GREAVES-WALKER MADE PRESIDENT BY CERAMIC MEN

State Professor Selected at Merger of Keramos and Beta Pi Kappa Meet

ORGANIZATION MEMBERS MEET PRESIDENT HOOVER

Dozen North Carolina State Representatives at Meeting; Beta Pi Kappa at State Will be Changed to Keramos; Inspection Trip Carries Fraters to Baltimore and New York; Students Return to State Monday

Professor A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the Ceramic Engineering Department, was elected the first national president of Keramos, national ceramic fraternity after its merger with Beta Pi Kappa at a convention in Washington, D. C. on February 6, attended by seven student delegates from the former local chapter of Beta Pi Kappa. The new fraternity will use the former Beta Pi Kappa badge, ritual and coat of arms.

W. L. Fabianic, teaching fellow, A. M. Greaves-Walker, '29, Joe R. Parsons, '30, and E. H. Shands, '31 also attended the meet. The students were: C. C. Morrison, W. C. Bangs, G. J. Grimes, H. E. Craven, Jr., E. C. Davidson, J. H. Ienhour and E. H. Atwood.

While in Washington the group was received by President Hoover. After the convention the party went on their annual inspection trip, visiting Baltimore and New York. While in Baltimore the group visited electrical porcelain, enamel, sanitary ware, glass and fruit plants, and in New York the students had an opportunity to see the use of mic products in the world's largest buildings, subways and tunnels. While in Washington the delegation visited government bureaus, laboratories and museums.

The party returned to the campus Monday.

SUMMER SESSION DRAWS INTEREST OF TEACHERS

Director Browne Says Training Means More Jobs and Higher Pay to Teachers

T. E. Browne, Director of the State College Summer School, states that there are evidences of a growing interest in the coming 1932 session.

Browne attributes this to the fact that teachers are realizing that the competition for the best teaching jobs is growing sharper, and the teacher who is willing to spend a part of the vacation period on professional improvement will be sought by superintendents and principals employing teachers.

"Then, too," he continued, "during this biennium there is no salary increment due to experience, but the higher grade certificates commands a higher salary. That is to say, the only chance teachers in service have of commanding a higher salary next year is to raise the grade of their certificates through additional credits."

BROOKS NAMED IN MILK TO INCREASE MILK USE

"Milk-for-Health" Campaign to be Staged by North Carolina Board of Health

Dr. E. C. Brooks has been named on the advisory board of the state-wide "Milk-for-Health" campaign being sponsored by the North Carolina Board of Health during the week of March 14-20.

Other members of the board are Governor O. Max Gardner, Dr. James M. Parrott, State Health Officer; W. A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture; Mrs. W. T. Boat, Commissioner of Public Welfare; and Dr. A. T. Allen, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The object of the campaign is to promote the use of more milk. The campaign is similar to those put on in thirty states which increased the milk consumption in these states an average of twelve per cent.

ELEVEN ILL LAST WEEK IN COLLEGE INFIRMARY

Eleven students were in the college infirmary the past week for treatment. They are: F. A. McGowan, T. B. Lester, H. E. Gray, J. L. Smith, L. C. Helms, H. C. Meares, H. L. McKinley, H. R. Clapp, M. G. Elliott, Charles Cobb, E. G. Jones.

SMALL AUDIENCE SEES TWO PLAYS

Red Masquers Stage "He Loved An Actress" and "Happy Journey" Wednesday

By ALEX C. NEWTON

The "Happy Journey" and "He Loved an Actress," two one-act plays, featuring an experiment in amateur dramatics, were presented to a small audience in Pullen Hall Wednesday night by Red Masquers, State College dramatic club. "The Happy Journey," a short comedy by Thornton Wilder, depicted an automobile journey made by a city family in visiting a married daughter in another town. The play appealed to the imagination of the audience, as there was no scenery and few costumes. The automobile in which the trip was supposed to be made consisted of four chairs arranged as the front and rear seats of a touring car. The front seats were occupied by the father, which was portrayed rather well by Prof. A. M. Fountain, and alternately by the two children, Arthur and Caroline, played by Hugh Evans and LeNeve Zimmerman, while the back seat was ballasted by Ma herself (Catherine Harding), who had to say goodby to numerous female neighbors (all played by G. G. Nye), before she could leave. On the way to their married daughter's (Mary Hugh McDonald's) home they had various comical encounters with hot dog stands and an obliging filling station attendant (J. D. Swain), who couldn't sell them anything. The act took the audience by surprise and was rather well done in the opinion of this writer. All of the players carried out their parts well, and LeNeve Zimmerman would have been excellent as the big-eyed, bad-mannered, younger daughter if she had been able to refrain from giggling between lines.

The first of the three short features was a parody on the recent Lenz-Culbertson bridge feud, which was conducted by Robert G. Bennett. Between roller skating stunts and piano playing exhibitions, Bennett had one team composed of a tough and a henpeck make a grand slam against two New York Jews. The odd part of it was that the winners had seven spades, when all the honors they had between them were the ace, queen and ten of hearts. This act was not bad, but was a little too drawn out.

Capitalizing on the approaching bicentennial of George Washington, J. E. Gill, State College debating champion, gave an address on the fighting qualities of the father of our country. He stressed Washington's actions at Valley Forge and stated that he hoped that some leader would come along with some of Washington's qualities and help the country in this period of depression.

The third short act was a blackface act by Blot Chapman and Tubby (Please turn to page four)

Mayor George A. Isley of Raleigh, treasurer of Raleigh Post No. 1, American Legion, which sponsored the "Midnight Minstrels of '32" on the morning of February 5, yesterday announced that approximately $140 had been cleared on the show.

This money will be turned over to the college by the Legion's employment committee to hire labor with which to carry out improvements on the State College campus.

COLLEGE TO AID IN CELEBRATION OF WASHINGTON

Attorney General Dennis Brummitt Will Make Address on February 22

BROOKS TO BE SPEAKER ON GEORGE WASHINGTON

Professors Hugh T. Lefler and J. P. Pillsbury Also Make Short Talks for Occasion; State College Military Corps Plays Part in Nation Wide Celebration of Washington Bicentennial; Tree To be Planted

George Washington's birthday, on Monday, February 22, will be celebrated with more than usual ceremony at State College this year when special military and academic exercises will center about the planting of an elm tree in the quadrangle west of Holladay Hall and in front of the college dining hall. The exercises will begin promptly at 11 o'clock, when the three battalions of the college regiment will march into place on three sides of the quadrangle, preceded by the band and bugle corps.

At the signal from the bugler, the colors will be trooped from the military headquarters in Holladay Hall and the official party headed by President E. C. Brooks will proceed to the spot selected for the tree planting. Dr. Brooks will make a short address on the significance of the occasion, after which an address will be delivered by Dennis G. Brummitt, Attorney General. Prof. Hugh T. Lefler, head of the history department, will next make a short talk on the historical phases of the life of George Washington, after which Prof. J. P. Pillsbury, landscape architect of the college, will attend to the planting of the tree. It is expected to broadcast some of the main features of the occasion over the radio, but the general public is invited to attend. A special invitation is extended by the college to all patriotic societies and civic groups to attend or to send representatives.

The celebration is a part of the nation wide observance of the Washington Bicentennial and the exercises are in charge of the Public Relations Committee of the college; Bruce Magruder, commandant of the R. O. T. C. regiment; Professor J. P. Pillsbury and Glenn Randall of the Department of Horticulture. Col. Magruder said yesterday that he expects to secure an elm from the Guilford battle ground for planting. All class work will be discontinued at the college in time for the students to take part in the exercises.

WOOD TALKS WEDNESDAY ON EDUCATION OF TODAY

Authority Says Teaching Methods Practically Same as 2,000 Years Ago

Dr. Ben Wood of Columbia University and director of educational research with college students being carried on in Pennsylvania by the Carnegie Foundation addressed members of the State College faculty and students on "Educational Guidance and Testing" in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Wood with the aid of slides explained the results that he had obtained through the observance of the student's progress through his high school and college career. He laid special emphasis on the relationship between secondary and advanced education.

In discussing present day methods of teaching Dr. Wood said, "The medical and engineering professions have to be constantly up to date in their methods and theories, and teachers of this country should be made to do likewise. Engineering and medicine have made great strides in the past half century, while the methods of teaching are about the same as they were about 2,000 years ago in the time of Cicero."

State Military Queens

SENIORS EMBARK TO BE TEACHERS

Thirty-three Education Students Leave Monday for Practice Teaching

Thirty-three seniors of the high school teaching department of N. C. State College began four weeks practice teaching work in the high schools of Raleigh and Wake County, Monday, February 15.

This period of practice teaching is required of all graduates from the School of Education. The students will devote their entire time to this practice work for the next four weeks. Each student will be given charge of two classes in the subjects which he expects to teach and with the supervision of the school principal will have complete charge of the students under him. This gives the teaching students actual experience in handling class-work and discipline.

In addition to teaching two regular classes, each senior will take a teacher's part in other activities of the high school such as, keeping study-hall, club work and playground activities.

TEXTILE STUDENTS HEAR TALK BY COLOR EXPERT

Miss Dorothy Nickerson, Color Technologist of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, spoke on February 12 to the Textile students of State College on the subject of "Color Measurement in the Grading of Cotton," describing the methods by which color measurements are being adopted, and the terms used in commercial operations. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics is making a study of this work.

FRESHMAN CLASS HEARS ATHLETES

James Ernest, "Milo" Stroup, A. D. "Bud" Rose, "Doc" R. R. Serman, Allan Bailey and John Stanko addressed the Freshman Assembly at their meeting Friday, February 12, in the first meeting held by the freshmen. Permission was granted yesterday for the class to conduct its own meets.

The theme of the talks was "Sportsmanship and Loyalty." Stroupe told the students that "the loyalty shown by the student body plays an important part in making a good team." Rose, basketball captain, declared that good sportsmanship at athletic contests and everywhere was valuable to the school and to the student. Bailey reminded the freshmen that any unfavorable impression made by conduct of students at athletic contests was carried away and hurt the reputation of the school. Sermon mentioned specifically the "booming" at recent games and urged the class of '35 to try to remove the causes of this attitude before it hurt the institution.

Allan Bailey, vice president of the class, was appointed chairman of a program committee, not yet selected, to work out the programs for future meetings. The freshmen had already planned to have a series of speakers, representing different professions, to outline their particular field so that the class might gain a knowledge of different vocations. The first of the series will be today at the regular meeting in Pullen Hall at noon, when Dr. J. Henry Highsmith, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will talk on "Education." Next week Rev. E. McNeill Potent will address the class on the "Ministry," and the following week Dean B. F. Brown of the Business School will talk on "Business." J. V. Hoffmann, head of the Forestry Department, and Ted Johnson have been secured to speak later on "Forestry" and "Engineering," respectively.

Meyers Speaks Saturday

Dr. Geo. E. Meyers, president of the National Vocational Guidance Association, spoke in Peele Hall last Saturday afternoon to a large group of the faculties of State College and nearby institutions.

SCHOLARS GIVEN BIDS ON MONDAY IN PHI KAPPA PHI

Fifteen Years Ago

After staying away from State College fifteen years, J. W. Spencer of Tampa, Fla., experienced some difficulty in finding his way about the campus when he visited it for a while Thursday morning. "I attended State College in 1916, but moved to Honolulu with my father as soon as I finished my freshman year. I remember the time that the bear from Pullen Park was taken into the chapel. I also recall when a wasp's nest was suspended from the chandelier and shot down by a student, breaking up the assembly," he said.

FIVE STATE MEN ATTEND "Y" MEET

Delegates Attend Sessions of Interstate Y. M. C. A. Convention in Charlotte

E. S. King, M. L. Shepherd, W. J. Trent, A. L. Drumwright and J. C. Whitehurst attend the final business session and three religious sessions at the Interstate Y. M. C. A. Convention held at Charlotte Tuesday and Wednesday, February 16 and 17.

They heard Fletcher Brockman, who is credited with playing an important part in founding the Chinese Y. M. C. A., speak on "The Present Foreign Work Situation." Brockman voiced the opinion that it was the greed of nations that is causing the present crisis at Shanghai.

Dr. E. R. Sikes, president of Clemson College, who spoke at the commencement exercises here last year, said, "The college Y. M. C. A.'s duty is to make better college men and not to meddle with foreign affairs."

Dean Milner of Guilford College told the delegates that American youth has been carefully trained through a laborious teaching to judge all things from a mechanical or materialistic concept of values, while no attempt has been made to train him in spiritual judgment of values.

PERRY THANKS STUDENTS FOR PART IN MINSTREL

Faculty Council Refuses to Excuse Performers From Cuts on Day After Show

Major Michael A. Perry, Professor of Industrial Management and Executive Officer of the local post of the American Legion, yesterday issued a statement thanking students and administrative officers of State College for their part in the Minstrel Revue of '32.

His statement in behalf of the American Legion Employment Committee, follows: "On behalf of the American Legion Employment Committee of Raleigh Post No. 1, I wish to express our appreciation for the courtesy and cooperation in making it possible for us to give the midnight benefit performance of the 'Minstrel Revue of '32.'"

The Faculty Council refused to excuse cuts on the day following the show, although students did not return to the college until 4 a.m. following the midnight show.

Teachers and Statesmen
The Student Council last night voted to entertain the faculty at a smoker to be held in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night at 7:30. The purpose of the meeting will be to gather suggestions of the professors for the betterment of student government and councilmen.

A cake race will be staged during April by the council with a course laid out that will carry contestants through Meredith College. Twenty-five cakes will be awarded, according to N. R. Whitener, chairman of the committee.

Musical Floor

The third floor of South Dormitory claims to have a greater variety of musical instruments than any other single dormitory floor on the campus.

The instruments range in number from a Jew's harp to a radio. Included among these instruments are: flutes, clarinets, trumpets, harmonica, violins, bugles, ukulele, tiple, Spanish guitars, Hawaiian guitars, Jew's harp, an accordion, and radios.

Twenty-four Students and Three Professors Presented Bids To Fraternity

FRATERNITY WILL OFFER TWO $500 SCHOLARSHIPS

W. J. Dana President of Local Chapter With H. W. Scheld Student Vice President; State Society Will Name Candidate for Scholarship to be Awarded Next Year; Membership Based on High Scholarship

Twenty-four students were elected to membership in the local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity, on February 15. Requirements for membership in the fraternity, which is the Phi Beta Kappa of technical schools, are that the student have a high scholastic average and have never failed a course.

The new elected members are: D. W. Finch, Seymour Satterwhite, J. C. Whitehurst, F. H. Whitley, R. W. Leonard, W. G. Kirchner, C. S. Ireson, J. E. Hull, J. F. Allen, G. E. Ritchie, W. F. Gilbert, P. H. Burrus, C. N. Cone, C. C. Murray, L. O. Franklin, R. E. Yates, J. W. Neely, R. J. Lyday, C. L. Mann, J. M. Taylor, R. M. Holder, A. A. Sutton, C. C. Morrison, L. K. Smith. Three members of the faculty were also elected. They are: Professor H. A. Fisher, Dr. J. B. Derieux and Dr. K. C. Garrison.

Officers of the chapter, which now includes students, are: W. J. Dana, president; Professor T. B. Mitchell, secretary; and H. W. Scheld, student vice president.

Announcement was made at this meeting of the plan of the national society to award two graduate fellowships this year, of $500 each, for one year, for the purpose of carrying on work for an advanced degree. These fellowships are open to students who have been elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi during this scholastic year, and will be available during the next scholastic year 1932-33 for work in any American college or university. One member will be selected from among those who apply in the State College Chapter, and his or her application will be forwarded to the national organization, where a final selection of the two most worthy applicants will be made.

The local chapter was founded in December, 1923. The first chapter of the organization, which now comprises 16 chapters, was founded at the University of Maine in 1847.

POULTRY JUDGES RETURN FROM MEET AT RUTGERS

Team Fails to Place in Meets Held in Frenchtown, N. J. February 11

The poultry judging team returned to the campus Sunday after competing in the contests held annually at Frenchtown, New Jersey, on February 11, under the sponsorship of the Poultry Department of Rutgers University.

The team failed to win the cup, but reported an enjoyable trip, including inspection of several of the largest poultry plants in the United States.

The team, consisted of: Professor N. W. Williams, coach; M. H. Radt, Carlo, Egypt; W. B. Nesbit of Washaw; J. E. Green of Raleigh; and L. A. Messingill of Four Oaks.

A written examination was given at the Poultry Department of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey, Thursday morning.

After the examination was completed the teams made a short visit to the poultry plant at this institution and then drove to Frenchtown, a distance of 48 miles from New Brunswick, where the judging contest was held.

Barred Plymouth Rocks, S. C. Rhode Island Reds, S. C. White Leghorns, and White Wyandotts were judged, there being a class of males and a class of females in each of these breeds. The contest lasted until 7 p.m. in the evening.

On Friday, February 12, the team visited the 280 acre farm of the Kerr Chickeries in Frenchtown, the Kansas Poultry Farm and Hatchery, the Hendron County Egg Laying Contest and the Egg Auction in Fleming, N. J.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE: $1.50 Per College Year

NEARLY 600 VISITORS

Within a few weeks, the North Carolina State College Student Body will be host to nearly 600 high school students from all parts of the State. Their visit to the campus is upon invitation of John M. Miller, director of physical education, who speaks for the individual student at the Seventh Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament to be held on March 3, 4 and 5.

For seven years, the student body has financed these tournament players and furnished entertainment, housing and audiences for the games. The sale of 300 tickets will adequately cover all expense.

With the approach of the tournament, hundreds of far-seeing students look with interest to the playing and for an opportunity to serve themselves and the institution. The student body as a whole and individual leadership and honorary organizations can profitably encourage interest for this coming event, for as they have cast their shadows before—State College has been the better from increase of population and desirable basketball material brought to the institution.

State College will not have to assume any mask of friendliness, if the tradition of past years is upheld. The warmth of friends at State has long established it as one of the most desirable of institutions in this respect and students from all parts of the world praise this characteristic of the campus.

While each high school student only visits the institution for three days, those three days may in no small way determine where the college candidate will spend his next four years. Each man is a potential possibility for admittance to State College and his friends and their friends are no exception.

The high school tournament is supported collectively, but the individual's opportunity for tangible worth to his alma mater is evident. A cheery good morning, patience for inquiries, direction about the campus, the support of clean playing, encouragement for the losers and congratulations for the winners form the basis of which each visiting student judges the State College inhabitant. The great mass of contestants will visit the Capital and State College for the first time—whether the student body will profit depends upon the kind of reception.

The Seventh Annual High School basketball tournament is worth while. The support of the student body is imperative and profitable.

FRESHMAN ABILITY RECOGNIZED

E. L. Cloyd, dean of students, recognized the Freshman Class' petition yesterday to allow the Class of 1935 to conduct their own programs. This move on the part of the Dean will be profitable to the college.

The initial move of the class will be to secure speakers for the purpose of securing vocational guidance. This move is commendable. No class could be more progressive than to foresee the good to be secured from advice given by competent experts.

The need for a vocational head at State College is evidenced, but financial difficulty will not permit the thought. The Freshmen of the college lead the classes in making the most of the want. This class will not stop with the college professor or Dean, but will bring men who have been successful in their respective field and who know the possibilities of their profession.

In addition to realizing their own needs of vocational guidance, the yearlings have declared in favor of more class speakers, which tends to promote individuality and class leadership. Campus leaders of the future will be better prepared as a result and expressions of thought will be more prevalent as the fresh grow older in State College environment.

For years, Freshman classes have been little noted for accomplishments. This year's class is on the way toward setting a precedent and their success is hoped for by the student body.

PAYING FOR HELPING

The American Legion this week will turn over more than $140 to State College to be used for improvements at the institution and to aid the unemployed. This money was derived from a midnight show staged by North Carolina State College students.

After an effort to aid the institution, the students who sacrificed their time and gave their talents must pay a penalty for loyalty. The Faculty Council refuses to grant class excuses for the following day. The student actors reached the college at four o'clock in the morning, unfit for the next day's lectures.

In addition to bringing to the college the backing of the American Legion and money to use for permanent campus improvement, the college actors returned to the college more than $200 derived from shows sponsored by the Blue Key fraternity to equip Pullen Hall with scenery and stage equipment. In this connection, the money of the Legion's show can be spent for help in equipping the auditorium.

The State College student body has listened to and heeded pleas for cooperation. They have come nobly to the front in their efforts to aid in the administration's program of respect for public property and have sought to aid in every move to curtail operating expense.

Within itself, $300 or more is not a large amount of money and the amount of good it will do is limited, but the act and sacrifice for no personal gain is commendable and unselfish. To have a legitimate absence excused is a small act of appreciation on the part of the State College Faculty Council.

Regardless, high tribute is to be paid those students who labor for the sake of more efficient college operation and stand by for the chance to cooperate in a period when cooperation is most needed.

The State College actors have brought favorable publicity to the institution; they have been praised by the Raleigh press; they have played to packed houses; they have taken a loss of time; they have worked nights and days to make a production and have produced; they have more than remunerated the college the loss of a day's absences; they have brought credit upon themselves and the institution which they represent.

But, the State College actors must pay for their loyalty.

STUDENTS' ACTIVITY

A board composed of the four class presidents and the president of the student body this week voted $100 to the Engineers' Council to defray the expenses of nearly a hundred outstanding high school students from over North Carolina who will attend the annual Fair of the engineers.

The board was temporarily formed and called by the Dean of Students and their appropriation was made from the Students' Activities Fee to which every collegian contributes at registration each year. While the money was taken from the students at large, the money will be spent to the advantage of every individual. Like the high school basketball tournament and the Textile Exposition, the Engineers' Fair is a worth while organization and their plans for the coming Fair are deserving of aid.

Few students are familiar with the Students' Activity Fund. This fund amounts to nearly $2,000 annually and is used for the welfare of the student body as they dictate. This year approximately half of the amount was given to the Y. M. C. A., the Debating Team, Crop Judging Team, Poultry Team, and to build tennis courts for the college. All of this money, to date, has been spent for worthy causes and has yielded profitable returns. The Engineers' Fair is no exception. These facts are of interest to the campus and the expenditure of this fund is of importance to the entire college.

The Student Council is the logical body to pass or advise on appropriations from this fund. The Student Council represents every school of the college and is elected by the individual schools. This body can legitimately vote and speak for the entire student population. Worth while projects are continually presenting need for financial support and a board of students to act as administrators or advisors is highly desirable.

Needs as worthy as the Engineers' Council will again be presented and to insure majority approval, a student board should be appointed for permanent function.

RESPONSIBILITY

Last week, C. E. Brake, president of the House of Student Government, called a meeting of the State College representatives with less than half of the members present. These representatives are the law-makers of the Student Body.

Important problems were scheduled for the convocation and legislation of interest to the entire college was to be proposed—lack of a quorum prevented. State College representatives were notified by mail of the meeting and nearly an hour was wasted with hopes of more members appearing for the session.

Realization of an important responsibility should be paramount in the mind of every student honored by his election to the college's House of Representatives. His is the duty of proposing legislation and renovating those collegiate laws of the past; his is the duty to make progress for the institution and to revise and add to the codes of the student body; his is the duty to build helpful traditions or tear down those that are detrimental to the institution; his is the duty to serve those who have invested power in him. He speaks for a representative group and his absence leaves his constituents without representation.

Another meeting of the House of Student Government will be called this month.

THROUGH THE TRANSM

BY DICK YATES

Strike up the Band!

Some weeks ago your columnist deplored the scarcity of events on the campus—a scarcity that threatened to drive him to desperation if he were to achieve the doubtful pleasure of filling his space each week.

Happily, this distressful condition no longer exists: The Babbitts are once more at work. And if the mill of the gods turns out a finished product, then the mill of mere mortals produces a crude affair that tends to provoke rude laughter.

The Freshman class has at last emerged from the hinterland of intellect and is preparing to take its rightful place among the right-thinking and patriotic organizations of the campus. They will, the Technician informs us, demand the right to hold their own class hour; and, after having attained this happy end, the serious and grave matter to which they will devote their talents will be a campaign for good sportsmanship and loyalty to athletic teams.

Safely Standardized

This, of course, is an indication that the college has worked its will on them. Freshmen came here as a heterogeneous mass of high school hopefuls, intent only upon a diploma and a bit of innocent fun. Being assured that the diploma may be obtained with little effort, they turn the boundless energy of youth toward whooping up a good athletic spirit. All of which is just another way of saying that they have become standardized—and safe.

Whether or not the fresh will succeed in manufacturing a noisy athletic spirit is a matter for conjecture. I rather hope they won't; for it has long been my secret desire to see the local student body take as much interest in improving the school as they do in improving the football team. Of late, however, I have become a bit discouraged. Some of the more prominent alumni seem to feel that their God-given duty to care for the welfare of the team, neglecting at the same time the pitiful economic plight of the college.

The lads may be successful, though, in manufacturing a brassy, noisome type of school spirit; and if they do I shall sympathize more than ever with the poor teachers who find it necessary to fail a third of their freshmen.

Obituary

"The college is preparing to offer the degrees Ph.D. and Doctor of Science in the very near future. Information concerning these degrees may be obtained by writing the Dean of the Graduate School."—State College Catalog, April, 1931.

Organization Monomania

The day of student individualism seems to be definitely over. I make this woebegone statement after reading the last issue of the Technician, in which practically every item concerning the students emanated from an organization.

For some occult reason, it seems never to occur to students to act individually; they must always work in groups. The originality and individualism that characterizes the lone wolf is sadly lacking; and the stereotyped action of conventional campus groups and organizations now rears its comical and inane head above the crowd and pats its collective self on the back—a gesture for which it seems to be admirably constructed.

Needless to say, this collective action has an unhappy tendency to pull the entire group downward. The leaders of the group, even if by some happy chance they be elected for their ability, are never able to resist the downward pull of lesser intellects; never are they able to exert enough power to raise the group to their level. The organizations, for the greater part, thus subside into standardized groups of standardized students, producing a standardized result and congratulating each other in a standardized way.

This, of course, is excellent training. Fitting them for standardized positions in a standardized country. But in the minds of those individuals, who long to see colleges educate rather than train, it leaves a feeling of futile and superficial effort—which proves that these individuals are dangerous and anti-social and a positive menace to the community.

School spirit, commonly accepted, may be defined as a child-like belief in, and an fervid devotion to, the athletic prowess of the college. See provincialism and other unpleasant words.

EXTENSION SPECIALIST SAYS DAIRIES IMPROVE

North Carolina dairymen own better cows than formerly, and the cows are producing more milk and butterfat per animal, finds John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at State College, after examining records kept by members of the eight dairy herd improvement associations in 1931.

The average production per cow in 1931 was 6,433 pounds of milk and 282 pounds of butterfat as compared with 6,135 pounds of milk and 261 pounds of fat average in 1930. The dairymen found 352 unprofitable animals in their herds last year and sold these to the butchers.

DR. FORSTER PREDICTS OVER SUPPLY OF COTTON

Agricultural Economics Head Estimates Supply of 26,000,000 Bales in Fall

Indications are now that there will be a supply of American cotton this fall and winter of about 26 million bales which will be equal to the present large supply tending to cause low prices in all parts of the cotton belt, says Dr. G. W. Forster, head of the department of agricultural economics at State College.

Dr. Forster says the production for 1931 is now placed at 16,918,000 bales and the carry-over as of August 1, 1931, was 8,880,000 bales giving a total supply of approximately 26 million bales for the year ending July 31, 1932. His forecast for the production this year will be between 13 and 14 million bales based on the farmer's reaction to prices in the past. If such a production materializes there will be again a total supply of 26,000,000 bales for this fall.

Yacht Races

Yachting events of the games of the Xth Olympiad, to be celebrated in Los Angeles from July 30 to August 14, will be held at Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor, 40 minutes from Olympic Stadium. The races will be held from August 6 to 12, inclusive.

SIGMA NU'S AND AG MEN PLAY FOR CAGE HONORS

Sigma Phi Epsilon Plays Fifth Dormitory in Consolation Meet Monday

Sigma Nu fraternity and the Ag Club will play Monday night of next week for the basketball championship of the State College campus. Sigma Nu defeated Kappa Alpha of the fraternity group to reach the finals while the Ag Club defeated Third Floor of 1911 dormitory to reach the finals.

In the consolation group composed of teams losing out in the first round, Sigma Phi Epsilon, winners over Lambda Chi Alpha; will play Fifth Dormitory, winners over Sixth Dormitory for the title of the consolation group.

In the handball contest, Sigma Nu and Kappa Alpha fraternities and Second and Third Floor teams of 1911 Dormitory will fight it out Monday night for the campus handball title.

In the consolation group, Theta Phi will play Lambda Chi Alpha for the title.

Here, MEN, smoke a man's smoke

A PIPEFUL of good tobacco is distinctly a man's smoke. The women (long may they wave!) have taken over most of our masculine privileges. But pipe smoking still belongs to us.

In every walk of life you'll find that the men at the top are pipe smokers. And most college men agree that the pipe offers the rarest pleasures a man could ask of his smoking.

When you smoke a pipe, be sure you choose the tobacco that will give you the greatest enjoyment. In 42 out of 54 colleges Edgeworth is the favorite. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va. Sample is free.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burley, with its natural savor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive eleven-step process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes, 15¢ packet package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

DEPTH SOUNDERS FOR AIRCRAFT

WITH the application of electricity to aircraft instruments, another chapter was written in the annals of air transportation. To-day's ship is not only swifter but safer and more dependable. Modern depth-sounding devices indicate instantly the height of the ship above the ground surface. A unique feature of General Electric's recently purchased monoplane is the almost completely electrified instrument panel.

The most recently developed instrument is the sonic altimeter, which provides a quick means of indicating changes in height above ground. Sound from an intermittently operated air whistle is directed downward. The echo is picked up in a receiving megaphone, and the sound is heard through a stethoscope. The elapsed time between the sound and the echo determines the height. Tests show that water, buildings, woods, etc., produce echoes that are different and characteristic.

Besides developing a complete system of aircraft instruments, college-trained General Electric engineers have pioneered in every electrical field—on land, on sea, and in the air.

Washington and Lee Generals Meet Tonight With V. M. I. Here for Battle Tomorrow

CONTEST TONIGHT OPENS 7 P. M. WITH FROSH GAME

Tallest Basketballer in Southern Conference Seen in Action Tonight as General's Club and Terrors Meet; State Lost W. and L. Earlier in Season; Allen Nelms to Start With Captain Rose at Guard Positions; Only One More Game After This Week's Play Before Conference Tourney

The N. C. State Red Terrors face a heavy cage schedule this week-end as two strong Southern Conference teams invade the West Raleigh campus. Tonight the Washington and Lee Generals are met and tomorrow night V. M. I. is played. A preliminary game between the State freshmen and the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. will precede the game tonight. The initial contest tonight is billed for 7 o'clock, while the State-V. M. I. game tomorrow will begin at 8 p. m. without a freshman game.

Six Feet Nine
The tallest basketball player in the Southern Conference will be seen in action tonight. The man is Victor Griewank, sophomore center who stands six feet, nine inches in his stocking feet. Griewank only recently became eligible for play, making his 1932 debut in the William and Mary game which Washington and Lee won, 31-17. Griewank did not play against State when the Red Terrors were defeated by the Generals, 20-15, at Lexington earlier in the year.

The rest of the Generals' team will probably be composed of Joe Sawyer, who has averaged eight points per game for 12 games, and Jack Jarrett, forwards; Frank Bailey, regular center until Griewank came along, and Paul Holbrook, guards.

Coach Ray Ellerman of Washington and Lee, is winding up his second year as head coach at W. and L. He uses the Meanwell system, the same as employed by State.

Only One More
After this week's tilt, only one other game is scheduled for State this year, that with the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on Tuesday, February 23.

FROSH PUNCHERS FIGHT CAROLINA

Yearling Championship Engagement Staged at Chapel Hill on Saturday

Freshman boxing teams of N. C. State and the University of North Carolina meet Saturday night at Chapel Hill in a match that will decide the state yearling championship. Carolina defeated State 5-2 for the title last winter.

State's freshmen have defeated Duke freshmen and the Durham Athletic Club and have been defeated by Oak Ridge. Carolina has faced several teams this year and included among its wins are victories over Duke and Oak Ridge.

The match between the Techlets and the Baby Tar Heels will pit two high school rivals together. They are: Turner Bilsoly of State and Ivey of Carolina. They fight in the 115. Ivey defeated Bilsoly when they met in high school. The match is expected to be one of the best on the card.

Bill Dunaway, 145 pounds, and John Fabri, 160 pounds, are undefeated State fighters. Dunaway holds a three round decision over Stockton of Oak Ridge, a man that gave him a good beating in high school last winter, a 29 second technical knockout over his Duke opponent and a 16 second technical knockout over his Durham Athletic Club foe. Fabri has won all of his fights on three-round decisions.

State's other weights will be filled by: Speight, 125; Huntley, 135; Stephens, 175, and Daugherty, unlimited.

FOOTBALL PLAYS BEGIN TOMORROW

Head Coach "Clipper" Smith Says Good Weather Will In-sure Scrimmages

A football scrimmage will be held at State College tomorrow afternoon if good weather prevails for the remainder of the week. Coach John P. "Clipper" Smith said here today.

Coach Smith and his assistant, Frank Reese, have had the players working off and on for a period of two weeks. Rain has hampered their work considerably. The work this week has consisted chiefly of learning plays and a few of the more important fundamentals.

Kinken Shifted
Phil Kinken, sophomore, who alternated with Mope Cumsiskey at fullback last fall, has been shifted to quarter. The big fellow has a good voice, but the change may be only temporarily. Allen Bailey, end on the 1931 freshman team, has been moved to a half-back post. Bailey played fullback the last year he was in high school. The other three years he played as a tackle.

FROSH WIN STATE CROWN IN BIG FIVE CAGE LOOP

Duke Imps Defeated by Baby Terrors Here Last Tuesday in Honor Battle; Washington and Lee Boxers Lick Local Fighters; Wake Forest and Duke Subdue State Varsity in Basketball Engagements

In past sport contests, teams representing N. C. State College failed to turn in any wins while the freshmen were victorious in every event carded. Reviewing the scores of previous games, Washington and Lee defeated the State Pugs 4 to 3; the Terrors were upset by Wake Forest's Demon Deacons 27 to 24; while last Tuesday Duke overpowered the cage artists 25 to 21; and the State wrestling team went down in defeat to Carolina 29 to 3.

The yearlings won their boxing card last Friday by a 5 1/2-1/2 score; defeated the Duke Imps in basketball 20-12, to cop the State title; and won over the Tar Heel grapplers 18 to 16.

Red Espey, appearing in the heavy weight role against Washington and Lee, staged a comeback in regard to his last two battles to win his match.

Coach Beatty's sensational fighter, Bill Dunaway, continued his usual ordeal of fighting and disposed with his man in a short number of seconds of the initial round.

Wake Forest completely outclassed the Red Terrors to take their first Big Five cage game of the season. The Deacons were ahead at the half 17-9, and it was this eight point lead which kept the Wake Forest lads on top during the second stanza.

Samuel High Man
Gurneau was chief scorer with ten points, while Rose and Brown continued their classy and flashy floor game. Malloy was the big Devil for Wake Forest and responsible for State's defeat.

When Duke won over the State Terrors last Tuesday night here, they not only took honors for the evening's entertainment but also captured the state title in the Big Five circle. If State had won, the best Duke could have hoped for was an even tie with the Carolina Tar Heels.

Many basketball followers who saw the contest, protested several times on decisions made by the officials, and opinions have been advanced that the Terrors were robbed of a rightful State game. Claude Morgan was taken from the game, after 14 minutes of play, due to personal fouls.

College Park Fans See State Team in Seasons Last Dual Meeting Saturday

The varsity boxing team of N. C. State College will leave Raleigh tomorrow morning for College Park, Maryland, where it meets the University of Maryland's boxing team that night. The match will be the last dual meet for State this winter.

Bill Perritt, regular 135 pound State fighter, has been shifted to the 145 pound class in place of Charlie Garner. Garner received a cut on the inside of his jaw in the Washington and Lee match here last week and the injury had not sufficiently healed for him to fight.

Rhyme for Third
With Perritt shifted to the 145, Marshall Rhyme, a sophomore, will take over the 135 pound duties. Rhyme has fought twice in that class this winter and has won both fights.

State's other weights will be filled by H. E. Karig, co-captain 115; Josiah Hull, 160; James Hall, 175, and William "Red" Espey, co-captain, unlimited.

Espey was shifted from the 175 pound class to the unlimited for the Washington and Lee fight and won. It was his ninth win in 11 starts. Maryland was defeated by Washington and Lee, 4-3, several weeks ago. The Generals' win over State last week was by the same score.

The bouts will be the last dual ones for State's teams this year. The varsity, however, will be represented in the Southern Conference tournament at the University of Virginia, Friday and Saturday, February 26 and 27. In its four 1932 fights, State has lost

Star Guard

Allen Nelms, State College basketball guard and star for State in the Duke game Tuesday night, will be one of the starting guards when the Red Terrors play Washington and Lee in the Frank Thompson gymnasium in Raleigh Friday night.

Seventh Annual High School Basketball Tournament Set for March 3-5

Twenty special chartered high schools and 77 county high schools in North Carolina have entered the Seventh Annual N. C. State College Invitational Basketball Tournament which is to be held at State on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 3, 4 and 5.

The 20 Class A or special chartered schools are: Greensboro, Henderson, Wake Forest, Wilson, Lumberton, Fayetteville, Lucama, New Bern, Salisbury, Thomasville, Shelby, Hendersonville, Spring Hope, Ayden, Tryon, Newton, Carthage, Burlington, and Washington.

The 77 county schools or Class B are: Garland, China Grove, Farm Life, Four Oaks, Plain View, Green Hope, Bethel, Clemmons, Ramseur, Fair Grove, Pittsboro, West End, Troutman, Pilot, Mars Hill, Rose Hill, Salem, Gibsonville, Lillington, Mount Gilead, Holy Springs, Sylva, Selma, Angier, Windsor, Pink Hill, Roseboro and Kannapolis.

Stanfield, Gatesville, Pinnacle, Glenwood School of Nealsville, Bethel Hill of Wooddale, Nashville, Cranberry School of Elk Park, Wilson Mills, Newell, Pinehurst, Curry, Stonewall, Paw Creek, Elizabethtown, Matthews, Middleburg, Roper, Aurora, Conway, Garner, Troy, Pollockville, LaFayette, Rosewood, Dallas, Prospect Hill, Bethel Hill, Moss Hill, Trenton, Micro, Bartlett Young, Unionville, Smiths, Rich Square, Poplar Branch, Broadway, Youngsville, Reeds, Kenansville, Clayton, Pleasant Grove, Denton, Jonesboro, Eure, Clarkton, Alliance, Bragtown, Whitakers, Grace School of Asheville and Farmville.

Fight Cards Next Season May Also Have Mat Sport

When the sports season comes to N. C. State College next year, a new feature of presenting two of the athletic programs here may be tried.

The proposed combination of boxing and wrestling sports to be played together was the announcement which attracted attention in sports circles this past week. Dr. Sermon, athletic director, proposed the plan to Coach Hicks, tutor of wrestling, and the plan met with his approval. It was learned that Coach Elms also sanctioned the idea.

The idea, according to director Sermon, is to have varsity boxing and varsity wrestling together on the same sports card for fans the same night. The two varsity sports will replace one of the freshman cards, which at present is scheduled along with its varsity mate. On another card the freshmen will perform in the like sports.

This plan has been successfully tried by other leading schools over the country, and has proved popular to the fans. By thus offering two different sports in the same night, lovers of the particular games will be given a sports variety in an evenings' entertainment.

The grappling sport, which was cut by the athletic department's pruning of the beginning of the season but later reinstated, is severely handicapped by the lack of funds, and a proposed plan such as has been offered is not only expected to meet with the approval of fans here but also raise wrestling to a well organized position. It was not the purpose of the combination to let boxing carry the grappling burden nor subdue any of their activity, it was pointed out.

In case the proposed plans materialize, a different make of schedule will have to be planned for next year, however, all schools met by State in athletic contests carry both the boxing and wrestling sports, and it need only be arranged with the foreign school for the desired matches.

Another angle in the athletic sport here at State was unmentioned when it was learned that Lieutenant Elms might be transferred from the West Raleigh institution next year. Coach Elms, who placed boxing in the limelight here, has served his allotted time in this school, and it is the policy of the Government to change its officers at intervals.

In case Coach Elms leaves State, Bill Beatty will no doubt take over the boxing sport. At present, Beatty is assisting Elms with complete charge over the freshman fighters; but should the change materialize, Coach Beatty will probably see double service as coach of both the varsity and the freshmen.

"Red" Hicks and Joe Moore, who are tutoring the varsity and frosh grapplers, will continue at their posts next season, it was learned.

Week-End Sports

"The first time I lit a Chesterfield in front of him, he sniffed like an old war-horse...and I braced myself for trouble. But all he said was, 'That's good tobacco, Chickabiddy.'"
"You know Grandfather raised tobacco in his younger days, so he knows what's what. I don't, of course—but I do know that Chesterfields are milder. It's wonderful to be able to smoke whenever you want, with no fear you'll smoke too many."

"And it doesn't take a tobacco expert to prove that Chesterfield tobaccos are better. They taste better...that's proof enough. Never too sweet. No matter when I smoke them...or how many I smoke... they always taste exactly right."
"They must be absolutely pure... even to the paper which doesn't taste at all. In fact...as the ads say... 'They Satisfy!'"

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The N. C. Beta Chapter of the Sigma Phi Epsilon at State College was host at a beautiful Valentine dance at its home on Chamberlain Street, Saturday, February 13.

The entire lower part of the house was profusely decorated with hearts and red streamers, the central attraction being the fraternity letters spelled along the wall with small red hearts. Dancing was enjoyed from nine until twelve, and a course of fruit punch was served during the evening.

Young ladies present for the affair were: Miss Eliza Briggs, Miss Gwendolyn Crowder, Miss Vera Johnson, Miss Edith Holloway, Miss Irene Rand, Miss Sara Rand, Miss Foy Allen, Miss Margaret Kelly, Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Nell Hay, Miss Julia Lundy, Miss Irene Little, Miss Elizabeth Layfield, Miss Eleanor Layfield, Miss Letitia Mason, Miss Rachel Wright, Miss Sheldon Shaw, Miss Mabel York, Miss Mary Helen Stewart, Miss Elizabeth Park, Miss Marjorie Scruggs, Miss Mabel Sargent, Miss Gretchen Rabel, Miss Caroline Tucker, Miss Martha Ruth Kendall, Miss Ruth Boyette, Mr. and Mrs. Mope Comiskey, Miss Elizabeth Gaitner, Miss Marlon Cobb, Miss Edith Bagby, and Miss Lois McNeal.

Mrs. J. N. Mason was chaperone for the affair.

Alpha Kappa Pi

The Xi Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Pi at State College entertained a large group of State College society at an informal Valentine dance, Friday, February 12, at its fraternity residence on Hillsboro Street.

The lower rooms of the house were appropriately decorated with various shaped hearts and red streamers. A delightful course of refreshments was served to the guests during the evening.

Guests and members included: Miss Eloise Jordan with M. H. Norlander, Miss Estelle Causey with Ed Galba, Miss Ardelia Jordan with Henry Saunders, Miss Elizabeth Gaitner with Bill Kirchheimer, Miss Jessamine Bland with Al Bennett, Miss Carolyn Radcliffe with David Whitehead, Miss Helisa Boylan with Chalmers Biggs, Miss Frances Stallings with Ted Lewis, Miss Ernestine Holland with J. B. Sauls, Miss Ann Ruth Jordan with Richard Frazier, Miss Katie Rogers with Elwood Williams, Miss Dorothy Jones with Richard Wood.

Others present were: Bill Henry Johnny Sawyer, Jack Lindstrom, Graves Mumford, W. A. Pye, F. E. Brammer, R. A. Taylor, J. A. Orr, F. C. Quay, and several members of the Washington and Lee Boxing team who were the guests of Ed Karig, captain of the State boxing team and a member of the faculty.

Chaperones for the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gaitner and Professor E. E. Goehring.

Golf Team

"Chick" Murray, captain and coach of the golf team, has announced that tryouts for the team this year will be held in the near future.

Five matches are scheduled for the team this season and arrangements for four more are pending.

Murray says, "Members of the team will be allowed to purchase a membership at the municipal course at a very nominal cost. Anyone who plays is urged to try out for the team."

Valentine Party

Members and pledges of the State College Chapter of the Pi Kappa Alpha were hosts to a large number of their friends at a Valentine party, Monday evening, at the fraternity residence on Maiden Lane.

The evening was spent in playing games and enjoying unusual contests. A light course of refreshments was served to the guests during the party.

Invited guests included: Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Brooks, Dean and Mrs. E. L. Cloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Kel Scates, Dean and Mrs. W. C. Riddick, Dean and Mrs. T. N. Nelson, Dean and Mrs. B. F. Brown, Dean and Mrs. I. O. Schaub, Dean and Mrs. T. E. Browne, Misses Anna and Eugenia Riddick, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Neal, Miss Randolph Hill, Fletcher Turner, Francis Houston, Prof. H. B. Hanks. In some way two globe-trotting blackface comedians landed in Shanghai. After a stirring encounter with a Japanese recruiting officer, who was bent on impressing them into the Japanese army, from which they finally escaped amid a barrage of pistol shots.

The last and best-acted part of the program was the one-act play "He Loved an Actress," by Geo. Cooper Meade. The hero (Dwight Stokes) was persistent in his attentions to the actress (Hazel McDonald), in spite of the objections of her husband (L. C. Hartley), who was bent on shooting the alienator of his wife's attentions. The hero also swore to kill the man who was keeping him from his natural mate.

At the point where the two rivals were about to shoot one another, Robert G. Bennett appeared from somewhere in the audience and stopped the slaughter by yelling that they were the sorriest actors he had ever tried to direct. From this it developed that there was no real love affair after all, but that they were all actors carrying on a dress rehearsal. The rest of the play was immaterial. Miss McDonald had some trouble with an assistant director (William Butler) and succeeded in losing her leading man, but the real interest in the story ended when it was discovered that it was only a dress rehearsal and not a real, if fishy, love affair. The rest of the act seemed to lag. In this writer's opinion, Dwight Stokes did the best acting in the play, although Hazel McDonald was good and the entire cast was fair.

The acting was good throughout the entire program, but the parts seemed to be inadequate, and the program was not uniform or consistent. It was not up to the standard of the "Thirteenth Chair" in my opinion Dwight Stokes did the best work in the cast, although he was closely pushed by Prof. Fountain, LeNeve Zimmerman, and Catherine Harding. Chapman and Hanks were good, as usual, and Bennett and his mock bridge tourney were fair. Gill's address was clear and convincing, but it had no part in a program of comedies.

The program was directed by Prof. Edwin H. Paget, and the production staff was composed of R. H. Nims, J. D. Swain and William Butler. The furniture was furnished by the Goodwin Smith Company of Raleigh, and the entire program was conducted along the lines of the Experimental Theatre, which is seeking to find out just what type of amateur acting State College wants. The Red Masquers' next play will be "The Trial of Mary Dugan," which will be presented some time in the near future.
