

SLAUGHTER PICKS CAVALIERS TO WIN

Virginia Has Stronger Club This Year; "Butch" Dopes Saturday Games

By "BUTCH" SLAUGHTER
N. C. State Line Coach

Duke and Virginia, offering a Southern Conference game in Durham, will occupy chief interest of games to be played inside North Carolina this weekend. However, Wake Forest's Deacons, very much in the limelight as a result of their fine stand at Chapel Hill a week before, will attract a larger crowd to their home field for the game with Guilford than ordinarily would turn out for such a contest.

These two games furnish the home competition in this section for Big Five teams, while Davidson will be at home to Erskine in the western state. Carolina and State journey to out-of-State grids, the Tar Heels going to Blacksburg to meet Virginia Poly, and the Wolfpack meeting Florida's Gators at Tampa.

Picks Cavaliers

Virginia likely will send against the Blue Devils a better team than the Cavaliers had last Thanksgiving at Chapel Hill. In their first two starts the Charlottesville team had no trouble disposing of Roanoke and Hampden-Sydney.

Gus Tebell, State College coach for half a decade, now has charge of Virginia's backfield, and reports are that Gus is doing a mighty fine job for Coach Abel.

Carolina, indicated flashes of power by surpassing the Gamecocks in first downs, but lacked scoring punch. If Duke's driving line attack can get to making consistent gains against the supposedly weak forward corps of Cavaliers, the game will take on the toss-up label.

Heels Should Beat Polys

Carolina should win over V. P. I. in spite of the Gobblers' great string of victories in their own back yard at Blacksburg. There is always a first time for everything, and I figure Carolina will give the Gobblers their first defeat in Miles Stadium. After the close call handed the Tar Heels by the Deacons last week, it is going to take a real team to down Chuck Collins' men tomorrow. Collins will not go to Blacksburg only with the few fundamental plays he used against Wake Forest, but will probably have ready for use all the old favorites that "brought home the bacon" last season.

There's the story, you know, of how the Tar Heel gridders turned out voluntarily for a Sunday afternoon drill the day following the scare handed them by Wake Forest. That's a spirit which indicates the Carolina outfit will be keyed up and in the right frame of mind to go scoring places against the Gobblers.

Wake Forest's Deacons should take

BLAZERS

The blazers for the class of 1931 have arrived. This year the style has changed slightly from that of last year, the coat is longer, and of course the design on the breast pocket is changed to the design of the class of '31. Here is a description of it: The coat is State College red, trimmed in white, and on the pocket is a scroll with N. C. S. '31 on it.

These blazers are a new thing at State College within the last few years, and the senior class is trying to get them established as part of the tradition.

Johnny Geoghan, the president of the senior class, said this week: "Every member of the senior class should wear one of these blazers as an evidence of class spirit."

Guilford in their stride and Davidson should win a hard-fought game from Erskine. To digress a moment into the neighboring Carolina. South Carolina meets Georgia Tech, and, although South Carolina has improved each year under Laval, Tech's experienced team ought to take the Birds in tow today.

Get Set for Upsets

This week's menu of contests offers harder nuts than last week's list of set-ups. The stronger—or supposedly stronger—teams are taking on clubs with at least an outside chance of winning. At this stage of the season there are always plenty of upsets handed the dope bucket, and you'll probably find stories of several in the Sunday's sport section.

This week's forecasts follow:

STUDENTS DISMISS IDEA OF BOYCOTT

Chief Bryan Explains Restriction and All Seems Well On N. C. State Campus

Alleged threats by State College students to boycott downtown merchants unless restrictions against "bumming" rides into town are rescinded appeared yesterday to have vanished into thin air, following an explanation in The News and Observer yesterday of the action taken by the local police department.

As the result of a letter from Chief J. Winder Bryan to Dean E. L. Cloyd several days ago, a number of students seemed upset about just how they would periodically traverse the distance between the college and the town districts. Some of the students were under the impression that the action of Chief Bryan and the City Commissioners precluded all "bumming" of rides in the future.

Chief Bryan, however, pointed out that the restrictions are only against the habit of students standing out in the streets to solicit rides. In his letter to Dean Cloyd, copies of which were posted about the campus, Chief Bryan stated:

"Boys desiring rides can secure them just as well by standing on the curb or sidewalk and allowing the motorist to pull over out of the line of traffic for them. The practice of standing in the streets is not only dangerous to the students, but the sudden stopping of the car in line of traffic is also a very serious hazard.

Dean Cloyd informed Chief Bryan yesterday that there seemed no further confusion on the campus concerning the matter.

STATE IS DOWNED BY PRESBYTERIANS IN NIGHT BATTLE

McCall's Run for Thirty-seven Yards Through Broken Field Is Biggest Thriller of Game.

Davidson's Wildcats defeated State's Wolfpack last Saturday night at Greensboro, 12-0, in a football game that was, in the main, a battle between two lines.

The biggest thrill of the game came in the opening period when McCall ran through a broken field for 37 yards and a touchdown. The scoring was done in the first and last periods of the game. The final marker came as a result of a beautiful 24 yards broken-field run by Don King and a short pass on the fourth down to Pierce. Neither extra point was made, the score at the end of the game being 12-0.

Outside of the two runs, one by McCall—the other by King, there was very little of the sensational in the game. The two teams were well matched, the two runs being the high spots that brought the bacon to Monk Younger and his Wildcats.

The game, expected to be very close, was nothing but a defensive battle. There were but six first downs, four by Davidson and two by State, one of these being on a penalty. A good part of the game was to be played in the air, due to the even strength

BOXING

Pre-season training for boxing and wrestling aspirants at N. C. State College will get under way in a few weeks, according to Coaches W. N. "Red" Hicks and Joe Moore.

The call for both freshman and varsity candidates is expected to bring forth a host of likely lads around whom the coaches are expecting to build up teams well worthy of representing the "Red and White" on the mat and in the ring.

At present Coaches Hicks and Moore are busily occupied in working out the details in the system of boxing and wrestling to be used. Both freshmen and upperclassmen will employ the same system in this year's program.

Of the two teams, but the passing phase of the game was poor. There were 29 passes tried by the two teams, Davidson completing four out of seven, for a gain of 37 yards, while State tried 12 passes and made two of them good and had three intercepted.

Davidson lost five yards and State 25 yards by the penalty route. Between the halves the Davidson and State bands furnished the music for the occasion.

State-Deacons Game Will Be Day Battle

The Fair Week night football game between the Wolfpack and the Deacons has been changed to the afternoon. First reports said that the game would be played at night, but information that the game would be played in the good old way came Monday with the news that the Wake Forest College Athletic Commission was not in favor of the Deacons playing after dark.

The Wake Forest coaches and players are against playing under the lights. As a result the athletic council decided that the daytime would be the best time in which to play the Fair Week game.

This change leaves the game with the Mississippi Aggies on October 25 as the only night game to be played in Raleigh. This game has been announced as a night affair, but whether "Red" Cagle wants his boys to play then remains to be seen.

Looks like, from what the State mentor says, that Johnnie Johnson, halfback from Marshall, Minn., will take the place of "Bob" Cook, Charlotte half, in the starting line-up in Florida.

RETURNS TO WOLFPACK

"COON" SILVER

And now that the Wolves have left their lair at State College, the Wolflets will hold the limelight (if there's any night practice at all).

And since we've started on these little Wolves, meet "Bob" McQuage, the all-State quarterback from Salisbury. He has a deep bass voice and knows his signals.

Revised edition of the 'Pack that will meet the 'Gators will be thirty, says Coach John M. Van Liew, says he.

Coach Warren Has 130 Frosh Report At First Meeting

With the first week of freshman football practice shoved back into history and with it the preliminary practice periods, Coach Bob Warren is putting his men through their paces with steady workouts each day.

When the call was given for "Wolflets" last week, about 130 boys crowded into the gymnasium for uniforms, with the result that only about 90 of them were supplied. However, everybody was soon given outfits and at present only about 86 boys are reporting for daily grinds.

Coach Warren, who is giving his personal attention to the development of the backfield, reports that the backfield material this year is more abundant than the possible line material. Coaches "Shorty" Lawrence and Bob Evans, both former star tackles on the Wolfpack, are at work turning out line material. Coaches Lawrence and Evans are very well pleased with the showing that the line candidates are making in practice sessions. The candidates out for the forward wall seem to possess the necessary weight, stability, speed, and other defensive traits.

On the whole the outfit measures up to par with the State champs of last year. Although this year's freshman gridders will have to fight hard to come up to the standard set by their predecessors, the boys are determined to make a name for themselves in the fast-approaching schedule. Besides being well pleased with the outward appearance of the squad, the coaches are apparently satisfied with the spirit shown by the aspirants. During each day's grind the atmosphere on the field is convincing enough to show that the lads are out for work.

Coach Warren is not expected to cut the squad, since the necessary dropping out of the would-be candidates will serve to reduce the number to a working unit.

Some of the boys who have shown well in practice are given below: Wilson, McFarland, Sulvey, McQuage, Utley, Brown, Rice, Furr, Ridenhour, Florio, Cooper, Spivey, Blinn, Buchanan, Bohannon, Deal, School, Kinken, Rafferty, Gillespie, Farris, McDonald, Kelley, Kanto, Lanning, Skinner, Rhyne, Rotha, Pipoly, Patton, McClees, Gaines, Merideth, Forbes, Fry, Cohen, Brinstall, Harrington, McLaurin, Watkins, White, Jones, Price, McGully, Ginsburg, Rhyne, Teddlor, Womble, Hunt, Purser, Coggins, Maglio, Lawrence, Shuping, Eason, Blackwood, Cloer, Edmondson, Goldsmith, Leavitt, Shafer, Elam, Jones, Wooten, McCully, Purser, Hughes, Garner, Kuhn, Hunt, Horton, Paris, Harris, Fitchin, Hood, Emmul, Bowen, Hardy, Patton, Womble, Edwards, Glaes, Maglio, and Ward.

Herman Gardner, an ineligible varsity tackle, is aiding Coaches Evans and Lawrence in the development of the freshman wall.

Thirty Wolves Leave Campus To Play Floridans Tomorrow

Coach Van Liew and the State College Wolfpack left Raleigh Thursday night for Tampa, Fla., where they play the Florida University 'Gators tomorrow afternoon.

The State mentor is taking 30 Techs with him on the trip. The squad arrived in Tampa this afternoon.

The men making the trip are: Willie Duke, Bud Rose, Allen Nelms, Bob Mechio, George Ball, and Bob Greason, ends; Charlie Cobb, Milo Stroupe, Arthur Wilson, Bill Brake, Cub Culbertson, and Rudy Steitz, tackles; Captain Mack Stout, Mat Matlack, Reid Tull, Romeo LaForte, Whittle Kennerly, and Dick Davis, guards; Red Espey and Bo Gardner, centers; Sparky Adams and Red Watt, quarters; Bob Cook, Dick Dellinger, Johnny Johnson, Frank Gorham, and Hank McLawhorn, halves, and Charlie Jeffrey, Sam Gurneau, and O'Deal Sharpe, fulls.

Out of the list, State's starting team will probably be Duke and Rose, ends; Stroupe and Cobb, tackles; Stout and Matlack, guards; Espey, center; Adams, quarter; Dellinger and Johnson, half, and Gurneau, full.

This list of starters will give Van Liew five letter men on the field. They are Captain Stout, at right guard; Bud Rose, right end; Sparky Adams, quarter, and Dellinger and Johnson at the halfback posts. All of these men, excepting Adams, were on the varsity team last fall. Adams was not in school in 1929, but will be remembered for the work he did at quarter on the 1927 team that won the State gridiron title.

Duke, Stroupe, Cobb, Espey, Matlack, and Gurneau were all members of last year's freshman football team that won the State title.

Line Coach Butch Slaughter has developed a powerful line this year, only four first downs having been made through it in two games, and these by the fast Davidson backs.

Captain Mack Stout is the main cog in State's forward wall. He is stated by many coaches in this State and in the South as being one of the best guards in the Southern Conference.

Stout hails from Sanford and is also a star sprinter on the track team.

State's backfield is giving the State coaches lots of worry just now. There are several good runners in the large list of backfield material, but a good passer is still lacking. In its two games this season, State's passing attack has been its weakest point.

Bob Greason and Charlie Jeffrey, both sophomores, seem to be the best kickers in the Wolfpack camp. Jeffrey does his kicking from the fullback position, while Greason has to be called in from the end of the line to do his punting. Jeffrey also does most of the passing and makes a right good job of it when in the game.

Chief threats in State's backfield are Charlie Jeffrey and Sam Gurneau, full; Dick Dellinger and Bob Cook, half, and Sparky Adams and Red Watt, quarters.

COMMENTS

President Hoover's spacious mansion overlooking the Stanford University campus is for rent.

The A. B. C. method of grading has replaced the numerical method at N. C. C. W.

Well, this system ought to teach the girls their A. B. C's.

The State-Davidson tilt in Greensboro Saturday night was the "first football game to be played after sundown in the State," according to the Carolinian, N. C. C. W. weekly.

Maybe, when State licked the Panthers, the sun was just in an eclipse. Or maybe the Carolinian editor was nodding when she made the statement.

Powell Freeman, a freshman at Presbyterian College, while playing bridge in one of the club rooms, had the unique distinction of getting a bridge hand containing 13 spades.

That freshman is at the wrong place—he ought to go to Monte Carlo.

Up at the University of Maryland the well-dressed freshman, among other apparel, wears a black and gold "rat" cap, a name tag on his coat, and a broad grin. In addition he carries matches, a megaphone, and the freshman Bible.

Here at N. C. State freshmen wear most anything that high-pressure clothiers are anxious to move. Up there college rules govern freshman apparel; down here salesmanship talks.

Former Coach Spoken of As "Young In Experience" — Article Deals With the Wandering Instinct of Coaches.

In the November issue of "College Humor" a story, "Shorts on College Sports," dealing with the migratory movement of football coaches, gives Gus Tebell, our erstwhile football coach, one of the nicest boosts he has ever had in a national publication:

"Gus Tebell, young in experience but aged in prestige, resigned at North Carolina State to become chief of the basketball and baseball staffs at the University of Virginia, as well as assistant in football."

Speaking of other migrations of football coaches, Les Gage, the writer of the article, continues:

"The Wolves have howled a bit too viciously, perhaps. Possibly our recent business depression has exerted a pressure on the athletic budgets. Whatever the reason, there has been a very definite migratory movement along the football coaches since last fall's campaign. We would even go so far as to state that the turnover in

Entered as second-class matter, February 10, 1920, at the postoffice at Raleigh, North Carolina, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

The Whoopios have not been such a howling success.

This summer's drought took the green off of about everything but the freshmen.

Cats can see better at night than wolves. Maybe that's why Davidson beat State.

THE TECHNICIAN is rather popular this year. Yeah, each contains two theater tickets.

With fraternities catering to their whims it seems like freshmen, not sophomores, are campus lords.

The city has set a deadline for bummers. Well, anyway, that will cut out knock-down competition.

At last the staff is getting large enough to support the paper. Several additions were made this week.

Van Liew didn't offer many fake plays Saturday night. Neither has he offered any fake excuses for losing.

With beauty parlor advertisements appearing in THE TECHNICIAN, it looks like State College, the one-time he-man's school, is prematurely losing manhood.

They say laws are legislated to meet new problems. The college has passed a rule charging students fifty cents for making roster changes. Perhaps this was enacted because of increase in co-eds.

NOT QUITE FAIR

Students here pay fees to the treasurer twice during the school year, one payment being made at fall registration, the other following three months later.

At one time students paid for the year's education in three installments, payments being made at the beginning of each term. This plan was relegated for one calling for two payments.

The newly adopted plan of payment eliminates red tape. But at the same time it is rather unfair to students who matriculate and then, because of acts of God or other unpreventable incidents, are unable to attend school the full year. These students pay just as much for three months education as would a student entering at Christmas pay for a six months period.

That's mighty nice for the student enrolling at the beginning of the calendar year—but how about the one who drops out after the first term?

Right now rooming off the campus are numerous students who intend to move to the dormitories at the end of the first term. Rooms may be secured in private homes from $6.50 to $10 or more per month. At the college, room rent and fees aggregate $40 for the term, averaging about $13.50 per month. During the second term the same room will cost only half that amount, or $6.75 per month.

Shrewd students probably in time will enroll at the starting of the second term, attend summer school, and in that manner secure their degrees with a minimum outlay of capital.

Why not make the payments more in proportion to the returns? Perhaps a plan could be worked out under which students would pay twice as much for the six months period as they would for three months. This could be accomplished by allowing the students to pay one-third of the year's expenses at fall registration. The other two-thirds could be paid three months later at the after-Christmas matriculation.

SAFETY FIRST; RIDES LATER

When competition gets so strong that prices fall below a fair profit, merchants call a meeting and boost the rates to a higher level. In the meantime several of the weaker concerns will have been forced out of business.

If Raleigh "ride-thumpers" had called such a meeting, or rather not indulged in cut-throat competition, the city officials would not have found it necessary to legislate laws restricting bumming to some extent.

Overzealous students, in an effort to obtain rides, would stand far out in the street, obstructing traffic and endangering their lives. Each ride seeker attempted to outstrip his competitor at the next corner just as one merchant attempts to out-sell his rival by price cutting.

Law and order stepped into the picture and now a deadline has been set. "Bumming" is still allowed provided the person soliciting a free ride does not stand in the street.

This does not in any way lessen the chances of obtaining rides and it is a safety precaution. We remember an incident from last year. Several students on a Saturday night were lined on Hillsboro "thumping" for rides. A drunk, or apparently so, roared down the street, whirled toward the curb and the students were forced to scamper for their lives. Next time they might not be so successful.

Students, the law was passed for our good—let's abide by it.

OVER THE CAMPUS

By ELBERT OVERTON

Statistics recently compiled regarding the religion of State College campus show that there are only about 125 students in the entire student body who are not church members. Not so bad for an institution which less than a year ago was alleged to have been a little Chicago.

This week THE TECHNICIAN was called on by three of its former editors. They were Alvin M. Fountain, '23; A. L. Aydtette, '29, and A. L. Weaver, '30. They are all assuming their respective prominent and responsible positions in the world, which is a direct compliment to the school paper and their Alma Mater. Fountain has just received honors at Columbia University; Aydtette is now a graduated law student, and Weaver has charge of the sales department of his dad's candy company.

The co-eds will soon elect the officers for the Women's Student Government Association. Let us hope that they will be more successful than the State of Rhode Island. Only a short while ago it required two State capitals to perform the executive duties of that State because the citizens couldn't get along with themselves. May the most capable co-eds be elected to the positions of trust in this local organization.

THROUGH THE TRANSOM

By DICK YATES

Thanks to Dr. Brooks, freshmen are now aware of the true status of military training; and, if they desire, they may be excused from the courses. With the true facts in the open the freshmen at last have the hitherto unheard of opportunity of deciding whether they wish to take the training or not. If they wish to be excused from membership in the unit, they may; if they entertain the idea that the training will add anything to their life here, that, now, is a matter for their own decision.

Like the fifty million Frenchmen who can't be wrong, it is possible that, as the editor of THE TECHNICIAN pointed out last week, our hundred or so co-eds can't be wrong. Be that as it may, but one hundred co-eds can certainly cause a lot of smiles in a classroom. Of course, some of the boys laugh out loud, but others just content themselves with wide grins, which may prove that the girl students have exerted an influence on the boys, tending to make them more polite.

With that so-called anti-bumming law straightened out, students may still solicit rides without making criminals out of themselves. We only hope that the State legislature doesn't pass a bill of like nature, as they attempted to do last session. One can't figure on what that body will do, though. Even the bootleggers sometimes make a mistake and raise their prices higher than these "representatives of the people" will pay. The price of whisky, it is reported, goes up 50 cents on the pint when they convene.

Although fond hopes were entertained by many parties that the abolition of the freshman cap would end hazing, such hopes have not as yet been realized. We don't mean to be yelling "I told you so" or anything like that, but let's face the facts: Freshmen are still being enrolled in "kangaroo courts," the most popular form of hazing. Of course, a few days before Thanksgiving, several first-year men may have their hair removed, but such thoughts don't disturb our incurable idealists. The freshmen, however, may lose a little sleep over the matter.

So Far They're Strictly Enforcing the "Curb" Law

IF YOU PLEASE SIR— YOUR FEET ARE AT LEAST THREE INCHES OVER THE CURB—

our nation's most esteemed instructors of the gridiron game have sought a change of scenery.

Leading the roving procession are such familiar figures as Lou Little, "Doc" Spears, Chet Wynne, Jim Phelan, Bob Higgins, Vic Hanson, Tom Lieb, Wallace Wade, Major Sasse, Gus Tebell, Fritz Crisler, Tommie Mills, and Jim Wray. It is unnecessary to explain why these gentlemen have chosen to expound their football theories on strange fields. Everyone knows that they are all progressing toward greater success and fame in intercollegiate athletics and have received the call because of past football prosperity.

The Middle West lost three of its most popular football coaches to the lure of the Pacific Coast when Dr. Clarence Spears signed a contract with the University of Oregon, Jimmie Phelan deserted his Purdue champions for the University of Washington, and Tom Lieb resigned from Knute Rockne's staff to take the reins at Loyola of Los Angeles. Fritz Crisler, Alonzo Stag's chief aide for years, succeeded Spears at Minnesota with the added responsibilities of the athletic director's position. Noble Kiser, one of the leading coaches of the Big Ten, was promoted to take the place of his former employer, Phelan, at Purdue.

"Knute Rockne has scurried about to supplant a couple of his able staff members with some of the younger and more recent disciples of the famed Notre Dame football system. Tom Lieb's departure left Rock without a line coach. At the same time Tom Mills, one of the Bad Eagle's most trusty servants, affixed his signature to a Georgetown agreement, filling a vacancy caused by Lou Little's move to Columbia.

"Wallace Wade's regime at the University of Alabama was suddenly terminated, to the surprise of his many friends, when the coach of the Crimston Tide made public his acceptance of a new post at Duke University. With the retirement of "Bill" Jones, which unfortunately was slightly eclipsed by the exodus of Cadet Cagle last spring, another alumnus of the United States Military Academy, Major Sasse, became the director of the varsity gridiron squad."

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

A group attack on the "X" of industry

Research, finding answers to the eternal x = ?, keeps step in the Bell System with the new industrial viewpoint.

The joy in working out studies in development is shared by many. Results are reached by group effort. Striving together, the mature engineer and his younger assistants, each contributes to the final solution of the problem.

Men of the Bell Telephone Laboratories are sharing in useful, interesting research. They are getting valuable training in the modern strategy of organization attack.

And because that strategy assures them the aid of men and material resources, they are actually turning some of their vision into fact.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF MORE THAN 20,000,000 INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

There are no telephone poles along "The Sante Fe Trail," which will be the feature attraction at the Palace Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. No twisted traffic lanes, no railroads to cross, but how this adventure romance of the West does click the "green" light for an open-throated and exhilarating spin down a vista of Nature's outdoor visions, of dauntless men and courageous conduct from coquettish hearts, of delightful love moments and homespun humor, of strong characterizations and a climax along the biggest lightning thrill you've had since "The Squaw Man."

Otto Brower and Edwin H. Knopf co-directed Paramount's new dialog and sound edition of Hal G. Evarist's novel, "Spanish Acres," and from the start command a way into the hearts of any audience, by choosing from a tumbling panorama of bleating sheep, a baby member of the flock and introducing Richard Arlen's rugged interpretation as "Stan" in contrast with the woolly baby.

NUDE!

This actually happened to a freshman at Columbia University, New York, last week:

The sophomore took this freshman out of his room about midnight, blindfolded him, tied his hands, took him down to Riverside Drive, dressed him down to his shoes and loud shorts, and left him in the middle of the street in the midst of speeding cars. A patrolman, attracted by the blowing horns, rescued the unfortunate frosh, and escorted him back to his room, and the way led past the windows of the co-ed dormitory.

It's Eugene Pallette, who tries to be "Jim Dandy" with a spirited seniority, taking his disappointments with his drinks, calmly, and popping—comfortable pistol girth and all—into the quick-draw climax that will make any nerve taut.

Other attractions on the program will be a novelty act, Louise Fazenda in "The Bedded Lady," and a Sound News.

All the imaginative charm and beauty contained in Franz Molnar's great play of a carnival barker who captivated womankind, "Lillom," has been magnificently transferred to the all-talking screen by Fox Movietone and will be presented at the Palace Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

The story deals with the love of "Lillom," to whom girls never could say "no," for a meek, sauntily little guy who never really knew how much she loved him until he was gone. Happiness for both is realized after they learn that true love comes but once.

A Sound News and Chester Conklin in a comedy entitled "Cleaning Up," will complete the program.

Thrills, color, clever dancing, tuneful songs, and an absorbing story of an affectionate husband and a too-perfect wife make Cecil B. DeMille's "Madam Satan," which is coming to the State Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, an attraction of great entertainment merit.

The story concerns the marital differences of Bob and Angela Brooks, a masked ball aboard a Zeppelin at which an exotic and mysterious "Madam Satan" appears, the mid-air crack-up of the airship, the descent of the hundreds of guests via parachute—all linked together with songs by Herbert Stothart and Clifford Grey; Jack King and Elsie Janis; and the dance creations of Leroy Prinz, borrowed from Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

"The Last Yard," a football reel by Knute Rockne, and a Paramount Sound News will complete the program.

Entertainment of the very richest, gayest type is promised for audiences at the State Theatre next Monday.

Tuesday, and Wednesday, for Ernst Lubitsch's far-famed "Monte Carlo" is coming to town.

Jeannette MacDonald is here seen and heard as the sweet-voiced countess who loses heavily at roulette and decides that her only hope is a marriage with the affluent Claude McAllister, a vacuum-brained prince of her acquaintance. Allister is all for the match too, until Jack Buchanan, a glamorously amorous count, enters the scene. Buchanan loves Jeannette the moment he sets eyes on her, but somehow he cannot effect a meeting with her. And so he bribes her personal hair-dresser to leave his job. Jack takes the place of the domestic minion and handles the shears and curling iron so well that Jeannette finds him indispensable.

Comes the time for Jeannette to allow McAllister to propose to her successfully. Jack must do something to prevent the match. In order to clear his mind he seizes Jeannette and kisses her warmly. She likes it. But he is only the hair-dresser to her. In the happy conclusion, however, Jack makes his true identity count for something.

Other features on the program will be a Paramount Sound News and an Eddie Cantor in a comedy act entitled "Insurance."

State Fair To Feature Live-at-Home Program

The Live-at-Home Program sponsored by Governor O. Max Gardner will be featured by the North Carolina State Fair this year, in all its agricultural and educational departments, while the amusement program will excel anything that has ever been offered by a North Carolina fair.

The Fair will be held in Raleigh during the entire week of October 13-18, opening at 10 o'clock Monday morning and closing at midnight Saturday. Arrangements have been made to accommodate a record-breaking crowd, with two roads from Raleigh, a new crossing over the Seaboard-Southern tracks in front of the fair grounds, 14 acres of parking space for automobiles, and the entire force of the State Highway Patrol on hand to supervise traffic.

Last year the North Carolina State Fair paid out 80 per cent of the $25,000 offered in premiums to the farmers of the State. This year it is believed that with the increased interest in diversified agriculture, and a larger premium list, an even larger payment will be made in premiums and more and better exhibits will be secured.

Following the policy adopted last year, each department will be under the direction of one of the department heads at State College, who is an expert in the line represented by that department. Special stress will be placed on the work of the Four-H Club boys and girls of the state, and a special day will be devoted to a program of interest to them.

Horse racing will be one of the big features of the Fair. The North Carolina State Fair is a member of the Carolina Short Ship Circuit, composed of eleven North Carolina fairs. A total of $6,600 is being offered in purses for the harness races, and 154 horses have already entered. On Saturday four running races will be the feature of the Fair program, with $800 offered in purses.

The feature of the amusement program to be presented in front of the grandstand every night will be the "Sensations of 1930," a Broadway revue with 32 chorus girls. Complete stage equipment is carried with this revue. In addition, six big free acts will be presented. At night the program will be completed with fireworks, and in the afternoon with horse racing.

The grounds this year are in first-class shape for the Fair. They are now covered with grass, which was planted in the new top-soil placed over the grounds last year, and there will be neither mud nor dust on the State Fair grounds this year.

In addition to the regular Fair exhibits, there will be exhibits from every department of the State of North Carolina, and an educational exhibit supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Foresters Increased By Sixteen Members

With the advent of seventeen new men North Carolina State's comparatively new Forestry School became a strong institution on the campus. Along with these new men came a number of students who transferred from other schools, thus enlarging the three upper classes.

This year the Forestry School has prospects of graduating sixteen men. They will leave the school with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Forestry.

Dr. J. V. Hofmann has announced the purchase of new equipment, including drawing instruments, calipers, increment borers, and the like. All of this is special equipment and will be used by the present junior and senior classes in completing a survey of the Hill Demonstration Forest. This forest was given to the forest school as a gift last year. It is situated near Durham.

Silvicultural operations will be begun on the prison farm tract by the Senior Class as part of this year's work.

DEAD!

The State College Wolfpack is looking for another mascot.

An injured foot kept Pete, a German Police pup the team had adopted as mascot, from attending the State-Davidson contest in Greensboro last Saturday night. He was left at home for treatment.

Shortly after dusk Pete was crossing Hillsboro street towards "Little Doc" Morris' place where a group of students were anxiously awaiting results of the game.

An automobile roared down the street and Pete rolled over towards the curb—dead.

COPS BEGIN CAMPAIGN ON "BUM" CAR LIGHTS

All Raleigh Motorists Are Being Given Due Warning About Head and Tail Lights

State College students had better be sure that from now on they have the required number of lights on their cars before rattling over the streets of Raleigh.

Raleigh policemen Thursday night began a campaign of warning all motorists in the city against operating their cars with defective lights, and particularly without tail lights.

Chief J. Winder Bryan had not made definite plans as to how long he expects to continue the special work, but several day officers were pressed into duty last night along Person and Hillsboro streets. Whenever a car passed with only one head-light, or lights near gone, or with tail light missing, the driver was warned and allowed to proceed and have the trouble corrected.

It was stated at the police station that despite repeated warnings to local motorists regarding such traffic regulations, many people continue to ignore them. When a motorist is haled into court for such an offense the penalty lies in the discretion of the judge.

COTTON PALACE WILL FEATURE STATE FAIR

Visitors to the North Carolina State Fair this year will have an opportunity to see, not only cotton of all improved varieties grown in North Carolina, but cotton from each of the foreign countries that are now growing it.

The Cotton Palace, which will be erected on the State Fair grounds, will contain in its walls 160 bales of cotton of the various improved varieties grown in North Carolina. These full-size bales are now being prepared by members of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association and are being shipped into Raleigh for the exhibit.

Staples of cotton from twelve foreign countries have been furnished by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and W. R. Grace & Company of New York, to show the kind of competition which American cotton has to meet.

The cotton mills of North Carolina which make finished goods have been asked to send displays of their goods made from North Carolina cotton to be shown in the Cotton Palace along with the cotton from which the goods are made.

The Cotton Palace will be a "Made-in-Carolina" exhibit and will contain not only North Carolina cotton, but other products from the farm grown by cotton farmers.

And then there's the young lady who thinks lobbying is all right if you're really staying at the hotel.

Taking Electrical Convenience From Ol' Man River

THE total capacity of waterwheel generators built by General Electric in the last ten years is more than enough to supply light and power for twenty cities of one million population.

Installed in power houses along the waterways, these machines transform the strength of mighty rivers into useful electric energy for homes, for industry, and for transportation.

The vision and skill of college-trained men are largely responsible for the continuing leadership of General Electric in its service of furnishing machines and devices that provide the swift, sure convenience and the economy of electricity—on land and sea and in the air.

AGRICULTURE GRADUATES NOT AFFECTED BY SLUMP IN TEACHING PROFESSION

Despite the general depression in the teaching profession, all the graduates in agricultural education at North Carolina State College have been secured positions this year, T. E. Browne, director of the school of education, announced yesterday.

With the exception of E. P. Bass, of Goldsboro, who accepted a position to teach in South Carolina, Governor Gardner's "Live-at-Home" program has been practiced in the school of education at State College for thirteen years, with every graduate being placed in this State.

"The past year has been the most difficult one in our history to start new departments in Vocational Agriculture in high schools," says Director Browne. "The difficulty is directly attributed to two causes: First, the State appropriation to the division was cut 20 per cent by the budget bureau, making it impossible for the State to participate in a program of advancement; and second, the tremendous economic depression in the State has militated against the county boards providing for additional teachers to provide the local community."

"In spite of the depression in many counties, local communities are so convinced of the educational and economic value of departments of vocational agriculture in the high schools that they have employed a teacher for the time," he continued. "Not a single department of vocational agriculture in a white school has been discontinued. If the county commissioners refused to provide, the local communities made provision to take care of the salary."

What North Carolina needs is for the General Assembly to provide funds to match the Federal appropriation, thus relieving the tax burden on the local school districts where the pressure is greatest, is the opinion of Director Browne.

The following 1930 graduates in agriculture education have been placed:

- E. P. Bass, Goldsboro, at Nichols, S. C.; G. W. Bowden, Advance, at Wentworth; B. J. Brady, Carthage, at Fair Bluff; R. H. Bright, Clarkton, at Warrenton; A. G. Ballard, Acme, at Woodside, Rt. 2; R. E. Drye, Oakboro, at Bessemer City; E. T. Frisbie, Marion, at Barnardsville; B. S. Linville, Winston-Salem, at Troutman; J. B. Litchfield, Poplar Branch, at Pikeville; C. S. Long, Blounts Creek, at Newport; I. A. McLain, Statesville, at Nealsville; E. H. Meacham, Statesville, at Franklin; L. A. Powell, Clinton, at Poplar Branch; H. E. Singletary, Tar Heel, at Weeksville; C. H. Rabon, Chadbourne, at Creswell; R. R. Rich, Tomahawks, at Gates; C. K. Savage, Coopersville, at Clinton, R. F. D.; W. R. Sutton, Goldsboro, at Beulahville; G. M. Swicegood, Lexington, at Yanceyville; A. L. Vann, Silerburg, at Rich Square; E. K. Veach, Thomasville, at Littleton; L. S. Mathis, Ingold, at Vanceboro, and R. S. Dunham, Bladenboro, at Cary.

MISS WALTON TO ADDRESS LOCAL TEXTILE STUDENTS

Subject To Be "Looking Ahead In Fashions"—Lecturer for Durene Association

Miss Grace Walton, educational lecturer for the Durene Association of America, will address a meeting of the textile students of North Carolina State College today in the Textile Building on the subject, "Looking Ahead in Fashions."

In her talk, Miss Walton will trace the new alliance which has been set up between fashion creators in Paris and the cotton fields of America by the high fashion interest attached to cotton fabrics. She will show how many uses are being made of cotton since it is being mercerized to have the appearance of silk. This new processed cotton, generally known as Durene, has caused great changes in the textile industry and its development is of great interest to the mill people of the United States.

Miss Walton will illustrate her lecture with fashions of the new fabric. The membership of the Durene Association of America consists of the largest mercerizing plants in the United States and the graduates of the Textile School of State College are filling responsible positions with a number of these organizations. Some of the graduates and their positions are:

- B. F. Mitchell, 1919, superintendent, American Yarn and Processing Co., Mount Holly, N. C.; S. C. Alexander, 1921, technician with Sales and Service Dept., Aberfoyle Manufacturing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; David Lindsay, 1908, treasurer, Spinners' Processing Co., Spindale, N. C.; R. D. Sloan, 1924, superintendent, National Plant of the Standard-Cossa-Thatcher Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Few State Men Have No Church Preference

A religious census of 1,520 students at North Carolina State College conducted by E. S. King, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., revealed that only 124 collegians had no church preference.

The Baptist denomination led the list with 481 members, with the Methodists second with 451 students.

The Holy Rollers and Quakers took the cellar position with one member each.

"The majority of the students at State College attended their respective churches while at the institution," says Mr. King, "and in many of the congregations special arrangements have been made for the collegians."
