Kappa Phi Kappa has the reputation of being the largest undergraduate education fraternity in the United States. It was founded at Dartmouth College in 1922 and now has nearly a half-hundred chapters in the leading colleges and universities. Its membership includes presidents, deans, and professors in the majority of institutions.

State's newest national fraternity was formerly Phi Gamma Epsilon and was organized at the college in April, 1930, with thirteen charter members. They are: H. L. Bringen, H. B. Pritchard, R. M. Lane, W. C. Brake, H. R. Garris, R. M. Lightfoot, A. J. Haynes, A. S. Crosby, L. H. Angell, H. B. Gaylord, H. B. James, C. C. Murray, F. B. Griffin, J. I. Crouch, W. M. Crafton, and Prof. E. W. Boshart of the School of Education.

New members taken into the fraternity are: E. R. Poole, James Gerow, C. A. Case, M. L. Barnes, T. M. Fields, W. T. Jordan, A. E. Bennett, W. W. Boyce, and H. T. Gryder.

The fraternity has done good work in promoting scholarship in the textile school. It sponsors the Sigma Tau Sigma scholarship award, which is given annually to the senior of the Textile School who has maintained the highest average grades of his sophomore, junior, and first two terms of his senior year. This award is made at the scholarship day exercise, which will be held on April 24th this year.

K. K. THOMAS SPEAKS TO LOS HIDALGOS IN INDIA

Los Hidalgos, national language fraternity, had as principal speaker at its last meeting K. K. Thomas, Indian graduate student in Textiles. He gave a very interesting talk on "India, its Peoples and Languages."

The fraternity will hold its next meeting April 14, at 7 o'clock, in the library. Members please be present.

Oratorical Champion

Milbourne B. Amos of High Point, who recently was named oratorical champion of the Southeastern States at a contest conducted at Farmville State Teachers College in Virginia. In this district are included all states east of the Mississippi and south of Pennsylvania.

Much of State's success in debating in the last two years has been due to Amos. On April 10 Amos will represent State at the oratorical contest of the North Carolina Intercollegiate Forensic Association, to be held at High Point College in High Point. He is a textile student.

April 16 to 18 he will compete at the annual convention of Southern Teachers of Speech.

Textile Society Meets At College Friday, April 17

The Eastern Carolina Division of the Southern Textile Association will hold its annual spring meeting here at State College on April 17.

These meetings are held semi-annually, one, the annual spring meeting, always being held here. At these meetings the members discuss the various problems which have arisen or which they have encountered themselves in their work. All are allowed to take part in the discussions, the meeting being held something on the order of an open forum. It is intended to be and is an attempt to improve the textile industry by profiting through another's mistakes and experiences.

The Southern Textile Association was organized in Charlotte, N. C., by Dean Thomas Nelson, now dean of the Textile School here, as a charter member. Since its organization it has widened its territory until it includes the whole South. The association is divided into several sections, the Eastern Carolina Division being one of them, with Mr. N. B. Hill of Winston, N. C., as acting chairman of this section. Mr. Walter C. Taylor, a graduate of State College in 1913, is secretary of the association. The meeting, the members of which are foremen, superintendents, and owners of mills, will be called at 10 o'clock. At least 150 are expected to attend in order that they may discuss the problems which have arisen during the past year.

TODAY, TOMORROW, MONDAY ARE JOB-GETTING DAYS

Representatives of Jewel Tea and Proctor & Gambill To Interview Students

Today, tomorrow, and Monday will be job-getting days for seniors in the School of Business Administration. A representative of Jewel Tea Company, Inc., arrived here today to recruit college men for their sales force. Proctor & Gambill's personnel man will interview seniors Monday in Professor Hayes A. Richardson's office. Stacy Lloyd and Fred Herbst, business seniors, have accepted positions with the Standard Oil Company, Prof. Richardson announced.

Modern Yet Old Textiles is one of the oldest of the professions, dating back to time immemorial, and yet it is one of the most modern because of the continued demand for new styles and fabrics.

Thomas Nelson Plans Big Time For Style Show

By DEAN THOMAS NELSON

The fourth annual Textile Style Show will be held in Pullen Hall on April 16. The style pageant is a part of the Textile Exposition which has been held for the past twelve years. Meredith was the only college co-operating the first year of the Style Show, with seven members of the Home Economics Department taking part. Each year there has been an improvement upon the preceding one, and this year there will be six colleges represented by 60 young ladies who are specializing in home economics.

The purpose of the Style Show is to demonstrate the diversification of fabrics that can be made from cotton, and rayon and cotton combinations, also to demonstrate the utility and beauty of fabrics designed by students in the Textile School. The styling and making of the dresses also show the efficient results obtained by home economics departments of North Carolina colleges.

Since the beginning of the Style Show this event has attracted wide attention because of the large variety of fancy fabrics designed by students in the Textile School. The Textile School probably has more rayon than any other textile school in the South and manufactures a large variety of fabrics.

The exhibit of students' work in classroom and laboratory consisting of bleached and dyed yarns, fabrics, hosiery designs, the operation of machinery during the exhibit, will demonstrate the skill developed by textile students. This is reflected by alumni who are connected with the textile industry in different parts of the United States.

Textile students are to be congratulated for the admirable spirit they have shown in preparing for the Textile Exposition and Style Show. The Style Show began four years ago with one college, Meredith, participating. Each year the number of colleges taking part has increased, and this year there will be six, with sixty young ladies representing these colleges.

The quality of the work done by our students in designing and making the fabrics, and the young ladies in styling and patterning their dresses, has improved each year proportionately. Many letters have been received complimenting the Textile School on the high standard of previous efforts. Judging from observation in the different departments of the school and from reports of the various teachers, I believe the Textile Exposition and Style Show will be better this year than ever before.

CERAMIC ENGINEERS AWARDED CUP FOR BEST FAIR EXHIBIT

Awarded Raleigh Times Cup for the Second Time in Past Three Years

For the second time in the past three years the Department of Ceramic Engineering was awarded the Raleigh Times Cup for the best departmental exhibit at the Engineers' Fair. Two juniors in this department, E. C. Davidson and C. C. Morrison, also won the first prize of $20 in gold for the best individual exhibit at the fair. This award was also won by a ceramic engineer last year.

What the local newspapers designated as "the center of attraction" at the fair was the beautiful collection of art pottery consisting of 100 pieces made by the ceramic students especially for the exhibition. Art lovers who viewed the exhibit declared it worthy of being shown in any art exhibition in the country.

In the laboratories was shown the complete process of making the pottery from raw materials to glazing. A miniature enameling plant was also in operation which attracted crowds during the entire day. Steel plates were enamelled and visitors were requested to put their signatures on them. They were then burned and returned to them. The enamels were in the college colors, red and white.

"The winning of two first places at the fair was entirely due," said Prof. Greaves-Walker, "to the work of half-dozen students who devoted all their spare time during the past six months to preparing material for the exhibition. Among these the names of Davidson and Morrison are outstanding."

CO-ED PARKS

"Miss Bowden, I had a date last night, so I went over and purchased nine gallons of gas from your uncle"—so the conversation goes between Professor Nelson and Elizabeth Bowden during class hour.

"Say, you don't believe in parking, do you?" came back the hot and scorching reply.

"Well, you see, I happen to have a date with a nurse, and nurses don't park, because they are not able to get out at night," replied the blushing professor.

"Oh, ye-a-h!" continued Miss Bowden, in her effort to have the final word.

Chapman Elected Soph President By Big Majority

Blan Chapman Wednesday was named president of the North Carolina State College sophomore class by a vote of 104 over his opponents.

Dwight Stokes was elected vice-president of the class, with Joel "Snoodle" Morris as secretary and treasurer.

Six candidates were entered for the three positions, but these were narrowed down to three men in the final balloting. Other candidates were Harold C. Brown, H. L. Russ, and Reid Tull.

The class voted as a whole to give a "midnight show" during the term. More than three hundred sophomores will attend this function.

The president of the sophomore class has been an outstanding student since his freshman year at State College. He is vice-president of the Collegiate Comedians, former sports editor of The Technician, member of The Red Masquers Dramatic Club, and other organizations.

OFFICERS OF AGRICULTURAL PUBLICATION TO BE ELECTED AT BANQUET TUESDAY NIGHT

The editor and business manager of the Agriculturist and officers of the "Ag. Club" will be elected Tuesday night at the "All-Ag." banquet to be held in the college dining hall.

Two candidates—H. B. James and W. C. Boyce—are running for editor of the publication. In the race for the business side is Jim Parks, Clyde Blackwelder, and J. G. Pollock. R. G. Vick, who will act as toastmaster, has invited all Agriculture students to attend the banquet.

AUDIENCE OF 300 SEES THAT DISREPUTABLE FELLOW

Paget Has To Announce End of the Play To the Audience

By W. J. KELLY

"That Disreputable Fellow," presented by The Red Masquers, State College dramatic organization, attracted 300 persons to Pullen Hall Wednesday evening. The play was a one-act satire.

Catherine Harding as Mrs. Longman, patroness of the arts, gave a creditable performance, as did Miller Hughes in the rôle of Jackson Corley, a young lawyer.

Blan Chapman as the disreputable one whose suit of Emily Cheek, playing the part of Mrs. Longman's daughter, proved the fly in the ointment of a dramatic committee's attempts to raise money to meet a pledge. Chapman and Miss Cheek engaged in an interesting kissing scene.

The high point of the evening was at the final, when it was necessary for Mr. Paget to inform the audience that the play was ended.

Others in the cast were Maude Rhodes Barnes, Milbourne Amos, Anna May Moran, Anne Robertson, Gilbert Thurlow, Tubby Hanks, and Howard Stoncy.

LOCAL NEWSPAPER MEN TO BE HONOR GUESTS OF REGIMENT

Newspapermen of Raleigh and vicinity will be guests of honor at a parade of the State College R. O. T. C. Regiment Thursday at noon. Dean Thomas Nelson of the Textile School will review the battalion on Monday. The parade, to be given in his honor last Monday, was postponed because of the heavy downpour.

Thursday will be designated Press Day by the military department. John Park and Joseph Daniels have been extended special invitations and are expected to be present. Pressmen guests will be tendered a luncheon in the Y. M. C. A. after the parade.

TEXTILE SCHOOL HAS OUTSTANDING FACULTY MEMBERS

Dean Thomas Nelson Leads School With 30 Years Service

GRIMSHAW IN NINTH YEAR IN TEXTILE DEPARTMENT

Nelson Prominent in Contributions To Textile Publications—Educated in England—Prof. T. R. Hart Connected With School Since 1913—Gordon Osborne, Assistant Professor in Knitting and Dyeing—Teaching Fellows Include D. B. Hardin and G. H. Norman, Who Come To State College From Texas A. and M.

By WALTER GREENHALGH
Dr. Thomas Nelson, Dean of the Textile School, came to State College in 1901 to teach weaving and designing. Five years later, when Professor Henry M. Wilson resigned, Dr. Nelson was made the head of the department. He filled that place creditably until 1925, when the board of trustees created the Textile School, as a major division of the College, and named him as its first dean.

Dr. Nelson was educated at the Haris Institute, Preston, England, and as a private pupil under Mr. John Fish, manager of Queen's Mills, in Preston. He also did some special work at Lowell Textile School, where he served as an instructor prior to 1901. State College conferred the degree of Doctor of Science upon Dean Nelson in 1928 in recognition of twenty-five years of meritorious service.

Thorough training in England and America, coupled with practical experience in northern, southern, and English mills, have made Dr. Nelson an expert in his field, and today he is recognized far and wide as the foremost textile educator in the South. For thirty years he has taught fancy weaving and designing to State College students with signal success. There is an old saying, "By their fruits ye shall know them." Dr. Nelson numbers among his former students many of the most prominent textile men in the South, for State College alumni are filling positions of responsibility in every phase of the textile industry.

Dr. Nelson is one of the oldest members of the faculty, in point of service. He has not only watched the College grow marvelously, but he has seen the school of which he is the Dean take an outstanding place in the textile world. His textbooks, "Weaving, Plain and Fancy" and "Practical Loom Fixing," have become internationally known. "Practical Loom Fixing" is now in its third edition, and is used as a textbook in a number of textile schools. Dean Nelson has been a liberal contributor to the textile publications of the United States. He spent several summers as a commercial agent for the United States Department of Commerce and as a textile expert with the Tariff Commission.

Mr. T. R. Hart, associate professor of weaving and designing, graduated from North Carolina State College Textile School in 1913. He made an excellent record during his college career. After leaving college Mr. Hart had practical experience in mills at Monroe and Burlington, and also in the erection of weaving machinery for the Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass. This experience carried him into mills in practically every Southern cotton manufacturing state.

He served in the army in France and while overseas was a student at the A.E.F. University, Beaune, France. Mr. Hart returned to college in 1919, and in 1920 was awarded the T.E. degree, and in 1924 the M.S. degree. He has done considerable work in textile research and has contributed articles for some of the leading textile periodicals.

Albert H. Grimshaw, associate professor of dyeing and finishing, is an alumnus of the New Bedford Textile School and taught there for nine years before accepting his present position at State College, in 1925. Professor Grimshaw also has B.S. and M.S. degrees from State College and has done advanced work at Columbia University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Professor Grimshaw is practically interested in textile research, and as a result of his investigations he has frequently contributed articles to the textile journals that attracted considerable attention. Under his direction textile students dye all the rayon and cotton yarns that are used in the Textile School.

With practical experience in Northern and Canadian mills, coupled with his experience as a teacher in the Bradford Durfee Textile School, of which he is a graduate, Associate Professor John T. Hilton was well equipped to head the department of yarn manufacturing when he came to State College in 1924. Professor Hilton received his B.S. degree from North Carolina State College in 1929, and this spring will complete the work required for his M.S. degree.

A tireless worker and conscientious teacher, he has done much to improve the work in the yarn manufacturing department. Under his direction, State College students are now spinning fine yarns that are the equal of the yarns produced by the best mills in the South.

G. Gordon Osborne, assistant professor of knitting and designing, came to State College in 1929. Upon his graduation from the Lowell Textile Institute he was awarded the medal given annually by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers to the member of the graduating class who had shown the highest proficiency of work. Mr. Osborne gained considerable practical experience in the silk manufacturing plant of Cheney Brothers at South Manchester, Conn., and in several factories which manufacture knitting machinery.

History of Textile Society At State Reviewed By McGinn

By GEORGE MCGINN

The Tompkins Textile Society, founded in 1906, is one of the most active and helpful organizations on the campus. It was named in honor of the late Mr. D. A. Tompkins, a leader in the textile industry in the South, who did much to establish the Textile School.

This society acts as a link between students and the textile industry. Speakers representing different phases of the industry address the society. These addresses enable the student to foresee what he will be confronted with when he takes his place in the industry, and thus enable him to prepare for the special field he chooses to enter. At the close of each talk the students are invited to participate in an open discussion of the speaker's subject.

This year has been a very successful one, several prominent textile men addressing the society. Among them were: Mr. C. S. Tatum, general manager, Pilot Division, Consolidated Textile Corporation, Raleigh, who presented an encouraging future of the industry; Mr. H. R. Hart, superintendent of the Victory Mills of Fayetteville, N. C., who talked on the weaving of leno fabrics. Mr. Hart's mill is one of the leading leno fabric mills of the country, and he is considered an authority in this field. Mr. D. A. Purcell, a graduate of the Textile School, who is also with the Victory Mills, talked on leno fabrics.

State Senator R. Grady Rankin, president of the Ridge Mills of Gastonia, used as his subject "Recent Developments in the Textile Industry."

Mr. W. C. Taylor, secretary of the Southern Textile Association, gave a most encouraging outlook for the future of anyone willing to apply himself.

Miss Grace Watson, of the Durene Association of America, told of the uses of durene and showed many garments made of this material.

On April 13 Mr. Albert Palmer, head of the research department of Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., will deliver a series of lectures to the society. The subject matter of the lectures will be grouped under four heads: (1) Costs and their relationship to loom operation; (2) the application of time study methods to the weave room; (3) the design and operating characteristics of modern weaving machinery; (4) some fundamental principles of loom engineering.

Mr. Palmer is an expert in his line, and his lectures will be very interesting to textile students.

It is not the clear-sighted who lead the world. Great achievements are accomplished in a blessed, warm, mental fog.—Joseph Conrad.

Although only $150 have been received for the painting of the late E. B. Owen, an order has already been placed to have his picture painted, according to information received this week from the Alumni office.

The painting, which will cost approximately $200, will be hung in the Alumni office, where visitors may be reminded of Mr. Owen's work among the Alumni.

Additional donations are expected before the painting is to be paid for, states Polk Denmark, Alumni Secretary. It is hoped, he said, to have the completed work for exhibition at commencement.

FIRE DESTROYS CHEMICAL EXHIBIT ERE FAIR OPENS

Exhibits of the manufacture of rayon and the destructive distillation of wood located in the Chemical Engineering Department in Winston Hall were destroyed by fire just before the opening of the Engineers' Fair on Friday afternoon, April 3.

The exhibit, an important one, had been constructed on a large table, and had been decorated by covering the table with loose rayon waste. This extremely inflammable material was ignited in some unknown way, and the exhibit was quickly destroyed by the blaze. Quick work with a fire extinguisher prevented further damage.

The charred remains were removed before the arrival of visitors began.

State Has Chapter World's Largest Textile Society

Eta Chapter of Phi Psi fraternity was installed at North Carolina State College on the 16th day of May, 1924. Phi Psi is the largest and most respected textile fraternity in the world. Its alumni hold some of the highest positions of trust and respect in all branches of the textile industry.

The fraternity was founded by five students of the Philadelphia College of Textile Engineering on March 18, 1902. It began its national expansion by the formation of Beta Chapter at the New Bedford Textile School, New Bedford, Mass., in the year 1904. In 1905 the fraternity was incorporated under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania. The steady growth of the organization brought the following chapters into the fold: Delta at Brad-

Weaving and Designing Develops Under Nelson

The weaving and designing departments of the textile school does not need an introduction to anyone connected with textiles, especially in the South.

From the time that Dean Thomas Nelson came to State these branches of the school have gradually attained a position second to none, in the field of manufactured textiles. At that early date, the school was sadly lacking in equipment and funds to properly instruct students. However, Dean Nelson lost little time in seeking the co-operation of the school in making our school efficient, and the assistance of the manufacturers of up-to-date machinery and materials, together with this revived interest, resulted in our present departments.

Today we have a weave room making a greater variety of materials and cloth than any other school in the South. We are better equipped for making dress goods than any other school, and most of the new improvements are installed as soon as they go on the market.

We still have a few hand looms on exhibition to remind us of the tremendous strides made in the last decade in the industry, but a well laid out room of busy machines makes this realization indeed difficult.

Almost any week-day finds students engaged in weaving and designing plain cloths, satins, denims, jacquard fabrics, curtain goods, plushes, and fancy lenos. The weaving of President Brooks' picture and Governor Gardner in cloth proved to be a great advertisement for the school. Today we have looms making N. C. State blankets and a new Wolfpack design is being made. One of the leading cloths on the market today is fancy leno fabrics, and realizing this, Dean Nelson has provided special instruction in this particular line. The seniors are especially instructed in the making of lenos and their uses.

Another very interesting feature of the weave room is a plush loom that was imported into this country from Germany. Again, we are the only school to have this distinction and we are proud to point out our German plush loom to visitors.

Not only is the student instructed in how to design and weave cloth, but also as to the making of warps and slashing. Prof. T. R. Hart, assistant dean of the school, is an ex-

For the past thirty years the Textile School of North Carolina State College has won recognition and prestige under the guidance of Dean Thomas Nelson. This recognition has been promoted by the annual Textile Exposition, the first held in the year 1919. The dyeing department has been instrumental in making these expositions a success.

When you visit the Textile Exposition on April 16 don't forget to come and look over the dyeing department, located in the basement of the Textile Building. There you will find many new and interesting things about the dyeing and processing of yarns, cloths, and the artificial fibers. You will not only see the different machines that are used in the treatment of the various textile fabrics, but you will also witness all forms of research work on fibers and chemicals used in the textile industry. Analyses are made which, as is well known, are essential for modern plants and mills to enable them to keep abreast of the times. We also have on display such new processes as the printing of cloth by the use of the spray gun; also screen and block printing methods. These processes have been used for many years, but they are always new as long as the public makes use of the many forms of printcloth.

Also, we expect to have on display a model of a cloth-finishing plant built in the laboratory, to explain the machinery and treatments of the finishing process.

Do You Know? (Believe It or Not) Do you know that we have an instrument with which it is possible to cut a width of one micron, which is 1/1000 of a millimeter? And thus .00003936 of an inch.

Do you know that it is possible to dye two or more colors at the same time in one bath?

Do you know how the different fibers look under the microscope?

Do you know the different forms in which the fibers can be dyed, or treated? See the new package dyer.

Do you know how cloth is printed?

Do you know how your hose, stockings, and the fancy designs in them are dyed in cheap, fast processes?

Do you wish to see some of the peculiarities of various types of dyes? Namely, violet turning to pink, yellow turning to blue, white turning to red.

Do you wish to see all the different classes of dyes used in the textile industry?

If you wish to see the above and many more practical operations demonstrated, be sure to visit the dyeing department on Thursday, April 16.

part along these lines and takes a special pride in aiding his boys to understand the many technicalities of beaming and slashing. The student is required to make his own warps and start up his loom himself.

The school has in addition to the above mentioned professors, a stenographer, weaving-in worker, and also an efficient loom-fixer. These assistants do not do the boys' work for them, but merely aids them in their production of perfect cloth.

As a result of all these changes in the Textile School, an assorted array of goods are made each year. These fabrics are placed on display at the State Fair held in Raleigh each year, and at the Textile Show that the school sponsors each spring. This year, as usual, girls from all over the State are preparing dresses to wear in the Style Show from fabrics woven by the students.

With graduates from our school in mills and offices all over the country, the real value of the courses offered is clearly shown. Leaders in all branches of the industry have received

The North Carolina State College orchestra and glee club leave this afternoon for Elizabethtown, where they will appear in a concert tonight. This is the first trip for these representatives of State College this year, and according to the program which has been prepared for the concert they are going to give the citizens of Bladen County a program consisting of several varieties.

They will return tomorrow.

Unknown Assailant Takes Negro's Life Near College Park

James Carter, Negro, was shot and fatally wounded in Pullen Park, just east of Red Field, Tuesday night about 11 o'clock.

Two shots and cries were heard by boys on the campus and by people just opposite the scene of the shooting. A hundred-dollar-bill which Carter was carrying at the time has not been found, even though police searched several hours for it Wednesday morning.

Joe McKinley, Negro, who was riding with Carter at the time, claimed that they were held up by two Negroes and a white man, but Carter's story, given before he died, differed in several particulars. The victim's story implicates McKinley, who is being held by the police.

Yesterday's State College elections brought to a close two weeks of campus politicking which is said by councilmen to have been among the cleanest elections ever held at the institution.

Last year's elections descended on the campus accompanied with showers of scandal sheets against candidates.

When John Hicks, in Australia, called his relatives in Sedalia, Mo., on December 26, he was able to wish them a Merry Christmas because in Sedalia it was December 25.

Nelson's School Well Equipped for Textile Research

For the purpose of conducting textile research two laboratories and an experimental room have been equipped with suitable apparatus. One of these laboratories is fitted up for research in rayon, cotton and silk yarns and fabrics and contains the necessary equipment for obtaining strength of yarns and fabrics, also for moisture content and other research and tests. The room contains the latest type of humidifiers so that a constant temperature and humidity can be maintained during the time research and tests are being conducted.

The second research laboratory is equipped for the testing of starches, oils, softeners, dyed fibers, yarn, and fabrics, and for micro-photography.

The experimental room is equipped with a complete outfit of machines for making both fine and coarse yarns. In addition to the regular system of spinning yarns, the latest systems of long draft spinning have been installed. By having this laboratory tests can be carried on at any time and the work of students not interfered with.

And, wonder when the co-eds will outlaw drink?

Another special edition. Wonder when the co-eds will request a special number.

And, speaking of fine fellows and poor politicians, Frank Gorham strikes us as a peach of a fellow.

Drab and quiet election. Milton Abernethy, student "Big" Bill Thompson, was not here to put on a show.

Co-eds elected their president Thursday, but if a news dispatch is correct, she is a captain without a ship.

Don't be surprised if contractions appear in some of this week's copy. Englishmen are 'orrid about dropping their "H's."

That elections are over and the best men won is the logical attitude for students to take. At least the winners were best politicians.

YOU ARE A MAN, MY SON!

He ran twice for office, but met defeat. The race over, both times he discarded prejudices and cooperated with the winner.

Plucky, he scrapped until the bell rang—then he folded his arms. And not once has he been accused of hitting below the belt.

It's easy to be a good winner, but it takes guts to lose like a man.

But, let Kipling eulogize him:

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch and toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;

If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

Last year and this he lost without a whine or alibi. Last night he was at the printing office as usual, helping make up the paper. His weekly column is on this page.

Pay tribute to Dick Yates—he's a man, my friend!

HOBBLE THE "DARK HORSE"

Two years ago the publication board, taking cognizance of sacrifices demanded by college publications, stipulated that elected officers of campus publications should be paid a salary and share in profits.

This salary, plus psychic income, pays the editor or business manager generously for the nine months he serves on the publication. In fact, it pays him well enough that the publication board, when making the remuneration possible, expected it not to be a salary for one year's work, but a reward for one or two years service on the publication.

As it now is, editors and business managers have extreme difficulty in building up an efficient staff, students fearing that a "dark horse," run in at the last minute, will win the race.

Two candidates, only ones eligible, in our opinion, should run unopposed in the senior election for business manager and editor of the Agromeck. These men have served two and three years, respectively, on the publication. The present officers highly recommend them.

To be an under-dog for two years is no set-up. The dirty, routine jobs fall to the subordinate who works assiduously in hope of later reward. To cheat him out of his hard-earned glory would be stark tragedy, crooked politicking, and unsound business. Reputable business firms recognize seniority—students should do the same.

Juniors might do well to consider this when they elect Agromeck officers next week.

THROUGH THE TRANSON

By DICK YATES

RAY! RAY! RAH! RAH!

In the clammy watches of the night, while the radio in the next room blares forth its syncopated message of love and propagation, I often wonder what happened to the "Boosters' Club," that admirable organization inaugurated here last year. I turn the matter over slowly in what I laughingly call my mind, and always come to the same conclusion: That eminent clique has released its hold on life. Yes, the fire that inspired it must, from its very intensity, have burned out the vital organs of the group (I speak figuratively, of course), and so ravaged the club that it now exists only as a memory.

Yet, why should this happen? The group was composed of the so-called leaders of the campus. The presidents of all important honorary fraternities, captains of the athletic teams, heads of the publications, and many other equally brilliant students composed the club. Its purpose was steeped with good intentions and a kindly feeling toward all. Whatever would help State College, they maintained at each of the three meetings held, would be the aim of the club. And even Dr. Brooks, who carefully weighs his words and assiduously eliminates all dangling participles and split infinitives, stated that, although there were many clubs and organizations on the campus (for some reason, this frankness appeals to me), there was yet plenty of room for one more club; and that a club which had such a worthy purpose was doubly welcome.

I mention this in passing just to prove that the club really was well thought of when in its heyday, just whatever that may be. As the name would imply, the "Boosters' Club" went in rather strongly for good, patriotic boosting. And since the members were drawn bodily from the leaders of the campus, they were well versed in the gentle art of saying nice things about this and that. Not only would they boost the broad principles which inspired their organization—and here I am referring to the time before its buttery existence was cut short—but they boosted practically everything connected even remotely with the institution.

I speak of the past, though. And it is the present which concerns me just now. It is a fact—horrible as it may seem when viewed subjectively, that the "Boosters' Club" is no more. That admirable group held a trio of meetings and disbanded for the year without observing the formality of electing officers for the ensuing annum.

Since no officers were elected, the group has, as if by tacit agreement, failed to meet this year and carry on work so ably begun the previous year. It is difficult enough for clubs which have officers to hold together; but that club which has not the slightest semblance of leaders is in a fair way of being speedily forgotten. Hence the sudden demise of the exalted "Boosters' Club."

Then, too, boosting is a rather empty sort of association. One soon tires of singing praises of this and that and the other. At first, superlatives like "greatest," "best," "most wonderful," seem to slip off the tongue like rugs on a well-polished floor. But as time elapses and these same superlatives are used, it seems that they lose a bit of their glamor. They get old and, in a way, hackneyed. When this point is reached, some unusual member may discover that little real good is being done. The college seems to be pursuing the same course; old evils are still apparent.

A little healthy questioning, maybe and eyebrow lifted here and there, seems to do much more real good than hearty praises. Of course, the club mentioned above had other aims besides the singing of praises, but history confirms the suspicion that it never seemed to get around to it.

The "Boosters' Club" is dead; that fact is apparent even to the most unperceiving student. Out of my great respect for the organization, I suggest that it be given a fitting and decent burial. Flowers, bugles, and kind words murmured in its memory by the officiating clergy.

But while the flowers are withering, while the bugle notes are floating away on the evening breeze, and the clergy's words are being repeated by members of the late club, something in its place should be organized.

I would suggest an organization that has a diametrically opposite purpose. Call it the "Knockers' Club" or anything you wish; there's not so much in a name. Only let the aim of this club be to take up in order each established thing on the campus, and in its systematic way carefully take it apart, examine it, and spray a good, healthy coating of adverse criticism on every bad quality it finds. Of course, many worthy orders would be subjected to what may seem to be undeserved criticism; several sacred cows may be beaten over the back with pitch fork handles. All this is to be expected, however, for it is only through this method that the evils that must exist can be brought out into the light. If the club attacks something with particular vehemence, it will not, of course, be proved that it is really on the right trail; but the powers that be may be persuaded to more closely examine the particular exhibit that is on trial.

I realize, of course, that the members of the club will be practically ostracized from what is commonly conceived to be decent companionship. The average student will yell to high heaven such particularly standardized phrases of condemnation as: "knocker," "destructive criticism," "long-face," "sour mouth"; but that won't make so very much difference. The members will enjoy themselves; they will know that they are on the right track when a great number of their fellow students condemn them. In fact, if the students don't give them a cold shoulder, it would be well to re-examine their work. Something would plainly be wrong.

I offer the above as my contribution to the campus "leaders" and lapse into silence.

The name Electrical Thinker might be applied to one unit of telephone apparatus. Technically it is known as a Sender and is brought into action each time a call is made in a panel dial central office. By means of electrical mechanism, it records or "remembers" the dialed number and routes the call to the proper line.

The steady expansion of the Bell System — in volume of calls, number of telephones and miles of wire — cannot be taken care of merely by an enlarged use of existing types of apparatus.

To serve the continually growing telephone needs of the nation, it will always be the task of Bell System men to devise, refine, perfect and manufacture new kinds of equipment such as The Thinker.

Scott Rather badly hit in game with Washington and Lee; is replaced by McLawhorn in second—"Hank" Stops "Merry-Go-Round," Holding Visitors Hitless for Five Innings.

By STACEY G. LLOYD

The North Carolina State baseball team broke even in the Tri-State league last week-end by defeating Maryland, and losing to the Washington and Lee Generals 6 to 1.

John Lanning, State's big right hander, was the master of ceremonies in Friday's tilt. His timely hitting and great style of delivering the raised stitch horse-hide was superb. John relieved Hank McLawhorn in the first inning when things were critical. Two visitors were on base with none down, and a cool pre-Easter wind had the two thousand spectators' hair pointing towards the heavens; what could have been more disheartening? This boy Lanning took his position on the little red hill, looked things over, chewed hard on his Climax, and started the fireworks. Three old liners whiffed the breezes to retire the side. Rudy Seitz, one of the Wolfpack's stellar linemen, worked the last two innings. His fast ball puzzled the visitors.

Charlie Turner, last season's regular third baseman, looked good behind the plate. Snoozy Morris and John Lanning led the hitting for State, while Berger and Cronin did likewise for the visitors.

Scott was rather extravagant with his hits Saturday. The Washington and Lee Generals tapped his offerings for a total of five hits, resulting in four runs. Hank McLawhorn replaced Scott in the second inning and stopped the massacre. Hank pitched hitless ball for five innings. Willie Duke's home run in the second inning

Freshmen To Open Season With Wake Forest April 15

Coach Bob Warren is now whipping his freshman baseball team into condition to select the starters in the first game with Wake Forest, April 15.

Weather conditions have been so unfavorable that there has been little real practice. Coach Warren says that he does not know at present who will start in the first game, but he has some good material trying for a berth on the team.

Among those who have reported for practice are, pitchers: Bland, Council, Cooper, Dave, Maglio, Nance, and Wooten; catchers: Farris, Foy, Garner, and McQuase; infielders: Brown, Jay, Powell, Perry, Roach, Tillery, Sprivy, Ware, and York; outfielders: Blair, Compton, Hardy, McCauley, Paris and Vincent.

Frosh Swatters To Play Deacons

Ten intercollegiate games will be played this spring by the State College freshman baseball team, the first being with Wake Forest at Raleigh on April 15.

The complete schedule is as follows: April 15—Wake Forest at Raleigh. April 16—Duke at Durham. April 18—Wake Forest at Wake Forest. April 21—Campbell College at Bites Creek. April 23—Davidson at Raleigh. April 25—Oak Ridge at Raleigh. April 28—Carolina at Raleigh. May 5—Duke at Raleigh. May 8—Carolina, tentative. May 14—Campbell College at Raleigh.

Coach Bob Warren cut his yearling squad from 100 members to 37 the first of this week, and says another cut will be made later.

State Cindermen Lose To Carolina Saturday

The State College track teams, both varsity and freshman, took a severe drubbing last Saturday afternoon when the Carolina cindermen ran off with a 99-to-27 point victory over the State varsity, and a 108½-to-17½ point victory over State's freshman outfit.

The Tar Heel varsity copied 12 out of 14 firsts, with George Bagby leading the parade. Slusser, of the Carolina sprinters, cast aside the thought of a wet and slushy track and dashed off the 100 yards in ten flat.

Captain George McGinn, Southern half-mile champ, and Wilson, shot putter, turned in a couple of firsts for State. Gurneau, of State, lagged in third in the discus heave, being led on by Dameron and Garvin, Tar Heels. State's yearling outfit were able to capture only one first place out of the possible fourteen. Lynch showed up well for the State freshmen in that he was in the scoring in the 100-yard dash in the quarter-mile, and in the broad jump.

I. R. C. Meeting

The International Relations Club will hold its next meeting April 15 at 6:30, in the Y. M. C. A. All members are urged to be present, as officers for next year are to be elected.

Oak Hill, historic home of President James Monroe in Loudoun County, Va., is to be sold at public auction.

By J. DAVID BRITT

We have to make mention in our columns of Coach Lieutenant Elmes and State College's boxing team. This being the first boxing team that State College has ever produced and the showing as a whole that the team has made this year, shows no bad starting record.

The Freshman team has shown an exceptional record. If you remember, they fought Carolina frosh for the championship of the state, and were defeated by only a small margin.

As to the Varsity, they lost more meets than were won by them, but in all of these engagements the decisions were close, extra rounds being fought in every meet. Most of the teams we tackled were three and four year seasons entrants into the boxing contests, between the schools. On the other hand, we started out this year with all new material. Not only was boxing new to the State team, but it was new to the department of athletics here. Sandbags, punching bags, wrapping tape, gloves and the ring were purchased, and all equipment installed in the gymnasium in late November.

Not too much credit can be given to Coach Elmes, who tutored the boys along. Lieutenant Elmes has never coached boxing before. He had done little boxing since he was just a kid, but he has been helping condition and train men in practically all sports in the army at different posts.

One of the reasons that both teams made the showing that they did this season was due to hard training. After the equipment was installed, and training got underway, Coach Elmes told the boys that they would have to drop their cigarettes, and ignore the bottle altogether. He said that no man can make the boxing team smoking cigarettes and drinking "hot shot." He also stated that they would have to get down to real training by being on hand every day.

He started the season off by the boys taking about a two-mile run of road work every afternoon, and then shadow boxing and learning the fundamentals of foot work and defense until six-thirty every afternoon.

When asked about the prospects of next year's team, Coach Elmes said: "I don't see any reason why we shouldn't have a well balanced team. We lose Captain DiMee and Forman by graduation, but we have real material coming up from the freshman team, and I am expecting better results next year."

The following men received their letters: Captain Sam DiMee, Karig, Forman, Hinson, Beavers, Bowers, Red Espey and Benas as manager—all of Varsity. The freshmen who received their numerals were: Skinner, Newman, Garner, Franklin, Rhyne, Welling, and Sutton, manager.

Other men who showed form and were in some of the meets are: Guthrie, Gardner, Guerneau, Greenhalgh, and McGee of Varsity. The reason these men were not awarded letters, through illness they were not able to compete in as many meets as the awarded lettermen were. They will all be out next year.

"Red" Espey and Karig were chosen by the team at a banquet recently as co-captains of the 1931 team.

NEW LIGHT-WEIGHT FELTS

A new light-weight felt hat for summer wear has just appeared on the campus. This hat has the same shape as the heavier hat that has been so popular since the fall. Since it is light in weight and almost white, it will be welcomed by the man who does not favor a straw. It is also an ideal hat for wear between now and straw time.

Lambda Chi Alpha Pledge Banquet

The pledges of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at N. C. State College will sponsor a banquet for the chapter to be given tonight at the Raleigh Capital Club.

Guests for the banquet will arrive at 8 o'clock. Young ladies of Raleigh and alumni of the fraternity have been invited.

Following the banquet there will be a private dance in the chapter house on Clarke Ave.

Annual R. O. T. C. Ball

Plans for the annual Regimental Ball to be held in the Frank Thompson Memorial Gymnasium Friday night, April 17, from 9 to 12, are progressing rapidly and the ball is destined to be one of the most brilliant entertainments of the year.

Battleship signal flags have been secured from the Norfolk navy yard with which to decorate the gym. The flags will form a canopy overhead, while the walls will be banked with trees, guns, and other military paraphernalia.

All seniors in the R. O. T. C. will take part in the figure which will be led by Cadet Col. C. B. Turner with Miss Mable Sargent, of Hendersonville. The cadet colonel will be assisted by Lt. Col. W. T. Clement with Miss Blanche Baker Hanf, of Scotland Neck; Capt. H. B. Merriam with Miss Agnes Moore, Raleigh; Capt. H. E. Atkinson with Miss Carolyn Fuller of Durham; and the three battalion commanders with their partners.

Preceding the figure the colors of the N. C. State R. O. T. C. regiment, The American Legion, The Red Cross, The Spanish American War, The Civil War and the Company guidons will march in.

Jelly Lettwich and his Duke University orchestra have been engaged to play for the dancing.

Many notables have been invited for the ball and special boxes will be provided for the distinguished guests.

Capt. John T. Geoghegan is in charge of the reception committee and Capt. Sam DiMeo is in charge of decorations.

Silver Anniversary Ball

One of the most outstanding events of the spring season for N. C. State College was the silver anniversary Easter ball given by Alpha Epsilon chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha on Easter Monday.

The dance was held in the Frank Thompson Memorial Gymnasium from 9 until 1 o'clock. The gym was decorated in green and white streamers overhead with longleaf pine and evergreens around the walls. The garnet and gold fraternity colors ornamented the orchestra platform.

Upon completion of the figure the ladies were presented necklaces with the AKA coat-of-arms as favors.

After the dance the members of the fraternity and their partners were guests of honor at a cabaret-supper given by the Intercollegiate Club from one until four-thirty in the morning.

Members of the chapter entertained their young lady guests with a house-party over the week-end at their home on Hillsboro Street.

In addition to those named above, the members of the fraternity and their guests who took part in the occasion were:

Alpha Lambda Tau Tea Dance

The Alpha Lambda Tau fraternity entertained very elaborately Monday afternoon with a tea dance at their house on Forest Road. Regardless of the fact that only special friends were invited, the house was packed to full capacity. Spring flowers were the only decorations used, but these were so arranged that the house looked very attractive.

Funch and cakes were served throughout the entire afternoon.

Music was furnished by a well known local Negro orchestra.

Members attending were J. E. Newby with Sarah Clay Paylor, Dorrys Bennett with Eloise Smith C. B. Liles with Caroline Mann, A. L. Schwab with Helen Rayner of Washington, D. C., C. E. ## State, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

Sparkling with spicy dialogue and moving swiftly with a daring modern romance, Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle, "Strangers May Kiss," is coming to the State Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

More striking in theme than "The Divorcee," also penned by Ursula Parrott, the new Shearer vehicle closely adheres to the story of the new best-seller, presenting a moving and intimate picture of the modern young woman who defies convention to elope with a globe-trotting adventurer, not only without benefit of clergy, but also without benefit of divorce court.

To complete a good program there is a Sound News, a comedy act, "The Pest," with Tom Howard, and a musical act, "Crazy Compositions."

State Thursday and Friday

In "The Southerner," which is coming to the State Theatre next Thursday and Friday, Lawrence Tibbett "goes modern," and by doing so provides his fans with an even more interesting Lawrence Tibbett than he did in former swashbuckling characterizations.

This is a strictly modern characterization, laid in the South of today. Romance and heart interest blend into a mighty dramatic situation, and Tibbett finds opportunity to sing haunting melodies of the South, one of his greatest concert numbers, and a love number that bids fair to be a classic.

The story is the simple and direct one of a prodigal who returns to an aristocratic family, and makes good in a startling situation that to disclose here would be to spoil when it is seen on the screen. Harry Pollard repeated his deft direction in "Show Boat" in handling this production, and the cast leaves nothing to be desired.

Cliff Edwards and Roland Young team as two tramps, companions of the hero, and inject many a laugh. Further comedy is taken care of cleverly by Stepin Fetchit, the colored comedian of the screen. Purnell B. Pratt and Theodore Von Eltz make two convincing villains, giving restrained performances.

The fourth of the series of Movie Memories, a Mickey Mouse Cartoon, a comedy act and Sound News will complete the program.

The management of the State Theatre announces Sara Busbee's Premier Dance Revue featuring her Terpsichorean Artists, as a special attraction on next Saturday. There will be a matinee and night performance, at 3:30 and 9:00 p. m., and the Revue promises to be entertaining, with plenty of pep, color and music.

There are 18 different numbers to be offered and the Baby Class of children ranging in age from two to six years will be the featured number on the program. Some of the numbers are "The Turnovers" with the Baby Class, "Red Hot Clog," "East Side, West Side," "Four Shades of Blue," "Upside Down," "Soft and Slow," "Stars in the Pool," a tribute to the beauty of the stars in the heavens reflected in a pool, "The Racketeers," the "Military Finale," "March of the Peppermint Sticks" and the Grand Finale. There are also several specialty numbers to be offered.

Work on the costumes has been under way for several weeks and a gay combination of color will lend its beauty to the setting of the Revue. Special stage settings with new and colorful backgrounds are being built and will also lend their color to the setting.

Music for the Revue will be furnished by the N. C. State Collegians.

The feature photoplay is "The Bad Sister," featuring Conrad Nagel and two newcomers to the screen, Sidney Fox and Bette Davis with ZaSu Pitts and Slim Summerville. The story deals with the spoiled daughter of a small-town merchant who feels that she is entitled to more than she Won a sweeping victory in class elections Wednesday over opponents and is sophomore leader for 1931-32.

Petted and pampered by her family, she becomes most disgusting until a "City Slicker" gets her to forge her father's name to a document, promises to marry her, then leaves her flat. Conrad Nagel as the struggling young physician handles a difficult role with his usual finesse. At first in love with the spoiled daughter, he later finds her quiet and unobtrusive sister is the girl he really loves. How the spoiled girl learns her lesson and finally becomes a really worth-while girl makes an interesting story.

An Our Gang Comedy, a Paramount Pictorial and a Sound News will complete the program.

"June Moon," which is to be shown at the Palace, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is the hilarious New York stage success of last season in which the authors, Ring Lardner and George Kaufman, poked fun, wild and meaningful, in the general direction of popular song writers, has been expertly dramatized on the talking screen. With Jack Oakie in the role of the likable, somewhat snappy, would-be writer of song hits, "June Moon" swings along at a rapid-fire pace, replete with screaming situations and peppered with pointed dialogue that is always side-splitting and often satirical. Those who have seen "June Moon" in preview claim Jack Oakie is seen in the best role allotted him since his good-natured, cocky-smiling face first flashed on the screen.

A comedy, cartoon and Palace Sound News will complete the program.

"Gun Smoke," which features Richard Arlen and Mary Brian, is the attraction coming to the Palace, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. According to advance notices, the story of "Gun Smoke" combines swift moving action and delightful romance in a manner affording theatre-goers a brand of exciting entertainment that's distinctively new and different.

In addition to Richard Arlen, Mary Brian and William (Stage) Boyd, the cast of "Gun Smoke" includes Eugene Pallette and Louise Fazenda.

Cool All the Way Down

If you inhale, you can quickly tell the difference between fresh and stale cigarettes. A Camel, protected by the Humidor Pack, retains its natural moisture, and gives you a cool mild smoke. But when you draw in the smoke from dried-out stale tobacco, it's hot and irritating to the throat.

If you haven't discovered this difference, we suggest you switch to Camels for just one day. Then leave them tomorrow, if you can.
