

She wears combat boots Our Chancellor answers more student questions in her monthly column. See Opinion, page 2

Fight scene Zathael vs. Chalkhydri, country singers 'n' possums, Nader, Boop bicycle, and the return of PBF!

Homecoming N. C. State looks to get back in the win column against Duke.

November 10, 2000

www.technicianonline.com

Daub takes helm of botany department

♦ Margaret Daub became the department head of N.C. State's botany department last month.

Spaine Stephens

Provision of the accepted a Department Award for Teaching and Learning Excellence last spring, and now it has taken another step forward.

The already award-winning department has received Margaret Daub, its interim department head and a respected professor of plant pathology and researcher, as its official department head. Her appointment was made effective Oct. 1.

"The botany department is ruly an outstanding department," said Daub. "It is a department that manages to balance outstanding research programs with a very strong dedication to teaching students."

students."

Daub noted that the department is currently ranked number one in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences in grant funding for faculty and Lite Session.

The department's central focus is on students and their success, said Daub, who added that the faculty in the department try to give students a strong sense of belonging.

"We believe that we offer the best of two worlds:

the quality of faculty and excellent research programs that are found at large research universities, coupled with the personal attention that a student would expect to find at a small liberal arts institution," she said.

Opportunities for students in the botany department include intensive one-on-one advising, formal and informal opportunities to interact with other students and faculty and changes to take part in internships.

Daub plans to enhance these opportunities even further by focusing on the department's strengths. Staff within the botany department are working on graduate programs that could bring the department more recognition. "At the graduate level, we are currently working to establish an interdepartmental graduate program in plant biology that will involve faculty from other departments focused on plant biology," said Daub.

The program would boast NCSU's stronghold on plant pathology, making more people aware of the excellence of the faculty, departments and other colleges within the university.

This excellence is demonstrated every day by Daub herself.

She tries to spend substantial time every morning in her research lab with her three graduate students, two senior researchers and three undergraduate research students. She works closely with these students on their research, writes grants for funding, writes up the results of the research conducted in her lab and attends seminars to stay well-informed on the latest innovations in botany.

Daub balances her regular duties with those of the department head, which include attending meetings, collaborating with administration and other department heads, providing information, solving problems, looking ahead at the department's future needs; supervising the staff within the department and juggling other administrative duties.

Daub's abilities in addition to those of the rest of the botany department were recognized and celebrated with the presentation by Provost Kermit Hall of a Department Award for Teaching and Learning Excellence.

"Winning the award for teaching and learning excellence was a thrill for us, as it brought us the recognition we always knew we deserved in terms of our excellent teaching programs," said Daub. Funding from last spring's award has made way for the department to strengthen research, teaching and student opportunities in the form of speakers and high-tech equipment for its laboratories. Daub was an assistant professor in the Department of Plant Pathology in 1983 before becoming an associate prife_or in 1989. She went on to achieve full professor in 1993. Her research at NCSU has been centered around characterization of genes from plant pathogens that could lead to the genetic engineering of disease-resistant plants.

mar count read to the genetic engineering of usi-cases-resistant plants.

Daub brings a certain air of excellence to the head position in the department, as well as "a commitment to work with [students] to achieve their goals and make the department even better," she said.

Say it ain't so... NCSU Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Kermit Hall accepted the position of President of Utah State University Wednesday.

Homecoming celebrations to be better than past years

♦ With a better football team and more school spirit overall, the UAB president feels that this homecoming celebration will be a success.

Cara Froedge

Over the last few years, N.C. State has been trying to establish a homecoming tradition like other universities such as UNC-Chapel Hill and Duke. This year, the Union Activities Board will host the biggest homecoming cele-bration that NCSU has ever seen. Student Center President and UAB President Mark Aldrich said this homecoming will be better than past celebrations because there is both better alumni and student participation, and the football team is much better. There is much better.

There is more school spirit this year, he said.

The events begin Friday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p.m. with a pep rally in North Plaza featuring the new athletic director, Lee Fowler. It will also have appearances by the NCSU marching band, the cheerleaders, the dance team and Chancellor Marye Anne Fox. This event will last until 9 p.m.

res, the dance team and Chancellor Marye Anne Fox. This event will last until 9 pm.

Immediately afterward is the Ultimate All Night Bash in the Talley Student Center. This event costs $1 for students and $$ for others if tickets are purchased in advance. At the door the cost is $5 for students and $10 for others. The event will last until 3 a.m.

Wolfgang is scheduled to perform, along with an exhibition stepshow, and the event will also boast a casino, pool tables and food. The National Pan-Hellenic Council and the Inter-fratemity Council will be at the event collecting canned goods to benefit the United Church of Christ. The proceeds will go to a food shelter for the homeless.

Church of Christ. The proceeds will go to a food shelter for the homeless. The celebration resumes saturday. Nov. 11, at 1 p.m. when NCSU plays Duke at Carter Finley Stadium. Before kickoff, skydivers will drop into the stadium and deliver the game hall. The Leaders of the Pack will also be announced at half time. At 7 pm. than tight, Lewis Black from Comedy Central's "The Daily Show, and Tony Rock, the brother of Christ Rock, will perform in a comedy show co-sponsored by Student Government at Stewart Theatre. The cost for tickets purchased in advance is $5 for students and $10 for anyone else. At the door they are $7 for students and $15 for others.
At 10 p.m. there will be a comedy show encore, followed by a homecoming afterparty's sponsored by IRC. This lasts, from 11 p.m. to 3 a.m., and it will havedancing and Jello wrestling. With a concedy show ticket stub, tickets are $3 for students and $8 for others. Without a stub the cost is $5 for students and $10 for others.

The UAB has been working on plans for this year's homecoming since.

stub the cost is $5 for students and $10 for others.

The UAB has been working on plans for this year's homecoming since as early as March and April, said Aldrich.

"It is for the students," he said, encouraging them "to come out and be a part of a really good time."

"Homecoming should be a tradition. We have been working hard on this," he added.

Youth vote mirrors national returns

♦ Young voters almost mirrored the general voter split in the presidential race with George W. Bush receiving 46 percent of the vote and Gore with 45 percent.

Wendy Sandoz Medill

(U-WIRE) WASHINGTON -Although youth participation in Tuesday's historically close election may have increased as much as 6 per-centage points over 1996 figures, there was disagreement among the experts about the impact of the GenY vote. The Voter News Service estimated that 38.6 percent of 18- to 29-year-olds made it to the polls, according to Russ Freyman of the Third Millennium Election 2000 Campaign. In 1996, 32 percent of 18- to 24-year-olds voted, which could indicate an increase in young voters' turnout this year. Slightly more than half of all eligible voters went to the polls Tuesday, with young people, ages 18-29, casting 17 percent of the 100 million votes nationwide.

In Michigan, youth made up 20 percent of those voting, according to Voter News Service statistics. Freyman said the increase could be a result of the aggressive voter drives leading up to the election or simply a population growth among young people. Some experts doubted the increase, believing the turnout to be closer to 1996 numbers.

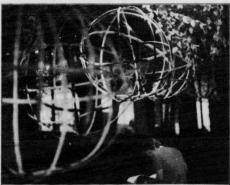

"I've seen only a slight increase in turnout, but 1 can't imagine young people made much of a difference in the election," said Curlis Gans of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate.

Gans said that, although he had no data, he believed the "get out the vote" drive targeting the black and Latino vote was more effective in influencing the race than those targeting the youth. While some of those workers are pleased with the possible increase in youth turnout, Freyman said he was frustrated.

"The race has a strong potential to be the most exciting election by the slimmest margin of victory in our life time," he said. "Given all the factors, having just 38 percent of our peers turning out is a little disapporting."
He estimated that in Florida, if only 20,000 more young people came out to vote along the same lines, adding only a percentage point or two. Vice President Al Gore would have won the state and the election.

Young voters almost mirrored the general voter split in the presidential race with George W. Bush receiving 46 percent of the vote and Gore with 45 percent, Ralph Nader received 8 percent of the young vote, compared with his nationwide support of 3 percent, according to a CBS news exit poll.

Chris Tillman, a major in Communications, takes time Wednesday evening to study under the stars and large bamboo sphere sculptures in the Court of Carolinas

TECHNICIAN'S VIEW

Muerte sin suerte Should a Mexican citizen be executed by U.S. Officials in Texas despite VIOLATION OF INTERNA-TIONAL TREATY INVOLVED IN

HIS ARREST?

Miguel Flores, 31, had a scheduled state-sanctioned execution by lethal injection Thursdy for the 1989 rape and murder of college student Angela Tyson in Borger, Toxus. But is his execution valid — or even legal — considering U.S. law enforcement agents violated the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations by not notifying Flores of his right to contact the Mexican consulate at the time of his arrest?

Mexican consultate at the time of his arrest?

Mexico, several other countries and the European Union asked Texas Gov. George W. Bush to stop the execution, but the did not.

Flores has already pursued numerous legal channels. The U.S. Supreme Court Thursday denied his request for a slay in a 5-4 vote. That decision reinforced the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles' unanimous decision on Mechnesday to rigiect Flores' request for clemency despite a plea from the U.S. State Department to carefully consider its decision.

Faulder, also citing Vienna Convention violations. Faulder was, however, put to death regardless on June 16, 1999. The Flores case highlights yet another aspect of Texus' troubled capital punishment "justice system," which is already under fire within the United States for undue race-based sentences and executions of blacks. Currently, Texas' death row houses 24 foreigners, including 19 other Mexicans.

The execution of Flores would be a grave disservice to Americans, everywhere—especially those overseas. As the self-proclaimed and world-recognized bastion of democracy, the United States needs to realize the gravity of the example its—and the world's—sense of justice commands. Frankly, the American execution of Mexicans and Canadians is a stepping-stone to support the propagandized justification for Iraqi or Iranian or Chinese executions of Americans, Britons and Germans.

dummies

times to get footbill tickets, or braving cafeteria co bin food. So after a food. So after a food so after a set of hazards on the sidewalks of our campus.

There is a list of unwritten laws that must be followed in order for our sociations of the sidewalks of our campus.

There is a list of unwritten laws that must be followed in order for our sociation of the sidewalk of the C the path of a vehicle.

Yet another pedestrian delinquent is the person who clings to the incorrect side of the walkway as if his life depended on it, forcing you to switch lanes into any other oncoming walkers that may be heading toward you. This also sometimes results in the embarrassing "you go this way. I'll go that way" dance in which neither partner is sure of which direction to choose. I fail to understand how these people conduct themselves on city streets behind the wheel of a car. Maybe they're just European.
A variation on this theme is the "tough guy" walker, who walks on the wrong side deliberately just for an excuse to give anyone who approaches an evil glare. That way, if you move over, he declares himself the victor and his machismo is reassured.
Foul weather brings out a whole new set of rules for people to break. Umbrella control in public is also part of this pedestrian code that is so often overlooked. When approaching someone in a narrow passage while wielding an umbrella, it is customary to tip it to the side until they are completely past, and out of harm's way. However, this is often ignored, as many students would prefer gouging someone's eye to five seconds of welcess.
Lest but not least in this list of undestrables are the "close walkers." These are people that, while not quite unsatisfied enough with your pace to pass your ont the proper manner, instead choose to follow as nearly behind you as humanly possible, sometimes even so near that their legs swing in the same plane as your own.

Teaching people the correct way to stroll could be a formidable task indeed. To combat this epidemic of rudeness I suggest that the university publish, along with its ofter "Welcome to College" pamplletes given to freshman, a guide to getting places on foot without offending, scaring, or maining anyone along the way.

Walking for Florida ballot blues

Palm Beach
County Florida
are complaining that they accidentally voted for Pat Buchanan. The alleged mix-up was the result of the palment of the palment of the palment palmen

talk of lawsuits and demands of averyote.

This entire fiasco is absurd. I have seen the ballot and though unique, found nothing confusing about it. An arrow so clearly points out what punch-hole goes with what candidate that the relation could not be made any more explicit. In my opinion, those who are outraged have no one to blame but themselves and are victims of nothing more than their own irresponsibility. I do believe that some people may have actually made a mistake when they filled out their ballots, but no one should be allowed to vote again.

When I voted for Bush I thought that maybe I had tainted the ballot by making my mark too thick. I didn't, however, just insert if in the electronic tabulator and leave hoping it worked. I asked the polling station judge standing next to the machine, whether or not my ballot was inadmissible; upon receiving her assurance that it wasn'l, I submitted my vote. This is precisely what the people in Florida should have done. There are individuals in each polling station whose job it is to help resolve problems or concerns and to issue a new ballot if a mistake has been made.

According to Susanna Laurenti of the (Nov. 8) Boca Ration News, a local newspaper, voter Eileen Klasfeld said, "it was so hard to tell who and what you were voting for. I couldn't figure it out and I have a doctorate," Why then did she not seek assistance to clear up her confusion? Waiting to complain after your vote has been cast is useless. I don't have a doctorate, maybe that's why I both understand how to use the ballot in question, and the proper procedure needed to resolve a problem. Obviously, so do thousands of other Palm Beach voters: many of whom voted with no problem, while a few who caught their mistakes, took the necessary step to correct them on a new ballot which they requested.

It has also been reported that around 19,00 ballots were thrown out because voters made two selections for the same office. The Gore camp is suggesting that Gore should have received the votes, should have received the votes, should have received the rotes. Aside from the fact that there is no way to know who should have received the solves the mane for the area. In 1996 the same county had to throw out 15,000 ballots have been disqualified in the area. In 1996 the same county had to throw out 15,000 ballots have cooring to ballots were mailed to voters before the election and no one complained." The ballot was also published ahead of time in local newspapers so that any confusion could be considered, and if needed, a new ballot drafted; there were no complaints. Considering the evidence I've presented here, there is no reasonable basis to believe the ongoing claims that these voter's were the victims of helpless confusion. The voters of the area were given every chance to contest the ballot; interestingly they only began to complain after they realized Gore lost.

U S F

I have written in the past about the importance of being an informed, responsible voter. Those people who, along with some "respected" television anchors, are now bewailing the number of Buchanan and lost votes in the area and who demand the right to vote again have only themselves to blame. It's not surprising to me that a bunch of Democrats are asking the government and elected officials to fix something they did as individuals. What is surprising is that the media is courting these people as the potential victims of some grave injustice. In American elections we rely on maturity, voluntary attention, and self-accountability, that is why we only allow adults to vote. If a person cannot even understand or complete a voting ballot, I wonder what other deficiencies he or she suffers from? Some residents of Palm Beach County, Fla., were either unprepared or not responsible in voting on Tuesday, that's a fault they, not the future of this country, will have to live with.

Food for thought: On Wednesday, a spokesman with his campaign implied that due to the "confusion" and "victimization" of the voters, the outcome will be contested.

Questions? Comments? Email Nathan: horatio399@yahoo.com

M Media 'too pro-Gore to admit defeat'

The 2000 Presidentia Election is over with. People have decided who the next President is going to be. We just don't know who it is.

I am a citizen of the State of Florida, and it feel awfully important knowing that a difference of 1,805 votes caused a recount of the votes (by Florida law). My vote three weeks ago went for Bush and, when the news networks first reported that Gore took Florida, I felt cheated, like my vote didn't count. I was uspet as I saw the vice president's electorate vote count move further and further away from Governor Bush's. I've never liked the Electoral College. Maybe that is because it is archaic and I don't understand it fully. Last night I didn't like it because Bush was winning the popular vote in Florida, yet Gore won the 25 electorate votes from my state.

Then the tables have turned and now everyone is waiting to hear what the final tally is.
North Carolina doesn't matter.
California doesn't matter.
Florida matters.
Japan is eagerly anticipating the results. So is Germany and the rest of Europe. Everyone knows China wants Gore to win. Maybe that's it. Maybe it's been decided that Bush has won, but the media (Technician included) is too pro-Giere and too full of pride to admit defeat.
My advice? Follow Gore's lead. Admit defeat Concede. Get on with life. Thank the people from Florida.

INCLUDE MAJOR, AND CLASS RANK. 400 WORD

SUBMISSIONS ARE PROPERTY OF TECHNICIAN.

Mark McLawhorn Kelly Magee

Mark McLawhorn Jack Daly John Carr Matthew Pelland Sherrie Owens Farrah Sanders TO AD DESIGN MAN.
Eric Gonzalez

CHANCELLOR'S

rom the foxho

What, if anything, is being, can be, or will be done to improve the parking/traffic situation around campus?

Zach Hayes Business Management

The issue of convenient, oncampus parking for faculty, staff and students faces all unibepartment of Transportation works to bepartment of transportation provide alternatives for on-campus facility of the provided transportation to provide a transportation to the provided transportation to the provide transit services and programs that facilitate the use of carpools, vanpools and bicycles.

Parking is available throughout our campuses. However, not all of the available parking is located where facility, staff and students would prefer to park. The areas where parking is most congested are those areas that are located close to our academic buildings and residence halls. There is less demand in some campus areas, such as the West Lot on Sullivan Drive, where parking is available. Shuttle bises now operate from this area, thus allowing users a lower cost parking alternative, plus the convenience of shuttle service to Main Campus.

Currently, we are planning an expansion of the Coliseum Parking Deck. A portion of the new spaces will serve as replacement for parking that will be displaced by the Undergraduate Science and Teaching Lab. This expansion will also bring a net increase of approximately 350 spaces in this area. Wolffine transit service affords students a viable alternative to parking on campus and provides an alternative to driving on campus. The system transports over 10,000 passenger trips daily. Off-campus park-and-ride lots relieve parking location. The Main Campus wolflink and the Centennial Campus shuttles allow individuals to travel around a adding to traffic congestion.

Our carpool and vanpool programs of the contract of the contract of travel around campus without driving their vehicles and adding to traffic congestion.

gestion.

Our carpool and vanpool program offer more options to get to campu and reduce parking congestion Carpool parking is conveniently locat ed in the Coliseum Deck.

once told me your greatest fear is your deepest wish."

wish."
Christine Lavin,
"Please Don't
Make Me Too
Happy"

Transportation, the University constructed an off-road bike path to improve bicycle access between the Main Campus and the Centennial Campus. During the past four years, bike racks have been added throughout campus and are residence halls. All new buildings on campus are required to provide bike racks as a part of their building project. The University encourages participation in the process of developing a system that will meet the campus' ongoing transportation needs. Through the University's Physical Environment Committee individuals can provide input for improvement.

How does your belief sys-tem and values affect how you make decisions for N.C. State?

Senior Business Management

I believe in the power of educa-tion to improve the lives of our students, faculty and staff, especially through the creation of new knowledge. That belief drives every decision I make as Chancellor of N.C. State. In discussions with my leadership team, I weigh the impact of our actions on the University commu-nity and the citizens we serve. The

Will bond money go to improving engineering buildings or padding teach-ers' salaries?

Michael Hoke Senior

All of N.C. State's portion of the University and Community College Bonds will address our facilities needs by funding the renovation of existing space or the creation of badly needed new space for teaching and research.

The Bond Referendum specified that none of the funds will be used for salaries. Of the approximately 40 projects at NCSU, three are for the College of Engineering. As a result, some Engineering activities will move to Centennial Campus, and that will allow the University to renovate the vacated space for other campus departments.

Mary Ame Fox

Utah State University

They nabbed Provost Kermit Hall and made him their President (at least someone was made into a president this week). NCSU is already looking for replacements; under consideration: Gonzo, Scooter, Fozzie, Animal, Beaker and those two cranky old guys that sit in the balcony and crack jokes.

Dan Rather

The exemplary CBS journalist crumbled before our eyes on Election Night/Dawn, twice referencing "Governor Gore" and being a hitle too tragger-happy with that interactive finger of his. We know it was a rough night. Dan: but, seriously, what's the frequency, Kenneth?

Bamboo

Florida vote-dodgers

With the recount proving that every vote counts, all those cynics are being proven wrong. Stupid Floridians; you need to live in a more biased state...like North Carolina: 56 percent Bush, 43 percent Gore.

Duke University

With their gene-altered fluorescent rabbit, Alba, the wo of Brazilian "mammalian arrist" Eduardo Kac, finally brin, an answer to an age-old argument: after all this time, trici (at least the genetic kind) are for silly rabbits.

Japanese innovation

Dry-erase technology

Single-handedly rejuvenated by an animated Election Night/Dawn Tim Russert on NBC, the white board and the red marker defeated the glittering glamour of the spinning. 3D-rendered roulette-esque depiction of the Capitol Building and White House, Plus, it helps when Russert underlines Florida dozon times and says, "It's all about Florida." The media is the message.

Hooters TV

University of California at Santa Cruz

The university will no longer use "narrative evaluation summaries," essays written by professors, to judge student performance in classes. They're moving towards letter grades: A, B, C, D and F, Stupid! They should have just moved towards As and Bs and forgotten about the rest. Bummer, dude!

Exit poll projections

They jump the gun too early and distort other time zones elections. No wait! We actually want to give this topic a thumbs up. Actually, a thumbs down looks more likely. Maybe it's just too close to call...

want marriage, kids, love'

A while back I was sitting at a restaurant with Marks restaurant with some people whose opinions 1 offen admire. Somehow the conversation had turned to my plans after college, or rather, my real clear lack there-of, One of them told me that no matter what. I would have to be content with myself because I'm going to spend at least half of the rest of my life alone. Um, gee thanks.

least haif of the rest of my life alone. Um, gee thanks. No, no, he was quick to reassure, it's not my fault; it's just statistics. I'll probably outlive my husband — heck, it'll probably still be a good while before I have one — and then there's divorce, yadda yadda yadda. He shoveled faster and faster but none of it was getting him out of the hole. Besides, he continued, that's the problem with girls. All they think about is getting married and having kids.

girls. All they think about is getting married and having kids.

Guys, now they have goals. Ask a guy what he wants and he'll tell you a career. Ask a girl, and she'll talk about lautive. Okay, hold up. I am a girl. And considering my particular vantage point, I have a real problem with people lumping all of femininity under some stereotypical umbrella. I happen to know lots of girls with goals that have nothing to do with getting hitched. But in retrospect, I don't think that it was the generalization that bothered me.

The truth is, I am a girl And darn, if I don't want to get married. I want to have kids. I am his little theory in the flesh and blood. I think what upset me more was the implication that these things are not goals. It bothered me because I felt like he expected more from me. Intelligent girls with talent and drive are not supposed to "throw it away" on something like love. But, I want to be in love. I'd go so far as to consider it a goal.

Now 1 know this hardly takes the place of a career aspiration and that (with the exception of certain outles) it will never bring the bacon home, and that's fine. I want to work. I want to be successful and I want to do what I do well. I just know that I'm far more interested in having a life than having a job. What I'm doing will not always be as important as who I'm doing it love and a career have to mutually exclusive.

And I guess that this brings up a whole other issue I've been watching people around me struggle with lately. There's this general notion that love is something you fall into. There you are, happily walking along in pursuit of your goals, and there's love, like a pit covered with sticks. Snap! And suddenly you're in the big of booby trap. You can forget about getting to wherever it was you were going any time soon.

In some ways, love is like that, It makes it harder to be the kind of person you know that you can be. Somehow, you don't ever seem to accomplish all the things you thought you were going to. You focus your energy on the idea of someone else and other things suffer. You're not as productive, you invest your time elsewhere, and at times, it's not even your time anymore. And sometimes, you settle.

What an ugly little word. But it's only ugly when that's what it feels like you're doing. I think there's a difference between being complacent and being comfortable. Complacency is when you take your goals and you tuck them away because it's easier and far less scary to stay with someone rather than set out on your own. You know what you're giving up and it's always going to plague you. Comfort is something else. In a way, it's like settling too. Only you stop thinking about what might have been.

Somehow, it doesn't matter when you're a better person with them. But in real life, love is about sacrifices. In real life, love is about sacrifices, in real life, sometimes you have to give up some part of you, something you might have been. Yet somehow, in love, you don't mind so much. The gain far out weighs the cost. And you have to remember the return. You give some-thing up, but look at what you get back.

thing up, but look at what you get back.
Love is seary. In some ways, it makes a lousy goal because it's never something that's completely in your hands.
You can't actively work toward it, you can't get a degree in it, and it's not going to help you change the world. It won't bring you fame or fortune. But that doesn't make it invalid. Society tells us it's okay to sacrifice for a career — it's okay to have a little less free time, have a little less free time, have a little less from — hey, you're going places. But what do you do once you get there? Who do you share it with?

I think I've strayed from my point.

I think I've strayed from my point. Basically, I want to get married, to have kids, to be in love. If the stats say it's not in the stars, I'm prepared to exist on my own. And I will. But I'm also not afraid to change my plans if I think it's worth it.

It's the one college souvenir you'll always treasure.....Buy it at davidbucherphotoart.com

an Officially Licensed Product

doughboy by marko

Alas! I have nor hope nor health, Nor peace within nor calm around, Nor that content surpassing wealth. The sage in meditation found, and walked with inward glay crowned. Nor fame nor power, nor love, nor beisure. Others I see whom these surround. I smiling they live, and call life pleasure; I me that cup has been dish in another measure. Percy Bysche Shelby, Stangas written in Digition, new Naples.

ZATHAEL, GUILT-RIDDEN AND FEELING RESPONSIBLE FOR NOT SAVING THECITY OF ACHILLIA FROM A DOOMSDAY COMET, SITS AT THE FOOT OF AN UPROOTED TREE, A VICTIM OF HIS RAGING INSECURITIES... CHALKHYDRI, HEARING THE SOUND OF THE GREAT CRACKING BIRCH, SWOOPS DOWN TO OFFER CONSOLATION.

precious bodily fluids by john carr

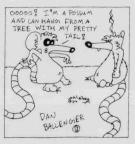

meeces by danimal

es muy bien by jackson brown

Furthermore, I supported Nader during the campaign to draw the liberal vote away packers by danima

THEN THE MEXICAN POLICE BUSTED IN AND ARRESTED ME.
I SPENT
2 MONTHS
IN PRISON AND 3 IN A MEXICAN LABOR
CAMP.

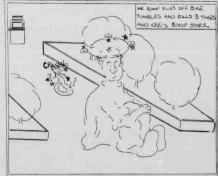

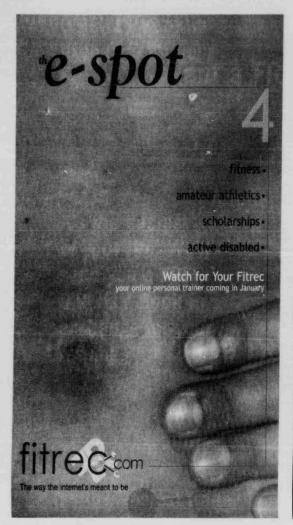

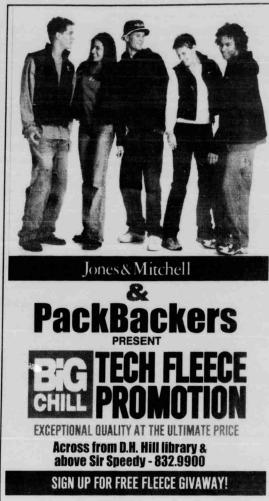

boop toons by matt tracey

Want a FREE O'Reilly book?

It's the easiest trade of your life. We'll send you a FREE O'REILLY Book in exchange for your resume.

All you have to do is email your resume to recruit_ncstate@trilogy.com, be selected to interview with Trilogy, and we will send you the O'Reilly book of your choice.*

Trilogy is looking for graduating technical majors to drive our e-commerce revolution. As the top technical talent out of college, you should demand "Only the Best" from a job opportunity. You should demand to work for a company that stays on the cutting edge of technology. You should demand to work with the smarttest, most capable people in the industry. There's only one place you'll find all this: Trilogy. Come see what all the buzz is about.

Send resumes and questions to: recruit_ncstate@trilogy.com

TRILOGY"

Impact People Opportunity

Copyright 2000 Trilogy. Talogy: the Trilogy logo, and other studemarks are trademarks of Trilogy.

^{*} See contest rules at www.trilogy.com.

Prove it in FREE Fantasy Hoops at smallworld.com Register and enter promo code NCS

Small World. ANSWERS

0 S S W R

1 Southern state (abbr.) Southern state (abor.)
 Prosecutor (abbr.)
 Helped
 University of the state of the 23 Violation of allegiance

28 Hot beverage
29 Hot beverage
29 Small rodents
31 Snare
31 Snare
33 Type of army discharge (abbr.)
34 Public notice (short form)
35 Also
38 Brewed drink
39 Southern state (abbr.)
40 Cerlum symbol (abbr.)
41 Cat sound
41 Stalk of a plant
45 Dine
47 Fill with life

50 Edward's nickname 52 At another time 52 At ahomer ome 53 Imp 53 Imp 56 Moisture from eye 58 Subject 60 Either 61 Seed used for oil 63 Get away 65 Puzzle 66 Kept hidden DOWN

DOWN
1 Sharp
2 Woman
3 Be
4 Close; compact
5 Area for combat
6 Aircraft area
7 Indefinite pronoun
8 Beaver construction
9 Vote into office
10 Pale

24 500 sheets of paper 28 First man 30 Thought 32 Ago 36 Education group (abbr.) 37 Gives 42 One who drinks wine exc 44 Prepare golf ball 46 Annoy 49 Mediterranean plant

54 Easy gait 55 Worry 56 Tensile strength (physics, abbr.) 57 Ever (poetic) 59 Roman 300

62 12th Greek letter 64 Argon symbol

Read TECHNICIAN

AGROMECK

www.agromeck.com for book information, ordering, and applications for employment next school year. Positions will be availabe for Business, Marketing, Layout, Photographers, Copy and Web Design.

27,000 students of all nationalities, all religions, all races and affiliations. 27,000 people living different lives with different ambitions and different backgrounds. 27,000 adults united in 12 colleges under one university. 27,000 individuals with 27,000 stories.

ONE YEAR, ONE VOLUME

Classifieds

Box 8606, Witherspoon Student Center, 515,2409, agromeck.com

For Sale

Cruise $279

Florida $119

Jamaica $439

Cancun $399

1-800-678-6386

Large closet, pool, is court. Call 349-

Great cars under $5000! Come grab a vehicle at www.AutoGrab.com! '95 Olds Ciera $3300. '94 Plymouth Acclaim $2500. 919-210-3476

- Starting Pay Up To $8.50
- Hours: 3:00pm 7:30pm · Vacation Time Accrued Immediately
- 10 Minutes From Campus
- Free Meals

Cali Ray at Woodland Terrace 919.465.0356

Chris.

BARTENDERS MAKE
$100-$250 PER NIGHT!

NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED! CALL NOW! 1-800981-8168 ext. 9035.

Part-time help needed for Cary warehouse. Flexible days & hours. 9-5 Now weekends. Call 469-8490.

7013. Call Holly, Leave message.

DOMINO'S PIZZA of Cary meds 20 good drivers!
$8-$15+ihr! Flex hours!
$8-$15+ihr! Flex hours!
Great Tips! Cash paid nightly! We work around her tadio while delivering in an upscale residential rareal Apply in person or call our locations at Cary village. Square (469-1115). W. Chatham St. 467-4222, or Morresole 1115. W. Chatham St. 1116-1116. The six the perfect partitine (or full-time (or full-time (or full-time) the perfect partitine (or full-time) or full-time (or full-time).

Line Ad Rates

2 days $6.00 $8.00 4 day

Non-Student

Call 515-2029 Fax 515-5133

Found Ads

Policy Statement

counter. Call 838-9011 for interview.

A high energy, Cary recruiting office is looking for college students to perform multiple office tasks. Must be available to work 15+ flexible hours per week, Great PayIIII interested e-mail resume to GEORGIA® PATLICATA. COM.

TA.COM.
Second Nature Cafe seeking FT/PT wait and cook/prep staft. Old Raleigh Village Snopping Center near Blue Ridge, Edwards Mill, Duraleigh Area. Call David 571-4649.

Summer 2001 PAID Internship. EARN OVER $6000. GAIN "HANDS-ON" BUSINESS EXPERIENCE FOR YOUR RESUME APPLY AT W. W. T. U.T. I.O. PAINTERS. COM.

mum. Call Paul at 828-3832 (2gm-59m. NECD-5832 (2gm-59m. NECD-EDII! Earn $15-30/hr. Job placement assistance is top priority. Raleigh's Bartending School. Call now for information about Fall tulion special. Offer ends assort Have fun! Make money! Meet people! 676-0774. www.cocktalimix-er.com Great fall semesting organization Careat fall semesting company for interview. 362-855. Need a Job? The Annual interview. 362-8355.

Need a Job 7 The Annual Fund is hiring NC State Students to raise money in a fun and friendly environment. We're located on campus! You pick your schedule: work afternoons and/or nights-no schedule work afternoons and/or nights-no statudays! Pay starts at 57-25 hour with frequent raises. For more informations, and the state of the st

Full-time veterinary receptionist/assistant needed @ very well equipped small animal hospital. Ideal position for ZO or Animal Science graduate considering application to vet school. Benefits include wetering as scholarship

$50-$75 ftr Fire www.pathtofreedom.org

Now hiring all positions for Quizno's subs at the Royal Bakery on

Hillsborough St. 754-

HOME

struggling offense has been able to manage all season. Duke quarterback D. Bryant has only thrown for 1,120 pass-ing yards and two touchdowns on the season and tailback Chris Douglas averages a mediocre 38.7 yards rushing a game.

Despite how bad Duke has been all season long, history shows that the Blue Devil's have been known to play in close games against the Pack.
"Duke, every year they come down and play their best ball against us," said outside line-backer Levar Fisher.
"Somehow, I don't know what their coach do, but they come and play good ball against us. They want to come out and hurt us. They're not going to a bowl, they're gonna come out and they just want to destroy our dreams."

and they just want to destroy our dreams."

Last year, the two teams faced off against each other in a game that turned out to become a bat-let that couldn't be decided in regulation. The game went on overtime, where the Pack luckily escaped Durham with a 31-24 victory.

"They have all been shoot-outs," said State head coach Chuck Amato, "They have all been close games. The records have meant nothing."

Nevertheless, the Pack will have its game-faces on come Saturday, after coming off a loss of its own to Maryland, 35-28 in overtime. The outcome of that game was shocking to the team, as well as most State.

fans, who are now left with one important question, will quar-terback Philip Rivers play against Duke?

against Duke?
Rivers, who will most likely win ACC rookie of the year, suffered a Grade I AC shoulder separation in his throwing arm.
All week long, Rivers has not participated in practice, waiting patiently for Wednesday, where went back to what he does best: throwing passes once again.

again.
"He didn't throw bad," said Amato. "At times early, he looked like he was favoring it a little bit and we tried to cut down on the number of throws
at that point."

Pieser, who has shown how.

at that point."

Rivers, who has shown how tough he can be already, taking hits and getting up time and time again from such defenses as Florida State and North Carolina, told the media that he was ready to play against the Blue Devils all week. For Rivers, however, that decision is not entirely his to make. And for those fans that were hoping to know who would start at quarterback this weekend, they will have to wait till the first set of downs offensively for the Pack. "It's going to come down to a game day decision unless something happens between now and then," Amato said. With Duke's defense giving up 336 points so far this season, Stale will look to score big on the Blue Devils. But with Rivers doubtful to play, the running game will become a big factor for the Wolfpack offense.

Last weekend against Maryland, State tailback Ray Robinson set a school record for number of carries in a game with 40 rushes for 178 yards and a touchdown. Robinson's numbers broke the 23-year old record the was held by Ted Brown. who, had 37 carries against 1-nd State in 1977.

Robinson only needs 118 yards to crack the top 10 all-purpose yardage leaders list at State. He is fifth in the ACC in rushing yards per game, averaging 78.1 yards. Robinson, who has 625 net yards and five touchdowns this season, has really come on strong in the past recent games.
As for Duke, they don't feature a powerful running game or a lethal air attack but coach amato has had his troops preparing as if they did. The Pack will look to continue against Duke what they did in the majority of the Maryland game. Stop the run. State held Terrapin Heisman hopeful tailback LaMont Jordan to just 101

"We have to get a pass rush and we have to stop the run," said Amato "When you play a team that throws the football, you must stop the run. If you play a pass team and don't stop the run, you are in trouble.

So come Homecoming day. the Wolfpack is prepared to step up and play the way they have to in order to bounce back from two consecutive losses and claim the treasures they sought all season long

"This is a must win situation for us," said Fisher. "We a going to go out and we a going to work harder. Th game is very important to us.

JARVIS

Arkansas State, starting center Keegan Weir book his leg and was lost for the season. Tackle Scott Kooistra, who missed much of the first half of the year with a knee injury, went down Saturday against Maryland and could miss State's remaining four games, And several others are battling an assortment of nagging injuries.

The entire starting line has had to take more snaps this season due to the lack of depth caused by these injuries while protecting a freshman quarterback. But Borum and his fellow blockers have made the best of the situation.

tion.

"The line has done an admirable job, considering that they've protected the quarterback, on occasions pretty daggone good, and at times, we've run the ball, 'head coach Chuck Amato said. "They're fighting; they're giving us about everything they can give us."

thing they can give us.

The extra time on the field hasn't been as much of a problem for Borum as it might have been in the past due to the extensive conditioning the new

DUKE

Blue Devil touchdown was not recorded until the third game of the season against Virginia.

"We're running with teams that are a little better than we are." Franks admitted bluntly.

After providing the first win of the season for a similarly struggling Wake program, Duke now stands as one of only three Division 1-A football teams to have not won a game.

The Duke offense is currently ranked 108th out of 114 teams in total yards and 111th in scoring. It does not get any better defensively, where the Blue Devils are 112h in total defense and 108th in scoring defense. Franks, who was once an assistant under Steve Spurrier at Florida, has shifted from one end of the college football spectrum to the other.

Two years ago, the Duke administration of the rot the search in the search of the college football spectrum to the other.

trum to the other.

Two years ago, the Duke administration did not hire Franks to be a miracle worker, and thus they are giving him time to build his own program. His approach has been to build for the future, focusing on recruiting and getting young players valuable experience.

10/

Pack coaching staff put him through in the off-season.

"It's benefited me, especially in the fourth quarter," Borum said, "It feels like the first quar-ter right now. You couldn't tell what quarter it is by watching me play."

me play."

From January to May, Borum dropped 27 pounds off his tremendous frame. The work tous made a huge difference in his strength, speed and stamina. He now bench presses 455 pounds, which ties him with Jeff and Levar Fisher for the top mark on the team. Even more impressive was his victory in the limemer race at the beginning of fall practice.

"Jarvis, by losine all that

"Jarvis, by losing all that weight, his athleticism has improved," Amato said. "He's trying to push himself to get a little more physical and a little bit more aggressive."

As his senior season draws to a close, Borum has lofty goals in mind. Scouts from the NFL have shown interest in the slim-mer, trimmer offensive tackle, who has made playing on Sundays next year a priority.

"I definitely hope to play in the NFL," Borum said. "All my efforts are going towards that right now."

Although wins are not coming yet, Franks is seeing improve-

"We get people in the right positions," said Franks. "Either we don't make the play on offense or we don't tackle on defense."

defense."
With the emphasis on youth, senior quarterback Spencer Romine has largely stepped saide following three successive poor starts to begin the year. Sophomore backup D. Bryant has stepped into the starter's role, gaining valuable experience with each outing.

Overall, the Blue Devils have 43 freshmen on their roster, with many of them seeing many minutes. Leading rusher Chris Douglas and outside linebacker Ryan Fowler are two of the more influential freshmen.

more influential freshmen.

The good news for Blue Devil football fans is that the end to this year is in sight. With the young talent maturing and the coaching staff dedicated to improvement, Duke football is poised to relinquish its spot is the ACC cellar.

"We're in a building process," said Franks. "I probably will learn more through this [season] than I have ever learned."

Ray Robinson ran for 178 yards against Maryland. He and the rest of the Pack will take on Duke Saturday in N.C. State's homecoming game.

The Andrew Payne Show at 6:00PM

READ THE LATEST ISSUE OF AMERICANA.

only on-line at www.americana.nu

nesus.A.D.D

www.ncsu.edu/stud_orgs/sadd/

FERRUARY 28, 2001 IS COMING It's All About Choices! FREE Cap and Gown! at GRADWEAR.COM NO TAX! NCSU $26 plus tax

Same Quality, Better Price Money Back Guaranteed

Call 515-9355

It's All About Choices!

Most NC State

Students Don't Smoke

Want to Join Them?

Based on the 1999 Horvard School of Public Health Callege Alcohol Study sample of NC State students (simple random earnie, still?)

euse River Valley Model Railroad Club, In TRAIN SHOW

Sat. & Sun., November 11th & 12th, 9am-5pm Kerr-Scott Bldg., NC State Fair Grounds General Admission: 53.00, 12 yrs - 6 yrs $1.00, Under 6 with Adult - Free $1 off per family with this ad.

Watm Up WILH The Wolfpack

NC State Athletes are collecting coats, hats, scarves and gloves in new or good condition. Come show support for the less fortunate by bringing your donations to the Brickyard on Monday, November 13th from 11am to 2pm.

WEEK T

JESSE HELMS 94-26 KERMIT HALL 89-31 CAULTON TUDOR 87-33 CHIP ALEXANDER 87-33

MIKE SOLARTE 85-35 MARYE ANNE FOX 81-39 BATES BATTAGLIA 79-41 ADAM GOLD 77-43

Chip

Alexander

N & O Reporter

87-33

N.C. State

Nebraska

Auburn

UNC

Games to be played for the week of ~

NOVEMBER

THE CONTENDERS [THEIR PROFESSION]

OVERALL SCORE

Duke at N.C. State Florida State at Wake Forest Maryland at UNC Oklahoma at Texas A&M Nebraska at Kansas State Boston College at Notre Dame Georgia at Auburn South Carolina at Florida LSU at Ole Miss Oregon State at Arizona UCLA at Washington

N. C. Senator 94-26 N.C. State FSU UNC Oklahoma Nebraska Auburn Florida

Jesse Helms

Ole Miss Oregon St. North Carolina A&T at Hampton NC A&T

Marye Anne Fox Kermit Hall N. C. State Chancellor N. C. State Provost

81-39 89-31 N.C. State N.C. State

FSU

UNC UNC Oklahoma Oklahoma Nebraska Nebraska

Georgia Auburn LSU Ole Miss Arizona

NC A&T

Ole Miss Oregon St. Oregon St. Washington Washington Washington Washington Washington Washington Hampton

Caulton

Tudor N & O Reporter 87-33

N.C. State

Nebraska

Auburn

Florida

Ole Miss

Arizona

FSU

UNC

Bates Battaglia Carolina Hurricane 79-41

N.C. State

FSU

Solarte 850AM Personality 85-35

77-43 N.C. State N.C. State FSU FSU

Adam

Gold

850AM Personality

Mike

UNC Maryland Maryland Texas A&M Texas A&MOklahoma Oklahoma Oklahoma Kansas St. Nebraska Nebraska Notre Dame Notre Dame Notre Dame Notre Dame Notre DameNotre DameNotre DameNotre DameNotre Dame Georgia Georgia Auburn Florida Ole Miss Ole Miss Arizona Arizona Oregon St.

> Hampton NC A&T Hampton NC A&T Hampton

LSU

fterho

44IO 5+4+100 FOR 625+ IU erec+Louic MUSIC. af+erhours PUPLA M0U-+PU 5+47+119 8:00PM

шкпс.0Г9/4F+Pf

No. 24 Georgia Tech 35, Virginia 0

Maryland (5-4, 3-3) at North Carolina (4-5, 1-5)

The Terrapins and Tar Heels are two teams that are both on the bowl bubble. UNC has to win out to qualify for the postseason. Maryland can still make a bowl without winning this one, but the task becomes much more difficult next week against Georgia Tech.

No. 3 Florida State (9-1, 7-0) at Wake Forest (1-7 ,1-5)

Wake got its first win of the season last weekend, beating Duke by two points. FSU demolished the Blue Devils by 49 earlier in the season. By the transitive property of college football, the Seminoles should only win this one by 47.

DOTTS

Football vs. Duke, 11/11, 1:00 Volleyball @ Clemson, 11/10 Cross Country, Districts, 11/11 Swimming at ECU, 11/10

ncewith

PACK LOOKS FOR HOMECOMING WIN

♦ Duke stands in the way of winning season and a possible bowl game.

Justin Sellers

This Saturday, N.C. State will host Duke in a homecoming game unlike any other Wolfpack fans have witnessed in recent years. What makes this game so interesting isn't that the Pack (5-3, 2-3 Atlantic Coast Conference) will be matched up against a team it should beat, but instead the combination of other important for-tunes that await State if they should pull out a victory. With a Wolfpack win, State would move to 6-3 on the sea-son and assure itself a winning season. Meanwhile, the Pack would become bowle-ligible for a bowl game at the end of the season.

Duke (0-9, 0-6 ACC) is recently coming off of a 28-26 heartbreaking loss at Wake Forest.

In the game that featured the ACC's only winless teams, the Blue Devils saw themselves trailing 14-3 at halftime, but came back in the second half.

scoring 23 points, including a touchdown in the final 53 sec-touchdown in the final 53 sec-onds.

However, time ran out and Duke's losing streak increased to 10 games in a row.

Its last win dating back to a 48-35 win over Wake Forest last November.

The Blue Devils' offense hasn't played a big role in any of its games in 2000, averaging only 263,1 yards of total offense and 11.4 points a game. In fact, Duke's 26 points scored against the Deacs was the most points its

'Big Earth' getting job done

♦ Senior Jarvis Borum is a huge prob-lem for anyone trying to get into N.C. State's backfield.

Jeremy Ashton

Nicknames are commonplace in a college football locker room. Virtually everyone on the team has one. A nickname could be something as simple as a player's initials, or it could be something with a complicated story behind it. In Jarvis Borum's case, one look shows why he's "Big Earth."

pounds in the 2000 N.C. State media guide, easily making him one of the largest players to ever don a Wolfpack uniform. His size certainly didn't go unnoticed when he arrived at State as a freshman in 1997.

a freshman in 1997.
"We were sitting in Case [Dining Hall], and that was my first time ever seeing the rest of the team," Borum said, "They were like, "Gosh, you're big, You're as big as the earth." And it just stuck with me."

Borum, who is in his second season as a full-time starter, is a co-captain on this year's Pack squad. He is the only senior on the offensive line and the only member of the group with more than four career starts prior to 2000.

For the most part, the normally quiet Borum lets his play on the field and in practice do the talking. But when the situation dictates, he will stand up and take charge.

"I lead pretty much by example," Borum said. "I only get vocal when things are going wrong. So if I'm quiet, things are going wrong. So if I'm quiet, things are going effects will he it hard by injuries. In State's opener against

Winless Duke looking for upset

N.C. State's defense will look to pressure Duke's D. Bryant the same way it went after Maryland's Calvin McCall.

♦ Duke has struggled so far this season, to say the

Steve Thompson

The anticipation preceding the showdown with Duke is always immense. The Blue Devils feature some of the most athletic and intimidating players in the nation and are a threat to win every game. Well, at least that's how Duke baskethall goes. Duke football, on the other hand, is a different story entirely. There is no way to sugar coat it; the Blue Devils have struggled.

gled. Following nine straight losses to open the season, head coach Carl Franks has learned to enjoy the smaller pleasures of being the coach.

"Going running helps me," answered Franks when asked how he keeps his sanity during this difficult stretch of Duke football.

After last week's 28-26 loss to fellow doormat Wake Forest, Duke sits alone in the Atlantic Coast Conference cellar. With this weekend's battle against N.C. State and the season finale against a desperate North Carolina team the following week. Duke is likely looking at an 0-11 season for the second time in five years.

The tone for the season was set in the opening game.

game.
From the outset, East
Carolina dominated, shutting out the Blue Devils 38-0. Although Duke was able to get on the scoreboard the following week vs. Northwestern, the first

DUKE N.C. STATE

When: Saturday, 1:00 p.m. Where: Carter-Finley Stadium

KEYS TO 5 KEYS TO THE GAME

The quarterback question. The question every N.C. State fan wants answered is whether freshman phenom Philip Rivers, who suffered a minor shoulder separation against Maryland, will play and how effective he'll be if he does. If Rivers can't go, then Olin Hannum, the nation's leading junior college passer in 1999, will get his chance to shine.

Grind it out. Tailback Ray Robinson was nothing short of spectacular against the Terrapins, carrying the ball a school-record 40 times for 178 yards, the third-highest total in the Atlantic Coast Conference this season. With the uncertainty surrounding sing game, the Wolfpack could use another performance like that shipson

Avoid injuries. Several key players are walking wounded for State right now. The Pack cannot afford to lose anyone else during the stretch run, particularly at linebacker and on the offensive line.

Who's D. man? Sophomore D. Bryant put together the best game of his career Saturday at Wake Forest, throwing for 277 yards in Duke's 28-26 loss. The Blue Devils have to get yardage like that from Bryant again this week to have any chance to win.

Score early. The surest way to an upset is to put points on the board first and build some confidence. A quick score by the Devils could board first and build some confidence. A quick score by the Devils could also plant some doubts in the minds of the Pack's players, who have lost three of their last four.

Thornton returns

♦ Senior forward Damor Thornton returned to full practice with his teammates Thursday. He won't play until Damon Thornton will rejoin the N.C. S t a t e men's basketball team on a limited basis. basis.

Head coach
Herb

Sendek announced Thursday that Thornton is starting to practice with his teammates though he won't play in any games first semester.

"This decision was made after consultation with the health professionals, who now think it's appropriate and helpful for him to return to his regular daily activities," Sendek said. "[Damon] had his judicial hearing on campus and as part of the decision, he will not participate in any basketball games through the first semester. Lee Fowler [athletics director] and I have talked about that and we are in full support of that decision."

♦ Virginia knocked N.C. State out of the ACC tournament Thursday evening.

Sports Staff Report

As wet weather made for sloppy field conditions, the secondseeded Virginia Cavaliers defeated the seventh-seeded N.C. State Wolfpack by a score 1-0 on Thursday aftermoon in the first game of the quarterfination of the ACC men's soccer championship at Wake Forest's Spry Stadium.
With the loss, the Wolfpack is eliminated with a season record of 3-12-3 record, while the Cavaliers improved to 14-4-1

man Maryama on renos p.m.
Virginia's lone goal came in the third minute of play in the form of an own goal soccer where the control of the co

Own goal eliminates N.C. State accidentally deflected a Virginia cross into his own net while attempting to clear the ball. Virginia Head Coach George Gelnovatch was happy that his team advanced. "The glad it's over," he said. "The pace of the game was not good. It never got out of control, but it just turned into kind of an ugly mess because we couldn't get those two or three goals early that we wanted. We just have to put it behind us and realize that tomorrow we have to step out and be a little sharp-or."

to step out and be a little sharper."

On the goals, Gelnovatch said, "It looked like a pretty good cross and just a missed clearance and we were fortunate for it to go in the goal,"

State head coach George Transnition was disheartened by the loss, but he was proud of his team and expects that they will only improve next season.

"It's no secret that we're having a rough season, but this league is very tough," said

Tarantini, "We don't have the talent that we've had in the past, but we have the same determination. I think I have the best goalkeeper in the country [sophomore Mitchell Watson] coming back for the next two years."

coming back for the next two years."

The own goal disappointed Tarantini, but he felt that Virginia deserved to score. "If you put on pressure, you will be rewarded and Virginia put on great pressure in the first half," Tarantini said.

State's best scoring opportunity of the day came with 20 minutes left in the first half. Senior Nick Olivencia put a shot just over the Cavs net after receiving a cross from the far side.