SPONSORS CAMPUS SHOW

Exhibitions in Tent-Pitching, Rifle Drills, and Wall Scaling Given; Regiment Holds Final Graduation Parade; Drum and Bugle Corps Causes Crowd Much Merriment by Comic Antics; Physical Education Department Gives Exhibition of Skill; Prizes Awarded to Several Military Students

With 5,000 spectators almost filling the east stadium, the first annual campus carnival, sponsored by the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce and featuring the State College R. O. T. C. regiment, the Raleigh High School Band, and the Raleigh Boy Scouts, was staged Wednesday night.

The program began with the entrance of the Raleigh band, entering from the north side of the stadium and the State R. O. T. C. band entering from the south side and meeting in the center of Riddick Field. The two bands played "America" while the entire audience stood at attention.

Following this the Boy Scouts dressed as Indians, gave a tent-pitching demonstration. After the tents were pitched, fires were started in the tepees and the floodlights turned off, the fires giving the only illumination. The remainder of the troops then came in and enacted a scene which the Indians made a peace treaty with the Scouts. After the treaty, the fires were put out and the tents gathered, and the group left, leaving apparently no traces of having been on the field. The entire performance was carried out very efficiently.

A wall-scaling demonstration was then presented by Company A of the First Battalion. The group of 70 scaled a 12-foot wall in one hour and ten seconds. Capt. Bob McQuage, athletic officer of the cadet military staff, was in charge of this feat.

With the presenting of a burlesque wall-scaling by the Drum and Bugle Corps, under the direction of Capt. W. A. Blackwood, came the sounds of merry laughter from the audience. The first hint of comedy came when the corps suddenly slipped out on the field in feminine attire and in a decidedly feminine manner. Suddenly realizing that the wall was much higher than they had expected, the "girls" went into a huddle to decide what should be done. In a moment the air was full of girlish cries and shapes as the corps attempted to scale the formidable wall.

After many humorous accidents and positions all had gained the top, except one fair lass who had been most busy powdering her nose and strutting before the crowd with a parasol over her head. Cries of "Oh, Ethyl!" soon caused her to see that she was all alone. After many undignified attempts to reach the top, Ethyl found a ladder in the rear of the wall with which she joined the rest of the "girls." The last seen of Ethyl was when she powdered her nose on top of the wall. With loud shouts of laughter following them, the girls tripped off the field. As grotesquely dressed as some of them were, they had the audience guessing as to their sex for some time.

Following this touch of comedy came a tent-pitching demonstration by Company E, with Cadet Captain T. J. Raber directing. When the tents had been pitched, all field lights were turned off and candles were lighted. Using this effective and picturesque background, the company went through various phases of nights around the campfire. A sentry was seen pacing up and down on duty, figures were seen grouped around the fires telling stories, and from some tent came the soft music of an accordion. Suddenly all quieted as the clear ringing notes of a bugle sounded "Taps." Lights appeared, the bugler sounded "Retelive," and camp was up and gone in no time. This event was perhaps the most pleasing one of them all.

Again came the co-ed corps to break the dramatic tenseness of the preceding event. This time the corps attempted to imitate the scene just described. Instead of tents, however, the girls had a two-story cardboard house, privy, brooms, clotheslines, compact, etc., and Ethyl was observed to be carrying a washboard and bucket. GROUP DISCUSSES MAKING CHANGES IN HONOR SYSTEM

Faculty and Students Meet in
Y. M. C. A. Last Night to Discuss Changes

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO STUDY SITUATION

Meeting Called at Request of Student Council to Discuss Whether Or Not Change Would be Advisable; Defects Pointed Out by Students and Faculty; Committee to Bring Up Plan Before Faculty Council at Meeting Tuesday

In a joint meeting of the faculty and outstanding students held in the Y. M. C. A. 7:30 last night, four faculty members and four students were appointed on a committee to devise means for improving or changing the present Honor System at the college. This committee will present a report at the General Faculty meeting to be held Tuesday at 12 o'clock.

Faculty members of the committee are: Prof. A. F. Greaves-Walker, Prof. F. W. Lancaster, Prof. D. S. Weaver, and Dean B. F. Brown of the Business School, chairman of the committee. Student members are: Claude Carrow, president of the Senior Class; Amil J. Gerlock, president of the Freshman Class; A. M. Epstein; and Darnell Whitt.

The meeting last night was held under the auspices of the present Student Council to discuss the present Honor System and whether a change would be advisable. The Student Council had previously decided that the Honor System at State must be either improved or abolished. The meeting was held in the form of an open discussion with many of the faculty and students present taking part.

Marshall J. Gardner, president of the Student Council opened the discussion with a short speech explaining the purpose of the discussion. "This discussion," he said, "is to discuss the honor system and to suggest an experimental plan to be used during the forthcoming exams. If this plan is a success, it will enable the Student Government of the college to make a good start next year towards supporting an effective system to prevent cheating in the classroom.

"As I see it, there are two major defects in the present Honor System. First, there is a lack of uniformity in the way the faculty carries out the idea of the system. Some support it entirely and leave the classroom during quizzes and examinations. Others make it a point to remain on class throughout. The second defect is the tendency on the part of a majority of students to adopt a 'hands off' attitude. They do not consider it their duty to report students to the Council when they see a case of cheating going on.

A thorough discussion of all angles of the question was carried on by both faculty and students present. Every one pledged their fullest cooperation to any workable system that should be adopted.

Aaron Epstein made the motion that the committee be appointed to bring a plan before the faculty at their meeting Tuesday. This motion was passed unanimously, after considerable discussion.

The Honor System in its present form was adopted at State College in 1925. Under the present plan, all responsibility for reporting any offenses against the rules and regulations of Student Government is up to the students. The meeting was called after the Student Council in an open meeting had decided that at present the system was failing to work successfully.

Several members of the faculty and students present remarked after the discussion that they had received much benefit from it. It was extremely helpful, according to them, to get both the faculty and student viewpoint on all sides of the question.

Leading Actress

MISS LOLA MAYNARD
The young woman pictured above took the leading feminine role in the last production of the year for the Experimental Theatre. The play will be produced by the Little Theatre in New York this summer.

CERAMIC ORDER TENDERS BIDS

Keramos, Ceramic Frat, Tenders Bids to E. B. Smith, H. M. Hamburger, T. L. Hurst

Three students in the Department of Ceramic Engineering have been honored with bids to Keramos, national professional Ceramic Engineering fraternity. The men receiving bids were: E. B. Smith, Henderson, N. C.; H. M. Hamburger, Portsmouth, Virginia; and T. L. Hurst, Leonia, N. J. Membership in Keramos is confined to students with good scholarship records who have demonstrated an unusual interest in their ceramic work. They must also have shown loyalty to the honor system of their college.

Smith and Hamburger are rising seniors. Hurst is a rising junior. Chapters of Keramos may elect the two exceptional outstanding members of the sophomore class at the end of the year. This year Hurst was honored.

Keramos was organized at Ohio State University in 1902 and is one of the oldest professional fraternities in existence. The North Carolina Chapter was chartered in 1925. Chapters and sub-chapters are located at Ohio State University, University of Illinois, North Carolina State College, Iowa State College, Georgia Institute of Technology, University of Missouri and University of Washington.

W. B. Boyd is president of the local chapter.

WATAUGAN DRAWS PRAISE AS LAST ISSUE APPEARS

Magazine As a Whole Presents Favorable Appearance With Few Exceptions

"The best Wataugan this year," was heard from all quarters as the New Purer Wataugan all dressed up in a red cover made its appearance on the campus Wednesday.

The cover showed a youth rising up from the muck, while a vulture or buzzard sat on a limb above him and complacently regarded the amazing spectacle. There was some debate as to just what the cover depicted, with several ideas being heard. Among the first few pages of the magazine was the dedication to purity—a cherub idly fingering a harp with the usual halo circling his head. Following this in the magazine was a very good story, "The Living Death," written by H. B. Hines, Jr., a member of THE TECHNICIAN staff. The jokes interspersed between the features of the magazine would put the Carolina Buccaneer to shame, and it is rumored that after everyone views this issue of the Wataugan, the Buccaneer will be used as a Sunday school magazine.

"Why I have Kept Myself Pure," two pages written by three students and one professor, A. M. Fountain, was in keeping with the theme of the magazine, although Professor Fountain deviated a little from the subject and wrote metrically riming prose on "Why We Should Remain Pure."

REVIEWER LAUDS LAST PRODUCTION OF TECH ACTORS

Entire Cast Carries Out Parts Well in Final Play of Year Last Night

MISS PITTMAN CARRIES FIRST HONORS IN ACTING

Audience As a Whole Appreciative of Production; Original Idea of Play Furnished by Dr. John McGee; to be Produced by Dr. McGee in New York This Summer; Play Depicts Rise of Young Fighter to National Prominence

By H. B. HINES, JR.
The Experimental Theater with the aid of the Red Masquers Dramatic Club presented last night at Pullen Hall the best and last production of the year when it presented the world premier three-act extemporaneous drama, "Heroic Confusion."

The play was highly entertaining and proved that the extemporaneous play will have a distinct place in American dramatics. Being an experiment, it was only natural that there were rough spots. The audience, appreciative of this fact, generously overlooked them to find the real accomplishments of the drama.

First honors should go to Mildred Pittman, whose presentation of the guardian-secretary of the confused young national hero was highly realistic. Dwight Stokes who played the leading part, and John Finlator, the secretary of the treasury also played their parts with skill. The entire cast contributed to the success of the play. The original idea of the play was furnished by Dr. John McGee of Atlanta, Georgia, who will produce it in the Little Theatre at New York this summer.

The play itself depicted the case of a young fighter who raised himself from the breadline to national popularity by exterminating organized crime and racketeering. In his position of national hero he was forced to decide which of two opposing parties to support. Through his naivete he wrecks both parties, twice lets a woman make a fool of him, and wrecks his own political career. He finally comes through by organizing another party with the backing of some prominent national figures who realize his possibilities, and realizing the need of a guardian marries his secretary. The play was truly a "heroic confusion."

The play was produced under the direction of Prof. E. H. Paget. The members of the cast were: Mildred Pittman, F. G. Walsh, Cynthia Frierson, Veronica Paget, Dwight Stokes, Frank Busbee, Lola Maynard, Elizabeth T. Gantt, W. A. Bridgforth, H. D. Carpenter, John Finlator, Jr., E. H. Paget, A. M. Fountain, Mary Burton, and E. R. Daniels.

The play will be given again tonight at 8 p.m.

CHEER-LEADERS TO HAVE PART IN FRESHMAN WEEK

Cheer-Leaders Now Elected by New System Formulated by Student Council

The newly elected cheer-leaders, Kenneth Brown and Harold Hutchins, will take part in Freshman Week at the beginning of the school year in September, according to Marshall Gardner, president of the student body.

The cheer-leaders were elected by the Student Council last week under a new system. By the old system, cheer-leaders were elected by the rising senior class, but under the new plan two are selected from each class and given tryouts before the Council members, who act as judges. The two who seem most qualified are named as head cheer-leaders for the next school year. The Council selected a rising senior and a rising sophomore, and intends to follow out this plan in future selections.

COMMISSIONED OFFICERS TO BE NAMED NEXT FALL

The selection of commissioned officers will not be officially announced until the opening of the school year next fall.

Builds Auto

Working afternoons for the past three months, Charles Foy, State student, has almost completed a midsize automobile.

The car, smaller than an Austin, has a wheel base of 59 inches and is 37 inches wide. It is powered by a motorcycle motor, the power being supplied to the left rear wheel by a chain. The single seated body is constructed along racer lines and built of sheet metal. It will weigh about 400 pounds when completed and is expected to develop a speed of about 60 miles per hour. It is total cost of construction was not more than $40. Foy formerly worked in an auto assembly plant.

Justin Miller, Dean of Duke Law School, Speaks on Penalty of Leadership

ANNUAL CEREMONY HELD NEAR MEMORIAL TOWER

Greenwood, Barnhardt, Williams, Barnes, Carrow, Cotton, Gardner, Page, Stanko, Sullivan, Morrah, and Stephens Taken Into Society; Miller Says One Who Attains Leadership Must be Shaped for it; Shows Many Kinds of Opposition Which Confront Leaders; Presents Impressive Occasion

By EUGENE KNIGHT

In a dramatic setting around the sun dial and with the World War Memorial Tower as a background, twelve outstanding members of the rising Senior Class were tapped into Golden Chain, senior leadership society, at twilight yesterday.

The new members of the society are: Walter Greenwood, president of the Interfraternity Council; Jim Barnhardt, business manager of The Agromack; Carter Williams, president of Tau Beta Pi; Wilmer Barnes, president of the Engineers' Council; Claude Carrow, vice president of the student body and past president of the Junior Class; Horace Cotton, president of the Y. M. C. A.; Marshall Gardner, president of the student body; Rufus Page, editor of The Agriculturist; John Stanko, president of the Monogram Club; Bill Sullivan, editor of The Wataugan; Dave Morrah, past editor of The Wataugan and president of Blue Key society; and Kenneth Stephens, president of the rising Senior Class.

Justin Miller, dean of the law school at Duke University was the principal speaker of the evening using as his theme "The Penalty of Leadership." "It is a mistake to assume that there are no penalties in leadership," said Dean Miller. "One who achieves leadership must train for it. He must be shaped to fit his position.

"The real leader in the first place," continued Dean Miller, "is a representative of change. He will meet much opposition from those who do not want changes, because those who do not want changes have some interest which might be upset by the change.

"In the second place the leader must know what he is doing. Unless he knows what he is doing, he will never achieve his purpose. Here he will again meet opposition from the ignorant and fearful people. It is like a spearhead which is driven into the ground. The leader, being the spearhead, paves the way for the rest whose path is made easy.

The ceremony was opened by Phil Stone, president of the order, who in a short talk gave the purposes of the organization. "Above all things," he said, "Golden Chain stresses citizenship, higher standards of scholarship and athletics."

"CAPITAL CITY SPEEDWAY"

Since Hillsboro Street has been resurfaced, an excessive amount of speeding has been in evidence which has resulted in accidents and near accidents, one woman being killed and several injured more or less seriously. In a wreck near Hillsboro Street another woman also lost her life.

These accidents and speeding will continue until the city officials work out some scheme by which the street will be made safer for those traveling it. Some suggestions have been made, but probably the best suggestion is the making of this street a thoroughfare, requiring that all cars on side streets come to a full stop before entering. The accidents which have occurred resulted in a car coming from a side street and colliding with a car proceeding along Hillsboro. The placing of stop lights on this street at the more important intersections may also help, but as a rule these lights unless placed in a very conspicuous location are ignored by a large number of motorists. The reason for this is the large number of tourists and out-of-town travelers who use this street, and being unfamiliar with the location of the signal lights will, through no fault of their own, disregard the lights.

By making the street a through street, however, this danger will be overcome. The side streets are used largely by people of this city who will soon become familiar with the arrangement and stop before entering Hillsboro. This arrangement will also have its advantage as a courtesy to the tourist and out-of-town travelers who are coming into the city and will afford them an uninterrupted drive into the heart of the city.

It is generally recognized that Hillsboro Street is one of the most dangerous in the city. In addition to making the street a thoroughfare, a speed limit should be placed on motorists traveling it. Thirty-five miles an hour is a reasonable rate of travel on a street such as this. Accidents have not been confined to the past two weeks. While the fatalities occurring during the past week or so have been the first in a long while, many near casualties occur each week, all caused from automobiles entering Hillsboro from a side street before the driver took the proper precaution to look before entering.

Human life is the most precious intangible thing in the world. Where it is taken when proper measures could have prevented it, a wrong has been committed against society which can never be wiped out. It is known that the city fathers are making an attempt to remedy the situation, and it is hoped that they will adopt a plan which will cut down the alarming number of accidents occurring on this street.

"MR. CHARLIE"

At the end of this baseball season Coach Charles "Chick" Doak will have rounded out ten years of service as coach of the diamond sport at State College.

During these years, he has always been able to produce a baseball club which has made at least a fair impression when compared to the other teams from the larger schools of the state, and has at times had teams superior to any in North Carolina.

He has become one of the best-liked members of the faculty during his term of service here both by members of the baseball team and by those whom he instructs in physical education classes.

Starting this year with a rather weak club, he has built it up until now he has a formidable aggregation which has realized a great ambition—the defeat of Wake Forest, the club which has been a persistent jinx to the State team for the past three years.

As the term draws to a close, the curtain falls on the most successful intramural year at this college. Students have shown a more active interest in the program this year than they ever have before. This type of sport in which the majority of the student body can take part is growing more and more popular each year, and its success is due largely to the efforts of its director, Johnnie Miller.

CLOSING THE BREECH

One of the most successful performances ever seen around here was staged Wednesday night when the State College R. O. T. C. with the aid of the Raleigh High School Band and the Raleigh Boy Scouts gave the first annual campus carnival. The show was sponsored by the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce.

With nearly 5,000 people viewing the event, all details of the show from the entrance of the high school band until the last of the graduation parade went by clicked smoothly. The concensus of opinion was that the carnival was highly successful, and the crowd left with an excellent impression of the entire affair.

The purpose of the carnival was to bring about a closer feeling between the students of State College and the people of Raleigh, a goal toward which the Junior Chamber has set to achieve. The breach between the city and the college is not as wide as it once was. The older citizens remember the time when State College had a poor reputation because of the acts of its students, but that impression has largely been wiped out and a much more favorable impression substituted. It has been the desire of the Junior Chamber to eliminate as far as possible this animosity, placing in its stead a good-will policy.

The carnival will go a long way toward filling in the gap which is closing, though slowly, each year. The Junior Chamber as well as the State College Military Department and the Raleigh High School band and Boy Scouts are to be thanked for helping to bring about this situation through their whole-hearted cooperation in the enterprise.

A NOBLE EXPERIMENT

The new issue of The Watagan smudged with a few unclean jokes has met the approval of some of the student body.

During the year the editor kept the issues preceding the last rather clean for a college humorous magazine. Most of the college magazines contain a great deal of filth which should not be tolerated. As a result of the clean policy a howl of protest has gone up. A large number of the students do not want a clean magazine but prefer one tainted to a larger or smaller degree. The editor has succeeded in meeting their desires with the last issue.

The retiring editor and the editor-elect of the magazine have written a letter of explanation of the sudden change, which was tried as an experiment in hopes of so disgusting the students with a filthy magazine that they will appreciate clean humor.

The letter follows below:

To the students and faculty:
You have just received a Watagan that does not uphold the standard that we have tried to establish during the past year. It is a magazine containing a number of filthy jokes purposely clipped from other magazines. We know they are indecent, and we do not approve of them. Our students have criticised our policy of cleanliness most severely. By publishing these jokes, we hope to change their attitudes, and consequently, to make them more appreciative of clean humor.

Such a Watagan will not appear again. We have sacrificed our self-respect for a noble purpose, but we do not care to do so another time.

Although we do not believe it will be necessary in the future, we would not be opposed to a system of faculty censorship. We hope this experiment will not cause misunderstanding as to our policies. Emphatically and clearly, we do not and will not devote our pages to such a use again.

(Signed) DAVE MORRAH, JR.
BILL SULLIVAN, JR.

THE HONOR SYSTEM AGAIN

A mass meeting of students and faculty members was held last night to discuss some possible change or improvements in the present Honor System at State College.

The group, realizing that some change is necessary, appointed a committee of four faculty members and four students to work out an improved scheme to go into effect with the coming examinations.

The Honor System here has never worked perfectly because the proper cooperation could not be secured to make it successful. The problem of making alterations in the System has arisen each year, but it was allowed to pass, with nothing definite being done until the meeting last night. Now, the appointed committee has the power to suggest a new system which could be used in the examinations at the end of this term. Practically any suggestion toward improving the present set-up should be welcomed, since it would be better than the plan now in effect.

The Honor System was established at State College as an improvement over the old faculty supervision plan. Under the old plan the professor watched his students and suspected all, reporting all cases of cheating. Under the new system the student is on his honor as a gentleman not to receive or give aid on examinations. As has often been stated the faculty now has the "honor" and the students have the "system."

From remarks made by some, an outsider would be led to believe that all college students "cribbed" on examinations, but this is not true. Only a small number of the students here or at any other institution fail to do their own work. It is this small minority that is causing the Honor System to be labeled worthless, and consequently causing the whole group to suffer from the actions of the few who violate the laws of honesty.

This issue and the one next week will be the final issues of THE TECHNICIAN this year. The staff, after a hard year, will take a much needed vacation, although that is not the idea of a large number of students who think that editing a college newspaper is all play and no work.

HERE and THERE

By G. W. FORD

The editor of this old paper is a man of many sides. Last week he got into a tight spot and had to draw the cartoon all by himself. It happened this way . . . the cartoonist (?) knew what the general idea of the picture was to be but didn't know what to label the figures. He started a rough sketch of the picture and they went home to wait for word from the editor. Then came the editor and drew the thing himself. He put the "Ford" there because he had been seeing it and thought that it was part of the picture. As I said before, I never repeat anything but the editor is a man of many sides and that's just the Rubé Goldberg in him.

"Mecky" Davis, senior in M. E. and Adjutant of the Second Battalion, has received his appointment to the Army Flying School. He is to report to Randolph Field at the end of June. Those of you who know the stiff requirements for entrance to this school can appreciate the honor attached to Mecky's appointment.

Of course I only know what I hear in one place or another, but several fellows have suggested that the punch was spiked at a certain house dance during the past week.

I wonder how long we'll have to wait before the city officials realize that there is something radically wrong with the traffic system on Hillsboro street. Accidents don't happen . . . they are caused. When three or four serious accidents occur within a day or two they should realize that it is time to do something.

We haven't seen a traffic cop around here in so long that we are about to believe that they have gone out of existence. You can always find a flat-foot hanging around some weenie stand but what we want is a motorcycle cop or so who will go out and pinch some of these amateur racing drivers who continue practicing on Hillsboro Street at any cost.

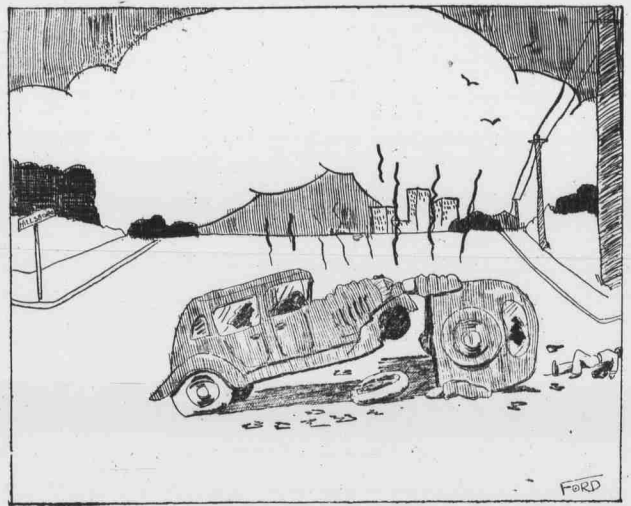

A certain young fellow named Miller announced that he would appear at the airport on Sunday afternoon and give an exhibition of stunt flying. According to reports, Miller decided to go home the last minute. Lots of people like to stick to the good old Terra Firma . . . the saying goes, "The more Firmo, the less Terror."

A recent copy of Liberty carried a short article warning motorists of the danger of picking up hitch-hikers. Any one reading this article would be led to believe that all persons thumbing rides were thugs, criminals, murderers, and a lot of other nasty names. Either the author of this article is wrong or half of our student body should be in State Prison instead of State College.

Governor Ehringhaus must not have read this piece for, on last Saturday afternoon, he picked up Fred Gore and Walter Lee Spencer in Chapel Hill and gave them a lift to Raleigh.

The Watagan has finally come out with the kind of an issue that some of you guys have been howling for . . . now what do you think of it? The cleanest thing about it is the picture on the cover . . . a fellow up to his knees in mud. One article, Kaleidoscope, is just a series of dots with a word here and there. I'm not trying to review the book. . . I'm just telling you that you got what you were looking for.

A Through Street Might Have Prevented It

As the school year draws to a close the seniors are beginning to realize that their college days are behind them. They now look back to the events of the past few years. Remember when: Captain Watson used to give all that practical advice to the freshmen. . . Miles Foy was selected as the best freshman in R. O. T. C. . . "Little Doc" was a favorite hang-out. . . Sarah Hand and Ruth Boyett were two good reasons why a fellow would visit the Infirmary once in a while with some fake ailment. . . The old street cars used to run on Hillsboro Street. . . Dean Cloyd told you the story about 1911 during freshman week . . . bet he's still telling it. . . When someone set fire to the old east bleachers and someone else called the fire department before it had a good start. . . And the cane race. . .

That exhibition and graduation parade the other night turned out better than we expected it to. . . In fact, there was not a flaw in the whole performance. We should have more of these twilight parades and invite the people of Raleigh to attend. It's a great way to build up State College spirit among the town folks.

Captain Eden turned to be quite an announcer. He handled the mike as though he were a veteran at it. Fred Dixon made a good Indian . . . he had us fooled for a while.

We all expected that publicity stunt that the Experimental Theatre pulled . . . they have been doing this for some time. They have two stoges march out on the field carrying placards with the words Heroic Confusion on them. The fellows must have been ashamed of their positions Wednesday night though, they wouldn't show their faces . . . held the cards over them.

And some briefs from here and there . . . Joe Summers has shaved his mustache off. . . there must be a reason. . . "Smut" Smith seems to be losing out to an ice-man. . . The remains of the freshman flag still floats from the flagpole in front of Holladay Hall. . . Rats play hide and seek in the aisles of the Capitol Theatre. . . We received some samples this week from a company that makes fresh caps. . . It is rumored that Albert Couch gave away quite a few Agromocks at the Queen's Ball . . . just for favors or somethin'. . . These gambling machines have developed a new type of stooge . . . the fellow who hangs around and hits the table for you. . . They used over two hundred pounds of salts in the Infirmary this year . . . none of this went to cleaning the Watagan.

RODWELL AND FREEMAN PITCH WINS FOR STATE

Raeferd Game Draws 1,000 Fans to See Techs Get Fifteen Hits Off Deacs

State College defeated Wake Forest in two of a trio of baseball games which the varsity played with the Deacons during the past week. The first contest which Wake Forest took 7-4, was played on Freshman Field last Friday. This game was delayed a day on account of rain. Saturday the two teams clashed at Raeferd, where State won 14-3. In a game at Wake Forest Monday, the Techs repeated to get a 5-3 decision.

In the first game of the series played on Freshman Field, Wake Forest bunched all their runs in the fourth inning. In that inning they sent seven men to bat to get five hits, two walks, and the same number of errors. Bill Herring, Deacon pitcher, turned in a good pitching performance, letting State have seven hits, striking out nine, and walking only one.

State made three runs in the seventh inning, and they might have scored more but for some errors in base running. State's hits in that inning were made on two hits, a walk, a fielder's choice and an error. Bob McQuage hit a triple and Dorus Williams brought him in with a single to score State's other run in the fourth. Lynn and Freeman pitched for State.

There was a good deal of arguing with the umpire in this game. Joe Mulhern of the Deacons had to be pulled off Umpire Vickers by his coach. Patton of Wake Forest and Willie Lynn of State also took opportunities to disagree with that official verbally.

A large crowd turned out at the Raeferd ball park to see the second game of the series between the two schools. There were more than 800 paid admissions, and it was estimated that more than 1,000 fans were present.

State got the long end of the 14-3 score by getting fifteen hits off Gaddy, the Wake Forest pitcher. It was State's first victory over the Deacons in the last ten baseball games played by the two schools. Rodwell did the pitching for State and allowed nine hits. Bob McQuage led the Techs in batting by hitting a home run, a double, and two singles in his four times at bat. Oakden hit a ball good for three bases and a single, and Kirkman and Roach each got a double and a single.

Rodwell struck out three batters and walked one, while Gaddy of the Deacons struck out eight, walked five, and hit one.

In the last game of the series played at Wake Forest Monday, State won for the second time 5-3. Freeman of the Techs pitched a six hit game to add State materially in their victory. Herring pitched for Wake Forest. State made three runs in the second inning and one each in the fourth and sixth to gain the victory.

State scored its three runs in the second on singles by Williams, Lambeth and Johnson, an error and a wild pitch. Johnson and Ballance hit and Farris knocked out a fly to center for State's run in the fourth. In the sixth, Lambeth knocked out a single, stole a base, and came in on a hit by Johnson.

Features of the game were unusually good catches by Rex and Kirkman, and Gold of Wake Forest's catch of a foul hit by Kirkman. The star of the series was Ballance, a senior who has worked on the squad for three years and up to this year, but due to unfortunate circumstances has been unable to play on the team for any regular games up to this series. Ballance will win his monogram this year.

HEELS WIN 8-4 IN FINAL GAME

Techs Lose to Carolina at Chapel Hill in Their Last Game of the Season

In their concluding game of the season, the State College baseball team was defeated 8-4 by Carolina at Chapel Hill Wednesday afternoon. This victory gave the Tar Heels a Southern Conference championship, as they lost only one game out of the twenty-one they played this year. Carolina's win came as a timely and appropriate birthday gift to their coach, Bunn Hearn.

Carolina sewed up enough runs to win in the first inning. In fact all their runs with the exception of one were made in that inning. Willie Lynn pitched the first frame for State. Dave Rodwell pitched the remainder of the game and the Warrenton Junior turned in a good mound performance for the Techs.

Fred Couch pitched a three-hit ball game for the Heels to help them with their victory. This was Couch's ninth victory in ten games this year.

Carolina started their scoring in the first inning when Lynn threw a wide pitch to first, walked another batter and let McCaskell single to bring in two runs after the bases had been filled on an error. Lynn was then taken out of the game and Rodwell took the mound. The first man up, Irwin, hit a home run to bring in four more runs for Carolina, and Jim Tatum hit another home run to conclude the scoring for Carolina in that inning.

Ray Rex hit a homer in the first to bring in Bob McQuage, who was walked and accounts for two of State's four tallies. In the fourth inning Rex hit a single, and Williams got on base on an error. Johnson's fly brought Rex in, and Williams came in when Crouch of Carolina errored Ballance's hit.

The game Wednesday concluded the varsity's schedule for this year. They played a twenty-three game schedule. The varsity will lose six veterans who

Discus Star to Go to Los Angeles Meet After Breaking Conference Record

Milan Zori, State College stellar discus thrower, cannot be accused of resting on his laurels. After winning the Penn State Relay Carnival, and the North Carolina and Southern Conference records, Zori is planning to enter the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field games at Los Angeles on June 22 and 23.

Last week in the Southern Conference track meet held at Duke University, Zori threw the discus 151 feet 7 inches for a new record. Previously, he broke the State record by a throw of 154 feet 9 inches. This throw was the second best made in the United States this year under competition.

Zori said he planned to take a rest for several days before beginning to train for the Los Angeles meet. After training for the three meets he has already taken part in this year, he decided that a short rest from the training grind would do him a lot of good.

praise should be given the girls, for they set up their home in very true housewife manner; and were all done when their commander called them to attention—except "Ethyl" who had spent most of her time powdering her nose and gossiping with her helper. The company commander bawled her out in true style for not completing her job, and "Ethyl," after crying a bit, finished her washing and proceeded to hang a pair of bright pink panties on the line to dry. Noticing that rain seemed probable, the exhibit broke up in a clamor of high-pitched feminine voices and a general dash for cover.

Next on the program came a spectacular exhibit by the Physical Education Department. Many feats of tumbling and mass pyramids of difficult undertaking were presented to the audience. This proof of the power of muscles and a well conditioned body was directed by Johnny Miller, head

To the Students of North Carolina State College:

A great deal has been said both on and off the campus by unthinking people about the constant and continuous change in textbooks. It is natural for everybody to want to get the top resale price for his used books, but have you ever thought that in order to get this top price, it will be necessary for the next incoming class to use your old books, and in order for you to buy or get second-hand books for your courses it is necessary for the preceding classes to sell their books?

Now, suppose you buy a second-hand book at a saving of 50c to $1.50 or more to be used in a course costing you $25.00 to $40.00 (that's about the average cost of every course you take), and later you find that the book has been revised or has become obsolete, or that your professor was just too indifferent about your welfare to provide you with the latest tools with which to work. Have you gained or lost?

Textbooks are just so many tools used in building your education. They are or should be considered expendable items just as food, clothing and room rent, and should be of more value to you than to anyone else.

However, if you wish to sell your books or find it necessary to sell them, bring them to us for appraisal. We want you to know that we had rather pay you top price for books that we know will be used again than buy them for less on a chance of selling them. For, when we pay the top price for a book, we are assured of some profit, otherwise we take a long chance on realizing any returns at all.

Next week we shall attempt to show you how we arrive at the "market price" of second-hand books and when and how you may sell your books to the best advantage.

Very cordially yours,
