REGISTRAR MAYER ASKS STUDENTS CHECK ROSTER

Passing of This Year's Work May Still Play Big Part In June Graduation, Says Mayer—Students' Names Left Out of List Unless Credits Are Straightened Out In Registrar's Office—Graduation Roll May Be Increased—Co-eds Total Five for Honors This Year.

Two hundred and thirty-eight seniors will be graduated in June, provided they do not fall down on this year's work, a tentative list of graduates given out by W. L. Mayer, registrar, revealed this week. Five co-eds are named in the tentative list.

The names are alphabetically arranged and Professor Mayer admonishes any student expecting to graduate whose name does not appear on the list to come by the registrar's office in Holladay Hall and get his credits straightened out. Other students are expected to come through with required credits, swelling the list.

The list follows:
D. C. Abee, A.E.; R. P. Aldridge, A.E.; E. M. Allen, B.A.; N. B. Altier, For.; H. E. Altman, For.; M. B. Amos, Tex.Mfg.; L. H. Angell, Agr.Ed.; J. O. Artman, For.

SENIOR SUPERLATIVES TO BE VOTED UPON NEXT WEEK

Results To Be Announced Wednesday—All Ballots To Be Turned In Tuesday

Senior superlatives will be announced Wednesday, December 10, after Agromeck officials have tabulated final results of the ballots, which must be properly marked and placed in the box on the Agromeck office door by Tuesday, December 9.

To vote, seniors, merely clip the ballot appearing at bottom of page 2 of this issue, scratch out names of all persons except the one you wish to vote for and drop the list in the box before Tuesday.

Three men were nominated for each of the 18 positions at a class meeting early this week.

Only seniors are eligible to vote in the election.

Group pictures of the winners, who will be announced in next week's TECHNICIAN, are to be taken Sunday afternoon, December 14, at the same time group pictures are made.

Governor Advises Classmates While At State 27 Years Ago

A small minority of the students in any institution can, and as a rule do, create the disturbance that gives rise to opinions injuring beyond measure their own reputation and the college to which they belong. Gov. O. Max Gardner told his classmates 27 years ago in the September 30, 1903, issue of "Red and White," magazine of the then North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, where he was athletic editor, student, and chemistry instructor.

"To be successful," he said, "it is important to begin right, and the habits formed in college will, in the main, continue through life; and if students will persist in being so careful about their conduct, they must reap an amicable reward."

"LITTLE COLONEL"

MARtha CAROLINE SARGENT

Martha Sargent Regiment Queen Of State Corps

Miss Martha Caroline Sargent, of Hendersonville, has been named "Queen of the Regiment" at North Carolina State College by Cadet Col. Charles B. Turner, also of Hendersonville.

The "Little Colonel" of the Reserve Officers Training Corps will lead the figure in the Military Ball this year.

The annual regimental dance at State College is considered by the State College cadets and students to be an outstanding social event.

Carolina Debaters Lose To State In Tuesday Meet

The negative debating team of N. C. State College defeated the affirmative team from Carolina Tuesday evening in Pullen Hall, on the query, "Resolved, That the nations should adopt a policy of free trade." Lucy and Merritt upheld the affirmative side for Carolina, while D. Stokes and J. E. Gill were the representatives of N. C. State.

Before the debate started ballots were distributed among the audience and they were asked to vote as to their opinion of the question. Twenty-one were in favor of the proposition, 26 were undecided, while 30 were opposed to the question. After the debate was over the audience was again asked to vote, and this time they were asked these questions and voted again, according to facts presented during the debate. Four voted more in favor —Continued on page 5.

CHECK!

To avoid future confusion W. L. Mayer, registrar, has asked all sophomores, juniors, and seniors to come by the registrar's office and check their rosters.

"This is your last chance, and if you have not checked and signed your roster, come by the office immediately," Mr. Mayer said, adding that if they checked their credits many irregular seniors would be able to arrange their work to make up their deficiencies and be graduated in June.

Pine Burr Scholarship Frat Initiates Dozen On Thursday

"YOU AND I" TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT BY RED MASQUERS

Philip Barry's Prize-Winning Play To Be Presented Pullen Hall Eight o'Clock

The first presentation of the Red Masquers, State College dramatic organization, will be tonight, when they present "You and I," Philip Barry's Pulitzer prize-winning play of 1923, in Pullen Hall at 8 o'clock.

Last year the Red Masquers presented the play, "Captain Applejack," which was presented to a well-pleased audience.

This year the following cast has been selected to play the various roles: Veronic Dams, Hazel McDonald; Roderick White, M. B. Amos; Nancy White, Catherine Harding; Mattland White, John White; Etta, Hulda Branch; G. T. Warren, J. D. Britt; Geoffrey Nichols, Dwight Stokes.

A staff has been selected to look after the technical work for the Red Masquers production. The property and make-up department is under the supervision of Mrs. Ganger and the stage settings and electrical arrangements are being handled by Students Butler and Seagraves.

The play is a three-act production, with the first scene taking place at Mount Kisco, the country home of the Whites in Winchester County in New York. The time is an afternoon in September. The second scene is in the "studio," which is located in the attic of the country home. The time is the following May. The third scene is in the "studio" and the time is the evening of the same day.

Larger Budget Is Sent In By School For Ensuing Year

State College is asking the State Budget Commission for $562,000 to take care of maintenance of the college for next year (1931-32), or an increase of $202,000 over the amount received this year, according to Dr. E. C. Brooks in his speech at the Junior and Senior Assembly in Pullen Hall Wednesday noon. Eight hundred thousand is being asked for to be used in making permanent improvements.

Dr. Brooks said that the budget was prepared to show the needs of State College and where expansion is necessary to take care of the growth of the institution. The budget submitted, he said, shows that $562,000 will be needed to maintain properly the physical plant, provide for additional teachers, raise the standards of our teaching staff, and improve the personal service to the students. He administered to equip the dormitories more efficiently so that they would be more comfortable for the students to live in.

Continuing in regard to permanent improvements and other phases of the matter, Dr. Brooks said: "In like manner, the budget for permanent equipment sets forth what new buildings are needed and what repairs and campus improvement and equipment are needed to take care —Continued on page 2

MARY SUE BORDERS

Mary Sue Borders Will Lead Parade As "Princess" Pat

Mary Sue Borders of Shelby has been named "Princess Pat" for 1931 to reign with "Saint Pat," G. W. Dameron of Bessemer City, at the annual Engineers' Fair and Grand Brawl at North Carolina State College on April 2 to 4.

Princess Pat will lead a colorful parade of torchlights in a "green chariot" on the opening night when she makes her first appearance.

Every department of engineering will be represented in the annual parade held in Raleigh and the floats will be judged by prominent State officials and authorities in the mechanical field.

A huge green snake, said to be the largest ever paraded by students, will feature the parade. The young engineers will be garbed in characteristic plug hats of the Irish in honor of Saint Patrick, whom the engineers honor for his famous "worm drive."

The fair will be brought to a close with the "Grand Brawl" which will be held in Frank Thompson Gymnasium on April 4, with Saint Pat and his Princess presiding.

Senior engineers, who have proved themselves worthy in their respective fields, will kneel before the Princess' throne, after kissing the barley stone, and be dubbed Knights of Saint Patrick, which signifies outstanding accomplishment in the college engineering world of State.

LATEST FRAT

"Delta Handa Poker," honorary frat, is the latest organization at N. C. State College.

Hanging midway Watauga dormitory is a huge wheel similar to the emblem of the Rotary Club and inscribed thereon is the name of the club. In the center of the wheel is painted a large reproduction of the Ace of Spades.

Who the members of this organization are is a mystery to the college, and unless it is a "college prank," some names may be revealed in the Student Council on a charge of gambling, which is against the rules of the college governing body.

Two Co-eds At State College In Year 1903, Says Magazine

Co-eds were attending North Carolina State College 27 years ago, according to the "Red and White" magazine of September 30, 1903.

Under a column of college notes, a student writer in that issue says: "We are very glad to say that this year we have two lady students with us. It speaks well for the college, and we hope they will continue to come." Since 1903, the co-ed enrollment has reached a high mark of 76 women this year. Ada C. Spencer of Raleigh was the first co-ed at State College to register as a regular freshman and complete the full four-year course. She was graduated with the class of 1930. Dan M. Paul of Pantego, president of the student body, says: "The women students at the institution have been the source of criticism, both good and bad, but for the most part have done their share to build a high scholarship and to increase the pride in personal appearance of the men." Women students have received a cordial welcome from many of the honorary fraternities of the college, but the Student Council does not think that this is the time for a separate student government for women, and voiced this opinion in a recent petition to the Board of Trustees. Lorena Brinson, of Raleigh, president of the co-ed government, believes, however, that there is a great need for a separate women's government at the college and says that there are "charges brought against the women that are not appropriate for the men's student council to discuss."

SOPHOMORES ASK FACULTY'S HELP IN LIQUOR FIGHT

Pres't Stroupe Wants 10 Minutes for Class Discussion

"Sophomores Want 100 Per Cent Backing From the Faculty To Outlaw Drinking At College, and Now is the Time We Need It," Says President Stroupe—"Action of Class To Put Down Liquor Evil Worth More Than Making of Speeches By So-called Leaders in Politics," Says Perry Morgan.

State College will have a "prohibition day" soon at which time every teacher will be asked to take the first ten minutes of his class hour to discuss the effects of drinking on the individual and on society, if the faculty council adopts the proposed plan of J. E. Stroupe, sophomore class president, who recently outlawed liquor among the sophomore class.

If this plan does not meet their sanction, Stroupe implores the faculty council to formulate a better plan of cooperation, saying: "What we want is 100 per cent backing from the faculty in our fight to outlaw drinking at N. C. State College, and right now is the time we need it."

The letter in full follows: "The sophomore class has gone on record as outlawing drinking among its members. As president of the class we are anxious to see the members of the sophomore class live up —Continued on page 2

STATE ON AIR SATURDAY OVER WPTF AT 5 O'CLOCK

The Technician Will Have Part On Saturday's Broadcast With Other College Items

North Carolina State College will be on the air over Radio Station WPTF at 5 o'clock every Saturday for 15 minutes with "Campus Gossip."

Topics ranging from agriculture to engineering will be discussed with the latest news brief of student activities.

The broadcast is sponsored by the State College News Bureau, with Louis H. Wilson as spokesman.

Frank H. Jeter, director of the Bureau, will edit the news program and says that the broadcast will be fitted to "the public's taste" and items pertaining to the greatest interest in agriculture, business and engineering will be discussed through news briefs from authorities in every field.

"State College, Keep Fighting Along" will be the theme song of the 15-minute feature with Kingham Scott, studio artist, at the piano.

The State College broadcast will include a feature on THE TECHNICIAN this week.

WORLD RELATIONS CLUB MEETS WITH MEREDITH

Discuss the Brazilian Revolt At Social Discussion Meeting

With the recent Brazilian revolt as the subject for discussion, the International Relations Clubs of State and Meredith met Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. at a social discussion meeting, comprising the first joint gathering of the clubs this year.

Separated into two groups, the clubs during the first hour discussed almost exclusively the revolt in Brazil, showing how it affected the United States and other countries. Reasons for the uprising, possible effects of the change of government, and other angles of the revolt were brought forth.

During the next and last hour of the meeting, the entire category of international questions, the condition of India, the Italy-France controversy, Russia's difficulty in getting official recognition, and other matters of international importance, were discussed briefly.

Hot chocolate was served during the interval between the change of groups. The visitors at the meeting follow:

Misses Fannie Bailey, Gertrude Bostic, Mae Campbell, Sallie Council, Georgia Cowan, Louise Clark, Mary Elizabeth Elam, Frances Elias, Kathleen Helms, Pearl Hodges, Nettie Southworth Herndon, Lillian Johnson, Harriet Madroe, Lottie Belle Myers, Ava Woody, and Mrs. Gwyn Moore, wife of the president of the State Club.

Bramer New Professor In Engineering School

Charles R. Bramer has reported to the department of Civil Engineering to fill the vacancy made by the death of Prof. J. D. Jamison. Professor Jamison taught Theoretical and Field Surveying.

Professor Bramer, a graduate of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, was highly recommended by the president of the western college and by the head of the Mining Engineering department. He has practically completed work for the advanced degree of mining engineer.

In addition to taking over the work taught by Professor Jamison, Theoretical and Field Surveying, he will also have charge of the course in Mining Engineering. In the past two years this work has been conducted by the department of Ceramic Engineering.

of an expanding institution. The following buildings should be repaired: Winston Hall, Patterson Hall, and the Mechanical Engineering Shops. New buildings needed are an auditorium, dairy and beef cattle barns, an agricultural engineering building, and one dormitory. The needs for paved roads, botanical gardens, and further campus improvement, and dormitory and departmental equipment are itemized. The total cost would amount to $800,000.

"The General Assembly will consider these budget needs and decide whether a part or all can be provided by the General Assembly. Of course, the financial condition at the present time will operate against the full requests being granted, but the General Assembly will have before it the entire needs as outlined and can select from these needs such improvements as it may be able to make."

The State Budget Commission will take the estimated needs of State College and make recommendations to the General Assembly, which will decide how far the estimated revenue will go to meet the needs of this and other institutions, and how the funds, when appropriated, must be applied.

According to Dr. Brooks, the last General Assembly appropriated $450,000 for the maintenance of State College for the year (1930-31), but on account of a decline in State revenue, this amount was reduced 20 per cent, or $90,000, which made it necessary to raise student fees this year. The law provides that if the revenue is not sufficient to meet State appropriations, the latter shall be reduced until the revenue shall be equal to the appropriations, in order that the State budget may balance. Our appropriation, therefore, this year was $360,000.

NOT PHONEY

Sixteen pay telephones were installed in the sixteen dormitory club sections of the campus here last week.

The phones were installed by and remain the property of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company. They put them in upon a request from the college and assumed all risk; charging no deposit nor guarantee. They retain the right to remove them in case of dissatisfaction at any time.

Each dormitory club was required to sign the application for their respective phone. They were put in without booths, thereby incurring no expense on the part of the college. In some cases they were placed within the janitor's closet on the halls to facilitate protection from annoyance. The underground cables which were installed on the campus in 1924 between the buildings were made use of in all cases possible; otherwise overhead wires were put up to connect the buildings.

Arrowsmith To Inspect State's Military Unit

Col. G. W. Arrowsmith, a member of the staff of Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commanding general of the Fourth Corps Area of the United States army, with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., will arrive in Raleigh Saturday, December 6, to inspect the Reserve Officers Training Corps activities on Monday, December 8. As staff officer in charge of R. O. T. C. affairs, Colonel Arrowsmith is making his annual visit to all educational institutions in the nine states of the corps area at which units of the Reserve Officers Training Corps are located.

Following a conference with President E. C. Brooks at State College Monday morning, Colonel Arrowsmith will visit classes conducted by the military department and will then inspect the R. O. T. C. band, drum and bugle corps, and the entire regiment on the drill field. For the drill field inspection, students will appear in full dress uniform, including white belts and gloves.

During his visit to Raleigh, Colonel Arrowsmith will be entertained by Maj. Lindsay McD. Silvester, commandant of the military department at State College. There will be a dinner in honor of the visitor at the Capital City Club on Saturday evening.

to this action, and we also hope to see the other classes take similar action. We feel that if we can stop drinking among students at State College scholarship standing of the student body will be raised, and that conduct will be greatly improved.

"In this matter of creating sentiment against student drinking we very greatly need the cooperation of the entire State College faculty. We therefore hereby petition the Faculty Council to set aside a day in the immediate future on which every teacher will be asked to take the first ten minutes of each class hour to talk to or discuss with his students the effects of drinking on the individual and on society. We feel that each department can get at this evil from a different angle. For example, the athletic coaches can tell how drinking hurts an athlete, and the sociologist can tell about the effects on the family, while the economist can tell about the economic waste caused by drinking; and the engineer can tell how drinking causes accidents on the highway and in industrial plants.

"If this plan does not appeal to the Faculty Council we ask that you at once formulate some better plan of cooperation. What we want is 100 per cent backing from the faculty in our fight to outlaw drinking at N. C. State College, and right now is the time we need it."

Stroupe is receiving letters from all parts of the United States, congratulating him and his classmates for their action in "outlawing liquor."

"My heart goes out in gratitude to you for the good you are promoting in your college, and I am convinced and assured that it will be a blessing to many others," writes Mrs. Olga McDonald of Evanston, Ill., who has three sons in Northwestern University, one of whom is a football player.

Dr. Charlotte F. Hammond, of Chapel Hill, in commending the second-year men, says in part: "If I were in the way of betting, I should wager that the standing of your class, mentally and physically, at graduation will be the highest or one of the highest that State College has sent forth from its doors. Your class has set an example which will, I hope and believe, be followed by other institutions of learning."

Perry Morgan, prominent Baptist of the State Association, believes that "what the sophomores have done to put down the liquor evil will be worth more than the making of many speeches' by so-called leaders in politics."

Letters from other men of prominence express similar opinions. Robert N. Simms, outstanding lawyer from Raleigh, and T. E. Browne, director of instruction at State College, highly commend President Stroupe for his leadership in the movement.

WOLFPACK LOSES FINAL ENGAGEMENT TO S.C. GAMECOCKS

State Kept On Defensive Most of Game, All Attempts To Gain Ground Being Useless—One Score for University of South Carolina Made On Blocked Kick—State's Line Weak—Wolfpack Threatens In Serious Way During First Quarter, With Passes and End Run Gaining Ground—Lose Ball When Gains Not Continued.

The N. C. State Wolfpack, playing its last game of the season, lost to the Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina in Columbia, November 22, by a score of 19-0.

The winning team made all its gains through a drowsy North Carolina line. Only once did they try the aerial route, the pass being wide of its mark.

The boys from North Carolina played a defensive game most of the afternoon. Their ground attempts proved nil, and the few times they were in South Carolina territory the pass, which was their only ground-gaining weapon, failed them.

Blocked Pant Brings First Score

In the closing minutes of the first quarter Cook, State sub, attempted to punt from his own 10-yard line. Here the Wolfpack line failed and Devaughn, Gamecock tackle, hurled himself through and blocked the kick. The ball struck his chest and bounded across the goal line. Both teams dived for the ball and Captain Gressette of the Gamecocks came up from the tumble with the ball in his arms. Boineau added the extra point with a placekick that went squarely between the uprights. The Gamecocks pushed back the Wolfpack line for the other two touchdowns.

Other Bird Scores

The second touchdown came after Blount had dashed off tackle for 42 yards, placing the ball on the State's 14-yard line. Four plays carried the Gamecocks to first down and the fourth yard line. On the next play Reynolds, substitute for Fleming, carried the ball over. The try for extra point failed.

The fourth period found the Wolves wearied and after Gurneau, State full back, had fumbled on his 40-yard line another march for touchdown was started. Reynolds and Blount were the whole show in this march down the field. They alternated carrying the ball until the last white line was crossed, Blount carrying it over guard

ALL-AMERICANS

Charlie Cobb, tackle, and Mack Stout, guard of the North Carolina State College Wolfpack, were given honorable mention in the 1930 all-American football team picked by four of the outstanding coaches of the country.

The coaches picking the team were Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt, Bill Rippey of Princeton, Bob Zappe of Illinois and Howard Jones of Southern California.

Cobb and Stout led the State College line plays this season and are two of the best linemen ever developed here. Stout finishes his career this fall, but Cobb has two more years.

for the last six points. Reynolds attempted a dropkick for the point after touchdown, but the ball fell short of the goal.

Wolfpack Tries the Air

The 'Pack threatened in a serious way in the first quarter. After South Carolina had the ball in State's territory most of the time, Fleming fumbled a punt in midfield which Stout recovered.

A forward pass, from Sharpe to Silver, was good for 16 yards. This was followed by a cleverly concealed lateral from Adams to Sharpe, which netted 15 more.

With the ball on the Gamecocks' 14-yard line, the 'Pack tried running plays, but, after three plays had gained only six yards, on the fourth down a pass was unsuccessful and the ball went over.

State came back after South Carolina had punted out to the 35-yard line, but Blount intercepted a pass on his 25-yard line to halt the advance. Fleming made eleven around end, made five more through tackle and broke through center for 22 yards. He was hurt on the last run and was unable to play any more during the game.

It was shortly afterward the Gamecocks made their first tally.

Reynolds, who succeeded Fleming, proved to be the South Carolina star thereafter, proving difficult to catch every time he handled the ball.

In the second quarter the passing combination of Dellinger and Johnson gained ground for State, but it was too intermittent to be of value.

The Johnson-to-Jeffrey passes in the third quarter gained State two consecutive first downs, but again the 'Packs fell short of a scoring punch. South Carolina made 12 first downs to State's six.

STATE COLLEGE FACULTY TO HOLD GOLF TOURNAMENT

Three Flights of Eight Players, Each Based On Playing Qualifications

The golfing members of State College faculty are holding a golf tournament during the next two weeks. The play is rather unique in that both match and medal prizes are to be won. There are three flights of eight players each, based on their playing qualifications as shown in the qualifying round played recently. There will be three rounds in each flight, with the winners and runners-up each receiving a prize, and the winner of the first prize in the first flight will be adjudged the champion of the faculty golfers. This winner will have won by match play.

For those who are eliminated in either the first or second rounds of match play, another tournament will immediately follow on a medal handicap basis. Each player eliminated passes in his score for the full 18 holes of match play and is then given a handicap for medal play. Winners and runners-up of match play are barred from the medal play handicap.

First flight players pay a dollar entrance fee and other flights pay seventy-five cents, but nobody pays for the privilege of playing in the medal handicap. The money from entrance fees is to be used for prizes.

In addition to prizes so bought several of the prominent West Raleigh merchants have also generously donated prizes.

Just after New Year's, the players are to have a supper at the college cafeteria where the winners will receive the prizes from the donors. There also will be some "talking pictures" which were made during the tournament. These pictures are expected to be of as much educational value to the faculty as the golfing pictures to be made by Bobby Jones.

Basketball Team Short of Forwards Practice Reveals

It is a little bit early to be surmising just what to expect from State College this year in basketball, but nevertheless, a week's hard practice has shown several things.

The most important thing brought to light is the lack of good forward material. Last season, Larry Haar and Jimmie Brown took care of the forward berths practically alone, but it was Haar's last year, and Brown, a sophomore, did not return to school this fall.

There are, however, several promising members of last year's freshman team and few men of the 1930 varsity quint are out, and from this material Coach Ray Sermon may find two stars that are greatly needed at present to round out the team.

The guard berths are well equipped with good material. With such men on hand as Bud Rose and Bill Brake of the varsity, and Allen Nelms and Clark of the 1930 yearling quint, Sermon seems well fortified in the guard ranks.

The center berth is being sought by three players, all with lots of experience. These men are Morgan, John Gammon, and Sam Gurneau. Morgan and Gammon are letter men. This is Gurneau's first try as a varsity candidate.

SUCCESS EXPECTED BY FANS FOR 1931 FOOTBALL TEAM

Expectations Based On Freshman Backfield Material and Sophomores

It is nearly a year before the 1931 football season will open, but State College fans are now eagerly awaiting that time.

Hopes are high in this school that the 1931 Wolfpack will rank among the best. These expectations are based on the present freshman backfield material and the large number of sophomores on this year's first-string varsity team.

The freshman team closed its season on November 13 with a 61-0 win over Davidson and in doing so exhibited wonderful backfield material and three outstanding line stars.

The backs are Don Wilson, Rice, Brown, McQuage, Kinkin, Raffety, Bohannon, and Garner.

Wilson heads this list, as he is one of the best line plungers, dropkickers and all-around football players ever seen at State.

The linemen: Buchannon, guard; Utley, center, and Scholl, end. Buchannon is regarded as the best of this trio and will be a strong candidate for Capt. Mack Stout's guard berth next fall.

Only six men will be lost from this year's varsity squad. They are: Capt. Mack Stout, guard; Coon Silver, end; Herman Gardner, center; Sparty Adams, quarter; Hank McLawhorn and Johnny Johnson, halves.

There will be four present juniors back in Dink Dellinger, half; Bud Rose, end, and Richard David and Chas. Romeo Laforce, guards.

The present sophomores are: Allen Nelms, Willie Duke, Bob Gresson and George Ball, ends; Charlie Cobb, Milo Stroupe, Arthur Wilson and Rudy Seltz, tackles; Mat Matlack, Reid Tull, White Kennedy and Luther Wood, guards; Red Espey, Vance Clayton and Stanley Clevenger, centers; Snoozy Morris and Red Watt, quarterbacks; Gene Fitzgerald, Troy Goodman and Bob Cook, backs, and Charlie Jeffrey, Sam Gurneau, and Odeal Sharpe, fullbacks.

STATE HAS UNSUCCESSFUL 1930 GRID IRON SEASON

Out of Its Ten Games Scheduled, State Wins Only Two Tilts

The North Carolina State College football team closed its 1930 gridiron schedule, a very unsuccessful one, with South Carolina winning 19-0.

Out of its ten-game schedule, State won only two games, a 37-0 win over High Point College and a 14-0 victory at the expense of Mississippi A. and M.

The Wolfpack's biggest defeats were handed out by Florida and Clemson, the scores being 27-0 in each case.

The best games played by State this fall were both lost by but seven-point margins. These were with the University of North Carolina, 13-6, and Wake Forest, 7-0.

The nearest the Wolves came to a tie was the 2-0 defeat at the hands of Presbyterian College in a game played at Asheville.

In the ten games played, State scored 57 points and was scored upon for 146 points.

Last year, State won only one game, a 7-0 count over Wake Forest.

Fifty-four Frosh Practicing Daily With Coach Warren

Fifty-four State College freshmen have reported to Coach Bob Warren for the freshman basketball team.

Four Are Confined In State Infirmary

Four students late Wednesday were confined in the infirmary.

They were: J. T. Hoyle, with a wrenched knee; J. T. McLaurin, injuries sustained by falling on a sharp stick; B. B. Broome, suffering from a cold; M. G. Christopher, injuries sustained last week in a wreck near Greenville, S. C.

M. A. Rhyme, State student who was driving the car when application of brakes locked the front wheel, causing the car to overturn, was not injured. Christopher received a cut near the eye and was considerably "shaken up," hospital attaches said.

Sermon New Coach State Basketeers For Coming Year

Basketball got its official 1930-31 start at N. C. State College this week when Coach Ray Sermon took over the duties as head coach.

A squad of around 30 players greeted Sermon, who will have charge of the basketball this season for the first time. He is taking over the cage duties left vacant by Gus Tobell, who resigned last spring to coach at the University of Virginia.

This is their first week of training under the direction of a coach, but many of the candidates have been working several weeks. Sermon has been unable to meet the squad due to his duties as head football coach. The Wolfpack closed its gridiron season last Saturday.

Sermon has but five letter men of last year's team around which to build his 1930 quint. These men are John Gammon and Skeet Atkinson, forwards; Bud Rose and Bill Brake, guards, and Morgan, center.

However, members of the 1930 freshman team and several promising upperclassmen are on hand. Heading the list of men coming up from the freshman ranks is Clark, a guard. Clark is expected to offer strong competition for the guard berth left vacant by Johnny Johnson.

Sam Gurneau, big Indian sophomore from Wisconsin, is another one of the highly "tooted" men who will be making his first bid for the varsity. Gurneau was ineligible for freshman play last year. He is a candidate for the center post.

Graduation dug a big hole in the basketball material last year when it took Johnny Johnson and Larry Haar, from the ranks. Johnson, a guard, was captain of the 1930 quint and was named all-American guard by College Humor Haar has an outstanding forward.

Two promising letter men, both sophomores last year, are on the missing list. These men are Jimmy Brown and Bill Woodard. Brown played regularly at forward last winter. Both Brown and Woodard had been counted on for the regular berths this fall. Woodard was named all-American high school forward at the national high school tournament held at the University of Pennsylvania in 1928. He is from Washington, D. C.

State's basketball team had a very successful season last year, and in 1929 it won the Southern Conference title.

COLLEGIATE SAHARA

THE football season over, a former member of the U. S. Marine who admits he is "no angel" has turned his attention to Volsteadian and prohibitionary touchdowns. Under the leadership of "Milo" Stroupe, president, the sophomore class at a meeting before Thanksgiving outlawed liquor drinking among its members.

In 1909 a similar movement, we are told, mitigated hazing, though it did not completely abolish the evil. Nineteen and Eleven dormitory was dedicated to the sophomore reformers.

Letters commending the football star on his anti-liquor movement have poured in from all sections of the country.

Stroupe, we are glad to say, is not content to relax in the glory of the compliments showered upon him. Instead, he is going about the reform in a Napoleonic manner, having already requested the faculty council to name a "prohibition day," at which time each instructor will take the first ten minutes of his class hour to discuss evils of whisky. The economist would point out the economic loss; the sociologist, the degrading effects of drink; the coach, the injurious effects on the body, and so on down the line, each professor discussing the question from the point in which he is best versed.

Later the leader plans to have a mass meeting of the class, inviting members to sign a temperance pledge declaring that they will "lay off" alcohol for the remainder of the year.

The results of the temperance are obvious. With the mid-winter and final dances coming on, many pledges will be broken; others will be religiously kept, while a few frank members of the class, wed to their drink, will flatly refuse to sign anything which would tend to curb their liberties. But, taken as a whole, temperance pledges would lower the volume consumption of whisky among sophomores, and other classes, for plastic youth, like sheep, follow the leader.

Stroupe's temperance movement will not transform State College into a Sahara overnight, but it should tend to lessen drinking. The most effective method of curbing youth of recklessness and dissipation is to place the stamp of social disapproval upon their orgies. And that is what Stroupe and his cohorts are attempting to do.

SPEAK RESPECTFULLY

FOUR years ago, when the iron hands of sophomores paddled first-year men if they refused to run errands, failed to speak respectfully, or to have matches, it was unnecessary to speak of lack of politeness and courtesy on the campus. During their first year, the moulding period of college careers, the yearlings acquired the habit of being friendly, and it stuck for life.

Now that the sophomoric régime seems to be losing its power, the custom of students cheerfully greeting each other when meeting, instigated with the foundation of State College, is passing out, displaced by an artificial metropolitan air. State students, for years deemed unique and praised for their courtesy to each other, are losing this honor in a futile attempt to be sophisticates.

The scenario must fit the setting. A great journalist recently condemned country weeklies for aping New York dailies, saying that in so doing they not only lost their effectiveness, but their subscribers.

The same is true here. State College is a midget when compared to some of the northern universities. The would-be sophisticate, passing unconcerned by his classmates, is only cutting his own throat.

Value of friendly greetings is demonstrated annually before class elections. Two or three weeks before polling time candidates speak to everyone, from the janitor to the president of the college. Deeply engrossed in mapping their campaigns as they are, they would not bother if they did not realize that it is good psychology.

Observation this week showed that the vain student, carrying his nose as if he were an elephant sniffing for attackers, has little or nothing to be proud of. Swell-head is a complication arising from inferiority. The real men are friendly to lords and proletariat alike—that is an evidence of greatness.

Editorial writers will soon term the female candidates fair co-eds but dirty politicians.

N.C.S.

Nowhere is man safe any more. Woman has even invaded the realm of college politics.

We wonder how many class cuts three students lost while "Flying High" after the show girls!

COMMENTS

Mary Groomer McNinch, the Queens Blues states, has been awarded $50 prize by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for her essay on "Temperance." We, too, have a temperance leader, "Milo" Stroupe, who is working to make this the driest year in a long time for State sophomores.

According to the State delegates to the annual fall press convention, it should have been easy for Miss McNinch to cop the prize. Temperance admonitions kept her tongue wagging at full speed throughout the convention, they say.

"Believe it or not," the boys are beginning to invade the schools of the fair sex. To believe this statement it is only necessary to visit E. C. T. C., which is located at Greenville. The boys, 14 strong, are out for collegiate life with plenty of social obligations after classes.

The bottle is barred! According to the new regulations at the University of Maryland, all bottles except those containing medicine will not be allowed to enter Calvert or Silverster Halls. We would like to know just who is the person who dares to step up with "Milo" Stroupe?

Clemson College, the home of the Tiger, is very much disturbed over the announcement made by their head coach, Josh Cody, resigning. His resignation came after the Clemson victory over Furman on November 27. However, the point is this, the staff of the Tiger issues a special which contained only articles about Cody and requests that he would stay at Clemson.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, famous Arctic explorer, is to deliver an address at E. C. T. C. on December 12. The "soldiers" of this institution are wondering if he has had anything to say or do about the recent cold wave. One thing the regiment agrees on is the weather. They sure can tell you all its "secrets."

torious, defeat will not be so stingy," he said.

The reputation that our college students have achieved as gentlemen has been, and unquestionably will be, based in a great measure on their conduct when brought in contact with one another in public places. It is the estimate formed of them by the public in general on such occasions as these that is not generally to their credit, and does not become more so as the years pass by," he continued.

Speaking of college pranks in 1903, Governor Gardner says: "From time immemorial, the pranks of college boys have been a recognized feature of student life, due allowance being made by the college or municipal authorities until, as regularly happens, matters are brought to an aggravated state.

"Unfortunately, in the college world little attention is given to those actions that create considerable unfavorable comment in the world at large; many seem to believe that at certain times every restraint is removed and the right is thus given to make themselves as disagreeable as possible."

"This is not a matter in which the reputation of any institution is specially involved, or any of them particularly referred to, but in every educational institution, without exception, it concerns the undergraduate members," he said. "In one of the papers last year occurred this sentence: 'The college student in the singular number is generally a gentleman; in the plural, he is rowdy.'"

NUMBER V

Is It Dishonest To Damage or Misuse Public Property Without Making Restitution?

Property that belongs to a group of individuals is public property within the limits of the organization. This is true, whether it is the property of a small group of men, of a college, of a city, of a county, or of a State. It belongs to no one individual, but to all within the organization.

The organization of 20 men referred to owned some property. One of the 20 men accidentally damaged some of the property and it cost a good amount to restore it. Another member willfully destroyed some of the property and it cost a considerable sum to restore it. Neither offered to make restitution, although each was called upon to make good the damage. Was each dishonest? Would the same obligation rest upon each, although the intent was different?

Do people as a rule consider that public property belongs to nobody and that it is legitimate to appropriate it or use it as they would use a found article?

As a rule, do people have more or less conscience about appropriating public property than they have about appropriating the private property of others?

tempted by the participants, but it is in the highest degree reprehensible and should receive more than passing consideration," he said.

Football of 27 years ago received a place in the students' publications in proportion to athletics of today. Editor Gardner, telling the students of their "football complex," says in part: "Confidence in one's power is often an excellent quality. Many a man has turned out to be notoriously unsuccessful for the lack of self-esteem. But it is no less true that pride goeth before a fall.

"Confidence easily becomes overweening, and is transformed into self-conceit," he said, urging his classmates not to be deceived by the strength of their team and believe there were no more worlds to conquer.

Comics, the band, and football cartoons were drawn by John A. Park, class of 1905, and present publisher of the "Raleigh Times."

Now they manufacture weather for telephone testing

A test illustrating work in the Bell Telephone Laboratories is made with the weatherometer. This device produces rain and sunshine to order, and determines the weather-resisting properties of telephone equipment.

This test indicates an interesting habit of the men engaged in telephone research. It is to get sure knowledge bearing on efficiency, economy, life and reliability of apparatus.

Information is sought continuously during the development of a design, in advance of manufacture and of course long before the equipment gets into use.

Men who delight in thoroughness of method find that the opportunity is there.

TAYLOR RAPS ECONOMIST IN "BUY NOW" COMMENTS

Says Poo-Pooing Move Reflection Economists Arm-Chair Attitudes

Any movement that leads a person to spend money that he does not have is a movement in the wrong direction, in the opinion of Dr. Carl C. Taylor, economist and dean of the graduate school at North Carolina State College.

"We do not relieve fundamental economic maladjustments by turning dollars over and over," he continued. "However, the 'poo-hooing' of a whole movement, such as the Buy Now campaign, is probably a reflection of the 'arm-chair' attitude of the economist."

Economists are always thinking of the behavior of people as it affects long-time trends and often they overlook things of the present that go a long way in bringing business back to its normal status, he says.

Dr. Taylor believes that the State-wide "Buy Now" campaign might serve to break the depression psychology that is so prevalent throughout North Carolina. "If the campaign does break this depression psychology, it is all for the good," he says. "Every economist knows that a price rise or depression is partly due to depression psychology, as a price boom is due to an enflated psychology," he continued. "There have

William Louis Poteat 'Y' Speaker Wednesday

Dr. William Louis Poteat, president-emeritus of Wake Forest College, will speak in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Saturday night at 7. His subject for the address will be "Science and Religion." The speaker is coming under the auspices of Self-Help Club and they have extended an invitation to all State College students and citizens of Raleigh to attend.

E. S. King, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is well acquainted with Dr. Poteat, is cooperating with the Self-Help Club in urging students to attend the lecture and has the following to say in a description of the man: "Dr. Poteat is one of the outstanding biologists in the United States. He is also recognized as a progressive religious and social leader. He is much in demand as a public speaker. He is 74 years young and carries a heavy teaching schedule, plays a good game of golf and takes an active part in public affairs throughout the State. The Self-Help Club is indeed fortunate in being able to have Dr. Poteat for the address."

Thomas To Appear Before Open Meet At College Monday

Norman Thomas, labor leader. Socialist candidate for the Presidency in 1928, and author of numerous books and magazine articles, will appear in Raleigh the last of this week, speaking at the United Church Sunday night, at an open meeting in the State College Y. M. C. A. auditorium Monday at 12 o'clock, and at a luncheon at 1 in the north end of the Y. M. C. A., given by the faculty council, through the efforts of Dr. Carl C. Taylor, dean of the Graduate School.

At a meeting several weeks ago, the International Relations Club of State, under the leadership of Joe E. Moore, president, voted to sponsor a meeting of students to hear Thomas when he came. The meeting in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Monday is given as a result of this action.

At the 12 o'clock meeting Monday, "Wanted: A New Social Philosophy," will be the subject of Thomas' speech; "Has Liberalism Collapsed?" will be the subject of the speech at the luncheon.

Norman Thomas has long been actively connected with the labor movement in the United States. First beginning his active work ten years ago, he has quickly assumed a place of leadership in labor circles. His work during the Passaic textile strike of 1926, his earlier support of Morris Hillquit, who ran for mayor of New York City in 1917, and work in other labor struggles have identified him with work in labor unions.

KING URGES COLLEGIANS TO HEAR FOSDICK SERMON

'Y' Secretary Says Finances Keep Away Speakers, But WPTF Big Help

Beginning Sunday, December 7, a Radio Religious Service will be staged at the State College Y. M. C. A. The program to be received is the National Vesper Service sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches in America, which is broadcast over the National Network and is relayed by WPTF.

The speaker, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, is among prominent preachers in America today. "Since for financial reasons the 'Y' cannot bring the best speakers to the campus, we can get the best by radio," said E. S. King, secretary. There is no supper served on Sunday night at the dining hall, and the 'Y' is considering serving a hot drink and sandwiches following the services if finances permit.

All students, men and women, members of the faculty and their wives, are cordially invited by Mr. King to attend this service.

A. L. T. Members Attend Meeting

Harry Murray of Alpha Lambda Tau attended the National Undergraduate Inter-Fraternity Council Conference held in New York City at Hotel Pennsylvania November 27 to 29 inclusive.

N. C. State College was admitted to the Council during the conference. On Thursday evening all the delegates were entertained at a reception at Hotel Pennsylvania.

Friday was devoted to meetings and discussion of various subjects: "The Work of the Inter-Fraternity Council on the Campus—A Constructive Program," by Mr. Robert G. Shanklin of Brown University; "The Rushing Agreement in Practice," by Mr. William H. Doughty, III, of Williams College; "Substitutes for Hell Week," by Mr. Albert S. Tousey of St. Paul, Minnesota.

Saturday the discussion was continued on other subjects as: "The Attitude Toward Scholarship," by Mr. Joseph M. Rogers of Chicago; "At What Point Do Fraternity Obligations Yield to University Obligations?" by Mr. James S. Shropshire of Lexington, Ky.

Student Forum

Dear Editor: There has been much discussion on the campus about the recent trial and acquittal of Mr. Milton Abernethy, and the center of the discussion is the fact that in the first trial he was convicted and in the second trial the same council reversed its verdict. Just why the council took such action is unknown to the students, but the fact that secrecy entered into the trial because of the present constitution of our student government we, the students, are unable to know the facts which were presented at either trial.

Our government here at State College is for the students, by the students, but if secrecy is allowed to play such a leading role, then how are the students of this institution going to know just what factors are permitted to exist at the trial of a student? I have been told that the "State attorney" was allowed to vote upon the verdict. Now, if justice has ever been blind it appears in such a case. Now if we are to have a fair trial, which the constitution is supposed to grant us, I am willing for any one to point the way to me. As whether Mr. Abernethy is guilty or not is not the point that I am trying to put forth. That case is history and will remain so unless some new evidence is brought forth that will demand a new trial. From the above paragraphs we are facing a very important problem. We need to make a change in our present constitution so the students will have no ground on which to question the trial of a fellow-student. I am advocating the abolishment of the present system of so-called justice, and adopt at this school the same system which is used in the courts of North Carolina—a trial by jury and open to the students if they care to attend. If this course should meet with the approval of the students of this college the days of doubtful trials will be history, and the students of this institution would place more faith in the men they select to make the laws which govern the student body. If the courts of our State had the protection by secrecy which now clothes our Student Council, just where and in what condition would our Old North State exist? Heaven only knows!

I realize that there are two sides to this question, but I think that the present condition should be remedied.

FORMER STATE GRADUATE WRITES ON STATISTICS

F. H. Harper Is Now Member of Federal Department of Agriculture

F. H. Harper, an alumnus of State College, has just written a textbook on statistics entitled, "Elements of Practical Statistics," which is being published this month by The Macmillan Company, New York.

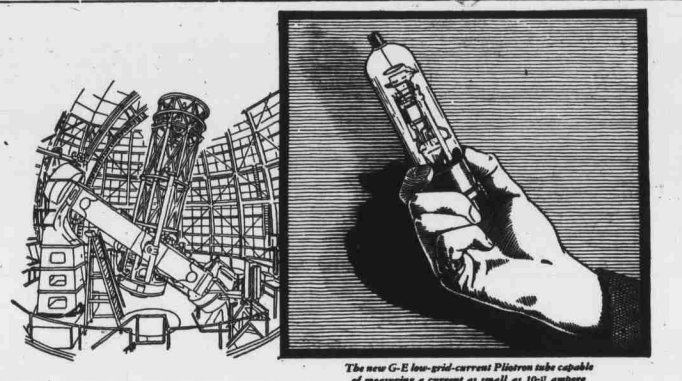

Harper received his M.S. degree in Agriculture here in 1925 and was awarded the degree of Master of Agriculture at the commencement here last spring. He did his undergraduate work at the University of Maryland, and also received a Ph.D. degree from Maryland.

At the present time Harper is an economist in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. He has formerly been affiliated with the United States Tariff Commission and entrusted with duties of supplying the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives with information for guidance in tariff legislation. He has also conducted surveys in behalf of the Department of Agriculture to find the justification of duties on various commodities produced in different sections of America by finding the extent to which they are grown.

The text, recently written by Harper, is to be used in elementary courses in statistics or as a reference. It is an explanation of the essential principles, with practical advice on the mechanical operations involved in statistical work. In a description of the book furnished by the publishers they say that it is not too advanced for a student untrained in mathematics, yet it is sufficiently comprehensive to provide a firm grounding in the fundamental phases of analytical technique and an equipment for actual statistical work.

The new G-E low-grid-current Pliotron tube capable of measuring a current as small as 10⁻¹¹ amperes

This Little Tube Measures Stars Centuries of Light Years Distant

BY MEANS of a new vacuum tube called a low-grid-current Pliotron tube, astronomers can gather the facts of stellar news with greater speed and accuracy. In conjunction with a photoelectric tube, it will help render information on the amount of light radiation and position of stars centuries of light years away. It is further applicable to such laboratory uses as demand the most delicate measurement of electric current.

So sensitive is this tube, that it can measure 0.000,000,000,000,001 of an ampere, or, one-hundredth of a millionth of a billionth of an ampere. This amount of current, compared with that of a 50-watt incandescent lamp, is as two drops of water compared with the entire volume of water spilled over Niagara Falls in a year.

General Electric leadership in the development of vacuum tubes has largely been maintained by college-trained men, just as college-trained men are largely responsible for the impressive progress made by General Electric in other fields of research and engineering.

FAIR TODAY!

If Pullen Literary Society were the governing power of North Carolina the annual State fair would be continued indefinitely.

At their last meeting members of the society voted for continuance of the fair.

Before voting the members listened to speeches from D. K. Byne, R. P. Moore, R. E. Dail, H. B. Fritchard, E. E. Dail and A. F. Ward.

Tonight the society will discuss the failures of banks and the banking laws of North Carolina.

Hagopian On Par With Professors As Speech-Maker

Hagop Hagopian of Cairo, Egypt, a sophomore at North Carolina State College, holds an itinerary equal to that of any of his professors.

The young speaker has been before the Inter-racial Forum of Raleigh and at most of the North Carolina colleges.

The Appalachian Training School at Boone has secured him as one of their principal speakers on December 24.

Hagopian, since his freshman year at the college, has been an outstanding student in extra-curricular activities and has built a State-wide reputation for himself as a speaker. E. S. King, secretary of the college Y. M. C. A., said today.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET VOTES TO HELP CONSTRUCT CHAPEL

To Assist West Raleigh Church In Raising Necessary Funds

State College Y. M. C. A. cabinet went on record at their Wednesday night meeting as favoring the support of the West Raleigh Presbyterian Church and assisting the church to complete the raising of necessary funds to construct a student chapel near the State College campus.

Rev. Joseph Walker, pastor of the West Raleigh Church, appeared at the meeting of the cabinet and explained the needs in the way of a place to accommodate students, and also gave the situation and desires of his church.

Aside from the gifts and money already raised within the membership, the church announces that they still need $3,500 in order to erect the building.

Services have been held in the past in Pullen Hall on the campus.

Rev. Walker said that he had recently made a study of the religious activity in colleges and found that in the North the churches were realizing more and more the importance of having adequate and favorable facilities near the college campuses. At the University of North Carolina they have already come to realize this importance, he said. They have built several nice churches especially for the students and the students of all denominations cooperate in helping support the church and pastor.

John Lang, president of the North Carolina Federation of Students, was present at the meeting and voiced his approval of the project. He said it was the same step as was inevitable in all institutions and that he and all students in the Carolina Church would support the move and lend a helping hand in getting started at State what they already have at the University.

E. S. King, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., supported the movement and said that it should not be looked at from a denominational standpoint, but from the standpoint of Christianity. He reminded the members of the cabinet that it was the aim of the Y. M. C. A. to support any Christian religion, in view of the fact the Y. M. C. A. is now cooperating with the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church by sponsoring a series of radio sermons.

Collegians Urged To Attend Sermon Of M'Neill Poteat

E. McNeill Poteat, who is delivering a series of addresses on "Moral Love Applied to Modern, Personal and Social Problems," sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, will speak in Pullen Church Sunday, December 7, at 11 o'clock on "Love and Social Inequalities." This address will deal with the industrial problems facing the people of the South at this time.

These students and citizens of Raleigh who are regular church attendants are urged by Y officials to attend their own churches. Those who are not regular church attendants are cordially invited to hear Mr. Poteat, E. S. King said.

For the benefit of those students and citizens of Raleigh who cannot get in the church, or who do not have radios, a radio will be set up in the State College Y. M. C. A. auditorium. The address will be broadcast over WPTF. The auditorium seats 375 people. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and hear the address over the radio.

People as far away as Greenville, S. C., have reported as hearing these sermons over the radio. Very favorable comments on this broadcast have been received from people far and near.

Mr. King said: "It is hoped that these services may be broadcast for the rest of the college year, and they will be if those who listen will make it financially possible. Otherwise they will have to be discontinued."

Chemical Engineers Hear Carter At Tuesday Meet

Continuing the policy of having students who worked in industry during the past summer speak to the less experienced men, the student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers had at their last meeting the talk of E. H. Carter, senior in Chemical Engineering, Carter, who worked with the Tennessee Eastman Company last summer, addressed the club on the subject of making acetic anhydride and other C. P. chemicals. Later in the meeting plans were made for a social to be held January 10 with the Meredith College students.

An announcement was made to the effect that a scholarship would be given by the parent organization to the student in Chemical Engineering for scholastic achievement.

Plans have been formulated to have outside speakers appear at later meetings of the club. The following men have consented to speak to the club on matters pertaining to their field: Ruben Robertson, president of Champion Fiber Company; S. A. Capp, gen-
