

National Freshman Honor Society Will Have Organization At State

Phi Eta Sigma Chapter To Be One of Three In South

15 STATE STUDENTS CHARTER MEMBERS

During Latter Part of Year a National Installation Officer Will Install Chapters at Georgia Tech, University of Florida and N. C. State College—Honorary Fraternity Was Founded At University of Illinois, 1923.

As a result of a petition submitted by Dean Edward L. Cloyd last May, State College will have one of the three chapters of Phi Eta Sigma in the South. Since this petition was sent in while this year's sophomores were freshmen, the charter members will be chosen from the second-year men. The scholastic requirements, although high, are by no means prohibitive, requiring that each member-elect shall have grades of half A's and half B's for the first term of the freshman year. In order to make the society smaller than it would have been, the grades for the entire year of last year's freshman class were counted in arriving at the eligibility of the students. In the future, however, only the first term's grades will be used as a basis.

Later in the year a national installation officer will install the three chapters in the South—one here, one at Georgia Tech, and one at the University of Florida.

Phi Eta Sigma, a freshman honor society, was founded at the University of Illinois March 22, 1923, by Dean Thomas Arle Clark, one of the most outstanding deans of students in the country. The fraternity was first organized as a local, but having proved to be so popular, it soon became national at the installation of the University of Missouri chapter in 1926. Since that time the following chapters have been installed: University of Michigan, 1926; University of Oklahoma, 1927; University of Wisconsin, 1927; Miami University, 1927.

Baltimore Sun Hails Ray Sermon As Jack-of-All-Trades In Athletics

N. C. State Graduate Manager Praised for Many Professional Successes

Dr. R. R. Sermon, graduate manager of athletics at State College, has been hailed as the jack-of-all-trades in athletics at the college by the Baltimore Sun.

Today Sermon, who is called both Doc and Quack by undergraduates and friends, the latter name a most disgusting one to his better half, is termed by more than a few so-called experts of the campus the power behind the throne. His current duties include football backfield coach, freshman basketball tutor, varsity track and cross-country, and trainer in all branches.

Cleans Frosh Cap

Freshman Caps have fallen into the category of the cleanable articles collected by the college laundry, according to W. C. Hubbard, of Winston-Salem, who ascertained the fact that Freshman W. E. Marchant carried his freshman headgear to the cleaners for a complete renovation last week.

Mulvaney Concert Pleases Audience At State College

The Mulvaney Concert Company of Chicago, headed by George Mulvaney and composed of four other distinguished stage performers, namely, Don Ostander and Miss Winifred Davis, Esther Mulvaney, and Bernice Cachler, presented a delightful program of musical and dramatic numbers before a crowded audience in Pullen Hall Tuesday evening.

The program was opened with four sacred musical numbers, including "The Lost Chord" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The sacred songs comprised the first division of the program. The program was divided into three parts.

"Collegiate," heading the collegiate part of the program, seemed to have become a hit with the audience from the applause given when it was completed. In the collegiate part of the program the most outstanding numbers were: "Old Heidelberg," "On, Wisconsin," "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," and the "Minnesota Fight Song." These numbers went over great with the performers.

Prof. Hugh T. Lefler Goes To Pennsylvania For Advanced Degree

Hugh T. Lefler, head of the History Department at State, will leave the college March 13, to go to the University of Pennsylvania to complete the requirements for his Doctor's degree, which he will receive in June.

Professor Lefler has recently been selected as one of the editors of the "Dictionary of American Biographies." He is writing three accounts, one of which is the biography of "Pig Iron Kelly."

The reader receives the added benefit of the author's many years of classroom instruction and actual newspaper work."

State Co-Eds To Make Plans For Separate Governing Body

Decision Made At Joint Meeting With Student Council

OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED IN SPRING FOR NEXT YEAR

Representatives Say That One Governing Body Is Not Adequate for Both Sexes and Co-Eds Should Have Their Own Student Government, Which Will Run Parallel With the Male Organization At College.

The North Carolina State College Pioneer Club, which is composed of 72 co-eds, have formulated plans for a separate Student Government which will serve as a law-making and enforcing body for the girl students at the college, according to Geraldine Person, president of the co-ed organization, who has discussed the matter with officials of the present governing body of the students.

Decision was made at a joint meeting with the present representatives on the student council and members of the co-ed organization to have a committee from the Pioneer Club draw up a constitution and submit it to the present student government for their sanction. Representatives from both organizations said that one governing body was not adequate for both sexes, and the co-eds should have their own student government, which would run parallel with the male organization.

Officers for the Co-ed Student Government will be elected in the spring and will be in readiness for serious work next year, says the president of the Pioneer Club.

Real Estate Men Hear Professor H. Tucker

Harry Tucker, professor of Highway Engineering at State College, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Real Estate Board of Raleigh held at the Giersch Hotel on Wednesday, February 26.

Professor Tucker gave some observations on methods of raising revenue from real property, and suggested that new sources of revenue would have to be located and utilized for supporting local roads and schools. Some of the suggestions which he made were: The taking over of all interstate roads by the National Government; incorporating the heavily traveled county roads into the State Highway system; the operation of the public schools by the State, and the levying of sales tax on certain commodities.

EGYPTIAN STUDENT DEPLORES STATE'S UNGODLY INFLUENCES

Hagopian Says More Cursing Among Those of Christian Faith Than In Egypt

Hagop Hagopian, of Cairo, Egypt, deplored the evil influences encountered by a student at State College in a talk to the Freshman Friendship Council last Sunday.

"More cursing prevails on this so-called Christian campus and by the members of the Christian faith than in the Mohammedan religion, which permits profanity in that faith," said the Egyptian student.

"God is utterly forgotten on State College campus. We find dishonesty, drinking, hazing, and sex immorality, and the men who indulge in these evils must pay the price."

Hagopian says "Seventy-five per cent of the State College students are selfish, and they put selfishness first, forgetting God."

E. S. King, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., in speaking about Hagopian's talk, says: "The fact that a foreigner can come to our campus, meet Christian students, and come in contact with Christianity and see the evil influences on this campus, is rather disconcerting. It is not very encouraging for a foreigner to become a Christian after seeing and getting a taste of Christianity on State College campus."

Members of the council say that Hagopian's talk was a challenge to the Christians to live their religion and to raise the standard of living on State College campus.

Eleven State College Students Offer Blood To Save Two Lives

SELECTED BEST CORPORAL

F. W. GORHAM

Gorham Is Elected By Officers Board As Best Corporal

F. W. Gorham, who is registered in the Mechanical Engineering School, has been selected by a board of officers as the outstanding corporal in the R.O.T.C. Regiment, according to a recent announcement from the military department.

The board considered the qualifications of nine candidates, who represented the nine companies of the regiment as the result of company competitions. C. N. Gross, of the Chemical Engineering School, ranked second, and H. A. Ricks, of the Mechanical Engineering School, was awarded third place.

Gorham is on the Student Council, won his letter last fall in varsity football, and is on the track squad. He is a member of Kappa Sigma. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gorham, 134 Woodburn Road. He graduated in 1928 from the Hugh Morson High School, where he was captain of the track team and center on the football team.

Ricks, who won third place, was declared to have the best drilled squad in the Regiment.

Meredith Students In Annual Exhibit Of Textile School

The annual Textile Show given by the Textile School of State College will be held this year on Wednesday and Thursday, April 9 and 10.

A feature of the 1930 exposition will be the fashion show, in which girls from Meredith, Peace, and N. C. C. W. will take part, wearing dresses made from cloths designed and woven by State students.

The complete program for the show has not yet been arranged. It has been decided, however, that Wednesday and Thursday mornings will be taken up with lectures, while Thursday afternoon will be given over to the exhibition and the show proper. The event will be brought to a close Thursday night by either a banquet or a dance. Full details will be announced later.

The responsibility for the success of the show rests upon the committee, made up of the following men: J. M. Coughman, Mullins, S. C., general superintendent; D. S. Rhyne, Tryon, assistant superintendent; D. M. Liles, Wilson's Mills, overseer of yarn manufacture; W. R. Rogers, Oakboro, assistant; L. P. London, Baltimore, Md., overseer of designing; C. S. Stroupe and Bass Give Blood for Old Man and Youth

FIVE STUDENTS QUALIFY FOR BLOOD TRANSFUSION

About 400 Centimeters of Blood of Stroupe Drawn and Injected Into Veins of Aged Man To Save Life—Bass Gave Same Amount of Blood To Save Young Boy Who Was Suffering From Spleen Trouble.

In answer to a plea for blood needed by a 68-year-old man, eleven State College students rushed to Rex Hospital Tuesday afternoon and offered life-giving fluid in hope of giving the tubercular patient a new lease on life. A ten-year-old boy, Jack Forsyth, suffering from spleen trouble, also was the recipient of nearly a quart of collegiate blood.

A flip of a coin decided that "Milo" Stroupe, star Wolflet, and Edison Flato Bass, Goldsboro senior, each should sacrifice nearly a quart of blood for the transfusion.

Of the nine men tested, the blood of three—Charlie Cobb, "Milo" Stroupe, and J. B. Gray—was suitable for transfusion to the patient. The three men tossed a coin and it was ruled that "Milo" furnish the blood.

About 400 centimeters of the athlete's rich blood was drawn and injected into the veins of the aged man. The blood so nearly matched that soon after the transfusion was completed the pallid cheeks of the patient grew more rosy, his pulse beat a little stronger, and late Wednesday night hospital attendes said he was resting "all right."

After the transfusion the nine students departed. Edison P. Bass and Bill Pippin, who rode the trolley car to the hospital and were thereby too late to undergo the first test, lingered. Soon a call was issued for blood necessary to the life of little Jack Forsyth. Three of Forsyth's kinsmen were tested, but the blood did not meet requirements.

Chapter Will Be First Student Branch In America If Organized Here

PINKSTON NOW PRESIDENT CONSTRUCTION ENGINEERS

Professor W. G. Gelle is sponsor of Local Organization, and is sponsoring movement to get Student Branch of the Associated General Engineers.

The Associated General Contractors of America have been petitioned by twenty-eight North Carolina State College students in construction engineering for a chapter of the organization, which, if granted, will be the first student branch in America. Members' News-Letter, monthly publication of the contractor association, in commenting on the petition of the State College students, says: "The course in construction offered by North Carolina State College has attracted considerable attention among contractors, it being one of the few courses of collegiate standing available to men who wish to enter the contracting business. The application of the students in the department of construction engineering is looked upon favorably by the Associated General Contractors' officers and staff, but as no definite provision has ever been made to accept student chapters, no final decision on the application can be made until it is presented to the proper executive authorities of the association. The matter will be taken up at the spring executive board meeting to determine on its admission."

STATE FORENSIC TEAM WINS SEVENTH VICTORY

University of South Carolina
Debaters Defeated In Local Meet

Last Monday evening the affirmative debate team added another victory to their list, making their record seven won and one lost.

At this time they defeated the negative team of the University of South Carolina, debating the official Pi Kappa Delta question, "Resolved, That all nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, excepting such forces as are needed for police protection."

The South Carolina speakers were Nigel League, sophomore in Journalism, and Leroy Want, junior in the Pre-Law School. State was represented by the two local "verbal terrors," M. B. Amos and E. W. Buchanan.

The State Forensic teams have established a record that favorably compares with the record of any national college debate team. They have won over seven colleges and universities and have lost to only one. Among those whom they have defeated are Albion College, Wake Forest College, Oatawha College, University of Alabama, George Washington University, Virginia State Teachers College at Harrisonburg, Va., and the University of South Carolina. This unusual record justifies the State College team for contenders in the National Debating Championship.

On Thursday evening, March 13, they will meet the negative team of William and Mary College in a "Verbal Battle" in Pullen Hall.

The decision was rendered two to one in favor of the affirmative. The judges for the debate were: R. L. McMillan, J. E. Owens, and Carroll Weathers, of Raleigh.

Clark Addresses Freshman Class Wednesday Noon

Prof. J. D. Clark, head of the English department, spoke at the regular Freshman Assembly, Wednesday noon, on the subject: "Worthwhile Satisfaction of Life."

The speaker divided his talk into two parts. The subject of the first part was "Intellectual Fibre" and the second part was on "Moral Fibre."

In discussing the first subject, Professor Clark stated that one who knows his subject on which he is talking has the respect of his fellowmen. No one can tolerate a bluffer. The person with sincerity in his efforts to do his work is the person who brings honor to his school.

"Autocracy," Professor Clark believes, "is due to the lack of thinking with the great mass of people. They had rather let some one else do their thinking for them."

In the second part of his talk Professor Clark discussed "Moral Fibre." "Moral Fibre is moral backbone," stated Professor Clark. "In the college when the boys go on a rampage, the boys not only bring disgrace on themselves but on the school. A college gets its rating by the work of its professors and its students. After the completing of college work, the world is watching the graduate's work and his work reflects on the college where he received his training."

"Some time back while a manhole on Hillsboro street was being repaired, the red lanterns were stolen and a local newspaper carried the story that the lanterns were stolen by State College boys. Whether or not the story is true or not it brought an unpleasant reflection on State College."

listed between North Carolina State College and the Carolina Branch of the A. G. C. The Associated General Contractors have provided an annual scholarship for the students of the construction school, which consists of an award of one year of practical employment to the winning senior upon his graduation. The first scholarship was awarded last spring and was won by M. W. Brown of Statesville, who was graduated by N. C. State College in June, 1929.

The petitioning group of engineers have temporarily adopted the name, Construction Engineering Society. This organization is a result of work by W. G. Gelle, associate professor of construction engineering at State College, and who is serving as faculty advisor to the society.

Present officers of the Construction Engineering Society are: President, H. D. Pinkston, of Salisbury; vice-president, P. K. Cowling, of Charlotte; secretary, G. G. Eason, of Maclefield; and treasurer, J. E. Bethea, of Raleigh.

TECHNICIAN RELEASES ALL-STATE CAGE TEAM

State Places Two Men and Duke
Three On the First String

The Technician releases today what is believed to be the first all-state basketball team announced, and one that is as well balanced and strong as possible.

Two N. C. State men and three Dukesters compose the first pick. At the pivot position Joe Croson, all-southern candidate, gets the initial call without hesitation. Croson's work has been a leading asset to the Devils in their games, and around which all their plays centered. Forwards are Larry Haar of State and Councillor, Duke. The former was high scorer in the state and led the Southern Conference at times with his casaba ringing. Chalkey Councillor was given the rating over Johnson, Davidson, and is considered one of the best basketesters in the South.

Captain Swede Johnson of the Staters and Bill Werber, Duke, are easily chosen as guards. Both men were all-southern last year and have showed their wares in consistent playing and tossing this season.

On the second team two more of Tebell's cagers are found, with Duke, Carolina, and Davidson splitting the other three ranks. Bill Morgan and Bud Rose at center and guard, respectively; Johnson of Davidson at one forward and "Able" Neiman, Carolina, at the other. The Duke captain, Boley Farley, rounds out the team at guard.

All these men have been seen in action against the other five teams in the state and are awarded accordingly to the play exhibited in these tilts.

First Team	Second Team
Haar, State	Johnson, Davidson
Councillor, Duke	Forward
Croson, Duke	Forward
Johnson, State	Morgan, State
Werber, Duke	Center

National Freshman Honor Society Will Have Organization

1928, and Ohio State University, 1928.

The purpose of this society is to impress upon freshmen during the first term of their college career the importance of good scholarship. Dean Arkle, the founder, conceived the idea of the society after arriving at the conclusion that a student's success or failure is largely determined during the first term of his college career.

Glen Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, made the following statement relative to the society:

"There are more possibilities in Phi Eta Sigma than in any other collegiate honor society."

President David Kinley of the University of Illinois, where the first chapter was founded, says the following about the society:

"It seems to me that such a group, men of demonstrated ability, with three-fourths of their college careers before them, can accomplish great things for the University. They may be able, for example, to do more than almost any other single agency to bring about a recognition of the value of high scholarship."

The men selected as charter members of the fraternity are: C. E. Brake, H. Y. Brock, Jr., D. W. Finch, Neno G. Gross, D. L. Hogsett, H. E. Karig, W. G. Kitchner, C. C. Lane, W. E. Lynch, T. E. Moss, Miss Maud K. Schaub, S. B. Satterwhite, J. W. Sutherland, Miss Mary Joe Swicegood, and J. C. Whitehurst.

formers donned in collegiate apparel and moving on springy feet.

Between acts, while scenery and costumes were being changed, Miss Bernice Cahler, the pianist of the company and a polished one, rendered several classical pieces. Just before the last act she was accompanied by Miss Winifree Davis, who gave several readings, one being "Lisa Jane."

Concluding the program sketches from four popular musical comedies were given. The musical comedies represented were: "The Chocolate Soldier," "My Maryland," "The Vagabond King," and the "Desert Song." From the latter they sang the popular "Riff Song," "The Desert Song," and gave the "It" number, which brought much laughter and applause.

The entertainment Wednesday evening was the last of the annual series of lycraam entertainments and was proclaimed by many the best of the season. It was sponsored by the Bureau of Fine Arts of Asheville. Previous to the performance here the company played at a Virginia institution and left here for the Presbyterian College at Greenville, S. C. The two students then stepped forward. A test showed that the blood of both was suitable for transfusion. Again the loss of a coin determined who would be the donor of the blood. "Eddie" matched Bill, and Bill stepped out of the picture.

About 400 centimeters of blood was withdrawn by the indirect method and pumped into the arterial system of the child. The transfusion was successful, and late Wednesday hospital authorities said the lad was "resting quietly" and expressed hope for his recovery.

Blood was submitted for test and found not suitable by W. C. Brake, Johnnie Johnston, John Litchfield, Joe E. Moore, associate secretary of the Y. M. - C. A., Ray Woodall, and Fred W. Plonk.

ment at State College. Of the hundreds of cases of sprains, torn muscles, and broken bones he has had but one to turn out as a permanent injury. The latter, however, reached the healing stage after a serious football wound that the patient was able to take his turn on the baseball mound.

"Another particular case was that of Austin (Chink) Outen, 200-pound fullback and leading baseball slugger. On a rainy afternoon Outen broke his leg carrying the ball on Riddick Field against the Clemson College Tigers, early in the 1927 season when the Wolfpack was the only Southern Conference member to finish the year unbeaten and undefeated within the circle.

"It was not generally known then that Outen was later to join the New York Yankees. Sermon, however, got the big boy's leg whipped back into shape in time for a banner baseball exhibition the following spring. And Miller Huggins never knew how serious a wound his promising rookie suffered."

'BAMA WHIPS DUKE TO TAKE TOURNAMENT HELD IN ATLANTA

State Loses In the First Round To Sewanee Tigers

BLUE DEVILS LOSE, 31-24, IN FINAL PLAY TO TIDE

1929 Champions Fall Twenty-five To Nineteen In Initial Tournament Game

The Crimson Tide cagers from Alabama finished the basketball season in Atlanta last Tuesday night undefeated as the climax of cage play was ended with the Tuscaloosians licking the Duke Devils 31 to 24.

The Devils and the Alabamians were rated as the two most promising teams for the finals, and their appearance was not unexpected. Both clubs had gone through the season with very high standings, with the Tide entering on a perfect record.

Gus Tebell's 1929 champs were eliminated in the first round by Sewanee, 25-19. The outcome was considered as an upset, and this year's play saw the purple-clad mountaineers make their first appearance in a Conference tournament. The Tennessee lads set a hot pace in the initial half and intermission ended with State on the short side of a 16-to-7 count. The Raleighites rallied in the closing minutes of play, but the lead held by Sewanee was too great to overcome.

The tournament conducted this year was characterized by fast play and vicious games. A record-breaking crowd witnessed the tilts from beginning to end, and never before has such interest been shown, it was said.

The Tennessee Vols ranked as dark horses and fell only in the semi-finals, then being defeated by Alabama. Duke won over Kentucky in that series to have the honor of battling with the southerners. The Generals of Washington and Lee were also strong contenders in the hectic race.

RUMOR THAT TEBELL MAY LEAVE STATE

It was learned reliably, and was the subject of much rumor on the campus and in Raleigh yesterday, that Head Coach Gus Tebell was to resign from N. C. State's coaching staff.

INDOOR TRACK MEET TO BE HELD TOMORROW

First Southern Conference Meet Held; Contests Begin At 4:00 P.M., With Carolina As Host

The first Southern Conference indoor track meet will be held tomorrow in the Tin Can at Chapel Hill, with the Tar Heels as hosts. The contests will begin at 4 p.m., it was announced by the Hill authorities, and freshmen will also participate.

Around 16 or 17 teams are expected to enter, and State will send about that same number of men to represent the Raleigh college. No freshmen will be entered from here, however, Doc Sermon stated.

State will send men in the 60-yard dash, 440, and 880; also in the hurdles, shot-put, one-mile run, and mile relay.

Entries from State as announced by Coach Sermon are as follows: 60-yard dash: Mack Stout, Ketchnie, and Koontz. Shot-put: Pat Patterson. 440 dash: Pete Floyd and Ottinger. 880 dash: McGinn and Ricks. One-mile run: Huck Johnson. Hurdles: Swain, Weltmer, Paris, and Griffin.

Mile relay team will be selected from the following: Floyd, Stout, Ottinger, Ricks, McGinn, Ketchnie.

while Carolina was eliminated in the first round by Georgia.

The Dukemen were runners-up in the contest last year, being defeated by the State Terrors, and fell again in the same position this season. It is not likely that the Devils will have as good a chance in the future in cage circles as was seen during the past year, as the team just presented lacked in no phase of play.

All-Southern Quint Team Announced By Doc Sermon

"Doc" Ray Sermon, N. C. State athletic director, announces an all-southern basketball team.

A rather composite team is picked, as all five men are selected from different clubs that range from Duke to Alabama to Tennessee, and State and Georgia thrown in for good measure.

Hood, Alabama, is rated over Joe Croson for the pivot position; McIntyre of Tennessee and Sanford, Georgia Cracker, at the forward berths; and Captain Johnnie Johnson, N. C. State, all-southern man of last year, paired with another person of like character, Bill Werber of Duke, at guards.

"Doc" Sermon's all-southern club: McIntyre of Tennessee, forward; Sanford of Georgia, forward; Hood of Alabama, center; Johnson of State, guard; Werber of Duke, guard.

Honorable mention: Croson of Duke and Williams of W. and L., centers; Councilor of Duke, Smith of Alabama, and Haar of N. C. State, forwards; McBrayer of Kentucky and Wambagnass of Alabama, guards.

VARIED SPORTS CARD OFFERED FOR CAGERS

Football and Basketball Games Certain, and Possibly Baseball

If weather permits, there will be three different sport cards presented tomorrow afternoon here for the benefit of the visiting high school basketball teams, it was announced last night.

Two contests are sure of being played, but Coach "Chick" Doak was undecided as to his baseball game on account of the cold spell now hovering over Raleigh. However, if possible, the boys will play an intra-squad game, the diamond coach said.

Johnnie Miller conducts the final intramural cage games in the gym tomorrow at 3 p.m., with the Ag Club and first floor of Seventh Dormitory clashing for the title.

STATE CAGE TOURNAMENT NOW IN FULL SWING

Play Continues Until Tomorrow Night; Trophies Are To Be Awarded Then

The Fifth Invitational Basketball Tournament, conducted by the Department of Physical Education at N. C. State College for the high schools of the state, is now under way and play will continue until tomorrow night.

Competition is in three classes, as follows: Class A—Special charter schools, with an enrollment of 300 or over in the senior department; Class B—Special charter schools, with an enrollment of less than 300 in the senior department; and Class C—Rural high schools.

Trophy cups will be awarded tomorrow night to the first two teams in each class, and the eight players of each of these teams will also receive individual gold and silver basketball charms. The Spaulding Trophy will be presented to the winner in Class A, and will carry with it the championship of the tournament. The winner will hold the cup for one year.

Any team may enter Class A to compete for this trophy, but in such case it may compete in no other class.

tomorrow, also, with the big game of the season being played. The "Soldiers" have combined with the "Marines," and the "Airmen" with the "Sailors," to reduce the squads to two. "Butch" Slaughter and "Shorty" Lawrence have charge of the "Marines," while Tebell and John Lepo tune-up the "Airmen."

These sports are offered as a break in the basketball play of the high schools, and Coach Slaughter stated that he hoped a large number of visitors would attend.

BACK to Atlanta! If all the heat lost in the tourney were converted into weather conditions here at State, summer would prevail throughout the entire year. In other words, the boys there were plenty hot and ready.

Welcome, high school basketball tournament players. Make yourself at home and enjoy these few days here with us. The athletic department has worked diligently for the past month on the program and the success of the tourney will be due to their efforts.

Sudden changes in the weather have again brought us into the lap of winter. It takes such things to break up the spring fever epidemic. And also we need several unheralded touches of winter to give the superstitious people a chance to say that the ground hog knew what he was doing when he saw his shadow last month.

Co-eds are fast gaining a hold on all campus activities. They were recently elected to the Boosters Club and several are representatives in the new freshman honor society. Now we wonder when they will be honorary cadet colonels? The sky is the limit, and we look forward to see the future State College of Agriculture and Engineering run by the coming stronger sex.

BUSINESS OF FREE TUITION

For a number of years North Carolina State College has exacted tuition fees from students in all but one branch, School of Education. Under the existing system, students enrolled in this school are exempted from tuition charges, $240, upon the condition that they teach, farm, or work in an extension station for two years in North Carolina. Several—no, a number—of serious evils have accompanied this system of favoritism.

Members of the School of Education are continually laboring with students who are taking a teacher's course, but who are not interested in future teaching. Now if this be the case, and it is, why is it that they are not enrolled in other branches of the college? Simply to avoid paying tuition charges. Some are not financially able to meet them, but many do have the money and take advantage of this free tuition offer in order to have more funds for other purposes, good or bad. Then, due to the flexibility of our curricula, a student can enroll in the School of Education and still take nearly all of his work in some other branch of the college.

We believe that the college should either give all students free tuition or should exact the fee from all.

At present there are quite a number of education students who are not at all interested in the teaching profession, but who will teach two years in order to cancel the tuition charges. After he signs teachers' notes this is by far the easiest way out. The evil in this connection is that we are forcing North Carolina school children to study under teachers who are merely hanging on for two years, and who throughout their term of two years are thinking of the great job they will have as soon as the term expires. Would it not be better to abolish the present system of free tuition for those who will promise to teach for two years and establish substantial loan funds in its stead?

Exemption of students who were prospective teachers was sound when the salary of the teaching profession was low, but since that time has passed it is time to wake up and look at the prospective lawyers, doctors, journalists, engineers, and many others taking advantage of the opportunity of this free tuition bounty. If the purpose of the School of Education be solely that of training teachers, then it must be marked up as a failure.

The all-or-none law could work effectively in this matter. Free! Free! Free tuition for all or free tuition for none.

POPULARIZING THE UNPOPULAR

Let your minds wander back to the time of the great Roman Empire. There you will see the emperors amusing the populace and exhibiting their own power by staging the now-famous gladiatorial combats. In these combats a slave and a wild animal were confined within the arena, where they fought until one was killed. An amused and interested populace watched all the proceedings with a blood-thirsty awe.

Let this picture sink in, and then grasp this one: The date was last Monday evening . . . the place was the Frank Thompson Gymnasium. Here the Military Department staged one of its many advertisements of the year. This advertisement, consisting of a black-face comedy act, drilling of squads, and the firing of three machine guns, was watched by guests from the three girls' schools of Raleigh. Unlike the Romans, the military didn't slaughter men and animals in their act . . . no; convention rather frowns on that form of amusement . . . About as far as they could reasonably go was the firing of the machine guns, capable of snuffing out hundreds of lives a minute. They could hardly afford to slaughter hundreds of men each minute there (even the Military Department would realize that that would hardly have any entertainment value now), but they showed their ability and willingness to do the same thing if the occasion arises.

Upon all that we recently sacrificed thousands of lives, plunged millions of our people in debt for generations to come, and laid our national honor open to criticism on a false altar created by military propaganda for militarism. We nobly engaged in the "War to End Wars," and now, with our fingers crossed and our tongue in our cheek, we are arming in feverish haste 129,958 college men every year. These students are not being armed so much with practical knowledge of conducting warfare as with narrow and distorted ideas of the necessity of war for settling disputes which always arise out of things of a trivial nature, and if left alone would inevitably go back to the obscurity from which they came.

Through the Transom

By Dick Yates

By the time many read this (assuming that many read it—a wild assumption, my friends tell me) we will again be in the throes of those processes designed to torture collegians—examinations. Term after term the same old cycle repeats itself—many students study their work throughout the term, and seeing no reason why they should kill themselves cramming the last few days, they fall behind the work of many who study none during the term, but who spend the night before the examination in one wild orgy of cramming. And these professional crammers who make good grades are held up before the student body as ideal students. One often wonders who is responsible for this method of arriving at what the student knows. Like the man who invented the electric chair, the one who is responsible for examinations probably never had the opportunity to try their effect on himself. Of course examinations accomplish one or two purposes: they give one who neglects his studies an opportunity to make a GRADE at the last minute and ample opportunity is given to do all of one's cribbing at one time and in one place, instead of stretching it over a long period of time.

Speaking of cribbing, the other day one of the professors, upon correcting some quiz papers, made the following statement to his class: "I noticed that the papers of those sitting close together were very similar. Now, we mustn't cheat," he admonished, with a wag of his scholarly head; "it isn't nice." And we still wonder why the honor system doesn't work!

In view of the lax enforcement of the prohibition law many people have seen fit to question the character and the loyalty of the enforcement agents. Probably in reply to these attacks Commissioner Doran makes the following statement: "Based on my twenty-two years in the government service, I can affirm that, on the whole, we are not likely to find a more loyal and conscientious group of men than are now enforcing prohibition." Well, well, according to Doran, the prohibition agents are not at fault—they are still killing as many lawbreakers and suspected lawbreakers as usual. Some one has said that the motto, "Dead Men Sell No Ale," could be very appropriately attached to them.

President Hoover stated in a confident moment that "The enforcement of the laws enacted to give effect to the Eighteenth Amendment is far from satisfactory." So it seems, Herbert; so it seems. There seems to be something radically wrong with a law which a loyal and conscientious group of men can't enforce with any more success than the prohibition law has been enforced lately. It appears that the logical thing to do would be to repeal the law and substitute in its place one which would have practically the same effect, but from its very nature could be enforced without resorting to arms and anarchy. That, however, will remain impossible as long as the prohibition fanatics, led by the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U., believe that two hundred drops of a fluid containing one drop of alcohol will cause an otherwise peaceful worker and citizen to roll in a drunken orgy, come home in the early morning hours and wipe up the kitchen floor with his defenseless wife and children. Until then the chap who is unable to resist the perfectly natural craving for alcohol will have to take his sips along with the constant danger of flying bullets and poisoned whiskey.

COMMENTS from other COLLEGES

By R. M. L.

The favorite book at the University of Chicago, according to a recent poll, is the Bible. Forty per cent of the students gave it as their first choice; 33 per cent preferred Shakespeare's works, and modern novels, mystery stories, and the books of etiquette were among the tail-enders.

Commander Richard E. Byrd was recently made an honorary member of the senior class at Wellesley.

A case of co-education reversed, we suppose.

Strange as it may seem, LeRoy Want, sophomore debater of the University of South Carolina, has never chewed chewing gum. It must be true, because the Gamecock says so.

At least 430 students of the University of North Carolina are working at regular jobs, according to a survey made by the Y.M.C.A. This number does not include odd jobs or fellowships. Approximately 70 per cent of the students earn some portion of their expenses.

OPPORTUNITIES IN FIELD

I once heard a speaker characterize business as being "the oldest of arts and the newest of professions." Whether it is the newest of professions or not, we certainly are recognizing at the present time that it is a profession and is becoming more specialized. Since it is becoming so specialized, it requires study and preparation of the highest degree to be successful.

A student entering a school of business administration cannot without help analyze himself and the various business fields to find what he is best prepared to do. Even though a student knows what he wishes and can do, it is hard for him alone to find the concerns that offer him this desired opportunity. The Placement Bureau of the School of Science and Business is trying to fulfill this need. The chairman is trying to help the students in the School of Science and Business find what they are best prepared for, and then find the business firm that offers them the best opportunity.

Over fifty business concerns are contracted with by the Placement Bureau of the School of Science and Business to furnish the opportunity for every student to find the work he is best fitted for. The demand for well-trained men is very great, and twice the present number of graduates could be very easily placed. In fact, the larger the graduating class, the larger the number of business firms we can get to visit North Carolina State. An employer likes to have the opportunity to look over a number of men in making his choice, and the greater the number of good men the better the reputation of North Carolina State. Also, the more varied the preparation offered the better opportunity we have of securing representatives from the best companies to visit us. An employer can find that by visiting us he can secure men for every phase of his work.

The demand for men this year has been most gratifying. Nine companies have visited the School of Science and Business, every one of them offering good opportunities. A number of men have received more than one offer, and a number of written requests for men have been received. The demand has been mainly for men in three fields—sales, accounting, and industrial management. Especially has the industrial management demand been very great. All of our men taking this course have accepted places or will do so in the near future. This means much more than it sounds, since the firms that have been taking the industrial management students in the past have not yet made offers. In the sales field, whether retail, manufacturing, or wholesale, there have never before been such great opportunities for well-trained men.—Prof. Hayes A. Richardson.

WILLARD DOWELL TALKS TO STATE BUSINESS CLUB

Delta Sigma Pi Men Hear Secretary of N. C. Merchants Association

Willard L. Dowell, secretary of the Merchants' Association, whose headquarters are in Raleigh, delivered an address on the work of that organization Wednesday night in Room 101, Peele Hall.

The lecture was given under the auspices of Delta Sigma Pi, international commerce fraternity. In its program this fraternity is bringing to the campus men of note in the field of commerce and having them lecture at an open meeting on some subject of vital importance to the business man, for the benefit of all of the students and the public. This was the third of their series of open meetings.

Mr. Dowell pointed out to the students the purpose and functions of the State Merchants' Association and the benefits the members derive from it.

New York's Tin Pan Alley, which serves as the locale for "New York Nights," starring Norma Talmadge in her talking picture debut at the State Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, was named because of the incessant din created by song writers pounding out their unfinished tunes on rented pianos.

The district first was on West Twenty-eighth street, then followed the uptown theatre trend until finally it became entrenched in the upper forties.

It has been estimated that 96 per cent of the popular dance tunes and songs originated in the country the last 15 years came from this one district.

Miss Talmadge's starring picture, directed by Lewis Milestone for United Artists, depicts the romantic phases of this famous quarter, with all its wealth of color.

Supporting the star are Gilbert Roland, who plays her leading man again; John Wray, Lilyan Tashman, Roscoe Karns, and Mary Doran.

A talking comedy with Harry Langdon, "Fighting Parson"; a screen song novelty, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," and a Paramount sound news will complete the program.

George Arliss appears again in "The Green Goddess," and the selection of this story for the occasion was a happy one. It is playing at the State Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. This exciting melodrama was one of Mr. Arliss' greatest stage hits.

He played it for three years in New York, one year in London, and then made a silent screen version that put him in the front rank of film stars. Now, through the medium of talking pictures, he gives his most interesting and colorful performance of the famous role of the villainous Rajah who was also a cultured and lavish host.

Mr. Arliss receives splendid support from the leading members of the cast. Alice Joyce is capable and beautiful as the harassed heroine. H. B. Warner, one of the finest actors of the talking screen, brings force to the role of Major Crespin, even though it is an unsympathetic one. Ralph Forbes, favorite of the stage as well as the screen, is fine. Again we have Nigel de Bruiler, an unusual character ac-

I. R. C. REPRESENTATIVES RETURN FROM CONFERENCE

Lightfoot and London Sent By Local Club To Represent State College

R. M. Lightfoot and L. P. London, State College representatives of the International Relations Club, have returned from the Southern Students Conference of International Relations held at Macon, Ga., both at Wesleyan College and Mercer University.

There were seventy-five delegates at the convention, representing twenty-nine colleges in the South.

They were addressed by Sir Herbert Ames, secretary-general of finance of the League of Nations, and Dr. Tibor Eckhardt, Hungarian statesman.

Thursday morning was spent in registering at the Hotel Dempsey, Macon, Ga., and Thursday afternoon at the first session of the conference, which was held at Wesleyan College. This was followed by a reception for all the members of the conference in the beautiful drawing-rooms of Wesleyan College.

Thursday night Sir Herbert Ames addressed the conference, and Friday morning another session was held at Mercer College, which was followed by a luncheon in Mercer dining hall. The Friday afternoon session of the conference took place at Wesleyan College. Friday night a banquet was held, the speaker of the occasion being Dr. Eckhardt. Then a very interesting performance was given by the Mercer Players.

Saturday morning the final session was held at Mercer College, where the officers of the conference were elected.

... of those weird roles for which he is famous. The story tells of a group of English people stranded in the wilds of the Himalayas and completely at the mercy of a tribe of uncivilized idol worshippers and their cruel Rajah. The Rajah entertains them lavishly and with great charm, even while he prepares them for a torturous death. These events lead to a climax that is a great bit of melodrama.

A talking comedy, "Scotch," a novel by cartoon, "Steamboat Willie," a color symphony, "Jungle Drums," and a Paramount sound news will complete the program.

Adventure, love, laughter, and beautiful clothes and settings are the features of "Slightly Scarlet," the Evelyn Brent-Clive Brook co-starring picture which will show at the Palace Theatre for three days, starting Monday. The story of "Slightly Scarlet" abounds in action. It is one of the new type talking motion pictures, a fast-moving plot depending on action for its climax, enhanced and vivified by smart dialog. "Slightly Scarlet" brings Miss Brent and Brook together in Paris. Each admires the other secretly but they cannot arrange a meeting. Miss Brent is a member of an international band of jewel thieves, held to crime against her will by the sophisticated menace character, Paul Lukas. Brook is apparently a suave English gentleman.

After this dramatic meeting one of the strangest plot twists ever seen on the screen provides a great surprise thrill. The author and directors of "Slightly Scarlet" work their plot carefully, making use of its tremendous suspense possibilities and twisting its surprise elements into great entertainment values.

In addition to Miss Brent, Brook, Paul Lukas and Pallette, the cast includes Helen Ware, recently seen as the mother in "The Virginian"; Morgan Parley, the young lieutenant in George Bancroft's "The Mighty"; and Henry Wadsworth, the sailor in "Applause." Virginia Bruce, a beautiful blonde actress, recently given a long-time contract by Paramount, here has an important support role.

An interesting example of organization is the development of long distance telephone business. Men and women of the Bell System made this service worthy, and the public has recognized this by its greatly increased usage.

The Bell Laboratories improved the quality of sound transmission by modifying existing apparatus and designing new. Western Electric manufactured the necessary equipment

Hog Raising in Peru Is Good, Says Moose in Letter To Alumni

"Hog raising in Peru, South America, is profitable," says Tom L. Moose of Concord and a member of the class of 1928, who is at present manager of a large stock farm in Peru, in a letter to Prof. R. H. Ruffner recently.

Moose accepted a job as manager of a stock farm in Peru in the spring of 1928, and left immediately for that country. No word was heard from him until a few days ago when Professor Ruffner, of the Animal Husbandry Department, received a "fat letter" with a foreign post mark, and upon examining its contents, found it was from Moose.

Moose says, "I have a market for 5,000 head of hogs each year at the Calas stockyards. To produce this number I have 500 brood sows. I receive an average price of $36 in Uncle Sam's money per head and it costs me $15 to produce them. This gives me $21 profit per head. In addition to my hogs I have 100 acres of alfalfa, 25 acres of sweet potatoes, 25 acres of oat pasture, and 8,000 bushels of corn each year.

PLAY PRODUCTION ADDRESS IS HEARD BY RED MASQUERS

Seagraves Makes Talk To Dramatic Society At Meeting Friday Noon

W. P. Seagraves, program manager of Red Masquers, delivered an address on "Play Production" at their meeting last Friday noon in the "Y."

In his speech Mr. Seagraves went deeply into the discussion of selecting the play, appointing the director, casting, altering the manuscript, rehearsing, and into the final act of staging the play, telling just what stage equipment was desirable and necessary, lighting system for best effects and the adjustment of the color schemes.

"It is almost necessary," said the speaker, "for the cast to have a complete knowledge of the entire play, as well as their respective roles; the actor or actress should do more than merely memorize their parts, because there are often times when some member of the cast will miss his cue, and in order to

Finals
Plans for the Final dances to be given by the Pan-Hellenic Council on June 6, 7, and 9 are already under way. The finals committee is working diligently with the expectation of making their dances the best ever given at State College. The contracts for the favors have already been awarded and negotiations have been made contingently with various orchestras. It is expected that the name of the orchestra will be announced in a few weeks.

An amusing duet with the tuba and the piccolo, the largest and the smallest of band instruments, was followed by "Yodeling Sam," who pleased with "Rock Candy Mountain" and other selections.

After the musical numbers, black-face comedy, exceedingly well done, kept the large audience in a roar of laughter for ten minutes, and then the prize-winning squad of the regiment, commanded by Cadet Corporal H. A. Hicks, of Rocky Mount, gave a snappy exhibition drill.

A farce, depicting a regimental parade and inspection, was scattered when the artillery unit of the "army" swung into action with a one-pounder. As a striking contrast to the farce, the entertainment closed with a realistic demonstration by three machine-gun squads. Working with skill and precision, the cadets mounted their guns on a given line, and members of the gymnasium in darkness, successfully repulsed a night attack by the "enemy." The chattering cough and flash of the guns made a lasting impression.

The entire student body of Peace, large delegations from Meredith and St. Mary's, the R. O. T. C. Regiment in uniform, 750 strong, and members of the faculties of the four institutions provided a brilliant background for the entertainment, which was arranged by Cadet Lieut.-Col W. T. Garibaldi, of Charlotte, and his committee. All talent for the "stunts" was provided by the R. O. T. C. The gym was tastefully decorated with colors and pennants of the various schools.

The science girls of Meredith College entertained the members of the Society of Chemical Engineers at a social last Saturday evening on the Meredith campus.

A feature of the meeting were talks given by members of the chemical engineers. M. A. Urquiza spoke on "The Chemical Engineering Profession."

C. M. Sprinkle, State College student scientist, gave a lecture on "The Interpretation of Flow of Electronic Energy and the Intermolecular Disintegration of the Atoms." His prediction that the earth would soon collide with the sun left the audience in awe.

W. L. Van Hoy cheered the audience after Mr. Sprinkle's talk by his funny jokes and expressions.

"Unaccustomed as P. Ivory Crouch is to public speaking," nevertheless, his talk on "The Ideal Wife" proved to be the most humorous and interesting talk of the evening.

The Meredith girls took the leading part in games, music, and songs which ended the social.

Easter Dances
The Annual Easter dances are being looked forward to with a great deal of enthusiasm. The Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity will stage their affair as of custom on Easter Monday with the German Club entertaining at a series of tea dances and evening dances on Tuesday and Wednesday. Many of the fraternities are planning to give house parties with such preparation and with guests from all over the State attending. This campus should be a scene of much entertaining and merry-making. Russ Bolon's original cotton pickers' composed of 11 artists, will furnish the music. This orchestra is nationally known, having recorded for Brunswick and having played in colleges in 32 states.

Phi Kappa Tau's Give House Dance
One of the largest fraternity house dances given recently took place Saturday evening from 9 until 12 o'clock when the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity of State College entertained at their residence on Groveland Avenue.

The strain of continuous dancing was broken twice during the evening by unique tap steps and humorous songs by a professional Negro dancer who was especially engaged for the evening's entertainment, and later in an adjoining room punch and cakes were served to the many guests.

The following young ladies attended the dance: Misses Celia Wearn, Anderson York, Mary Lou Coffey, Mary Alice Murchison, Katherine Pendleton Harrington, Adele Foley, Caroline Tucker, Roline Torrence, Arabella Cox, Melissa Brown, Sara Whittaker, Clarice Mitchell, Martha Ruth Kendall, Caroline Mann, Davetta Levine, Elizabeth Bryan, Mabel Sargent, Dorothy Davis, Foy Allen, Mary Emma White, Eleanor Layfield, Mary Helen Keller. Out-of-town guests were Miss Peggy McClure of Tarboro, Miss Mary Wester of Chase City, Va., Miss Anna May Hodges of Petersburg, Va., Miss Frances Cox of Greensboro, and Miss Doris Hardee of Greensboro. Also many others from the various fraternities on the campus were guests of the Phi Kappa Tau's.

Bowery Ball
The Bowery Ball, to be given by the Philoklonian Club of Raleigh, is already creating a great deal of enthusiasm in the younger collegiate set in and around Raleigh. The club has been working continuously for the past several weeks to make this a grand success. A large number of out-of-town guests are expected to attend, as well as the younger collegiate set of Raleigh. The gala affair will be staged on Thursday evening, March 13, at the Woman's Club, from 9 to 11.

"If Boys Keep Off Grass Campus Will Be Pretty," Says W. A. Bridgeforth

"If we could keep the boys off the grass, we would have a pretty campus," said W. A. Bridgeforth, of the Landscape and Buildings Maintenance Department, when interviewed by a staff reporter this week.

The college now has under way a program by which the campus will be beautiful. The program will cost approximately $1,000. Trees, shrubbery, and grass are being planted. New walks and drives are being completed and cinders are being put on the old ones to prevent them from getting muddy when it rains.

Places receiving most attention are: Front of Holladay Hall, around the gymnasium, Winston Hall, and in front of Patterson Hall. The grounds are being smoothed up and grass and shrubbery being planted around these buildings.

At present the work is being held up to some extent on account of having to wait for ordered plants for the front of Holladay Hall to arrive.

Registration

Registration for the third term will be conducted in the Gymnasium on Saturday, March 15, from 9 to 5 o'clock.

Registration will consist of students making any necessary changes with the approval of their respective deans, or directors of instruction, and securing their registration cards.

For the benefit of those students who do not desire changes in schedule, the registration office will issue registration cards during examination week. However, those students who secure their registration cards prior to Saturday, March 15, will not be allowed to make changes after that date. Students who secure their registration cards under these conditions will not need to be here on Saturday, March 15.

W. L. MAYER,
Director of Registration.

ENGINEERS FIT JOBS

Three Mechanical Engineering students have accepted positions. This makes a total of 60 per cent of the students in this department who have accepted offers.

The new students are: A. B. Simms, Raleigh, N. C., who will go with the Bell Telephone Laboratories at New York, N. Y.; E. M. Cooper, Kinston, N. C., who will go with the DuPont Rayon Co., at Wilmington, Del., and C. C. Price, Reidsville, N. C., who will go with The Bickey Cotton Oil Co., of Atlanta, Ga.

It has been noticed by the heads of the Mechanical Engineering Department that the starting prices offered students are higher than formerly. For instance, The Empire Company in December would pay a man beginning $125, and recently the starting price has been raised to $150.

FAWCETT ADDRESSES MEN IN AGRICULTURE SCHOOL

Meacham Elected President of College Student Grange Association

Charles F. Fawcett, special deputy for the National Grange in North Carolina, spoke to the Senior Class in Vocational Agriculture last Friday on the organization of a Student Grange at State College.

The Grange is a national farmers' fraternity to promote agriculture and education in the rural districts, and socialization among the farmers. The organization of the Grange began soon after the Civil War, and has been largely responsible for the many agriculture bills passed in Congress and agriculture movements in the United States.

The purpose of a Student Grange here is to train the future agriculture teachers in the organization and activities of the Grange, so that they may be able to take an active part in this fraternity when they go out to work. The senior class discussed the possibility of such an organization and voted unanimously in favor of organizing a Grange.

The following officers were elected: E. H. Meacham, master; A. L. Vann, overseer; T. D. Eagles, lecturer; R. R. Rich, steward; T. A. Powell, assistant steward; H. S. Singletary, chaplain; E. P. Bass, treasurer; R. H. Bright, secretary; B. J. Brady, gate keeper.

No Chesterfield smoker would. For its mild fragrance, its deeply satisfying character—in short, its taste—has always been the one thing smokers wanted:
