caps later became square mortarboards; the hoods, originally cowls attached to the gowns, could be slipped over the head for warmth.

Many European universities have distinctive caps and gowns which are different from those commonly used in this country. Some of the gowns are of bright colors and some are embellished with fur. A number of these may be noted in the procession.

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. The bachelor's gown is worn closed, the master's and doctor's may be worn open or closed. The shape of the sleeve is the distinguishing mark of the gown: bachelor--long pointed sleeves; master--oblong, square cut in the back with an arc cut away in front; doctor--bell shaped.

Caps are black. The tassels for the Ph.D. degree are gold and those for other graduate and professional degrees may be of the color corresponding to the trimmings on the hoods.

Of all the components of the academic costume, the hood bears the heaviest symbolic burden. The hood must make clear the level of the degree, the faculty in which it was given, and the institution which awarded it. The level of the degree is shown by the size of the hood, the width of the velvet trimming, and in the case of doctors, by the shape. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet, and four feet long, respectively. The velvet trimming in the same order is two, three, and five inches and extends all around the hood on the exposed edge. This same trimming identifies the faculty in which the degree was awarded. For each faculty there is a corresponding color; so a glance at the trimming is all that is needed to identify the faculty. A partial list of the colors follows: Agriculture, maize; Architecture and Art, brown; Science, golden yellow; Economics, copper; Education, light blue; Engineering, orange; Forestry, russet; Physical Education, sage green; Religion, scarlet; Speech, silver gray; Veterinary Medicine, gray; Textiles, wine red. The following faculties have the same color--dark blue: Anthropology, History, Languages, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology.

DEPARTMENTAL AWARDS FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING EXCELLENCE

The Departmental Awards for Teaching and Learning Excellence were established in 1999-00. Each year, up to two departments are recognized for their exceptional accomplishments in teaching and learning. Nominations are made by college deans, and dossiers supporting these nominations are reviewed by a committee of faculty, students, and staff appointed by the provost. Each department identified for this award receives a continuing base budget adjustment of $15,000 and a one time award of $5,000.

The department selected to receive this award is listed below along with the abstract of its dossier.

Department of Physics

The Physics Department mounts major instructional efforts in service teaching, the undergraduate majors' program, and the graduate program. We teach about 6000 students per year with innovative, research-based techniques. Our course evaluations show that about 80% of our students find the instruction satisfactory, but we continually strive for improvement based on more detailed, research-based assessments. Our majors benefit from small classes and extensive opportunities for research, which they present in local and national venues. Over the last 12 years, three of our undergraduates have been finalists for the national Apker Award for Undergraduate Physics Research, and one won the award. Our MS and PhD graduates move without difficulty into jobs in academia and industry. The Department operates 230 laboratory sections per year, a large Tutorial Center with a staff of 10 serving thousands of students per year, an extensive Demonstration and Equipment facility, and WebAssign, an electronic homework-delivery system, now used by 30,000 students at NC State and 260 other institutions. Eleven currently teaching and four additional emeritus faculty are members of the Academy of Outstanding Teachers, and our faculty also include four Alumni Distinguished Undergraduate Professors, one Alumni Distinguished Graduate Professor, two winners of the Board of Governor's Award for the College of Physical and Mathematical Sciences, and one winner of the Board of Governor's Award for the entire NC State campus. Our highly respected Physics Education Research faculty have obtained millions of dollars in external funding to develop and implement improved teaching strategies in our service courses, but faculty in other research areas have also obtained substantial external support for instruction. In the past seven years, two Presidents of the American Association of Physics Teachers have come from our Department.

Nominations were received from the following departments, all of which are to be congratulated for having been recognized by their colleges for accomplishments in teaching and learning:

Horticultural Sciences	Agriculture and Life Sciences
Political Science and Public Administration	Humanities and Social Sciences

PHIL DONAHUE

Phil Donahue's pioneering approach to broadcast journalism changed and shaped the landscape of American television for nearly three decades. Perhaps best known for his nationally syndicated talk show "Donahue," the award-winning talk show host has also earned acclaim for local, network and public television specials dealing with social issues in America.

Donahue established the first audience participation television talk show as a local program on Nov. 6, 1967, in Dayton, Ohio. Donahue's innovative format examined social and political issues by engaging studio guests and audience members. His show soon became an American institution that aired nationally from 1969 to 1996.

In 1993, Donahue was inducted into the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Hall of Fame for his outstanding contributions to American television. Donahue and his show earned 20 Daytime Emmy Awards, including nine for Outstanding Host. In 1980, Donahue was awarded a George Foster Peabody Broadcast Journalism Award for "sensitive, yet probing interviews on issues relevant to today's society."

Donahue's guests have included presidents, world leaders and elected officials, and celebrities, and he has been credited with enhancing communication between political leaders and the public on highly sensitive issues. During the 1992 presidential campaign, Donahue devoted one of his shows to a debate between Democratic candidates Bill Clinton and Jerry Brown prior to the New York primary. In 1984, Donahue joined Ted Koppel of ABC to moderate a debate between Democratic presidential candidates.

Donahue used his show's popularity to heighten social, cultural and political awareness both at home and abroad. In 1985 and 1986, Donahue worked with Russian political commentator and journalist Vladimir Pozner to conduct satellite telecasts between the United States and the Soviet Union. Donahue later took his talk show to Russia for a week of programs, and he was the first Western journalist to visit Chernobyl following the accident at the nuclear power plant in 1986.

Donahue has also earned recognition for his work on other television specials. He hosted an Emmy Award winning special on NBC in 1981 titled "Donahue and Kids." Donahue also hosted a 1991 public television special titled "Children in America," which focused on problems facing children in society. He has also worked on projects dealing with AIDS, race relations and health care. In addition to his television work, Donahue has authored a best-selling autobiography "Donahue: My Own Story," and "The Human Animal," a book which examines the complexities of human behavior.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Donahue is a 1957 graduate of the University of Notre Dame. After graduating, Donahue spent the early part of his career working in both radio and television. He is married to award-winning actress and television producer Marlo Thomas.

KEN BURNS

Celebrated filmmaker Ken Burns has been making award-winning documentaries for more than 20 years. Burns has combined his love of history, storytelling and film into unique portraits of American society and culture. Noted historian Stephen Ambrose once said, "More Americans get their history from Ken Burns than any other source." Burns earned an Academy Award nomination in 1981 for his first major project titled "Brooklyn Bridge," a documentary on the construction of what was the largest bridge of its era. "Brooklyn Bridge" was more widely seen when the film was broadcast on public television in 1982, and Burns found his niche on PBS as a masterful documentarian.

Since earning critical acclaim for "Brooklyn Bridge," Burns went on to produce "The Civil War" and "Baseball," which are two of the most watched series in PBS history. "The Civil War" earned more than 40 major film and television awards, including two Emmy Awards, two Grammy Awards, the Producer's Guild Producer of the Year Award, a People's Choice Award, a Peabody Award, an Alfred I Dupont-Columbia University Award, the D.W. Griffiths Award and the $50,000 Lincoln Prize. "The Civil War" became the first documentary to gross more than $100 million.

Burns earned similar acclaim for his work on the 18-hour documentary "Baseball." The series garnered an Emmy, the CINE Golden Eagle Award, the Clarion Award and the Television Critics Award for Outstanding Achievement in Sports and Special Programming. Burns was the director, producer, co-writer, chief cinematographer, music director and executive producer for the series, which attracted more than 45 million viewers.

In 2001, Burns followed the success of "The Civil War" and "Baseball" with his third epic PBS documentary "JAZZ," a 19-hour, 10-part series which explores the origins of jazz music. Several of Burns' other films have also been award-winners. He won a Peabody Award for his work on the 1999 PBS special "Not For Ourselves Alone: The Story of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony," a dual biography of the two women who spearheaded the women's rights movement in America. Burns also won a Peabody Award for "Frank Lloyd Wright," an account of the famous American architect. "The West," an eight-part, 12-hour film series on the American West, won the 1997 Erik Barnow Prize.

Burns was awarded the Silver Baton in the Alfred I Dupont-Columbia University Awards in Broadcast Journalism for his work on "Huey Long," a portrayal of the Depression-era Louisiana governor which also enjoyed a theatrical release. Burns' film "The Statue of Liberty" earned various awards and was also nominated for an Academy Award and an Emmy. His credits also include the documentaries "Mark Twain," "Lewis and Clark: The Journey of the Corps of Discovery," "Thomas Jefferson," "The Shakers: Hands to Work, Hearts to God," and "The Congress: The History and Promise of Representative Government."

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Burns graduated from Hampshire College in 1975.

WILLIAM G. HILL

Dr. William George Hill is a professor of genetics at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, where he is provost and dean of the faculty of science and engineering. He is also a non-resident faculty member in NC State's bioinformatics graduate program. A renowned researcher and teacher, Hill has devoted his career to the study of genetics and animal biology.

Hill's research focuses on theoretical and experimental studies on population and quantitative genetics, and seeks to apply the findings to animal improvement and the understanding of evolution. Much of Hill's research is done in collaboration with the Roslin Institute, a leading center for biotechnology in Edinburgh, and with the animal breeding industry.

During his distinguished career at the University of Edinburgh, Hill has served as head of the university's Institute of Cell, Animal and Population Biology and head of the Division of Biological Sciences. He has also served as a visiting professor at NC State, the University of Minnesota and Iowa State University.

Hill serves on the Board of Governors of the Roslin Institute and was a past president and vice president of the British Society of Animal Science. He chaired the RAE Biological Science Panel, served on the Committee of Scottish Higher Education Principals Commission, and served on the Agricultural and Food Research Council's Animals Research Grants Board.

Hill has edited two books "Benchmark Papers on Quantitative Genetics" and "Evolution and Animal Breeding." He has edited several professional publications including "Genetical Research," "Animal Production" and "Livestock Production Science." He also publishes his research extensively.

Hill attended Saint Albans School in Herts, Great Britain, and received his bachelor's at Wye College, which is part of the University of London and focuses on agricultural science. He received his master's degree from the University of California at Davis. He also studied at Iowa State University before earning doctoral degrees from the University of Edinburgh.

E. CARROLL JOYNER

Edward Carroll Joyner is a portrait of hard work, vision, leadership and humanitarian service. Joyner graduated from NC State in 1956 and went on to become a success in business. Throughout his career, however, Joyner used his entrepreneurial savvy to benefit both private industry and the community at large.

Joyner was recognized by his alma mater for his years of benevolence and generosity by selection for the Watauga Medal in 1994. The Watauga Medal is the highest non-academic honor bestowed by NC State and is awarded "to persons who have rendered significant and distinguished service and support to North Carolina State University."

As a former vice president for real estate development for the Golden Corral restaurant chain, Joyner is recognized as the driving force behind the company's rapid growth. The company, which first opened in Fayetteville, N.C., in 1973, is now a leading national franchise and ranked fourth in the "Triangle Business Journal's" list of top-100 North Carolina-based business in 2000. Joyner resigned from Golden Corral in 1982 to focus on new business ventures and personal interests. His endeavors included breeding Angus cattle, founding a new steak restaurant chain, establishing a cattle-feeding business, and expanding his investments into securities, commodities, oil and gas. He also owns and operates two farms, a 120-acre site near Wake Forest and a 1,122 acre-site in Louisburg.

Joyner's interest in the genetic improvement of beef cattle and supporting small cattle farmers led him to establish the North Carolina Cattlemen's Foundation to support beef cattle research at NC State. He served as director of the foundation and is a lifetime member of the associated North Carolina Cattlemen's Association.

Joyner is also a charter member of NC State's Richard Stanhope Pullen Society and a member of the university's William Peele Society. He is a former member of the Board of Directors for the North Carolina State University Foundation and the NC State Veterinary Medical Foundation. Joyner frequently lectures in NC State College of Management's Entrepreneurial Lecture Series and sponsors the college's annual Carroll Joyner Business Plan Competition for students. The university's new visitor's center, scheduled for completion in 2004, will be named in Joyner's honor.

Joyner's philanthropic endeavors are not limited to his alma mater. He has served as a trustee for Warren Wilson College, established the Sula and Albert Joyner Endowment in the Methodist Foundation in memory of his parents, and donated a 50-acre tract of land to the town of Louisburg to help build a proposed $3.1 million park to be named in memory of his daughter.

Joyner grew up on his family's 28-acre farm in Sampson County, N.C. After graduating from NC State, Joyner served in the U.S. Army and returned to Raleigh after his tour of duty to begin his successful business ventures.

In 1999, Rubin won the Emmy and Telly Awards for best documentary for the 90-minute Turner Network Television special, "Moment of Impact: Stories of the Pulitzer Prize Photographs." Rubin produced and directed the program.

Rubin also earned recognition for her production work on the film "Greaser's Palace," which captured a London Film Festival Award and was named one of the top-10 films of 1972 by "Time" magazine. She also produced two films for CBS, "A Few Days in Weasel Creek" and "Welcome Home, Bobby," which earned recognition at the Rio de Janeiro Film Festival.

Rubin served as curator for the first American exhibition of Pulitzer Prize winning photographs, which opened in New York in May of 2000. The collection of photos was later published in the book "Capture the Moment," which Rubin produced and edited.

Rubin is president of Business of Entertainment Inc., an independent entertainment production company. She is a member of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, the American Film Institute, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Metropolitan Opera Guild, the Friends of Carnegie Hall, the Museum of Modern Art and Phi Kappa Phi. ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic gowns represent a tradition handed down from the universities of the Middle Ages. These institutions were founded by the Church; the students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gowns at all times. Round caps later became square mortarboards; the hoods, originally cowls attached to the gowns, could be slipped over the head for warmth.

Many European universities have distinctive caps and gowns which are different from those commonly used in this country. Some of the gowns are of bright colors and some are embellished with fur. A number of these may be noted in the procession.

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. The bachelor's gown is worn closed, the master's and doctor's may be worn open or closed. The shape of the sleeve is the distinguishing mark of the gown: bachelor--long pointed sleeves; master--oblong, square cut in the back with an arc cut away in front; doctor--bell shaped.

Caps are black. The tassels for the Ph.D. degree are gold and those for other graduate and professional degrees may be of the color corresponding to the trimmings on the hoods.

Of all the components of the academic costume, the hood bears the heaviest symbolic burden. The hood must make clear the level of the degree, the faculty in which it was given, and the institution which awarded it. The level of the degree is shown by the size of the hood, the width of the velvet trimming, and in the case of doctors, by the shape. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet, and four feet long, respectively. The velvet trimming in the same order is two, three, and five inches and extends all around the hood on the exposed edge. This same trimming identifies the faculty in which the degree was awarded. For each faculty there is a corresponding color; so a glance at the trimming is all that is needed to identify the faculty. A partial list of the colors follows: Agriculture, maize; Architecture and Art, brown; Science, golden yellow; Economics, copper; Education, light blue; Engineering, orange; Forestry, russet; Physical Education, sage green; Religion, scarlet; Speech, silver gray; Veterinary Medicine, gray; Textiles, wine red. The following faculties have the same color--dark blue: Anthropology, History, Languages, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology.
