Amos Wins Laurels For State College In Southern Debate

Milbourne B. Amos, State College orator, took first place for both the extemporaneous speaking and oratorical supremacy at the second annual meeting of the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech in Atlanta last Friday, April 17.

Not only did Amos win the coveted honors of oratory, but he also played a big role on the debating team which took second place, being defeated only by the North Texas State Teachers College of Denton, Tex.

A. F. Ward, Jr., another of State's star orators, took honors in winning second place in the debating contest.

"Amos showed unusual ability in being able not only to make an excellent speech which he had prepared and learned, but in being able to speak almost on the spur of the moment," according to E. H. Paget. He had only 24 hours in which to prepare a talk in the extemporaneous speaking contest. In the oratorical contest, however, he had time to perfect his speech. He chose as his subject, "The Rise of the Far West."

"I have never heard of, and don't think there ever has been, a case in which one individual won both championships before," said Professor Paget, professor of Public Speaking at State College.

Business Students Having Difficulty Securing Positions

The job outlook for members of this year's graduating class is darker than it has been in years because many of the companies who have been taking on men each year are not hiring any new men or are hiring fewer men than in previous years.

According to Hayes Richardson, who is in charge of placing graduates from the School of Science and Business, only about half the firms who had sent representatives to this school by this time last year have had representatives here so far.

Some of the firms which hire college graduates have had to lay off some of their newer men temporarily and have not yet taken them back. Most of these firms do not expect to hire any more men until they take back those laid off.

There are also quite a few graduates of previous years who are here looking for jobs. Some of these are unemployed and others are dissatisfied with their present jobs and are looking for new jobs.

Despite the fact that the demand for men is diminished and the supply is increased, Mr. Richardson hopes to place around 90 per cent of this year's seniors.

Ceramic Society Elects Officers For Next Year

New officers of the State College branch of the American Ceramic Society elected last week are: Charles C. Morrison, president; E. C. Davidson, vice president; W. C. Bangs, secretary and treasurer, and John H. Isehour, corresponding secretary. George J. Grimes was elected representative at large.

Retiring President Meents expressed his appreciation of the cooperation of the old officers and the members of the society during the past year, and especially during the Engineers' Fair. He also gave credit to Professors Greaves-Walker, Fabianic, and Stolte for their encouraging work and successful leadership during the year.

Professor Greaves-Walker commended the officers and members for their achievements, and expressed his wish of having an even better and larger society and department next year.

At the meeting the freshman associate members were taken into full membership.

POLITICS

Politics did not cease for the State College athletes with the close of student campaigning.

John Bray, captain of the 1909 "Wolfpack," found a host of supporters among his Alma Mater.

Captain-elect Charlie Cobb, retiring Captain Mack Stout, "Coo" Milo Strain, Red Espey, and others put their "X's" beside the name of a former grid star.

Because State athletes are not claiming Raleigh as their home, officials say they are disqualified as voters.

No action has been taken as to the eligibility of these athletes to vote.

STATE HONOR SYSTEM NEEDS MORE STRESS, SAYS D. PAUL

President-elect and Retiring Head Return From Federation Meet In Atlanta

Dan Paul, president of the Student Body, and Romeo LePort, president-elect, returned Monday from Tuscaloosa, Ala., where they attended a meeting of the Southern Federation of College Students.

The meeting was held on the campus of the University of Alabama. Delegates from more than ten Southern colleges and universities were in attendance.

"In discussing the problems of student government," said Dan Paul after his return, "the honor system was considered to be the greatest in importance by the federation, and I am of the opinion that the honor system is the thing we need to stress on our own campus."

Elaborate entertainments were planned and executed for the delegates, "A" Day at the University of Alabama, which came during the meeting, seemed to be the high spot in the entertainments. Athletic contests of all kinds featured this day for the students.

"Cooperation of the students in reporting misdemeanors is essential to the enforcement of the rules. Violators are prone to fear only student councilmen," he concluded.

Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS INSTALLED WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

H. Y. Brock, New President, Takes Oath of Office Tuesday Night

New officers of the Y. M. C. A. were installed with impressive ceremonies Tuesday night in the 'Y' auditorium. Speeches from the retiring president and other dignitaries, with the inaugural addresses of the incoming officers, featured the installation ceremony.

H. Y. Brock, new president, stated in his speech that his efforts would be directed toward making the organization of greater aid to State students and one that would command their respect.

Striking a note so often sounded, E. McNeill Potat, in addressing the assembly, declared that the Y. M. C. A. could do no better than combat the effect of large amounts of material knowledge that leads to skepticism and iconoclasm.

Below is given the program that was followed:

Song—Congregation.
Devotional—J. R. Walker.
Song—Congregation.

"Swan Song"—C. L. Clark, retiring president.
Oath of Office—Given by Dean Cloyd.
President's Address—H. Y. Brock.
Closing Ceremony—Congregation.

At one time Holladay Hall housed the entire college, acting as dormitory, dining hall, class rooms, administrative offices, etc.

Robbing of Pay Telephones Brings Threats of Removal

Unless the students in the dormitories care for the telephones and refrain from robbing them, the instruments will be removed, according to a statement made by telephone officials who recently called Dan Paul downtown in an effort to impress upon him and the student body the importance of caring for the telephones.

Explaining that the telephones were a great convenience to the students, Paul asked the officials to forego their action until the students could be informed of their proposed move. He declared that the students evidently did not realize the seriousness of their offenses, and that every effort would be made to get them to desist.

The officials asked Paul to inform the students who attempt to rob the instruments that only a small amount of money remains in the telephones, as collections are made frequently. If these appeals had no effect, the officials declared, telephones would be removed.

LUCAS SAYS COLLEGES ARE CUTTING REPUBLICAN RANKS

Declares That "Radical Teachings" Are Halting Influx of Youth

Washington, D. C.—Declaring it a hopeless task to inculcate "traditional policies of the Republican party" into modern youth in the face of politically heretical teachings of universities and colleges "literally saturated with radicalism," Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee, recommended tonight organization of clubs in which young voters could get their political doctrines from the lips of old-time State and county Republican leaders, according to the New York Times.

Speaking at a banquet of the men's division of the Young Republicans, at which were representatives from every Republican State, Mr. Lucas declared that the colleges and universities were even going to the extent of encouraging free trade and public ownership of private industry.

Each year, he said, about 2,000,000 young men and women become of voting age, and went on: "Where do they go? Does the Republican party get the proportion of these new voters that it deserves? Are the young people educated in the political history of our country? Are they schooled in the history of the achievements of the Republican party? Are they familiar with the principles for which our party stands?"

"The problem of educating and organizing the first voter is at once the most important and the most difficult which confronts the Republican party."

"The problem is increased because of the difficulty of approach to the youth of the land, and is rendered doubly difficult to the Republican party because of the fact that the tendencies of the young man and young woman are away from conservatism in thinking and acting, and also because the formative influences in many of our educational institutions are largely radical."

versity of Georgia. The team won this decision by a vote of the audience. "This is a case," said Professor Paget in speaking of the audience vote, "which proves that the home team does not always win."

There were 14 Southern states represented at the tournament in Atlanta, the territory reaching as far west as Texas and Oklahoma.

Not only did Amos come out victorious in Atlanta, but he had been formerly acclaimed the best orator in the southwestern colleges, which are composed of the Southern states west of the Mississippi River.

Professor Paget, who was president of the association last year, was re-elected president for the following year. He attempted to have the next convention held in Chapel Hill, but failed. It was voted to meet at Asheville.

State Plays Deacons League Park Saturday

First Game Played Off Riddick Field—Lanning Slated for Mound Work—Doakmen Are Given Edge Over Wake Forest—Game With V. M. I. Friday—McLawhorn Is Probable Hurler Against the Virginians.

By FRED DIXON

Another chapter will be added to the oldest annual intercollegiate classic in North Carolina college circles Saturday, when State and Wake Forest play at League Park. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The game is being run off three weeks late, but rain and wet grounds on Easter Monday made it necessary for the engagement to be called off on that day.

Although it will be lacking in the usual Easter Day setting and the many young ladies who welcomed the day for another chance to display the latest spring styles of Dame Fashion, it will still be the "big game" for State and Deacon students.

This is the first time the game has been played off Riddick Field, but light poles on that field make it impossible for baseball.

Looking back over a few previous games it is found that State defeated the Deacons last spring 3-0. Wake Forest claimed the biggest win in 1929 and State in 1928. Wake Forest, however, claims the biggest win in so far as scores go. It reads like a football game, but in 1920 the Deacons won 27 to 6, but that was in 1920!

Frosh Game

State's strong freshman team and Oak Ridge Military School play here Saturday on Freshman Field. Coach Bob Warren says the game will start earlier in order that the players may attend the State-Wake Forest game in the afternoon, but that no definite time has yet been set for the game.

Coach Warren says he will probably start Nance on the mound, with Farris back of the bat. Jay will be at first; Spivey, second; Roach, third; Brown, short; Paris, left field; McCauley or McQuage, center field, and Blair, right field.

ette was on the mound for State, and Tom "Lefty" Lanning chunked 'em over for Wake Forest. Bill would no doubt be on the red hill again Saturday, but the Southern Conference ruling committee found his name on some other baseball team, but Bill will be well represented by John Lanning, Tom's brother. Meador, the Deacon knuckle-ball artist, will oppose Lanning.

State Looks Best
Records so far this year give State the upper hand. Wake Forest has lost twice to Duke, once to Carolina, and holds a win over Davidson in Big Five play. State claims a win over Davidson and the loss to Duke which has been protested. In both of these games the Technicians showed more "baseball stuff" and are favorites to cop the Saturday game.

Coach Chick Doak has a good gang of ball players down on Freshman Field and six men that saw action against Wake Forest last year will be in diamond tops again. They are Outen Gerock, first; Tony Furtado, second; Fred Wilkie, short; Bill Brake, center field; Willis Hargrove, left field, and Charlie Turner, catcher.

Willis hasn't been in uniform but once this week, as his mother passed away last Saturday morning, but this hard-hitting outfielder will no doubt get in the game.

Willie Duke and Snoozie Morris, two sophomores, will round out the team, Duke in the field and Morris at third.

All in all the game is just more than an ordinary baseball game.

State-V. M. I. Today
State plays its fourth Tri-State League baseball game today, against Virginia Military Institute. The engagement will start at 4 o'clock.

The game is the second of three on tap for State's varsity outfit this week. On Monday the Doakmen defeated Davidson at Davidson and Saturday they take on the Demon Deacons from Wake Forest in a game to be played at League Park.

Coach Chick Doak hasn't made any definite hurling selection for today, but it is believed that Hank McLawhorn will get the call. The other eight positions will probably be filled in this manner: Charlie Turner, catcher; Outen Gerock, first; Tony Furtado or Ned Wood, second; and Snoozie Morris, third. Fred Wilkie will be at short, with Willie Hargrove in left field, Willie Duke, centerfield, and Bill Brake, right field.

CHARLES D. WHALEY—MAJOR—1ST. BN.

As major of the First Battalion of the R. O. T. C. Regiment at North Carolina State College, Charles D. Whaley, of Wilmington, holds one of the six highest positions in the College Military Department.

Besides being outstanding in military at the institution, Major Whaley was prominent in inter-mural athletics, a member of the Freshman Friendship Council, leader of the Bible Study Group of the Y. M. C. A., and president of the New Hanover Club.

For his work in the R. O. T. C. Regiment, he was taken into the Scabbard and Blade National honorary military fraternity.

LOSING PANTS

Capt. George McGinn, half-mile track ace of State College, as usual, won his race yesterday over V. P. I., but to all appearances McGinn had an acute attack of the stomach-ache while in on the home stretch.

He had his left hand pressed tightly over the belt line of his track pants. However, he wasn't limping, a common result of an ache in the lower cavity.

An inquiring reporter found that McGinn did not have the stomach-ache. He was only holding up his pants. Besides holding up his pants, McGinn held up the honor of the school and took first place in the event.

Outside Work Hinders Undergraduate Little

Minneapolis, Minn.—"Yes," was the answer Dr. J. G. Umstatt, University of Minneapolis, made after a thorough study of the question; it is possible for a student to clerk, wait on tables, mind babies, or in any way to work his way through college and still get as much out of it as the one whose bills are paid by his father.

Dr. Umstatt states that from the results of his survey he finds that the question of what a boy will get out of his schooling is entirely up to the boy, and whether he pays his own way or not has nothing to do with the material results that he will derive.

In his study Dr. Umstatt found that students of a given intelligence make approximately the same marks, regardless of whether engaged in outside work or not. Going into the question of extra-curricular activities it was found that the more a freshman earned the more he participated in outside activities, such as the Y. M. C. A., literary societies, student government, and religious work. Senior earners were found to hold as many campus offices as non-earners, and it was found that most of these students worked so that they would be able to participate in other activities.

More students were found to be engaged as clerks in stores than any other occupation, while restaurant work, nursing, general office work, household and salesman positions followed in order. When asked what the workers would do with their extra time if they did not have to pay their own way, the largest number replied that they would go in for athletics. The next largest group declared that they would study more, while extra-curricular activities, reading, social life and recreation would claim the time of others.

When asked what the disadvantages of working while in college were, most of the workers replied "none." Rather than a disadvantage they maintained that they counted it an advantage. Very few admitted that it was a curtailment of their social activities, but the majority said it was the only means by which they would be able to enter any social life at all.

Sports Schedule

Nine athletic events are carded for State College teams during the week of April 27 through May 2.

State's varsity baseball team will leave Raleigh Monday, April 27, on an invasion of four Virginia schools and one Maryland institution. The first game on the trip is with Maryland at College Park on Tuesday, April 28. Following the Old Limer tilt, the Technicians head back south and on Wednesday, April 29, play Virginia at Charlottesville. From there Coach Chick Doak will move his pack to Lexington, where, on Thursday, April 30, State plays V. M. I. and on Friday, May 1, Washington and Lee. After the game with V. P. I. at Blacksburg on Saturday, May 2, the State team will return home.

The freshman club has a game with Carolina at Raleigh on Wednesday, April 29.

Two tennis matches are also carded for State's racketeers next week. They are with Wake Forest at Wake Forest, April 27, and Duke at Raleigh, May 2.

State's track team will enter the State track meet at Greensboro, Saturday, May 2.

Los Hidalgos Planning To Initiate 15 April 28

Los Hidalgos, national language fraternity, plans to initiate fifteen new members on April 28. Prof. Stanley Ballenger, faculty adviser, announced today.

Candidates are: R. E. Teno, S. O. Jones, Catherine Huddleston, Mary Clyde Cotner, Frances Louise Gray, D. H. Latham, L. D. Murphy, D. H. McVey, C. S. Simmons, H. W. Stephens, C. S. Stapleford, D. E. McConnell, I. S. Shub, and W. E. Koonce.

"The object of the fraternity is to foster interest in all the languages and the culture of the different peoples," according to Professor Ballenger. "Los Hidalgos is the only national language fraternity in the United States to study linguistic culture."

Dr. L. E. Hinkle and Prof. Stanley Ballenger are the faculty advisers.

Cesari P. Agusti of the European Import Company, will speak to the fraternity at the next meeting.

NOTRE DAME COACH TO SUCCEED KNUTE ROCKNE

South Bend, Ind.—Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, who has been selected as acting head coach at Notre Dame following the death of Rockne, came to Notre Dame from Calumet, Mich., in 1918 with the immortal George Gipp and O. J. Larsen. He became a regular guard in 1919 and served three years.

While he did not reach sensational heights on the gridiron, he was considered by Rockne as one of the greatest of Notre Dame's linemen. His spirit and capacity for work appealed to Rockne, and when he graduated, Rockne made him head line coach.

He remained with Notre Dame until the 1928 football season, when he went to St. Louis University as head coach. He remained there two seasons, but last year when Tom Lieb resigned to go to Loyola in California, Anderson returned to his alma mater.

The huge factor which the Notre Dame line made of itself last season was a tribute to the ability of Anderson.

West Virginia Frats Buy Cooperatively

Morgantown, W. Va.—The West Virginia Buyers' Association, as the cooperative movement has been termed, has been set in operation by thirteen fraternities of the University of West Virginia.

Cooperative purchasing is comparatively new in college circles, according to H. E. Stone, dean of men, who found, after a national survey, that only four colleges in the United States use such a system. The dean has taken an active interest in this new movement, being along with Dr. A. L. Darby and Sidney Maynard, faculty members, is a member of the board of directors of the organization.

As a result of a survey made by Orren Jones, student manager of the buyers' association, it was found that the fraternities on the campus wield a combined buying power of upwards of a quarter of a million dollars each school year. At the same time he estimated that these groups, working together, might save as much as $40,000 per year through the cooperative buying scheme.

A concrete demonstration of possible savings was given last week when the association closed its first deal. By purchasing all milk, butter, cheese, and other dairy products from the same firm the organization expects to save as much as 20 per cent on prices formerly paid. The amount to be conserved on milk alone, during the year is estimated at $2,000. Recently the cooperative association

W. S. LEE—CAPTAIN AND ADJUTANT—3RD BN

W. S. Lee, of Raleigh, will be graduated from North Carolina State College this year as one of the outstanding cadet R. O. T. C. officers and scholars of the institution.

He was selected cadet captain and adjutant in the Third Battalion by the Military Department and taken into the Scabbard and Blade military fraternity.

Outstanding military work did not handicap Captain and Adjutant Lee in scholastic standing. He is a member of Pine Burr Scholarship Fraternity and Delta Sigma Pi, international honorary business fraternity.

GEOGRAPHY

The conversation had drifted around to geography, as it very infrequently does at boarding house tables. Questions and answers and comments here and there relating to this country and that continent flew back and forth across the table.

"What country is Turkey in?" asked one freshman, evidently with more curiosity than knowledge.

He was given the very obvious reply with a bit of advice added out of courtesy, or rather lack of courtesy.

"Oh, I know Turkey's a country, but what I want to know," he added in an attempt to hide his embarrassment, "is what town it is near."

came to the aid of the local Red Cross and the Council of Social Agencies in the matter of feeding the many who call upon these organizations for help. Tickets were printed with the name and address of a member fraternity on each. These tickets were then turned over to the charitable organizations to be issued to worthy applicants each day. Each ticket entitled the holder to a lunch and a dinner at the fraternity house designated on the card and each fraternity may be called upon to honor a maximum of two tickets each day.

Thus a maximum of fifty-two meals per day, or 1,560 per month, are being offered to the unfortunates at this section at absolutely no cost to them. A drive is now under way to secure clothing for the needy.

When Secretary of State Henry D. Stimson heard his Washington home being bombarded, he found that his windows were being smashed by boys using slingshots on birds in the vicinity.

Electrical Engineers Winners Over Seven Floats in Big Parade

The float designed by the Department of Electrical Engineering was awarded first place, by the Judges, among the seven different floats which represented the various departments of Engineering and engineering societies and organizations at State College, in the Engineers' parade two weeks ago. The judges rendered their decision immediately after the parade.

The float was designed by the members of the E. E. faculty and the following seniors in Electrical Engineering: J. H. Mauney, J. E. Collins, and H. J. Cobb. The float consisted of a large generator of modern design showing the progress which has been made since Faraday's time. The float also included one of Faraday's generators, which was designed about one hundred years ago. The enormous generator which took the eye of the judges represented the 100th anniversary of generator design.

Second place was awarded the Department of Mechanical Engineering, whose float consisted of a turntable on which were mounted very early and recent models of automobiles, airplanes, power plants, and locomotives, showing the progress which has been made in the design and construction of each one of these different phases of Mechanical Engineering.

Third place was awarded the Department of Architectural Engineering. Their float consisted of a model made to scale of Raleigh's proposed new auditorium.

Students Attack Grading System

New York City.—Although no official action has been taken, the agitation at Barnard College over the existing system of recording grades reached a crisis last week when a student petition demanding the abolition of the present system and the substitution of the pass-fail system was presented to Acting Dean Geo. W. Mullins.

The Bulletin, the undergraduate publication, has for some time been carrying on editorially a campaign in favor of the pass-fail system, and finally a student curricular committee drew up the petition condemning the system in use. That the giving of definite marks leads students to concentrate too much on grades alone and that the distribution of A's and B's varies disproportionately in the various classes is the basis on which the signers of the petition place their argument.

Semper idem

"ALWAYS THE SAME" . . . a good slogan for any one of a thousand advertised articles whose superior qualities are maintained year in and year out.

Have you ever stopped to consider the time, patience, skill, money, and experience invested in every one of the articles you see advertised in this newspaper? No matter what it may be—a lead pencil or a cigarette—the problems of maintaining and improving quality are constantly in the minds of those responsible for their manufacture. Quality must be maintained at all hazards. Quality must be bettered wherever and whenever possible. Price must be kept at a level that will insure the utmost in value.

Advertised goods must, and do, live up to their advertising. "Semper idem"—always the same. They cannot afford to vary in the least.

Trust advertised goods. Buy them regularly. Read advertising to learn what is new. Read it to know what others are buying. Read it to ascertain how you can save money and yet get better merchandise.

UNRECOGNIZED

State College has another unrecognized co-president.

The Board of Trustees have the plea of the Student Council against a dual government on the campus.

The co-eds were denied the right to vote for Student Body officers, and thus the Student Council defeated its own purpose of having "one unified council."

Yet, the co-eds attend class meetings and vote for representatives and councilmen in the men's governing body.

ARDENT ATHLETES

The reorganization of the State College Monogram Club will serve a long-felt need on the campus—that is, hosts to visiting teams.

As host to the Washington-Lee baseball team recently, State was not so efficient and entertaining.

Washington and Lee boys left with a deficit of nearly a hundred dollars.

A Monogram Club will see that visiting teams are entertained, protected, and furnished with "living" quarters—and this is more than any other organization has ever done.

This club can be one of the most influential, serviceable, and reputable on the campus.

Coaches Smith and Reese are back of them, and they have a future before them.

ROBBERS

An inefficient teacher is as much a thief as the lowest burglar. He is worse. A burglar steals only tangibles, while a professor who is inefficient steals time and money and future prospects.

Offtimes, the professor is not to blame, but the college that allows him to teach is criminal, and legislatures make criminals when they fail to appropriate the necessary funds for adequate teaching.

State College has its quota of these inefficient teachers, and we blame the deans who let them teach only in one respect—they could drop these courses from their curriculums.

In one case, a professor gives a course in which he has had only SIX WEEKS TRAINING to teach. This same professor fumbled 16 of 24 students taking another of his courses. This is one course; how many do you know?

OUR MINIATURE AUDITORIUM

The Blue Key Bulletin Board will be State College's "miniature auditorium."

There is no place on the campus where the student body can meet to find the week's coming events. The official college bulletin sent to professors is ignored by them in most classes; Pullen Hall will barely accommodate the freshman class; and the college paper is only published weekly.

A bulletin board is making the most of a bad situation—it will serve, as a student body chapel, to inform of the important meetings and notices.

The Blue Key fraternity says this bulletin board will be permanent—they look in the future and are wise. There are little hopes of our getting the auditorium the Legislature promised.

To merit the name General Assembly, our North Carolina lawmakers should meet with the inmates of the State Hospital—the State Capitol would be a real service to North Carolina as an auditorium for the college.

THERE AIN'T NO JUSTICE

In the name of justice and fair play, if the North Carolina General Assembly knows what this means, can only nine appointed trustees of fifty-eight be fair to State College?

If this august body of lawmakers can't find any new sources of revenue in North Carolina—if 150 million dollars profits in tobacco is no source of revenue—if corporations make like amounts and the Legislature still must tax the farmer and "little man"—how can this little college hope for fair play in the apportionment of trustees?

Only a bunch of morons would bring our educational institutions into politics.

With the appropriations allotted State College, she can't afford a decent lobbyist—and it looks as if a lobby is needed to plead for the existence of this little school.

The only thing that could be worse would be for our loyal alumnus, O. Max Gardner, to recommend equality of trustees—then we know State wouldn't have the nine now appointed.

Have you ever heard of his "Live-at-Home" program? Well, State College put it across for him—it was her county agents, home demonstration agents, agricultural school, and extension division that put out the perspiration; but the Senators and Representatives have been too busy protecting the corporations to remember this.

State College would be satisfied to have an apportionment of trustees in proportion to the amount of service rendered North Carolina.

They've combined State and Carolina, and that's not so bad.

Ask any farmer who put the GREAT in the "GREATER university."

GOOD OF DEPRESSION

Whatever misfortunes the business depression might have brought State College, we have a keen suspicion that along with it came the 88 per cent increase in the number of honor men.

Students begin to realize the sacrifice their parents are making to send them through college, and we believe the old report card is their index of appreciation.

Many students are sending themselves through school—they know what the dollar mark stands for. The depression has driven many collegians, anxious for an education, to seek the medium of exchange for the first time.

There are many who are working and making the honor roll at the same time—to these men we should pay high honor.

In our effort to honor the scholar, let's not forget those many students who are just mediocre. They form the bulk of the college—they are the extra-curricular activity men—they are the athletes—and in general, those men who uphold the college's reputation and by whose labor the college profits.

A handful of students turned out to the Scholarship Day exercises, and a handful of students heard an inspiring and educational address by Dr. E. W. Sikes, president of Clemson College.

Too little interest is taken in these exercises.

FOURTH ESTATE

While this paper is being read, a group of college students from fifteen North Carolina institutions are gathered on the State campus. The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association is holding its semi-annual convention here this week.

North Carolina college newspapers have the opportunity to do their part in setting the standard of their schools, the standard of citizenship, and the promotion of collegiate welfare which will eventually be the State's interest in future years.

Concentrated in this small group of less than fifty will be found more power, more influence, more ability to lead and lead well than will be found in any other group of college students. This is the power that is associated with the written word; theirs is influence that such power conveys. In them rests the responsibility that power and influence inevitably demand.

Realizing the power they have, the ability with which they are endowed, and the fact that they will make pleasant company—ladies and gentlemen of the Fourth Estate, whatever their other shortcomings may be, are never boring—we receive them gladly, confident that the convention will be one of mutual helpfulness.

DEAD OR ALIVE

Little respect is paid the new State College spotlight. Of 137 motorists, 67 ignored the red light, and of this number 47 were women drivers.

It all means, a State College student has 67 chances out of 137 of being hit by a motorist who is a law-breaker. Pedestrians crossing on the green light have the law with them, but what is the law to a dead man?

Distorted Values

With the baseball season in full swing and perplexed students poring over schedules, wondering how the colleges and universities of the land will play this somewhat decaying collegiate game, perhaps this is an appropriate moment to discuss that much-discussed thing: School Spirit.

No other fallacy ranks quite so high, I think, as does that which holds school spirit and athletic enthusiasm to be one and inseparable. This same form of reasoning places patriotism and war on the same plane; public office and public confidence in the same category; and knowledge and happiness are thought, by this method of reasoning, to be coincident. I sometimes wonder why some of the more cheerful souls haven't associated love with spinach.

That individual who attends all the athletic events in which his college takes part, who cheers wildly regardless of whether his team is winning or not, and who, after his college has been decisively beaten, declares that Old Whoosis still has the best team, is commonly accepted as an individual who is filled to overflowing with school spirit. Reason leaves her throne when these enthusiastic souls vie with each other over the athletic ability of their respective colleges. Pure emotion rules with an iron hand and a deluded brain. The grandstand roar is raised by cheers, and Old Whoosis may bite the dust in defeat, but her school spirit-inoculated students will never admit that which has been clearly proven. This, in the commonly accepted meaning of the term, is school spirit; and although it may look rather nice and thrilling while the band plays, it is really, just a bit foolish.

To take one phase of college life and say that school spirit rightfully belongs to it reveals nothing more nor less than a distorted sense of values. School spirit, if it is to have any value, must of necessity apply to those things for which the college was established. And, unless I have my facts from an unreliable source, that purpose is confined rather closely to the classrooms. But have you, Mr. Average Student, ever seen this valuable quality applied with all its apparent beauty to the classroom? Have you noticed the entire class cheering after Lester Smythe solved a problem in calculus that stumped all his classmates? No, you haven't... and there isn't any Santa Claus, either.

The students who excel in sports are placed on a pedestal; those who excel in their work are thought to be bookworms. The former is purely a minor activity; the latter is one for which they ostensibly came to college. Is it not true that Reason leaves her throne, and that Emotion assumes the crown and leads a hundred wild cheers for dear Old Whoosis?

London Chuckles While Chicago Explains Purity

London—This city is still laughing over a trans-Atlantic telephone interview with Chief of Police Alcock, of Chicago, published by the Herald the morning of the Chicago election.

"There ain't going to be any killings in Chicago tomorrow," the London paper quoted the Chicago police chief as saying. "Al Capone don't run this city. There ain't any Capone syndicate here."

"In fact, there ain't any crime in Chicago; it's a clean city—the cleanest in the world."

The chief went on: "Do you think you could get your King George to send Big Bill a message? Mr. Thompson is friendly to your king and wants to help him. King George could do Bill a lot of good, and he wants his help."

London is wondering if Big Bill is laying his defeat to a lack of co-operation from the British throne.

On the day after the election all London papers published telephone interviews with Anthony Cermak, the successful Chicago candidate.

MUST OBTAIN PERMITS

Philadelphia—Colleges and high schools in Pennsylvania holding boxing or wrestling contests will be required to obtain permits from the State Athletic Commission and to pay a 5 per cent tax on their gate receipts, it was announced recently by the boxing commission.

Affected colleges include the University of Pennsylvania, Penn State College, Temple University, Bucknell, Lafayette, Lehigh, and others.

STYLE HINTS

Information coming to us from the foremost style centers indicates the narrow brim, stiff straw hat, with medium high crown, will be strongly favored by college men this season. Another hat which will be worn by large numbers is the snap-brim Panama with narrow brim and high crown. This hat is called the "Princeton Pinch," as it originated at Princeton last summer.

Mrs. William Flenner, of Tiffin, Ohio, has a stove which talks. She was sitting before the heater recently when a program from Station WJZ, New York, burst from the fire-box. Unable to understand the phenomenon, Mrs. Flenner asked radio experts to help her find an explanation. There is no radio in the house, and the heating equipment is no different from any other group except that a metal top on the chimney is equipped with long guy wires.

Students in the majority of American cities are not allowed to form high school fraternities, according to the office of education, in New York.

Imprisoned Book Agent Threatens To Sue Police

Memphis—Henry Fuller, a college textbook salesman, a student at the University of North Carolina and a former student at the Sorbonne in Paris, is threatening to sue Memphis police authorities for putting him in jail recently on the suspicion that he was a "red."

Police Commissioner Clifford Davis said Fuller was held incommunicado for 36 hours and without a charge because police were convinced he was a Communist when he walked into central police headquarters and asked to be directed to the Communist party's office.

"I wasn't a Communist when I went in," said Fuller, "but I am almost one now."

"Memphis police," Davis said, "have been instructed to lock up anyone who shows communistic tendencies. We are not going to allow un-American, Communist groups to get a hold in our city."

Fuller said he had asked police to direct him to Communist headquarters because he wished to find an acquaintance, Prof. Horace B. Davis, former member of the Southwestern College faculty here.

Professor Davis, his wife, and a Communist organizer were jailed last spring and left the city after police banned their call of a public mass meeting. Professor Davis said he was not a Communist.

Negotiations are under way for the establishment of a Brooklyn center of Columbia University with medical, technical, and fine arts schools as a nucleus. The plan would involve the consolidation of Long Island University with Columbia, as well as several other Brooklyn schools and colleges.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

It looms up large in their lives

THE telephone has a big place in the daily lives of most people today, but its place will be even bigger tomorrow.

Its importance has been fostered by the work of men in all phases of the telephone business and no little part has been taken by those engaged in selling. They have helped to effect an increase of more than three and a half million Bell telephones in the last five years. In the same period they have been instrumental in making the public realize more completely the telephone's usefulness. Result: an increase from 49,000,000 calls per day to 65,000,000.

Men with a leaning toward sales promotion will always play an important part in Bell System growth.

Affair Ends In Ninth Inning With No Scoring After Seventh

LANNING RELIEVES SEITZ TO END HITTING BARRAGE

Darkness halted the State-V. P. I. baseball game Friday while the score was tied at seven all in the ninth inning after two hours and 30 minutes of play.

The Gobblers hopped on Seitz in the first inning for two runs while

State was getting one. State scored again in the third to tie the count, but V. P. I. drove Seitz from the box in the fourth and had scored five runs before John Lanning, who relieved Seitz, could stop the barrage.

With the score 7 to 2 against them State started an uphill fight which culminated in a tie score in the seventh, after which there was no more scoring. Lanning held V. P. I. scoreless the last five innings.

Tony Furtado and Willis Hargrove made triples, but Hargrove was out trying to stretch his into a homer.

Duke, Hargrove, and Fuller led the hitting for State, while Palmer and Sutton were the big guns for the visitors.

The box score:

CROWELL AND JONES AWARDED DECISION IN DEBATING CONTEST

D. J. Crowell and T. J. Jones won a debate from their opponents by a unanimous decision, Friday evening at 6:30, before the members of Pullen Literary Society.

The debate was on the question: Resolved, That our Immigration Laws Should be Further Restricted. Jones and Crowell upheld the affirmative side of the query, and contended that if immigrants continued to be allowed to enter this country at the present rate, that they would soon constitute a serious menace to industry, society, and to the American civilization.

The negative side of the question was composed of H. W. Davis and W. I. Annetta. They contended that it was entirely un-American and non-democratic to further restrict our immigration laws, and that instead of the immigrants seriously handicapping our industries, they served as an asset in that they enabled industries to more effectively compete with those of other countries, with the cheap labor afforded.

At the next meeting of the society next Friday, the question, Resolved, That the United States Should Cease to Protect Foreign Investments Except in Times of War, will be debated. J. E. Gill, M. R. Carpenter, W. E. Vinson, and H. F. Lichty will be the principal speakers.

Coach Johnny Miller of State, who is the president of the division, stated that there were four principal speakers invited. They are: Dr. Turner of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. J. Kephart, of the School of Education at N. C. C. W.

The speakers and others attending the meeting will take lunch at the college cafeteria.

Nutrition-Diet Course Offered During Summer

With more interest in nutrition and diet, and health education in our public schools, the courses in chemistry of vitamins and nutrition and diet to be given during the 1931 N. C. State College Summer School will prove of unusual interest to North Carolina teachers, in the opinion of T. E. Browne, director of the Summer School.

The course in chemistry of vitamins is being offered in the Summer School for the first time this year and will be taught by Prof. G. H. Satterfield.

"Professor Satterfield studied under Dr. W. H. Eddy of Columbia University, and is one of the best qualified men in the South for this course," says Director Browne. "Not only should high school teachers be interested in this instruction, but home demonstration agents and parents should take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about the much-discussed vitamin."

The State College Summer School will begin on June 15.

In preparation for a larger enrollment than last year, Director Browne has added three additional faculty members to his summer staff.

Last summer more than 400 North Carolina teachers were enrolled in the school, an increase of nearly 100 over 1929.

R. O. T. C. Ball

The Regimental Ball, given last Friday evening in the gymnasium from 9 to 12, proved to be one of the largest and most colorful of military dances ever given at State College.

The effect of the battleship signal flags hanging from overhead in the gym gave a resplendent atmosphere to the ballroom. Uniforms of great variety were present, the olive drab of the R. O. T. C. Regiment predominating, adding a stateliness to the grace of the evening gowns of charming young ladies who danced.

Following a short intermission at about 11 o'clock came the senior figure in which all commissioned cadet officers promenade with their partners. Leading the figure came the colors of the R. O. T. C. Regiment with color guard, followed by the colors and color guards of 120th Infantry, N. C. National Guard, Post No. 1, American Legion, Worth Bagley Camp of Spanish-American War Veterans, Naval Recruiting Detachment, Raleigh, and the Company Guidons, N. C. State R. O. T. C. Regiment. The couples marched out of the auxiliary gym in two columns and formed a letter M, covering almost the entire floor. When the figure halted the orchestra played the Star-Spangled Banner. Then came a beautiful no-break waltz in which only those who were in the figure participated.

The members of the baseball team from the Cadet Corps at V. P. I. were honored guests for the evening, as were many military men of Raleigh and State College.

SAINTS DANCE

The Order of Saints will give its annual dance on Saturday night, April 25, in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium from 9 to 12.

This organization is the oldest honorary social order on the campus. In 1906 this fraternity was organized by a group of fraternity men representing the fraternities on the campus.

Preceding the dance the members of the Order of Saints and their lady guests will be entertained at a banquet.

J. E. Rankin, president of the Order, and Miss Betsy Warren of New Bern, will lead the figure at the dance.

Other members of the organization who will be in the figure with their lady guests are: Harry Lee, secretary and treasurer; John Rabb, Jimmy Carter, Jimmy Sumney, Bob McCracken, John Geoghegan, Hugh Weed, "Sleepy" Carter, Walt Greenhaigh, Jox Croxton, and Carl Boggs. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the State Collegians. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Huneycutt will be the chaperones.

FRATERNITY GIVES BANQUET

The local chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho Society gave a banquet last Saturday honoring Sleetor Bull of the University of Illinois, and W. H. Stewart, of Washington, D. C., both of whom are officers of the national organization.

Following the banquet the members and pledges of the fraternity gave a dance at the home on Woodburn Road.

The State Theatre announces for its feature attraction on next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Mr. George Arliss as "The Millionaire." Mr. Arliss will be remembered for his excellent performance in "Disraeli" and "The Green Goddess," and his characterization in "The Millionaire" is reputed to be even better than in his previous pictures. The story is an interesting one, offering delightful and clean entertainment; the cast was chosen with extreme care and the perfect recording, good photography, and fine dialogue only complete an already interesting story.

The plot is plausible, well handled, and well developed. Action is smooth and effortless. The picture will furnish delightful entertainment to the entire family because it has all the elements of chance, of failure and success, which one finds in every-day life.

Co-ed Vice-President

LEAH GODWIN

The characters are all human and understandable.

To complete a good program there will be an Andy Clyde Comedy, "The Dog Catcher," a musical act, "Hitting High C's," and a Sound News.

With scraggy matts to play with, new trashes to explore, the breakfast cereal to be tumbled through before its liquidation with cream and sugar—who wouldn't, maybe, be a little laggard going to school, a little slack in washing behind the ears, a little slow to get rid of mud turtles, grasshoppers, and other kindred menagerie?

"Skippy," the living, talking, breathing, whistling picturization of Percy Crosby's famous kid cartoon, is to be the feature attraction at State Theatre on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. And it has been cunningly dialogued by Don Marquis, and cleverly directed by Norman Taurog.

If you liked "Tom Sawyer," you'll adore "Skippy."

Jackie Cooper, with the serious old-man look bubbling from boyish features, is ideal in the title role; and he is adequately supported by Robert Coogan, the "Kid's" own kid brother, Mitzl Green, Jackie Searl, Enid Bennett, and Helen Jerome Eddy. You'll find it virile, all very much worth your while.

A screen song, novelty, a Sound News, and a comedy act will complete the program.

"Trader Horn," much heralded filmization of the remarkable book which became a best seller overnight, will be shown at the Palace all next week.

This picture, filmed over a period of months in the African jungles, is believed to set a precedent for the unusual and thrilling. At the risk of their lives, Harry Carey, Edwin Booth, Duncan Renaldo, Olive Golden, and hordes of natives employed as "extras," depicted the exciting scenes which were so vividly described by Aloysius Horn.

The "Trader Horn" director, who mobilized thousands of extras to use throughout the picture, narrowly averted a pitched battle with the blacks when a native chief who had developed Klieg light from looking at the big arc lights used in the jungle accused the movie company of witchcraft. It required infinite patience and tact to control the blacks, but Van Dyke and his assistants proved equal to the emergency.

There were sundry mishaps and perils. Near the Abyssinian border, for example, rains mired the whole troupe, and they had to abandon 17 brand new motor trucks and take to camel-back. Two men were shipped back to America exhausted by tropical fever. One of these men had continued to work in the hot sun because his particular services were needed for the success of the picture at that stage of the game. But the cinema unit persevered. To obtain special scenery, including the little-known Murchison Falls, third highest in the world, the company spent a month in a sleeping sickness area where 60,000 natives had died.

Palace Sound News completes the program.

The party was accompanied by Prof. A. F. Graves-Walker, head of the Department of Ceramic Engineering; Prof. N. H. Stolte, and W. L. Fabianic.

GOOD-WILL FLIGHT COMMANDER VISITS STATE COLLEGE CAMPUS

Major Dargue Lectures Here On Flight to South America

"The United States War Department is not representative of war, but peace," declared Maj. Herbert A. Dargue, commander of the Pan-American Good-will Flight to South America in 1927 and speaker to a joint meeting of the University, State College, and Raleigh branch of the A. S. M. E., Thursday night in Pullen Hall. Before the address Major Dargue was honored at a banquet at the Capital Club, given by the Raleigh branch of the A. S. M. E. The State College student branch and the University student branches of the A. S. M. E. were guests at this banquet.

Major Dargue, in his illustrated lecture on the Pan-American flight, asked that the engineers take the American soldier's uniform as an emblem of peace, declaring that victims of famine, flood, and earthquakes received aid from the War Department.

He lauded the work of the State College R. O. T. C. Regiment which honored him, with representatives of the press, at a regimental parade at noon Thursday. "R. O. T. C. is making finer students, good citizens, and not great soldiers," he said.

In his lecture on the Pan-American flight, Major Dargue told of the experiences of his five planes that traveled 22,000 miles of South American lands on their good-will flight. He urged students and engineers to be prompt in their appointments and declared that promptness served as the best "good will" to the 20 countries visited on his flight.

Major Dargue illustrated his lecture with a two-reel film made by motion picture concerns and shown under the auspices of the United States Air Corps.

Upon arriving in Raleigh Thursday at 11 a. m., Major Dargue was conducted to the City Hall by Maj. Lindsay McD. Silvester, head of the State College R. O. T. C. unit, and was given the key to the city by Mayor E. E. Culbreth. He also made brief visits to the office of the Governor and president of the college.

As guest of honor at a luncheon at State College yesterday, Major Dargue said that Raleigh's proposed investment in airport lighting was one of the best that could be made.
