DRESS REVUE PAGEANT COLORFUL

A red-haired beauty from Wilkes County walked off with top honors as the State Dress Revue winner last night in the Coliseum.

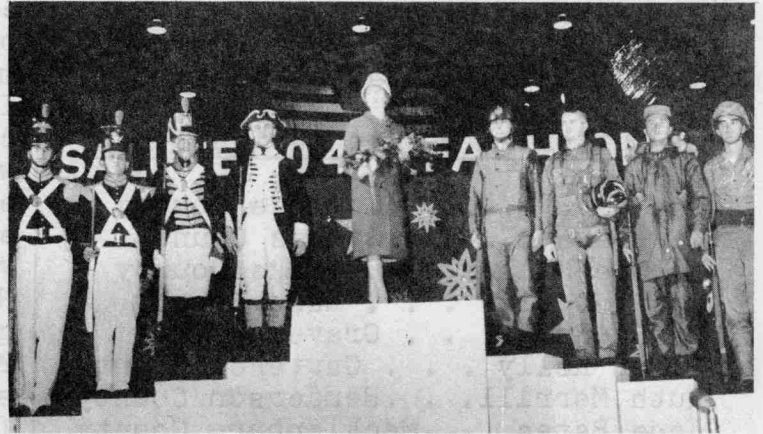

Gay and fresh, suave and sophisticated--Marvorene Byrd, Elkin, was saluted by the 2nd Marine Division Chorus, Camp Lejeune, N. C. in a colorful musical program.

Among the top 10 fashion models were: Judy Kaye Parker, Benson, second; Emma Phillips, Newland, third; Linda Lee Gilliam, fourth; and Nancy Basnight, fifth.

Other winners were Janice Stanton, Winfall; Gail Gray, Guilford; Annette Casada, Bryson City; Kay Gillette, Stella; and Selma Lowder, Albemarle.

The winner modeled a beige dress of a tailored design. Exquisite tailoring personified the full length, orange coat which was made of basket-woven wool. Marvorene modeled a hat of beige straw, trimmed to match the outfit. She designed it herself.

Judges for the Dress Revue were Miss Eleanor Echo, 4-H fashion stylist with a national pattern company; Mrs. Agnes Cox Watkins, Durham; and Mrs. Frances Horton, home economics teacher at Millbrook.

Marvorene Byrd, Elkin, sewed her way to winning the Dress Revue last night. She is flanked by Marines from Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Brenda Byers of Statesville looks like she'd rather be back at the farm right now, cooling those tootsies off in a water trough.

COMMUNITY 4-H CLUB DISCUSSED

Members of Wilson County are presenting a special interest period in Withers Hall on the Community 4-H Club this week.

Three questions are answered during the discussion: 1. What is the role of a 4-H Club member in the Community 4-H Club? 2. How does the adult 4-H leader help club members? 3. What is the role of the extension agents in the community 4-H Club Program?

This discussion offers 4-H members an opportunity to get acquainted with the Community 4-H Club program.

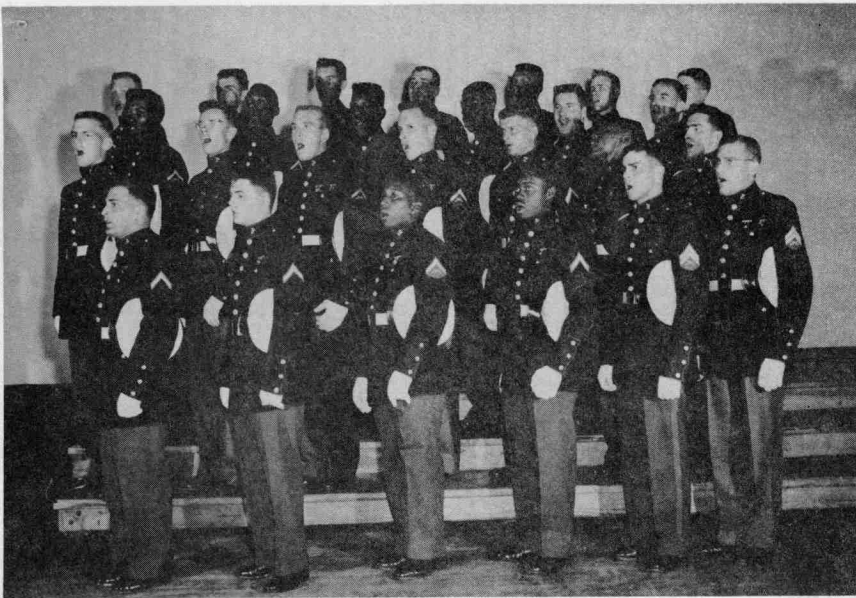

MR. 4-H SAYS

L. R. Harrill

The highest reward for a man's toil is not what he gets for it, but what he becomes by it. You can't teach a man anything, you can only help him to find it within himself - he learns best who seeks to know.

A traveler passing through a customs gate in a foreign country, believing that other formalities might lie ahead, asked, "Where do I go from here?" The reply was curt and accurate, "I don't know where you are going sir, but the exit is right over there." No one ever found a life worth living, you must make it worth living. Neither can we live on reflected glory of past achievement, but rather we must on the basis of past achievement and experiences plan for the future with imagination, hope, enthusiasm, and determination. It may be that you need make no apology for success in 4-H and neither need you feel content with having achieved a goal. You are now on a plateau and must either move upward or downward on the course that leads to higher achievement.

A great teacher once said to a small boy - "There is a ladder here in this room that reaches up toward the ceiling and through it into the skies beyond. You can climb that ladder as high as you will; but you must begin here where you are." So in reaching for higher goals in 4-H; do not allow reflected glory of past achievement to mar your vision - use these past experiences and achievements as stepping stones in attaining higher goals. As you travel this way, remember to begin where you are, know your direction, travel with caution, and pick up momentum as you GO and GROW.

MARINE CHORUS SINGS

4-H'ers enjoyed a real treat last night when the 2nd Marine Division Choral Group from Camp Lejeune, N. C. paid tribute to the girls in the 1961 State Dress Review in the Coliseum.

To start things off, they sang such favorites as Farwell to Drad, Lora Lee, Your Land and Mine and several others.

Then the Marines, with Capt. B. Lippard in charge, modeled Marine uniforms of the past and the present. The uniforms were those worn between the years 1775 and 1960. A short history of each uniform was commented on.

As each uniform was modeled the chorus, under the direction of 1st Lt. Clyde D. Genz, sang a favorite song of that era. The uniforms ranged from white pants and shirt with a green hat and coat trimmed in gold of 1775 to blue coat with white pants trimmed in red and gold of 1846... to the present uniform of today with red and gold trimmings.

The singing ended with the Marine Hymn. Then Captain Lippard and his group saluted the State Dress Review winner and presented her with a bouquet of roses.

LEADERS LUNCHEON HELD WEDNESDAY

The adult leaders met for a luncheon yesterday at noon in the College Union. Approximately 40 leaders representing all counties attended.

Don Chaplin, 1960 State and National 4-H Recreation winner from Tyrrell County presided at the program. Invocation was by Cecil McCall, Richmond County who was 1960 Adult 4-H Club Leader winner for men. L. R. Harrill welcomed everyone.

Talent acts were presented by the Trumpet Trio--Peyton Gentry, Woody Thurmond and Gus Martin, Scotland County. Markaret Ann Nevobiliski, Cabarrus County, gave a piano solo.

Highlights of the program were talks by Rebecca Parker, 1960 National 4-H Girls Achievement winner, Johnston County and Mrs. Woodrow Taylor, Lenoir County, 1960 State Adult 4-H Leader winner for women.

Rebecca spoke on the "Value of 4-H Club Work" and Mrs. Taylor's talk was "Satisfying Rewards."

George Smith, assistant director of extension closed the program with a talk on "Heart Interest and a Higher Plateau."

Mr. F. M. Mitchell, Branch Manager of Frigidaire Sales Corporation represented the sponsor for the program.

STATE TOTAL 903

Reporting all 4-H events on local radio stations in this area are star reporters (left to right) Carol Morris, Wilson Co., Clyde Keisler, Wake Co., Elaine Parker, Jones Co., and Wendell Jones, Sampson Co. Jones is chairman this year and was on the committee last year. The group is also supplying talent to the radio audience.

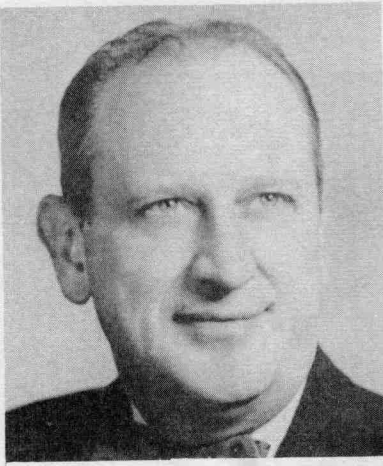

Governor Sanford

4-H'ERS TO BE NAMED ADMIRAL

Governor Sanford assured 4-H'ers that they would be listed on the roll of admirals when he was presented a quart jar full of nickels, dimes and quarters for the U. S. S. N. C. Battleship Fund.

Total contributions from 4-H members has reached over $200. "This jar will win a blue ribbon at any fair," Sanford said in accepting the surprise gift.

The jar was presented to Sanford yesterday during the morning assembly as a special gesture "to show we are interested in all of North Carolina."

THAD EURE ADDRESSES GROUP THIS MORNING

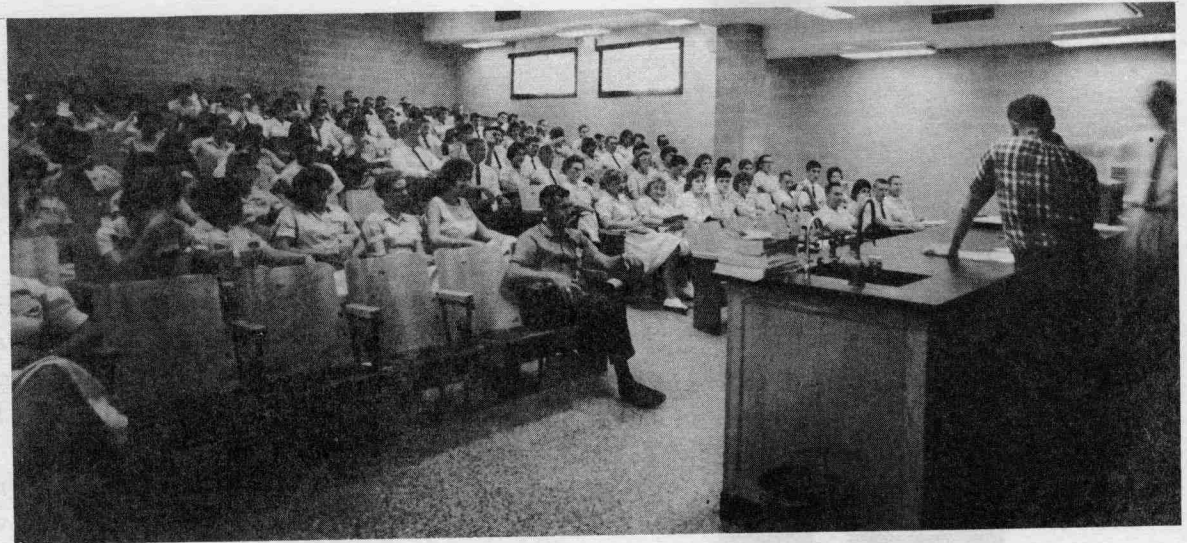

"Service is the keynote to good citizenship," Secretary of State Thad Eure told 4-H'ers and their adult leaders this morning during assembly.

"The better we equip ourselves, the better we can serve: You should take back the instructions you are receiving here and make the best possible use of it," he told the group.

Eure praised the 4-H'ers for the stand they have taken in supporting President Kennedy's determination to stand firmly in Berlin.

The veteran secretary of state gave credit to the group and said that he has kept his door open to the youth of the state and considers himself an honorary member of every youth organization in the state.

4-H COMMUNICATIONS PROJECT NEW IN THE STATE

4-H members are learning this week a little about the 4-H Communications Project, in Williams Hall during the special class periods.

The project will be available to members this fall.

The Department of Agricultural Information at State College is conducting the class with Elbert Reid, Maidred Morris and Jack O'Keefe participating.

Members are told what communication is and how to do news, radio and television stories effectively.

ACTIVITIES IN SONG LEADERSHIP CLASS

By Larry Horne

Song leadership has been taught to approximately 85 4-H'ers this week in Broughton Hall.

Mr. Edwin Blanchard is conducting the class on how to lead songs at 4-H clubs and at home. The class works for an hour and forty-five minutes each day on the fundamentals of proper hand movements when directing song groups.

The class has been working on a few choral selections which they will present during assembly Friday morning.

ORGAN MELODIES

Carolyn Kidd from Moore Co. is the organist who delivers the soothing organ melodies 4-H members hear during assemblies.

She is a very active 4-H'er and has won 13 medals in various projects. She won district this past year in Frozen Food and placed third in State in her Dairy Calf project in 1958. She has also won ribbons in county fairs and district shows for her Dairy Calf project.

She is representing Moore Co. in the Health Pageant this year. Carolyn is a very active member in Highfalls Friends. She has had a perfect attendance record for the past 11½ years in her church. She has been church organist for 4 years.

About her future . . . Carolyn is not sure. She is thinking about going to Woman's College and major in vocational home economics. Or she may go to State College and take a dairy course. Whatever she plans to do, we are sure she will do well as she has done on the organ this week.

4-H'ERS REACT TO BERLIN PROBLEM

"Stand up to him, Jack. We are behind you." This seems to be the reaction of 4-H'ers to Khrushchev's huffing and puffing over Berlin.

Here are what some of the members in 4-H had to say. "We shouldn't give in, even if it means a shooting war," said Buddy Smith, Ingalls.

"We should back the President, we elected him and we should follow his advice. He knows what is going on," said Margaret Foy, Wilmington.

"I hope Khrushchev doesn't start anything," said Lowell Crawford, Macon County, "because I'll be one of those to go. But if it comes, I'll go." (Lowell registers for the draft soon.)

We understand that the main water line in Becton Dormitory broke last night, flooding the first floor.

The water was cut off for repair work, leaving three floors of boys without water--and a good excuse for dirty faces.

MORNING THOUGHT

Today's morning thought was on "Why is Christ still meaningful and relevant today?" Dr. Edwards gave four reasons for this: 1. Because Christ did not come to offer laws but to offer principles 2. Because Christ gives to our lives a certain quality and eternal life, 3. Because Christ makes your life significant and makes your life count for something, 4. Because we stand in need.
