

COLLEGE PREXY EXPLAINS NEW CONSOLIDATION PLAN BEFORE CAMPUS OFFICERS

President Brooks Declares Adequate Tennis Courts Will Be Provided

CAPTAIN CHARLES COBB PRAISES GRID COACHES

Thirty-four Organizations Represented at Dinner Given by President; Says State Coaches Are Two of Best in Country; "No Question of Governor Gardner's Loyalty to State College" Says Brooks; Cloyd Speaks; Increase of Automobiles Present Parking Problem; Begin Road Paving

By LOUIS H. WILSON
Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of North Carolina State College, told representatives of 34 organizations at a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night that he looked for no institution to be humiliated over the consolidation of state-supported institutions.

Speaking on administrative-student activities, the college prexy declared that adequate tennis courts would be provided for the student body. "Tennis ought to be set up as a major sport," he said, "but football deficits of two years ago has with-held this due support. Student fees go to pay the coaches with game receipts from football supporting the other athletics."

Dr. Brooks Tuesday conferred with Dr. Hugh Lefler, unofficial tennis coach, as to the needs of the courts. Experts will be called in for consultation and work may begin in the near future.

Explains Consolidation
Examining the proposed consolidation of North Carolina state supported institutions of higher learning, the college head traced the organization work and present status. "The merger will be effective when the report of the commission is completed and is accepted by the board of trustees on or before July 1, 1932," he told the student leaders. "A commission of thirteen men has been employed to make a study of the colleges, with the aid of United States Bureau of Education as counselors and Dr. George Works of the University of Chicago as specialist in charge of the survey. "This commission will determine what kind of major administration the college will undertake; allocation of functions, determining how the schools can function best; interchanges of credits policy; salaries and fees, and retirement allowances."

Dr. Brooks said that there was no one place in North Carolina where Home Demonstration Agents could be trained. "There is no reason why we can't train women at State College instead of going out of the State for them." He declared that the consolidation would delve into the possibilities of broadening fields at State College where there was no duplication, and cited the field of textiles as an example.

Governor Is Praised
The president said that he did not feel badly about the consolidation and paused to give Governor O. Max Gardner a hand.

"There is no question as to Governor Gardner's loyalty to the institution," Dr. Brooks said. "His attitude toward State College is nothing but loyalty, and he desires fair play for all."

Brooks Lauds Coaches
Coaches "Clipper" Smith and Frank Reese came in for praise from Prexy Brooks. "They're two of the best coaches in the country," he declared "and for the morale and spirit they have brought to the college, they should be given a big hand."

Captain Charles Eugene Cobb, Jr. of the Wolfpack was presented to the organization leaders, after Dr. Brooks assured the football pilot that the administration was behind the team and its coaches.

Capt. Cobb Speaks
"The coaches have very little material," Captain Cobb said, "and are doing all they can with what they have to work with. He lamented the spontaneous groan over the Florida defeat," declaring that the team had been printed to be too strong. "If it would be my privilege to pick any two coaches in the country, I would ask for no better than Smith and Reese. They know their football and the team will put out and try to win," he said.

Dr. Brooks told the organization representatives that the City of Raleigh would begin immediate work on the stop-lights promised and road paving. (Please turn to page three)

"CLIPPER" SMITH, HEAD COACH

FRANK REESE - BACKFIELD COACH

These two new State College grid mentors were praised by Dr. E. C. Brooks and Captain Charles E. Cobb in open forum during a meeting of campus leaders in the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday night.

Captain Cobb says, "If I had my choice of any two coaches in the entire country, I would choose no others than 'Clipper' Smith and Frank Reese. They know football and men, and have the cooperation and admiration of the whole squad."

Dr. Brooks says "Our coaches have the whole-hearted support of the administration, including my personal backing and belief in them."

MAGRUDER URGES GREATER MORALE

Regiment Head Says Group Morale Is Necessary for Any Accomplishment

Good morale is infectious, resistant to adversity and burns to express itself, in the opinion of Lt. Col. Bruce Magruder, Commandant of the State College Regiment, who thinks that this vital spirit is as necessary at State College as in the army or in any group which means to accomplish anything. "Morale is a delicately balanced thing," said Magruder, "and is essentially a group product, although it sometimes exists in a high degree in the individual. Class organizations, societies and athletic teams all have opportunity for developing this intangible asset, which Napoleon counted three times as important as his material."

"Group morale develops duty, loyalty, pride and selflessness in the individual. It is the duty of every leader to seize every opportunity to add to the morale of his group through appeals to pride and rewards for service. Morale is usually built around an idea or group of ideas, and must have a nucleus around which to concentrate the feeling of the group."

"As a newcomer, but one whose interest is sincere, I wonder if we do not need at State some rallying thought or idea around which we can concentrate our endeavors for a higher morale. Talk helps, but only action gets results. Leadership and planning with initiative is the only thing that will develop a fighting spirit, confidence in victory and aggressiveness. A serious study of our weaknesses is necessary—then a decision as to what ideas can be carried out."

"We must not wait for age-old traditions, but realize that we are daily making our own traditions."

FOUNTAIN AND SALEM
TALK TO LEAZAR MEN

Talks by Professor A. M. Fountain and Joseph Salem were the features on the program of the Leazar Literary Society at its weekly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last Friday evening.

Professor Fountain discussed the purpose of the society and Mr. Salem gave a history of "Initiations."

Several new members were taken in and a brief initiation ceremony was held. The new members were F. B. Forbes, J. F. Dogget, E. B. Smith, C. B. Gay, and L. G. Gerrard.

SIGMA TAU SIGMA FRAT
PLANS WORK FOR TERMS

Sigma Tau Sigma, honorary textile fraternity, held its first meeting on Wednesday, October 7 and outlined plans for the coming year.

Ed Gill of Henderson is president of the organization. The society plans to entertain prominent speakers at its meetings throughout the year who will talk to textile students on textile and other subjects.

Oldest College in America
Even though the United States does have Harvard and William and Mary, it cannot claim the oldest educational institution in the New World. The University of Mexico at Mexico City is two centuries older than either of these greybeards, having been founded in 1551.

BLUE KEY PLANS FOR STUNT NITE

National Honorary Leadership Fraternity Sets October 30 for Meeting

Blue Key, national honorary leadership fraternity, will sponsor their second annual Stunt Night at 7:30 Friday night, October 30, the evening before the State-College football game and Homecoming Day. Homecoming Day is also under the leadership of Blue Key.

The purpose of the entertainment is to foster good spirit and enthusiasm for the game and Homecoming Day.

Several honorary fraternities and campus organizations will be asked to participate and prepare stunts of an entertaining nature. The band will furnish music for the occasion.

The committee in charge of arrangements is: Nino Gross, chairman; A. F. Ward and D. A. Torrence.

CONTRACTOR MEN PLAN INITIATION

State College Awarded First Student Chapter of General Contractors

The North Carolina State college student chapter of the Associated General Contractors will hold its fall initiation in the Chemical Engineering building on Thursday night, October 22, at 7:00 o'clock.

The State College branch of this organization is the Alpha chapter. It was organized here last fall as the first student chapter. Since that time chapters have been installed at V. P. I., Cornell, and M. I. T. Yale is now petitioning the national organization for a chapter.

A smoker was given last Thursday night for all students registered in construction engineering who are not members of the chapter. All those interested in construction and who have successfully completed one term of sophomore work are eligible for membership, which is by election.

The organization of the chapter was accomplished through the efforts of Professor W. G. Gelle, who is at the head of the Construction Engineering department. Professor Gelle spent much time and energy and made a special trip to Washington in order to bring the club here. The organization is strong and bids fair to become one of the most influential engineering societies on the campus. A representative to the Engineers' Council is elected from the Associated General Contractors each year.

The officers of the student chapter are: R. H. Weisner, president; F. M. Edwards, vice president; Ben Kirkman, secretary-treasurer; L. D. Murphy, sergeant-at-arms.

Mason and Dixon's Line
Mason and Dixon's Line is the popular name of the boundary-line surveyed between November 15, 1783, and December 26, 1787, by two mathematicians and surveyors, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, to settle the constant dissensions between the Lords Baltimore and the Penn family, the lords proprietors of Maryland, and Pennsylvania respectively.

DEACON GRIDMEN TROUGH TECHS WITH 6-0 SCORE

Deans Kissed

Deans were sought-after persons at the Lions Club, civic organization meeting Monday.

A troupe of N. C. State Fair chorus girls furnished entertainment and embarrassment for the noon meal of Lions.

When the dancers finished their entertainment, much to the surprise of Dean Thomas Nelson of the college Textile School, one of the chorus girls sought the sprightly dean for osculation. The dean ran but later returned.

Not to be left with the bar, the chorus girl pounced on the dean's knee and gave him a big kiss on the bald spot of his head.

Dean B. F. Brown of the School of Science and Business, president of the Raleigh Civic Club, did not escape. He too received an affectionate smack on the forehead.

Both deans bore results of the affair with loud-colored lip-stick clinging to their skins as evidence.

The chorus girls wore skirts of loosely-woven grass and from the waist up two metal discs gave them the appearance of Hawaiian-Egyptian dangers.

EDITOR SELECTS AGROMECK STAFF

Clarence Cox, Greensboro, is Senior Editor and Henry Burrus, Winston-Salem, is associate editor. Dan Torrence is assistant. George Hobson as associate business manager and Norman York is taking care of the local advertising.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS TO HEAR GEORGE ROEWE

To Hold Meeting in Conjunction With Engineering Society on October 20

George J. Rowe, Distribution Engineer of the Carolina Power and Light Company, will address the Electrical Engineering students on Tuesday, October 20 at 6:45 p.m. in Room 207 of the Electrical Engineering Building.

The meeting will be held in conjunction with the regular meeting of the N. C. State Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Rowe's subject has not been announced, but it will be upon some phase of the electrical engineering field.

Women Work

No women students have registered for employment with the Self-Help Bureau this year, according to M. L. Shepherd, director of the bureau.

Several applied for information before the opening of school, but they have not taken advantage of the bureau's services as yet. According to Shepherd, there have been several opportunities to place girls in part-time work.

Last year several of the co-eds obtained work through the bureau.

Shinn Scores Lone Touchdown After Wilson and Edwards Pave the Way

WAKE FOREST MARCHES
60 YARDS FOR MARKER

Rain Mars "Dad's Day" and Fair Week Classic; State College Wolfpack Threatens in First and Last Quarter of Game; Smithsonians Take to Air in Last Half in Desperate Attempt to Get Touchdown

By BLAN CHAPMAN

Approximately 7,500 football fans saw the Wolfpack of N. C. State and Wake Forest battle on practically even terms for two periods, then to have the Deacons start an advance from the middle of the field to State's goal, and win a listless game by the score of 6 to 0.

It was the twenty-fifth annual football classic between the Deacons and the Wolves, and celebrated not only "Dad's Day" here, but also a feature of the North Carolina State Fair week.

Rain at Half
During the intermission at the half, rain started to fall and continued throughout the third quarter. The many spectators who witnessed the contest were thrown into a state of confusion as shelter from Old Man Jupiter Phynus was sought. The entire group of spectators did not fully return to the stands until the last quarter.

The Deacons score came soon after the play in the half was resumed. After an exchange of kicks, Wake Forest took the ball in practically middle field and with a continuous march down the field, being sponsored by Edwards and Dunk Wilson, crossed State's final line for the only tally of the day. Running behind perfect interference, the Deacons' backs clicked off yard after yard with the State defense being unable to check the onslaught.

March Around End
The visitors took to end runs on practically every play, when the score was tallied, going first around one and then the other. Only three times were line backs issued by the Deacons, each of those being effective. Shinn went the necessary six inches for the pre-verbal counter.

State's Score Didn't Count
The game opened with State winning the toss-up and receiving at the north goal. Soon after the opening whistle, State had crossed Wake Forest's goal for a touchdown, but the play was declared void. It was State's ball on the Deacons' 45-yard line. A pass, D. Wilson to Dellinger, netted about 7 yards in the air and the flashy Dellinger raced the necessary yardage for a supposedly score. The play was beautifully executed, with excellent running on the part of Dellinger and wonderful interference on the remaining players.

The play was called back and State penalized 15 yards for rough playing. State threatened in the last minutes of the game, with John Lanning having been injected into the game to help with the passing attack. The aerial game was centered about Don Wilson, McQuage, Gurneau, and Lanning. The ball was in center field and Wilson took eight; then the same Wilson shot a pass to McQuage that was good for a first down. A pass, Wilson to Gurneau, good for ten more yards, and with Lanning deep in the backfield to heave the oval, DuPre of Wake Forest broke through the State line to down the passer for a 13-yard loss.

Outside of their lone tally, the Deacons did very little threatening towards the Wolfpack goal. However, a thrill was given the fans by the Wake club in the second quarter, when substantial line bucks netted a couple of first downs. This streak was stopped, however, with Wake Forest drawing a 15-yard penalty, and taking the defense form of play.

One interesting feature of the contest was the three Wilsons who were in the line-up several times. Don Wilson and Arthur Wilson of State, and Dunk Wilson of the Deacons, and who, incidentally, was the star performer among their backs.

Bob Gresson's booting of the ball was again outstanding in regard to State's defensive play, and sharing laurels with him is Milo Stroupe. This was the first game for Stroupe this year. (Please turn to page three)

Three Students To Try-Out For Rhodes Scholar Honors

H. Y. Brock, M. L. Barnes and H. R. James Are State College Aspirants for Coveted Honor; Competition Will be Held in Durham on December 5; Institution Has Never Had Rhodes Scholarship

State College will have three candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship competition among aspirants for the honor from North Carolina Colleges on December 5 in Durham, announces Dr. T. P. Harrison, who was in charge of the registration of State candidates.

H. Y. Brock, senior in Electrical Engineering, M. L. Barnes, senior in High School Teaching and H. R. James, senior in Agricultural Education are the three men who are to try for this high honor.

State College has never had a Rhodes Scholar.

Of the representatives of the various colleges in the state appearing in Durham, two will be selected to go before the district committee. The district comprises the states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee and Alabama, making a total of twelve men. The two Rhodes Scholars will be chosen from these twelve men, shortly after the state competitions.

A Rhodes Scholar goes to the University of Oxford in England for two years study with a stipend of approximately $2,000 a year. Provision is made for an additional year of study in certain cases.

The requirements are that the candidates shall have completed their sophomore year in college. Selections are made on the basis of literary and scholastic ability; manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, fellowship; moral character and leadership and physical vigor.

Selection as a Rhodes Scholar is considered to be one of the highest honors attainable in the realm of collegiate honors. The scholarships were provided for in the will of Cecil J. Rhodes, millionaire Britisher, who endowed these scholarships throughout the English-speaking world. He died in 1902.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS HOLD INITIAL MEETING

Maxwell Tells Students Advantages of Society Employment Organization

The local student chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers met for the first time this year at a smoker in the Y. M. C. A. with about thirty men present.

Prospective members of the society among the junior class were feted at the smoker and were addressed by representatives from the national headquarters of the society.

The meeting was presided over by John C. Whitehurst, president of the local chapter. Professor Dana introduced the speakers of the evening: M. C. Maxwell, Chairman of the Student Relations Committee; Ernest Hartford, Secretary of the National Association, and Mr. Andrews, also of the National Society.

Maxwell spoke of the history of the society and of its present prominence with a membership of over 2000 engineers. He told of the fraternal side of the organization and pointed out the advantages of its employment agency, one of the most active in the world. Other advantages of membership were pointed out, including the large technical library of the society, which subscribes to 2700 technical periodicals in both English and foreign languages.

Mr. Hartford spoke more on the educational side of the matter, telling the audience that the society was really a post-graduate course. He pointed out that the engineer must keep abreast of the times or lose his place in the profession, and that the society was an excellent medium for filling this need. He stated that the engineering profession is both learned and honorable and that there is a need for an organization to promote the profession and see that its members hold their proper station in life. He ended by saying that the headquarters of the society in New York, houses the largest technical library in the world and that all members were invited to make the home office their headquarters when in New York.

John Whitehurst, student president, made the announcement that the local student chapter had an extensive program planned for this year. Included in this program are moving pictures, lectures and talks, papers and articles, and also several inspection trips to nearby points.

The meeting ended with a general discussion, in which Andrews contributed much entertaining information to the students and faculty members present.

Overalls and Gingham

The annual Barn Warming will take place Saturday night, October 17, at the Frank Thompson Gymnasium. This event is one of the main features of the Agricultural Fair which is held each year in connection with the North Carolina State Fair.

The program, according to George Hobson, will begin at eight and continue until twelve. The program will consist of hog-calling contests, clog dancing, and other "down on the farm" features. Dancing will begin about ten and continue until twelve.

This occasion will offer something unusual in entertainment. The boys will be dressed in overalls and the Peace girls, who are coming en masse, will be attired in gingham dresses.

George Hobson is in charge of the program and C. V. Morgan is his co-worker. The decoration committee is composed of W. C. Boyce and R. R. Smithwick; R. P. Moore and Fred Jones are in charge of the refreshments and the floor committee is composed of F. A. Shoe and Hagop Hagopian.

Effects of the Depression

The depression seems to be hitting colleges too. The University of Mexico, oldest college in America, is being forced to operate with only a skeleton of its former organization. It is largely dependent on private contributions, which don't seem to be coming in very fast.

The Parker Duofold is like two pens for the price of one. Attaching a tapered pen-end converts this Pocket Pen into a Desk Set Pen—removing the taper restores it to a Pocket Pen.

Thus, if you get a Parker Pocket Pen, all you need to have a complete Desk Set is a Parker ball-and-socket Desk Base to hold the Pen, at $2.50 and upward. You need not buy a special desk pen. Thus Parker Duofold's double-duty feature saves you $5 to $10.

Twenty-five thousand Parker dealers throughout the United States are now demonstrating this, and giving away five hundred thousand pen tapers, so that Parker Pen buyers can have two pens in one. This gift offer ends Nov. 15—sooner if all free tapers are gone.

But until that time every purchaser of a Parker Duofold Pen will receive a pen taper free, whether he buys a Desk Base or not. There's a Parker dealer near your college. Stop in and see this demonstration before this offer expires.

Special to Parker Pen Owners: Dealers will also give you the Taper FREE, so you can convert the pen you have, if you get a Parker Desk Base. The Parker Pen Company, Jamesville, Wis.

Greta Garbo soars to fresh heights of dramatic achievement in "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," which will be the feature picture at the State on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the picturization of the famous David Graham Phillips novel, directed for the screen by Robert Z. Leonard, Garbo negotiates a role demanding frequent transitions, endowing it with an emotional intensity that makes the characterization of the Swedish farm girl who rises to fame and wealth a real one. Her character is one that lives.

Clark Gable plays opposite Garbo in the new film and offers a magnificent performance as the man who first causes the girl to go astray but returns to atone for his recklessness in the years that have witnessed her triumphs and despairs.

Leonard directed the picture with a rare sympathy and understanding and the production abounds in pictorial value and swift action. Wanda Tuschek adapted the novel for the picture and dialogue was supplied by Zaida Sears and Leon Gordon.

The supporting cast is excellent, the featured roles including Jean Hersholt, John Miljan, Alan Hale, Hale Hamilton, Hilda Vaughn and others.

This program will be completed by a Sound News, a Slim Summerville comedy, "Sargie's Playmate," a Talkie, "Shades of Apple Sauce," and a novelty act, "Pearls and Devil Fish."

Hail, hail, the gang's all here—or will be all here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when "Penrod and Sam," First National's brilliant screen version of the immortal Booth Tarkington story of boyhood and girlhood, too, for that matter—comes to the State Theatre.

Penrod is played by Leon Janney, the "regular" boy who won such success in "Courage" with Belle Bennett; in "Old English" with George Arliss and in "The Doorway to Hell," with Lew Ayres. Penrod's freckled pal Sam is portrayed with delightful roughness by the no less famous boy-actor, Junior Coghlan—and there are a score of other rough-neck, romping youngsters, not forgetting Duke, the ill-fated and beloved dog.

An interesting fact about the canine in question is that the same dog who so wisely acts the part in the silent version, nine years ago—acts the part in the present picture. The same director, William Beaudine, also was in charge. Mr. Beaudine, himself the father of a large brood of kiddies, has the interesting experience of directing his own daughter, as the rather domineering sister of Ben. Herman and Verman, the two buddies of the heroes are portrayed by two well known negro boy actors, Dandridge and Robinson. Interesting groups, needful to the story as dads, moms, teachers, and what not, are played by Matt Moore, Dorothy Peterson, Zasu Pitts and others.

The settings are unique, the shack where the secret club of young hoodlums meets, having been built by the kids in the cast. Dialogue, too, much of it, is in the kiddies' own vernacular—"Penrod and Sam" manages to be the best example of grand and glorious entertainment offered this season for kids of all ages—seven to seventy.

The program will be completed by a Sound News, a Charlie Chase comedy, "The Panic Is On," and a novelty act, "India Today."

Bebe Daniels is again cast in the sort of role which first brought her screen fame.

Of course, there is no other role quite like that of the coquettish and captivating Laura, heroine of "The Honor of the Family," playing at the Palace Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, because the astonishing picture is an adaptation of a Balzac romance, and there is but one Balzac.

This greatest of novelists meant to picture with his magic pen the vagaries of all the human family, and had created a vast army of characters, as true to life as the people we know—when his career was suddenly ended.

Laura is the delight and despair, the companion and so-called "nurse" of the rascally old nobleman, Paul Barony, who has more money than he knows what to do with. He is about to accept Laura for good and all—ignorant, of course, of Tony, her secret affinity—when his nephew Boris, a dashing officer of the Hungarian army, arrives with heels clicking, swords clashing, and a determination to prevent his aged relative's shekels from passing from the family chest. Boris sees how things stand—fights deadly duels with Tony and other friends of the demure Laura—frees his uncle and himself falls into the snare Laura sets for any personable gentleman who may venture to loom on her horizon.

Warren William is the last word in the dashing cavalier, the swash-buckling Romeo, and the devoted nephew. If we are not mistaken this is but the second of his screen appearances—after a successful career on the Broadway stage. He has the voice and appearance of John Barrymore—and his work holds promise of becoming even more triumphant on the screen.

Alan Mowbray as the aged and amorous Paul Barony, achieves a remarkable characterization worthy to be classed with his recent portrayal of Washington in "Alexander Hamilton" in support of George Arliss.

The capable cast includes Frederick ing would begin immediately. "The hold-up on road work resulted from rush work in the Highway Commission which will let the contract to a private company for immediate work."

Dormitory Council

Work of the Dormitory Council was praised by the President who stated that no organization had done more good for the institution than this organization.

Automobile Problem

Picturing the increased number of automobiles arriving on the campus annually, Dr. Brooks said that the problem of parking was facing the institution. "A system of chaining the streets may have to be undertaken," he said, "So that students can cross streets without having to climb over cars."

The meeting centered around campus needs and administrative functions with the president predicting that the college would have to reduce student fees rather than raise them for extracurricular activity.

E. L. Cloyd, dean of students and E. S. King, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., praised the President's plan of disseminating administrative information among the student body and both predicted "great accomplishments as result."

Cloyd Talks

"The meeting is the best beginning ever made by the college," said Dean Cloyd. "Whatever outsiders or others may say about the college morale and spirit, that it is not the same is a healthy sign. No college that remains the same is fit to attend. With an increase in students, other attractions are offered which divide interests."

Dr. Brooks stated that he was well pleased with the meeting and said others would be held during the spring and fall terms. "It's a joy to know that there's not as much pessimism on the inside as there is on the outside of the college."

The following organizations were present: Golden Chain, Blue Key, Y. M. C. A., Student Officers, Student Council, Athletic teams, football, basketball, baseball, track, boxing, Student Publications, The Technician, The Agromack, The Wataugan, North Carolina State Agricultural, Self Help Club, Engineers Council, Leazar Literary Society, Pullen Literary Society, Brooks Literature Club, Woman's Student Council, Class Officers, senior, junior, sophomore, Interfraternity Council, Delta Sigma Pi, Phi Psi, Student Agricultural Club, Agricultural Club, Monogram Club, Kappa Phi Kappa.

A screen song, "Gallagher and Shean," "Auto Intoxication," comedy and Sound News complete this good program.

A week of ten-hour working days was used by Charles (Chic) Sale in applying his make-up for "The Star Witness," coming to the Palace Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

This time represented one-fifth of the five weeks before the cameras. It meant, however, no actual loss of studio hours, for Sale applied his greases, rouges and crepe hair in those hours of the morning before the rest of the company came to work.

Sale's character in "The Star Witness" is that of a Grand Army veteran, a feeble but high-spirited old fellow who comes through with flying colors—freeing his kidnapped grandson—foiling the gang that did it and giving a live tip to the cops.

It took Sale two hours each morning—from seven until nine—to prepare for his day's work, for the make-up had to be camera-proof in order to preserve the illusion of age through all manner of close-ups and medium shots.

Walter Hutson and Frances Starr are also featured in "The Star Witness," and the cast includes Sally Blane, Grant Mitchell, Edward J. Nugent, Dicky Moore, Ralph Ince, Tom Dugan, Russell Hopton, Fletcher Norton, Robert Elliott, Guy D'Enery, George Ernst, Mike Donlin, Noel Madison, Ed Deering and Nat Pendleton. Don Wilson and Mope Cumiskey were the chief ground gainers for the Wolves, while playing nice secondary defense were Dellinger and Bohannon. Captain Cobb, Epy, and Duke turned in worthy plays among the linemen.

The big, strong and experienced line of Wake Forest was too much for the 'Pack to penetrate. Very few line plays materialized, with Cornwall, Williams, and Captain Brogren holding well to their positions.

The State club failed to familiarize themselves with a certain spinning play the Deacons had perfected, and this tricky play worked several times for nice gains.

MEREDITH GIVES "PROMISED LAND"

Little Theatre to Present First Play Saturday Night at Eight O'clock

"The Promised Land," a one-act play by H. W. Robinson, will open the year's dramatic activities at Meredith College tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Little Theatre.

Stellar roles will be played by Misses Elizabeth Lee of Florence, S. C., Hilda Herring of Goldsboro, Marjorie Fordrie of Beaufort, Josephine Ball of Raleigh, Susan Wall of Madison, Jean Lassiter of Wilson. The play is being directed by Miss Ethel English, freshman faculty supervisor, who has had extensive training and experience in this type of work. Tickets may be obtained at the door at a nominal price.

With Sir James Barrie's "Quality Street" as the contemplated major production this semester, the Little Theatre is creating much interest on the campus. The Little Theatre is composed of a select group of the college campus, who are not only primarily interested in dramatics but also take an active part in the productions. Those who play the leading parts in the major plays staged by the various organizations are elected to the club as active members, while those who play minor roles and yet evidence considerable talent are voted in as associate members. Through a division of the club into four groups, which include play-reading, staging, make-up and costumes, the aim of the Little Theatre, to give every member an opportunity to gain a general idea of dramatics and dramatic proceedings, is carried out in a most unique and beneficial manner.

The first meeting of the Little Theatre for this year was held last week. At that meeting the following new members were voted in: Active membership, Misses Beatrice Vogel, Nancye Vicellio, Ethel Swanson; associate membership, Misses Emily Miller, Virginia Garnett and Eliza Briggs. The old members include: Misses Lotie Bell Meyers, Mary Lee, Nancy McDaniel, Rachel Biggs, Martha Vicellio, Pat Abernethy, Sallie Council and Roxie Collie. The officers of the Little Theatre are: Roxie Collie, president; Nancy McDaniel, vice president, and Martha Vicellio, secretary-treasurer.

GARDNER'S OPPORTUNITY

School spirit and morale is a much talked of need which rests not entirely upon students of State College.

Only this week, the University of North Carolina dedicates her new $100,000 auditorium that was built from the "Emergency Fund" of the State of North Carolina.

There's not a single place on the campus where the entire student body may meet to discuss its problems, or hear speakers that fill in the well-rounded education necessary to every college graduate.

State College sits by, and don't attribute it to the depression, with folded hands and cries out for a better morale.

Several years ago, the Pullen Hall auditorium was condemned—and promptly the institution built a fire-escape. The University of North Carolina's auditorium was condemned recently, but what did they do? Their auditorium was condemned and was torn down—"Governor Gardner," says the University, "We have no meeting place for our student body," and today the University dedicates a new auditorium.

That Governor O. Max Gardner is an alumnus of State College would seem to be encouraging to State collegians, but not so. In his entire administration, he has done little or nothing for his alma mater.

State College does not begrudge any additional educational facility that may come to the University. It only hopes for more for her, knowing that as she banquets, that State College will get the crumbs. But even so, the crumbs are scarce.

Mr. Gardner is a heavy eater and sets his table at the University. He feeds with intellectuals in a comparative palace of educational luxury.

Several summers ago, at the Farmers' Convention at the college, our loyal Governor declared before hundreds of agricultural folk that to State College he owed his education primarily. He pictured himself as somewhat of an orphan boy, fed and clothed in education from the State College.

Governor Gardner has a real opportunity to prove himself a worthy alumnus. State College needs an auditorium.

A new auditorium will be an effective educational tool, and with the majority of State graduates being absorbed in the State, an auditorium will be an invaluable aid in turning out better prepared college graduates.

As better trained college graduates are turned out, the better return North Carolina taxpayers will receive on their investment.

Like the present "World Memorial" tower, Pullen Hall is useless in so far as a practical gathering of the student body is concerned.

UNWRITTEN LAWS

There are no freshman rules this year. The student body last year recognized the silliness of such laws.

There are no freshman caps to distinguish the first year man from the upperclassman.

There is no statute compelling a freshman to speak to an upperclassman—but herein lies the possibility of much of your success during the remainder of your college career.

* One of man's greatest assets is friends. Without them he is lost in this mechanical world.

That you speak to your fellow students is not a request but a gentle urge. You will find that the closer you can become affiliated with the student body, the wider your range of friends, and the wider your range of friends—the more successful your college life will be.

Your freshman year at college will be your happiest and most successful if you start early making friends.

The student body does not look upon a freshman as being inferior—upperclassmen want to help you without making you feel "dictated to," listen to their advice—much will be worthless but you will find three years of experience in many of the suggestions they offer.

KWITCHERBELLEACHIN

Heralded all over the campus, announced at the four corners of the college, a Student Body "Pep" meeting was scheduled for Wednesday night—just before the Wake Forest game.

The students poured out—nearly 140. The college coaches were there, but not for long. The president of the Student Body announced that the meeting had been temporarily postponed. The exact meaning of the word, temporary—depends upon the entire college student body.

It is naturally understood that cheering and yells do not gain those ten yards that the Wolves have needed more than once, but it is universally known that the support and morale of a football team depends largely upon the reception they receive from the student body.

Whether the student body is satisfied with the present football status is not the question. In no uncertain words, "Clipper" Smith and Captain Charlie Cobb have publicly stated that the material this year is scarce. The reserve strength of the team is very weak and injury has befallen several of the squad. This information was not given as an alibi—it's a sad reality. Smith and Reese are not alibi men.

Unofficially we can say that both gridiron mentors were disappointed at the poor showing of students at the college's first big "proposed" pep meeting. A showing of approximately 140 State men out of a student population of nearly 2,000 isn't very good.

And yet, many students moan and groan over a football defeat. Many lament the poor showing against Florida and the licking by Clemson.

The football team is well satisfied with its new mentors. The captain of the team says there are no better in the Southern Conference. The president of the college pledges his support for the administration and faculty to the Wolves and their tutors. Can the student body expect a new auditorium or stadium with a supporting ratio similar to the enthusiastic reception of the pep meeting idea?

The worst team in the Conference can be bettered by sincere support. After all, the football team is not employed by the institution and they work gratis for your betterment and for a greater prestige at the college. They deserve your unselfish support—if you do not feel they deserve it, then kwitcherbelleachin.

STIMULATING

A new stimulant to college education and progress was inserted in the veins of State College campus leaders Tuesday night by President Eugene Clyde Brooks.

Explaining State College functions, both administrative and student, the President touched, with ease, the admiration and cooperation of nearly thirty-seven organizations.

For the first time in the history of the institution, campus leaders were informed of administrative problems and lectured on vital subjects to the entire student body.

From the consolidation to tennis courts, Dr. Brooks gave answers without hesitation.

That information of this nature was not given the students long ago perhaps resulted in deterring progress.

Unanimous was the opinion that the gathering of organization heads was the most informative and progressive meeting ever attended by student leaders.

The president took time off to discuss minute details of student needs and with equal pains explained the approaching consolidation that gives promise of affecting every North Carolina student.

State College is fortunate in having a president who will give the student body his time instead of following politics and letting the collegian learn where he may.

College education is more than the mere learning from books—it comes with association with both administrative and faculty men.

The meeting of these leaders cannot go without notice on the campus. Perhaps the good accomplished will not be tangible, but the results will be seen during the entire year.

BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

A football player left State College this week, not to return for the remainder of the year. "Mat" Matlack of Louisville, Kentucky is no longer with the Wolfpack.

State College never had a more conscientious and loyal student. He was a booster and good student. He was liked by all who knew him and was an asset to the institution as well as the football team.

"Mat," in the eyes of someone, was no more good to the college after he was operated upon for appendicitis. He could no longer play football.

His parents were taxed considerably by the expense and could not furnish further funds. So "Mat" had to go home.

Yesterday, Captain Charles E. Cobb, Jr., received a telegram from this one-time student and player. It read—

"Pulling for you today know you boys will give your best. (Signed) 'Mat'."

Whether Matlack can ever play on the Wolfpack, every student of the college is proud to have had such a student for a classmate. One does not always have to be on the team to be a man.

On the football team there's a saying—"a few incidents forthcoming." This phrase means something to every football player, and we hope Grider Matlack will return.

EXHIBITS PLACED BY DEPARTMENTS

Chemical Engineering, Forestry and Textile Phases Are Displayed

GIVE SEPARATE TENT FOR COLLEGE DISPLAY

Eleven Booths Represent as Many Departments in Agriculture School

By F. H. JETER

A big feature of the Fair this year are the exhibits of the State departments and institutions, showing what is being done along educational and constructional lines all the way from teaching college students to weave intricate textile patterns to the success of vocational agriculture teachers in weaning the up and coming farm generation away from the cash crop evil. The exhibit of the division of vocational education of the State Department of Education, midway of the west end of the main exhibit hall, is an eye-opener. There the fair visitor's attention is caught by a huge map of the State set up under supervision of Roy H. Thomas, State Supervisor of Vocational Agricultural Education, and J. K. Coggin, assistant.

That map tells things with its dots denoting the 187 communities in 80 counties offering pupils instruction under the State program. In these 18,900 young Tar Heels are practicing living at home in a convincing way. Their figures, graphically illustrated in the 60-foot exhibit, show five years' progress in diversification as follows:

Cotton's Abolition
In 1926 the student in cooperating high schools and adult farmers working with them, raised 58 per cent cotton and 42 per cent food and feed-stuffs. This year they had cut the cotton crop to 28 per cent and increased their feed and foodstuffs to 72 per cent, and the livestock total was up 9.7 per cent.

Another section of the exhibit shows the vocational agricultural work in the Woodleaf High School in Rowan County. This school features certified seeds, and through their use increased the value of its crops from $94,415.44 in 1925, to $170,902.15 in 1931, an increase of $76,487.71 over a five-year period of falling commodity prices.

Assisting with display were A. L. Teachey, J. M. Osteen and E. N. Meekins, district supervisors.

Students' Fair
Eleven booths representing as many departments in the school of agriculture at State College, form the nucleus of the fair within the fair put on by students in agriculture at the college this week.

The first of the 11 displays shows the work done in agricultural education and illustrates some of the projects which the young men who go out to be agricultural teachers in the high schools carry on at college.

The second booth shows the value of purebred livestock and was arranged by students in the department of animal husbandry. Two purebred calves of the Jersey and Guernsey breeds are housed in the booth. The third display is perhaps one of the best at the fair. It shows what to do on the poultry farm the year round. The various steps in successful poultry practice are exhibited.

The fourth booth shows a well arranged farmstead and was placed by students in agricultural economics. A balanced agriculture for the State is suggested. The fifth booth shows the different publications available at State College and a student is in charge of this display throughout each day. A number of farmers have made requests for publications at this exhibit.

Plant Disease Control
How to control plant diseases is displayed by students in the botany department and the new course in game management is exhibited by students in the zoology department. Horticulture and forestry complete the departmental booths with the final space in the center of the large tent being used for entries in the individual crops contest. A number of the students have had material sent from their home farms to compete for the prizes offered.

Another exhibit from State College attracting considerable attention at the State Fair this week is that put on by the students in the textile school. In addition to portraying the various activities of this school the students have installed a large Jacquard loom with which they are weaving cloth photographs of President E. C. Brooks and the governors of the various southeastern states. The display was arranged under direction of Dean Thomas H. Nelson.

Over on the other side of the main exhibit hall is an exhibit placed by the department of chemical engineering at State College. This shows the multiplicity of industries served by the chemical engineer and gives an idea of the various professions which a graduate in this department may undertake for his life work. Dr. E. E. Randolph has charge of the display.

A neat exhibit which usually escapes the eye of the casual visitor to the fair is the egg department in the main exhibit hall. This is in charge of N. W. Williams of the State College Poultry Department, and contains about 40 entries of 15 eggs each. Different breeds of poultry are represented in the display.

According to the "Duke Chronicle" the average time it takes a "bull session" to start on the subject of women is six minutes.

This fact was determined by two students in psychology, who went to twenty-five rooms and started twenty-five "bull sessions" with any subject but that of women or anything that pertained to them.

Some student psychologist should discover the conversational proclivities at State in regard to this subject.

Marshall College
Marshall College ("Thundering Herd") has sent to Yellowstone park for one male buffalo, from the United States Government herd there.

The beast, to be used as a mascot for college athletic teams, is to be named by a contest open to students. Does anybody know where there is a wolf running around loose?

Those Wide, Open Spaces

"The time has come," the printer said, "To get the copy in, And if you leave a vacant space No bigger than a pin, We'll fill it up with comic strips, For vacancy is sin."

We counted column inches; And we counted "ands" and "thes," We searched the dictionary For words as long as these: xthemyltrusvelomethility. We added nouns and adjectives, And adverbs by the score, And still, alas, the printer cried For more and More and MORE! At length, within me determined, Armed with our Underwood, We said we'd face that awful blank And fill it if we could, So in sheer desperation We improvised this rhyme, And if you think it's easy, Just send one in sometime. —Chowanian.

College-trained engineers revisit the athletic field

ON more than a hundred floodlighted fields, football is being played and practiced in the evening hours, before larger audiences than ever before—with fewer injuries and in better conformity with classroom duties.

This constructive revolution in athletics is largely the work of college-trained engineers— young men personally familiar with the needs of college and school. They are dedicating the technical experience gained in the General Electric Test Department to the practical service of undergraduate athletics—designing and installing floodlighting equipment for virtually every sport—football, baseball, hockey, tennis, and track.

Other college men in the General Electric organization have specialized in street-lighting and floodlighting projects, or in the electrical equipment of industries and mines or of immense power stations; some are designing and applying electric apparatus to propel ocean liners and locomotives. All are engaged in the planning, production, or distribution of G-E products and so are performing a work of national betterment and creating for themselves recognized spheres of personal influence.

STATE-DEAC GAME RETOLD WITH PLAY BY PLAY ACCOUNT

Bob Edwards and Dunk Wilson
Featured in Old Battle Between Wake Schools

(Editor's Note: The play by play account of the State-Deacon game was written by Fred Dixon of the State Publicity Bureau.)

Playing behind the redoubtable Bob Edwards and Dunk Wilson, Wake Forest took the annual gridiron game from North Carolina State here yesterday by a 6 to 0 score.

Following is a play by play account of the Deacon-State game:

First Half

First Quarter: Hutchins of Wake Forest kicked off to start the game. Don Wilson, State half, took the ball on his 20 yard line, headed straight down the field and was stopped on his own 42 by Cornwell, brilliant Wake Forest center. Dellinger hit center for a half yard. Wake Forest was off-side and State had the ball on its own 48 yard line. Don Wilson on a fake got three around left end. Shinn, Deacon fullback, stopped him. Cumiskey hit right tackle but was stopped for no gain by Webb, 235 pound Deacon tackle. Webb was off-side on the play and State got five and a first down, placing the ball on the Deacon's 45 yard line. Don Wilson lost three, but both teams were off-side. State still having four downs and ten to go. Wilson hit center on next play for five yards, Shinn stopping him. Dellinger, on a wide end run, got four. Cornwell and Webb stopped him. Ball on the 37 yard line. Cumiskey smothered at line for a small loss. Greason punted out on the Deacon's 11 yard line.

On a fake, Dunk Wilson of Wake Forest hit line, but was stopped by Stoupe for no gain. Shinn punted to Jeffrey who was tackled for no gain on the Deacon's 45 yard line by Edwards.

Pass, Don Wilson to Dellinger got 45 yards and a touchdown. Wake was holding and the play was called back and State was penalized 15 yards. Dellinger made a beautiful run, but fumbled as he fell across the line. Scholl of State falling on the ball for a touchdown that didn't count. On a fake, Jeffrey got a half foot, Cornwell stopping him. Dellinger went around right end for four yards, Webb getting the tackle. Greason punted over the goal from his own 42 yard line.

Cumiskey hit center for five yards stopped by Williams when it looked as if Mope would get loose for a touchdown. Brogden threw Wilson for a yard loss on the next play. A pass, Wilson to Jeffrey got four yards, Jeffrey being stopped by Shinn. Greason punted on the fourth down, the ball going over the goal. It was a 48 yard punt.

Dunk Wilson hit right end for five yards, being stopped by Don Wilson. Edwards stopped by whole State line on a center play. Shinn kicked to Jeffrey who took the ball on his own 45 yard line and ran it back to mid-field being stopped by Dudley as the first quarter ended.

Carolina Only Exception to Members Engaging in Warfare Among Big Five League; Davidson Celebrates "Home-Coming Day" With Duke Blue Devils; Carolina and Georgia Stage Contest at Chapel Hill

All members of the Big Five engage in warfare among themselves this week with the exception of Carolina, who meet the Georgia "Bulldogs" in the feature game of the week at Chapel Hill.

North Carolina State and Wake Forest meet at Raleigh in the annual affair as a feature of the North Carolina State Fair. The game will be played at Riddick Field and will celebrate "Dad's Day" at State College. This will be the twenty-fifth time that State College and Wake Forest have met. State has come out victorious in twenty meetings, while Wake Forest has gained four decisions. Early season scores give the "Pack" a slight advantage over the "Deacons."

WOLFPACK WAITS CATHOLIC SQUAD HERE THIS WEEK

Catholic University of Washington to Play Smithsonians
Under Lights

GAME WILL MARK FIRST
VARSITY NIGHT PLAYING

Pleasant Weather Conditions Expected to Better Wolfpack Club for Gruesome Entanglement Against Capital City Machine; Game to be Next to Last Affair at Home for Smith's Men During This Season

With the Wake Forest game well on record, the Wolfpack of N. C. State is now turning their attention to the coming game with Catholic University of Washington, D. C. The game will be staged this coming Friday night, October 23, here on Riddick Field at eight o'clock.

This will mark the first varsity game under the lights here on home territory, and will be the first appearance for the visiting club in this section.

Visitors Win

The Catholic aggregation has been victorious in their two games thus far this season, chalking up a win over the heavy New York University and winning from a neighboring Washington team by over the fifty mark to nothing.

Cold weather is expected to greet the Wolfpack squad with the renewal of practice Monday, and particular heavy scrimmages are carded for this week's work. The tackling and blocking tactics, which Coach "Uppes" Smith has been drilling his charges daily, were greatly improved yesterday in the Wake Forest game.

The new mentors are not quite satisfied with the showing of their Wolves in this line of ball, and special attention will be paid again to this art of play this week. It was reported.

Line-Up Uncertain
The line-up which started the contest yesterday was new in regard for the opening whistle. The new Wolves performed well, despite the fact that their newness in the line-up caused some anxiety to local fans, but as far as the playing team which will be carded as number one for next week, that is very dubious.

The Wolfpack will go on the field favorite to win over the Catholics, but the visitors are being drilled long and hard for the game as they did not have a game over the week-end. Catholic University is expected to use a revamped team Thursday.

Duke meets Davidson in a Big Five contest to be played as a feature of "Homecoming Day" at Davidson. Duke should be able to take the fighting "Wildcats" but anything might happen when these two teams meet. "Doc" Mathis, veteran Wildcat forward will probably be out of the Duke game due to a dislocated shoulder. Davidson last week lost to V. P. I. by a score of 18 to 6, while Duke turned back Villanova 18 to 0.

BOXING SCHEDULE RELEASED TODAY

Seven Matches Carded for This Year's Schedule by State
Boxing Team

FIVE MATCHES STAGED FOR STATE THIS YEAR

Location of Fight With University of South Carolina Is Not Settled As Yet

Seven boxing matches have been carded for the 1932 N. C. State College boxing team. Five of the meets will be staged in Raleigh.

The match with the University of Carolina on January 19 is tentative as to place and no definite date has been set for the Citadel bouts in Charlotte. Dates now being considered are February 3 or 9. The schedule as it now stands, is: January 16, V. P. I. at Raleigh. January 19, University of North Carolina (place undecided). January 29, Duke at Raleigh. February 6, South Carolina at Raleigh. February 12, Washington and Lee at Raleigh. February 20, Maryland at College Park, Maryland. February 3 or 9, The Citadel at Charlotte.

Two New Ones
Maryland and Carolina are two new schools on State's schedule this winter. Boxing was begun at State last year and it immediately became one of the leading sport attractions at the college. In the first home appearance with Duke, over 3,000 people were present.

Espey and Karig
State's team this school year is being led by Red Espey, undefeated heavy weight, and H. E. Karig, 115 pound fighter, one other letter man is also back. He is L. E. Bowers, 135; Carl Hinson, 160 did not return to school this year. There are several promising yearling men of the 1931 team. The team is coached by Lieutenant C. H. Elms of the State College R. O. T. C. unit.

Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina is a regular attendant at the N. C. State College football games played on Riddick Field. He was in the guest box when the Wolfpack played Florida and has also watched the yearlings in their two games with Oak Ridge and Duke.

Dink Dellinger and Mope Cumiskey, half and fullback of the State team, continued their great defensive play in the Clemson game. Time and time again they were called on to stop fast traveling Clemson Tigers after they had penetrated State's forward wall. Only on one occasion did a Clemson back get loose for a long run.

Red Utley, center, and Dink Dellinger, halfback, were the only men to obtain injuries in the game with Clemson. Dellinger injured a muscle in his hip and Utley received a bruised rib.

N. C. State's freshman football team will be idle for two weeks. Their next game is with Davidson at Davidson on Friday, October 23.

Wolfpack Enters as Favorites But

in Game in Charlotte; McQuage

Spectators in Early Period

Clemson College defeated the N. C. State Wolfpack last Saturday by a 6 to 0 score in a Southern Conference game played in Charlotte. The Wolfpack entered the game as favorites but the powerful Tiger team took advantage of a march down the field to tally early in the final period.

It was Clemson's day to play ball. The Tigers were never in grave danger and kept the ball deep in State's territory most of the time. Lack of scoring punch kept the Clemson score to six points, as several times the ball was placed on State's 10 yard line, but the Tigers were unable to pierce the heavy Wolfpack line.

Captain Charlie Cobb was the bright light in State's line, smearing the Tiger backs at the line of scrimmage play after play. In the backfield, Dellinger, Comiskey, Don Wilson, and quarterback McQuage were outstanding. Dellinger and Comiskey were particular good in the defense, with a nice exhibition of tackling; while the ground gainers consisted of the latter two.

The Tiger's march to the promised land started late in the third quarter. Greason kicked from his own 20 yard line well into Clemson's territory. Prester started the drive down the field with a couple of first downs. Here the quarter ended. The ball was on State's 19 yard line.

Touchdown Here
After play was resumed, Hook and Lambert placed the oval on the two yard line. State's defense stiffened and only after three tries were the Tigers able to score. Lambert made the touchdown. Cobb was the main cog in the Wolfpack machine during this play.

The game had been rather listless before the Clemson tally, with Bob McQuage furnishing the excitement with a 24-yard run and another Bob—Greason, by name—with several nice blocks.

State took to the air on numerous occasions during the contest; several being completed for gains, but with the Tiger defense functioning too well on others.

Dope Bucket Is Turned Over In Week's Play of Big Five

Chief Up-set Among North Carolina Teams is Duke's Win Over Villanova Gridsters; Carolina Held to Scoreless Tie by Florida Alligators; Davidson Wildcats Lose to V. P. I. Gobblers Grid Team

Several upsets occurred along the "Big Five" football fronts last week-end.

Chief among the upsets was Duke's 18 to 0 defeat of the highly-touted Villanova team, at Durham. The Villanova team brought about was regarded by Coach Harry Stuhldreher, one of the famed "Four Horsemen," as the greatest in years at the Pennsylvania school. The stellar playing of "Kid" Brewer, Duke fullback was largely responsible for the blue devil victory. Emery "Pat" Adkins, Duke center, was a tarty in the Duke line, and broke up many Wildcat plays ere they started. Duke seems to have hit their stride of a year ago after being given a setback by South Carolina.

Carolina 0, Florida 0
Carolina held the Florida Alligators, which a few days ago defeated the Wolfpack, to a scoreless tie in Gainesville, Florida. Carolina was on Florida's one-foot line twice, and within the five-yard line a third time, but did not have the necessary punch to put the ball over. Johnny Branch and "Rip" Stusser did some nice broken-field running to threaten the "Gator" goal more than once. Florida never threatened to score, and seldom advanced the ball beyond mid-field.

The scrapping Presbyterians of Davidson lost to V. P. I. 18 to 6. After playing the Virginians off their feet during the first half, which ended with a score 6 to 0, for the Wildcats, "Doc" Mathis, star Wildcat forward received a serious shoulder injury that will probably keep him out of the Duke game Saturday. Orden, second string guard, will probably start against Duke at guard in place of the injured Mathis.

Wake Forest's scheduled game with Atlantic University, of Norfolk, was canceled. The Demon Deacons took advantage of the open date to prepare for their annual affair with N. C. State which is an added attraction of the N. C. State Fair. The game was to be played on Riddick Field.

MATLACK LEAVES STATE TO WEAKEN GRID HOPES

Financial Trouble and Injury Is Alleged Reason for State
Guard Loss

"Mat" Matlack, stellar guard of last year's Wolfpack, will be lost to the N. C. State football machine for the remainder of the season, it was definitely learned yesterday.

Matlack had been a candidate for his old guard position until injured early in the season. Matlack was a popular griddier, and monogram man at the guard position. He was a star in most of State's games last fall, and will be sorely missed in the "Wolfpack" line this fall.

His recent injury plus financial difficulties, were reported to be the cause of the popular griddier's leaving. Matlack's home is in Louisville, Ky.

TWENTY-TWO MEN REPORT AT CROSS-COUNTRY MEET

Heat Reduced Squad to Dozen
Members; Long Runs Are Scheduled Daily

Twenty-two candidates for the 1931 cross-country team reported last week for places on the team. The squad has been running daily, from 2 to 3 miles. Due to the intensive heat the squad has been reduced to about 12 or 13 candidates. P. Burns and A. S. Lloyd, Winston-Salem and Charlotte boys respectively, have been in charge of the squad.

Candidates for the team are: J. L. Burnette, P. Burns, G. W. Hedgecock, Tom Hines, C. E. Jones, W. Lambeth, A. S. Lloyd, Auburn, Lucas, H. T. Moore, E. B. Smith, J. L. Summers, and J. Post.

WRESTLING PLANNING MAKES COME-BACK HERE

Wrestling fans of State College may have the opportunity of seeing this sport again at State this season, if plans of various students materialize. A petition is being issued by mat enthusiasts here to bring the activity into effect. This sport was banned from the sports calendar recently by the Faculty Athletic Committee, but action will be taken by the body to reinstate the activity if popular demand deemed great enough, it was announced.

Motion Pictures

The United States has 22,371 motion picture theatres with an aggregate seating capacity of 11,990,000, according to a survey made by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., of which Will H. Hays is the head.

Ills of Animals

Squirrels, rats, beavers, and porcupines have a weakness for Bright's disease, while hoofed and horned animals as a class show vulnerability of the heart. The apes and monkeys suffer much from tuberculosis and intestinal disorders.

Captain Charlie Cobb of State was the outstanding linesman in the State-Clemson game Saturday at Charlotte. Cobb was in practically every play and three-fourths of the line tackles were made by this 207 pounds of all-State material.

Duke University's Blue Imps defeated the Techlets of N. C. State College, 21-6, in a football game of freshmen teams staged on Riddick Field last Friday. A turnout of around 4,000 fans saw the yearling battle in which the winning team made only one first down while the Techlets made 11.

Brumbach, a halfback, was the chief performer for the Duke Imps while the Techlets' play was featured by McAdams, quarterback. McAninch, field general for the Imps, also had a big hand in the starring.

The Blue Imps held a 7-0 lead at the end of the first half. Brumbach's 60 yard return of a punt put the ball on the Techlets' 20-yard line from where the Imps went over on eight plays, aided by a five-yard penalty.

A pass, Brumbach to McAninch, was good for 53 yards and a touchdown mid-way of the third period. The third Duke touchdown came in the final period when this Mr. Brumbach, taking a State punt on his own 15-yard line, dashed 85 yards to touchdown.

State's touchdown was tallied in the third quarter and put the Techlets within a point of Duke at that stage of things. A punt exchange gave State the ball on Duke's 40. Three plays later eight yards and Duke drew a 15-yard penalty. Two line plays netted five yards, Goodwin tossed to McAdams to put the ball on the one-yard line and then Rex plunged for the score. ## GIRLS Do Not Smoke Pipes

THE GIRLS haven't left us many of our masculine rights. They fly our airplanes, drive our cars, smoke our cigarettes—but they don't smoke our pipes! They've left us this one manly right, anyway.

A man almost has to smoke a pipe nowadays. A pleasant necessity! For a pipe filled with good tobacco is just about the best smoke a man could want.

And if you're troubled about selecting a tobacco, remember that Edgeworth is the popular favorite in 42 out of 54 colleges. It somehow seems to fit the college man's taste. Edgeworth is cut especially for pipes, it burns slowly, it gives a cool smoke. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or, for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 100 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

Old Grads in Greece
It seems that Greece is well educated. A Greek student in America states that most of Athens' traffic cops are graduates of law school. This closely corresponds to the large number of American hoboes who annually return to their class reunions at "Dear Old Hunkinbusk."

Students in Dormitories

One of the most noticeable things about State College is the large number of students who reside in the dormitories. At most colleges, only a limited number of students make use of these facilities and this number is composed largely of freshmen.

Modern Buildings

Practically all of State's buildings are up-to-date and contain the best equipment available. The General Assemblies of 1921, 1923, 1925, and 1927 appropriated funds by which a new engineering building, gymnasium, power plant, animal husbandry building, and dormitories were erected and equipped, and older buildings of the campus were remodeled.

The President's Flag

The President's flag consists of the President's seal in bronze, upon a blue background, with a large white star in each corner. The design of this seal may be seen in the floor of the entrance corridor of the White House.

Observation revealed that co-eds of the University of North Carolina are superstitious. In trimming campus trees a ladder was placed leaning across one of the main sidewalks. A check-up revealed that nine out of ten co-eds walked around the ladder, rather than take the easiest path under it. Further investigation showed that few of them know how to drink out of a bottle. Observation at the campus "dope stand" revealed that more men than women attack a "dope" with the same tactics used by an infant in consuming milk from a nursing bottle.

Are they as good as when the ruffles came down to the ankles?

GOOD? . . . You bet they are! Maybe the girls are even better. Anyhow, cigarettes are a whole lot better. No doubt about that.

They used to be made by hand—

Now it's machines; no hand but yours ever touches them.

They used to be packed in expensive, highfalutin' cardboard boxes—

Now the quality is in the cigarettes.

The U. S. Revenue Tax used to be a penny a package of twenty—

Now it's six cents a package of twenty.

Tobacco used to be dried by air—

Now Liggett & Myers alone has thirty-five drying machines of the latest type, with a daily capacity of over 2,000,000 pounds—and over four miles of warehouses for tobacco storage.

BETTER—they're miles better! Everything used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is the best that money can buy or that Science knows about.

CHESTERFIELD TOBACCOS—both Turkish and Domestic—are mild and ripe, the best that money can buy.

AND THE WAY Chesterfield tobaccos are blended and cross-blended is like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco, with greater smoothness, more mildness and a more pleasing aroma—a fragrance and flavor not to be found in any other cigarette.

CHESTERFIELD gives you the benefit of all the world knows about the production of better cigarettes. Nobody smokes a better cigarette than Chesterfield.
