SOILS SOCIETY HONORS WILLIAM BATTLE COBB

N. C. State Professor Elected Head of American Soil Survey Association

Dr. William Battle Cobb, Professor of Soils at North Carolina State College, was elected president of the American Soil Survey Association at its twelfth annual meeting in Chicago. Dr. Cobb succeeds Dr. G. N. Rhunke of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Canada, who was elected president of the Association at the 1930 meeting in Washington.

Dr. Cobb was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1912. On leaving the University he spent several years with the United States Soil Survey, conducting soil investigations in North Carolina and a number of other states. He was the first to make use of an airplane in soil survey work. This pioneer work, carried out in Tyrrell County, North Carolina, was based on war time experience with the army air service.

In 1920, he went to Louisiana State University as associate professor of agronomy and continued in this work four years before coming to State College in September, 1924. Under his direction the training offered in soils at the college has received national recognition, many of the graduates in soils having gone into government, state or commercial work or having accepted graduate fellowships at leading American universities.

His election as president of the Soil Survey Association has come after ten years of active membership. He has presented a number of papers at the annual meetings and has served on important research and other committees.

Chemical Fraternity Holds Convocation in Charlotte on November 27-28

Gamma Sigma Epsilon, national honorary chemical fraternity, at their first meeting Wednesday night elected C. N. Gross to represent the local chapter at a convention to be held in Charlotte November 27 and 28.

Gross, who is president of the local chapter, will be accompanied by several other members. Dr. L. F. Williams and Professor J. A. Ogg are also planning to attend the convention.

Other officers of the society are: W. K. Cathey, vice president; H. D. Matheson, secretary; and W. L. Belvin, treasurer.

Holds LeFort

Romeo LeFort, blonde haired hero president of the student body, Saturday night stopped a rush on downtown theatres by several hundred collegians.

"You don't want to mope here tonight what State College did today?" LeFort queried, and 500 students became placid and left the theatre un-rushed.

A huge snake parade was held after the State-Duke game celebrating the victory until the students decided in favor of a show. E. L. Cloyd, dean of students, arrived hot-footed to prevent a rush on the movies.

President LeFort, also a football hero, took over the situation with a successful plea for school spirit.

PINE BURR CLUB INITIATES EIGHT

Founders of Society Make Short Talks at Banquet Held On Friday Night

Pine Burr, honorary scholastic fraternity, initiated eight new members Friday evening at a banquet held at the Carolina Hotel. The new members were formally pledged Friday at noon before the Freshman class meeting in Pullen Hall.

Those initiated were Miss Elizabeth Gaither, junior in high school teaching; J. W. Nealey, senior in chemical engineering; D. W. Finch, senior in business; C. C. Morrison, senior in ceramic engineering; Karl L. Ponzer, junior in electrical engineering; J. A. Sutton, agricultural soils; G. C. Nye, junior in mechanical engineering, and L. A. Moss, junior in chemical engineering.

Besides the active members and pledges present were Colonel J. W. Harrelson, Professor William Hand Browne, Jr., and Dean E. L. Cloyd. Colonel Harrelson was the chief speaker of the occasion. He counseled the students to make for themselves a well-rounded life and not to crowd out the other activities offered on the campus with their books. He advised the members present to pick their vocations with great care and enter some work in which they found their greatest joy. "Be certain as to your interests and carefully examine their fields of opportunity," Colonel Harrelson advised.

Professor Browne and Dean Cloyd made short talks. Dean Cloyd pointed out that sixteen per cent of the men in "Who's Who" had changed their profession four times.

Among the students who delivered short talks were Miss Mary Jo Swicegood, Clarence Cone, and C. C. Morrison.

The Pine Burr Society was founded at State College in 1922. Its purposes are to encourage high standards of scholarship, to develop leadership, in all worth-while organizations on the campus, and to preserve the history of the college. Among the group at the banquet who were chiefly responsible for the founding of the Pine Burr Society were Colonel Harrelson and Dean Cloyd. The late E. B. Owen was also an important member in the organization.

Dutch and Russian students have the least difficulty mastering foreign languages and English speaking students have the most, according to Dr. Romano Guerieri, professor of Italian at the University of Amsterdam.

He next stressed the utility of cheating your way through college, taking the matter a year at a time. He used as an example, a student who comes to college with the idea that he will do college with the idea that he cannot pass the work and must cheat to get by. He early forms the habit which grows more marked as he advances through the various classes, culminating in his securing a stolen degree.

This same student, LeFort pointed out, will then go forth in the business world and go to work. He is apt to practice the same tactics on the job that he did in school and try to depend on his neighbor to do his work for him. His employer is apt to fire him and refuse to hire any other man from his college because he is afraid that he will cheat on the job and depend on his co-workers to do the work for which he gets credit.

LeFort then made a parallel of cheating students and burglars. No one, he stated, would allow a burglar to proceed with his job if he caught him in the act. On the other hand he is more than likely to allow the cheating student to go on harming himself and his classmates without saying a word. It is each student's duty to warn any straying classmate, LeFort said, not necessarily by turning him up to the honor court, but by calling him to one side and telling privately that he is harming and not helping himself. He concluded by telling the sophomores that it was up to each one of them to refrain from cheating and do all in his power to persuade others to do the same.

Professor Clark chose "The Nature of Honor" as his subject. He began by stating that there were different codes of honor for different classes and races of men. He remarked that most of us wish to apply honor codes to others and do not like to conform to them ourselves. He cited the Roman statesman, Mark Anthony, as an example of this human trait. Anthony was very fluent in condemning Brutus as dishonorable after the death of Caesar, but he himself later went to Egypt where he became a pawn of that beautiful sorcerer, Cleopatra, and apparently lost his honor.

Professor Clark then gave several examples of peculiar codes of honor. Retaliation is one of these, as typified by capital punishment and war. The practice of dueling is another. A still stranger one, Prof. Clark pointed out, is the fallacy that anything is honorable that you can get away with. To illustrate this, Prof. Clark told of the boy in ancient Sparta, who having stolen a fox, kept it hidden under his jacket until it wore the jacket through, but no one saw it; and the boy got away with his theft, at the same time preserving his honor, because no one caught him in the act of stealing the fox, or with the stolen animal in his possession.

He then told of some peculiar legal codes of honor. One of these is that from the law's point of view, it is perfectly honorable to put women and children out in the cold because of inability to pay the rent. It is also perfectly legal and honorable from the law's point of view to amass a large fortune by paying starvation wages while living in comfort. The law is also peculiar, according to Prof. Clark, in that it is perfectly right, by its code of honor, to give the same jail sentence to a chicken thief, who may have stolen five dollars worth of property, and a defaulting bank president, who has stolen thousands of dollars.

It is also honorable, legally, to try to legislate the process of thinking. An example of this, Prof. Clark pointed out, was the famous evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., a few years ago. In this case, according to Prof. Clark, the State of Tennessee tried to prohibit by legislation the teaching of natural truths in public schools.

Prof. Clark ended by stating that it is up to each one of us to formulate our own code of honor and stick to it diligently, if we expect to get anywhere in life.

establishment of a "sphere of influence" in Manchuria. This very contention which Japan is making today rests upon privileges extracted in one of these twenty-one demands.
"Japan has violated her nine-power treaty with the Allies, in which she agreed to preserve the integrity of China. She has also violated the Kellogg-Briand treaty. Japan should have appealed to the League for her claims instead of going in and trying to establish them by force."

SOUTH CAROLINA GAMECOCKS HAVE PALMETTO TITLE

Smith Ends Grid Season Against South Carolinians at Columbia, S. C.

SOUTH CAROLINA BEAT DUKE UNIVERSITY 7-0

Last Game Tomorrow for N. C. State in This Year's Play; Smith Will Probably Use Same Team Against Palmetto Boys as Played Duke; Many Wolfpack Followers to Make Trip; 'Pack Rejuvenated

Coach "Clipper" Smith left State College early this morning for Columbia, and he took with him a fighting squad of Wolfpack football players to battle the University of South Carolina tomorrow in State's last game this season.

As State will be playing its last game, many North Carolina football fans, followers of the Wolfpack, will be on hand to see Coach Clipper Smith's Wolves battle with Coach Billy Laval's Gamecocks in what should be a thrilling contest.

While the Wolfpack was humbling the Devils, last week South Carolina, winner of the Palmetto State title this fall, was battling Florida to a 6-6 deadlock at Tampa in a Southern Conference tilt. Florida defeated State early in the season at Raleigh, 34-0, but it was a different Wolfpack that day from the one of last Saturday.

Two brilliant sophomore backfield aces will be pitted against each other Saturday in Bob McQuage, State's quarterback and Earl Clary, halfback of the Gamecocks who was instrumental in all of South Carolina's victories this fall.

Coach Billy Laval has one of the strongest teams in South Carolina's history. The Gamecocks hold a 7-0 win over Duke University, the only other North Carolina team played this fall.

State will be seeking its third Conference win at the expense of the Southerners. The Wolfpack defeated Mississippi 6-0 earlier in the season and Duke last week for the only victories of the year in this circle.

Coach Clipper Smith of State introduced the Notre Dame system at the West Raleigh institution this fall, and it has taken the players most of the season to get going. It is believed that they have hit their stride and will give the Gamecocks a tough battle.

Coach Smith will no doubt start the same team against Carolina that he used against Duke. That team listed two men who were getting their first call as regulars and both were stars. One was Hank McLawhorn, halfback, who scored State's second touchdown with a 36-yard run after taking a 12-yard pass from Don Wilson, another State back that was poison to Duke.

On that run, McLawhorn, outstripped four Duke men. The other player is Bud Rose, end. Very few plays were made over Rose, and he was a power on offense.

Other men South Carolina will have to watch are: Red Espey, leading North Carolina center; Captain Charlie Cobb, tackle; Don Wilson, halfback, and State's two guards, Willie Duke and Romeo LeFort.

CHARITY BATTLE LOOMS IN STATE

Coaches of Big Five Teams Offer Co-operation in Football for Poor

The much talked and proposed charity football game for relief of the poor in this section was somewhat developed this past week with a suitable stadium being selected and the release of a starting line-up.

The movement for the charity game was started by officials of the State of North Carolina. Coaches of the various Big Five clubs have offered to cooperate in allowing their men to participate in such a game.

Many plans were offered as to how the teams should be composed, but final arrangements are that students be chosen from the Big Five squads.

The game will be played December 5 in the Duke University stadium.

Coach Johnny "Clipper" Smith of the State College Wolfpack, has been named as one tutor and Chuck Collins the coach for team B. Coach Smith (Please turn to page six)

With the 1931 football season well on record, supporters of the State freshman football club are turning their talk to the possible varsity prospects of the stars on this past year's squad.

State's freshman club this year has been one of the best in the school's history. Only one game was lost and that to Duke University. The Techlets defeated Davidson, Oak Ridge and Carolina, and tied Wake Forest.

Promising varsity material was found in the following: backs; Roscoe Roy, quarter; Robert McAdams, Peterson, Glenn Goodwin, Komlos, Johnson, half; Rex and Boyer, fullbacks. Linemen: Redding, Stephens

BIG FIVE TEAMS' POSITIONS WAVER

State's Standing Dependent Upon Outcome of Carolina-Duke Game Saturday

Games played by North Carolina teams last week are as follows: State 14, Duke 0; Carolina 20, Davidson 0; Wake Forest 0, Oglethorpe 37.

The stormy petrels of Oglethorpe university rolled to a 37-0 victory over the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest in a game played in Atlanta last Friday. The first period ended in a scoreless tie but the Atlantians proceeded to put the ball over on the first play of the second quarter. Wake Forest threatened only once, when Green intercepted a pass and ran toward the last white line. Oglethorpe clearly outplayed the Deacs throughout the game.

Carolina defeated the fighting Presbyterians at Chapel Hill Saturday. Davidson put up her usual fighting game but the Presbyterians could not stop the Heels. "Smoky" Ferebee, New Bern boy, made the longest run of the game when he dashed off tackle for 64 yards and a touchdown. Croom and Chandler made the other touchdowns for Carolina. The win gave Carolina the "Big Five" title.

A large body of students are expected to accompany the Wolfpack squad to Columbia, and special accommodations are being featured to the State students by the South Carolina City.

The Carolina Bus Company will have agents on the campus today and tomorrow with bus tickets for sale, it was announced. It could not be learned what time the buses would start for Columbia, but it was understood they will leave the campus at an early hour Saturday morning. The distance to Columbia is 210 miles.

Tar Heels And Duke Stage Big Five Finale Tomorrow

ROBERT McQUAGE GETS 183 YARDS

State Quarterback Carries Ball Ten Times for Records Against Dukemen

Bob McQuage, State College quarterback and star in State's win over Duke University Saturday, set something of a yardage record for North Carolina this fall when he carried the ball 10 times for 183 yards against the Blue Devils.

McQuage's longest run came on his touchdown jaunt when he ran through practically the whole Duke team for 64 yards from the line of scrimmage. He stepped off 50 more on an intercepted pass for his next longest gain.

Not contented with running wild and scoring a touchdown, this all-State general candidate place-kicked two extra points, averaged 39 yards on nine punts and then did some nifty passing.

McQuage was ably supported in the backfield by Don Wilson who literally tore the Duke line to shreds on his sweeping end runs and off-tackle plays. Wilson was seldom stopped for less than five yards. Hank McLawhorn, getting his first starting role, made State's second touchdown when he outstripped four Duke men after taking Wilson's 12-yard pass on Duke's 36 yard line.

State's line played a bang-up game but especially bright was the play of Red Espey, center; Capt. Charlie Cobb, tackle; Bud Rose, end; and Willie Duke and Romeo LeFort, guards. Espey and Cobb are State's two line candidates for all-State. Espey, in outplaying Emery Adkins Saturday, outplayed a possible all-Southern man. Bud Rose is a new find in the Wolfpack camp and was playing his first game against the Blue Devils as a regular.

Standing of Big Five Teams Depends on Outcome of Tomorrow's Tilt

WOLFPACK AND DUKEMEN TIED LEAGUE TODAY

Wake Forest and Davidson Meet in Football Final on Thanksgiving Day; Should Duke Win Over Carolina and Wake Forest Over Davidson, the Deacons Will be Tied With Wolves for Third Place in Big Five.

Standing Big Five teams, including games of week ending November 14.

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Carolina	3	0	1.000
N. C. State	2	2	.500
Duke	1	1	.500
Wake Forest	1	2	.333
Davidson	0	2	.000

*Played to scoreless tie October 17.

The gridiron curtain will be lowered tomorrow in regard to football play among Big Five teams, and Carolina all ready has the season's championship tucked safely in the Chapel Hill camp.

The result of the Carolina-Duke battle tomorrow, and incidentally the only Big Five tilt, will certainly have a direct bearing on the standing of other teams in the league.

Today, State and Duke are tied for second place in the loop and the Heel-Devil game will decide whether Duke drops in favor of the Wolfpack as runners-up, or holds the position herself. If the Blue Devils play the brand of ball that was issued against State last Saturday, they are bound to recede in the standing. While should Carolina be defeated by the once-powerful Duke team, State will finish third. Duke was beaten badly by the Wolfpack, and was considerably outclassed, but the result of the game last Saturday can not be relied on too strongly for the showing the Devils may issue against Carolina. Duke has had what would be called a successful season up to the State game and Carolina, likewise, can boast of worthy victories over strong clubs, and it can be assured (Please turn to page six) in nature's own mild way!

EVERYONE knows now that Camels are the fresh cigarette.

If inquiry went deeper, it would reveal that Camels are the natural moisture cigarette.

That's important, because in handling fine tobaccos, when you process out natural moisture, you sacrifice freshness and flavor too.

Camel smokers needn't worry about that, because Camels are blended of fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that are never subjected to violent processing. They need no parching or toasting to make them smooth, palatable, cool.

That's why the Camel Humidor Pack is such a boon to Camel smokers—it preserves the freshness, flavor, natural moisture, fragrance that are in this fine cigarette to start with.

Camels are fresh in nature's own mild way, and if you want to see what that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to them for just one day — then leave them, if you can!

The first of these smokers will be held Friday night and Colonel Magruder will have as his guests the regimental staff and the cadet major, cadet adjutant, and cadet company commanders of the first battalion. GROSS AND BROCK TALK TO FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL

Short talks by C. N. Gross and H. Y. Brock featured the weekly meeting of the Freshman Friendship Council held in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night, November 12. D. K. Clodfelter presided. Brock, in his talk, stressed the necessity of choosing a leader for the organization and stated that the Council could be of great service to the students.

C. N. Gross spoke on the preparation for offices and the purpose of the council work. "There are three main points to follow to carry out the council work: To follow the 'Y' motto, which is to create, maintain and extend throughout the campus a more Christian-like attitude; to observe the proper attitude toward your fellow classmates; and to influence others by the power of example," said Gross.

The group divided into two groups with a student at the head of each. The group leaders elected were J. F. Pou and M. H. Gattlin. Each of these groups were divided into two smaller groups, which will be under the direct supervision of some "y" worker. The leaders of the smaller groups are J. L. Burnett, M. W. Gardner, W. J. Trent and L. H. Martin.

It was decided by the future meetings would be held every Thursday night at 6:30.

Faculty Dance

The Faculty Dance which was scheduled for the first of December has been postponed until the eighth of December, according to Major P. W. Price.

A concert trip of the State College Entertainers through the eastern part of this state, planned for the same date, makes the dance impossible since the college orchestra will be away with the other musical organizations.

This dance is the first in a series of dances with which the faculty will be entertained during the school year and is being sponsored by the Mu Beta Psi, national honorary music fraternity. The music for these dances will be furnished by the State College Jazz Orchestra under the direction of "Daddy" Price.

STATE DEBATERS ENGAGE DEACONS

Forensic Meet on "Centralized Industry" Scheduled for Monday Night

The State College debating team will open its season Monday night in the State College Y. M. C. A. at 7 o'clock when it meets the strong Wake Forest team. The question will be "Resolved, that Congress should enact legislation providing for a centralized control of industry." This is the question propounded by the Pi Kappa Delta, national debating fraternity.

In the semi-final trials for the debating team, J. E. Gill of Henderson took first place and Dwight Stokes of Newsome placed second. L. M. Knott of Wendell and Catherine Harding of Raleigh tied for third place. The team will be chosen from these four.

The record of debating teams from State College in the last several years is exceptionally good. The 1929-30 team, composed of E. W. Buchanan and M. B. Amos, won 11 matches and lost 3, while the 1930-31 team, composed of Amos, Archie Ward, Dwight Stokes and J. E. Gill, won 16 and lost four.

During this two-year period representatives of the College won three state titles and three Southern championships in individual competitions. Professor E. H. Paget is coach of the debating team and orators.

Three other contests are scheduled. They are: November 25, Wake Forest at Apex and two meets with North Carolina University, December 3 and 4.

that a game jammed full of grid thrills will be on tap in Durham tomorrow. With the Wolfpack journeying out of the State and the other two Big Five teams remaining idle over the week-end, all attention will turn to ward Durham. The contest is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Wake Forest and Davidson meet in the grand finale of the league's games Thanksgiving Day in Charlotte. The result of this game will be instrumental in the Deacons' finishing stand. Wake Forest is close on the Wolfpack heels in the race, and should they win over the plucky Wildcat eleven will conclude the season with a 500 per cent average. Should Duke win her game from Carolina, and Wake Forest win over Davidson, this means the Deacons will be tied with State for third place, while should Duke lose the Devils will drop even below the fourth-place team. Davidson is out of the picture entirely in regard to honors with other Big Five teams, despite the fact that a
