North Carolina 4-H Congress - N. C. State University

NEW MEMBERS TAPPED BY HONOR CLUB

Thirty-two Tar Heel 4-H members were "tapped" into the State 4-H Honor Club Monday night at the North Carolina 4-H Congress in a colorful candlelight ceremony.

Membership in the some 1,000-member organization is a reward for outstanding service to 4-H work. The 4-H'ers are judged on their leadership abilities, moral standards, 4-H activities, and project achievement. Selection is made after careful study by the Honor Club members. The tapping is a distinction reserved for less than one-half of one percent of the State's 4-H members.

The ceremony of induction was conducted by David M. Aman, president of the Honor group.

Those inducted and their home counties are:

BICENTENNIAL CITED AS CHALLENGE

Governor James. E. Holshouser challenged North Carolina 4-H members Monday night to get involved in the nation's bicentennial celebration.

Speaking at the opening assembly of the 1974 4-H Congress in Raleigh, the Governor said the bicentennial "will be an exciting time. It will be a once in a lifetime experience for our generation. All of you will want to be a part of this opportunity to build an even greater country."

Holshouser announced the "real possibility" of a statewide junk car removal program. He urged the 4-H'ers to support this effort too.

"Just think," he said, "how wonderful it would be if our countryside was as clean and beautiful in 1976 as it was 200 years ago."

Nearly 1,000 4-H members and their adult leaders from 96 counties are registered for the Congress, which continues through Thursday. State winners in 35 programs will be selected in competition Tuesday.

State 4-H President Mary McLaurin of Ashe County presided Monday night. The Governor was introduced by N. C. State University Chancellor John T. Caldwell. NCSU conducts the 4-H program in North Carolina through its Agricultural Extension Service.

ADULT LEADERS HONORED AT LUNCHEON

The Walnut Room of the new University Student Center was the scene today of a luncheon honoring the adult volunteer leaders who guide 4-H'ers in their local communities.

Chairman for the event was Carrie Thompson of Washington County, assisted by Lois Britt of Duplin, and Fletcher Barber of Jones.

Featured speaker for the session was Mrs. Paul Thompson of Martin County who addressed the group with "Reflections on the 4-H Leader Forum."

Presiding was Mrs. Larry Roberts of Johnston County. The invocation was given by Mrs. Earl Smith of Henderson County.

Guests were entertained by Manuel Esquivel.

ADVANTAGE OF BUSING

While riding the bus for the Pavilion for our first Assembly at Congress, I by chance came across an old friend I met at Wildlife Camp 4 years ago. At first I wasn't sure if it was him at all, but I happened to get a peek at his name tag, and I knew right away it had to be him.

We talked over old times we had had at Millstone and renewed our friendship. As you can imagine, after four years, it was like making a whole new friend.

As our conversation progressed, I found that we had a lot in common as both of us were participating in the N. J. H. A. activities this week.

I was really excited about meeting this "long lost" friend and it made the bus ride all the more enjoyable.

I'm sure there are others, just as the case with me, who had had the opportunity this week to make friends and renew friendships. Isn't that what Congress is all about?

4-H CONGRESS CHANGES--Coed Dorm

As the years pass, 4-H Club Congress changes. This year a great change has taken place in the dorms. Instead of the "little boys" and the "little girls" being in separate buildings, they are combined.

By no means is 4-H out of date! Co-ed dorms proves that 4-H is just as modern as the colleges.

While riding to the Monday night assembly, I got some opinions of the whole thing from 4-H'ers and agents.

William Pass of Caswell County said, "The idea is not new to the group, but it's just the actual thing and the age group. I can't say right now that it is a good or a bad thing, but I'm waiting impatiently to see how it will turn out. There will always be those who frown upon the whole idea."

"I like the idea of having them. It helps me keep up with my group of ten, since I am the only agent or chaperone with them," commented Mrs. Louise Woodward of Orange. This is one reason for co-ed dorms.

Robin Kinton of Harnett County made a similar comment as a 4-H'er. She said, "I like the idea of it. It gives the agents a better way to keep up with their group. Co-ed dorms show that 4-H'ers are responsible enough to carry it through. If they are not responsible enough, they shouldn't even be here."

"It's the coming thing. I'm pleased to see the faith exhibited by the State 4-H Office for the behavioral standards of our young people. I think it's a positive contribution to 4-H Club Congress," observed Mrs. Nancy Goodgame from Cabarrus County, when asked about the co-ed dorm.

Susan Simpson of Union County expressed the view of many people, "Suits me just fine!"

OPEN CLASS NEW COMPETITION IN 4-H

A new Event at Club Congress this year is the "Open Class" demonstration. An interesting demonstration to watch, you'll learn anything from how to make flowers to the parts of a model rocket.

The competition was designed for 4-H'ers interested in demonstrating their knowledge in a field not included in regular classes.

The idea seems to have worked because district winners commented on tough and heavy competition at the district level.

The next time you want a variety in demonstration without walking all about campus GO TO THE OPEN CLASS!

Another entry in the Open Class was Suzanne Myers of the Northeastern District who makes flowers from cloth.

4-H IS TRAINING GROUND

As you all know, we were honored to have our Governor to speak to us last night. Governor James E. (Jim) Holshouser left us these words:

"I know how much 4-H has meant to North Carolina. It's been a training ground for leaders for a long time.

It looks like this is going to be the best State Congress ever."

It is obvious that Governor Holshouser has been impressed with 4-H in North Carolina. This is a credit to 4-H youth in every county in our great state.

"PHYSICAL FITNESS" IN TONIGHT'S HEALTH PAGEANT

Governor Scott Pavilion will be the scene for super sports tonight. The Carteret County 4-H'ers and the United States Marine Corps from Camp Lejeune will present the State Health Pageant this year. Eli Lilly and the Medical Society of N. C. furnished the trips to National Congress in Chicago. The N. C. State Board of Health represents local health departments where information may be obtained.

The District Kings and Queens will be introduced by Sandra Kanupp and Adrian Gaskins the 1973 Queen and King of Health. From the North Central District is Ann Williamson. Tommy Moore and Lisa Swain represent the Northwestern District; Michael Stapleton and Jan Lookabill, Southwestern; Grady Fenner and Lois Cooper, Northeastern; Freddy Rhodes and Helen Hill, Southeastern; Brenda Kanupp is the Western District Queen. The South Central District King is Michael Ritter. The 1974 King and Queen of Health will be chosen from the District winners tonight.

IFYE's VISIT N. C. 4-H CONGRESS

Two International Farm Youth Exchangees were introduced at the opening session on Monday evening.

Albert Calizo of the Philippines arrived in North Carolina on July 10 after visiting California for 6 weeks. Albert speaks 3 languages, enjoys sports, folk dancing, and reads in his leisure time. Albert teaches elementary school where he is most interested in physical education.

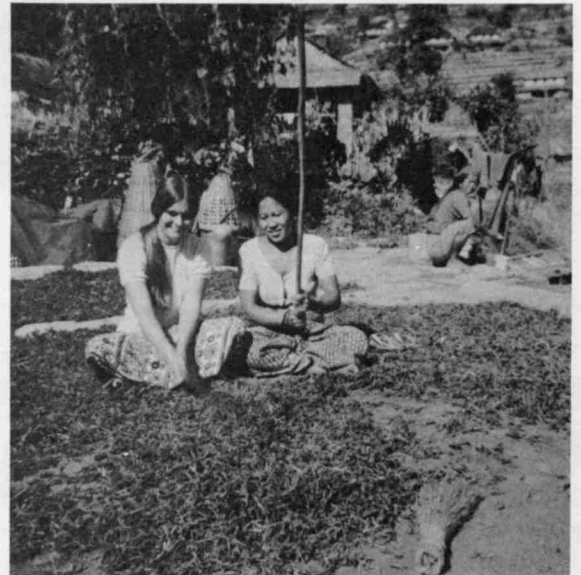

Hartmut Eichmann of West Germany works on his father's 100 acre farm. He raises wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn, cattle, and swine. Hartmut's leisure activities include folk music, repairing iron, television, woodworking, and driving.

Both young men will be in the United States until early October as guests of the IFYE program conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service.

NORTH CAROLINA IFYE RETURNS

Sylvia Walters has returned to Davidson County after spending six months in the villages of Neplai. Sylvia learned much of the customs of rural families while representing the U.S.A. as an International Farm Youth Exchangee. Sylvia wrote of the Nepalis favorite food and main crop rice. Rice in various forms is eaten 3 times a day and is often served in highly spiced combination dishes. Cloth and tea are other Nepali products Sylvia enjoyed. She purchased a red Nepalese fabric in a small shop and the tailor in the next shop made it into a corts (blouse of the Nepali women) for her in one day.

Children and villagers greeted Sylvia and made her feel a welcomed representative of the American people. IFYE annually provides many young people from many nations the opportunity to visit other lands as ambassadors of 4-H.

FIRST MALE FASHION REVUE

Today 4 young men competed in the first State Boy's Fashion Revue. They modeled suits consisting of jackets, vests, pants. David Weavel, Forsyth; Sebastian Chestor, Warren; Chris Heavner, Lincoln; and Freddie Copeland, Northampton, all have mothers who taught them to sew.

Chris has been sewing 9 years, David 4 years, and Freddie and Sebastian, one year. These four have discovered that sewing has changed their shopping habits. They aren't as willing to pay $50 they could make better for only $13.

The pet peeve the boys seem to have with sewing is finger work. But they find sewing basically relaxing. In fact, one of the contestants has asked his parents for a sewing machine for a graduation present.

COLLEGIATE CLUB TO SPONSOR PICNIC

The N. C. State Collegiate 4-H Club will sponsor it's annual cookout Wednesday afternoon, at the State Fair Youth Center, beginning at 6 p. m. All high school graduates of the class of 1974 and all college students are invited to attend.

The purpose of the cookout is to acquaint those in attendance with the many planned activities of the 4-H Collegiate Clubs throughout the state.

Phil Massey, President of the N. C. State Collegiate 4-H Club invites all 1974 high school graduates and college students to attend for a lot of fun Wednesday.

THOUGHTS FROM THE 1973-74 OFFICERS

Mary McLaurin, President-- The week has already started on a good note with Monday's State Council Meeting. The District Officers as well as the delegates were full of 4-H spirit and enthusiasm. I have also been very pleased by the interest that centered around the district and state booths. I think you ought to be very proud of each of your officers because they have done an exceptionally good jobs this year. They have worked very hard and will continue to do so throughout this week.

I would like to challenge each of you 4-H'ers this week and this coming year to CARE ENOUGH TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE. Also, share the love in your hearts with all 4-H'ers. "The love in your heart wasn't put there to stay, love isn't love until you give it away."

David Palmer, Vice-president--I hope each and everyone of the delegates to the 1974 State 4-H Congress will have an inspiring and educational week. A lot of preparation has gone into this week, and I feel that despite a few hardships, it is going to be a fantastic week for all.

Thanks for all your help this past year. Remember: 4-H GETS IT ALL TOGETHER.

Tomorrow we will hear from Marvin Watts, Secretary-Treasurer, and Dee McNamara, Reporter.

When you win what you want
in your struggle for self.
And the world make you
King for a day.
Just go to a mirror and look at yourself.
And see what the man
has to say.
