

Elbert M. Overton Flays Co-Eds Here In Self-Help Talk

Elbert Monroe Overton, Jr., student in Business Administration, became overpowered by the desire to give utterance to thoughts which have been collecting in his already overcrowded brain relative to the co-eds, last Thursday night at a meeting of the Self-Help Club in the Self-Help Chapter room located in the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Overton's speech was one of great force. He first dealt with the bad aspects of co-eds with a fiery flow of oratory which even astounded himself. The blame for the entrance of the co-eds to the college was equally divided between the administration and the co-eds. Having spoken so long on the bad features of the women students, Mr. Overton's time was so shortened that no time was had for a review of the co-eds' good points. However, Overton later confided to us that he would have found it impossible to name any if time had been available.

Mr. Overton's speech follows:

"Members of the Self-Help Club, I welcome this opportunity to address you on what I consider to be a most pertinent question. Pertinent questions have varying degrees of pertinency. This question, at hand, is the most pertinent of all the large family of pertinent questions.

"Members of the freshman class, your time spent at State has necessarily been short. You have not been privileged to see the great change in State since the invasion of the short-skirted demons. But you, members of the upper classes, have seen and ground your teeth in helpless rage at the uninvited, un-called, and unsolicited female encroachers at this institution. And helpless rage it is. You are forced to sit back with your hands tied. You have tried ridicule—you have attempted sarcasm—you have employed facts and figures in an attempt to rid this institution of its parasites. These co-eds contribute nothing to the welfare of the college community. They vote for student government officers—they cast their ballots for changes advocated or suggested by the Student Council, but they will not allow themselves to be governed by the very men that they help to elect. Is this not the most high-handed piece of treachery ever perpetrated by sons and daughters of men?"

"Now let us look at another side of the question. Why should the co-eds, of all the colleges giving work similar to this institution, choose a college that is traditionally a college for men? Why should they so place themselves in this compromising position for the benefit of a few paltry dollars? These and many other questions will have to be thoroughly investigated and answered before a satisfactory answer to the main question can be arrived at."

"However, let us not lay the entire blame of this mistake on the shoulders of the 'Co-eds.' It is entirely possible that the administration should come in for its part of the blame. Of all the mistakes that the present administration has made—of all the oversights that have been allowed—of all shortcomings it is responsible for—this is the most un-called for error that has been made. It has permitted, in spite of all the students who wanted this to remain a man's college, women to invade the sacred portals of State College—to completely upset the state of affairs that has existed long before the advent of women students and should continue long after their departure.

"Students! You own this college. Your fees, your tuition, the taxes of

SOLDIER FROM PHILLY

SAVERIO DI MEO

Pictured above is Saverio Di Meco, who comes to us from the former capital of the United States, Philadelphia, and who might some day be one of the best pugilists in the country, if the past has anything to do with the future. Last summer at the R.O.T.C. camp at Anniston, Alabama, he won the camp championship in boxing in the 150-pound class.

He is registered in the School of Engineering, majoring in electricity. Besides his boxing ability, he can also play baseball and football; he was a member of both squads during his freshman year. Another honor that he holds is a membership in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. In the R.O.T.C. he holds the rank of first sergeant, which is the highest office a junior can have. With these accomplishments in the past, it is almost an assurance that he will do better in the future.

Your fathers have made this institution what it is. Why, then, should not your wishes be respected? Demand your rights! You are men, not children, and as men, have these parasites ejected from the campus of State College, that State may remain a man's school, run by men and for men. I thank you."

Governor Sweet Urges Adoption Unpopular Cause

His topic was, "The Validity of Christianity."

Speaking to the Negro students at Shaw University during the morning of the 15th inst., Governor Sweet gave the young men and women the same advice as to unpopular causes which he gave the white students at State. He pointed out Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, and Ramsay MacDonald as men whose success was based on their unhampered, independent minds.

The speaker made an impression on the Negro students by his condemnation of "conservative society." The salvation of the world, he said, depends on men and women who examine the truth of everything that comes before them, be they social, radical, religious, or what-not.

Plans were made for the Student Y.M.C.A. Conference which will be held June 14-23, 1930. Speakers were selected to lead the groups at the conference.

Mr. King had charge of working out the budget of the Southern Field Council for the support of two traveling secretaries. These workers travel among the student Y.M.C.A.'s in the ten member states to help them secure speakers and plan their local programs.

He suggested that the college adopt a painting program whereby "the interiors of the major buildings be painted every five years, all exteriors once every five years, and steel work every three years."

Members of the committee present for the meeting included: Robert M. Page, chairman, Aberdeen; Leslie M. Boney, Wilmington; J. M. Gamewell, Lexington; R. H. Merritt, Raleigh, and L. D. Berry, Charlotte.

learned, to give the seniors a dance. This is done all over the large colleges is always the big event of the year. The present Junior Class feels that State College is now large enough to step in line with the other colleges of the country and inaugurate a Junior Prom which will lead the line of social activities during the year. From the interest which is being shown already, the prom committee feels sure that the dance will be well worth of bearing the title of the State College Junior Prom.

The dance committee is composed of Edgar Rankin, E. G. Couch, Byron Gurley, Charlie Whaley, John Welch, Bob Sesames, R. E. Noblin, Johnnie Geoghegan, chairman, and Stuart Atkinson, vice chairman. L. C. Vipond, president of the class, also meets with the committee.

A meeting of the Junior Class will be held Wednesday at 1:20 to discuss further plans for the dance.

Research In Iodine By Chemist Staff Progresses At State

swing westward again to the mountains. At least two food samples will be analyzed from each of the 100 counties of the State.

Laboratory facilities permitting, other foods will be studied concurrently while the investigation covers the common vegetables, the berries, and potatoes are underway. Most of the cereals, will receive attention, in season, as rapidly as circumstances permit.

Later, it is stated, other phases of the work will be taken up in cooperation with the School of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station, to determine the effect of soil type, stage of maturity of the crop at harvest, fertilizer and soil treatment and amount of rainfall on the iodine content of the various food crops.

One of the research laboratories at the College has been fitted up with the necessary equipment and set aside for the exclusive use of the chemists at work on iodine research, and potato samples from the piedmont counties are now being received and classified. The actual analytical work is expected to begin shortly, with the probability that the piedmont section will be covered by June.

Commenting on the State College investigations, the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to President E. C. Brooks, says:

"Our organization has been keenly interested in the announcement that tests are now being conducted in the research laboratories of State College to ascertain the iodine content of truck and vegetables produced in Eastern North Carolina. We have given unreserved endorsement to this progressive step. Successful results will mean that the agricultural products of North Carolina will be of real service to humanity in so far

Frontiers of telephony— old and new

Yesterday the natural course of telephone expansion was to penetrate the nation's frontiers, building new lines and adding new subscribers.

Today finds many new "frontiers" for telephone expansion—among them the homes of present subscribers. Upstairs and downstairs, wherever needed, additional telephones are being installed. People are learning that there is added utility in convenient communication.

This new field of activity was conceived by commercial development men of the Bell System. Just another example of forward planning to make telephone service more valuable.

He and the General Press representative for "Red Masquers" were then ushered into the Peace Institute parlor, where they were warmly welcomed to the institution by members of the faculty, including the president of the college, and also many of the students.

The city has at last placed a "slow sign" on Hillsboro street at the entrance to the college near the college court. We are sure that if everyone from Gallop's to Pullen Church will cross here, and that if motorists do not mistake these signs for speeding notices, the traffic problem will be solved.

N.C.S.

Had it not been for the unparalleled desire and ability of all women in general (and one in particular) to change the mind, we would have had one of our rare co-ed stories this week. As it is now the co-eds will have to labor on without recognition except that which is given them by the various columnists. This mind-changing habit that the co-eds have is very exasperating. Probably it's an old English custom. Quaint, isn't it?

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

"The perfect man died yesterday and another will not be born until tomorrow." This is a famous saying by someone, and we shall add to this saying that "in the meantime we live."

It is with sorrow that we think back over the terrible error that was made in last week's TECHNICIAN and if it were not for the fact that the error was incited by those little helpful marks, called quotations, and also that a certain person's name appears over the article as the author, our editor would again be in the position of being sued.

Newspapers are far from being perfect, and our little paper cannot attempt to lead the field of journalistic endeavor with our inexperienced ways and with the ever possible chance of printers' errors.

With these handicaps we are still sorry for the misplacement of the "e" in Prof. Wm. Hand Browne, Junior's, name in last week's issue.

THE NEED FOR A STADIUM

Each year the need is felt greater, each year we become more and more ashamed of the fact that our college is behind the other colleges when it comes to an athletic field. When we stop to think of the fine stadia and fine athletic facilities of the other colleges we want to start formulating some plan by which we may get a stadium of our own of which we will be proud.

The time is now ripe to begin that fight. Next year's football team is expected to carry State College honors over the South; many will attend the games played here. The fact that State College has a large bowl will add much to the interest of the games. The seating capacity will be enlarged and the attendance will increase in proportion. Our coaching staff also is to be praised, and under their capable management nothing can stop our future team.

How is the best way to start this fight for a stadium? Well, other schools have figured out ways and means, and why cannot we? Georgia, for instance, assessed several hundred of the alumni for a thousand dollars each. Appropriations can be secured also from the State.

Of course the money side of the question is of utmost importance, but before means of securing this are available the subject must meet the approval of the people of the State, the college students and the alumni. To place this important issue before the people is the duty of our paper and the publicity agent of our college. The literary societies can help much. A suggestion for a debate would be, "The Advisability of Getting a Stadium." These societies could also help by suggesting means of securing a stadium of which North Carolina will be proud.

The war is now on, and every one should talk the subject up.

THE CAMPUS KINGS

"The great majority of the 'Campus Kings' have what is usually called personality," Henry F. Pringle reveals in the February College Humor. "And they follow, with diligence and no small degree of skill, a program approved by generations of alumni. The important thing about college, they have been told, is success on the campus. It was well enough for a prospective teacher to make Phi Beta Kappa America's standard of culture, but the man who planned some other career must concentrate on more important things. Student success counted in that most dim and forbidding of all places, the outside world. The business manager of a college paper knows how to run an office. He knows the alumni whisper, 'how to handle men.'" The athlete of a varsity team has learned how to fight. Life, it is set forth, is very much like a football game. Adopt this system, many an undergraduate has been advised, and the path to success lies smooth before him.

"Sometimes, alas, it does not. I make no generalizations. I am willing to concede, statistics to the contrary being lacking, that Taffy Brown, the football star, the 'Shingle Hound,' and the 'Social Light' may be exceptions. The fact remains, however, that the 'Campus King' frequently finds it impossible to adjust himself when he leaves college. The success so glibly promised proves elusive, and the contrast with the days he has known is terrific.

"Among all the disillusionments which follow commencement day, the saddest is the discovery that the very alumni who have shouted the loudest regarding the value of outside activities are often the least inclined to take care of the men who have, as the saying is, made good on the campus. They share with other business men a coldly practical point of view. To an increasing degree they are beginning to make inquiries regarding the scholastic records of the men they hire. It often dawns on the 'Campus King' too late that the accomplishments which meant so much at school were but parlor tricks after all. Why learn to run an office by being business manager of the paper? He could have found out more by working in an office for six months.

"It may be excellent practice to boss compets and thereby handle men. But the new graduate discovers that no one asks him to handle men."

POSTMASTER DUNCAN ASKS CO-OPERATION

To the Students of the North Carolina State College:

Your postmaster wishes to thank you for the fine cooperation you have given him and his office during the past semester in the matter of your mail, and to assure you that this cooperation has been very helpful and is sincerely appreciated.

At this beginning of a new semester this matter is again brought to your attention, with a request that the same helpful cooperation which you have given during the past semester be continued through the new one now begun.

Briefly summarized, the cooperation asked of you is as follows:

1. Ascertain what will be the most satisfactory arrangement, to you and to your postoffice, for the delivery of your mail, whether through the dormitory delivery system, through a lock box at the State College Station, by city carrier, or otherwise. If you reside on the college campus, the dormitory delivery system is recommended for your use.

2. Inform your postoffice as early as possible of the manner in which you desire to receive your mail, and notify your postoffice promptly of any change in your address.

3. Inform your correspondents, as far as possible, of the correct and complete address which should appear on your mail to insure its delivery to you without delay, and keep them informed of any change in your address. Again thanking you for your helpfulness in the matter of delivery of your mail, and with all good wishes for the new year.

Sincerely yours,

W. B. DUNCAN, Postmaster.

COMMENTS from other COLLEGES

By R. M. L.

In an announcement of a new anonymous publication at the University of Missouri, The Missouri Student states that the new periodical states that in the last campus election several students spent more on their campaigns than was legal under the student government constitution.

Commercialization of campus politics, then, is not only permitted, but encouraged!

In the same mail that brought us the Student we received a copy of the Mercer Cluster. In it we saw an article relating to the election of freshman officers, stating that no politics were employed in the elections.

Just two ways of looking at the question. Take your choice.

We don't know how it works, but it says that much in Missouri Student: "A few months ago a man was taken into a hospital for an operation on his skull. His brain was removed, and through some accident it was not replaced. He escaped, and it is rumored that he is now conducting a column in some college paper."

Maybe this explains me.

There seems to be a tendency among some of the State boys to criticize co-eds. At Shurtleff College, in Illinois, the tendency seems to be in the opposite direction. Co-eds there recently declared openly that the boys did not dress neatly nor with good taste. The boys then adopted a slogan, "We Pay for Shows—That's Why We Wear These Clothes"—and proceeded to dress in overalls.

Some time ago the dormitory clubs were organized in an attempt to better living conditions in the dormitories. Many students thought nothing of this organization, and as a result never attended the meetings. As a direct result of a petition submitted by the dormitory clubs to A. S. Brower, Comptroller, the shades for the dormitories were obtained. More power to the dormitory clubs!

The sale of bay rum has been banned in Greensboro, N. C. The alcoholic content in beverages, to be legal, must, under the National Prohibition law, not exceed one-half of one per cent. Bay rum is not primarily a beverage, but since men will drink alcohol, and since bay rum contains a nice percentage of alcohol, it is used as a beverage. Prohibition is not only forcing a civil war (as per Ida M. Tarbell), but it seems that it is also forcing badness (if we are to assume that bay rum will, in any way, ally this dread condition).

In a meeting of the board of trustees plans for the remodeling of Primrose Hall were decided upon. This means that THE TECHNICIAN will undergo another annual moving. It seems that, like an orphan, we are passed from aunt to uncle—i.e., from building to building. This time we will be placed in the basement of the "Y" building. Oh, well!

We notice that men are reseeded a corner of the plot in front of Peele Hall, where students, in an attempt to save time and energy, have trampled down the grass. Maybe after Einstein has conclusively proved that a straight line is NOT the shortest distance between two points, the corners of the plots will enjoy the same opportunity to grow that the other parts do. Until then let William Hand Browne, Jr., also send up a prayer for these poor mistreated corners.

The nation-wide organization, W. C. T. U., a body of women who "toil not, neither do they spin," but who spend their time in trying to control the tastes of men and women, observed the tenth birthday of Prohibition on January 16 by the ringing of church bells for ten minutes. The bells were rung one minute for each year prohibition has been in effect. We wonder if, while this celebration was in effect, the members of the organization paused to think of the 1,360 men and women who have been killed in the enforcement of prohibition. We do not celebrate the declaration of war against Germany. Many of our men were killed in this war. We do, however, celebrate its close. We

REV. POTEAT ADDRESSES STATE STUDENT BODY ABOUT ETHICS OF JESUS

"Act toward people as love would tell you and resist not evil," said Rev. E. McNeill Poteat in the second lecture Monday night, on the Ethics of Jesus. "Stop your quarrels by following the example of Jesus by being peaceful and win your enemy to your side," he said.

In a proof that the method of Jesus is practical, Mr. Poteat gave the four possible attitudes toward abusive people: First, "lex talionis" or an eye for an eye; second, take revenge, or do as much damage as possible; third, call on others to avenge, as by turning to the law; and the fourth was craven flight. He showed how ineffectual these methods were in actual practice as compared to the success of Jesus' plan when put in practice.

"Society says that a man who will stand and offer no resistance to an insult has no self-respect," he continued, "but it should regard self-respect in terms of 'resist not evil.'"

"Jesus said that the man who is man enough to stop a quarrel at its source, by non-resistance, is worthy of the respect of his friends," concluded Mr. Poteat.

The subject for January 20 is "Love Your Enemies," while on January 27, "Divorce" will be taken up.

CUMMINGS' WIFE AIDS IN CAPTURE OF NEGRO

Mrs. John Cummings, wife of a State College professor, played the role of a detective Wednesday afternoon, January 8, when she led detectives to the Negro who had stolen diamonds valued at $700 from the home of Dr. S. E. Douglass.

It seems that the Negro went around from house to house gathering old clothes for sale. While at the house of Dr. Douglass he stole two diamond rings. After leaving the house the Negro, who gives his name as James Austin, was clever enough to change his clothes before visiting other houses.

When he went to the home of Mrs. Cummings, he gave the name of Mrs. Douglass for reference. Mrs. Cummings called Mrs. Douglass and discovered that the same Negro had taken the diamonds.

While Mrs. Douglass called the police department, Mrs. Cummings followed the Negro. The detectives overtook her and caught the Negro, who was then wearing one of the valuable rings. The other ring was found at the Negro's boarding house.

DRAMATIC ORGANIZATION WORKING ON PRODUCTION

Play Will Surpass All Amateur Attempts In Raleigh, Says Overton

Drama fans at North Carolina State College and in the city of Raleigh seemed very much consoled this week upon learning that "Red Masquers" are progressing toward the goal of staging the major production for the scholastic year.

"Although they have not given out any word as to what the main production will be, they have assured the inquisitive and interested public that they will produce a play this year that will far surpass any previously staged by amateurs in Raleigh or the surrounding vicinity," according to Elbert Overton. The play-reading committee have made a thorough investigation of the American drama of the twentieth century, and concluded that there are still being written some very fine plays; some being written at the present time that are judged as being plays which will go down in history as being dramatic masterpieces.

At the weekly meeting of "Red Masquers," held last Friday noon, the faculty adviser of dramatics delivered a speech on "The Theater of New York," bringing to light the fact that the long-existing sentiment that the American stage is on the decline is erroneous. He made the statement that apparently the theater of New York, which ten years ago was predicted to be on a decline, is progressing under present-day prosperity and in competition with the talking motion picture.

"Red Masquers" meet every Friday at noon in the Learner room of the "Y." They always welcome visitors to their meetings unless otherwise indicated.

BROWER BUYS 1016 SHADES FOR COLLEGE DORMITORIES

Dormitory Clubs Receive Much Credit of Long-Felt Need at State

As a direct result of a petition submitted by the dormitory clubs to A. S. Brower, Comptroller, 1,016 shades, at an approximate cost of $1,300, were installed in the dormitories. The installation was commenced directly after the Christmas holidays and was continued until its completion, January 17.

Shades in the dormitories have been a long-felt need here. Several organizations have started agitation for the installation of shades, but due to the lack of funds, they had not been installed prior to this time. With the dormitory clubs advocating better living conditions in the dormitories, this became a main issue. It seems that the petition was submitted at just a time when the shades could be obtained.

Much credit should be given the dormitory clubs for the successful manner in which they have worked. The fact that the shades were obtained seems to point to the fact that the administration is perfectly willing to comply with the wishes of the students whenever it is possible.

the past. "State College," said Dr. Brooks. "is growing more rapidly than any other State-supported institution. Indications point to the fact that this growth will be continued."

At this point the meeting was thrown open to the students. One student stated that the bad condition of the walkways and roads had always puzzled him, but that Dr. Brooks had explained the matter thoroughly.

President Belvin appointed two committees at the conclusion of the meeting. The first committee, comprised of "Daddy" Price and H. Shachtman, will report to the next meeting what they consider the most important thing that should be done for the betterment of State College during the coming year. The second committee, composed of J. B. Gurley, Felix Italiano, and W. N. Hicks, will investigate and make a report on the number of failures during the past term. In making this report the committee will list the main factors which caused the failures.

The club will again meet on February 7, in the 'Y' auditorium. Meetings held by the club are not closed meetings; any State College student may attend. It is necessary, however, to limit the membership in order for it to be an organization and for it to function properly.

Pipes save no midnight oil

IF PIPES made the man, anybody at all could rise in the world just by smoking a few pounds of Edgeworth. But pipes do not make the man.

Men make the pipe—most men do. Somewhat depends on the individual, more on the pipe, and the tobacco is most important of all. Things must be congenial.

Edgeworth is a congenial tobacco, cool, slow-burning, fully flavored. Edgeworth has poise, kindly good nature, real tobacco personality—Edgeworth welcomes new friends. Many a good man has been pledged to pipes by Edgeworth alone.

Like to meet Edgeworth? Just ask with the coupon—and the postman will bring your first few pipefuls of the genuine, three years seasoned if it's a day. Our treat, if you please.

Others have found Edgeworth and quit their discontent. So may it be with you!

EDGEWORTH

Edgeworth is a careful blend of good tobaccos—selected especially for pipe-smoking. Its quality and flavor never change. Buy it anywhere —"Ready Rubbed" or "Plug Slice"—its pocket package to pound humid-dor tin.

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va.
I'll try your Edgeworth. And I'll try it in a good pipe.

1855 - SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY - 1930

Measuring the progress of 75 years

From small shops to vast factories . . . from blacksmith's forge to six-ton electric furnaces . . . from Joule's theory of heat to superheat . . . from guesswork to science . . . from waste to economy—these hint the revolution in industry since 1855.

The growth of Crane Co. through these years is a significant reflection of the growth of all industry. From a one-man shop founded three-quarters of a century ago, it has grown to a world organization, meeting in its own factories the power and production problems that have faced other manufacturers. Supplying the piping materials that have released power, effected economies, and increased production everywhere, it has of necessity met and solved piping problems as they have arisen in all industries.

Now in its 75th anniversary year, it serves all industries with the materials developed, the knowledge and experience gained. To engineering students, its customers of the future, it offers a valuable reference book and research manual on metal reactions under high pressure and superheat: "Pioneering in Science." Write for it.

White Spades

The White Spades, one of the foremost interfraternity organizations on State College campus, sent out bids the past week to their prospective pledges. This order is composed of fraternity men exclusively, and only sophomores and juniors received bids. Their purpose is very much the same as the Saints, that is, to promote a better relation between the fraternities. Their annual dance to be given the latter part of this month in honor of their new pledges is already attracting much interest as it has always in the past been one of the outstanding social events of the year.

Junior Order of Saints

The Junior Order of Saints, the oldest existing honorary social fraternity at State College, duly initiated eight new men into the order on last Wednesday evening. The new initiates were D. W. Murray of the Kappa Alpha fraternity, John Geoghegan, Ed. Rankin, Harry Lee, and James Carter of Pi Kappa Alpha, N. J. Sherrill of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Hugh Weed of Theta Kappa Nu, and Zeb Plonk of Phi Kappa Tau. The old members of the fraternity are President Robert McCracken, Vice-President James Summey, Secretary-Treasurer Albe Baegert, and John McNair. This organization, composed only of fraternity men, was founded at State College in 1906 and has been very active since that time. The purpose of this order is to foster a better relation between the fraternities. Their annual dance, to be followed by a banquet, is to be given in February.

Phylakronian Club

The Phylakronian Club of Raleigh will entertain next Friday evening at an informal dance at the Woman's Club from 9 to 1. Most of the younger collegiate set are expected to attend the dance, as invitations are to be sent to many of the State, Duke, and Carolina students.

Fancy Dress Ball

Much interest is already being manifested in the Fancy Dress Ball to be given by the Cotillion Club the first part of next month. Their Fancy Dress Ball last year was a brilliant success, and plans are being made to make this one much better. The off-

Delta Sigma Phi Dance

The Delta Sigma Phi fraternity will entertain at an informal dance Friday night at their home on Chamberlain Street. Many members of other fraternities on the campus have been invited.

ALPHA SIGMA SIGMA FRAT DEFINES BUSINESS METHODS

Stewart Robertson Given Life Membership Without Fees Attached

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Alpha Sigma Sigma fraternity a definite method of bidding and initiating new members was adopted, according to a statement issued by John Anderson, chairman of the board.

Due to pressure exerted by E. H. Roberts, editor of the Agroneck, a system of voting was inaugurated. In a statement to THE TECHNICIAN Mr. Roberts summed up the situation as this: "I am editor of the Agroneck and have undivided control of things published in the 1930 book. A great many students think that I personally select the membership of the Alpha Sigma Sigma fraternity. This is an error I wish to publicly correct. I feel that the only method of doing this is to have the students vote upon the membership. This puts me and my position in the right light. I am not a member of Alpha Sigma Sigma and have no interest in the conduct of its affairs. The members of the lodge will be charged for space in the Agroneck, just as any other organization. If they do not pay they will not get their books at the end of school."

Chairman Anderson had a hectic session at the meeting last Tuesday evening. Many of the members appeared to be in an extreme state of intoxication and suggested the wildest measures. Mr. Anderson, however, handled the situation admirably.

The measure passed at the meeting include:

1. That all future memberships shall be determined by a vote of the students.
2. That all students now in the order will remain active members unless voted out by the chapter.
3. That the fee of $25 for space in the Agroneck shall be paid by the active members.
4. That all votes for membership shall be counted by E. H. Roberts, who is a disinterested non-member, and that his check shall be considered as accurate.
5. That all members nominated by the students shall be voted upon by the active chapter.
6. That Stewart Robertson be elected a member for life, without the payment of dues.
7. That a fine of $5.00 be assessed each member caught drunk. With the proceeds from this fine the chapter will stage an annual dance and banquet.

College Band On Air Beginning Thursday

On Thursday night, January 23, the State College band will start broadcasting over radio station WPTF. These programs will begin at 7:30 each Thursday night throughout the scholastic year. They will be composed mostly of music.

Last year this band broadcasted over the same station WPTF, and the programs were greatly enjoyed by their radio audiences. Many letters have been received by "Daddy" Price this year, requesting that he start his band broadcasting again. "Dad" says he is very much delighted with the publicity his boys have received from their programs and is thankful also to the staff of athletic directors for their cooperation.

While searching for a place from which to broadcast, Professor Miller and Coach Tebell offered him the main floor of the gymnasium. All athletic practice will be suspended when the broadcasting is going on, thus giving "Dad" an ideal place from which to send out his programs.

Drunk (lying on the sidewalk): "I'll climb this wall if it takes me all night."

Those of our so-called student body who fancy themselves in the roles of Lotharios, handsome ne'er-do-wells, and old-fashioned heroes of romance, will do well to study the helps and hints contained in Mr. John Held, Jr.'s series of Old Gold advertisements, now appearing in THE TECHNICIAN. The inimitable Held object lessons in successful courtship are among the funniest things we have ever seen in print. That they should appear as sales persuaders for Old Golds subtracts nothing whatever from their funniness.

We make no bones about the fact that any advertisement in our columns gives us something of a thrill. Business is business, even to a college newspaper; but when an advertiser gives us his money and a hearty laugh to boot, we feel like we are playing the game on the velvet.

Long may John Held continue to portray his melodramatic villains and touch-me-not maidens of long ago. And may his heroes and heroines never find a cough in a carload!
