

TWELVE SELECTED BY GOLDEN CHAIN ON TUESDAY NITE

Robert Gatlin Is Tapped Senior Honorary Member

ELECT CONE PRESIDENT OF SOCIETY NEXT YEAR

Dr. Charles Brewer, President of Meredith College, Principal Speaker To Golden Chain Fraternity—P. H. Burrus Elected Vice-President, With H. E. Karig Secretary and "Twee" Floyd Treasurer — Speaker Urges Students To Take Part In Athletics and Make Outside Activities Part of College Life.

Golden Chain, senior honorary fraternity, tapped twelve outstanding juniors of the class of 1932 in their annual ceremony held on the campus Tuesday evening, May 26, at 6:30.

The twelve juniors are selected for their leadership, athletic ability, forensic achievements, and general citizenship. They are: Frank Gorham, of Raleigh; Romeo LePort, Greensboro; John C. Whitehurst, Norfolk, Va.; C. N. Gross, Bramwell, Va.; Henry Ricks, Rocky Mount; C. N. Come, Greensboro; C. E. Brake, Rocky Mount; James "Twee" Floyd, Salisbury; H. E. Karig, Livingston, N. J.; George Hobson, Booneville, P. H. Burrus, Columbus, Ga., and Henry Brock, Norfolk, Va. The thirteenth member, picked from the senior class of this year, is Robert Gatlin, of Rutherford.

To be selected for Golden Chain is regarded as the outstanding honor conferred upon a rising senior by his classmates. Membership is limited to twelve each year.

Preceding the tapping ceremony, Dr. Charles Brewer, president of Meredith College, delivered the annual address. He spoke of the significance of the emblem, the Golden Chain, and the honor attached to membership, since the choices were made by the initiates—fellow-students. Scholarship, activities, athletics, and college loyalty—the fourfold basis of the selections, were praised by Dr. Brewer as potent forces in the development of character for the life after college days are over. A life—not merely a living—was the ideal he held forth to the initiates as he urged them to continue their good work on the campus and carry over their zeal and activity in their life after college.

Charge Dean Brown With Unfair Ruling In Picnic Ball Game

Charges and counter-charges are flying thick and fast as an aftermath of the annual Senior-Faculty picnic of the School of Science and Business which was held last Saturday afternoon.

It seems that there was a baseball game between the Seniors and the Faculty and the umpire was Dean B. F. Brown. The faculty charge that the seniors subsidized the Dean and as a consequence all close decisions were made in favor of the seniors. The seniors hotly deny this. One particularly ruff decision, according to the faculty, was when the Dean ruled that a batted ball which passed many feet on the wrong side of the first base was fair. As a consequence the seniors scored three runs. The faculty players maintain that had they received anything like an even break from the rulings of the umpire the story would have been different and the seniors would have been on the little end of the score. No one remembered the score.

ALUMNI DAY EXERCISES TO BE HELD ON JUNE 8

Portrait of Late E. B. Owen Will Be Unveiled During State Session

Nine North Carolina State College classes will hold reunions at the Alumni Day exercises at the institution Monday, June 8, L. Polk Denmark, alumni secretary, announces.

The general Alumni Association, of which George R. Ross, of Raleigh, is president, will hold a business meeting during the morning session. Following the adjournment, memorial exercises will be held for E. B. Owen, late alumni secretary and registrar of the college. At the ceremony a portrait of Mr. Owen will be unveiled by President Ross.

The nine classes to be represented are: Class of 1893 by R. W. Allen, of Wadesboro, president, with the class of 1894 by Charles Pearson, 1906 by L. L. Vaughan, 1910 by J. M. Gray, 1911 by R. W. Graeber, 1912 by Fred B. Wheeler, 1913 by Dan B. Floyd, 1922 by Joe E. Moore, all of Raleigh. Last year's class will be represented by Charles Belvin, of West Allis, Wis. "Although special reunions only include nine classes, practically every class will be represented at the association meeting," says Secretary Denmark. "This year's meeting gives promise of being one of the greatest from the standpoint of attendance in the history of the institution."

Election of General Alumni Association officers will conclude the meeting at the night session Monday.

Final Wataugan Given Review By Staff Man

By DICK YATES
Judging from the cover of the May Wataugan—a cover which seems to have been bodily lifted from an illustration of a medical case history—one might well think that the contents of this particular issue of the campus monthly would be gruesome, and not, as the editors fondly imagine, literary-humorous. The cover, however, is not a true index to the magazine, although it does have some strange appeal like, say, Poe's "Premature Burial."

After the first nauseating wave of the jokes has been passed, one wades boldly in the following contributions: "The Letter," a story by E. E. Dale; "Spring Fever," by Dorothy Blankenship (the editors labor under the delusion that "Dorothy" is spelled with one "o"); "Progress of Safety in Aviation," by James L. Shepherd; "Four Years," by L. C. Vipond, and "A Night in Dallas," by J. C. Edwards. Supporting this formidable array of literature will be found five poems, three book reviews, and the usual collection of jokes, or what passes, for want of something better, for jokes.

"The Letter" tells us that old, old story of a boy, a girl, and a misunderstanding; only this time it was not the boy's rashness or the girl's extreme modesty that caused the rift. Rather, it seems that a letter was misplaced and was found only after the boy's death. Written rather crudely, the story nevertheless shows that a world of fiction reading went into its make-up. The conversation, although it is rather prosaic, is handled well for an amateur.

In "Spring Fever" the same old plot is presented that readers of cheap fiction for the past twenty years have reviled in. Whether love at first sight is possible, I don't know. I am convinced, however, that a big hunk of the Northern woods doesn't look at a girl in a stuffy office once, fall madly in love, ask her to marry him, and—Continued on page 2.

Slight Error

A little difference of eight dynasties and 995 years kept the 1931 Agroneck year book of North Carolina State College, from carrying out its engineering theme historically correct. The college annual met the disapproval of M. H. Radi of Cairo, Egypt, a student at the institution. "The historical fact is that King Chephren Khafre, builder of the second pyramid, featured in the Agroneck as an engineering feat, was one of the rulers of the Fourth Dynasty from 4781 to 4454 B.C., and not of the Twelfth Dynasty from 3459 to 3246 B.C., as is mistakenly mentioned in the year book," said Mr. Radi.

BLUE KEY'S "LITTLE AUDITORIUM"

Above is pictured the Blue Key Bulletin Board which was formally presented to the college Wednesday. The dedication address was made by Major Lindsay McD. Silvester, commander of the R. O. T. C. Corps. Robert H. Gatlin, president of the fraternity, presented the "Little Auditorium" to E. L. Cloyd, dean of students and representative of the college administration.

State To Graduate 280 Men At Commencement, June 9

Dead!

They yanked them out of their homes and left them to die, all for the sake of entertainment. No gas was used to put them out of misery; no electricity gave them a modern death. These murderers, not satisfied with human torture, resorted to onions as weapons used in punishing their prey. A dozen State College students gathered on the campus Sunday. A dozen students armed with onion stems raided the homes of State College "doodle-bugs." They lay there dead. Whether from sunstroke or onion fumes, these bugs died for the sake of college education and entertainment. Sniffle. Sniffle.

47 State Seniors Given Commissions U. S. Army Reserve

Forty-seven State College Seniors were given commissions as Reserve Officers in the United States Army, following the final parade held Monday in honor of Senator Josiah W. Bailey.

The following were given commissions: D. C. Abee, G. J. Albright, J. C. Andrews, L. H. Angell, H. E. Atkinson, B. Beavers, W. C. Brake, J. H. Brown, E. G. Couch, Jr., G. W. Dameron, Saiverio Dimeo, G. H. Eastep, W. H. Ferguson, R. B. Gardner, R. H. Gatlin, J. T. Geoghegan, J. B. Gurley, W. J. Hargrove, H. H. Hartman, A. J. Hayes, W. J. Honeycutt, M. C. Hutchinson, R. C. Ivey, W. S. Lee, S. G. Lloyd, M. W. Lowe, H. A. Lyster, D. S. McCullen, G. H. McGuin, H. N. Marriott, B. S. Mauney, H. B. Merriam, R. F. Montony, W. L. Morgan, E. J. Nesbitt, L. H. Overton, J. F. The following will receive commissions after attending camp this summer: W. T. Clement, Jr., N. C. Davenport, W. W. Greenhalgh, F. C. Herbst, M. L. Shepherd, Mack Stout, G. LeRoy Clark.

Norman York Elected President 1934 Class

Norman M. York, of Greensboro, was elected president of the sophomore class for 1931-1932 in the weekly meeting of the freshman class in Pullen Hall Friday, May 25. David L. Bohanon, of Louisville, Ky., was selected vice president and Philip Kinken, of Marshalltown, Iowa, was elected secretary-treasurer. York was a member of the student council for the freshman class and led the figure at the annual pledge dances this year. Bohanon played freshman football and Kinken was on both freshman football and basketball teams.

RICHARDSON GETS JOBS FOR 16 BUSINESS GRADS

B. F. Brown Says High Rating Given School Graduates By Employers

Sixteen seniors have secured jobs through the placement bureau, and eight men are now being considered by large firms, Prof. Hayes A. Richardson, head of the placement bureau, announced Wednesday afternoon.

Of the seniors placed, only one, E. M. Fennell, will work for a North Carolina firm. He will work for a Hickory furniture plant. Professor Richardson said he was of the opinion that every man in this year's graduation class would be offered a position, although some of the seniors would probably reject their offers.

The following seniors have been placed: Harvey Sparks, Harold Russell, Hugh Holloway, H. J. Thiel, and A. P. Baggett (class of '30), with Florence Rubber Company. E. M. Fennell, furniture company, Hickory. Stacy Lloyd and Fred Herbst, with Standard Oil of New York.

F. C. Crawley, C. S. Jones, J. W. Richardson, and H. E. Pearee, with Jewel Tea Company, of Barrington, Ill. K. W. Hoke and E. C. Jackson, with W. T. Grant Company. J. K. Tadlock with S. H. Kress Company.

E. A. Rutter with Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York. The following seniors are being considered:

A. E. Land and Walter Lee, by Proctor and Gamble. W. T. Mast, Henry Ormand, Charlie Thrift, Fred Crum, J. H. Highsmith, by Liberty Mutual Life Insurance Company, Boston. E. M. Allen, by Wesson Oil Company, Savannah, Ga. Professor Richardson secured jobs with the Jewel Tea Company during the summer for the following juniors: R. D. Anderson, E. C. Mewborn, C. D. —Continued on page 4.

Brake Elected President Of Business Fraternity

C. E. Brake of Rocky Mount has been elected president of the Beta Delta chapter of Delta Sigma Pi international honorary commerce fraternity at State College. Other officers elected are: A. J. Wilson, Jr., of Raleigh, first vice president; James E. Stroupe of Raleigh, second vice president; W. L. Shoffner of Burlington, secretary; D. A. Rose of Littleton, treasurer, and A. F. Ward of Lumberton, correspondent.

FINAL BAND CONCERT

The final concert of the year by the North Carolina State College band was presented Sunday afternoon on the college campus near Memorial Tower. The band's concluding appearance was sponsored by Blue Key Society and Mu Beta Psi, national musical fraternity. The band is in charge of P. W. (Daddy) Price.

Confidentially

By GOLLY
Governor O. Max Gardner didn't show up at the parade Tuesday for the review or accept the Golden Chain invitation to make an address. According to the Alumni Secretary, nine of every ten graduates who come in his office ask why he leaves the Governor's picture on the wall. He can HANG there, for all we care.

Alpha Sigma Sigma overlooked one group of persons in their selection. They are the General Assembly.

Now that spring is here, State boys are taking many astronomy labs, but Charlie Heck gives no credit for them.

The Pan-Hellenic will pay to the order of Hal Kemp exactly $2,500. Five wrestles at $500 per wrestle, or approximately four cents per step.

We looked for Johnny Gannon at the military parade. They were giving out "commissions" Tuesday.

It's time John D. Rockefeller raised the price of petroleum products, with so many students "burning the midnight oil" just before examinations.

BULLETIN BOARD PRESENTED STATE BY BLUE KEY MEN

Major Lindsay Silvester Makes Dedication Address

ROBERT GATLIN PRAISES COMMITTEEMEN FOR WORK

Bulletin Board Will Be Used For All Bulletins Pertaining to College and Collegiate Activities; Professor Ross Shumaker Drew Plans for Project; Ten Faculty and Alumni Share Financial Burden of Erection; Construction Work Supervised by W. A. Bridgeforth—Major Percy W. Price Furnishes Music.

The new Blue Key Bulletin Board was formally presented to the college administration by the Blue Key Fraternity with a ceremony in front of the board Wednesday at 6:30.

M. R. Vipond, vice president of Blue Key and master of ceremonies, told of the purpose of the board and expressed the gratitude of the organization to J. C. Whitehurst, chairman of the committee in charge. He introduced Major Lindsay McD. Silvester as the principal speaker on the program.

Major Silvester first told of the interesting part that bulletin boards have played in history in disseminating information and the need for such a medium on this campus. He commended Blue Key for filling this urgent need and stated that the student body should admire and appreciate the achievement of the organization. He pointed out that the board was a worthy illustration of the value of concentrated effort and said that he hoped Blue Key's example would not be in vain as a precedent for the future.

Robert H. Gatlin, president of Blue Key, expressed his appreciation of the cooperation of the committee in charge; J. C. Whitehurst, chairman, and Frank Gorham, Henry Ricks, and H. V. Brock, chairman of the finance committee. He read the first bulletin to be placed on the board, which was prepared by Blue Key. This bulletin tells of the purpose of the board and the story of its attainment.

Gatlin formerly presented the board to Dean E. L. Cloyd, representing the college administration, and gave him the key to the board and the first bulletin. Dean Cloyd, after a statement to the effect that the board should be an inspiration to all campus organizations as an example of a goal definitely planned and achieved, opened the board and placed the bulletin in it.

The first bulletin, which will remain on the board for the rest of the year, states that the board is to be used for all bulletins pertaining to—Continued on page 4

Randolph Has Hopes Of Placing Chemists Before End Of Year

"All of the graduates of the Chemical Engineering School will probably be placed in good positions, despite the fact that the college is facing one of the severest depressions in its history," declared Dr. E. E. Randolph, head of the Chemical Engineering Department, at a smoker given by the State College branch of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers Tuesday night in the Y. M. C. A. "The Chemical Engineering graduates have always been placed in previous years," he added.

After the speeches of Dr. Randolph and Prof. C. S. Grove, Jr., the retiring officers, C. M. Sprinkle and H. D. Crots, spoke, and were followed by the incoming officers, W. L. Belvin, L. W. Knott, M. M. Croom, E. G. Spader, and Charles F. Lane.

Dr. Randolph lauded the work of the Chemical Engineering students this year, and stated that State College has one of the best Chemical Engineering Departments in the South.

AU REVOIR

And as we go to press for the last time this school year, there is regret that 280 State College seniors will read this paper for the last time. Those boys who are leaving have made history at college, and now they leave to bring glory to themselves and alma mater. Their associations at the college have been inspiring and while they all have not reached the zenith in collegiate fame, they have the old world to tackle and make good any little failure while in college.

Undergraduates look at them with envy—four years they've passed and now they travel on. Many hate to leave the friends of three classes and many of the three classes hate to see them leave.

It is our hope that they will be real alumni, and by real alumni we don't mean just the kind that send in a couple of dollars to aid athletics. State College stands for more than this. What she needs is an ALUMNI ASSOCIATION—more than anything else.

Seniors—you will soon be alumni. You have gone through this college and are familiar with its needs. Yours is the task of changing the existing order. As the college prestige is increased, so does your diploma, and while the "sheep-skin" does not make the man, it aids materially in giving him a better chance to make good in life.

Don't ignore your alumni secretary's plea to join the association. His job is a great one and his position is a responsible one. He is working for you and an investment with him will yield you large dividends.

GOLDEN CHAIN

Golden Chain senior honorary fraternity found their twelve links in the circle of Juniors on the campus Tuesday evening.

Twelve men—selected as the most outstanding in the rising Junior Class. These men have been honored for what they have done. They prove themselves worthy of being a link next year.

This fraternity recognizes leadership—they have led in the past and State College expects their guidance in campus affairs next year.

The time has seen Golden Chain as the most progressive of the honorary fraternities at the institution. This year they have had rivals. Next year they will have competition.

A new chain has been welded. May the links grow stronger as the chain is hitched to a progressive program for the college next year.

ARRIVED IN STATE

Our "Little Auditorium" has arrived in State. Three years of constant effort has secured one of the greatest needs of the college campus. A permanent memorial has been erected—a memorial that will now stand not as a tombstone over our large campus, but one that will be in constant use and service to the Student Body.

To the Blue Key national leadership fraternity, this student body owes a debt of gratitude.

No longer will it be necessary to clutter-up the campus trees and buildings with signs that mar what beauty our college may have. No longer will campus officials need spend hours posting notices of necessary meetings on our trees.

The Blue Key bulletin board comes to us as a gift. Sacrifices have been made that it might be erected. It is now the public property of our student body, to be used for collegiate activities and our appreciation can be shown by protecting it from those students who have little regard for public property, and there are such men on this campus.

Make the bulletin board a daily visit. There you will see many attractive events of the hour and coming days.

Behind the erection of Blue Key bulletin board, there are a little more than ten loyal alumni and college officials who have done their share in raising the necessary $375 expenses of the project. There is the college labor, plans, and erection that has been given gratis. Everyone has worked in unselfish harmony to make our "Little Auditorium" a reality.

To say that classes years from now will stow-away a cherished memory of this bulletin board, is not saying too much.

AIDS EFFECTIVENESS

The House of Student Government at North Carolina State College materially increased the prestige of the Student Council last week when they revised the "liquor law" of the by-laws of our government.

Long since taken as a joke, this law now gives promise of making Student Government more effective.

Under the old law, the rule that a student who had liquor in his possession or had taken a drink, was automatically shipped upon being convicted of breaking the law. The student council was duty bound to enforce the law—nor render decision in accordance with the severeness of the case or help the student in the future, but to kick him out. This council should strive toward reformation rather than be a penal body.

Besides passing the "liquor law amendment," the House abolished the Court of Customs. Again we praise our law-making body—they killed a court that has outgrown its usefulness on this campus.

Years ago, when freshmen were regarded as unhuman, this court came into existence. Since then, we have passed the child's play age—the abolition of the cap and freshmen rules have not made State College a less desirable place for men. Our freshman spirit needs improvement, but the three other classes share equal need.

MAJOR ENTERTAINMENT

Tribute is now in order for Major Percy W. Price and his State College band, glee club, and orchestra.

At every college function, be it ceremony or concert, Major Price and his corp of musicians have been on hand to do their share of the entertaining.

If the affair is dull, the major is there to produce those little chills that on some occasions when listening to good music.

Audiences receive the major's music with pleasure. The Student Body thrills at the notes of the band. Able musicians from all over the State proclaim that State College has one of the best bands in the South.

Percy W. Price is director of our band. In military he is Major—the major entertainment on State College campus.

THROUGH THE TRANSOM

BY DICK YATES

Retrospect

With examinations, like prosperity "just around the corner," the end of the school year is almost at hand; and with the termination of this particular period, one may look backward and see many changes that have been made concerning the school and many events that have transpired that are, viewed objectively, amusing; viewed subjectively, they approach the pathetic at times.

The furor aroused over Milton Abernethy and his newspaper article probably stands out as the most idiotic thing the present student body has done during the past three years. Abernethy—and I think the author of the thesis he used will verify this—simply gave publicity to an admittedly bad situation that exists in the classrooms of the college. Instead of attempting to clean up the conditions that actually exist, the student body, along with a group of so-called leaders, spent all their spare time for a week in an effort to punish Abernethy. It is, to me, an interesting commentary on student intelligence that during all that time no one offered any attempt to stop the cheating that existed then and has existed since.

Then, too, one mustn't forget the co-eds, charming little girls who so brighten our campus and give us sound effects in our library. During the past three years their number has increased with a regularity that was at first fearful; later it became merely amusing. (Let me at this point make one thing clear. The writer sees absolutely no reason why the co-eds shouldn't attend State. He sees, for that matter, no reason why they shouldn't jump in the lake, or why they all shouldn't be good-looking. That's aside, though.)

Stage—am reliably informed that one of the less stable creatures has fallen into what she terms "love" six times since her entrance (drop the first syllable and you'll have what I'm hinting at), I suppose their time has been well spent. I see no reason why the ex-high school girls shouldn't enter State and fall in love as much as they wish. From what I'm able to hear about those mild, emotional attacks, I'm led to believe that no lasting damage has been done.

And, of course, I mustn't forget my good friends in the military department. I owe several debts to that eminent crew, not the least of which is the fact that partly due to their handiwork I am still in a position to write this column. And since I've gone this far without dedicating it to anyone, I may as well give them the somewhat questionable honor. They have done a great work on the campus. I congratulate them for it. They have clothed some of our students in nice uniforms and given them high-sounding titles and thirty cents per diem, thus turning out a fine crop of campus leaders whom we all defer to.

Then, last and probably the most laughable, we have the ever-present student government and the honor system. We assume that a student who would ordinarily cheat when conditions for cheating were adverse will absolutely refuse to do this when he has a good opportunity. We further assume that a student will not cheat if he has to sign a pledge to that effect. I have seen countless numbers of students crib all through an examination, and when it came time for them to sign the pledge they broke down in tears, tearing up their papers at the same time and asking fellow students to forgive them. Such is the force of the honor system.

Then, peevish at her refusal, make his lonely way back into the forests. The story is well written, though, and would be really good if the large amount of detail were omitted and a less evident plot used.

The Wataugan enters into direct competition with Popular Science Monthly and other periodicals of the scientific field with its presentation of "Progress of Safety in Aviation." Undoubtedly, everything in the article is true; but science periodicals have, for the past three or four years, been hammering the same self-evident truths into the heads of their readers. The chief interest lies in the fact that it was written by a student, and that it has been entered in the Boeing Scholarship contest.

L. C. Vipond's "Four Years" comes as a welcome oasis. Written in a free, easy style, the article reviews the life of a college man, and, I am led to believe, gives a frank appraisal of college values. The entire article is intensely human, and would, I think, be of great interest to one who likes to look at the past.

"A Night in Dallas," by J. C. Edwards, also stands out as a neat piece of work. It is always refreshing to find a writer who doesn't hesitate to use incomplete sentences; and when they are used well, one feels almost like cheering. More than a simple sketch, "A Night in Dallas" is human, feeling work, and merits more than the back space it receives.

The book reviews, all written by Virginia Anderson, are too brief to be any more than mere statements of the books dealt with.

Of the five poems published, only one stands out, "A Pal." And this, if I remember correctly, was published in one of the Wataugans of 1928-'29. In "The Parting" and "The Dream," both written by Annette Morris, one may detect a certain influence of Carl Sandburg. Practically every word in the dictionary ending with "ion" seems to have been used in the poem, "Dissertation," by M. J. S. The rhyme scheme is unique, to say the least. L. V. Brooks in "Invocation to the Sun God" in the shape of a free verse poem. The sacrifice, I hope, was not too much for the writer.

The humor section of the magazine remains as bad as ever, although it is lightened by several good cartoons by Blankenship, Ahman, and Schaub. Such exceeding clever jokes as the following appear in this issue, no doubt proving that literature has not wholly robbed the Wataugan of its punch:

Passenger: "Oh, look! Air-planes dropping bombs."
Captain: "Say, buddy, them's sea-gulls."

On the whole, the Wataugan is no worse than other issues of this year.

And it will remain in this pathetic position as long as the editors use their shears on the exchanges that continue to flood their spacious offices. If one wishes to read jokes that appear in Whiz Bang, it is presumed that one will buy Whiz Bang.

52 MONOGRAM MEN ELIGIBLE TO PLAY HERE NEXT SEASON

Football Has Largest Number of Returned Veterans

MAJORITY OF PLAYERS ARE JUNIORS NEXT YEAR

Baseball Ranks Second With 13 Letter Men; Track Is Third With Nine, and Basketball Will Have Six—Eighteen Monogram Wearers Will Be Graduated This Year—Total of 72 Monograms Given This Year To State Players in Six Sports.

Fifty-two monogram men will be eligible in the six leading sports at State College next year, it was shown when monograms were awarded to 17 baseball players by the college athletic council recently.

Football claims the largest number of returning veterans, with 18 men expected back next fall. Baseball ranks next, with 13 of the 17 monograms eligible for further play. Track is third, with nine. Basketball will be represented by six men, and boxing by four and wrestling two.

The greater majority of these varsity athletes will be juniors next fall, giving them one more year following the 1931-32 season, as only 13 men will find up their athletic careers next year. Eighteen men, representing 20 monograms, will be graduated in June, making a total of 72 letters awarded to varsity athletes this year.

The returning number includes several men represented in more than one sport. Sam Gurneau, a sophomore, has the list with letters in football, basketball, wrestling, and track. Allen Nelms holds monograms in football, basketball, and basketball, and Rudy Seitz is represented in football, basketball, and track, to rank next to Gurneau. Both men are sophomores.

Called By Jack

BOB EVANS

Jack McDowell, famous State College quarterback of 1927, will meet an old lineman next fall.

Bob Evans, one of the tackles in the famed Southern Conference team and a football player who helped McDowell to glory, will go to Rollins College in September, where he will teach in physical education and assist in coaching. McDowell is head football coach there.

During the past year Bob has been assistant to Director Miller in the Physical Education department.

In addition to the 52 varsity men there will be an army of 70 freshman numeral wearers back for action.

The government of Bolivia has taken money from the budget of its war department this year and added it to the budget for education.

J. R. Floyd Is Elected To Head Cindermen For Coming Season

J. R. "Tweek" Floyd, of Salisbury, was this week named captain of the 1932 State College track team at a banquet held in honor of the members of this year's team.

Floyd was the leading 440-runner in the State this year. He won this event in the State meet held in Greensboro the first of May and lost just one dual race, that to Carolina, during the year.

State's new track captain will have eight members of this year's team with which to work next year. They are: Henry Ricks and Henry Brock, distance runs; Rudy Seitz, Sam Gurneau, and Arthur Wilson, weights; Gilbert Clark and Troy Goodman, jumps, and Red Watt, hurdles. Captain Floyd will be without the services of such stars as Capt. George McGinn in the half mile, Coon Silver and Mack Stout, dashes, and Raymond Paris, hurdles.

Floyd is also president of the Monogram Club at State, and was tapped Tuesday for Golden Chain, senior honor fraternity.

Regiment King Pin

JOHN C. WHITEHURST

Major Lindsay McD. Silvester, commandant of the North Carolina State College military department, named John C. Whitehurst as the "best sergeant" in the regiment on Tuesday.

Whitehurst entered in competition with 69 other sergeants and the selection was made as a result of achievement in military tactics over a period of one college year. He was also officially named cadet colonel of the regiment at the final parade of the year, which was held May 25, honoring Josiah William Bailey, United States Senator.

At the final parade commissions were awarded fifty-two cadets as Second Lieutenants in the United States Officers' Reserve Corps.

Present Alumni Award At College Graduation

Mack Stout, senior in Construction Engineering who was elected by the students of State College as being the best all-round athlete, will receive the Alumni Trophy. This trophy is given by the alumni of this school to the winner at graduation and is replacing the Norris Athletic Trophy. A new trophy will be given each year, thus giving the winner permanent possession of the trophy.

This trophy will be presented to the student named each year at the regular student election and the merits on which the student is selected are based on the activity on the athletic field, his scholastic record, and leadership.

"I hope that this award will be permanent," says Polk Denmark, alumni secretary, "however, this will not be known until the meeting of the alumni at which time the matter will be taken up."

The new trophy is 12½ inches high, shaped like an elongated bell with a large silver eagle on top. On the trophy is a shield and a North Carolina State monogram and the name of the name of the recipient.

During his collegiate year Mr. Stout has been active in many phases of college life. He was captain of the 1930 edition of the Wolfpack, vice president of the student body, dash man on the track team, member of the Golden Chain, member of the student chapter of the Associated General Contractors, and has a scholastic average of 88.4.

The new trophy is now on display at Nelman's Jewelry Store on Fayetteville street.

Bum Bumping

There have been many tales of remarkably good bumping luck; but the prize story of poor bumping is the sad tale of two State College freshmen who spent twenty-three hours on the road to Fayetteville, N. C.

The pair started bumping at 11:00 Saturday morning. At 6:30 p.m. they caught a ride to Dunn. All efforts to get out of Dunn failed, and they started walking. They walked seven miles before traffic on the road ceased, and then they gave up and spent the night in an empty church by the roadside. At six Sunday morning they took up their stand again and about nine o'clock were picked up, for the last stretch of their sixty-mile journey.

Bill Stecker and Milton Holmes arrived in "State" with this story.

Oldest in America

Here is more honor for the State of North Carolina. The University of North Carolina is the oldest State university in America. It was chartered 142 years ago and began operation six years later.

MATTIE DAMERON

JEWEL RAMSEY

Jimmie Summey, president, will lead the Pan-Hellenic figure Saturday night with Miss Mattie Dameron, of Warrenton. He will be assisted by Jimmie Carter with Miss Jewel Ramsey, of Chatham, Va., and Henry Ormand with Miss Pansy Mathews, of Bessemer City.

Jimmie Carter and Miss Ramsey will lead the final ball Monday night, and will be assisted by Summey and his partner.

Hal Kemp and his Brunswick recording orchestra will play for the finals, which will be held on the campus June 5, 6, and 8.

Conn., and John Gammon, of Griffin, Georgia.

Admission to the dances will be $1.50 for a single dance and $4.00 for the set for invited guests of the fraternities, and $3.00 for a single dance and $10.00 for the set for other guests and State College students.

Sigma Pi House Party

Rho chapter of Sigma Pi will entertain at their home on Clark avenue with a house party during the final dances, beginning June 5, and lasting through Monday night. Many parties and entertainments are being planned for the young ladies in attendance.

Saint's Banquet

At a recent meeting of the Junior Order of Saints, honorary social fraternity, the following men were elected for next year: Joe Croxton, president; Chick Murray, vice president; and John Rabb, secretary and treasurer.

Saturday evening the members will entertain their visiting lady guests at a banquet given in their honor, after dancing to the music of Hal Kemp.

College Summer School Begins Session June 9

Following the formal closing of the North Carolina State College on June 9, enrollment will begin for what gives promise of being the largest summer school in the history of the institution. The summer session will begin on June 15 and continue for six weeks.

In preparation for a large enrollment, Director T. E. Browne has added three new faculty members to increase the professors to 48. The summer faculty will teach 144 different courses.

The summer school last year was attended by 407 teachers, which was an increase of nearly 100 over the 1929 session. For the first time in the State, courses will be offered at State College in high school commercial subjects. These subjects will include bookkeeping, typewriting, shorthand, and subject matter taught in the School of Science and Business.

Director Browne also announces as a special feature an open forum to give opportunity to faculty leaders for presentation of the latest views on modern problems. The meetings will be open to the public and speakers of prominence will be secured to lead the discussions.

Taylor, G. H. Robinson, and R. A. Thomas.

The placement bureau has met with no little difficulty in placing men this year. Professor Richardson said, adding that, however, in comparison with other schools our school showed up well.

Dean B. F. Brown, in his report to the president, said of the placement bureau: "The placement bureau undertakes only to serve the graduates of the School of Science and Business. All of the graduates for the school year 1929-1930 were offered one or more positions. One of the most gratifying announcements has been that of the high rating given by employers of the graduates of the School of Science and Business."

Live On Half-Dollar

This is a hard story. The Texas co-eds must live on 55 cents a day for six weeks in order to get a degree. We wonder why the cost of living has taken such a step.

Summer School Head

T. E. BROWNE

The North Carolina State College Summer School will open for registration on June 15, according to Director Browne.

Director Browne says that this year's enrollment is expected to topple all previous summer school records. The coming session will be concluded July 14th.

ORPHANAGE CONCERT

The State College band gave its annual concert to the children of Oxford Orphanage on Saturday afternoon.

The children were treated to a ride in the college buses after the concert, and in turn the orphanage was host to the musicians at a barbecue supper. Other citizens of Oxford enjoyed the treat with the children.

The concert was under the auspices of the William G. Hill and the Hiram Masonic Lodges of Raleigh.

The band left the campus about 1:30 for Oxford, where the concert was presented at 4:30. Following the concert the members of the band were taken through the different departments of the orphanage on an inspection trip. The band returned to Raleigh Saturday night.

Lone Ceramic Grad To Go Without Job As Others Get Work

"Despite the industrial depression and the difficulty which has been encountered in placing graduates this year, all but one of the Ceramic Engineering seniors will be placed in promising positions shortly after graduation," stated Prof. A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the Ceramic Department.

E. H. Shands will take the position of sales engineer with the Porcelain Enamel Manufacturing Co., of Baltimore, Md., and will be located in Baltimore and Detroit.

E. A. Meents has been appointed to the Executives' Training Course in the Frigidaire Division of the General Motors Corporation at Dayton, Ohio. He will be assigned to the enameling section.

J. E. Rankin will become ceramic engineer for the J. C. Slate Co., of Statesville, N. C., and will be located at Statesville and Pine Hall.

E. G. Couch, Jr., will be located with the Locke Insulator Co., Baltimore, Md., but will not report for duty until the fall.

F. N. Sumrell has an appointment in the engineering division of the Brown Instrument Co., Philadelphia, but does not expect to report until late summer.

G. V. Harris, who has been employed in the fruit inspection service of the Bureau of Markets for a number of summers past, will again enter that work for the summer months. He has received a tentative promise of an appointment with the U. S. Gypsum Company as soon as his summer work is completed.

"Unlike the conditions in some of the other branches of engineering, the Ceramic Engineering graduates of past years are all holding their positions through the present depression and do not expect to be affected by it," Professor Walker added.

Bulletin Board Presented State By Blue Key Men

the college and collegiate activities. It requests that the dean appoint a responsible person as keeper of the bulletin board, and expresses appreciation to those who helped in the designing, financing, and construction of the board.

The plans for the board were drawn by Prof. Ross Shumaker.

Financial support was obtained from the following: Blue Key Fraternity, Dr. E. C. Brooks, A. S. Brower, Major L. McD. Silvester, C. H. Belvin, Jr., W. N. Hicks, L. P. Denmark, T. F. Nelson, A. F. Grimshaw, J. M. Foster, and A. J. Wilson. The cost of the board was approximately $375.

The construction work was under the supervision of W. A. Bridgforth, and the brick was donated by the Cherokee Brick Company of Raleigh, through the courtesy of James Johnson.

Major P. W. Price and his State College band furnished the music for the occasion.

FEEL the difference
HEAR the difference
TASTE THE DIFFERENCE!

Like an oasis in the dusty desert of dried tobacco, the new Camel Humidor Pack brings you the delight of fine quality cigarettes in factory-fresh, mild condition.

Now, wherever you go, you can always be sure of getting a fresh, throat-easy cigarette when you demand Camels.

It's easy to tell the difference. Your sense of touch detects it as you roll a cigarette between your fingers. Dry tobacco is stiff and crumbly. Camels are full bodied and pliant.

Even your ear can tell the difference. For a dried-out cigarette crackles when you roll it.

But the real test is taste and taste is causing a great nation-wide switch of men and women alike to Camels in the scientific new Humidor Pack. As you draw in that fragrant, mild, cool smoke, redolent with the joy of choicest Turkish and mellow Domestic tobacco, only then do you realize the full importance of this new Humidor Pack.

For scorched or dried tobacco is harsh and tasteless and its smoke is unkindly hot to the tongue and throat.

If you are already a Camel smoker you have noticed the improvement in this your favorite cigarette.

If you don't smoke Camels, try them for just one day to see how much you're missing. After you've known the mildness and delight of a really fresh cigarette, switch back if you can.

Smoke a fresh cigarette

It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office
