Jimmy Poyner and State Military Band to Help Furnish Music For Affair

MUCH MUSICAL VARIETY OFFERED FOR SPECTATORS

Ball is One of 5,000 Being Staged Over Country in Honor of President Roosevelt's Birthday; Funds to Go for Warm Springs Foundation; Much of College Set to Attend Dance; Large List Of Entertainers Offer Services

Four select music units will spice a program of variety and elaborateness at the Raleigh Birthday Ball. The affair will be in the nature of a tribute to President Franklin Roosevelt on his 52nd birthday. The Raleigh ball will take place at the Memorial Auditorium, on January 30, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. A featured contest of dance music will take place between the Duke Collegians and Jimmy Poyner's State Collegians. This will be alternated with two-minute talks by coaches "Hunk" Anderson, "Doc" Newton, Carl Snavelly, Wallace Wade, and Jim Weaver. In addition to this will be the blues singing of Lib Smith, a snappy floor show, selections by a quartette from the University of North Carolina, and a grand march to the accompaniment of State College's Military Band.

Enthusiastic cooperation from civic clubs, lodges and social organizations have assured Raleigh of a successful celebration. An imposing array of guest entertainers ascertaining this city the five thousand Presidential Birthday Balls to be attended by people of all stations and interests throughout the nation on Tuesday night. Orchestras, bands, singers, dancers and other artists included in the entertainment menu have volunteered their services without charge. The proceeds from the lowly priced admission tickets will be transmitted with birthday greetings to the President's fund for treatment of infantile paralysis.

Students from Peace Junior College and St. Mary's School have received special permission to attend the party and large delegations are expected from Chapel Hill, Duke, Wake Forest and North Carolina State. A program designed to please people of every age invites the presence of thousands. The volunteer services of Slade Hardee and members of the Central Carolina German Club has assured the fact that none will attend by side doors, rear doors and windows.

A colossal birthday cake prepared by Dr. A. W. Tucker, of St. Mary's School, will center a fitting arrangement of gay decorations designed by Miss Louise Norman Williams and Miss Sara Busbee. Two floor boxes will be arranged. Governor and Mrs. J. C. B. Ehringhaus with their official party will occupy one of these and Mayor and Mrs. George Isely with the city Commissioners will occupy the other. The committee in charge has determined that each person attending shall be made to feel equally at home. Improved loud speakers will carry the program to all parts of the hall in ample volume.

Promptly at 8:30 o'clock, the State College Band, under the direction of C. D. Kutschinski, will start the party. 9:00 to 9:30 o'clock, a lively floor show of accelerated skits will be presented under the supervision of Misses Louise Williams, Sara Busbee, Elizabeth Dees and Stella Goldsmith. Among the featured numbers will be the team of four winsome girls which received enthusiastic acclaim at a recent country club event. Lib Smith, radio singer, will follow the floor show with several selections of popular song hits.

At 9:35 o'clock, the quartette from the University of North Carolina will entertain for 15 minutes. Two-minute talks by coaches "Doc" Newton, Wallace Wade, Jim Weaver, Carl Snavelly and "Hunk" Anderson will be intermingled with the various school songs.

From ten minutes past ten o'clock until 10:15 o'clock, the State College Band will play while dancers form in line for the Grand March, which will be led by Governor and Mrs. Ehringhaus and will include all dancers. At 10:25 o'clock, dancing will begin while alternate music is furnished by the "Collegians," orchestras from Duke (Please turn to page four)

PROF. SELECTED TO TEACH SOILS

Dr. C. B. Clevenger Secured to Take Position Held by Late Dr. W. B. Cobb

Dr. Clinton B. Clevenger, graduate in soils at Ohio State University and awarded the doctor's degree at the University of Wisconsin, has been secured by the department of agronomy at State College to continue the teaching in soils interrupted by the recent death of Dr. William Battle Cobb.

Dr. Clevenger was graduated from the Ohio State University in 1912 and took his master's work in soils at the same institution in 1913. After working in soil analysis research at the Illinois Experiment Station, he went to the University of Wisconsin as an assistant in the soils department. While there he took work which led him to his Ph.D. degree in 1919. Later he was connected with the United States soil survey. From 1927 to 1932 he worked with the United and Standard Fruit companies as soil expert for their properties in Honduras and other Central American countries. Returning to the United States in 1932, he accepted the courses in soils and allied subjects at State College. He was a fellow at the North Carolina Experiment during 1933 until Dr. Cobb's death.

Dr. Clevenger is a member of the American Society of Agronomy, the American Soil Survey Association, the International Society of Soil Science, and a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He is also member of three honor and scholastic fraternities. A number of scientific papers have been contributed by him to various journals in his profession.

C. B. Williams, head of the department of agronomy at State College, says the department is fortunate to secure such a capable teacher to carry on the work laid down by Dr. Cobb.

Paper To Sponsor Contest For Most Attractive Co-ed

Who's the best looking co-ed on the State College campus?

Some controversy has arisen on the above subject between different members of the male contingent of the student body, and to settle this problem THE TECHNICIAN is going to sponsor a beauty contest to determine the best looking co-ed by popular vote of the student body.

While this is the primary reason for holding the contest, there is also a secondary reason. Various co-eds have complained about not having received enough publicity, and since it is the policy of the paper to try to please the entire student body, this plan has been resorted to.

Several male members of the student body have been approached on the subject and showed a sufficient amount of interest in the contest to make it possible.

GROUP SPONSORS COLLEGE ACTORS FOR APPEARANCE

Experimental Theatre Appears Tonight in Wilmington Before Thalian Club

ALSO INVITED TO MEET OF TEACHERS OF SPEECH

Group Plays in Durham Tuesday Evening, and in Rockingham February 2; To Give Extempore and Impromptu Plays; E. H. Paget is Director of Theatre; Bookings Now Being Made For Next Four Months by Group

The State College Experimental Theatre will appear tonight before the Thalian Club of Wilmington as the first in a series of performances before state-wide audiences.

The second appearance will be made in Durham, Tuesday evening, January 30, in the auditorium of the Lakewood School, and the third on Friday evening, February 2, at the Rockingham High School, in Richmond County.

Other engagements are now being arranged. The presentation at Rockingham will take place when the Experimental Theatre appears before the annual convention of the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech at Birmingham, Alabama, April 19.

The appearance in Durham is being sponsored by Mrs. A. R. Wilson, director of dramatics at the Lakewood School. The presentation at Rockingham is under the sponsorship of Miss Helen Hodges, director of dramatics for the school.

The actors will present two new types of plays at these appearances, the impromptu play and the extemporaneous play. In the impromptu play the plot is given the actors when they appear on the stage, and without delay, they present a full one-act play with a climax worked out as the play progresses. This type of play is easy to produce since all that is necessary is a single simple setting and the idea.

The extemporaneous play requires only the setting, as the actors have their own plot, guaranteeing not to give any climax or ending that they have used in practice before.

The actors of the Experimental Theatre are: Dwight Stokes, David B. Young, H. B. Hines, Edwin A. Wolf, H. D. Carpenter, J. B. Brown, and Professor and Mrs. Edwin H. Paget. Technical details are arranged by Mrs. Edwin H. Paget, as assistant director; Frank Busbee, as business manager; and J. B. Brown, as stage manager.

Professor Paget announced that colleges, schools, or little theatres wishing to sponsor performances of the Experimental Theatre should communicate with him at once. Bookings are now being made for February, March, April and May.

William Boyd, regent of the local chapter of Theta Tau, a professional engineering fraternity, gave last evening an account of the national meeting of the society which was held in Chicago, December 28, 29, 30.

The Biennial Convention met at the Medinah Michican Club. While at the convention Boyd served on the Constitutional committee.

JUNIORS SELECT RING CONTRACT

Star Engraving Company Awarded Ring Contract at Junior Class Meeting

The Junior class unanimously approved the recommendations of the ring committee at its initial meeting held Wednesday, January 24. The committee recommended that the ring contract be awarded to the Star Engraving Company, Houston, Texas.

The prices submitted by the Star Engraving Company are: $19.26 for the 10 karat, 12 pennyweight; $25.54 for the 10 karat, 17 pennyweight; $13.34 for the gold over-lay, 12 pennyweight; and $15.79 for the gold over-lay, 17 pennyweight.

The prices quoted include a sales tax of 6.7 per cent. Each student buying a ring must make a $3.00 deposit when the order is placed. A representative of the company will be on the campus with all sizes of the rings and the student is given the privilege to select the size that he wishes.

The class voted to give the three student members on the committee one ring each. These rings will be the 10 karat, 12 pennyweight type. The cost of the three rings will be added to the prices of the rings. The more rings that are sold the less this cost will be per ring sold.

Those serving on the committee are: E. L. Roper, J. F. Abernethy, and C. L. Carrow, junior class president.

The date of the college foundation 1889 will be lowered slightly to prevent the numbers from becoming worn down, and the shield on the side of the ring will be set deeper to prevent wear. The side outline will be more of a straight line instead of being curved as evidenced in previous rings. This feature will shift the center of gravity more to the center of the ring, resulting in a less tendency of the ring to turn on one's finger.

Other companies that submitted bids were Balfour, Elliot, Herz-Jones, Jostens, Metal Arts, and Peters.

DEAN TELLS OF ADVANCE MADE BY STATE COLLEGE

E. L. Cloyd, Dean of Students at State College, told members of the Raleigh Kiwanis Club of progress made by the school under the subject "A Human Insect Cross-section of State College," at their meeting last Friday.

In the 1932-33 term State College has thirty buildings, Dean Cloyd stated, a teaching and administrative, excluding student instructors, clerical and extension workers; and 5,203 students, divided as follows: resident, 1,644; irregular, 185; short courses, 77; correspondence and extension, 799; summer course, 309; and short summer courses, 2,289.

Alexander B. Andrews was in charge of the program of the meeting, which was presided over by President LeRoy Allen. John A. Park, Jr., was received into the club as a new member.

Keep Off

T. N. Johnson, Professor of Industry, has urgently requested that all students refrain from walking across Riddick Field until all work on it has been completed.

Professor Johnson stated that the work of grading has progressed so rapidly that the men are even now seeding the field. To insure a uniform growth of grass, the surface of the field must remain undisturbed.

HARLOW TO GIVE TALKS TO GROUPS ON STATE CAMPUS

Minister to Meet With Students And Faculty Week of January 27-February 2

Y. M. C. A. TO SPONSOR WELL-KNOWN LECTURER

Professor Harlow Also to Address Groups at Shaw University, St. Augustine, and Chapel Hill; Is Well Acquainted With Student Problems Through Wide Experience and Travel; Was Minister for Ten Years in Smyrna, Turkey

Professor S. R. Harlow, ordained minister, will make his first visit to the State campus the week of January 27 to February 2, when he will give an extensive program, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A.

On accepting the invitation to visit the campus he wrote in a letter:

"It is with some misgivings that I have decided to accept your cordial invitation to visit some of the colleges in your neighborhood in January. My chief reason is that it would be cowardly to refuse to come, and in the second place I would lose an opportunity of real fellowship with some of the finest people I have met in recent months and the chance of meeting others. I have just read Professor Mean's book, 'The Advancing South.' How much our Northern people need to know of those things of which he writes. I feel as though there were more ignorance among Northern education leaders of the progress and changing attitudes among Southern leaders than lack of knowledge in the South of what we think. Of course the mass of people in any section know very little about the thought life in other sections. What they share in common is more apt to be a film of Mae West."

Professor Harlow will speak to a number of different groups in the state while here, however, most of his time will be spent on the campus. Saturday night he will be entertained at a luncheon to be held in the Y. M. C. A. for the faculty and their wives and friends. Sunday morning he will preach at Edenton Street M. E. Church. He will speak at the Y. M. C. A. every night at 6:45 except Sunday night, as well as meeting various groups and assemblies over the campus. Professor Harlow will also address groups at Shaw University, St. Augustine and Chapel Hill.

Dr. Harlow has been able to become acquainted with student problems through his extensive work among students, as well as his wide experience and travel. His first official duty was as assistant minister with H. Roswell Allen in the Spring Street Presbyterian Church in New York City.

ETHYL SALES ENGINEER LECTURES TO STUDENTS

L. W. Shank, field sales engineer for the Ethyl Gas Corporation, spoke to a group of engineering students in Winton Hall Wednesday afternoon on the advantages of the use of tetraethyl lead in gasoline.

For demonstration, Shank used a small combination gasoline engine and generator. After illustrating the detonating effect of straight gasoline, he fixed the compound, tetraethyl lead, with the gas entering the cylinder, completely eliminating the detonation.

Several Faculty Members Agree To Caps And Gowns

By F. C. GORE

Of the nine members of the faculty interviewed Wednesday, all agreed that if some of the members of the faculty and the seniors wear the caps and gowns at commencement, all should wear them.

Two of the objections offered by these are the cost and the fact that the cap and gown is a relic of the past and should not be in a technical institution of this kind.

T. S. Johnson, Professor of Industry, says that anything that adds to the dignity of the commencement and that will make it something the students will be proud of should be adopted. He agreed that the cap and gown would have this effect and stated that he was in favor of all who entered into the proceeding to wear them. The one big objection, he said, was the cost. It is unfair to ask the college to pay for them with the reduced budget, and on the other hand with the salaries that

Mr. and Mrs.

During the second half of the State-Carolina game Wednesday night a man, who was evidently a State College alumnus, was sitting with his wife quietly watching the game, when Ray Gely, spectacular guard made one of his long, successful shots from the middle of the floor. The man arose and commenced to shout and wave his hands wildly. In the excitement he struck his wife on the head with a blow that would have felled an ox. She slumped in her seat and began to pale.

The State rooster immediately sat down and proceeded to comfort his broken rib. She soon came out of the daze and the husband remembered thereafter to act the gentleman.

TEXTILE SCHOOL PLANS FOR SHOW

Tompkins Textile Society Elects Officers for Seventh Annual Exposition

Preparations for the seventh annual State College Cotton Style Show to be given by the Textile department in April began recently at a meeting of the Tompkins Textile Society when that group elected officers and made preliminary plans for the exposition.

Dean Thomas Nelson, head of the Textile School, announced that prospects are that the 1934 Textile Exposition and Style Show, in which young ladies from various colleges in North Carolina will participate, will be larger and more elaborate than any of those conducted by the Textile students in previous years.

Election of officers of this annual event is considered among the highest of honors that can be attained by Textile students.

The officers elected at the meeting are as follows: Superintendent, G. T. Gardner; assistant superintendent, W. A. Blackwood; foreman of yarn manufacture, T. L. Ritchie; assistant foreman of yarn manufacture, H. D. White; foreman of weaving, H. M. Foy, Jr.; assistant foreman of weaving, K. W. Horne; foreman of designing, P. W. McCollum; assistant foreman of designing, R. L. Poovey; foreman of dyeing, T. S. Blackwood; assistant foreman of dyeing, J. J. Griffith, Jr.; foreman of knitting, D. A. Brannon; assistant foreman of knitting, E. L. Bolick.

The first of these annual spring style shows was held at State College in 1928 for the purpose of demonstrating to a silk-minded population that women's wear made from cotton goods could be both attractive and stylish. Since that time the event has attracted an increasing amount of interest and attention. Pictures of winning costumes have appeared in leading papers and magazines throughout the country.

Every garment shown at the style show is made from cotton material designed and woven by students in the State College Textile School. Many of the fabric styles shown in previous years have served as an inspiration for clothing manufacturers in following seasons, and the show attracts each year hundreds of women who are interested in new cotton styles.

Representatives from the following colleges were present in the style show last year: Catawba, Elon, East Carolina Teachers, Flora Macdonald, Louisburg, Meredith, Peace, and Saint Mary's.

FACULTY MAKES STRICT RULINGS ON CLASS CUTS

New Requirements Limit Students to Sixty Cuts for Entire Four Years

UNIVERSITY HEAD NAMES DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE

Dean Cloyd Says New Rule Will Affect Only 132 Students or 8.8 Per Cent of Entire Student Body; Student May Now Only Cut Ten Classes a Term and Twenty a Year; Student Placed On Probation After Ten Unexcused Absences

A new ruling made by the Faculty Council Tuesday limits the number of classes a student can cut to ten a term, twenty a year, and sixty for the entire four years in college. The new ruling went into effect immediately.

The student is placed on probation after he has ten unexcused absences from classes. If more than ten are cut, he is referred to the Discipline Committee, which is to be headed by Dean E. L. Cloyd and composed of two other members of the faculty, and subject to dismissal from the school.

This Discipline Committee was appointed by President Frank Graham of the Greater University of North Carolina, who attended the meeting.

During the fall term there were 1,487 students enrolled at this school, and of this number 147 were absent from class ten or more times. Nine of this number are not in school this term. Four left during the fall term without giving any notice, therefore causing absences to accumulate a week or more, and eleven worked at the State Fair without permission, but with the understanding beforehand that they would lose their points due to the absences. According to Dean Cloyd, the new rule governing cuts would then only affect 132 students—8.8 per cent of the student body.

The function of the Discipline Committee would be to hear what the students who break regulations have to say, before taking the case to the Faculty Council.

Dr. Graham expressed himself as being delighted with the studies of faculty committees in the three units of the university. "Colleges throughout the world are disturbed right now," he said. "They are questioning themselves about their methods of teaching and about the results. They are taking an inventory of their curricula and their effects on the student. Have we trained men and women to have a scientific insight into every day problems, they are asking? Is the world being guided aright by its trained minds, the faculties are pondering? I believe that what we are doing in North Carolina is a great adventure in creative education and when we shall have completed our labor, we shall have made a unique contribution."

Col. J. W. Harrelson, as chairman of the general policy committee, aiding other committees appointed by Dr. Graham from the State College faculty recently, called upon the various chairmen for their preliminary reports. E. L. Cloyd, chairman of the student life and welfare committee, reported the progress made by his group in recent weeks. Dr. E. W. Wallis reported for the curriculum committee; Dr. Hugh Leffer, for the comprehensive examinations committee; Dr. L. E. Hinkle for the quarter and semester committee; Ted S. Johnson for the committee on administrative and clerical set-up and Colonel Harrelson for the budget committee.

Dr. Graham announced that a committee on engineering education and one on a state-wide program for agriculture would be organized and announced in a few days. These state-wide committees affecting the relations of the university to the life of the state would follow as the various faculty committees were on their way, he said.

If the attendance is large enough to warrant it this concert will be followed by a series of others with music furnished by the Glee Club and orchestra.

BAND TO GIVE CONCERT IN PULLEN HALL SUNDAY

The State College Band, under the direction of Major C. D. Kutschinski, will give a concert Sunday afternoon in Pullen Hall. The concert is to start at 4:15 and to continue for the better part of an hour. A number of marches, overtures, and waltzes will be played.

If the attendance is large enough to warrant it this concert will be followed by a series of others with music furnished by the Glee Club and orchestra.

FACULTY CO-OPERATION ASKED

Of nine professors asked for their opinion on the wearing of caps and gowns by the faculty at commencement exercises, all gave favorable replies.

The Faculty Council wears these caps and gowns at the exercises, but the general faculty has in the past refused to wear them, giving usually as their reason that they cannot afford them. Two years ago, the senior class went so far as to offer to pay the rental on the faculty's caps and gowns, and even then the group voted against them.

One professor said that the cap and gown "is a relic of the past and has no place in an institution of this kind." There is no reason why "an institution of this kind" should not require that the faculty as well as the seniors wear the proper clothes at the final exercises in a student's college career. The custom of wearing the caps and gowns should be held to here as well as in any other college or university in the United States. The contrast offered when at graduation the instructors of the school turn out in ordinary street clothes and the seniors, true to form, wear their caps and gowns is not fitting for the so-called dignity of a faculty member.

The cap and gown will add dignity to the proceedings and will leave with parents and friends of the graduating seniors something to be remembered rather than the dejected-looking graduations of the past.

Many of the faculty are averse to wearing the attire because of the fact that the gowns are so cut as to differentiate between the man with the bachelor's degree, the master's degree, and the doctor's degree. If the man is afraid lest his pride be hurt because the extent of his college education be revealed, he can be assured that as long as he refuses to wear the cap and gown, he will be set down as backward and a hindrance to the school.

The senior class should petition the faculty to wear caps and gowns at our next graduation, and if the cost is any hindrance to their use, the school should offer to pay the rental of the attire. There is no decent reason that can possibly be given as to why the faculty should continue to be set down as a black mark on the graduation proceedings.

LEARN TO READ

"It took me four years to learn to read," was the statement made by a certain professor to a class of students one day.

Yes, it took four years in college to teach this man to read, and the average college student today, knowingly or unknowingly, is spending his four undergraduate days for that main purpose. He came to the portals of higher learning with a smattering of knowledge as to what education is all about, usually wondering just what there is in college that he doesn't know, asking what college offers besides drinking and dancing and subsidized football, with classes in between. After a few years the portals close behind him, leaving him wiser than before, and sad at the limited prospects for work.

One who has learned to read is one to whom the ability to grasp and retain new knowledge is unlimited. Whether the college is an arts school, an engineering school, an agricultural school, or any kind of college or university that comes within the scope of learning, the ability to read is developed with the understanding of the subject-matter, and a thorough attention to the work at hand.

And so the plentitude of honor societies, keys, and all forms of scholarship competition may be diagnosed and the cause laid to the fostering of the power to "observe and apprehend the meaning of (something written, printed, or ascribed)," as Webster defines "read."

CLASS CUTS RULES

The tightening of the bands on students in regard to class cuts, whereby a student will be permitted only ten cuts a semester, twenty a year and sixty cuts during the whole four years, when he will be put on probation, and then suspended from college for any additional cuts is a post-depression requirement which will go far toward raising the prestige of the school. The laxity of enforcement of rules against class cuts heretofore has flunked more students than the inability of the students themselves.

With such a large number of students having difficulties financially in coming to school, colleges everywhere have been letting down on their requirements in order to retain the few who were able to attend. One student here claims that he had seventy cuts during one term, last year, and he came back to school the following term even though the maximum number of cuts then allowed per term was 1 1/2 times the student's required credit hours.

The announcement of the requirement has met with much disapproval by a majority of the students here, but it will mean that more attention will be paid to school work than to running around, and it will insure the student or whoever is responsible for his being able to attend college that his money will not be spent in vain.

One of the arguments against the new system of punishment for class cuts is that a student who is doing well in his classwork does not necessarily have to attend classes, and that therefore the system should be more lenient. One student was heard to remark, of a class he attends, "We can stay out all term, and still pass the course. He (the instructor) doesn't know whether we're there or not, anyway."

Those who cut promiscuously, regardless of whether they would flunk out or not, are the ones to whom the new ruling will be intolerable, but who will derive the most good from it.

Dean Cloyd, in his report on the new system which he originated, together with his Committee on Student Life and Welfare, says that out of the 1,487 students attending State last term, the rule would affect only 132, or 8.8 per cent of the student body. That will be a consolation for many who are already planning for the future, pending on their being flunked out after a tentative surplus of cuts.

HERE AND THERE

By G. W. FORD

There's a lot of fun in hanging around THE TECHNICIAN office and trying to write a few lines each week. The other day I received a letter from one of our good students. In one part it read, "I don't know you from Adam. . . ." Let me put you straight on this. . . I couldn't tell you just what Adam looked like but I surely don't go around wearing a fig leaf.

The Phi Kappa Tau's, after settling in their new residence, decided that they needed some protection. They went ahead and adopted two watchdogs—twins—Chi and Chapter. The brutes are of the German police type—disguised by a touch of bull dog. But the animals know their business; you should have seen me run Sunday afternoon with four pounds of dog-flesh at my heels.

Friends have asked me what was the idea of erecting that one-story cottage opposite the Pi Kappa Phi house on Hillsboro Street. Well, your guess is as good as mine. It can't be permanent though; they have no roof on it.

Maybe I'm infringing on Brock Sisell's column with this plug but I just have to tell it. Down at the fights last Saturday night something distracted me just as the bell rang for the beginning of Regdon's bout. . . I glanced up for a second but that was too long. . . I had missed half of the fight.

Charlie Dreher, freshman, was in school a week and a half this term before he found out that it was necessary to register again.

We're reading a new book this term, Tom Swift and His Automobile. A funny thing about this car is that last year it was at Notre Dame and this year it's at State. . . Seems to be following "Hunk" Anderson around. . . Quite a coincidence.

Johnny Parrot, Julian Boyles, and A. H. Daves hopped off to Winston-Salem last week-end in Parrot's monoplane. Some one suggested that when I mention this I call them birds. Well now, there are all kinds of birds, ranging from jail-birds to love-birds. . . maybe you could tell me just what species they belong to also.

They tell me that M. E. Rion is quite an expert on roller skates. G. C. Isaacs has been taking exercise on the little wheels too, maybe we could get all the skaters together and work up some kind of competition.

There have been several pretty tall stories abroad so far this term. For the amusement of all of us I'm going to start a Tall Story Club. Here's the low down on it: You send your stories to me and we'll print one each week. Be sure to sign your name to the story so we can elect the All-High-Fiber at the end of the term.

Charley Foy caused quite a bit of commotion over at the Alpha Lambda Tau house the other night when he appeared shaving himself with an electric razor. Just another case of Charlie Foy cutting up.

Caps and Gowns for the Faculty

Shakespeare once said that all the world is a stage. He may have been right in his day but in our times it's just one big game of bridge. Take the following for example: A lady bids on two DIAMONDS at an auction. A burglar has his HEART set on getting them; but her husband holds a couple of CLUBS. Now they're making the burglar a new home with SPADES.

Another sign of jangled nerves...

Door banging, teeth gritting, foot tapping, arguing over trifles—or the old favorite—telephone slamming. . . Just little ways which prove nerves are getting out of hand. . . Danger signals. . . If you're guilty of such gestures, check up—

Watch your nerves. . . Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation.

And smoke Camels—for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

How are YOUR nerves?

TEST No. 13

Take a large sheet of paper, approximately 20" wide by 12" deep. Along the top draw ten circles, each the size of a penny. Along the bottom put ten real pennies. Now pick up the pennies one by one with your right hand and place them as quickly as you can exactly inside the circles at the top of the page, beginning at the left. Have someone time you. Average time is 12 seconds.

State Quintet Meets V. P. I. On Home Court Tomorrow

Terrors Win Games from Virginia And Carolina and Drop Tilt to Duke

STATE WINS CONTESTS BY LAST HALF RALLIES

Jay and McQuage Carry Off High Scoring Honors in Last Two Court Battles

The State Red Terrors will play two more games on the home court before they invade the courts of Virginia next week-end. Tomorrow night the Red Terrors will meet the V. P. I. quintet at the Thompson gymnasium at 8 o'clock. On Monday night the Terrors will meet the Washington and Lee cagers in a feature game at 8 o'clock.

The State freshmen will meet the Raleigh High School cagers tomorrow night in a preliminary game to the V. P. I. game at seven o'clock.

Last Week's Scores

After losing by a close margin to the Duke cagers last week in their first loss of the season, the State cagers came back into their own to defeat the University of Virginia quintet Monday night 35-31 and on Wednesday night to upset and disorganize the smooth-running quintet of Carolina 34-30.

Victories over Virginia and Carolina now place the State team high up in Southern Conference standings.

Virginia Game

The Virginians outplayed State through the first half. At half time Virginia led 19 to 9. In the second half State put on a big rally and at the end of the regular playing time the score stood 29-29. Leroy Jay, Bob McQuage, and Ray Rex scored one basket each in the extra period to give State the margin of victory.

Leroy Jay, towering Terror forward, tied with Sturm of Virginia for high score honors with 120 points each.

Carolina Game

The Carolina quintet opened the game in fine style and stepped out to an eight-point lead before the Red Terrors tallied. State appeared to be completely stopped in the first half. Carolina led 14-9 at the intermission. Just as the opposite picture was presented in the second half. State scored a dozen points before Carolina tallied again.

Leroy Jay and Ray Rex led State's play. A goal by Jay within 30 seconds after the second half started initiated the rally that won the game for State. During the last 20 minutes Rex sank four field goals.

While the individual honors seemed to rest largely with Jay and Rex, Captain McQuage, Flythe and Aycock did a lot of steady playing. McQuage worked as pivot man on a number of State advances toward the basket which led to tallies.

Sports Views

By BROCK SISELL

State's Red Terror basketball team has gotten into the habit in the last four games of giving the spectators some big surprises. They seemingly are playing tricks—making the spectators think they are going to lose the game in the first half—and then in the second period rally to overcome unbelievable obstacles to win the game. Anyone who saw the Terrors play against Carolina, Virginia, Duke, Davidson will not forget the spectacular play of the Terrors.

In the Carolina game Wednesday night those State Terrors were fighting their hearts out for "Old" State and Dr. Sermon, veteran trainer and coach. Without a doubt, Captain Bob McQuage, Ray Rex, Leroy Jay, Charles Aycock, and Stuart Flythe played their best game of the season that night. When a team fights as it fought in that game it is bound to be a "dark" horse for honors in the Conference tourney this spring. A little more experience for Aycock and Flythe would make the Terrors really a serious thorn to its' foes.

The New York daily papers are taking notice of State these days!

Photographers of the New York dailies took several pictures of football players at drill Tuesday afternoon. Pictures were taken of Co-Captain Redding and group pictures of candidates whose homes are near the Big City. Won't be long now before the word N. C. S-T-A-T-E will become a well-known word to people in the Eastern towns who have never heard of State before.

The more I see of this fellow Alex Regdon, powerful 175-pound frosh boxer, the more I am convinced that he will go far in boxing circles. Take that fight with Carolina in which he scored a technical knockout in 35 seconds of the first round—a boxer who has a streak-of-lightning punch like that will aid materially State's varsity boxing team next year. Meanwhile watch what he does to his opponents this season. I believe he is another "Bill Dunaway," but even better.

Don't forget to be present for the V. P. I. basketball game Saturday night in the gym. Everybody and his sister will be there. . . so you might as well be there too.

STATE RINGSTERS TIE UNIVERSITY

Greater University Teams Deadlock for Second Consecutive Year

When N. C. State's varsity boxing team meets the strong University of Georgia team tomorrow night at Athens, there should be bouts fought that would delight the heart of any fight fan. Kenneth Stephens in the unlimited class is scheduled to meet Batchelor of the Georgia team in "one of the feature bouts. Last year, when they met, Stephens won his match in exactly one minute of fighting. Batchelor, captain of next year's Georgia football team will be in the ring to see that the State man does not repeat.

Ryneska of Georgia last year defeated Allan Nease, smooth fighter in State's 125 lb. weight. Nease will be in there fighting to try to reverse last year's decision.

Coach Bill Beatty would make no predictions as to the outcome of the meet with Georgia, but he said his team was in condition for the fray. Beatty gave the tentative line-up for the match. In the 115 pound class, he will have Turner Blissley of Raleigh, veteran of many ring battles. Allan Nease of Savannah, Ga., will fight in the 125 pound class, and S. F. Peacock of Raleigh in 135 pound. Charlie Garner of Portsmouth, Va., is Beatty's veteran fighter in the 145 pound weight. Jack Fabri, 155 pounds, Taylorsville, Ill.; Frank Landis, 165 pounds, Charlotte; Jim Fletcher, 175 pounds; and Kenneth Stephens, unlimited weight class, Apex, complete the line-up for State.

Thus far this season the varsity boxing team has gained a tie in one of their matches and lost one. They were defeated by the University of South Carolina pugs, and last week the match with the University of North Carolina ended in a draw.

Interest Aroused

Johnny Miller, director of the State College Invitational Basketball tournament for high schools in the state, says that more interest has been shown for the tournament this year than ever before.

He states that over sixty teams have already made arrangements with him to enter the tournament to be held here March 8, 9, 10. Entries for the tournament close March 4.

Flashy Grappler

Carl E. Bernhardt, States wrestler in the 155-pound class, who is a main cog in State's wrestling campaign for another undefeated season. In the two meets held this winter, he is the only man to have won full decisions over all his opponents. Bernhardt hails from Salisbury, N. C.

STATE GOLFERS DEFEAT CAROLINA PINES TEAM

The State College golf team defeated a picked team from the Carolina Pines, 10 to 8, last Saturday afternoon on the Pines' course.

The best medal round was turned in by Fred Newnam, Jr., State College ace. He shot a 74, two over par, to get a one-up victory against Al Dowtin, who carded a 75. Newnam gained his edge on the second nine and thus won 2½ points while Dowtin won half a point.

Other results with points scored given in parentheses: Bryson Biggs, Pines (3), defeated Pat Pastore, 4 and 3; Roy Carter, Pines (3), defeated Rhyne, 4 and 3; M. C. Palmer, State (3), defeated Curtis Knott, 4 and 3; Beathline, State (2), defeated Harrison Kauffman (1); 4 and 3; Southland, State (2½), defeated W. A. Lyons (½), one up.

Intrasquad Game Likely

Off-season football drills at State College are being conducted every afternoon on Freshman Field by Coach "Hunk" Anderson. Improvement has been shown by the football squad and it is probable that an intrasquad game will be played tomorrow or Monday.

In drills this week most of the time has been spent with practice on punt plays, with blocking and tackling emphasized. Last Monday Anderson suspended drills for the first time due to inclement weather.

STATE PUGILISTS TO MEET GEORGIA

Stephens in Unlimited Class to Meet Batchelor of Georgia in Feature Bout

The N. C. State boxers tied 4-4 in both varsity and freshman meets with Carolina last Saturday in the Thompson gymnasium. It was the second consecutive year that Carolina had tied State in varsity boxing.

The matches were thrillers from the beginning to the end. Four technical knockouts, three in the varsity, spiced the program. Kenneth Stephens, State's heavyweight, clinched a deadlock for State in the varsity meet by disposing of Caruth of Carolina by a technical knockout after only 95 seconds of the first round.

The quickest technical knockout of the meets was made by Alex Regdon, 175-pound State freshman. It took Regdon only 37 seconds to put Cary White of the Tar Babes, out of the ring.

States' chance to take the varsity meet was dashed when Jimmy Fletcher lost the 165-pound scrap on a foul occurring after the final bell in his scrap with Ellisburg of Carolina.

OFFICIALS NAMED FOR CAGE MEET

Southern Conference Committee Announces No Season Tickets To be Sold

The Southern Conference basketball committee at a recent meeting at State named the officials to handle the play for the tournament which will be held March 1, 2, 3 at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium. On February 23, the committee will meet at Charlottesville to name the entries for the tournament.

Frank Lane of Cincinnati, a newcomer to officiating ranks in the conference, was named to work the games with Paul Menton, Baltimore newspaper man, and George S. Proctor of Richmond. Menton and Proctor officiated in last year's tourney here.

Dr. R. R. Sermon and Dr. A. J. Wilson of State College, Gus Tebell of Virginia, A. W. Norman of the University of South Carolina, and H. B. Shipley of Maryland, attended the committee session.

It was voted to use a Goldsmith X-9D basketball in the tournament play, the first time such a ball has been used.

Seasonal records in conference play will be used as the basis for selecting teams to enter the tourney when the basketball committee meets at Charlottesville late next month, said Dr. Sermon.

STATE WRESTLERS WIN OVER V. M. I. MATMEN

Visions of a conference title this year for a State College athletic team are brighter now, following the 16-14 verdict of Tech wrestlers Friday night over the V. M. I. Cadets, the 1933 conference champions. The Tech wrestlers are undefeated thus far this season. In their first engagement they blanked the Carolina wrestlers 26-0.

The wrestling outcome resulted in one more fall for the Techs than their opponents but the two teams tied in matches with four wins each. Falls count five points and time decisions three. State's falls were gained by Dave Morrah and Carl Bernhardt, while Lathrop pinned Nolen for the V. M. I. fall.

The feature matches of the meet was the 155-pound match in which Carl Bernhardt, of State, threw Rust, and the 165-pound match between Clifton Croom, State wrestler, and Currence, which went to two extra periods before Currence took a time decision.

Jasper L. Stuckey, professor of geology at State College, was recently elected a fellow of the Geological Society of America and a member of the Society of Economic Geologists.

The former society is composed of the leading geologists of the United States, and the latter numbers among its members many leading geologists of the world.

Persons elected to membership in either of the societies must have demonstrated their abilities as a geologist or a teacher of geology. They also must have shown their merit in original research and the publication of papers of scientific value.

Professor Stuckey received his Ph.D. degree at Cornell, where he taught for two years. He later served as state geologist in North Carolina and is now in his eighth year as geology professor at State College.

Among his most important publications are: "Chloritoid from the Deep River Section," "Pyrophyllite Deposits of North Carolina," "Feldspar Deposits of North Carolina," "Ground Water of Crystalline Rocks in North Carolina," "Kaolinized Volcanic Ash," "Bastite of North Carolina," "Marbles of North Carolina," "Cyanite Deposits of North Carolina."

Mr. Wright left his office in Chicago about the middle of January on an inspection trip which will represent a total distance of approximately five thousand miles. His itinerary includes all the important schools of commerce and business in the colleges and universities of the southeast and southwest.

ROOSEVELT BALL WILL BE STAGED TUESDAY EVENING

(Continued from page one) and N. C. State. Jimmy Poyner's State Collegians are exponents of notes that sizzle, while the Duke Collegians are past masters of the waltz-away variety. The contest of music between these two well-known orchestras is expected to prove of exceptional attraction and is the first contest of this nature to be held in Raleigh for several years.

John A. Park is chairman of the General Committee of the President's Birthday Ball in Raleigh, and has named Mrs. Albert L. Cox and General John Van B. Metts as his assistants.

To Play at Roosevelt's Birthday Ball

Jimmy Poyner and his State Collegians pictured above will aid in furnishing music for the Birthday Ball in honor of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's 52nd birthday at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium, Tuesday, January 30. This Ball is one of 5,000 being staged over the entire United States honoring the President. He will alternate with Johnny Long and his Duke Collegians in furnishing dance music for the occasion. Many other musical attractions will be offered, featuring outstanding artists from over the state.

ORCHESTRA TO FURNISH MUSIC AT ANNUAL DINNER

The State College Orchestra will furnish dinner music for the Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner to be held at Meredith College tonight. The orchestra has been working on a number of selections, in preparation for the entertainment.

On the program following the dinner the State College Glee Club and the Meredith Glee Club will render a number of selections. Ex-Governor O. Max Gardner, an alumnus of this institution, will be the principal speaker on the program.

SEVERAL FACULTY MEMBERS AGREE TO CAPS AND GOWNS

(Continued from page one) He also states that the cost is an item that should be taken into consideration.

Professor VanNote of the Chemistry Department says that in every college he has been all of the faculty wear the cap and gown. Although he is new here he thinks that they should be worn.

Professor Alvin M. Fountain of the English Department says that if the exercises are held indoors the cap and gown should be worn by all means, but if the ceremonies were outdoors there may be some objection in that they may not look as well. He also says that as a general rule he is in favor of them.

Professor Fontaine of the Mathematics Department says that it adds much to the dignity of the school and the occasion.

C. S. Grove, Professor of Chemistry, says that to pay for the cap and gown out of the salary they receive is asking too much. He agrees that it will add to the dignity of the college and if the caps and gowns are paid for, he is not opposed to wearing them.

Professor L. L. Vaughn says that the cap and gown will add much dignity to the commencement and will make it much more academic. He says he is not opposed to wearing them but the cost is an item that must be taken into consideration.
