State 4-H Club Week / North Carolina State

DELEGATES GATHER FOR OPENING ASSEMBLY

"THE WORLD NEEDS THE U. N. TO PREVENT DESTRUCTION"

Dr. Frank P. Graham, special mediator for the United Nations, delivered the address at the Tuesday morning assembly, using the topic: "The United Nations in the Atomic Age."

"In the Atomic Age we need the United Nations," he said. "Man by nature has the capacity of doing good and evil. Just as man needs religion to overcome the savage in him, the nations of the world need the U. N. to prevent destruction of the human race," the former UNC president said.

Dr. Graham challenged the 4-H'ers to help build a stronger and more helpful United Nations.

A former senator from North Carolina, Dr. Graham is a native of Fayetteville.

LEADER LUNCHEON

A special invitation has been issued for the Adult 4-H Leader Luncheon that will be held Wednesday at noon.

Miss Margaret Clark, district 4-H agent, said all 4-H leaders attending Club Week are invited to attend the luncheon.

It will be held in the College Union Ballroom.

"Mr. 4-H" Speaks

A 4-H'ers success during State 4-H Club Week, and during all of life, depends on his imagination, devotion and vitality.

This is the message for the hundreds of boys and girls who converged on the N. C. State campus Monday to begin Club Week.

Building his Club Week challenge around the 4-H's--head, heart, hands and health--Harrill told the club members, "...you hold the answers."

VESPERS INSPIRING

A very inspiring vesper service was presented Monday night by Columbus County 4-H'ers.

An analysis of the Lord's Prayer was given, making use of varied colored candles symbolic of Christian ideals.

Four-H'ers were reminded that the Lord's Prayer is a universal prayer, God being the light of the world.

A musical rendition of the Lord's Prayer concluded the service.

EXTENSION DIRECTOR HYATT WELCOMES 4-H'ERS TO CLUB WEEK

Dr. George Hyatt, Jr., director of the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service, greeted all 4-H'ers with a big welcome Monday night.

Dr. Hyatt challenged the 4-H Club members to help extend the 4-H Club program in North Carolina. The extension director commented that "We believe 4-H is one of the greatest youth movements in the world." He added, "We believe something as good as 4-H should be shared with all," pointing out that only 10 to 15 per cent of the one million eligible youth in the state are now enrolled in the program.

Dr. Hyatt, introduced several individuals and groups who attended the opening assembly. Among these were Dr. Eloise Cofer, extension assistant director in charge of home economics; and a man who hardly needs an introduction to a group of 4-H'ers, State 4-H Leader L. R. Harrill. (Roger Sharpe)

BAND IS BIG HIT--IT'S THE DIXIELAND CONCERTO THAT "STIRS" 'EM UP

The 2nd Marine Division Band entertained the delegates to 4-H Club Week Monday night, and was well received by the 4-H'ers.

Under the direction of Warrant Officer Frank E. Barthold, the band played the National Anthem, following it with marches and a trumpet solo.

The favorite number seemed to be the Dixieland Concerto. Everyone applauded as the band began this number.

The band has made numerous public appearances for civic affairs and military ceremonies.

It also has performed for the president of the United States and the queen of England.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the concert.

The band performance is becoming a "steady" on the Club Week program. Last year the 82nd Airborne Division band played here. (Ileen Hunt)

OFFICERS INTERVIEWED

"What qualifications do you think 4-H Council officers should have?" This was the question asked the present State Council officers in an interview Monday night. Here are their responses:

President Wilson Lowery:

"Personality is one of the primary factors. The person should have a desire to serve 4-H'ers and to help inspire them to improve the over-all 4-H program. A keen interest in helping younger 4-H members should be present."

Vice-president Karen Cash: "The officer should have a sincere interest in 4-H work and realize what it can do for young people. Leadership qualities are always a basic characteristic. He must be willing to work earnestly on the local level, as well as on the state level.

Nancy Basnight, secretary-treasurer: "Any future officer should possess enthusiasm for the 4-H program which will inspire other 4-H'ers. He should have a friendly attitude and possess the ability to meet and talk with people freely. He must be a person who realizes the responsibility of setting an example for others."

Henry Turlington, historian: "The officer should be at least a high school senior. He should be a leader in county and district affairs, including other activities as well as 4-H. He should understand 4-H.

A new slate of officers will be elected by the delegates Friday.

STOCK JUDGING WINNERS IN REGIONALS

Jimmy Morris and Garland Fearington of Forsyth County, Gene Stallings of Lenoir and Connie Mac Pittman of Wilson were named state winners in livestock judging at the first assembly Monday night.

Gurney Van Frye, coach of the winning Forsyth team, will accompany the state winners to the Eastern Regional Contest at Richmond, Va., This competition will take place at the Virginia State Fair in September.

From there, the team will go to Chicago to represent North Carolina in the national finals on November 29.

County teams placing in state competition were Forsyth, Columbus, Lenoir and Davie. These came in one through four respectively.

"If high score means anything, these boys should do well," remarked Bob McGuire, extension animal husbandry specialist at N. C. State.

"Just to show you how previous teams have done, North Carolina has placed fourth and sixth in national competition for the past two years."

DOG-GONE!

Monday, the first meeting of the Clover Leaves staff was suddenly interrupted by a small dog wondering around loose in Ricks Hall basement. Perhaps the agent from Chowan County could tell you more about the incident. At any rate, the dog sat in on the meeting. His only comment was a weak yelp.

PROGRAM PACE PICKS UP

This evening should provide quite a bit of excitement for Club Week delegates.

Some of the most outstanding 4-H'ers in the state will be tapped into the State 4-H Honor Club during the Tuesday evening program.

After the program, everyone will be treated to a truck load of North Carolina watermelons at the Watermelon Slicing.

On Wednesday morning the candidates for State 4-H Club Council offices will be presented to the delegates.

The William D. Carmichael Gymnasium was a beehive of activity most of the day Monday as delegates to 4-H Club Week poured in from all across the state for registration.

There are 1,251 delegates registered. There will be a few more coming in during the week.

Accompanying these members are 235 adult leaders and agents.

All the counties but one are represented. Henderson County has the most delegates to Club Week.

VISITOR FROM FINLAND

Ulla Peltomaki, an exchange student from Finland, is attending Club Week. She is a guest of Martin County.

Ulla is 20 years old and attractive.

Welcome to 4-H Club Week.

MORNING THOUGHT

Dr. Albert G. Edwards, local Presbyterian minister, is back on the Club Week program to the delight of all those who have heard him at former Club Weeks.

Monday, Dr. Edwards spoke from the 14th chapter of Mark. He gave an inspiring talk on a little boy called John Mark.

Dr. Edwards urged delegates to remember Christ and have a "Holy Curiosity" this week.

He added, "All in Christ I find, and all in Christ I need."
