DISCARD FLOATS IN 1932 PARADE OF ENGINEERMEN

Dates for Engineers' Fair Set by Councilmen for March 31
Through April 2

LARGER WORKING UNIT AMONG PLANS FOR 1932

Committees Appointed at Meeting
Held in Page Hall on Tuesday;
Huge Green Snake Will Again
Appear in Parade This Year;
Large Crowd Expected to View
Exhibits; Plan Much Publicity
During Year.

Individual departmental floats will not appear in the parade on the night of March 31, at the Engineer's Fair to be held from March 31 through April 2, according to the plans made by the Engineers Council at a meeting Tuesday, December 8, in Page Hall. Some new attraction, the nature of which has not been divulged, will take the place of this feature.

Plans for the coming fair include a larger working organization for handling the fair proper, the parade and the Grand Brawl. Changes in the makeup of the parade were decided upon and an intensive publicity campaign was formulated.

The huge green snake will be in the parade again next year. Complete plans for the parade are not ready but the Council anticipates a bigger and better parade than before. The departmental exhibits are expected to be more interesting than ever before with a possible change in location.

The Council expects that the proposed publicity campaign will draw a large number of spectators to the fair in the spring. Plans are being considered for bringing a number of high school students from various parts of the State to the fair for the purpose of increasing the general state-wide appreciation of the engineering school.

The following committees were appointed: Fair committee, R. H. Weisner, Joseph Hendricks; parade committee, W. L. Belvine, J. L. Williams; brawl committee, C. C. Morrison, G. E. Ritchie; publicity committee, J. C. Whitehurst, L. M. Knott; alumni committee, Weisner; deans committee, T. L. Hodges; snake committee, Hendricks, Knott; ritual committee, Williams, Belvine, Hodges; reception committee, C. S. Ireson. Each of these committees was instructed to be prepared to submit to the Council at the first meeting in January a plan of the work it is to do in connection with the fair.

SCOTT MAKES ADDRESS TO LOCAL GRANGE MEN

State Grange Master Suggests Students Secure Regular Meeting Hall

W. Kerr Scott, State Grange Master, spoke to the Student Grange meeting in Pullen Hall Thursday night, December 3, urging the local chapter to do all in its power to induce the National Grange to meet in Raleigh next year. Several cities in the state are bidding for the national meeting, but no city has been selected as yet. "This is the second time in the history of the sixty-seven years of the Grange that the organization meets both the Mason and Dixon line," said Mr. Scott.

Scott suggested that the local Student Grange secure a regular Grange Hall. He further recommended that they canvass all the State Department of Agriculture employees for membership.

The entertainment portion of the program was furnished by the Grange quartette, led by Robert Evans. Their music was well received by the audience.

Harry Caldwell, the State Grange lecturer, stated that the Grange will be open for charter members until the next meeting. He announced that Governor O. Max Gardner's application for membership in the local chapter had been received and that his name had been placed on the list of charter members.

De Molays Meet

The De Molay degree team of Winston-Salem, by courtesy, will confer the second degree on Arthur Grumbine and A. H. Maxwell, State College students, on January 11.

The degree will be given before the three Masonic lodges of Raleigh and the Lodge of Perfection No. 7. These Masonic lodges, with A. H. Grimbshaw, H. A. Cox and L. Polk Denmark, local advisers, are assisting in the organization of the defunct Raleigh chapter of this organization.

Combination

A feature of the State-Wake Forest-Davidson and the Carolina-Duke game last Saturday was the merger of the bands from each college into one 275 piece orchestra.

P. W. "Daddy" Price, director of music at State College, was invited to direct the huge band.

Never before in the history of this State has there been such a display of musical talent. The bands, dressed in their particular school uniform, presented a very pleasing picture, and a special program was offered as the musicians paraded to the center of the field for several numbers.

STATE GRADUATE TO CIRCLE GLOBE

P. J. F. Pepler of Class of 1929 Praises Alma Mater For Good Preparation

By J. E. HULL

A recent letter to Dr. G. W. Forster, head of the department of agricultural economics at State College, disclosed the fact that a former graduate of the department of Agricultural Economics was on a tour around the world in the interest of his firm. The former State College student and graduate of the class of '29 is P. J. F. Pepler, formerly of Bloomfontein, South Africa and now of New York City.

Pepler is circulating the globe as a representative of Vick's Vaporub, which he introduces as the foe of coughs and sneezes. In these days when new records are being hung up every few weeks, he figures that he has a good chance of at least tying the original record for a round-the-world trip made by Magellan some 400 years ago. Pepler is not out to seek speed laurels but is making numerous stop-overs in order to distribute the Vick's products. His headquarters is now at the "Alexander Young Hotel," Honolulu, Hawaii, where he will be stationed until December 16. From there, he goes to Australia, where he will establish a new branch laboratory for the company. Other stops on his itinerary include the Dutch East Indies, Malaysia, Siam, Ceylon, and India. New Zealand will be visited before he goes to Australia.

Although not directly connected with agricultural work Pepler says that his courses in agricultural economics, especially, economics, marketing principles, and sociology, are the fundamentals which when rounded out by his training, qualified him for the present position he holds.

He also expressed in the letter his appreciation to State College as his Alma Mater and his devotion to the institution; especially to the faculty and student body.

New Cards

Registration card for the second term will be white and will bear the same picture as that on the first term cards, announces W. L. Mayer, director of registration, and the old cards may not be used for identification or for any other purposes.

Students who make all their winter term changes and pay the treasurer in full before they leave for the Christmas vacation need not be present on January 1.

Applications for an extension of credit should be made prior to January 1. The treasurer will be in his office to confer with any student about his financial problems every day before the holidays and on December 30 and 31. Pre-arrangements for registration must be made in person and not by proxy, letter or telephone, according to the Treasurer.

Delta Sigma Pi Fraternity Hears Fountain On Sunday

University of North Carolina and N. C. State College Chapters of International Commerce Fraternity Hold Joint Initiations With Banquet; Lieutenant-Governor Assails Short Ballot in Address

Lieutenant-Governor R. T. Fountain was the principal speaker at the initiation banquet held last Sunday evening at the Carolina Hotel by the State College and University of North Carolina chapters of the Delta Sigma Pi, national commerce fraternity.

The address by Mr. Fountain brought to a close the initiation by the chapters of the two schools. During the afternoon, the initiation was held in Feele Hall and the rituals of the organization were introduced to the new members. Those initiated from the University of North Carolina were: J. W. Stallings, J. E. Kennedy, S. R. Scott, P. P. Rentrow, David Proctor, Henry Sullivan, Louis Sullivan, from the State College were: R. O. Anderson, A. R. Guthrie, J. L. Carter, W. J. Edwards, W. F. Scarborough, E. T. Baysden, W. Collier, A. C. Cannon, C. C. Parks, H. L. Russ, M. H. Hutchinson.

In this address to the fraternities, Mr. Fountain commented on the fact that the men present seemed to have a high degree of purpose and he made the remark that he thought from his observation that he could say that he was unable to spot a cake-eater in the group.

"During the last 10 years," continued Mr. Fountain, "we have been taught to do things, but this one ideal has been emphasized so much that we are beginning to wonder what there is to do in the future." "It seems today that the college graduate is in about the same fix as the farmer who goes to market and finds that the prices are fixed on the products that he has to sell. We need a little more democracy in things."

Assails Short Ballot

Mr. Fountain denounced the short ballot as "nothing but organized propaganda throughout the country." One of our biggest needs, he said, is to teach students how to manage the little things, pointing out that its harder to often times to do the little things well than it is to govern large things. We must reverse our former policy and start again. We have been preaching that hugeness is the ideal; now we must break down the evils to which that policy has led us. "Whenever you destroy the right of the average man to consume, you are destroying big business, too," declared Mr. Fountain.

In closing he issued a challenge to those present to study this issue and to go out and fight for democracy.

Other short contributions to the program in speeches and talks were: the welcome to the visiting chapter by C. E. Brake, head master of the State College, the response by W. L. Higdon, head master of the Carolina chapter; Professor Goehring, State College; director of the Mid-Atlantic province, and Dr. Moen, faculty adviser of the State College chapter.

BRACE NEW HEAD LEAZAR SOCIETY

New Honor Gives Rocky Mount Student Presidency of Three Societies

C. E. Brake of Rocky Mount was elected president of the Leazar Literary Society for the winter term at the regular weekly meeting held last Friday evening in the Leazar Hall in the Y. M. C. A.

Brake is also president of Delta Sigma Pi, national commerce fraternity, and a member of Pine Burr scholarship fraternity.

The regular program was dispensed and the entire meeting was devoted to the election of officers and other pending business. The other officers are J. R. Salem, vice president; Van Shuping, secretary; E. G. Odum, treasurer; and L. M. Knott, clerk.

The retiring president, W. F. Wilson, automatically becomes sergeant at arms.

Mr. Wilson urged all members to be present at the next meeting, December 11, to participate in the induction ceremony for the new officers. The revival of this old custom, it is believed, will make the society's work more impressive.

Mr. Brake in his speech of acceptance stressed the importance of advertising the work of the Society. He also suggested that the group chairman spend ample time in preparing the programs. "By doing these two things," said Mr. Brake, "Leazar can regain its former prestige on the campus."

The society is now divided into two groups with J. R. Salem, and W. E. Braswell as chairman. The purpose of the two groups is to increase interest in the programs and to enlarge the attendance of the society.

THOMPSON MAKES SPEECH TO TEXTILE FRATERNITY

A. R. Thompson, Grand President of Phi Phi, national honorary textile fraternity, addressed the local chapter of the organization on Monday, December 7. The following night, Tuesday, December 8, the fraternity entertained its members with a banquet in the Edenton Street Methodist church.

Mr. Thompson told his audience of the growth of the organization, bringing out the point that, although the fraternity was founded in the North, there are now more Southern chapters than Northern chapters. This, he stated, reflects the trend of the textile industry and also indicates that an increasing number of institutions are offering textile education in the South.

Wilson, of Raleigh, secretary, were Tuesday night elected to represent the institution at the seventh annual congress of the National Student Federation of America which meets in Toledo, Ohio, on December 27 through 31.

Frank Gorham, president of the N. C. Student Federation will also make the trip.

The National Student Federation is a non-religious and non-political, un-degraded organization, composed of representatives from student governing bodies of 130 of the 560 accredited colleges and universities of America. This organization took in the World Student Union.

DEAN RIDDICK SEEKS BAN OF SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER; SAYS HIS TENANT SUFFERS

Miss Ruth Lockman Speaks About Liquor On Wednesday

Traveling Secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association Tells of Drink Problem in Different Countries at Meeting Held in State College Y. M. C. A.;
Answers Questions on Liquors

Miss Ruth Lockman, traveling secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, delivered a lecture on the drink problem in the different countries of the world in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Wednesday night.

Miss Lockman told her listeners of the ways that liquors are dispensed in the various countries, dealing especially with the systems used by Canada and Sweden.

"Prohibition was tried in Canada but was a failure," said Miss Lockman, "and after this had failed the distribution of liquors was taken over by the Canadian government. By doing this the government obtained the profits made from the sales of drinks, and this was applied on the expenses of the government, thus reducing the taxes paid by the people. It further kept the liquor producers from becoming millionaires."

In 1917 all of the provinces in Canada except Quebec had prohibition. During the war a law was passed which prohibited the manufacture of liquors. This, however, did not prevent the importation of intoxicating beverages, and had but little effect upon the supply in that country as there is a law which requires the storing of liquors for two years before they can be sold.

After the war a new plan was decided upon by which the government took over the control of whiskeys, wines, and beers instead of dispensing them through open saloons, as was done before prohibition. In 1929 there was expended in Canada alone for drinks, over $192,000,000.

"Much has been said," declared Miss Lockman, "on the subject of the consumption of liquors in Canada by Americans. It would be interesting to know that out of over 8,000,000 American tourists in 1929, only about 88,000 took out liquor permits. This is only about one American out of a hundred that used the privilege. Of the residents in Toronto about one out of every eight secured permits."

With the Canadian system there has been a constant increase in the amount of liquors consumed.

In Sweden another system is used. This system, instituted by Dr. Brat, has since been known as the Brat system. To be eligible for a permit, a man must have high qualifications prescribed by the government, and in case of abuse of this permit it is taken from him. There has been a steady increase in the drinks consumed in Sweden yearly.

Miss Lockman answered questions asked her after the lecture on the prohibition problem in this country and the drink question which confronts the colleges today.

She is a native of South Carolina and a graduate of Winthrop College. After graduating, she took graduate work at Columbia University. She has traveled extensively in Canada and abroad and has made a special study of the drink question.

Engineering Head Does Not Deny Statement of Steward L. H. Harris

HARRIS WILL CONTINUE SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS

Engineering Dean is Prominent Property Holder in Vicinity of State College; Board is Decreased This Year by Request of Steward Harris; Dining Hall
Closed Last Year to Secure
Money for Charity.

"My tenant will feel the effects of keeping the dining hall open on Sunday nights," Dr. Wallace Carl Riddick told L. H. Harris, steward of the college, in placing a suggestion that the dining hall be closed with a corresponding decrease in the price of board.

The engineering dean, when questioned about the statement, did not make a denial, but said that "in connection with Mr. Harris, I asked him if he intended giving Sunday night lunches permanently, to which Mr. Harris replied 'as long as I am with the college.'"

Dr. Riddick quotes Mr. Harris as saying that he felt it necessary for the dining hall to keep open on Sunday nights in order that it might compete with the boarding houses. The college steward replied that the Sunday night servings would mean additional hours for himself and his help, but that he was there practically all the time anyway and since the help was already paid there was no reason why the dining hall should not be kept open.

Mr. Harris, when asked by Dr. Riddick about the cost to each student of a Sunday night meal, replied that the price was between 14 and 16 cents. The Dean then asked, "Don't you think the students would prefer a reduction of 60 to 70 cents from their board each month rather than have the Sunday night suppers?" To this question Mr. Harris replied "No."

Dean Riddick is a prominent property owner in the vicinity of the college. To ban Sunday night suppers would mean about $250 increased sales for his storekeeper tenant a month.

The dining hall was closed last year by a vote of the student body whose desire was to give their Sunday night lunch money to aid charity and Steward Harris only continued the lunches recently.

Board was decreased this year from $100 to $15.50 at the request of Mr. Harris. This decrease was made partially because of the decreasing costs of food and labor and to further encourage students to eat in the college dining hall.

Mr. Harris informed The Technician that the dining hall would be kept open as long as he was with the institution. "It is not fair that the students be deprived of food for eighteen hours," he says.

"It was not my intention to impose any additional burden on the students, and if Mr. Harris had the impression that I did so intend, he simply misunderstood me; but I did think and still think that some arrangement might be made about Sunday evening suppers, which would be fair to students and, at the same time, allow a little time off for employees in the boarding department. This arrangement might also help the Cafe and sandwich shops in the neighborhood, and I see no objection to this," Dr. Riddick said.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS HOLD MEET AT DURHAM

On last Sunday afternoon, a delegation from State College attended a meeting of the Student Volunteers at Duke University. This meeting consisted of an address and a picnic and was held as a preliminary to the meeting which will be held in Buffalo the latter part of this month.

The speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Frank Kingdon, East Orange, N. J. The State delegation was composed of C. W. Styron, J. L. Burnette, M. W. Gardner, W. J. Trent, L. A. Martin, M. H. Gatlin, J. F. Post, William New, J. L. Shepherd, D. M. Whitt, P. H. Cooper, and Mr. E. S. King.

In the first shoulder-to-shoulder match since rifle marksmanship was made a minor sport at State College, the N. C. State rifle team last Saturday morning defeated the U. of N. C. team in a match fired on the R. O. T. C. range by a score of 1,453 to 1,102.

Strickland of State was the high scorer of the match. He fired 187 out of a possible 200. Prated led the University team with a score of 166.

A return match for the two teams is scheduled for early next term.

Lt. Wm. E. Carraway, team coach, is also negotiating for shoulder-to-shoulder matches with Davidson, Duke and Wake Forest riflemen.

During the next term the N. C. State team will, as in other years, hold telegraphic matches with rifle teams representing universities and colleges throughout the country.

Presented for Your Approval
 Wishing to show the versatility and broad, comprehensive culture and learning of an alumnus whom we all know, I present the following excerpt from a trade journal editorial:
 "If we agreed with H. L. Mencken on anything we would feel that we had sunk very low and were unworthy to associate with decent people," Southern Textile Bulletin, David Clark, managing editor.
 Since the English language is an awkward and clumsy vehicle with which to express one's views, since co-eds (i.e., ladies) occasionally read this collegiate journal, and since the good taxpayers of this commonwealth, the majority of which can read, would probably be horrified beyond words, I forego any comment upon the above quotation.

Add Similes

As laughable as the honor system.

Open Season on Politicians

With state politicians, those strange animals who flutter through the countryside smiling and shaking hands and kissing babies, out in earnest for the governor's chair, one may wisely cancel subscriptions to humor magazines and devote his attention to the news columns of the various household organs throughout the state.

For the present campaign, as my clever readers have probably surmised, will be very, very funny. ("Funny," I believe, is the word best suited. "Amusing," although a very elegant word, connotes a situation provocative of quiet smiles, while the word "funny" brings to mind vociferous laughter bordering on a state of hysteria. Yes, "funny" is much better, thank you.)

The Honorable R. T. Fountain, a very astute gentleman who talks little and, by some unhappy turn of fate, says even less, has tossed his beaver in the ring and is now characterized as an individual open to all speaking engagements at which voters attend. Witness his recent speech before the local chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, in which he assailed the short ballot and called for more democracy—a form of government over which, if it were ever instituted, this politician would bow like an angered bull.

Yes, the campaign will be very funny indeed, if anyone should happen to ask you.

A Day of Reckoning Cometh

Now that the football season is over, students can settle down to such unattractive extra-athletic activities as classes, exams, and term papers. Such an unhappy condition will probably make many of the local habitues wonder why they ever came to college.

It Must Be Annoying

"That government which governs least governs best," some statesman of America's early years has advised, inferring that a strong, centralized rule was a dangerous mode of government and not to be approached lightly.

If this criterion can be relied upon, then the co-eds (sometimes facetiously designated as "women students") of this West Raleigh school have one of the best governments ever devised by the human mind.

For over a year, allow me to say by way of explanation, this seemingly perfect and apparently ingenious feminine rule has proceeded in a peaceful, calm, and untroubled way—forming a situation so incongruous that one is moved to doubt the femininity of the ruling hands. Not once have I heard of a young lady yanked on the carpet before the co-ed's student council; never has the information reached my horrified ears that a co-ed has been relieved of scholastic duties due to an abnormal interest in another's exam paper; and I have yet to hear even the faintest clicking of their governmental machinery.

In fact, the only evidence one has that such a co-ed rule exists lies in the fact that lads of this college occasionally gather to discuss and summarily denounce the government. Last year the boys' student government sent an impassioned plea to the board of trustees, praying that the local women be placed under their jurisdiction. And only a few days ago one of the literary societies of the campus devoted its valuable time to this weighty question, deciding that co-eds should end their little tea party and submit to masculine rule.

It must be rather annoying to be mentioned only when one is denounced.

No "Specialists"

Columbia University undergraduates have recently voiced their grievance over the practice of handing over the freshman and sophomore classes to young instructors with "specialized interests." The critics hold that underclassmen need the stimulus of older and experienced teachers more than the guidance of young specialists in a single field. This criticism brings to light the value of the new plans for teacher training in which the student is given a well balanced training, including actual laboratory experience as well as classroom work. It also shows the timeliness of the new tutorial systems and house plans fast becoming popular in this country.

AGRICULTURAL SENIORS HOLD MEET WEDNESDAY

Thomas and Coggins Speak on "Young Tarheel Farmer" Organization

Seniors in Agricultural Education last Wednesday, December 9, heard Roy H. Thomas and J. K. Coggins, State Supervisors of Vocational Education, describe the Young Tarheel Farmers, state chapter of the Future Farmers of America, which is an organization of vocational agriculture students in high schools throughout the United States. Supervisor Thomas told them that there are thirteen thousand students doing project work under the supervision of teachers of agriculture in the 185 vocational agriculture departments of high schools of the state, of which 27 are in negro schools.

He told his audience of the objects of the organization and of its service, closing by quoting Dr. E. C. Brooks as saying, "Properly trained vocational agriculture students are the best type of farm relief for America."

Supervisor Coggins gave the seniors a detailed account of the work that the Tarheel Farmers were doing throughout the state. He said that the local chapters compete in the

Announcements

Students desiring rooms in the dormitories for the second term are requested by the college to make reservations at the office of the superintendent of dormitories, T. T. Wellons, before leaving school for the Christmas holidays.

There are vacant rooms in South, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th dormitories and several rooms in 1911 with only one occupant.

Students who will not be in school during the second term, and those planning to move off the campus at the beginning of the second term, have been requested to check out of dormitories and turn their keys in to Mr. Wellons before leaving for home.

Students who will remain on the campus during the holidays have been asked to make arrangements with students residing in Watauga and 4th dormitories, as the heat will be cut off in the other dormitories during this period.

Various contests, both state and national, in connection with the work they were doing; publish "The Tarheel Talks"; put on entertainments; hold student fairs; and carry out programs of improvements in the schools where the chapters are located.

"BANDED" TOGETHER

Since there has been no money appropriated for entertainments and speakers for this year, Major P. W. Daddy Price has offered a suggestion of musical reciprocity. The proposal is sound and worth-while.

For the first time in North Carolina athletic history, the bands of the Big Five schools gathered at Duke University Saturday to do their part in a charity football classic. The band played as a unit and were well received. Outside of this gathering, bands furnished music primarily at football games.

Major Price's suggestion is to have the band of each Big Five school play on a given date at some other Big Five school by reciprocal agreement. This plan will give students the opportunity of hearing different musical entertainment, it will establish a more friendly relationship between the various schools, it will afford the college bands an opportunity to advertise their worth from diplomatic and an ability standpoint.

Any thing that will tend toward bringing North Carolina colleges and college students closer together is highly worth-while.

Duke University, described by the president of the State College student body as the school "we" once despised, has won a place in the hearts of our student body by their friendly act of playing the "college song" during a recent football game. This act is only typical of what a college band can do for its institution.

The meeting of bands annually could be made as eventful as an athletic classic and accomplish as much good among the respective student bodies of the State.

The schedule of engagements could be worked out among the band directors of the colleges, but the support of more than one college is needed to make this suggested plan practical. The entire venture calls for the support of student publications of the State and the support of the student bodies of North Carolina.

PUBLIC PROTECTION

The City of Raleigh has paid little attention to the pleas of North Carolina State College students to install a stop-light on Hillsboro Street for their protection. They have made idle promises since the opening of school, but still the hazardous crossing where two persons have recently been killed remains as a future area for possible tragedy.

It is unbelievable that the Raleigh municipal authorities would permit their citizens to be placed, every day, in a position wherein they place their lives in their own hands when crossing Hillsboro Street near the college.

It is unbelievable that the Raleigh Government will not remedy the traffic hazard for the benefit of the State College student body.

The City can look back with shame to the deaths of two of her citizens, and yet months have gone by and the authorities have turned deaf ears to requests for protection.

ENGINEERS' FAIR

The Engineers' Council makes announcement this week for a bigger and better engineers' fair. This annual affair is a worth-while advertisement to the institution.

Hundreds of North Carolina citizens come to State College yearly for this event. Hundreds of projects are displayed during the fair which places on exhibit the combined efforts of a great school within our institution.

Faculty members have wondered as to the advisability of continuing this event. Let not your hearts be troubled—believe ye in good advertisement—believe ye in the engineers' fair.

It is with regret that the student body learns that a feature of the fair will be abolished—the individual departmental fairs will be missing this year, but that the fair will be continued is pleasing.

Problem: how to answer a million a day

Users of Bell System service ask "Information" more than 1,000,000 questions every day. Providing facilities for answering them promptly, correctly, was one problem put up to engineers of the Bell System.

So effective was their solution that this prodigious task is now a matter of smooth routine. They designed desks which enable each operator to reach quickly the listings of some 15,500,000 telephones. They developed apparatus which automatically routes calls to operators not busy—and should all operators be busy at once, it stores up calls and releases them in the order received!

Efficient telephone service depends upon working out interesting problems like this.

DUKOLINA WINS CHARITY EVENT BY 14-0 SCORE

Mope Cumiskey Best Ground Gainer in Tilt Played at Duke Saturday

FIFTY-NINE STAR MEN SEE ACTION SATURDAY

State-Wake Forest-Davidson Exhibits Smooth Club; Slusser and Croom Score Only Touchdowns; Captain Cobb Stars as Tackle With Williams and Webb of Deacons; McQuage Proves Good General in Game.

A Carolina-Duke football combination won from the State-Wake Forest-Davidson players in the final grid contest of the season by a 14 to 0 score. The game was played last Saturday at the Duke stadium, and was sponsored by the State of North Carolina to raise money for the unemployed in this section.

Neither team was able to score until the last period, then Dukolina showed across two touchdowns. Nick Laney, Duke, heaved a pass to Carolina's Rip Slusser, who ran ten yards to score. The other counter came as the result of an intercepted pass. The Wakeidon combination had reached the visitors 24-yard line when a pass was attempted, but only to be intercepted by Bill Croom, Carolina, who raced 80 yards to a touchdown.

A total of 59 grid stars saw action in the game, with the losers using more players than the victors.

Disregarding the score the Wakeidon combination presented a much smoother working club than the Dukolina team. Although the five teams practiced together only a few days, a well-balanced and clicking machine was presented and the 5,000 spectators saw the cream of North Carolina football players merged into two teams and perform.

Mope Cumiskey, State's sophomore fullback, was easily the best ground gainer of the charity game, averaging five yards on every run. Dink Dellinger, a senior who was playing his last game, also contributed several good runs. In the line, Captain Charlie Cobb, started at tackle with two other big fellows: Webb and Williams of Wake Forest. State's center, Red Espey, looked to be the best of the pivot men on the field. He failed to make a single bad pass and with two good guards, Doc Mathis of Davidson and Johnny Dupree of Wake Forest to assist him, opened up big holes in the Dukolina line. On defense, Espey and these two guards were just as effective.

Wolfpack Have Lots Boys
Other State men playing in the game were: Bob Greason, Francis Scholl and Sam Gurneau, ends; Milo Stroupe, tackle; Willie Duke, guards; Don Wilson and Hank McLawhorn, halfbacks; and Bob McQuage, center. McQuage, incidentally, continued to demonstrate his ability as a quarterback. He ran the Wakeidon-State team well and was good at kicking and returning punts.

Collects Clothes
Blue Key, national leadership fraternity, is collecting old clothing on the campus to be distributed to Raleigh's needy poor for Christmas. Dormitories and fraternity houses are included in the canvass.

Plans have been revealed here for the construction of a Knute Rockne Memorial Field in Marine Park, Brooklyn, with a stadium seating more than 100,000 people, to be used in big football games.—Erskine College, Mirror.

Wolves Ring Down Curtain In Charity Game Saturday

Election of 1932 Gridiron Captain is Finale for Wolfpack Players

Nineteen thirty-one football days are definitely over for N. C. State's Wolfpack. The players completed their gridiron duties for the season last Saturday when they participated in Gov. O. Max Gardner's battle for charity.

Only one more thing is left for this year Wolfpack to do and that is to elect a captain for the 1932 team. This is expected to be done in the next week or two.

The captain for the 1932 Wolfpack team will be elected at the annual barbecue, which is given by the Wake County alumni club. The barbecue is usually held at the fairgrounds and members of both the varsity and freshman squads are invited.

The date for the affair has not been announced as yet, but will probably be given before the Christmas holidays.

Romeo LeFort, Frank Gorham, Bud Rose and Dink Dellinger, four seniors who completed their football days at State College this fall, worked under four head coaches during their three years on the varsity squad. Gus Tebell had them their sophomore year, John M. Van Liew and Ray R. Sermon, the next fall and John P. "Clipper" Smith, this season.

ALL-STATE TEAM NAMED BY DIXON

Cobb, Espey and McQuage Are Picked by College Writer On First Team

(Editor's Note.—This all-State team is picked by Fred Dixon, sports editor of the State College news bureau. Dixon has seen State play eight of its nine games this fall and has seen all of the other Big Five schools in action from which this team is picked.)

Position	First Team	Second Team
Right End
Right Tackle	McIver (Carolina), Fysal (Carolina)
Right Guard
Center	Mathis (Davidson), LeFort (State)
Right Guard
Fullback	Underwood (Carolina)
Right Half	Walker (Carolina), Rose (State)
Quarterback	McQuage (State), Ferebee (Carolina)
Right Half	Laney (Duke), Croom (Carolina)
Right Half	Brewer (Duke), Kinken (State)
Fullback

Carolina's two ends, Brown and Walker are given the edge over Hyatt of Duke and Bud Rose of State. Hyatt was first string all-State last year but the elongated Blue Devil has not played as good this fall. Rose showed himself to be the best end in the state in State's games with Duke and South Carolina and would easily have landed on the first string if he had seen more action this season.

Cream of the Crop
Charlie Cobb is the best pick of the tackles. Underwood of Carolina ranks next with Williams of Wake Forest and Stroupe of State next. Stroupe would probably have been placed on the first string except for the injury that kept him out of the Wolfpack's earlier games.

The guard berths were rather difficult to pick. The first vote goes to McIver of Carolina with Mathis of Davidson rating the next first string job. Romeo LeFort of State and Ellis Fysal of Carolina get the second string jobs. Willie Duke of State, Johnny Dupree of Wake Forest and Joe Sink of Duke are men difficult to leave off.

Red Espey, State's red-headed center, is the pick of pivot men. Espey has played like a house afire this year. Red Glibbreath of Carolina ranks second with Gardner of Davidson third. Adkins of Duke and Cornwell of Wake Forest tie for the fourth team, if you desire to go that far.

I pick Bob McQuage of State for the quarterback post. No doubt Johnny Branch of Carolina is the best field general in the branch, but the suspending of Branch should keep him off. McQuage can pass, punt and return punts with the best in the State. Smokey Ferebee of Carolina is given the quarterback job on the second team.

The halfback jobs were the most difficult to pick except in the case of Carolina's blond haired speedster, Rip Slusser, who is without doubt the best halfback in the State. Nick Laney, Duke's sophomore ace, is ranked next to Slusser. Croom of Carolina and King of Davidson are placed on the second team, Hank McLawhorn, Don Wilson, both of State, Pierce of Davidson and Dunc Wilson of Wake Forest are other good backs.

Captain Kid Brewer of Duke is the pick of the fullbacks. Phil Kinken and Mope Cumiskey of State are on a par for the second team post. I pick Kinken, as he is a more consistent player.

WOLVES TO PLAY SIX HOME GAMES

Clemson and Davidson Grid Classics Will Be Played on Riddick Field

The 1932 football schedule for State College, released here today by Dr. R. R. Sermon, athletic director, contains three new schools and shifts in three important dates.

Instead of opening with Davidson at Greensboro, State will begin the season by either playing Elon, High Point or Lenoir-Rhyne at Raleigh in a night game on September 24. The Davidson game is pending, with the date set for November 5, at Raleigh.

The Clemson game, usually played in Charlotte, has been moved to Raleigh and will be played October 8. The other change is the shifting of the State Fair game with Wake Forest from Thursday afternoon to Saturday afternoon of Fair Week. The Deacon tilt will be played October 15 at Raleigh.

New schools on the schedule are: Richmond University, University of Pittsburgh and either Elon, Lenoir-Rhyne or High Point.

Six of the ten games will be played at home. One date, November 19, is open.

PUGILISTS ARE PAIRED FOR ACTION THIS WEEK

College Boxers Meet Virginia Polytech in Initial Battle January 16

LAST YEAR'S FRESHMEN CAUSING VARSITY WORRY

North Carolina State's boxers will get in the ring this week for the first time since they started training a month ago.

Coach C. H. Elms, in looking over the large group of candidates Monday afternoon, said they were in good shape and ready to start using the gloves. The boxers will be paired off by weights and according to Elms, will box only short rounds this week, but will soon be going through the regular three rounds.

Last year's freshman are causing some of the monogram wearers much worry, says Coach Elms. One of the most promising sophomores is Charles Gardner of Portsmouth, Va., in the 145 pound class. Gardner is fast, shifty and a heavy puncher. Jimmy Pointer, a Raleigh boy, is also coming up fast. He is fighting in the 125-pound weight. Alfred Welling of Charlotte, 115-pound freshman star last winter, has moved up 10 pounds. Myron Rhyne, Kings Mountain, 135 pounds, and Bill Perritt, Jacksonville, Fla., 145 pounds, are other promising sophomores.

Joshua Hull of Washington, N. C., a senior, is showing real promise in the 160-pound division. Hull was a member of the varsity club last winter, but did not make a club.

William "Red" Espey, co-captain of the varsity team with H. E. Karig, reported for duty last week. Espey looks to be in perfect condition following three months of hard work on the football team. Coach Elms said that he did not expect the injury to Espey's chest to have any effect upon his boxing this winter. Red's wind is good, as he generally leads the hopefuls in their two-mile run and seems to have little trouble in punching the heavy bag at a fast clip.

Three other members of this fall's Wolfpack have reported for boxing. They are: Robert Gillespie, unclassified; Hank McLawhorn and Winford Patton, 160-pound class. James Sutton, member of last year's wrestling squad is also seeking the 160-pound job.

The boxers have been in training for a month. The work has consisted largely of road work, shadow boxing, rope skipping, bag punching and individual instruction by the coach.

Coach Elms is expecting a good year this winter. He has carried six meets, the first with V. P. I. at Raleigh, January 16. The other five are: Duke at Raleigh, January 29; South Carolina at Raleigh, February 6; Washington and Lee at Raleigh, February 13; Maryland at College Park, February 20 and The Citadel at Charlotte, on either February 3 or 9.

Made FRESH

never parched, never toasted

CAMELS are KEPT Fresh!

You probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos. But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance. That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat. Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting. With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack. If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing—switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can.

We know why men smoke PIPES

WOMEN don't smoke pipes. They're not the style for women. But pipe are the style for men, and more than that, a pipe and good tobacco gives a man greater smoking pleasure than tobacco in any other form.
In 42 out of 54 American colleges and universities Edgeworth is the favorite pipe tobacco. Cool slow-burning burleys give this fine tobacco exactly the character that college men like best of all.

A pipe is not for girls

Try a tin of Edgeworth yourself! You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or if you prefer, you can get a special sample packet free: write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va., and ask for it.
