CIVIL ENGINEERS RETURN FROM TRIP TO CAPITAL CITY

Were Guests of the Associated General Contractors

W. G. GUILLE ACCOMPANIES STUDENTS ON THEIR TOUR

While in Washington the Engineers Visited Many Places of Interest in Connection With Their Line of Engineering and Professional Studies.

The senior and junior construction engineering classes of State College returned Wednesday night, after a four-day visit to Washington, D. C., where they were the guests of the Associated General Contractors of America, and had the honor and distinction of making the first student inspection of the Federal Government's gigantic public building projects.

While in Washington the N. C. State engineers visited many places of interest in connection with their particular line of engineering. Monday, accompanied by W. G. Guille, associate professor of engineering here, and E. J. Harding, assistant general manager of the Associated General Contractors, the group was taken by the construction executives and superintendents upon a personally conducted inspection tour of the Arlington Memorial bridge, and the Internal Revenue and Department of Commerce buildings, now under construction.

The approaches to the Arlington Memorial bridge are being built by the Grier-Lowrance Construction Company of Statesville, who made arrangements with the resident government engineer to have the students conducted over the bridge and the work discussed with them.

H. P. Grier, Jr., of Statesville, secretary-treasurer of the company, is a trustee of North Carolina State College, and is greatly interested in this new phase of the college work and the contact of the students with practical men in the construction industry. His firm has successfully employed engineering students, and Mr. Grier believes that the association with actual projects is of great value to them.

The collegians also visited the White House, and as President Hoover stands in the minds of engineering students and those in the construction field as their champion, the students felt exceedingly distinguished to have the opportunity to meet the Chief Executive. The classes have organized as the Construction Engineering Society, pending action on their application for

Unanimously Elect Mast To Head Local Delta Sigma Pi

W. T. Mast, junior in business administration, of Valle Crucis, was inaugurated headmaster of Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, international professional commerce fraternity, at their meeting in Peele Hall Tuesday night. Mast is a member of the Blue Key, honorary fraternity, and was unanimously elected headmaster of the business organization. He has a high scholastic standing and has been active in student activities, serving on the student council for several terms.

Other officers of the commerce fraternity took the oath of office along

"Climax"

Local military officials don't agree with veteran baseballers that a crew of good old "Climax" will give players fighting spirit.

Two juniors, the story goes, were dismissed from the service of the local military department last week for chewing the weed. Officials of the department would not give the names of the dismissed students. However, they admitted that the pupils were caught chewing tobacco, but declined to state whether dismissed was the penalty for expectorating in ranks.

Fire!

State College was agog with excitement Tuesday afternoon when a giant red fire truck siren to the campus in answer to a call for extinguishers to quench a small blaze in Pullen Hall. Two hundred or more excited students rushed to the building with expectations of seeing a real fire.

Firemen reported the fire originated from a faulty electric wire. They did not unroll the water-hose. Very little damage was done, they said, upon leaving the campus.

Technician Staff For Coming Year Chosen By Editor

The new staff took hold of the reins of THE TECHNICIAN this week. The staff, as appointed by the editor and business manager, is composed mainly of students who have had newspaper experience in high school or college. As most of the only staff hung on few changes were made.

"Hop" Wilson, who has been managing editor on THE TECHNICIAN for the past two years, will continue to write headlines and make-up the paper. "Hop" has had considerable newspaper experience, having worked both on high school and daily papers in addition to his experience as managing editor here.

Eibert M. Overton, who has worked as reported on the paper for the past two years, has been promoted to associate editor. Overton has been on the staff longer than any other member of the publication. He, too, has had considerable experience, having served as press agent for the dramatic club this year.

"Skip" Merriam, special military correspondent, for the present will continue as its other associate editor. The position of news editor will be filled by Dick Yates. Yates, who started as a reporter this year, has climbed from that capacity to the rung of news and later given full control of news and assignment. Dick also conducts a column.

Brian Chapman, who has done considerable work this year as sports editor, will continue in that capacity. Chapman, a freshman, is not green along newspaper lines, having worked sports on some of the leading dailies. He will be given complete control of the sport page, writing the heads and making up the page himself.

T. S. Ferree, Jr., the only known college chalk-pate artist in the South, will continue to live on the paper with his work. Ferree has served as cartoonist during the past season and his work has received commendation. He was instructed in the intricacies of

Survey of Self-Help Students Makes Revelation of Interest

A general survey of the self-help students at State College, conducted by Joe E. Moore, associate secretary of the Y.M.C.A., through questionnaires, reveals some interesting facts. The questionnaires were filled out by forty-nine of the most prominent self-help men of the campus. The men who responded to the questionnaires have been actively engaged in some form of money-making enterprise during their stay at the college, and include twenty-seven seniors, twelve juniors, four sophomores, and five freshmen.

The scholastic average of these working students is $2.1, or several points higher than the general student body average. These students have made all, or the greater part, of their college expenses during their residence here.

The membership of every honor society on the campus has one or more self-help students. The Golden Chain, senior honor society claims two of the seniors questioned. Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society, has three in its ranks. Four men pledge allegiance to Blue Key, a national honorary organization, while five men are on the roll of Pine Burr, local honorary scholastic society. Alpha Zeta, agricultural honor society, Mu Beta Psi, national honorary music fraternity, Los Haidagos, national honorary language fraternity, and other organizations, are listed on the roll of honors of the working students.

When questioned as to whether they would work if they had another opportunity to start in college with sufficient funds, thirty men were sold on the idea of working while at college and there were also thirty who deemed it advisable for the new men to do all the work they could. Seventeen collegians had worked enough, and if provided with money for an education would work no more while in school.

Upon being asked whether their work kept them out of extra-curricular activities they would otherwise enter, twenty regretted that they were not able to participate in athletics; eleven were prevented from taking part in the work of the literary societies; nine could not take active part in the departmental organizations of their school; and ten were wishing for a chance to be active in the social world.

Twenty-four men considered dining-hall work as that which gave the best opportunity to the working student; eleven were working in college departments or with the administration; nine liked clerical work best; while six said paper routes would be the best bet for a working student. Fifteen of these students declared that self-help work was greatly beneficial; sixteen were agreed that working was somewhat helpful, and only seven thought that a working student was handicapped in starting his college career.

"Willingness to work" was ranked as the qualification most necessary in securing work by twenty men. A pleasing personality, honesty, and determination, coupled with ability, were voted the next three places in the essential qualifications of a working student.

PUBLICATION OFFICIALS WILL ATTEND PRESS MEET

Editors and Business Managers To Go To High Point Convention

When the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association convenes at High Point College, April 24, State College will have as representatives E. H. Roberts, vice-president; Reuben Windsor, R. H. Park, Alfred Land, L. C. Vipond, Bill Garibaldi, A. L. Weaver, Fred Plunk. Several of these men are retiring officials; others are new officers newly installed.

The convention, a semi-annual affair of the Press Association, will be featured by speakers who have achieved prominence in the field of journalism. These speakers, selected to bring forth pertinent points on journalism, are men of known ability. Frank Smethurst, of the News and Observer staff, and the editor of the Asheville Citizen will act as judges for the editorials of the monthly magazines.

Officers to guide the association during the ensuing year will be elected by representatives of the student publications. Officers elected last year were: Robert Jarrett, of Davidson, president; W. R. Dixon, of State, vice-president; Margaret Blanton, Queens College, second vice-president; Eleanor Covington, Meredith, secretary; and Garland McPherson, Carolina, treasurer. A number of these retiring officers are graduating this year.

Accommodations for the representatives will be given by students of High Point College in the dormitories there. The convention will last through the 24th, 25th, and the 26th of April.

Demands of Students To Govern Schedule State Summer School

Students interested in taking courses during Summer School, according to Professor T. E. Browne, should communicate with the director at once so that the administration can learn in advance the demands of the students and make an effort to arrange for them.

The indications now are, he added, that it is going to be rather difficult to secure profitable employment during the summer of 1930. Professor Browne pointed out that the rates at the Summer School are such that a student can remain in college almost as cheap as he can stay at home, and by so doing probably shorten the period required for graduation.

The Summer School faculty will be composed of State College faculty members.

Debating Team Goes On Nine-Day Journey Through Sunny South

The State College affirmative debate team, composed of M. B. Amos and E. W. Buchanan, accompanied by Professor E. H. Paget, director of debating, left early Monday morning for a nine-day trip to the "Sunny South." The team will make the trip by auto. They will spend Monday night in Macon, Ga., and Tuesday night they expect to spend in Jacksonville, Fla. They will debate the University of Florida Wednesday night in Gainesville, and Thursday night will meet the debating forces of Southern College in Lakeland, Fla. This will be their last debate this season. The same query will be used in both debates. "Resolved, that all nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, excepting such forces as are needed for police purposes." Our team will uphold the affirmative in both debates.

After the debate on Thursday night with Southern College the team will continue their trip on to Miami. On this trip they intend spending a day or more at Daytona Beach and other places of interest in the "Sunny State." The team will return to Raleigh April 23.

The negative team, composed of H. F. Anderson and A. F. Ward, will debate the affirmative team of Appalachian Training School Monday night in Pullen Hall. On Tuesday night another negative team, composed of D. K. Rhyne, J. H. McKinnon, and A. F. Ward, will meet the debating forces of Asheville Normal School in a non-decision debate. This is the first debate in the recent history of the college in which three speakers are to be used.

After the debate on Thursday night with Southern College the team will continue their trip on to Miami. On this trip they intend spending a day or more at Daytona Beach and other places of interest in the "Sunny State." The team will return to Raleigh April 23.

Y. M. C. A. Installs Receiving Sets For Infirmary Inmates

"The next number will be a special one for the mumps boys out in the State College infirmary," came the station announcer's voice over the air from WPTF, Raleigh, one day last week.

Smiles were seen by the nurses to spread across the gloomy faces of the patients there. All of the mump victims were ready to receive the music from the radio station, because they were equipped with headphones leading from small radio sets which had been installed especially for them by the college Y.M.C.A.

The "Y" has installed six small radios in the infirmary to help absorb the weary hours for the students unable to participate in collegiate activity. A. A. Jackson, senior, and operator of the radio in the "Y" lobby which furnishes entertainment for large numbers of students daily, and Joe E. Moore, have charge of the installation.

E. S. King, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., said that he believed putting the radios in the infirmary was one of the most appreciated things the "Y" had done this year, concluding, he said, from the expressions of thanks he received when he visited the infirmary. He also said that the daily visits of W. B. Callihan, hospital representative on the Y.M.C.A. cabinet, with newspapers, magazines, and offers of service and words of cheer brought great happiness and consolation to the sick boys.

When asked how he liked his radio, Alec Redfern, who has been in the col-

COLONEL C. C. EARLY WILL BE SUCCEEDED BY MAJ. SILVESTER

Colonel Early Is To Go
With Army College
In Washington

MAJOR L. MCD. SILVESTER
WILL COME HERE AUG. 15

College People and Other Residents of the City Have Expressed
Sincere Regret Over
Colonel and Mrs. Early's Plans for Departure.

Major Lindsay McD. Silvester, on August 15, will succeed Colonel Clifford C. Early as professor of military science and tactics at N. C. State College.

After five years at his present post, Colonel Early will return to Washington for duty with the historical section of the Army War College. Colonel Early has achieved notable results with the local R.O.T.C. regiment during his stay here, building up an esprit de corps in the outfit that has been instrumental in popularizing military training on the campus. Last year he gave military students an elaborate regimental ball and plans are under way for a similar event this year.

College people and other residents of the city have expressed sincere regret at Colonel and Mrs. Early's plans for departure.

Major Silvester comes to State College with a brilliant record of army service that dates back to 1911. Born in Portsmouth, Va., he was educated at the University of Maryland, then Maryland Agricultural College, being graduated there with a degree in chemistry. In October, 1911, he was appointed second lieutenant in the regular army and served with the Second Infantry in Hawaii until 1915.

Returning to the States, Major Silvester was stationed at The Presidio, San Francisco, and Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, until March, 1916, when he was ordered to Columbus, New Mexico, to join the punitive Mexican expedition under General Pershing. He was promoted to first lieutenant while with the expedition, and was made a captain in May, 1917.

As a captain Major Silvester was assigned to the 30th infantry, third division, and followed this outfit to France. He commanded Company E of this regiment.

Following a battle northwest of Chateau Thierry Major Silvester received the division citation and was recommended for promotion. He was promoted to major in June, 1918, and ## Fashionable!

Probably the N. C. State military students will present next year an appearance strikingly different from that of this and former years.

A plan is now under contemplation by the War Department, local officials said Tuesday, to change the style and probably the color of the student-soldier's clothes. If the plan is carried out, militaristic students next year will be clad in straight-leg trousers, wear garrus belts and overseas caps. Officials were not sure whether the uniforms would be gray or khaki color.

ORDERS FOR INVITATIONS ARE TAKEN FROM SENIORS

Committee Will Receive Orders In the Y. M. C. A. Until April 25

Orders for senior invitations will be taken at the Y. M. C. A. by the invitation committee until April 25. The committee, composed of H. G. Love, chairman; C. S. Mitchell, and W. E. Koonce, started taking orders April 11.

As the invitations are being sent collect on delivery to the committee, seniors are required to pay for the invitations when the order is placed. The invitations are being ordered from E. A. Wright Co., of Philadelphia, Pa. They will be delivered about May 17.

For the first time in the history of senior invitations a zinc etching of the library will appear on the first page of the booklets. This etching, according to Chairman Love, will give the invitations a distinctiveness never heretofore attained.

Two grades of invitations are available. The best grade, bound with red imitation Morocco leather lettered in gold, will sell for 40 cents each, Chair-

Interesting Story Is Related By Editor of Alumni News

This is a true story, but a tale without the name of the principal actor. It was almost forty years ago. The train from the east was filled with young people, students coming to Raleigh going to Chapel Hill, and elsewhere. It was a weary journey for not a few of the boys whose experience as travelers was limited, and even more limited as regards knowledge of the ways of students, sophomores especially. Raleigh was not far off, and the little college at West Raleigh would gain a few accessions from the lively band of youngsters on the train.

The train was six miles from Raleigh, approaching the village of Garner—almost as big then as now. Presently a young fellow on his way to Chapel Hill, observing a rather timid, nervous-looking chap who was known to be on his way to the A. and M., shouted as if he were the porter: "This is Raleigh! All out for Raleigh!"

The young chap bound for A. and M. grabbed his baggage, rushed off the train, and when the engineer rang his bell the train "chu-chu'd" and was gone.

A few hours later the boy who left his train at Garner arrived at "the school," as hackmen used to call it. He was tired and felt injured by the trick played on him by the sophomore going to Chapel Hill, but he had arrived—walked all the way. He told his story to the fatherly Colonel Holaday, who laughed in his friendly way just a little, said a few kind words to the youth, and sent him to Mrs. Carroll, the matron, to be assigned to his room and to enter into student life here.

We are telling no names, but this same youth remained here four years and graduated in the Class of 189—

State Self-Help Men Elect Officers Soon

The State College Self-Help Club will elect officers for the 1930-31 year Saturday night, April 25, which will be their first meeting after the Easter holidays.

For the election of new officers, the local self-help organization will hold its annual weiner-roast at Lassiter's Mill, which has in the past furnished suitable environment for such an occasion. The club members are to meet in front of the Memorial Monument at 6:30 in the evening of the day for the election and, in a body, go by way of trolley car to their destination.

Open nomination and voting will be the system used in determining who is to be the pilot and his aides for next year. President Woodall announced that the election would take place after everyone had eaten his fill and enjoyed a pleasant dip in the natural swimming pool. He also stated that there would be facilities for boat-riding for the benefit of those who are desirous of a little snooze on the glistening waters of Lassiter's Mill Pond.

The retiring officers are: Raymond Woodall, president; John Snipes, vice-president; "Jiggs" Spence, secretary; Raymond Rich, treasurer; and Melvin McKenzie, historian. The men were elected on a similar occasion at the same place last year.

given command of the second battalion, 30th Infantry.

He was wounded by machine-gun fire in the Argonne and ordered to Base Hospital No. 7, Dijon, France. He returned to duty in December.

Later he was given the mission of reorganizing the prison camp in Brandenburg, Germany, and was detailed as inspector of prison camps in unoccupied Germany. He served for some time at Kovno, Lithuania, as representative of the Interallied Commission for the Repatriation of Russian Prisoners of War. He returned to the United States in August, 1919, reverted to the permanent grade of captain, and served with the Military Intelligence Division of the War Department until 1922. He was recommissioned as major in July, 1920.

Major Silvester married Miss Mildred T. Draper, of Washington. They have one son, Lindsay McD. Silvester, Jr., age 8 years.

Major Silvester's decorations include: Medal for the Mexican Campaign; the Victory Medal, with battle clasps for the Aisne, the Champagne-Marne, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, and the Defensive Sector; the Distinguished Service Cross; the French Legion of Honor, and the Croix de Guerre with palm and gold star.

Unanimously Elect Mast to Head Local Delta Sigma Psi

At the present time there are 56 members of Beta Delta chapter, including the alumni members and the ones now in school. The organization recently initiated six new men. They were: Archibald J. Wilson, sophomore, Louisville; Edward G. Cobb, sophomore, Lumber Bridge; Roy DeWanner Stallings, sophomore, Raleigh; David F. Cade, sophomore, Fayetteville; Arthur C. F. Little, junior, Newton; and Ralph A. Thomas, junior, Hiddendale.

The commerce fraternity has had as one of its policies to hold several open meetings during the year, at which time they bring as a speaker a man of prominence in his field to speak on some pertinent subject for the benefit of all interested students. At these meetings anyone who wishes to do so is at liberty to attend.

At the Tuesday night meeting, Malcolm D. Taylor, marketing professor in the School of Commerce at Carolina, delivered a lecture on "Marketing and Retailing Problems in North Carolina." In his speech he said that the first thing and greatest problem in marketing is determining what to grow. His speech was centered largely around agricultural commodities.

In praising cooperative marketing, he said: "Once a farmer has determined what to grow, cooperative marketing, in my opinion, is the best answer to the question: How can my product be marketed most profitably? I mean the right kind of cooperative marketing," he added. In conclusion, after a discussion of the chain stores, he said: "The farmer, as I see it, has benefited greatly by the growth of the chain stores."

The retiring headmaster of Delta Sigma Psi is H. G. Love of Burlington, who is graduating in June in Business Administration.

a charter as the first student chapter of the Associated General Contractors. The application will be taken up at a board meeting in Washington on April 28, and although it will be necessary to amend the constitution of the association to admit the student body, Mr. Harding is confident this will be done and that the distinction of receiving the first student charter of the association will be given to the North Carolina group.

The North Carolina branch of the Associated General Contractors has been particularly interested in the educational work of conveying a true conception of the contractor's function to the student. It has given an annual scholarship for the students of construction, which consists of an award of one year of practical employment to the winning senior upon graduation. The first scholarship was won last year by M. W. Brown, of Statesville.

The application of the students was made last January, and was signed by H. D. Pinkston, of Salisbury, student president; Paul W. Cowhib, of Charlotte, vice-president; George G. Eason, of Macesfield, secretary; J. F. Bethea, of Raleigh, treasurer; M. A. Holjes, C. S. Mitchell, Jr., Frank R. Clarke, Aolis L. Cooke, W. F. Ottinger, Charles T.

Cupolas controlled from the laboratory

White hot rivers of metal, pouring from big cupolas in Crane foundries, are even more thoroughly analyzed, more carefully watched, than the drinking water pouring from a faucet in a well-ordered city.

Because correct chemical ingredients in valve metals are as essential to absolute safety and right functioning of a piping installation as pure water to human health, Crane Co. has always maintained laboratory control of its cupolas.

This means that experts in the metallurgical and physical testing of metals are responsible for the quality of every valve and fitting turned out. It means that tensile strength, yield point, elongation, and reduction of area of test bars taken every hour of the day's run are known to laboratory and cupola chemists.

It means that constantly, as the metals pour out, the proportion of silicon, manganese, carbon, phosphorus, calcium, pure iron, are known and uniformly maintained. It means immediate correction of any variation and rejection of faulty materials.

From specifications of raw materials to final installation, Crane Co. knows its products and what they will do. How Crane Co. developed the background for this knowledge makes an absorbing story. It is titled Pioneering in Science. You are cordially invited to send for your copy. Aside from its interest, you will find it a splendid reference book on the reactions of metals to high temperatures and pressures.

Real Cigarette Pleasure

WHY BE SATISFIED with less smoking pleasure when for the same price you can have the luxury of Camels?

Camels stand alone. If you merely want to puff, anything will do. But if you want to know the true delight of smoking—to enjoy the mild, mellow fragrance of superbly blended Domestic and Turkish tobaccos, brought to perfection by the most scientific methods of manufacture but with none of the delicacy of its natural goodness lost or spoiled by over-treatment—then Camel is the cigarette for you.

You'll find in Camels all the exquisite enjoyment that can be packed into a smoke.

injuries received early in January in the chemistry laboratory here when an experiment which he was conducting exploded and set his clothes on fire, resulting in serious burns on his limbs. When interviewed he seemed optimistic about his early recovery, since he has spent about three months in bed. Many students have visited Redfern to carry words of cheer to him, and almost any time you go to his room in the infirmary now you find someone with him.

Fred W. Plonk and Alfred Land, of The Technician staff, were forced to spend a few days in the infirmary last

They said that they enjoyed the radio extensively, and that Joe Moore came and brought them newspapers and magazines, and that such hospitality as they received was not often found.

State Defeats Duke Blue Devils In Tight Contest

AVERETTE PITCHES CLEVERLY TO TAKE GAME FROM DEVILS

1929 Champions Fall As Furtado Bangs Out a Homer

TAKE FIRST GAME OF SEASON FROM VISITORS

Contest Featured By Circuit Clouting, Warren Connecting for Two Round Trips

Captain "Chick" Doak's N. C. State baseball club defeated the '29 Duke Southern Champion team 6 to 5 here last Saturday in an exciting brand of ball and before a capacity crowd.

It was the Blue Devils' first loss this season, and Pitcher William Averette and Tony Furtado were responsible for the downfall. The master of masters twirled superior ball, keeping the Duke hits well scattered and poiling out a homer in the third.

Furtado broke the 5-4 tie in the seventh frame when the sphere was sent high and long into the bleachers on Riddick Field.

Duke started the scoring in the second. Rochelle hit to Wilkie, who erred; Farley batted into what should have been a double, but a slow throw by Furtado sent only the former to the bench.

State took the lead the next stanza as Pitcher Averette socked a four-base knock and Turner hit, to be advanced by Furtado, and took third on a passed ball, and came home to Papa Doak when McKelthan threw wild.

The next scoring for Duke came in the sixth and seventh innings. Werber was on by a felder's choice to third, advanced when Henry Kistler was walked, and a single by the dangerous Bill Murray brought him home.

For the seventh's scoring, Farley tripped and Warren duplicated his second-inning work with another circuit clout.

State added one tally each in the fifth and sixth frames to tie the count, and then in the following time at bat Furtado bagged his home run to break the tie-up and furnish the winning tally.

One of the nicest fielding plays ever seen in college ball was executed by Bill Brake, State gardener, when in the first of the fourth Kistler walked, Rochelle singled, Murray sacrificed each, and Farley hit a long fly to centerfield.

Jack Coombs, Duke mentor, used two twirlers against the Staters, while Averette's pitching was sufficient to settle the Durham City players. Captain Nick Warren of the visitors led all in hitting with two homers and a single out of four times at bat.

Incidentally, Warren was the only one to get more than one base knock on either club.

STATE WORKS HARD FOR COMING GAMES

Freshmen To Play Carolina First-Year Men Next Saturday

STATE AND WAKE FOREST TO PLAY EASTER MONDAY

V. M. I. Cadets Here Friday In Only Varsity Game Scheduled for This Week

With a fresh win over Duke's Blue Devils last Saturday in baseball, Coach Doak starts preparation for one contest on the diamond this week, and the big game with Wake Forest on Easter Monday with a somewhat optimistic future ahead.

Friday sees the only tilt scheduled for the varsity boys this week, as the Cadets from V. M. I. journey to Raleigh for an engagement. This will be the first game with V. M. I., and the third game in the Tri-State League for the Staters. State previously has won from Washington and Lee and tied Maryland in this union.

Likely Captain Shore No batteries have been announced from either school for Friday's tilt, but Captain Sandy Shore will probably twist on Riddick Field for the Doakmen. Plonk will start the at-bay behind the plate, but may give way for his understudy, Modlin, in some part of the game, it was said.

The State nine will clash with Wake Forest on Easter Monday for the big day of games. This tilt marks an annual affair that has long years of history. Last season, Coach Doak's machine fell before the Wake lads, while the games previous to the 1929 clash have been even in games won and lost for both clubs.

The Staters possess an excellent team this year, and with the great Mr. William Averette slated to start the twirling the State Caps are favored to win. The game is billed at 2:30 p. m. It was announced by Manager Frank Clark.

The Tebell family of freshman ball players leaves for Chapel Hill Saturday morning for a game with the Heel first-year men on that afternoon.

State Raises Stock By Win Over Duke By virtue of the 6-to-5 win over the Duke Blue Devils, State raised her percentage in Big Five circles considerably to now rate in the front rank with Davidson and Duke.

The Devils won from the Foresters of Wake previous to their game with State, thus putting them in no mean position in the hectic race which is being had at present.

State has met the Wildcats three times to date, but it is uncertain if the game played at Concord will count in the Big Five race.

The only game to be recorded in the state race this week will consist of the Duke-Wake Forest tilt. Several contests are booked for state clubs for the balance of the week, but will have no bearing on the five teams in North Carolina.

Wednesday Baseball: Ursinus at Davidson, North Carolina at Virginia Poly, Guilford at Wake Forest, Presbyterian Junior College vs. Laurinburg High at Maxton, Mars Hill at Boiling Springs, Catawba at Appalachian, Wake Forest freshmen at Rutherford, and Campbell against Davidson freshmen.

Track: North Carolina State at Duke and Catawba at High Point. Tennis: Davidson at North Carolina. Golf: Davidson vs. Wake Forest at Raleigh.

Thursday Baseball: Ursinus at Duke; Wake Forest at Davidson; Appalachian at Lincoln Memorial; Wake Forest freshmen at Rutherford; Campbell at Belmont Abbey. Track: Elon at Guilford. Tennis: State tourney at Chapel Hill.

TWO TRACK MEETS SET FOR THIS WEEK

State Journeys Over To Durham Wednesday; Meets Davidson Friday

Two track meets have been arranged for this week in dual form, as State goes to the Bull City Wednesday to meet Duke and then plays host to Davidson here Friday.

Freshmen will see action, also, since they are to journey with the big boys of State to Durham. The freshmen will not participate in the Davidson meet, it was explained.

Moved From Saturday The Davidson-State meet was originally scheduled for Saturday, but due to the Easter holidays at this time it has been moved forward one day. The meet will start at 10 a. m., so as not to conflict with the baseball game in the afternoon.

The local college has defeated only one team thus far this season, losing to Washington and Lee and V. M. I. The 'Cats have a victory over Furman and possess valuable material, while the Devils have an equally strong team. The dashes and distances, plus field events, are well taken care of by State's opponents, and strong competition is sure to be had in the meets.

Same Entries State's entries will be the same as in the two Virginia meets, it was stated by Coach Sermon. The shot-put is under control by Patterson, but other field events and hurdles are scarce in the role of a sure victory man. The track events are covered by able men who should hold their own against competition from these two schools.

State Frosh Take Game From Oak Ridge In Nice Exhibition

The State College Freshmen sprang a surprise upon the military lads of Oak Ridge last week to take a wonderful exhibition of baseball, 7 to 1, from the visitors.

Jacob "Lefty" Wade entered the Hall of Fame as a result of the afternoon's contest with his superb twirling. The inconspicuous looking youngster limited Earl Holt's machine to three binges, fanned six hitters, and to top off the brilliance of his work golfed a long hit that went for a homer.

Not until the fourth frame did the great Mr. Wade even allow an Oak Ridger to reach first. Then, in the next inning, Walton tripled and came home on a passed ball by Catcher Brown to mar the clean sheet of the Wonder.

For the next three innings Jacob retired the batters in order. State's ball club, under the tutelage of Shorty Lawrance during the absence of Gustav Tebell, showed the wares that would be expected of any varsity team in this section, with nice fielding and timely hitting taking the leading parts. The baby Staters had two big innings, the first and the fifth.

In the fifth Wade connected for his circuit clout with two on bases for another three points. Willie Duke, ex-Concord leaguer, tapped a homer in the following time at bat for the Raleigh team's final score. This same Duke took fielding and batting honors for the home team with a single, triple and homer out of four trips to the plate.

"Tubby" Walton, Ridger, was the big gun out of the visitors' lineup, as the hefty center felder hit for a triple and pulled several hard-hit drives from the sky. Slayton, adjunct of Walton, connected for two binges out of four bats, to be the only military man to gain more than one hit off the great Mr. Wade.

Score by innings: State 800 031 00x-7 Oak Ridge 000 010 000-1 Wade and Brown; Ferrell, Rayle, and Shaw.

Trip To Virginia Ends In Disaster

The recent trip taken by the varsity track team into Virginia resulted in no good effects for the Staters, as both W. and L. and V. M. I. handed the North Carolina State cindermen rather disastrous defeats.

The Generals took the majority of first places, besides presenting two new records in the meet. Captain Sandifer set a new record in the century, while his partner, Algy Sowers, broke the old mark in high hurdles. State was defeated 73 1/3 to 52 2/3 by the Generals.

CAGE RULES CHANGED

GARNER TAKES MEET OF COUNTY SCHOOLS

Committee Makes New Alterations In Basketball

High School From South Wake Wins Sixth Annual Classic For Second Time

The sixth annual track tournament sponsored by the Athletic Department of N. C. State College here last Saturday resulted in the Garner High School taking both the boys' and girls' classes and winning the meet by a large score.

Apex was second with a score of 23 1/2. Other teams finishing include Hope 19, Wendell 12, Knightdale 8 1/2, and Fuquay Springs 8.

The Garner boys won five first places, showing up best in the dashes, distances, and shot-put.

GOLF TEAM MEETS 'CATS TOMORROW

Golf followers will have another afternoon of this sport tomorrow, as the State stickmen and Davidson participants combine in a meet at the Country Club.

The twosomes will be played in the morning, with the foursomes scheduled for afternoon play. State's entries will consist of Tom Mott, Dan Rion, Jack Briggs, and John White.

Each team has a meet taken from Wake Forest, and the Staters lost to the strong William and Mary team last Sunday.

THIS afternoon two of our teams see action. The varsity and freshman teams of track hop over to Durham for a little meet with Duke.

THEN, in the afternoon, we have a ball game on hand. The military march will be heard when V. M. I. tramps on the diamond.

BUT Monday is the day for State fans. The old reliable and annual game with Wake Forest is to be played. No tilt attracts as much attention as this one for Staters, and this one especially do we want to win.

Center jumping played a major part at the meeting, with a minor change resulting. The ball, when tossed at center, may be tapped not more than two times by either player, in or out of the circle.

TO Get More Time To allow more playing time, the timer's watch shall not be started until the ball leaves the thrower's hands.

Several other subjects were discussed, but left unwritten in the new rules. It was decided that a questionnaire would be sent to coaches during the coming season in regard to having only one bounce in the defensive half of the court.

so let's make some noise and cheer!

HOLIDAYS are not hated at State! Only one more day and we will be free until Wednesday next. While some of us are home having a big time, others will be laboring faithfully for Old State on the track, diamond, or in some other form of school spirit.

THAT is enough of sermons at present, so let us turn to our activities this week-end.

BEFORE we go further let us comment on the recent State-Duke game. A large crowd saw the Devils go down in defeat before Coach "Chick" Doak's team.

THIS afternoon two of our teams see action. The varsity and freshman teams of track hop over to Durham for a little meet with Duke.

Entered as second-class matter, February 10, 1920, at the postoffice at Raleigh, North Carolina, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Now that elections are over we wonder how politically inclined students will while the time away.

No, THE TECHNICIAN has not become a semi-weekly. The paper was printed two days earlier to enable students to get their papers before they went home for the holidays.

The military students are hoping that Major Lindsay McD. Silvester, who is to take Colonel Early's post here, will not forget to give them annually a Regimental ball.

The infirmary must be a mighty nice place. Alfred Land and Fred Plonk, healthy stalwarts who took a rest over there last week, sing with a loud note the praises of the hospital conveniences, especially the radio receiving sets.

Threatening rain kept many "Ag" students from attending the Agricultural Club weiner roast and dance at Lassiter's Mill Saturday night. The couples attending seemed to have had a wonderful time, and we noticed several romance-hungry Romeos gazing at the moon with shy damselfs on their arms—another sign of spring.

OUR INTENTION

This issue marks the take-off of the new staff of THE TECHNICIAN. With the veteran staff at the emergency stick to help cope with unforeseen difficulties we have assumed control of the paper.

It is customary for the new staff to give its aims and intentions. Ours will not be given very specifically. The value of rules changes with the times, and a well-advised decision at the present may be obsolete before a new issue is printed. Asked what he expected to do in regard to the Marion labor disorder last summer, Governor Gardner said: "I intend to do the right thing at the right time, if I know what that thing is." Our intentions are almost summed up in that statement.

We intend, however, as far as possible, to make THE TECHNICIAN a delineator of the college. We want it to portray campus sentiment and campus news. Petty disputes will be cast aside, personal animosities will be thrown overboard, and dogmatic beliefs discarded in our attempt to give the students a paper representative of their collective interests.

Constructive, not destructive criticism is our motto. We realize that it is impossible to compliment every action on the campus; if that were done the really commendable moves would not receive relative honor. A few brickbats make the rose look all the sweeter. Neither can one make interesting a "mushy" paper which looks optimistically at every campus move. A paper newsworthy enough to be interesting, conservative enough to be harmless, constructive enough to be helpful—that is our goal.

ELECTIONS ARE OVER!

Candidates, successful and unsuccessful, bury you hatchets—the election is over.

Bitter feelings inevitably arise in the course of elections. Sometimes this bitterness is allowed to smoulder and burst forth into deep and bitter hatred. But the man is a fool indeed who allows political prejudices to interfere with his friendships, or even to create dislike toward his acquaintances. The elections are over, and it will be better for all concerned if they are immediately forgotten.

Winners should remember that it takes more manhood to be a good loser than it does to be a winner. The pang of defeat pierces the loser's heart stronger than the joy of victory bubbles within the successful man.

But there is no reason why any man should be highly elated over his election or despondent over his defeat. A year or two from now no one will know whether he won or lost, and a few years later he himself will have been forgotten. The really important thing in any election is not who won or lost, but how he played the game. Did he offer a clean fight? Did he play the game like a man: tussle hard, and then, upon losing or winning, put away his arms and not assume a downtrodden attitude or an overbearing air because of defeat or victory?

The only important thing about student elections from a personal viewpoint is that the candidate earns for himself the satisfaction of having made a clean and valiant fight—that is worth more than all campus offices.

COMMENTS from other COLLEGES

By R. M. L.

Eleven students were dropped from the University of Illinois as a result of a prohibition drive conducted by the officials of the university.

According to a report of Dr. William H. McCastline, medical officer of Columbia University, the ordinary cold causes the greatest loss of time to college students.

Boston University boys have varied notions when it comes to selecting their ideal woman. Some want a social drinker, others a girl with brains and beauty. "Passionate or spontaneous, but never both," were the words used by one student when asked about his ideal mate. "She should be slender, infatuating, warm, affectionate, and slightly moral," said another. Other specifications were: religious consecration, sincerity, sophistication, marked excellence in cooking, and that "she should think more of her personality than her paint."

A professor of psychology at the University of Denver proposes a new type of college. His new type would not produce mighty warriors of the gridiron, sorority sisters, and fraternity brothers inflated by their superficial knowledge of the classics, but "students of purpose, scholarship, and invention of the highest kind." He proposes to drive from the halls of this institution the "fapper, the loafer, the sport, and the idle rich," to eliminate the red tape of examinations and ignore athletics.

Believing that compulsory chapel is not the modern way to bring religious participation to the hearts of college students, Penn State has moved to abandon this brief period of mental and physical torment. This proposal which was made by the College Senate to the College Board of Trustees will be effective with the 1930-1931 college year. Chapel services will be continued as usual, except that the students will not be required to attend.

The college man doesn't have to look at the world through rose-colored glasses—his eyes are always bloodshot.

THROUGH THE TRANSON

by Dick Yates

As the new editor so aptly says, the election is over, officers have been elected, other aspiring candidates have been disposed of for another year, and all is well with the publications. The idea of harboring grudges is as childish as circulating yellow sheets and T accounts against rival candidates. Just as much faith should be placed in such mediums of vileness as is placed in prediction promises and prenuptial murmurings. Forget the past, work during the present, and look with hopeful eyes to the future. With Easter holidays at hand, a full moon above, and a girl back home (for many), life is too sweet and too full to waste it with petty differences which hardly merit the time they consume.

Some days past a photograph of one of Meredith's beautiful girls appeared in the Winston-Salem Journal, captioned "Miss So-and-So. One of Meredith's Pretty Co-eds." What a tragic mistake! To elect a co-ed of a girl's school to one of the highest offices of the campus seems to be an error. It was an error. A reporter on the Journal staff thinks a girl is in, no matter what school she is co-ed. Upon all of that many journalists say that to study journalism in college is merely to waste otherwise valuable time. "The 'Tragedy of Misguided Youth'" wails Sanford Martin, editor of this Republican-owned newspaper. "Our Sympathy to These Poor Elders Who Had No Guidance" is the gift of youth which makes mistakes, but recovers without the aid of business enterprises masquerading under the name of newspapers.

We noticed a rather amusing news article in one of our daily papers last week. It seems that some out-of-town chap was arrested on charges of possessing whiskey (actually violating the Prohibition law, you know). He excused himself on the grounds that the whiskey kept the "mouths" (according to the report) out of his clothing. He was probably just an elderly chap who tried to fight off old age by another method. They do say that the stuff will make you feel like a kid again.

Well, we were rather surprised over the week end. You know the weather was rather warm and all that sort of thing. For the first time in ages the power plant has refrained from giving us heat on warm days. They're out of coal.

The Pioneers, local co-ed organization, have retired the old officers, grown aged and exhausted in the service of co-education, and elected new ones. We only mention this as news, because it's the first time that body has made an official move since the last hot-dog banquet. If they can now find something for these officers to do the Pioneers will indeed be a militant organization. Otherwise, the same trouble which caused the reputed "Fall of Rome" will find its way into the group and overturn "the little darlings." What was that cause? Oh, yes; weakness from within. Nevertheless, we hope they will forge forward.

Life's rather dull, you know, and any amusement or entertainment we may receive is very helpful.

A long list of offenses, made over a period of time, and culminating in the terrible faux pas of chewing tobacco in ranks caused the dismissal of two juniors from the military department last week.

A member of the staff, taking his honor and self-respect in his own puny hands, entered the military department in an attempt to run down the above rumor. He first approached Major Newgard and politely asked for the facts of the case. The Major replied that all information to go to the press came from Colonel Early. After trying vainly to get information from the former gentleman the staff member was ushered into the Colonel's presence, with a lengthy introduction, dealing with his intentions and even committing himself upon the honorableness of them. Colonel Early carefully explained that he had no intention of giving any information on the case . . . that the names of the dismissed students would not be divulged . . . and that the student newspaper should contain the good things that the students do. The staff member attempted to explain that a newspaper should contain the news of the campus, both good and bad. The Colonel professed to agreement with this as a policy, but nevertheless refused to furnish the information. After saying this the Colonel stated that the men were dismissed, but that their dismissal was not due to any defect in their character; that he had no intention of giving any information; that they were chewing tobacco; that he would give no information; and that the tobacco chewing was not considered sufficient grounds to dismiss a student.

ROBERTSON'S TEXTBOOK FINDS GREAT APPROVAL

Local Journalism Professor is Highly Elated Over Success of His Book

"Introduction to Modern Journalism," by Professor Stewart Robertson, of the State College faculty, is finding favor with all sorts of people interested in newspapers, judging by the book notices and "fan mail" received by the author. The publishers have written that "We hear nothing but favorable reports of it, and it looks as if it is going to get over. It seems to have penetrated to all parts of the country and among all classes of people." He has received letters ranging from English professors through editors and other officials of newspapering down to those engaged in the technical departments.

Various publications, including the 'Editor and Publisher,' 'The Newspaper Man's Newspaper,' 'The Columbia University Alumni News,' 'The Associated Press,' dailies and college newspapers, have carried reports of it, and many letters from active newspaper workers, professors of journalism, and students testify to its usefulness.

An Associated Press correspondent in Washington, D. C., wrote: "I have been extremely busy covering Congress, with all of its various ramifications, but I managed to find time to read your book. It's a corker. It gives the story of journalism tersely and to the point; that's journalism."

Professor C. E. Rogers, head of the department of Industrial Journalism at Kansas State College, wrote: "I am much pleased with your book. I think the sections on news and feature stories and on how the news is edited are excellent. I've never seen so thorough a description of how copy is handled. Your collection of material from the newspapers is unusually fine. We shall use it for reference work in several of our classes."

Nell R. Murry, editor and manager of the El Monte Herald, California, one of the foremost weeklies in the country, wrote Professor Robertson that he wished to help place his book in the journalism classes of California.

A correspondent of one of the leading Boston dailies writes: "Professor Robertson carries his readers on a complete inspection tour, as it were, through all the masses attendant on the compilation and preparation of the representative American newspaper. The book is an excellent one and should be in the hands of everyone who intends to follow journalism as a profession, as well as the occasional writer for the papers, and in addition, students of English composition will find it of much help to them."

Dr. Thomas P. Harrison, professor of English here, says: "With straight-away style and a lightness of touch which he prescribes for other journalists, Professor Robertson has succeeded in making his 'Introduction to Modern Journalism' both informing and interesting. The author has chosen to set forth the philosophy of his subject by examples, and the effect is impressive. He has displayed discriminating judgment in his selections."

From expressions received, the book seems particularly interesting to newspaper workers. "I think the book is excellently edited," writes a staff reporter of The Atlanta Constitution, "and the art of news-writing presented in an interesting and helpful way. Every man in this office, including the managing editor, has asked me to let him have it."

A young man in a printing office in Mount Morris, Ill., who is planning to come to State College to take journalism, says: "Your recent work strikes me as being far the best I have as yet read. The clear, concise practicability of the book has enabled me to gain much from it."

Many other similar comments from reviews and letters have been received without a single unfavorable comment.

Ben Dixon MacNeill, well-known newspaper man and magazine contributor, says of this book: "As a textbook there is not anything in the field that is its superior, nothing that is quite its equal in comprehension of the subject with which it deals. The whole field of journalism, from how to write personal items to the production of the rare and unusual, is covered succinctly and clearly. It brings journalism to life and keeps it absorbingly alive for more than 300 pages. There are not any 'dead' chapters in it. From the beginning it takes hold of the subject, not as an academic professor would handle chemistry or calculus, but as one who knows it as something that is dynamic and possessed of some purpose."

book; it is an intelligent consideration of the entire field of the newspaper. It is the story of journalism as it is practiced in the republic today, complete from a table that illustrates the unintelligible marks that a proofreader makes in a galley proof, to brilliant examples of the newspaper writer's art. And here we come to the excellent balance that is maintained throughout the book—enough precept to make it invaluable to the student who wants to discover the mechanics of journalism, and enough of the finished product of the journalistic art to make it captivating reading throughout.

"Here, briefly and concisely, the student will be told the how and why of doing a thing on a newspaper, and told as any city editor might tell a cub. Here is all that needs to be known about the matter. The book is profound in its discussion of the principles and mechanics that go into the making of a newspaper, and as interesting as anything that is likely to come over the radio or that is to be seen at the moving pictures."

DEAN RIDDICK PRAISES WORK OF MILITARY UNIT

Head of Engineering School Reviews Parade of Regiment Monday

Dean W. C. Riddick, head of the School of Engineering, was honored Monday noon at the weekly R. O. T. C. Regimental Review. Dean Riddick stated that he was very much pleased with the ceremonies and that he thought the R. O. T. C. regiment increases each year in appearance and spirit. He is the oldest member of the faculty at State College, his connection with the institution dating from 1892, soon after the founding of the college. Graduating from the University of North Carolina, he received a Civil Engineering degree from Lehigh University. He was president at State College during years 1916-1923. There are more engineering students in the R. O. T. C. than any other school on the campus.

The so-called divorce problem has had many expositions at the hands of dramatists and scenarists, but perhaps never before from the amazing viewpoint of "The Divorcee," Norma Shearer's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talking vehicle, which is coming to the State Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

She plays the role of a woman who, convinced of her husband's lapses into error, herself admits promiscuous living to meet him on a common ground. Follows the divorce, and finally the surprising debasement in which a powerful dramatic climax shows up divorce from a new sociological aspect.

Chester Morris plays opposite Miss Shearer and gives an intensely human characterization as the husband, Robert Montgomery and Conrad Nagel, as the divorcee's lovers, play their roles with deft artistry. The intelligent direction of Robert Z. Leonard is apparent in every scene.

A talking comedy, novelty and Sound News will complete the program.

Gary Cooper, recently seen and heard in the title role of "The Virginian," is doing his gallanties again at the State next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in a thrilling play, "Only the Brave." For many a feminine heart the foregoing statement, brief as it is, will no doubt be sufficient recommendation to this newest offering.

But in case there are any doubters, it must be added that "Only the Brave" shows Cooper to a better advantage, far better, than his previous satisfactory best.

Paramount chose wisely when it selected Mary Brian as the sweetheart of Gary Cooper in this picture. Their tremendous success as the lovers in "The Virginian" found great favor with film fans everywhere.

"Only the Brave" is from an original story by Keene Thompson. It deals with the crinoline days when Grant and Lee were saying it with cannon and troops. Gary Cooper is a captain of cavalry on the Union side who, embittered because his sweetheart has jilted him, volunteers for spy duty. Accordingly he is sent behind the Southern lines with a packet of false dispatches. His plan is to be arrested and to have the false dispatches discovered by the enemy, who will then be misled into a fatal movement of troops.

But he meets Mary Brian and the plot then becomes a series of adventures in which love and duty fight for eminence. The ending is a happy one.

"The Song of Love," Columbia's all-talking, singing and dancing feature starring Belle Baker, showing at the State Theatre Saturday, offers complete and satisfying entertainment to any and every type of theatre-goer. In addition to the star performance of Belle Baker, historically and vocally, and the excellent musical score, there is a human interest story with plenty of heart interest.

"The Three Gibsons," Tom, Anna, and their little boy, Buddy, make up a small vaudeville team. Anna decides to give up her career for the sake of her son's future. Tom, lovable but weak, succumbs to the wiles of another woman when his wife leaves him to make a home for Buddy. Anna goes into the show business again. This time she is alone. She proves a tremendous sensation. When Buddy, who has been placed in a military school, hears of his parents' separation, he decides to bring them together again—and he does. Tom repents, reforms, and proves himself a real man. Ralph Graves and David Durand score in the roles of father and son. Erle C. Kenton, director, deserves special credit for his work on this production.

Do not miss this picture—it's one of the best.

On the stage at 3:30 and 9—Dolores Crozier Lashley's annual spring frolic featuring Her Darling Dolls.

Zane Grey's famous novel, "The Light of Western Stars," has been dramatized on the talking screen by Paramount and will be presented at the Palace Theatre Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 24, 25, and 26. Heading the cast of screen favorites who are seen and heard in this picture are Richard Arlen and Mary Brian, the sweethearts of "Burning Up," and Harry Green, Fred Kohler, and Regis Toomey.

"The Light of Western Stars" is a typical Zane Grey story, replete with daring adventure, delightful romance, and, in this particular case, some of the funniest comedy sequences yet heard on the audible screen. There is a sweeping tempo that carries "The Light of Western Stars" through one startling scene after the other, culminating in a breath-taking climax as Richard Arlen, in desperate attempt to save Mary Brian from a gang of outlaws, starts a stampede of horses. This scene, the most exciting of the picture, is a thrillingly vivid sequence, the equal of which has seldom been seen on the screen.

In addition to the romance which

Selected as Best Drilled Platoon at State College

The 1st Platoon of Company I, commanded by Cadet First Lieut. W. M. White, of Herford, has been declared the best drilled platoon in the Reserve Officers Training Corps Regiment at State College, as the result of elimination competitive drills recently held. This competition, held annually each spring, is watched with interest by the entire cadet corps.

is taken care of by Mary Brian and Richard Arlen, with Regis Toomey rounding out the eternal triangle, there is much easy fowing, mirth-inspiring humor which, for the most part, is supplied by Harry Green, who scored so favorably in "The Kibitzer" and more recently with Nancy Carroll in "Honey." Cast as a cowboy peddler with a penchant for misquoting fables, Harry Green is seen and heard in the funniest role of his career. And Fred Kohler, the perennial "bad" man, is excellent in one of his carefully-projected villainous roles. Others in the cast who do good work include William Lemaire, the Confederate guard in "Only the Brave"; Guy Oliver, George Chandler, and Gus Saville.

Otto Brower and Edwin Knopf directed "The Light of Western Stars," which Grover Jones and William Slaves McNutt, co-authors of "The Mighty," adapted for the screen.

Northwestern Debaters Pay Visit To the College

A trio of Northwestern University debaters breezed into Raleigh Sunday night for an overnight stop while on their debating tour, upon which they are staging thirteen debates in fifteen nights and traveling three thousand miles.

These verbal battlers were John Doesburg, a former student of Professor Edwin H. Paget, speech department head here; Jerome Flis, and Julian Lambert. The latter two entered Northwestern about the time Professor Paget graduated there. All of the men are students of Professor C. C. Cunningham, formerly head of the speech department here, but now head of the debating division of public speaking at Northwestern University. In the interest of Professor Cunningham and due to the fact that they were personal friends of Professor Paget and Hardy M. Ray of Raleigh, who was once a student at Northwestern and was on the faculty here last year, they stopped over in Raleigh on their way to debate High Point College.

Out of one hundred debaters, these men were selected to represent Northwestern on the trip, which was to carry them into Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia, and North and South Carolina. When they were here they had won nine out of ten debates.

The three Northwestern men are debating on the two subjects of chain stores and complete disarmament of all forces except such as are needed

Short Tobacco Course Will Be Given Here From April 22 To 29

Several Federal Government men will be on the State College campus from April 22 through 29 to give a short course in tobacco grading. The purpose of this short course will be to train men to grade tobacco for the Government.

This course will be open to interested State College students and also anyone outside the college that may be interested. It is not known whether the people who take the course will get a job as a tobacco grader or not. This is uncertain, for the Government may not have openings for all who take the course.

Some of the members of the State College faculty will make talks during the week, including Dr. E. C. Brooks and Dr. J. B. Cotner.

Speed of the aspen, Strength of the oak

The Bell System has vitality. It grows. It meets the needs of the nation for more and more service, for many new kinds of service.

To do this it has increased plant investment in twenty-nine years from $181,000,000 to more than three and three-quarter billions. Rapid growth, yet growth that has gone step by step with smoother operation, greater efficiency.

From laboratory and field constantly come developments and improvements which add to the System's usefulness. Here there is a dynamic urge to do it better. The telephone organization stays young—it thrives on new ideas.

Pi Kappa Alpha Dance

Of interest to the young social set throughout this and other states will be the twenty-fourth annual Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity dance on Easter Monday night in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium at N. C. State College.

Each year this dance claims and reclaims for itself the honor of being the largest and smartest social affair of the year. For twenty-four years and without interruption this Easter Monday dance has advanced to its present outstanding stage. The first dance was given in 1906 after the Pan-Hellenic Council at State College decided that fraternities should give an annual dance. In this respect the Pi Kappa Alpha dance stands alone, for it has outriden the storms wherein all its companions faltered, only to sail in the direction of Easter Monday with even greater possibilities.

Miss Florence Briggs, with Allie P. Baggett, president of the chapter, will lead the figure. Those assisting are: Miss Mary Alice Huxford, with John B. Gray; Miss Eula Beth Warner, with Sam Quantz; Miss Mabel Monroe, with Tom Stuart.

A house party at their home at 1910 Hillsboro Street will be chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. M. C. S. Noble and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Park.

Contrary to the usual custom, a midnight banquet will be given immediately after the dance for the attending guests in the dining-room of the fraternity home, and at this time the favors will be distributed.

Russ Bolin's Cotton Pickers, Brunswick Recording Orchestra, will furnish the music for the occasion.

The Alpha Epsilon Chapter will be the host to the brother Pi Kappa Alpha chapters at Duke, Davidson, and Carolina, whose custom it is to attend.

Following the Pi Kappa Alpha dance on Easter Monday night in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium, a series of Easter dances will be given by the State College German Club.

"Ag." Club Dance

The "Ag." Club held a combination werner-stew and dance at Lassiter's Mill Saturday night. Members of the club and their girls attended.

The group met at Glenwood avenue at 6:30 and trolled out to the mill, where they roasted weners and ate until nearly 8 o'clock, when the ballroom was opened and dancing engaged in. The party lasted until 11:30. Earl H. Meacham had charge of the entertainment.

A. Z. Plans Feed

Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, will give their annual spring banquet May 24, in the Carolina Hotel. The banquet will be held in the Carolina Hotel at 6 o'clock and will be followed by a theater party.

Alpha Zeta members, their girls, and alumni members are expected to attend.

To Have Banquet

Lambda Gamma Delta, honorary judging fraternity, will give a banquet at the Carolina Hotel May 7, members of the organization announced following a recent meeting.

All active members are expected to be present and alumni members will be invited to attend.

Lambda Gamma Delta is composed of students who have represented State College in some intercollegiate judging contest. It is a national organization.

College Glee Club Returns From Tour Western Carolina

North Carolina State College Glee Club and Orchestra made their annual tour of the western part of the State last Thursday and Friday.

The Glee Club and orchestra appeared only twice, once at Mt. Holly and again at the Berry Hill High School. The local entertainers were heartily applauded at each appearance.

Discussing the trip, a glee club member said: "The people of both places showed great hospitality in entertaining us, the homes were open and the towns gave warm welcomes by giving parties, sight-seeing trips, and other entertainment. The crowds were very well pleased at the performances and gave their hearty welcome to the Glee Club and Orchestra for next year."

Sigma Alpha Kappa Elects New Officers For Ensuing Year

Sigma Alpha Kappa, accounting fraternity, elected officers for the coming year at their monthly business meeting last week, and the newly-elected men assumed office at the end of the meeting. This fraternity was established at State College in 1928 and has attempted in its three short years of existence to create a greater interest in accounting and to further the knowledge of the subject by bringing in from the outside speakers who were capable of giving the students practical points on the subject.

Each month a speaker is secured who brings some message to the accounting students and to those interested in the subject, in an open meeting. Last month the fraternity had as the principal speaker Charles N. Goodno, of Raleigh. The next open meeting will be on Wednesday following Easter. The speaker for that occasion will probably be a former student of State College, Jimmie Green, auditor for the Bland Hotel Chain.

The officers elected were E. A. Rutter, president; A. C. Little, vice-president; J. W. Lewis, secretary, and H. J. Theil, treasurer.

Regimental Dance For Military Men Friday, May 2nd

The second annual military ball, for all members of the R.O.T.C. unit at State College, will be held Friday night, May 2, in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium.

The military ball last year was one of the best dances given at State College, and the committee in charge this year are working diligently to make the forthcoming occasion a greater success than ever.

The decorations committee this year, composed of the commander of each company, will have to work hard in order to improve on the decorations which were entirely in coherence with the ball last year.

The dance committee is composed of C. H. Belvin, C. H. Jourdan, J. H. Workman, seniors; L. R. Mercer, W. T. Clement, juniors; Jimmie Halstead, Frank Graham, J. H. Austin, sophomores, and Bion Chapman, Gaither Scott, and T. D. Cooper, freshmen.

The ball is being anticipated by all the military officers and students who are taking military training.

"Y" Officers Witness Meredith Installation

In response to an invitation from officials of the Meredith College B. S. U. cabinet, members of the State College Y. M. C. A. cabinet, headed by Edgar W. Buchanan, local president attended the installation of the new cabinet members in the Meredith College auditorium Sunday night at 6:30.

On the Sunday night occasion the new cabinet members took over lighted candles of service with the characteristic ceremony of the organization. Miss Madeline Elliott, student secretary of the B. S. U. at Meredith,

DEAD METAL LEAPS TO LIFE at the hands of Westinghouse engineers

IT is engineering that breathes the spark of life into lifeless metal, that converts it into active machinery, that makes of it an adaptable servant. One essential ingredient of that engineering is imagination. A second is rational thinking, the object of your technical training. And the third is teamwork.

In the development of the 55,000 kw. Duke Power Turbines, teamwork extended back to the date when George Westinghouse brought the steam turbine to America. It included men who have made life studies of vibration, of blade design, of the effects of superheated steam on metals; men who know how to make huge castings, the packers who have mastered the science of shipping giant machinery. And it took in also the business men who create a market for such machinery and who cement together the many-fold activities of the Westinghouse institution.

The 55,000 kw. turbine generator units that Westinghouse built for the River Bend station of Duke Power Company are the largest in the South.
