Sees Football Growing In Importance As Advertiser

"NEW ATHLETIC PROGRAM NEEDS STADIUM," SERMON

New Site for Stadium Already Selected Just West of Present Field—Would Seat Twenty to Twenty-five Thousand—Old Stands Inadequate for Crowds That Throng To Games—Two North Carolina Schools Have Erected Stadia During Past Four Years.

By FRED DIXON

People that lived in Sparta five centuries prior to the Christian era did not know what a big part they were playing in the sport world of today when they started playing a game called Harpaston—now known as football.

No doubt it would have been a great sight to have seen those Spartans playing Harpaston with the inflated bladder of a cow as a ball. They had rules a plenty, historians say, but the crowd that looked on could in no way begin to compare with the huge throngs that will welcome the first games of football in the United States in just four months.

The first interscholastic football game in the United States was between Princeton and Rutgers on November 6, 1869, Rutgers winning, six goals to four. Rugby style.

Football in America, then, got its first start in the East, and until recent years, the North, Northwest, and East have been supreme rulers of this national sport.

Football in the South has grown rapidly in the last four years and today is rated on practically the same basis as in other sections of the country.

South Strong

With such teams being turned out every fall in Southern schools as Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, and North Carolina and Duke in the Old North State, it is not surprising to see the South taking its place among the rest of the country's three great geographical sections.

Along with the increasing interest in the fall sport in the South, the erection of beautiful stadiums has begun and several have been completed, affording comfort to the huge throngs who enjoy the great sport.

Two schools in North Carolina have erected stadia in the last four years, Carolina in 1927 and Duke in 1929. State, Davidson, and Wake Forest are Big Five schools in the State still without adequate accommodations for the crowds.

This is the day of big football plants. Six of the ten institutions in the Western Conference have built new athletic plants within the last ten years. The greatest figure in football, Knute Rockne, lived to see one of his cherished dreams come true—a stadium at Notre Dame.

Riddick Field Inadequate

Experience has already shown that North Carolina sports lovers like to go where there is comfort, and this pleasure can not be provided in such narrow confines as Riddick Field at State.

Ten years ago it was adequate, but not now.

Dr. Sermon Talks

Dr. R. R. Sermon, athletic director, in speaking of a stadium at State, says this: "The athletic program at State and other schools in the South now makes it necessary that we have a stadium."

"The present site of Riddick Field is inadequate for the crowds we now have and a stadium would increase this number many times within a few years, as comfortable seating accommodations tend to increase the number of spectators. Our present plan for an athletic plant calls for seating arrangements for between 20,000 and 25,000 people. This stadium, if erected, will be one of the most beautiful in the South."

"A stadium at State would create a better standard of relationship among the State students and the citizens of Raleigh. The spirit within the college would be increased many times. The stadia would also bring about a better fellowship between opposing teams."

Growing Athletic Program

"The growth of State in the last ten years has been miraculous and this growth should be accompanied by the erection of a stadium in order to take care of the growing athletic program."

A stadium at State College would serve more than just State alone, as Raleigh is in the largest educational center in North Carolina. The city

SAMUEL GURNEAU

Samuel Gurneau Four-Letter Man At End of Year

Sam Gurneau, big Indian sophomore athlete at State College, will be a four-letter man with the close of his first year in varsity sports.

Sam has already won his letter in football, basketball, and wrestling, and has chalked up enough points on the track team to be assured of his monogram in this sport.

In football, Gurneau played full. Next fall, however, he is expected to go back to end, where he played during his freshman year. His play on the basketball squad this year was outstanding. He performed at both center and forward. In wrestling, Gurneau worked in the unlimited class.

The unofficial Southern Conference discus record is held by Gurneau with a heave of over 137 feet. The big Indian also holds the State College record in the shot-put, having bettered the previous mark of 42 feet 10 inches by one inch in the V. P. I. meet this spring.

State Team Visits Deacons Saturday For Second Game

State College plays its second game with Wake Forest this week Saturday afternoon on Emmerson Field at Wake Forest. The engagement will start at 3 o'clock.

The first game with Wake Forest this week was played at League Park in Raleigh on Wednesday.

Following Saturday's game, State has one other Big Five tilt on its 1931 card, and that is with Carolina at Raleigh on Wednesday, May 20.

State defeated Davidson 4-2 in its other start this week. Hank McLawhorn, State's left-handed star, will probably get the starting call in the tilt Saturday. In his last three games Hank has limited Davidson to five hits, V. M. I. to four, and Washington and Lee to three.

Rudy Seitz will probably be used on the mound during part of the game. Seitz is a right-hander and a sophomore.

Coach Doak will probably start the same team Saturday as used against Wake Forest on Wednesday, except in the pitching role. John Lanning was used on the mound in that game. The lineup is: Charlie Turner, catcher; Outen Gerock, first; Snoozle Morris, second; Willie Hargrove, or Allen Nelms, leftfield; Troy Goodman, centerfield, and either Charlie Jeffrey or Bill Brake, rightfield.

is visited many times during the year with conventions that at times call for outdoor meetings. The schools in the city are handicapped by not having a place in which they may carry on outdoor programs other than sports, and a stadium would fill that need.

As stated by Dr. Sermon, State's plan for a stadium will give a seating capacity of over 20,000. A beautiful site has been selected almost due-west of the present field and is accessible by cars, with a large parking area also available. The setting is ideal.

Years ago it was not thought essential that a school have a successful athletic plant to insure the success of the institution, but football has imbedded itself in the affections of the American people so deeply that a school without adequate athletic facilities loses annually many students that would otherwise go to that school.

Good Prospects

State College has taken several steps forward in the direction of a new stadium and with its student body clamoring for a new field and its sport schedule demanding one, with two coaches and a team that promises to make things interesting next fall, the dream of State having a stadium may be realized in a year or two.

Wake Forest Wins Over State Team By Score Of 10-4

The North Carolina State baseball team dropped an easy victory to the Wake Forest Deacons Wednesday, May 13, at League Park, by the score of 10-4. Most of the Deacons' scoring came in the fourth and fifth frames. Five hits off Lanning in the fourth gave the Deacons five runs. Again in the fifth the Deacons poled out three safeties off Lanning to account for two more tallies. Seitz then went on the mound for State and allowed two hits for two tallies before the side was retired.

State hit Barnes for seven safeties and Meador for one.

Joyner, the Deacons' first baseman, led the hitting for both teams with a triple and a double from five trips to the plate. Willie Duke and Outen Gerock hit two safeties each for State.

The feature of the game was the triple play that the Deacons pulled when State had two men on base. With Fuller on second and Kirkman on first, Rudy Seitz knocked a hot line drive between third and second which looked good for a safety, but was snagged by Benton, who tossed to Mills and from Mills to Joyner to complete the put-out.

Wednesday's game was a play-off of the regular State-Wake Forest Easter Monday game, which had been postponed twice on account of rain and a conflicting game that State had with V. M. I.

Tennis Team Wins From Wake Forest With Score of 9-2

The State College tennis team defeated the Wake Forest netters, 6-2, in a spectacular match at Wake Forest Saturday, May 9.

The State team showed marked improvement over their form in previous meets and took the meet handily. Each match was hotly contested, however, and the play was featured by a fast brand of tennis.

A summary of the singles follows: Griffin (WF) defeated M. R. Vipond (S) 7-5, 1-6, 6-4. L. C. Vipond (S) defeated Glenn (WF) 4-6, 8-6, 6-2. Perry (S) defeated Merton (WF) 6-2, 6-3. Crow (S) defeated Smith (WF) 15-13, 7-5. Merriam (S) defeated Carroll (WF) 8-6, 6-3. Kircheimer (S) defeated Howell (WF) 6-2, 6-2.

In the doubles Kircheimer and Merriam (S) defeated Carroll and Smith (WC) 4-6, 6-3, 9-7; Merton and Smith (WF) defeated Crow and Perry (S) 6-4, 6-4. The third doubles match was halted by rain.

With neither financial backing from the college nor courts for home matches except through the courtesy of the Raleigh Tennis Club, these boys keep plugging along and they deserve great credit for worthy representation of the college in their matches.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE: $1.50 PER COLLEGE YEAR

Unlike a newspaper, unlike a magazine, the year-book of a college comes out only once a year.

The "Agromeck" of 1931 represents much work—a year's work—and Everett Couch is to be congratulated. He has broken conventions and dared to change.

His changes have been improvements and his ingenuity is to be appreciated.

N.C.S.

Did you ever stop to think that the breakage fee you have to pay can be increased? It can also be decreased.

A breakage fee is based upon the average of the total damage done to college property. Little breakage, little fee.

Don't stand by and let your neighbor mar the building by breaking window-panes. When you meet a person of this type, you're meeting a crook. He steals from you. He raises the breakage fee.

OLD GLORY?

Even the American Flag feels the business depression at State College.

Ragged, torn, dirty, and faded—Old Glory floats above the college as an advertisement of neglect or poverty.

State College has a recognized Reserve Officers Training Corps—one of the best in the South. In keeping with her high standards, she should have a decent flag or refrain from using the present flying pieces of lace.

On the sleeve of each R.O.T.C. cadet is a blue star, symbolic of excellence—the flag is certainly not synonymous with this emblem of the best.

We do not claim to be "Hoo-ray-for-the-flag men" on the campus, but a poor advertisement is worse than none at all, and the present flag can certainly be called poor.

DEMAND

Another baseball team was robbed at State College this week. The amount taken was small, but the fact remains—a black eye to the institution.

Where the blame may be placed is uncertain, but the athletic department could provide better protection to our visiting teams.

Students are hired to take tickets at the gates. They are paid each game for their services.

Isn't the reputation of State College worth more than the price of one extra employe? One extra dollar or two would provide an extra employe whose duty it would be to protect the property of visiting teams. An investment of this nature is not only needed, but should be demanded by the student body.

Much of our lack of courtesy and comfort unprovided for visiting teams comes under the phrase because of the depression. But, even the poorest firms and businesses make investments that are proven to be good.

Another regrettable condition existing on the campus is the housing of visiting teams in the basement of the gymnasium. There is little excuse for the dirty room in which the visiting teams must sleep, when two almost worthless janitors "snooze around" the gym.

Clean rooms and sleeping quarters is as much a part of clean sportsmanship as clean playing.

DON'T GIVE UP!

With no encouragement from the college, with no financial backing from the athletic department, with no decent tennis courts, the North Carolina State College tennis team is out to win honors for their Alma Mater.

With their own tennis rackets, with their own tennis balls, with their own duck pants and tennis shoes, the tennis team represent State College. Bah!

They don't represent State College or anything it stands for. These men could as well compose an independent team, insofar as the college administration is concerned.

Their only encouragement has been the willing assistance of Professors Hugh Lefler and Ralph Green, who have given liberally of their time to the training of the team.

Like high school track stars, most of the tennis players seek institutions where their sport is recognized. And the lack of interest or finances, by the way, is the reason State has been behind in minor sports.

We are proud that State College has not reached the "paying stage" of the athletic game. Their pay, at the least, is encouragement and appreciation, and with this in mind we can truly say they are poorly paid.

And while we are talking about tennis, let's wander around our courts. They are abominable.

A small investment has been made in tennis courts and the returns have been tremendous from the interest shown by the student body. Any day will find the courts filled to capacity; the sport is enjoyed and fills a need in the student recreative life.

Rocks, poor drainage, grass, and poor nets characterize the State College tennis courts.

It is time action be taken about this situation. Very little is asked of the college, but this is an appeal from hundreds of students.

Students demand recreation. Would the college want its population to resort to "hair cutting" for their fun, or furnish them with wholesome entertainment?

UNSELFISHNESS

When H. B. Hines, a sophomore in electrical engineering, conceived the idea of a "Sunday Night Bag Lunch Fund," he placed the student body of State College in the category of benefactors to mankind.

Little is said of what this movement has meant to Raleigh. Let us pause and think of what the unselfish motive behind this move has meant.

It has meant nourishment for hundreds of unfortunate school children, groceries for unfortunates, milk for pellagra patients, food for children of pre-school age and young tubercular patients.

Practically every State College student, whether a fraternity, campus, or city resident, has contributed to this worthy cause. Men who do not eat in the dining hall have donated nearly $50.

"Too much praise can never be given to these men who have made this fund possible," according to Mack Stout, chairman of the distribution committee.

A total amount of $1,095 has been realized and appropriated for charity work in this city of our location.

No student has suffered for his contribution, and no student is growling or boasting of his part in the success of this cause.

From the outside world State College asks no praise—no greater tribute can be paid than to say they are UNSELFISH.

GOOD MAN FRIDAY

The Good Man Friday of the Blue Key national leadership fraternity is none other than "Mike" Whitehurst.

Ofttimes organizations get credit for accomplishments when a single individual is responsible; this is largely the case with the erection of the Blue Key Bulletin Board which will be ready for State College by next Friday.

"Mike" Whitehurst has been the chairman of the committee erecting the bulletin board. To him this campus owes a debt of gratitude. Through his efforts principally, this long-felt need on the campus will be realized. He has worked sacrificially, and while the new bulletin board will bear the name of Blue Key, the name of Whitehurst should be equally as large in the memorial of service.

It can be truly said that Whitehurst is an outstanding man on State College campus—whether you like "Mike" or not, it must be conceded that he has worked unselfishly for the interest of the student body in the erection of the bulletin board.

He is one of the cogs in the Blue Key that makes the machinery run smooth. Any organization could use more of this type of cog.

Who Bent the Twig?

Keen, piercing, a masterpiece of inductive reasoning, the following item, clipped from eminent Meredith Twigs, should be of interest to State students:

State College continues to refuse to recognize the co-eds' rights; they were denied the right to vote for student body officers recently. We're glad the suffrage amendment was passed before State got a chance at it. Who says men are broadminded?

Evidently the young lady who painfully scribbled the above statement is the proud possessor of a wide and varied amount of misinformation. I am led to believe that this particular inmate of the Baptist Female Institution, believing with a childlike innocence that all women are sisters under the skin, has her facts just a bit garbled.

The students of State have assumed, just as everyone assumes the war is over, that it is generally known that the co-eds have a separate student government. The photograph of the young lady who heads the women's government was published in all the State newspapers; so it is only natural to assume that even Meredith students knew of the innovation. Probably, though, the maidens at the Female Institution don't have access to the sinful papers printed in the State; I suppose it is even possible that the Biblical Recorder and the Orphan's Friend comprise the newspaper reading of those charming ladies. If this be the case, then I have only sympathy for them.

The author of the above statement asks a question that is calculated, I suppose, to make the local students blush with shame and run to their rooms and change their collar buttons. "Who says men are broadminded?" she queries. I don't know; who did say it? Men probably are not broadminded, but this is due in great part to the fact that they are closely related to women.

Prejudice

People I'd like to shoot: The professor who enters the classroom with a bunch of "flunk" paper in his hand, a nice, cheery "good-morning-to-you" smile on his face. . . The co-ed who comes to class fifteen minutes after last whistle has blown and asks, "Am I late, professor?" . . . All "checkers" from the ages of six to sixty, including the girls' closest relations. . . The professor who takes up perfectly good class-time telling you how difficult the final examination will be.

N. C. State Track Men Enter Southern Meet

Two men from State College will be entered in the Southern Conference outdoor track meet at Birmingham, Ala., the last two days of this week.

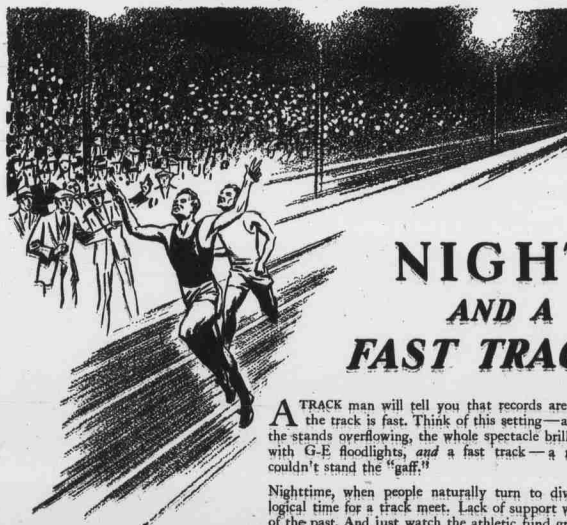

Capt. George McGinn will represent State in the half-mile run and Twee Floyd will compete in the 440-yard dash. The two men, along with Coach Ray Sermon, left State Wednesday night for the meet.

McGinn won the 880 last spring in the Southern meet and hasn't been defeated in the run this year. Floyd won the 440 in the State meet at Greensboro the first of this month. Ottinger, a State runner, won the 440 in the Conference gathering last spring.

NIGHT AND A FAST TRACK!

A TRACK man will tell you that records are broken when the track is fast. Think of this setting—a cool evening, the stands overflowing, the whole spectacle brilliantly lighted with G-E floodlights, and a fast track—a record simply couldn't stand the "gaff!"

Nighttime, when people naturally turn to diversion, is the logical time for a track meet. Lack of support will be a thing of the past. And just watch the athletic fund grow.

G-E floodlighting projectors, largely the development of college-trained men, are easily adapted to any occasion whether football, track, tennis, commencement, receptions, or plays. Efficient G-E illumination promotes athletics and builds school spirit.

Algernons

Some phenomenal developments took place among the "Algernon" Club of State College during the early part of the week, according to Mack Stout, prominent member of the "hook-cypoo" club.

Coach Robert Warren, an "Algernon," took strenuous pains to pledge Rev. Edwin McNeill Poteat, Jr., to his club, and Jane Virginia Hawkins Andrews was selected official sponsor.

If Warren is successful in landing Poteat, the Algernons will have three pledges, the other two being "Primo" Magleo and "shorty" Kelly.

The "hookcypooos" were thrown into pandemonium this week when they learned of the merger of the "Moose Milk" Club with that of the Algernons. Added strength threatens the foundations of the hookcypoo club. Members of the "Moose Milk" who will be taken into the Algernon organization are Bud Rose, Bill Hargrove, "Sparky" Adams, and Girgler Matlack. Thirty-two members of the graduating class of Winston-Salem High School were guests of State College Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9.

Saturday morning a tour of the campus was made. After hearing an address by Dean W. C. Riddick, the visitors left for Wake Forest. The tour was in charge of R. M. Warren, head of the science department of Winston-Salem High School.
