Seeking the identity of five more students believed to have been involved in the hazing of three students the night of February 7, President E. C. Brooks, Dean of Students E. L. Cloyd, and the Student Council Wednesday were continuing their investigation after having expelled three students Tuesday.

The three who were dismissed from school—R. I. Smith, A. T. Campbell, and J. E. Lassiter—were all sophomores from Greensboro.

Only one of the three expelled, R. I. Smith, who checked out Sunday, was charged with being in the party of five which hazed his fellow townsman, Charles Kellenberger, Jr., a sophomore. The other two were in the gang which clipped the heads of R. C. Pleasant and L. A. Massengill, freshman roommates from Benson. Campbell, Dr. Brooks said, participated in the consoling work, but Lassiter did not enter the room, remaining outside on sentinel duty.

Mask Is Clue
Smith, who is alleged to have been the leader of the gang attacking Kellenberger, said that a black mask worn by one of the party, and which was supposedly burned, furnished clues leading to the discovery of the members.

Smith, talking to a TECHNICIAN staff member Sunday morning, stated that he was sorry of the occurrence and was willing to make atonement. He said that Kellenberger was not knocked unconscious, and that, furthermore, he yelled and screamed all—Continued on page 2.

Maurice Johnson Is Leading Candidate For Norris Cup

Voting on candidates for the Norris Athletic Trophy was held last Thursday, February 13, with Maurice W. Johnson leading the trio of candidates, J. M. Lepo second, and Mack Stout coming third. These men will be voted upon in the final election, which is held at the same time and place as the student government election.

The Norris Athletic Trophy committee, which includes Dr. A. J. Wilson, chairman of faculty committee on athletics; Dean E. L. Cloyd, R. R. Sermon, graduate manager of athletics, and J. P. Choplin, president of Student Council, has canvassed the election returns and has checked the scholarship of these men, finding that they have all met the necessary requirements in scholarship to be eligible to receive this cup.

The cup is given by the Norris Candy Company of Atlanta, Georgia, for the purpose of fostering scholarship, leadership, and athletics in the colleges and universities of America. The winner of this cup is thereby made the permanent owner of it. Last year Frank Goodwin, and the year before Jack McDowall, were winners of the cup.

Organize Textile Frats

An honorary textile fraternity was organized by several members of the Junior and Senior classes of the Textile School Wednesday evening. The purpose of this society is to promote better scholarship in the Textile School. Scholarly standing is to be the basis of electing new members. All students present at the initial meeting were admitted as charter members.

Eight Men Accept Bids From Pine Burr Honorary Society

G. G. Fornes, president of the Pine Burr Society, formally presented the initiates with their pine burrs, bearing a red and white ribbon, colors of the society, at the regular exercises Wednesday morning in Pullen Hall.

The eight initiates are: Artis Cook, L. D. Eagles, F. A. Jones, G. N. Owen, R. G. Vick, M. R. Vipond, J. P. Stovall, and J. S. Wilkins.

The Pine Burr Society is peculiar to State College, its charter forbidding its affiliation at any time in the future with a national organization, and is neither professional nor departmental in its membership. Student members must be registered for a degree, a resident of the college for two years, never having failed a course, average not less than 85, and be active in some college student work.

The organization was founded in 1922 by Col. J. W. Harrelson, professor of mathematics at the college and one of the chief members in its development. Since that time the Pine Burr Society has held to the standards set at its formation: good scholarship, meeting an average of 85 per cent or above on all class work, and participation in extra-curricular activities of the college for two years of residence at the institution, thus bringing those who aspire to its membership before the eyes of the whole student body of State College.

For the past few years the society has been backing all steps in college improvement that have been in need of support, as well as those that were upheld more strongly.

WORLD RELATIONS SOCIETY TO DISCUSS PROHIBITION

Members Talk About Naval Conference At Meeting Monday Night

The International Relations Club composed of men interested in national and international problems, met in their regular room in the library Monday night. The five-power naval conference was the subject of the round-table discussion which was held after the formal business was transacted. In the absence of President Joe E. Moore, R. M. Lightfoot, vice-president, presided.

At the last meeting various members were assigned different countries to give a report on in connection with the conference. E. M. Overton gave a short resumé on the United States' position in the conference. Our country, stated Overton, is not a member of the League of Nations, and is consequently not enjoying the respect of the other nations as it otherwise would. Then, too, we have not kept our agreement with regard to the naval ratio set some years ago. Japan's position in the conference was stated briefly yet clearly by W. H. Wallace and W. C. Yelverton. Japan, they said, wanted a new ratio of 10-10-7 with the United States and Great Britain. J. P. Bowen explained France's aims and hopes in the conference. He explained that France wished to have a larger navy to protect her colonies. England, stated C. P. Loomis, wished to reduce her navy, but not beyond a point at which her island position would be imperiled. Italy, explained R. E. Yates, wishes to have equal parity with France. Since Italy's population is increasing and France's decreasing, these two nations seem to be rivals in the conference, with the result that relations are becoming strained between the two.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, February 27, at the same place. At this meeting National Prohibition will be the subject of the round-table discussion.

Foster At Convention

J. M. Foster, professor in the Mechanical Engineering Department, is attending a meeting of the National Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, being held in St. Louis, Mo., from February 19 to 23.

Mr. Foster is taking an active part in the session on teaching aeronautics in colleges.

COLLEGE ENTERTAINERS GIVE SECOND PROGRAM

Joe Allen Features College Concert By Playing Nine Instruments

The State College Entertainers, composed of the Glee Club, Concert Orchestra, Jazz Orchestra, the Hill Billies, and Quartet, under the direction of "Daddy" Price, presented a pleasing arrangement of classical, popular, "old time" selections at a concert given in Pullen Hall Wednesday night.

Starting off the evening with "Western World" by the concert orchestra, "Daddy" Price and his entertainers soon swung into their stride and presented one of the best programs ever rendered by the group. The glee club then rendered "Soldiers' Chorus" with such pleasing effect that they were encored time after time.

Lester Lowe, baritone soloist, maintained the reputation which he made earlier in the year. His rendition of "Roses of Picardy" left nothing to be desired. Applause beckoned him back on the stage, where he encored with a selection popularly known as the "Nursery Rime Song." The quartet did its share toward making the concert a success by rendering several pleasing selections. The Hill Billies added something different in the way of music by playing and singing once-popular songs.

Joe Allen held the spotlight of the whole concert, playing nine instruments like a veteran. He surprised as well as entertained the audience. His saxophone solo was probably the high point of the concert.

Measurements Taken For Junior Class Rings

For the first time in the history of the college, the senior rings are being purchased by the juniors in the latter part of their third year. Walter J. Burke, representing Charles H. Elliott Co., was on the campus all day Thursday taking measurements and orders for the rings from the juniors. Over 150 students have placed their orders for these tokens of seniority.

The rings will be presented to the juniors at the Junior-Senior Dances to be held May 3.

Engineers' Fair Announce Awards For March Meet

The Engineers' Fair will be held Friday, March 28, between the hours of 2-5 p. m. and 7-10 p. m. The exhibits are to be open during the evening to give the people of Raleigh who cannot come out in the afternoon a chance to see what the engineering students are really doing in their various departments.

This year an exhibit is being put on by the Aero Club, students in mechanical engineering who are taking the aeronautical option and students who are interested in aeronautical work.

Prizes are to be given to students having the best individual exhibits. Any student in the engineering school may compete for these prizes. These prizes are well worth working for, and it is hoped that all engineering students will take a part in preparing for their departmental exhibits, and will also compete for the individual prizes.

The individual prizes are: first, $15; second, $10; third, $7.50; fourth, $5.

The following firms have donated prizes: Boone-Irby Drug Co., Carolina Power & Light Co., College Court Pharmacy, Students Supply Store, Neiman's Jewelry Store, Huneycutt's London Shop, The Vogue, Siddell's Studio.

A. J. Elliott To Be Assisted In Lectures By O. R. Magill

ELLIOTT PROMINENT AT NORTHWESTERN

Central Theme of Speaker Will
Be the Development of Christian Personality—Talks Will Be Based Upon Twenty Years of Experience With American Undergraduates—Meetings To Be Held In Pullen Hall, Beginning
Monday At 6:30—Frosh
To Hear Speaker Wednesday.

A. J. Elliott, associate national secretary of the Student Division of the Y. M. C. A., will conduct a series of meetings at State College, beginning Sunday, February 23, and continuing through Thursday, February 27. He will be assisted by O. R. Magill, executive secretary of the student Y. M. C. A.

"Dad" Elliott has as the central theme and aim of his messages the development of Christian personality, basing his talks on the background of over twenty years of intimate dealings with American undergraduates. The range of his talks takes in every student on the campus of an American college.

Messages with power are "Dad's" specialty. He is broad-minded, red-blooded, and fearless. His messages reflect these characteristics, and he hits hard, clean, and straight from the shoulder. He speaks with a sincerity and earnestness that grips and holds attention from start to finish. The number of return engagements that he receives annually evidences his popularity as a speaker who has something to say and who knows how to say it.

Mr. Elliott left an enviable record behind him when he left college in his work that was to continue with college men. He was all-western end on the varsity football team, captain of the track team, member of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity. He is a graduate of Northwestern University.

"State College has the best all-round group of students that I have seen anywhere," said A. G. Ridgley, personnel representative of the Firestone Rubber Co., who interviewed a number of students of the business school and a few students from the engineering school of this institution last Thursday, February 13th.

Over thirty men interviewed Mr. Ridgley, and of this number seven have been offered positions. This, according to Prof. Hayes A. Richardson, head of the placement bureau of the Business School, is quite a compliment to the college. The Firestone Company very seldom takes over three men from each school.

"Students entering the employment of the Firestone Company," according to Mr. Ridgley, "are first given a thirty-day training period at the plant in Akron, Ohio. After this preparatory period the prospective future executives are given two or three months experience in filling stations, then they return to the plant to begin regular service.

"The college man has a vast superiority over the non-college man," says Mr. Ridgley. He also stated that the Firestone Company is increasing its number of filling stations. "The opportunities with our company are as good as anywhere and the salary to begin with is $150 per month. Increase in salary and promotion comes to the deserving."

This representative was brought here under the auspices of Professor Richardson, who is head of the Business School. Mr. Richardson has already had the Bell Telephone representative here, and is now negotiating for more large companies to send personnel representatives.

The Engineers' Fair and the Textile Show will soon be given. The rest of the student body wish them the best of success.

The Glee Club program last night was a real advertisement for State College. The entertainment provided by Joe Allen was a hit.

Exams are fast approaching and soon the inevitable reaper will again take his toll. Are we ready to meet and defeat the would-be destroyer?

It does our hearts good yet we are also sad—that three Greensboro boys were shipped for hazing. The Greensboro newspapers lambasted State College through their editorial columns and front pages. "Charity begins at home." People that live in glass houses should, et cetera—or eat crow.

BOOST THE SCHOOL

Once every year the students of State College are given a big opportunity to show the world what is real team work. The Invitational High School Basketball Tournament is set for March 6, 7, 8.

"Upperclassmen, tell the freshmen just what this means," says J. F. Miller, director of physical education. "THE SUCCESS OF THE TOURNAMENT DEPENDS ON TWO THINGS: (1) Housing the visitors; (2) Making them feel like they are a part of the college by being friendly and by attending all games you can and rooting for your favorite teams. Shortly men will come around and list your rooms. The slogan should be 'A team in each fraternity, and a visitor in every room on the campus.'"

Each man be ready to do your part, and let's put it across without delay. REMEMBER THAT TEAM WORK COUNTS, AND THAT MEANS THAT EVERY MAN WILL LOOK FOR SOME WAY TO HELP MAKE IT A SUCCESS.

JUST REWARD

As a result of cutting hair and acting disorderly in a manner not becoming a college student, three men have been asked to leave this institution. These men attempted to mete out justice to their fellow students in their characteristically crude manner.

These men have left the college. As they left we wonder just what trend their thoughts took. They knew that the penalty for hair-cutting and any other severe form of hazing is punishable by expulsion. They knew that they had no right, moral or legal, to mete out what they thought to be justice to others. Yet they attempted to form themselves into a court of correction where prejudice reigned supreme, and to rule by might rather than right.

Every year a similar episode is repeated. Hair is cut—and the wheels of justice slowly grind out their fate—the fate of expulsion. Three men (or even thirty, for that matter) cannot expect for long to use their strong-arm methods on a suffering student body. We say suffering student body—and we mean suffering student body. The men who persist in cutting hair do not rightly belong to the student body. They in many cases fail in their work, and they attempt to tear down everything that the student body is fighting for and building up.

We shed no tear of regret as they go. They had no place in college. College is for the student who realizes that life is short and who makes the most of this short life by improving himself, not by destroying what the college is trying to construct.

JUNIOR CLASS SPIRIT

The junior class proved that it has a true, loyal spirit in support of State College at the last meeting of the class Wednesday, February 11. At this meeting the class unanimously approved a plan to contribute to the fund for completing the Memorial Tower.

The subject was brought up as a result of a recent Boosters' Club meeting, at which Professor Wooten, who has charge of the Memorial Tower fund, asked for all possible aid to support the project. The junior class is inaugurating a junior-senior prom for the entertainment of the seniors this year. Each member has been assessed $1.50 as class dues and out of which the money for the dance will come. This will more than cover the expenses for the dance, and they expect to have around $100 left in the treasury—provided every member pays his dues.

The Junior Class is to donate this sum to the college, upon the graduation of the class, to help complete our World War Memorial Tower. Incidental class expenses until their graduation come from the fund, but should only slightly affect the total sum to be given the college.

This is the right spirit, and it would be a good plan for the other classes to follow the lead given by the juniors.

Rambling Parlane

By ROY PARK

Women are changeable. Back in Biblical times Delilah helped a gang of Philistine hair-cutters shear the locks of Samson, her husband. Last week a local landlady turned detective and dug up enough evidence to ship three students for clipping the heads of two freshmen and a sophomore. As far as known the victims are absolute strangers to the woman.

We all talk too much. Ask Robert Jackson and Wallace Callaway who hopped a ride in Greensboro last week. The conversation drifted to the Kellenberger hazing, and when asked their opinion of the victim the collegians vociferously lambasted the Gate City lad. Imagine their embarrassment when their benefactor told them he was Kellenberger's father.

We hear that the profs. on "Ag." Hill are complaining that too many

For the first time in history, the last issue of THE TECHNICIAN "was thoroughly red."

The announcement that the State students are going to organize a Gangster's Club will make a hit and prevent the "HEADS" from getting "SORE."

"WORDS don't fail me," said Ada Spencer as she socked the freshman with the DICTIONARY.

If they don't believe you're from State College, show 'em your "black-jack scar."

A good motto, slogan, or what have you for South Dormitory, "We never sleep."

W. C. Huband, frosh who "grabbed the bottom rung" for Co-ed Ada Spencer, received no injury over the "weak-end."

Bull Barnhardt: "They'll be taxing brains next."

Jane Va. Hawkins Andrews: "I don't believe in taxation without representation."

Students here are taking journalism. They have little kick coming. Professor Robert Henry Ruffner, himself, made the "Midnight Wagon Ride" story. He called the cops, had the boys carried to police station, and then in full evening dress climbed into the wagon and steered the nag back to her stall. What else could he legitimately have done to make the story more interesting or sensational?

There will probably be requests for "Dad" Elliott and Mr. Magill to meet special groups of students during the five days they are here.

Three college graduates who are students at the Episcopal Theological Seminary at Alexandria, Virginia, will be visitors on the campus, and will take part in some of the programs that will be put on by A. J. Elliott.

FOUNTAIN PEN TRADED TO YOUTH FOR 'AUTO'

Throughout the ages it has been a "college custom" for students to trade, or, using the stock broker and economist's term, "to speculate."

At this institution last week there was negotiated a very unusual deal. A student decided he no longer needed his "collegiate fivver." Bearing this in mind, he pursued some medium whereby he could dispose of it and realize compensation for the cherished carriage.

The market for the machine was found at a local rendezvous. The student there found a man who was willing to trade him a fountain pen for his fivver.

The student now hands his written work in on time and the shopkeeper rides to and from his emporium.

When questioned, the student replied: "I now carry in my vest pocket the article which I received for one that has in the past carried all the boys on my hall."

The above pen was a combination Shaeffer Lifetime Pen and Pencil.

Smith was a student at Wake Forest last year. He expressed his intention of entering professional boxing.

Uses Milk Bottle

The alleged ring-leader said that Kellenberger attacked them with a milk bottle and that they retaliated with blows from the hand. He said that the victim was pushed from his bed on the top bunk and hazed on the floor. The lad kept his attackers off for a time with the milk bottle, which he wielded wildly from his vantage point on the bunk. Two members of the party were struck by the bottle.

President E. C. Brooks, who with Dean E. L. Cloyd and the Student Council investigated the affair, said that some of the five who entered Kellenberger's room were masked, and that they beat the Gate City lad with their fists and not with a black-jack, as he had testified.

Dr. Brooks' statement follows: "It has been established that R. I. Smith, a sophomore from Greensboro, was one of the leaders in the hazing party that hazed both the freshmen and Charles Kellenberger, Jr. It has also been established that A. T. Campbell and J. E. Lassiter, also sophomores from Greensboro, were associated with the party that hazed the two freshmen, but they did not participate in the hazing of young Kellenberger. "It appears that Lassiter did not enter the room of the two freshmen, but waited outside, and before the party left the room he returned to his own room.

No Blackjack Used
"It is true that masks were worn by some of the party, but it is not evident that a weapon such as a blackjack was used, or even in the possession of any member of the hazing party; but the injuries to young Kellenberger, it appears, resulted from fist blows.

"There were approximately eight in the party that hazed the freshmen; three dropped out, and only five went from the freshmen's room to young Kellenberger's room. There is conflicting testimony as to the names of the other members of the party that hazed Kellenberger. We have evidence, however, against a number that may soon lead to proof. Therefore, the investigation will be continued, and every possible effort will be employed to ascertain the names of the entire party.

State Law Is Expulsion

"According to the State law those 'aiding and abetting' in hazing must be expelled from college. Mr. Smith has already withdrawn, and the others will withdraw tomorrow. The parents of these young men were notified of the unfortunate occurrence and of the penalty."

V. P. I. JOURNEYS FOR HOT AFFRAY HERE TOMORROW

Both Varsity Tilts Are Scheduled To Start At 7:30 P.M.

STATE LOSES CLOSE ONE TO MARYLAND TUESDAY

Old Liners Given Two Gratis Shots and Win In Last Minutes of the Game

Big Five basketball play is centered in Raleigh tonight as State and the Wildcats from Davidson mix in one of the concluding games in the state race, with these two teams most prominent in regard to the outcome. The bill is slated to start at 7:30 p.m., with the freshmen of each institution doing the postlude instead of the opening number.

The military lads from V. P. I. will invade State tomorrow, with the return game being played here, and the same procedure that marks tonight's contest being on tap for the Terror-Warrenmen affair.

The Davidson game will mark the first meeting of the two clubs this season, and a hot contest should be exhibited, as both quints have practically the same strength. By comparative scores, the teams are apparently equal, as each has wins over V. M. I., V. P. I., and a loss to the strong Durham quint.

Should the Terrors take the contest from the Davidsonians and the Wildcats lose to Duke Saturday night, the State team will have her standing raised to second position as the season nears close. The verdict of tonight's game hangs in the balance.

"Soldiers" Ahead In Grid Contests

The end of the first week's play in the grid schedule finds the "Soldiers," under the captaincy of Butch Slaughter, leading by one game, but being pressed closely by Tebell's "Airmen."

The standing of the teams follows:

Team	W	L	Tied	Pct.
Soldiers	1	0	1	1.000
Airmen	1	1	0	.500
Sailors	0	0	1	.000
Marines	0	1	0	.000

but when Duke and Davidson play tomorrow a win should be encountered by the Devils.

Bob Warren, former State product, brings a fast bunch of cage artists here tomorrow night to produce action with the Staters. V. P. I. fell in defeat to Gus Tebell's men in the former's home game, but since that time military tact has been stressed on the soldier boys and a new attack will be presented.

The line-up of tonight's game is as follows:

State	Davidson
Haar	Forward Pritchett
Brown	Forward Johnson (C.)
Morgan	Forward Husk
Johnson	Center Goodson
Rose	Guard Proctor
	Guard Shepard (Army)

Last Monday night N. C. State was plenty hot in the first period with Maryland, but seemed to lose her heat during the last half, and the Old Liners wedged out a 21-to-19 victory from the Terrors.

With four and one-half minutes to play, Heagy, Maryland, tied the count; Ronkins placed the visitors one point ahead, and in the closing seconds Chalmers sewed up the winning apparel with another free toss. Morgan, Statesman, who shared honors with Captain Johnson for the Terrors, had the chance of the night as a gratis toss was awarded him, and failed to produce.

Had State made good half the baskets that were missed, or half the free tries, a win would have been chalked up, but the State forwards were badly off, and Radice, Maryland, had the reverse luck with the baskets, ringing frequently at critical moments as the said oval went tingling through.

Characterizing this game as probably the fastest and peppiest cage tilt ever to be played in the Frank Thompson gymnasium, the two teams battled on every floor space throughout the entire affair. State had the ball in her position most of the time, but inaccurate shooting played the sorrowful strains of defeat for Coach Tebell's lads.

The summary follows:

State	Maryland
Haar (5)	Evans (3)
Brown	Forward Chalmers (5)
Morgan (4)	Forward Berger (2)
Johnson (9)	Center Heagy (2)
Rose (1)	Guard Gaylor (2)
	Guard

Substitutes: For State, none; for Maryland, Radice (6), Ronkins (1). Referee: Shepard (Army).

DEVILS CAPTURE TITLE IN BIG FIVE CAGE RACE

Battle Between State and Davidson Tonight Will Affect Standing

Duke clinched the Big Five crown last week by their victory over the Tar Heels of Carolina, and the latter raised their standing by licking the Foresters of Wake.

Only two more games are scheduled for Big Five play, with State and Davidson running off one tonight and Davidson and Duke the other tomorrow.

The standing of the clubs to date is released:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Duke	7	0	1.000
Davidson	2	1	.666
Carolina	3	4	.428
State	2	3	.400
Wake Forest	0	6	.000

BUT the play calls for more talk. Here's something that will probably not take so well as the preceding: There is going to be the huge sum of one cent admission for each game, or rather for each time in the gym. It was announced by Director Miller that "season tickets" could be purchased for fifty cents. By buying the said "season ticket" one saves the nominal sum of one cent, as there are going to be 51 games played.

THE above not only proves that State produces teams that class as these two, but also have them conduct themselves in a gentlemanly manner when encountering them in a contest.

THE Wildcats are in town. Tonight the State cagers and the Davidsonian quint meet in their initial game of this year. The cream of basketball teams left in the state race will perform in the Frank Thompson Gym this evening, and when the hot contest has been concluded one of the clubs is going to the bottom just as skim-milk.

"CHUCK" Taylor, all-American basketball player of the New York Celtics Club, was a visitor at State recently. The Celtics have now disbanded and "Chuck," being in the athletic business, dropped in to see Coach Tebell. "Chuck and I swap ideas and plays," the State mentor told the writer.

SPEAKING of our said coach, Tebell was demonstrating a new way to shoot fouts. Not looking at the basket, but rather at the floor, Gus was seen to place the oval through the basket time after time. In future games for the Terrors, maybe the students will look upon a new way to shoot the "one pointers."

THE basketball tournament sponsored by Johnnie Miller and his department of Physical Education is near at hand. Week after next will see some 600 high school hardwood floor men here at State. Miller has issued the request for the State students to help house the visitors. "It's only for one or two nights, and I certainly hope the men comply with my wishes," Miller said. It is a duty of every student of this college to help with the keeping of these boys, not only because State is sponsoring the affair, but as a duty to a fellow in need of a bed. Let's all try and comply with this request, please.

THIS tournament will see plenty of good cage teams in action. Save the old pennies and dimes, fellows; maybe one will see a winning team and like to place something on that particular quint.

AND Let's all turn out for the games and root for some team—much interest will be had and the men playing will put up a much better game if there is some support behind them. This year's tourney is rated as the best in many seasons, and we, as students, want to do our bit by coming to the games and giving our aid in cheering.

A WHIRLPOOL of excitement has been stirred up by the rivalry of Duke and Carolina. In recent sport games everything has had to be done except call out the State militia. Some scribes even favor the canceling of athletic relations between the two schools; this seems a bit harsh, but something should be done to quiet matters down.

Atlanta Tournament Begins February 28; 16 Teams Will Enter

By GUS TEBELL
With just a week to go, all eyes of the conference are being turned toward Atlanta for the tournament, which starts one o'clock, Friday, the 28th.

The conference basketball committee meets Sunday to determine the pairings and conditions of play. The 16 teams with the best records for the season will be Atlanta bound by Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

Picking a winner from where we sit is a very difficult task. The tournament play is very strenuous. The nerve and strain on the team is great. The pace set in each game is extremely fast because the team that loses is sent home, and it's a battle to see who will survive.

Alabama and Washington and Lee will enter with the best pre-season records. W. and L. has played the harder schedule of the two, but is not a good tournament team. Alabama is big and fast. They should last longer. Duke and Kentucky are next in line. Duke is an excellent tournament team, while Kentucky will only be good for two games. Should these teams meet early, I would pick Kentucky.

Four other teams with good chances to play the "dark horse" rôle are Tennessee, Georgia, Maryland, and N. C. State. State's team lacks height and reserve material to be a good bet, but you never can tell. It's going to be a great tournament. Every game will be close and hard-fought. The best team will win.

Larry Haar Continues To Top State Scoring; Johnson Comes Second

The individual scoring record of the terrors follows:

STATE WRESTLERS DOWN DEVILS BY ONE POINT

Concluding Match of the Season Won Last Wednesday Night

Coach "Buck" Drennan and his husky grapplers journeyed to Durham last Wednesday night to participate in the concluding match of the season and departed with their first win at the expense of the Dukemen, 14½ to 13½.

George Eason, State's contender for southern honors, was unable to wrestle, due to a boil on his neck.

With the score 13 to 12 in favor of State and the last match coming up, Blalock held the big Duke man to a draw, thus splitting the points and giving the Drennammen a one-tally margin.

The freshmen lost to the Devil frosh by a score of 15 to 16. Rose, Sprinkle, Laney, and Stroupe won for the State team.

Following is a summary of varsity meet:

115-lb. class: Gamble (Duke) over Karig (State). Time advantage 9:43 minutes.

125 class: Stoval (State) over Gentry (Duke). Fall in 4:39 minutes.

135 class: Starnes (Duke) over Perry (State). Time advantage 9:30 minutes.

145 class: Smithwick (State) over Wall (Duke). Fall in 7:17 minutes.

155 class: Jones (State) over Warren (Duke). Time advantage 3:55 minutes.

165 class: Perry (Duke) over Chopin (State). Time advantage 6:30 minutes.

175 class: Atkins (Duke) over Crowson (State). Time advantage 7:53 minutes.

Unlimited class: Blalock and Hughes fought to draw.

ALEC Redfeare, the lad who captained and coached the Staters in cross-country, is gradually improving from his recent accident.

The future possibility of talking directly with almost anyone in the world who has access to a telephone is enough to stimulate any man's thinking—not only from an engineering standpoint, but because of its significance to American industry.

Fancy Dress Ball

One of the season's most elaborate and colorful entertainments for the younger and collegiate society was that of last Friday evening, when the Cotillion Club of State College entertained at its third annual fancy dress ball from 9 to 12 in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium.

Costumes ranged from the beautiful to the bizarre and presented an elaborate panorama of color. During the evening a grand march was led by Jimmy Summey, president, and John Geoghegan, impersonating "Miss Cleo." All guests participating in the march and costumes were adjudged by Mrs. E. S. Freeman, Mrs. J. E. Wear, Mrs. R. S. Busbee, Col. and Mrs. C. C. Early. Prizes were awarded to John Herndon and Margaret Hughes for the most original costumes. O'Neil Is Dreamer Says State Co-Ed To Dramatic Club

"Eugene O'Neil is a solitary dreamer," said Agnes Moore, member of Red Masquers, dramatic club, in delivering an address to that organization last Friday noon, at their weekly meeting in the Leazar Room of the "Y." Her subject was "The Life and Work of Eugene O'Neil."

Miss Moore brought out a number of facts regarding the life of O'Neil, America's greatest dramatist. She said he was born in 1888 in Times Square, the center of New York's theatrical world, of Celtic parentage, with an actor father and musician mother. Thus he was reared among stage people, traveling with his father's company until he was eight. He was sent to various boarding schools and entered Princeton with the class of 1910. He was suspended from this institution of higher learning at the close of his freshman year for a boyish prank; but was later given an opportunity by the authorities to re-enter. This he declined and became a rover of the world, going to sea and visiting many of the nations. His educational career was ended by a short stay at Harvard, where he studied Professor Baker's famous English course and was a high honor student, leading his class.

"O'Neil's work," said Miss Moore, "was first recognized by the public in 1916, when during the winter of that year he gave some of his plays in Greenwich Village, New York, in an old barn. At this place," she said, "people who make it a profession to know what is going on in New York discovered that O'Neil's plays were very good and began to talk about them, and from this point grew his popularity as a dramatist."

Miss Florence Briggs of Raleigh. A most delightful banquet was held following the dance at the Peacock Alley Tea Room. The members of the order and hosts of the evening were: President Robert McCracken, S. P. E.; Vice-President Jimmy Summey, Phi Kappa Tau; Secretary-Treasurer Allie P. Baggett, Pi Kappa Alpha; Harry Carter, Harry Lee, John Geoghegan, Ed. Rankin, of Phi Kappa Alpha; N. J. Sherrill, S. P. E.; Hugh Weed, Theta Kappa Nu; Zeb Plonk, Phi Kappa Tau; John McNair, Sigma Nu; Duane Murray, Kappa Alpha.

It was brought out by the speaker that O'Neil has written a great number of very good plays. Two times he has won the Pulitzer prize for drama. Many of his plays are centered around the life of sailors and have to do with sea-faring men. One particular play which the speaker brought out is "The Strange Interlude," which is the longest play ever staged and which broke the ice to a new era of drama. This play was censored in Boston, but elsewhere, including Broadway, has gone exceptionally well.

When Miss Moore had finished, Professor Paget, faculty advisor of Dramatics, continued the discussion of the same subject, going more into detail about some of the most important of O'Neil's plays and urging the students to read all of the noted playwright's work possible.

In the series of discussions being conducted by Red Masquers on pertinent subjects to drama, they find that they are unearthing some very interesting facts. Today President John H. White will speak to the dramatic organization on a subject of vital importance. The club welcomes visitors to the Leazar Room in the "Y" today to hear John White's lecture.
