POLICE ARREST DEAN

STUDENTS SWING FORENSIC COACH FROM TREE LIMB

Professor P. P. Paget Lynched Yesterday in First Lynching Since Major Perry's

LYNCHING WAS CAUSED BY PAGET'S DIRTY WORK

Party Led By Frank Brusque and Assisted by R. L. Butts, H. P. Cotton, and Blight Stokes; Entire Faculty in Sympathy With Students, Although Being Sorry Over Lynching; Busque Receives Nobel Award for Leading Lynch Mob

The first lynching at State College, since the timely disposal of Michael A. (Foreign Legion) Perry, occurred yesterday when Prof. P. P. Paget (Hard "g," accent over the "e") was dramatically dangled from a sycamore tree.

The hanging was carried on in the quiet methodical way that is peculiar only to engineers who have spent many painful, thoughtful hours analyzing the national problems. The noble deed (THE TECHNICIAN is impartial in the report of this story) was done in the small hours of the night in order not to attract too many holiday seekers, and in order to give THE TECHNICIAN the first scoop on the story.

The party was led by Frank Busque, public benefactor No. 1, and assisted by the rest of the debate team, namely: R. L. Butts (not Lucifer G., the inventor), H. P. "Highpressure" Cotton, Blight Stokes, and the English department, exclusive of A. M. "Cassanova Fountain" who is being held under suspicion for being sympathetic with Paget (hard "g," accent over the "e").

When questioned about the noble and generous act (THE TECHNICIAN again wished to caution the reader that it is impartial) Busque, Public Benefactor No. 1 modestly replied, "Me no talkes." After considerable questioning, however, it was finally discovered that Paget (hard "g," accent over the "e") had niggardly sold the title of International Champions, the rightful property of State College, to Wake Forest, for an invitation to the P. M. P. society, national honorary society which stands for Politeness, Modesty, and Patience.

Although, according to the debaters, this was the main charge brought up against Paget (hard "g," accent over the "e") there were several other severe accusations brought up against him. They said that he would not let them eat pie while on debate trips nor chew chewing gum. This was not so bad according to the debaters, until Paget (hard "g," accent over the "e") was himself caught under Pullen Hall chewing gum to the tune of "What Price Virtue." Other minor accusations that were brought up in the "This Day and Age" trial that took place before the execution were: excessive dramatization, cutting play rehearsals, wiping his nose on the back of his hand, using persuasive speech in the presence of a lady, and dis-

Eddie Behind Bars

The above picture shows Dean Eddie Clyde disguised as a woman behind the bars in the Wake County jail after Raleigh policemen had arrested him. By disguising as a woman Eddie thought that no one would recognize him, but he forgot to shave off his moustache. If you will look closely you will see it.

DAME OWNS ANOTHER OVER PROF. FOUNTAIN

Row Started Over English Prof Ends With Woman Being Seriously Injured

Following an altercation over Prof. Zippy Mack Fountain, Miss Derby Breeches seriously wounded Miss Ollermen Petter last night in the vicinity of Capitol square.

Police discovered that the State College professor had had both young ladies out riding last night, and some slight remark was made by one that caused the other to become infuriated. The remark is said to have concerned Professor Fountain.

It was not determined why Miss Breeches was carrying a gun at the time, but it is thought that she had been waiting a chance to get Miss Petter. It is a well known fact that Professor Fountain is, as one student described it, a "dog" with the ladies. He is quite often seen in company with as many as five and six at one time.

He is being held by police until Miss Petter is sufficiently able to give a detailed account of the affray. She is expected to be able to leave the hospital within a week.

CLYDE THROWN IN JAIL FOLLOWING RED LIGHT RAID

COUNCIL CHARGED WITH DRUNKENNESS

Brooks Puts All Council Members On Probation, Following Raid On Meeting

Finding a large quantity of home brew and whiskey at the Student Council meeting, Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of State College, dismissed the members and put the entire Council on probation. It was not discovered what was done with the beverages, Dr. Brooks taking complete charge of them.

Hearing a huge commotion in the Student Council office, Dr. Brooks went down the hall from his office to investigate the noise and discovered the entire Council in various stages of inebriation. Bill Barker, president, and W. P. "Pipe" Kanto were led in each other's arms singing the chorus of "Sweet Adeline," while Marshall Gardner, treasurer and prominent Y. M. C. A. member, was passed out entirely under one of the desks. Bill Sullivan, secretary, was muttering drunkenly about the finances of the Council being at an extremely low ebb, and also about Meredith and Greensboro girls.

Git the $4($1)* out of here," shouted Claude Carrow, another member. Dr. Brooks was forced to get Ray Rex, big 215-pound fullback, to assist in removing Carrow from the meeting. During the removal, Rex received several minor injuries, such as a broken neck, fractured skull, broken arms and legs, and athlete's foot.

The case will be tried before the Faculty Council at an early date, according to a statement made by Dr. Brooks last night.

FREE DANCES TO FEATURE TERM SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Many Prominent Orchestras to be Heard in Gym As Part of Social Whirl

Beginning next Monday, free dances will be held in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium each night of the week for the rest of the term. Music will be furnished by well known orchestras.

This was announced by Dean Eddie Clyde, staunch supporter of a good time for State College students.

Such orchestras as Guy Lombardo, Wayne King, Jan Garber, Hal Kemp, Ted Weems, Ozlie Nelson, Fred Wang, Rudy Vallee, Glenn Gray, Eddie Duchin, Ben Bernie, Isham Jones, Phil Harris, Ted Black, Ted Flo Rito, and Clyde McCoy have been secured. Cab Calloway and Eddie Poole will also play.

Girls from Paris and New York night clubs have been imported so that a sufficient number will be available for all students. Raleigh "prom trotters" will be excluded from these dances.

State Dean Protests Innocence; Says He Went After State College Boy

CASE TO BE TRIED IN COURT THIS MORNING

Student's Name Involved in Incident Unknown; Thought to be Morrah, Watauga Editor; Miss Watson Estimates Damage Done By Student at $250; Came As Surprise to All of Clyde's Associates, But Not to Students

Eddie Clyde, dean of students, was arrested by Raleigh police late last night following a raid on one of the well known bawdy houses in the East Raleigh section of the city.

Wildly protesting that he was a victim of circumstances, the State College dean was dragged away and lodged in the city jail. His case will be aired in the city court this morning.

Clyde stated that he had visited the house to bring back a State College student who had been reported as going there earlier in the night. Such a statement was regarded as doubtful by the police, who said that they came into contact with many such stories, the majority of which usually proved false.

Information about the Dean supplied by various prominent State College officials showed the character of the dean as being above reproach. Prior to this time the only trouble that he had experienced was in handling students who were delinquent in their accounts or grades. It was generally expected by other officials that the Dean would prove himself innocent at the trial this morning.

A more detailed account of last night's affair was given a reporter by the Dean through the bars of his cell.

"I had just retired," he said, "when I received an anonymous telephone call stating that a State College student was damaging property at the house mentioned. I immediately arose and drove down in my car. When I arrived the student was gone, but I went inside to determine the amount of damage done. It was while I was inspecting the damage that the police arrived and arrested me for being caught in the house."

"I can only say that I am as innocent as a new-born babe of this heinous crime that the police have placed upon me."

No further statement could be obtained from the Dean concerning the incident. The name of the student involved in the affair could not be obtained, but a description of the culprit fitted Dave Morrah, Watauga editor, perfectly. Miss Ruby Watson, alleged owner of the house, stated that the damage done was to the extent of $250.

The frenzied screams of Dean Clyde as he was being dragged away could be heard for five blocks, reported several who were near by during the arrest.

ENTIRE COLLEGE TO BE AUCTIONED OFF ON JUNE 29

Goes Into Hole After Hammerhead Hutchinson Cashes Unidentified Checks

BANKRUPTCY ALSO LAID TO VERY HIGH SALARIES

Cloyd Bribed to Disclose Why College is Being Sold; Was in Drunken Stupor at Time; Tightwad Bowen Condemns Hammerhead for Ungentlemanlike Conduct; Ted Johnson Also Implicated in Whole Mess; Raise Tuition Rates

The entire plant at State College is to be brought up for public auction, June 29 by the sheriff of Waks County, according to announcements made yesterday by Dr. E. C. Brooks, President of State College. Because the college is not able to pay its debts, the plant must be sold.

Dr. Brooks would not discuss why the college could not pay its debts, but Dean E. L. Cloyd was bribed, while out on a drinking party to disclose the horrible and disgraceful details. The main reason, it seems, is Hammerhead Hutchinson's generosity in cashing unidentified checks. Hammerhead has without restraint cashed checks for large amounts of money for men who were not properly identified.

Tightwad Bowen has condemned Hammerhead's action as unconstitutional. "I have never encountered anything more disgraceful than Mr. Hammerhead's action since Ed King was caught cheating at poker. I have asked Mr. Hammerhead to resign. If he refuses I shall feel obliged for the good of the institution to ask Col. Mackgrubber and some of his racketeers to bump him off."

The dean also admitted the fact that another reason for the financial embarrassment of the college was the unreasonably high salaries paid the faculty. In a fit of honesty Dean Cloyd confided that the salaries should be cut fifty-five per cent, and that the reason that they had not been cut was because the faculty was paying Governor Eringhouse hush money.

The Dean also squealed on Ted Johnson because Teddy would not give him a cut on the misappropriated CWA funds.

Today the student body desiring to save their dear Alma (for future use) from disgrace has generously consented to pay $1,000.98 tuition each, but this would not be heard by "Tightwad" Bowen because, he said, "The noble students of State College have been so thoughtful in not asking for credit that I just do not have the heart to ask them for more money."

Late bulletins received last night indicated that the prospective buyers of the college were Oxford College, England, and Mars Hill College.

However, definite plans have not been made for the sale because Dr. Brooks has hope of getting Ed King in a poker game and winning enough to pay the debts.

WOMAN DISGUISES SELF AS MALE STATE STUDENT

Disguised as a man, Miss Lotsa Fun, Podunk debutante, was expelled from State College by Dean E. L. Cloyd and Dr. E. C. Brooks after it was discovered that she had been coming to State College and taking an engineering course in the role of a male student.

Dean Cloyd refused to divulge just how the identity of her sex was discovered. It is believed that there was some dirty work somewhere, however. Some expressed the opinion that Dean Cloyd and Dr. Brooks knew the identity

BUSINESS SENIORS TO GET POSITIONS

"Egotistical" Henniger Announces That Seniors Will Get $250 Positions

Professor R. W. "Egotistical" Henniger, the power behind Dean Browne's throne in the business school, announced late last night that he had succeeded in making arrangements for placing all seniors in business this year with jobs that will pay $250 a month.

In an interview with a member of THE TECHNICIAN staff Henniger said, "It was my powerful influence with the financiers of the country which enabled me to secure the jobs. I am happy now. For the past three weeks, I have been conducting my classes in a daze, and have been pulling my hair out and staying out late at nights worrying over the responsibility of placing 'my' seniors."

For the past several years graduates in the school of business have been unable to secure positions because of the inability of the professors to have a "leg" with well-known business concerns. Henniger's success in obtaining jobs, according to Pewee Stoney, a senior business student, has been partly due to his (Stoney's) efforts in practicing on Henniger the highly specialized art of "legging." Henniger, always the man that uses a bright idea, said that Stoney's line went over big with the business concerns.

Senior students in business are greatly elated over Henniger's success in placing them. Many of them have already bought cars on the installment plan; several are contemplating marriage. In fact, two members of the group have borrowed $250 in anticipation of their salary in June.

Henniger told the members of his junior sections that if they could pattern their ways after Pewee Stoney they would all make A's on his course their senior year.

In recognition of this signal service to the college and the senior students, the Greater University of North Carolina raised R. W. "Egotistical" Henniger's salary to $17.50 per week.

ty of the woman before she was expelled.

One student who was in the office of the dean at the time that the matter was being tried reported that Dean Cloyd asked the woman for a date after he had expelled her.

CWA GRANTS LOAN FOR CLUB HOUSE

Athletes to Live in Style in New Quarters Provided by Government Loan

State College has just been given a $500,000 grant by the CWA to build a palatial country club and hotel for its football players. This was the announcement of Professor Ted Johnson, preventer of industry at the college. Professor Johnson made this announcement just after his return from Washington last Sunday night.

Plans for the proposed edifice call for suites for each of the players consisting of living room, bedroom, and connecting bath. Each room will be furnished with radio, ice water, and all the latest conveniences. The club will have a ball room, swimming pool, locker rooms, and will be the most luxurious ever seen in the city of Raleigh.

"I saw the president personally during my visit to Washington," said Professor Johnson. "He was very sympathetic, and said that if the nation's money was thrown away for useful purposes like this one, he was sure that the country would soon reach the heights of prosperity. The president also announced that he would also be in Raleigh for the formal opening of the new additions to the college just before the beginning of the football season."

Athletes to Live in Style in New Quarters Provided by Government Loan

Dr. Brooks, when reached at his home, waxed eloquent over the proposed grant. "Nothing is too good for our football players," he said, "not even hanging. If our boys can't win football games with this wonderful 'new deal' for them, why I guess I'll have to go out and show them a thing or two myself."

Coach Hunk Anderson could not be reached for an opinion, but his wife said he was in Washington applying for a Farm Relief loan.

Raymond Redding and Red Stephens, co-captains for next year's Wolfpack team expressed varied opinions on the building project. Redding said he was very disappointed the proposed plans did not call for a room for shooting craps. Stephens was very happy however. (Please turn to page six)

They pick you up every 50 miles

Without vacuum tubes, Long Distance telephony would hardly be possible. But with these little tubes placed in "repeaters" or amplifiers at 50 mile intervals along the line—even a whisper carries from coast to coast!

With many tubes used in tandem, individual performance must be almost perfect—or cumulative distortion would render speech unintelligible. That today's Long Distance connections are so reliable and clear, is a tribute to the skill used in making Western Electric tubes.

Manufacturing nearly all Bell System apparatus, Western Electric contributes much to the quality of telephone service.

LOUSY WATAUGAN, DECLARES CRITIC

Technician Rag Reviewer Says
Campus Magazine Most Putrid
Ever Reviewed

By J. WELLINGTON WIMPY
(Technician Rag Reviewer)

In my estimation The Wataugan, humor-literary magazine, is the louis-est rag that I have ever seen.

I have reasons for saying this. Everyone else says the same thing, so I can't be far from wrong. When everyone says there is something wrong with something, then there is something wrong with the offending article. When I was in Podunk High School we had a better magazine than we have here at this institution for degenerates.

In the first place there is not enough literature in The Wataugan. That is the very essence of a good magazine. What does it contain? You don't know? Why? Because you never read it. Oh, I see. You can't take it. You say you always throw it in the wastepaper basket, because the paper is too slick, and you wish I would tell the editor to use a rougher grade of paper so that it might be used for what it is best fitted? O. K. I'll tell him if I can ever find him sober.

But to get back to the review. As I was saying The Wataugan is a lousy magazine. Look at the Caroline Bucco-ner. That is a magazine worth reading. It always is talking cracks at the co-eds, and good cracks, too. But look at The Wataugan. Not a single good joke in the rag the whole year. Just a bunch of nondescript, ordinary and pointless jokes (?). The same jokes I used to tell before I could walk, and I got most of them from my grandpa who said that his grandpa told him, etc. I think that the original source was Julius Caesar, who amused Cleopatra with them, or maybe it was Nero. He was a man with a sense of humor. He piddled around while Rome was roaring inferno. (History relates that he fiddled, but I had to be different.)

And them editorials. What editorials! Even I could do better than that. In the first place they are not editorials. I was mistaken in calling them that. The poor saps in the journalism game would shoot me if they knew that I called them editorials. They are merely space-fillers. If they want some real editorials, tell them to call me (telephone number 9292), and I will send the office boy around right away. I have no doubt that this is going to hurt The Wataugan editor's feelings, so since he is a Southern Conference wrestling champ, I shall be forced to keep my door locked for the next three or four days. (If you'll come around some time I'll tell you how he won that championship by biting the other wrestler's ears.)

And in conclusion, let me again repeat—The Wataugan is a lousy rag.

CO-EDS TO BE IMPORTED TO N. C. STATE COLLEGE

Fifteen hundred co-eds will be imported to the State College campus, according to a recent announcement by Romeo N. Juliet LeFort, assistant dean of students.

Assistant Dean LeFort will assist in the choosing of the co-eds. They will be secured from other institutions over the State, especially Meredith, St. Mary's, Pease, E. C. T. C. W. C. U. N. C., and Flora Macdonald. It is a well-known fact that Romeo is a good judge of the lady folks, having had an enormous amount of experience as a judge in beauty contests. The girls all go crazy over this blond Romeo. Others who will aid in the selections are Dr. Riddick, Dr. Brooks, Dr. Harrison, "Bull" Shaw, "Goat" Browne, Bill Braswell, Phil Stone, "Bull" Barnhardt, "Bull" Wheeler, and Dean B. F. Brown. All these men are known to be very capable in the selection of the co-eds.

Clyde in Intimate Scene

HECK PERFECTS NEW INVENTION

Physic Prof Invents Machine for Controlling Atmospheric Conditions

Professor C. M. Heck, dean of the weather department of State College, announced Wednesday the completion of his new invention for weather control.

Professor Heck claims that he can stop rain, hail or snow—furthermore he can stop winds, tornados and cyclones. "The theory," Heck told newspapermen interviewing him, "is simple. When you don't have these bad weather conditions, you don't have them. Therefore the way not to have them is to stop them before they get there. Do you follow me?"

The gentlemen admitted that although it was rather difficult they could partly understand. To which Professor Heck answered, "I didn't expect you, to because it took me many years to figure that out. It is a wonder that you can understand it at all."

The method by which the professor hopes to stop rain, snow and hail is by breeding myriads of pigeons with a diet of dry crackers. The birds will be kept in cages scattered over the country. When they feel that the humidity is getting to such a condition that it is about to precipitate, they will burst their cages in eagerness to get some of the water. In fact they will be in such a hurry that they will fly up in the air to meet it. In this way they will drink the rain, therefore preventing it from coming to the earth. Now concerning the hail. Heck has not definitely decided. He will use practically the same method, except that he may give the birds a little more variety by feeding them lemons and sugar in order that they might have ice cold lemonade when it hails. This will increase the birds desire for hail and therefore prevent any disastrous hail storm that might otherwise occur.

Heck has not revealed his plans for controlling wind yet. It is commonly believed that he must learn to do that himself, although he contends that the Imperial Japanese Government is trying to steal the secret and therefore he must guard it closely.

PSYCHOLOGY EXPERIMENT CAUSES DISAPPEARANCES

State Students Unable to be Found
After Exploding Dynamite
in Hands

Loud reverberations on the campus Wednesday which startled the entire student body were discovered to be a part of Prof. Joe Moore's laboratory practice in psychology.

It was reported that Professor Moore had his students hold a piece of dynamite in their hands while he set the fuse off. After the dynamite had exploded the students who were holding the dynamite strangely disappeared, and no trace could be found of them. Prof. Moore ventured to say that he thought that the particular dynamite he was using had some magic implanted in it that caused people to disappear when the fuse was set off.

No trace had been found of the students at a late hour last night. Raleigh police have been called out in an attempt to have them offer some solution to the mystery, but so far no findings have been disclosed.

GROVE ASTONISHES ALL WEARING EASTER CORSAGE

Among the rare treats of Easter Sunday was the appearance of Professor Grove wearing a corsage presented by Doc Randolph. It is said that Randolph took Grove for a ride in a tractor on the College campus just before examinations?

"Mad Monk" Grove will be marshal of the parade if he can grow a beard between now and tomorrow. It is hoped that he does not get the whisiker tonic and the white shoe polish (snow) mixed.

Dr. Randolph would review the parade Thursday night if it were not for the fierce glint in the "Mad Monk's" eyes.

Dr. Randolph realizes and appreciates the fact that a dice pulverized (bones to you) will increase the speed of reaction a thousand fold, but he laments the fact that the chances of a "seven" turning up are pulverized also.

MAY IT BE EXCUSSED

Following a time honored custom, we shall again attempt to produce for the amusement of the student body a sheet that carries nothing but nonsense concerning prominent faculty members and students.

This issue gives the staff an opportunity to blow off steam and at the same time have no one take offense, or at least, we hope no one does. The entire sheet is edited in a spirit of fun and contains absurd fabrications brought forth from the weary brains of staff members. Editing a college newspaper sometimes becomes a tiresome task, especially at this time of the year. Unlike daily papers, some of the news contained may not be so current, and after a period collecting news that is often a week old loses the thrill that one experiences when first starting in the game or returning after a long vacation. It is for this reason that we take the opportunity of fabricating facts in an attempt to whet the jaded appetites of the students who are tired of reading the aforementioned not-so-fresh news.

Two terms of school have been completed and following this issue the staff will again settle down to the more serious task of collecting the various happenings on the college campus, forewarning the students that Paget is going to have another Experimental Theatre presentation, and digging up dirt for publication in our Walter Winchell column.

We hope that you who read this sheet will get as much enjoyment out of it, as the staff put into it.

VERSATILE "HELL"

Much has been said of the place of eternal torture where bad souls go after death—meaning hell.

"Hell" is a versatile word. We use it every day, but not in the way that was intended for it to be used. College boys use it. College girls use it. Laymen use it. Preachers use it, openly from the pulpit and secretly in their minds—but in different senses.

The list of things that "hell" describes is infinite in length. Some of the more common of these are "cold as hell," "hot as hell," "mean as hell," "cute as hell," "funny as hell," and so on down the list and far into the night and the next day we could go, but due to space limitations, the entire list cannot be given. If the reader does not already know more than those above, then college has been of absolutely no benefit to him.

The devil or old Satan as he is sometimes called is probably sitting back on his haunches in Hades and giving the species of homo sapiens "hell" for desecrating the word.

It's a convenient word, though, in description. When you can think of nothing else to say when describing a scene or a person, then the word usually fits in nicely.

If the devil has done nothing else worthwhile, his place of residence has furnished a word that has been accepted by both great and small, black and white, or any other color, as a means of cutting down vocabularies.

FREE LIKKER

That the Student Council came through last night with a motion to hand out corn whiskey to those members of the student body who wish it for use at dances goes to show that the student body chose its representatives wisely at the elections last year. State College is rapidly becoming modernized, and we hope that at the elections on April 17 a habitual "sot" may be elected student president and that the president of the Interfraternity Council will run a bar in his fraternity house for the convenience of his supporters, for it is doubtful whether any man can deserve this honored post unless he can keep his friends in a drunken condition all the time.

Marshall J. Gardner, candidate for the presidency of the student body, has announced his intentions of having hard drinks served from the fountain in the Students Supply Store should he be elected, and that for the convenience of students who don't like to have change jingling in their pockets, exorbitant prices will be charged. Other items in his platform are: (1) The complete abolition of the Honor System. (2) The burning of Pullen Hall by a pyromaniac. (3) Doing away completely with the faculty, the State College Board of Trustees, and the Alumni Association, in order that the school may be run properly by the students. "The members of the State College administration are all 'nit-wits,'" said Gardner when interviewed by a TECHNICIAN reporter last night, "the only remedy for the degeneration of State College is to put a high-minded type of individual such as me into the presidency.

I shall then appoint from my Council others like me to supervise the affairs of the college." As his fourth point in the campaign, Gardner stated that only those men who could drink a half gallon of corn standing up could be eligible for appointment.

THE TECHNICIAN feels that the college cannot exist without Gardner's leadership; so we are advocating that all students investigate his hip pocket before going to the polls.

We wish to take this opportunity to make an especial apology to Dean E. L. Cloyd for the numerous cracks that have been made at him in this issue, and we seriously hope that no offense will be taken.

turbing football games by carrying posters on the field while the players were in a huddle. He admitted most of these charges himself after the execution.

Although the student body greatly regrets the loss of Professor Paget (hard "g" accent over the "e") the entire faculty is in sympathy with the debaters and to show their appreciation have given a four day holiday to go in effect as soon as Paget (hard "g" oh heck, you know that by now) is removed from the sycamore tree.

After this noble, generous and unselfish deed was perpetrated, (again we must remind you of our impartiality), Busque received word that he had received the Nobel prize for social reform; and numerous faculty members sent their inspiring congratulations to the debaters.

THE TECHNICIAN was the first, (here we must impress our absolute impartiality) to send congratulations to the debaters.

Dean E. L. Cloyd said when interviewed, "I do not make speeches, especially on occasions like this, but I think, that in the light of the incriminating evidence against Mr. Paget, especially his using persuasive language before a lady is absolutely uncalled for and can not be tolerated at State College. As a Southern gentleman, I can not allow a "dam yankee" like that to come down here in my college and behave like that. These boys have benefited State College and have saved me some trouble and to show my appreciation, I shall extend the holiday to a week."

Dr. Brooks joined the governor of California in saying "Let that be a lesson to him."

Col. Bruce Mack-Grubber also was heard to remark that it was justifiable homicide. He also stated late yesterday evening that if the city sent police to investigate the case he would sic his army on them.

PROFESSORS GIVE IDEAS OF HEAVEN

Prof. P. P. Paget Wins Contest With Setting of Jug of Beer Under Tree

During the Warner Brothers recent production "Wonder Bar" questionnaires were sent to the members of the State College faculty for ideas concerning heaven, in order that Al Jolson's entrance into the pearly gates could be successfully portrayed on the screen. Numerous ideas that required serious thought and concentration and delved deep into the science of metaphysics philosophy. "All of them were good," said Mr. Warner Brothers, "but the best was furnished by Prof. P. P. Paget, who said that his idea of heaven was 'a jug of beer under a tree'."

Ed King said his idea of heaven was a place to play poker in the dark with an unlimited amount of aces at hand. Dr. T. Perrin Harrison contended that, "fzzzzzzzz Ship me somewhere east of Suez, where the best is like the worst."

Col. Bruce Mack-Grubber announced that his idea of heaven was a place that he could sit down and meditate on the advantages of pacifism, undisturbed by Joe Moore the militarist, because, he said, "The world shall be saved by pacifism and that alone."

When asked, Professors C. S. Grove, and Willie Van Nate both said in unison: "An office where they use dictographs instead. "—" Dr. E. E. Randolph chimed in at this point saying, "Yes, we could at least get more work done."

Red Hicks, replied, to the questionaire, "There ain't no such place."

E. M. Bernstein said that he could not see the economic benefit of his speculation on a place that he knew he was not going to.

Graft

The Interfraternity Council at a meeting last night passed a resolution to pay members of the Dance Committee at the Pledge, Mid-winter, and Final Dances $100 each.

It is understood that the proceeds from the Mid-Winter Dance recently held amounted to approximately $15,779,213.98. Expenses for the dance were $10.39, leaving an enormous profit for the sinking fund.

Doak Blames Tech Loss on Failure of Robot Pitcher

Meckano Throws Balls That Curve Around Batter Twice Before Being Caught

ROBOT PITCHES EXCELLENT BALL UNTIL FOURTH STANZA

Cause of Failure of Mechanical Man still Undetermined Late Last Night

Coach "Chic" Doak blamed the loss of the State-Wake Forest baseball game last Monday to the failure of the State pitching robot to come through. This mechanical marvel, latest brain child of "Goat" Browne's Electrical Engineering department, failed to come through in the pinches, and was the cause of State's losing the ball game 4-1.

"Goat" Browne was almost heart-broken at the failure of his prodigy to produce the goods. "I think the cause of the whole trouble was that the robot got hit in the chest with a ball in the fourth inning and blew out a tube," he said.

The robot really was hurling balls with mechanical precision until this fatal inning. "Meckano," as the robot is called, was pitching in obedience to orders radiated to him from the bench by Coach Doak. Coach Doak, however, disagreed with Browne as to the cause of the robot's failure. "The boys persuaded 'Meckano' to take a drink before the game," he said, "and this probably corroded some of the mechanical marvel's electrical connections. I'm sure it wasn't caused by any mistakes in the orders I radiated. I haven't seen a ball game in fifty years for which I couldn't call the plays correctly."

Bob McQuage, however, took all the blame for failure of the robot on himself. "I'm to blame," he said. "I went out to give 'Meckano' some instructions which he got confused with those 'Chic' was radiating to him. It's my personal belief our robot became mixed up on his instructions and blew out a tube trying to think."

Smoky Joe, State's athletic jack-of-all-trades, and former State athlete was very contrite. He was found in a corner weeping after the game. When asked what the trouble was he said, "Ise done los' de ball game fer de boys. I done plumb forgot to do lak Missuh Doak said and put a quart of oil in dat dere Meckano befo' de game. Now he done gone an' burnt out a bearing on his pitchin' arm."

What was the exact cause of "Meckano's" failure will probably never be fully known. He was attacked by a group of State students shouting, "Down with technocracy," as he left the game and his connections hopelessly deranged. However, the electrical department is holding an autopsy over the remains to determine reason for his failure at the crucial moment.

In previous tests, "Meckano" had looked better than any other man on the team. He was able to throw balls that spectator's swore curved around the batter twice before they landed in the catcher's mit. While in the game with Wake Forest, "Meckano" gave the umpire a bad case of crossed eyes while that official was trying to follow the flight of the ball. The demise of "Meckano" is a sad loss to State's baseball hopes.

HARRISON-WEST

Coming as a surprise to his many friends in the student body and faculty was the news that Dr. Tommy Harrison, professor of English, had been secretly married to Mae West, noted voluptuous film actress.

The marriage was held last week in Hollywood, California, at the home of Miss West.

Dr. Harrison is expected to resign his position as English professor to devote his full time to Hollywood. It is rumored that he will play the leading male role in Miss West's new picture, "Red Light Annie."

Miss West's father had been to see Dr. Harrison prior to the marriage.

REX QUILTS ATHLETICS TO BECOME A SOCIAL LION

Rex Says His Social Life Was Being Sadly Neglected; Bob McQuage Delirious

State College athletics received a severe setback Thursday when big Ray Rex announced his refusal to participate in the future in athletic contests of any nature. This means that the football, baseball, basketball, track, tennis, golf, swimming, boxing, wrestling, and tiddledy-winks teams will lose a crack player.

Rex gave as his reason for this action the fact that he had never had a date while in school at State and that his social life was being sadly neglected. He said he was merely assuming another "sphere of influence" and changing from an athletic lion to a social lion. "I found that with my athletics, I didn't have any time for the girls, and as the girls are so much more important, I thought it best to drop the athletics," Rex said.

Bob McQuage, who thus far has had a pretty firm control over both the athletic and social world, was reported to have fainted when informed of Rex's decision to muscle in on his territory. When his residence at the Pika house was phoned today, it was said that he was delirious and that six pledges were cooperating in keeping him in bed. In his delirium, he imagines he is tearing Rex limb from limb, and this, of course, is rather hard on the pledges.

Hunk Anderson merely said, "Oh, death, where is thy sting—but sting Rex first, and I'll be happy."

Harris Arrested

Louis H. Harris was arrested yesterday for serving dinosaur eggs which he purloined from the state museum last week. The theft was not discovered until yesterday, two hours after the fossils had been eaten. When questioned he readily replied, "Yes I took the eggs. You see we were out of eggs and I could not let my boys go hungry, so I borrowed those." Three of the cooks at State College were asphyxiated by hydrogen sulphide.

Hunk and Smoky

The above picture shows Hunk Anderson and "Smoky Joe" in an intimate pose when each were only six years old. The picture was taken at the old Anderson homestead way down in Georgia. After many years of separation, the two again met at this institution, one as a coach, and the other as trainer. If you will look closely you will see a rabbit foot in "Smoky's" left hand. He had taken up this habit, even at the early age of six.

GOLFERS TO PLAY IN ROLLER SKATES

Hardware Company Provides Link Artists With Roller Skates for Matches

Members of the State College Golf Team were each presented with a pair of roller skates Thursday by the Briggs Hardware Company of this city. It was understood that the local hardware firm took pity on the plight of the team. At the time of the donation, practically every member of the team was suffering from blisters, bunions, callouses, and athlete's foot caused by their tours on the links.

Pat Pastore, captain of the team expressed his appreciation of the gift of the skates. "Happy days are here again," he said. "Now instead of a weary tour of eighteen holes on foot, golfing will be a joy rather than a mental hazard. I feel sure that the skates will bolster the team's morale as well as their seat of consciousness. We are very grateful to the hardware firm for their contribution to the team."

It is expected that the skates will help materially in raising the team's score, and the moral effect on their opponents will be something terrific. While the opposing teams are digging themselves out of the rough, the State men will be blithely rolling along to the eighteenth hole and a drink. Skates have solved the problem of the golf team, in the race for barked shins and holes in one. (Note: The editor was unable to figure what the hole in one was. It probably meant the hole ripped in one if not more pairs of pants.)

MILLER HAS NEW GYM PLAN READY

Frosh and Sophs to be Excused From Gym by Giving Miller Dollar Graft

Johnny Miller, defector of physical education at State, recently announced a new policy in his department which he said would go into effect immediately. All freshmen and sophomores may be excused from gym classes by dropping by Mr. Miller's office and leaving a dollar with him. Miller said the reason for the new policy was two fold. He needed a raise in salary, and the department needed new equipment. Miller's idea is that if most of all of the freshman and sophomores pay their dollar to be excused from gym, no new equipment will have to be bought for the department and money will be saved. When Miller was asked where the money would go, he said it was nobody's "#%&%" (*% business.

The defector of physical education also has a new policy for the intramural situation which he believes will save much confusion and hard feeling. Heretofore the intramural winners have been picked by those who won the most games. Miller believes this system is too complicated and too prone to cause hard feelings. "My solution," he proudly announced, "will be to auction off the intramural titles to the highest bidders. This will absolutely save me much time and will save the players much hard feelings. The bidding will be perfectly fair and above board, all the teams submitting sealed bids to me at the beginning of each quarter. The name of the team submitting the highest bid, or the winner, will be posted outside my office as soon as I have examined the bids. A $10 check or bill (preferably bill) must be sent in with each bid as an evidence of good faith. All deposits become the property of the department."

Miller was personally very enthusiastic about his new system. In fact it is so good, according to him, that he plans to retire on the money he saves the department at the end of another year's work.

HITHER AND THITHER

Well, youse guys, the old dirt disher outer has been at work again and what he has to tell you would fill a book (you bring the book). You know, if one would only use his sixth, eighth, and thirteenth senses he would be able to see and hear the things that you're truly does. Yowauh, being keyed up to a pitch such as I am now, I am able to perceive things which even the gully persons are utterly unaware of . . . read on and see for yourself.

Did any of you see Bill Barker driving around with five of the six chorus girls from the midnight show the other night? Bill was a bit embarrassed when he met me but he told me later that he would rather face the shame of being seen with only five of the girls than to suffer the discomfort of riding with seven in the front seat of a sport roadster.

RIDDICK CAUGHT WINDOW PEEPING

Dean of the Engineering School Nabbed by Police for Peeping at Saint Mary's

Playing the role that Dr. Tommy Harrison has been playing for the past few years, Dr. Wallace Carl Riddick, dean of the Engineering School and former president of State College, was found in a tree adjacent to a dormitory at St. Mary's School Wednesday night.

When questioned at the local police station all that he would say was, "No spikka da English," and officers were forced to employ third degree methods to make him talk. When he did talk the only answer that they could get to the question as to why he was in the tree was that he wanted to see how the moon looked coming up over a dormitory at a girl's school. It was explained to "Pap" that just as good view could be obtained from the ground, but he waived this reasoning aside and quoted formulae for one-half hour before he could be stopped, the only method of stopping him being a sound thump on the head with a blackjack.

It was thought by many that he had climbed the tree in an attempt to gain entrance into the dormitory so that one of the girls might sew a missing button on his vest.

Chief of Police Shaver said last night that he was becoming tired of State College faculty members climbing the trees on the St. Mary's campus. "It's not that they could do any harm, but it's the principle of the thing involved," explained Shaver.

It will be recalled by many of the students here that Dr. Tommy Harrison was booked on the same charge two years ago, his reason for being there was that he was waiting to catch a street car. Street cars were in operation in Raleigh at this time.

BARKER BEMOANS LOW DEATH RATE

State Student Body President Lowrates Technician As Being Unwholesome

Accusing the editor of THE TECHNICIAN of having extremely radical views on the subjects of prohibition, capital punishment, and birth control, "Mugwump" Wolf Barker yesterday sent in an Open Forum letter denouncing THE TECHNICIAN as unwholesome and extremely radical.

"To the best of my knowledge, capital punishment is not being carried on in the dormitories of State College," said Barker in answer to an editorial printed in last week's TECHNICIAN, in regard to the killing of ten freshmen in a 'rat court' held in 1911 dormitory. "I saw the affair with my own eyes, and only 9 freshmen died. The tenth one is only suffering from an illness caused by the dismembering of his body, and otherwise nothing serious has occurred. The whole affair was caused by a freshman cap—the ten freshmen insisted on wearing caps, and the sophomores, believing that the cap would lead to wholesale hazing and no class spirit, tried to take these caps from the men. A fight ensued, resulting in the slaughter.

"And as for your calling the members of the Student Council a 'fine bunch of gentlemen,' I'll have you know that there are no gentlemen on the Council. We are all morons and imbeciles, and proud of it. Your accusations are biased by petty confusions, and we want to let you know that had you not brought on your accusations, we would still be content with picking up paper about the campus and playing leap frog in our spare time."

The grant for State's gridiron warriors is in keeping with the college's policy of "a new deal for State football players." Recently the Faculty Council passed a ruling that football players in the college do not have to know how to read or write. Much new talent is expected to be brought to the college because of the ruling.
