CHANCELLOR MARYE ANNE FOX

Dr. Marye Anne Fox, North Carolina State University's 12th chancellor, announced in April that she has been named chancellor of the University of California at San Diego (UCSD). An internationally recognized organic chemist and a Distinguished University Professor of Chemistry at NC State, Dr. Fox leaves a legacy of achievement and unparalleled growth for NC State.

While serving as Chancellor, she has more than tripled the number of endowed chairs and professorships, attracting and retaining an outstanding, diverse faculty who are increasingly honored with national and international awards for scholarly accomplishments. She increased tenfold the number of endowed and designated merit scholarships, thus improving GPA and SAT scores of incoming classes. In addition, the Campaign for NC State Students, completed in 1999, exceeded its goal of $80 million dollars and raised almost $130 million, tripling the number of endowed scholarships and fellowships available to NC State students.

Dr. Fox also bolstered NC State's role as a national leader in research, overseeing an expansion in research expenditures from $379.8 million in 1998 to more than $478.6 million in 2004. Expenditures for National Science Foundation research rose from about $254 million in 1998 to more than $300 million in 2004. Under her guidance, NC State emerged as a national pacesetter in biotechnology, nanotechnology, genomics, bioinformatics, nonwoven textiles and other leading-edge technologies.

Among other accomplishments of her tenure, financial aid to students grew from $86 million in 1998-99 to more than $150 million for 2003-04; contributions increased from about $68 million in 1998 to more than $150 million in 2002; construction has begun on the $15 million Dorothy and Roy Park Alumni Center; the NCSU Libraries rose from 56th in 1998 to 32nd of 113 university research libraries in 2004; and NC State's distance education programs, which offer more than 600 for-credit courses, grew by 99 percent over the past three years.

Dr. Fox currently serves on the President's Council of Advisors on Science and Technology, on the National Academy of Sciences Committee on Science and Engineering Public Policy, as co-chair of the National Research Council's Government-University-Industry Research Roundtable and as a member of the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology.

Before her appointment as Chancellor at NC State, Dr. Fox was the M. June and J. Virgil Waggoner Regents Chair in Chemistry and Vice President for Research at the University of Texas at Austin. Fox was born in Canton, Ohio, in 1947 and received her B.S. from Notre Dame College and her Ph.D. from Dartmouth College, both in chemistry.

LT. GENERAL DAN K. MCNEILL

As commanding officer of U.S. military forces in Afghanistan as part of Operation Enduring Freedom, Lieutenant General Dan K. McNeill led nearly 7,000 American men and women in uniform and coordinated the efforts of thousands of coalition forces from Canada, Britain and other countries in the fight against terrorism.

A native North Carolinian, McNeill currently serves as deputy commanding general and chief of staff of the U.S. Army Forces Command at Fort McPherson, Georgia. During his distinguished career as an army officer, McNeill has commanded units at the company, battalion, brigade, division and corps levels. He has commanded the 82nd Airborne Division and later the 18th Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg. Under McNeill's leadership, Fort Bragg won recognition as one of the top two army posts in the nation in 2000.

McNeill's overseas tours have included Vietnam, Korea, Italy, Saudi Arabia and Iraq, and he has served his country in Operations Just Cause, Desert Shield, Desert Storm and Uphold Democracy. He has been awarded many of the military's highest honors, including the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal, Defense Superior Service Medal, Expert Infantry Badge and Master Parachutist Badge with bronze combat star.

McNeill earned a bachelor's degree in forest resources from NC State in 1968 and was commissioned as a second lieutenant. He was previously honored by NC State's College of Natural Resources with the 2001 Distinguished Alumni Award. In December, he received an honorary doctorate of humane letters degree at NC State's Fall Commencement exercises. McNeill is today's commencement speaker.

EVA CLAYTON

From the beginning of her public service career as a member of the Warren County Board of Commissioners to her history-making election to the U.S. Congress, Eva Clayton has worked to improve the lives of North Carolina's citizens.

In 1992, Clayton became the first African-American woman to be elected to Congress from North Carolina. In Washington, Clayton was elected president of her Democrat Freshman Class, becoming the first woman to hold the office. While representing North Carolina's 1st Congressional District, Clayton was a member of the House Budget Committee and the House Agriculture Committee. She was the ranking Democrat on the department operations, oversight, nutrition and forestry subcommittees. Clayton also helped secure billions of dollars to rebuild eastern North Carolina after Hurricane Floyd, and received numerous awards for the legislation she introduced.

Clayton retired from Congress in 2002 after 10 years as an elected official. She did not, however, retire from public service. Clayton currently serves as the assistant director-general and special advisor to the director-general on the World Food Summit Follow-up.

A native of Savannah, Georgia, Clayton attended Johnson C. Smith University and North Carolina Central University. She moved to Warren County with her husband in the mid 1960s and became active in civil rights issues, economic development and politics. In the 1970s, Clayton joined Floyd McKissick, a noted civil rights activist, in the administration of the Soul City project in Warren County. The project was a federally funded effort to build a "model town" that would attract business and industry to the area. Clayton went on to serve as a member of the Warren County Board of Commissioners, which included a stint as the board's chairperson from 1982 to 1990.

Clayton will receive an honorary doctorate of humane letters degree.

HARVEY K. LITTLETON

Regarded as the father of the Studio Glass Movement, Harvey K. Littleton was a pioneer in the use of glass as an artistic medium. Littleton first gained acclaim as a ceramist and used his studio to experiment with glass objects. The work in his studio disproved the theory that glass objects could only be mass-produced in factories.

Littleton attended the Brighton School of Art in England and later earned a bachelor's degree in design from the University of Michigan and a master's of fine arts degree in ceramics from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. After serving as a ceramics instructor at the Toledo Museum of Art in Toledo, Ohio from 1949 to 1951, Littleton joined the faculty of the University of Wisconsin in 1951.

While touring studios of glass artists in Europe in the late 1950s, Littleton returned home determined to perfect the use of glass as a medium for artists. He sought grants for the development of glass art and encouraged universities and his fellow artisans to create glass art programs. In the summer of 1962, Littleton conducted two glassblowing workshops where he introduced the idea that glass could be mixed, melted, blown and worked in art studios. Later that year, Littleton began offering glassblowing classes at the University of Wisconsin.

Littleton's work gained worldwide acclaim and led to the Studio Glass Movement. He retired from the University of Wisconsin in 1976 and moved to Spruce Pine, N.C., where he set up a glass studio. Littleton will receive an honorary doctor of fine arts degree.

STEVE WOZNIAK

Steve Wozniak helped launch a personal computer revolution that continues to shape the way we live. Wozniak co-founded Apple Computer, Inc., and invented the Apple I and Apple II computers. For his contributions to computing, Wozniak received the national Medal of Technology in 1985 and the Heinz Award for Technology in 2000. He is a member of the National Academy of Engineering and the National Inventors Hall of Fame.

Wozniak currently serves as chairman and CEO of Wheels of Zeus, a company that designs wireless electronics products. He is also involved in various philanthropic ventures, several of which promote technology education in schools. Wozniak has "adopted" the Los Gatos, California, school district, providing students and teachers with state-of-the art resources and technology. In 1990, Wozniak also sponsored a project to help put computers in schools in the former Soviet Union.

Wozniak also serves on the board of directors for Jacent Technologies, a developer of cost-effective telephone solutions, and on the advisory board for Danger, Inc., a developer of end-to-end wireless Internet platforms.

Wozniak received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering and computer science from the University of California-Berkeley. He will receive an honorary doctor of sciences degree.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic gowns represent a tradition handed down from the universities of the Middle Ages. These institutions were founded by the Church; the students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gowns at all times. Round caps later became square mortarboards; the hoods, originally cowls attached to the gowns, could be slipped over the head for warmth.

Many European universities have distinctive caps and gowns which are different from those commonly used in this country. Some of the gowns are of bright colors and some are embellished with fur. A number of these may be noted in the procession.

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. The bachelor's gown is worn closed, the master's and doctor's may be worn open or closed. The shape of the sleeve is the distinguishing mark of the gown: bachelor--long pointed sleeves; master--oblong, square cut in the back with an arc cut away in front; doctor--bell shaped.

Caps are black. The tassels for the Ph.D. degree are gold and those for other graduate and professional degrees may be of the color corresponding to the trimmings on the hoods.

Of all the components of the academic costume, the hood bears the heaviest symbolic burden. The hood must make clear the level of the degree, the faculty in which it was given, and the institution which awarded it. The level of the degree is shown by the size of the hood, the width of the velvet trimming, and in the case of doctors, by the shape. The bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet, and four feet long, respectively. The velvet trimming in the same order is two, three, and five inches and extends all around the hood on the exposed edge. This same trimming identifies the faculty in which the degree was awarded. For each faculty there is a corresponding color; so a glance at the trimming is all that is needed to identify the faculty. A partial list of the colors follows: Agriculture, maize; Architecture and Art, brown; Science, golden yellow; Economics, copper; Education, light blue; Engineering, orange; Forestry, russet; Physical Education, sage green; Religion, scarlet; Speech, silver gray; Veterinary Medicine, gray; Textiles, wine red. The following faculties have the same color--dark blue: Anthropology, History, Languages, Literature, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology.

ACADEMIC HONORS

Honors participants benefit from a more individualized and rigorous approach to their desired degree through special classes, seminars and individual research.

DEPARTMENTAL AWARDS FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING EXCELLENCE

The Departmental Awards for Teaching and Learning Excellence were established in 1999-00. Each year, up to two departments are recognized for their exceptional accomplishments in teaching and learning. Nominations are made by college deans, and dossiers supporting these nominations are reviewed by a committee of faculty, students, and staff appointed by the provost. Each department identified for this award receives a continuing base budget adjustment of $15,000 and a one-time award of $5,000.

The department selected to receive this award is listed below along with the abstract of its dossier.

Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Political Science and Public Administration is a department with a strong commitment to excellent teaching and serves students across campus at all levels of undergraduate and graduate instruction. The department's senior and junior faculty are recognized as outstanding teachers who engage students beyond the classroom and collaborate with students in research. Because the department saw a natural fit between the disciplines of political science and public administration and the distinguishing characteristics of experiential and service learning, they instituted a new curriculum, Political Science 2000, with the intent of making the world their laboratory. The initiatives benefit political science majors [presently 693] as well as students who take introductory courses and upper-level social science electives. With grant support, they are undertaking a critical analysis of curricula material and service learning experiences across campus. These initiatives enhance a tradition of teaching for the public service in their graduate and undergraduate programs.
