BERNSTEIN TALKS TO BUSINESS MEN AT OPEN MEETING

Business Prof. Stresses Value of Adoption of Unemployment Insurance

WOULD CREATE PROBLEMS IN GETTING PLAN ACROSS

Says Unemployment Problem Not Temporary But Continuous; Cost of Unemployment to Community Great; Shows How Employer, Employee, and Government Could Share Costs; Must Be Nationwide Law to Be Effective

"The adoption of unemployment insurance is one way to minimize the real cost of unemployment to laborers," declared Dr. E. M. Bernstein in speaking before the business students at an open meeting of the Delta Sigma Phi, international business fraternity, last Tuesday evening. Craig Furr, president of the fraternity, introduced Dr. Bernstein, whose subject was "Unemployment Insurance."

In opening his talk, Dr. Bernstein said the problem of unemployment is one of the most important of our economic problems. The volume of unemployment varies from a minimum of not far from two million in boom times to a maximum of not less than five million in ordinary depressions, and rising to about eleven million in the current depression. The problem is not a temporary problem, but a continuing problem.

"The cost of unemployment to the community is great," he said. "In terms of goods, it is the total volume of goods and services that could have been produced by the unemployed. In terms of money, it is the total of all the wages, rent interest, profits that would have been paid out in this production. This incidence of cost cannot be avoided. It must be borne by the community in some way."

He said there were many problems to creating an unemployment insurance. Many people say it is a risk. But he answered this by saying "that experience in other countries indicates that there is no reason why a financially sound unemployment insurance fund cannot be created in the United States."

"A plan for financing the fund would be employers contribute three-fifths, employees one-fifth, and the government one-fifth," Dr. Bernstein said. "However, the probability is that the contributions from this country will come largely, if not exclusively, from employers." Both laborers and employers would be covered by the insurance fund in Dr. Bernstein's plan. The fund may be a plant fund, an industry fund, a state fund, or a national one. A wide fund would be best, he said.

In discussing the benefit payments, Dr. Bernstein thought there should be a waiting period, not more than two weeks, and not less than three days.

"The benefits should not be the same sum for all workers but should be a fraction of the average weekly earnings for the past six months employed. This fraction should be not less than one-half, with a minimum payment of not less than six dollars weekly, and a maximum of not more than twenty dollars weekly. The total benefits to an unemployed person should be limited to insure solvency of the fund. Various devices may be used in limiting the fund."

He gave the following suggestions: (a) to not more than 26 weeks in one year, and (b) to not more than 52 weeks in any three-year period. "The worker whose right to benefit has elapsed still has a claim but it must not be by some other community fund—not the unemployment insurance fund," he emphasized. "The rights of workers will also lapse after they become 65 years of age. They then become eligible for payments from supplementary funds."

To make unemployment insurance effective, it must be a nationwide law. The only possible objection is the question of whether it will be constitutional, he said. An alternative, he suggested, would be forcing state insurance laws by national tax action. The Wagner-Lewis bill taxes payroll 3 per cent for the general fund of the Federal government, but this is not collectable to the extent that states levy a tax for the purpose of setting up a state unemployment insurance fund. By national action of voters unemployment insurance could be passed.

In closing his talk, Dr. Bernstein emphasized that "the evil effects are very limited in establishing an unemployment insurance—perhaps the increased rigidity of wages will be the chief of them."

The meeting at which Dr. Bernstein spoke is one of the series arranged by the fraternity in which prominent men will be invited to speak before the business students. A large group of interested students attended this first meeting of the series this term.

Mid-Winters Dance Leaders

MISS ELIZABETH PARK

MISS BETTY ALLARDICE

Sponsors for the annual Midwinter dances at N. C. State College given by the Interfraternity Council and to be held February 1 and 2, are pictured above.

Miss Elizabeth Park, Raleigh, will lead the dance figure with Walter F. Greenwood, Rocky Mount, Kappa Sigma social fraternity, and president of the Interfraternity Council. Miss Park will be assisted by Miss Nancy Mann, Raleigh, daughter of Prof. C. L. Mann, head of the State College civil engineering department, with Bill Shaw, Winton, Theta Kappa Nu, vice president of the Council; and Miss Betty Allardice, Mountain Lakes, N. J., a senior at the Womens College in Greensboro, with Larry Martin, Nyack, N. Y., Delta Sigma Phi, chairman of the dance committee.

Gene Kardos and his Victor Recording Orchestra has been secured to furnish the music for this colorful series of dances.

WENDELL GROUP INVITES ACTORS

Experimental Theatre Will Appear in Wendell to Give Program of Plays

The N. C. State Experimental Theatre has received an invitation to give a program of plays at Wendell on Friday, February 8. The showing will be sponsored by the Wendell public schools and the Wendell Parent-Teachers Association.

The Players will present a program of three plays. The first will be "Mountain Rattlesnake," an extemporaneous melodrama first presented at State College in December and later at Zebulon and at Algiers, Louisiana. The other two plays will be impromptu, similar in method to the impromptu play given at the recent New Orleans convention of the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

The present cast for the Wendell play is composed of H. D. Carpenter, Fred G. Walsh, Veronica Page, Roy Cunningham, Frank Dixon, and Douglas Eleanor Doak.

The engagement was secured through the efforts of Lonnie Knott, former State College debater, orator, and actor. Knott will probably appear as guest performer with the group.

During the past twelve months, the Experimental Theatre has given over thirty performances and has shown in North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Alabama, and Louisiana. They have travelled over 7,000 miles during the last period from January 31, 1934 to January 1, 1935, probably a new all-time record for college dramatics.

Other invitations are being considered and announcement of dates and sponsors will be made within the next ten days.

Famous Nickname

Prof. A. M. Fountain, professor of English, has acquired quite a reputation with the nickname which has been placed on him. When the Fine Burr weekly radio program was being broadcast, the question was asked one of the announcers what he thought of having music on the program. The announcer replied that he thought it a good plan, and that one of the State College songs should be featured, "not the fast one, but the slower one which was written by the professor which you all call 'Zippy Mack'."

INDUSTRIAL CLUB GRANTED CHARTER

State Society of Industrial Engineers Admitted Into National Association

The State College Society of Industrial Engineers which was organized here in 1933 has been admitted into the national association, E. D. McDowell, president of the chapter here, announced yesterday.

At the present the society has ten upperclassmen members. Freshmen in the school of industrial engineering will be admitted later.

At the beginning of the year the members took an active interest in becoming affiliated with the national organization, and petitioned the society for admittance. Their request has been recently granted.

Some of the objects of the society are to make the student body better acquainted with industrial engineering; to give engineers in that school the privileges of engineers in other schools; and to lead to recognition by and entrance into the Engineers' Council.

The enrollment in the school has been steadily increasing since the curriculum was established here.

Officers of the local chapter are: E. D. McDowell, president; C. G. Woodson, vice president; W. T. Woodley, secretary; and D. B. Baldwin, treasurer.

The objects of the Society of Industrial Engineers as outlined in the national constitution are: To reduce waste and to increase efficiency, economy, and good will in industry through the development, dissemination, and application of scientific principles and methods of management; to promote a more general understanding of the rights and interests of the public, investors, consumers, employees, and executives; to assist federal, state, and local governments in securing efficiency and economy concerning public affairs, and in improving governmental activities affecting the management of industry and commerce; to further the effective coordination of the various functions of management; and to provide a medium through which engineers, accountants, managing executives, and others engaged in applying scientific methods to the solution of industrial problems, can further the foregoing objects and promote their professional interest.

MAYER RELEASES WINTER FIGURES ON REGISTRATION

ENGINEERING SCHOOL STILL FAR IN FRONT

All-time High Record for Enrollment Set in 1929-30 When 1,856 Students Registered; 1,802 Registered for Fall Term This Year; Mayer Believes Average Enrollment for Three Terms This Year Will Be in Excess of All Other Registration figures, released this week by Registrar W. L. Mayer, show an enrollment of 1,802 students for the winter term, only seven less than the record winter term enrollment in the year 1930-31.

It is interesting to note that the all-time high enrollment was in the fall term of 1929-30 when 1,856 students registered, compared with 1,802 the fall term this year. However, a comparison of the winter term enrollments for these two years shows an increase this year of 53 students. An analysis of these figures leads Registrar Mayer to believe that the average enrollment for three terms this year will exceed that of any previous year. The net loss between the fall and winter terms this year, not including those dropped for failure, was only about 50 students.

A comparison of registration figures by schools, for this term with the total for the two terms this year shows, in the School of Agriculture, 306 this term, 342 total for two terms; in the School of Education, 188 this term, 213 total for two terms; in the School of Engineering, 612 this term, 670 total for two terms; in the School of Science and Business, 256 this term, 326 total for two terms; and in the School of Textiles, 230 this term, and a total of 309 for two terms. The total registration does not represent the average for the two terms, but the number of individuals who enrolled for either or both terms.

A further examination of the Registrar's figures reveals that, in number, the forestry students lead the School of Agriculture; the high school teachers lead the School of Education; the chemicals lead the School of Engineering; the industrial managers lead the School of Science and Business; and the students in textile manufacturing lead the School of Textiles.

There is a total enrollment of 32 co-eds for the winter term, or about a decrease of 10 under last term.

ONLY EIGHT STUDENTS CONFINED TO INFIRMARY

Contrary to Widespread Rumors, No "Flu" Epidemic Present On State Campus

According to the latest report from the infirmary, the rumor of a wide spread influenza epidemic is false. At present there are nine patients in the College infirmary of which the majority of the cases are common colds with two cases of the mumps reported. Those confined are as follows: W. L. Dixon, T. U. Simmons, Alton Jordan, J. B. Mase, Jr., Harry Brown, Jr., J. M. Smith, C. E. Callahan, and H. E. Beaver.

McLEAN MURALS ELICIT COMMENT FROM TEACHERS

Young Democrats

A concerted drive for members will be made by the State College Young Democratic Club during the coming week.

The club has set a definite goal, and the results of the drive will be discussed at a meeting of the club next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. The State College club is associated with the Wake County club, which is one of the most active Young Democratic clubs in the state. The national organization has a membership in excess of 2,500,000 members.

Each year thousands of visitors are attracted to the events as student work is exhibited in the Textile Building. Most of the women's colleges of the State send representatives to style the fabrics woven and designed by the students. Prizes are awarded for the best costumes.

SAVINGS ASSOCIATION PAYS ANNUAL DIVIDEND

Newly Elected Directors of Savings Club Pay Members Six Per Cent Dividend

Payment of a six per cent dividend by the newly elected directors of the State College Savings and Loan Association has just been made following their election at a meeting held on the campus Wednesday night.

During the calendar year of 1934 the association reported a membership gain of 256 per cent since its organization first in 1932 and has kept its record clear with no losses on any loan made during this whole period, according to the report of the Treasurer L. L. Ivey. Loans are confined to members of the college community and many members assert that they have been of great benefit during the recent budget balancing activities on the part of the State.

Still Missing

No information as to the whereabouts of Loraine Anderson, senior in Chemical Engineering who has been missing since January 17, had been received by college officials at a late hour last night. Anderson is a transfer student from Georgia Tech. He had not registered for the winter term, but he took with him no personal property other than the clothes which he was wearing. All his funds in the bank had been withdrawn. A number of clubs have been traced unsuccessfully. He is from Wilmington.

Storm Centered About Recently Hung Murals Continues On State Campus

OPINIONS VARY WIDELY AMONG STATE PROFESSORS

Some Professors Condemn Decorations While Others Praise Them; Murals Painted By James McLean, Raleigh Artist With CWA Funds; Major Topic of Discussion Whether or Not Murals Are Appropriate for Hill Library Rotunda

The storm centered about the McLean murals recently placed in the D. H. Hill Library continues.

In a symposium taken yesterday of several State College instructors varied opinions were given, ranging from outright condemnations of the decorations to the statement that the murals "when placed in their final position in the rotunda of the State College Library, will constitute one of the major reasons why North Carolinians and others should visit Raleigh and Raleigh's leading institution."

The murals were painted by James McLean, a Raleigh artist, through funds provided by the CWA. The canvases and paints were supplied by this institution. Since their first exhibition during the North Carolina Art Week they have caused a storm of comment, both favorable and unfavorable.

The most prominent question which has arisen is whether or not the murals, being modernistic, are in harmony with the interior of the State College Library which is constructed along Colonial lines.

Dr. D. B. Anderson, professor of botany—"The McLean murals now hanging in the library impress me as being a most desirable addition to the building. The murals are well designed, vigorous in style and well indicate the contributions that engineering, agriculture, science, and architecture have made to modern life. The murals avoid both the extreme modern and the well worn classical treatment of the subject material and are thoroughly representative of the kind of work being done by the leading mural painters of our time. I think State College is extremely fortunate to have the murals and feel that they will amply repay the careful attention and study of all who may happen to see them."

J. D. Paulson, professor of architecture—"I do not feel that the panels in the rotunda of the library are suitably decorated by the murals at present hanging over them. These murals have a number of very good qualities, but at the same time serious faults which make them inappropriate."

"They are not harmonious with the rotunda interior in color, in scale, or in spirit. The possibly ingenious assembly of many symbolic things in these panels does not necessarily make them structurally designed compositions suitable for the spaces they are intended to fill."

"The primary purpose of a mural decoration is to beautify the surface of a wall. These panels do not beautify the rotunda, but, to my eyes, they seem extremely harsh, out of tone, and unpleasant."

Dr. B. W. Wells, in an article on the McLean Murals in the News and Observer, December 2, 1934, states the following:

"The McLean murals stand high in their field of art. In symbolic content, they show painstaking research and resultant accuracy of interpretation. As artistic expressions they are characterized by marked individuality of treatment, a refined judgment in the choice of his pigments, high success in composition, and a mastery use of the thin color so desirable in mural work. North Carolina may well be proud of this native artist, who has created such notable productions for one of her public buildings. When placed in their final position in the rotunda of the State College Library, they will constitute one of the major reasons why North Carolinians and others should visit Raleigh and Raleigh's leading educational institutions."

Prof. J. D. Clark, head of the English Department—"Judgment of the murals should, in the main, be left to or made by a committee of artists who represent various schools of art. As a layman, I feel incompetent to make a fair decision. Whatever I might give as a criticism might be as feeling as the judgment passed by the citizens of the United States on 'Whitler's Mother' before it was bought by France. (Please turn to page four)"

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Sounding the keynote of the tenth annual congress of the National Student Federation of America, Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College, made a plea for unconditional free speech and collective bargaining between students and administrators of American colleges.

"I propose first," Dr. MacCracken said, "that the student body through their constituent society be granted the right of collective bargaining with the trustees of their college. All plans affecting the welfare of the students, the endowments for scholarships and housing conditions, the expansion or contraction of college services, should come before this body.

"I propose, second, that through a student commission on the course of study, undergraduates should have the right of free expression of opinion in all requirements for degrees, as to the hours of study, number of courses, and standards of work. They should have the right not only of criticizing poor teaching but of seeking redress when such teaching interferes with their profitable use of time and money."

In his declaration for collective bargaining, the Vassar president has struck upon an issue for which students here have long been struggling, and have seemingly made no headway. Of course, students have more power now than when no student government existed, but all matters brought before this group are comparatively petty. Still the student body has no voice in the kind of courses it has to take, the number of hours scheduled, and the requirements for graduation. All of that is left to the administration. However, students should have the right of collective bargaining with the administration and the trustees. True, students sometimes appear before these bodies, but their resolutions are too many times cast gently aside.

State College is advertised as a democratic school. However, no true democracy really will exist here as long as the faculty holds the upper hand and stifles student opinion. That falls more or less in the category of a tyranny, not a democracy. It is admitted that students do not have all the wisdom which age brings, but still they do not have some of the mental infirmities which age sometimes brings. Therefore, to have a progressive institution, it would be wise for the faculty to seek conferences with students in view of bringing out new ideas. This move would tend to tear down some of the old barriers between the faculty and the students and at the same time erase a great deal of the animosity which is directed towards the faculty by the students.

BETTER ENGLISH

For sometime there have been several professors not connected with the English Department who have stressed the value and the importance of using proper English.

It is this group of professors who have seen State College graduates leave this institution with a knowledge of English which would shame the average high school graduate, and they are the ones most interested in correcting the condition. A poor English scholar will not only seriously handicap himself, but he also will be a reflection on the teaching methods of this college.

When a student is graduated from a college, one of the most formidable weapons with which he can arm himself for life's battles is a good working knowledge of the English language. First impressions are likely to be made in the securing of positions and in the conduct of business contacts.

It might be a most excellent idea if some of the professors who do not now regard English as one of the most important courses were to place a greater emphasis upon it for the good of the students and for the credit of the institution.

LIBRARY "BROWSING ROOM"

The library "browsing room" which was proposed some time ago has been the object of a great deal of favorable comment, and at the present seems almost assured.

Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, has expressed himself as being well pleased with the idea and has stated that he would recommend that funds for such a room be included in the next year's budget. He also stated that if the idea were instituted, it would be continued provided the students cooperated in taking care of the room. If the plan were carried through, students would have enough decency to take care of the furniture and books provided.

As the situation now stands, there will not be enough money appropriated to take care of all the fixtures which are needed. Some of the campus societies should make it one of their projects to provide some article or furniture or fixture for the room. Unless the societies do this, the room will not be able to serve its intended purpose.

State College for a long time has needed an improvement such as the "browsing room" would give. There a student could pass away a few leisure hours in the company of a good book of fiction or a readable book of non-fiction. Periodicals would also be provided for those who patronized the place. The plan has been tried in several larger universities all over the country with a remarkable degree of success. The purpose of such a room is a place where a student may find a comfortable home-like atmosphere, a place where he could smoke if he so desired, and have a large number of readable books from which to make his selections.

The authors of the proposal deserve the support of the entire student body in this matter if the plan is to become a reality.

MURALS BRING VARIED REACTIONS

Varied opinions of the McLean murals have been expressed by several State College professors, while most of the student body has registered a negative reaction.

The consensus of the two groups seems to be that the murals are highly inappropriate for a building constructed along Colonial lines. While for the most part the opinions voiced are those of laymen, the almost united feeling against the decorations seems to indicate that there is at least some justification for the protest.

The entire disapproval is not a question concerning the qualities of the murals themselves, but their appropriateness. As a State College professor of architecture expressed it, "these murals have a number of very good qualities, but at the same time have serious faults which make them inappropriate. They are not harmonious with the rotunda interior either in color, in scale, or in spirit."

The expression of disapproval has not only been expressed in the State College community, but on the outside as well. Several prominent townspeople who have studied art are of the opinion that the murals are not at all in keeping with the interior of the D. H. Hill Library. Since the primary purpose of a mural is to beautify a wall, a different type of art should have been employed in painting the decorations for the library rotunda panels.

Fortunately the murals have been hung only temporarily. A permanent decision will be made on the case later. The Library Committee met a short time before the Christmas holidays and voted to hang the murals for a short period, possibly two months. That body will meet again about March 1 to consider whether or not to give the decorations a permanent place in the rotunda of the D. H. Hill library.

In view of the dissatisfaction expressed by most of the students and the faculty, it would be almost a violation of a trust placed in the Library Committee if it was to accept the McLean murals for a permanent place in the library rotunda.

BOXING RETAINED

The decision of the Faculty Athletic Committee not to consider the abolition of boxing at State College came as a welcome relief to a large majority of the student body and the followers of the sport in this city. One of the excuses which the athletic directors have offered in failing to appropriate decent sums to the minor sports has been that they do not pay their way. This cannot be said of boxing, as the gate receipts have been unusually large in past years.

The Athletic Council has shown a little more consideration for the minor sports this year, but still it has not given the smaller divisions a needed and just amount of the athletic funds. Until the Council sees minor sports more from a point of the interest taken in them by the students and not from the monetary remuneration standpoint, a growing discontent with the athletic program will be in evidence. Of course, it takes money to operate sports, and unless the gate receipts are large, athletic directors will be inclined to place too much emphasis on the larger sports and under emphasize the smaller sports or those sports with the small gate receipts.

Football, since it is almost without a doubt the most popular collegiate sport has been given too much attention and with this over attention has come many of the present day evils of the system—proselyting of players rabid demands of the alumni for a winning team and poor scholarship which almost invariably results from too much attention to the grid sport.

Yet as long as the alumni and the students demand it, football will continue to rule the roost, and other sports will have but little chance in the face of such overwhelming odds.

HERE and THERE

By C. W. FORD

Last week in this column I made the mistake of calling a professor by his nickname. I want to apologize . . . for the name; not for what I had to say about him. The professor explains that he tells risqué stories to bring out a point for the students to remember. My opinion was that the students remembered the stories and forgot the points . . . well, everyone has his own ideas.

Jim "Daisy" Davis seems to be holding the torch for two females Heart-Throbs and Eugena. Beware young fellow . . . he who lights the candle at both ends is bound to get burned sooner or later.

Frank Hunt asked the new nurse for a glass of orange juice the other night. He drank what she gave him only to find that half of it was castor oil. Frank didn't mind taking the castor oil but it went all through him to think that she had put one over on him.

Burke Fowler's friends are wondering why he goes home so often. My advice is for them to find out just whose home he's going to and they'll then learn what's up.

Horace Cotton denies that rumor about his being married.

T. C. Gardner says that if he had curly hair he'd be the best looking boy at State College.

The Chemical Engineers put on their annual initiation of new freshmen this week. Aside from other things many of the young ones were seeing green the next day.

Prepare yourself for a shock . . . the Watauga will come out with another issue on or within two months of the first of February.

Much to the pleasure of the R.O.T.C. boys, the Eagle paid us a visit this week . . . yes, paid is the word. There have been quite a few eagles floating around here since Tuesday.

At last I have a plan whereby we can make use of the much talked of mural paintings in the library. Here it is: complete the Memorial Tower, chimneys and all; hang the pictures on the inside facing the chimneys. The bells will get that dizzy sensation and will start reeling. This will keep music in the air. Rather silly, says you. So are the pictures, says I.

It's funny how people will sigh and say, "Yes, Barnum was right" and will then go out to the Walkathon and pay to see a lot of people walking around in circles. We sigh and say, "Yes, he was right."

Open Forum

Defends Anderson

To the Editor:
I read with interest your editorial, "Mercenary Football," which appeared in the January 18 TECHNICIAN. It appears to me that there are two sides to the question. You presented one. I want to attempt to present the other.

For many years State has labored and spent in hopes of obtaining a winning football team. The school made its most determined bid for a top football team when last January it secured the services of Hunk Anderson as head football coach.

When Anderson signed the three year contract, State College stepped up front as an institution interested in the development of its football men through expert coaching, and the sport world began to take more notice of the school.

We know that Anderson was brought to State to give us a winning football team because that is what all of us want. We would rather win the Big Five or Southern Conference grid title than any other athletic title. We also know that football is the best attended sport at the school and that it requires more time, thought and money to promote it.

Anderson is interested in State and he is trying his best to do what he has been asked and hired to do—give us a winning football team. He can't build a team in one year, and since football has become so important and scientific, it takes more instruction than what the men get during the regular football season. Realizing this, Anderson has asked that freshmen, at least some of them are stars in winter sports, participate in the winter grid drills.

Those of us who saw the freshmen in action last fall realize that many of them will lend valuable aid to the 1935 team if they are thoroughly familiar with Anderson's style of play. Six or eight weeks of winter drills will enable them to learn their football ABC's and when drills start next fall, Anderson will not have to start at the bottom.

Should State have another unsuccessful grid year, you, the student body, the alumni, and followers of the team doubtless will be ready to give Anderson the air. It seems to me that since football is so important, it is only fair that we let Anderson run the football team as he pleases so long as he does not interfere with the regular scholastic schedule of the student.

FORESTRY CLUB HEARS WEYMAN

Proposed Shift of Forest Service to Interior Department is Subject of Talk

Prof. L. Weyman, of the Forestry School and for many years connected with the U. S. Forest Service, presented a short talk on the proposed transfer of the Forest Service from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of the Interior at the meeting of the Forestry Club held last night in Patterson Hall.

Tracing the development of the Service from its early days when it was once under the Interior Department, he pointed out the reasons for the shift at that early date and emphasized the fact that the same conditions still exist. According to Professor Weyman such a move has been repeatedly fought in the past decade by the Service and all organizations of affiliated and technically trained forestry men. Since it has been under the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture it has functioned with an efficiency that is incomparable to no other government unit and has always upheld the interest of the small citizen. It has acted in complete cooperation with the departmental bureaus whose activities are closely allied. In closing he stated that all this would be disrupted or cease under the change and that under the New Deal rulings even the positions of the technically trained men would be jeopardized, their dismissal being optional with the Secretary of Interior.

W. E. Boydin, editor of the Pine-needle, announced that the annual would appear on or about April 5.

The following are the recently elected officers for the winter term: G. E. Jackson, president; C. M. Matthews, vice president; H. C. Bragaw, secretary; L. K. Andrews, program chairman; and C. E. Riley, athletic manager.

Coach Dave Morrish's wrestling team meets the University of North Carolina team down in the gym tomorrow night.

It looks as though Leroy Jay is through as a varsity basketball player. Jay was declared ineligible Monday by the faculty athletic committee.

It's not unfamiliar to hear members of a boxing or wrestling team talking about the loss of several pounds of weight but when you hear of a coach losing weight then that's news.

You fellows who are down around the gym a lot in the afternoons while the varsity basketball team is practicing are sure to hear Doc Sermon come out with, "Hey Skinny, grab the ball!"

I see that "Clipper" Smith has landed a job at Duquesne University. Smith is coaching the line and working as an assistant under Christy Flannagan.

The University of Miami boxing and wrestling teams were guests of State College last Monday afternoon.

The varsity basketball team tackles the V. P. I. team tonight in Frank Thompson Gym. V. P. I. is a Southern Conference team and a strong one at that.

Despite four losses this year, the Red Terrors are still on top in the Big Five race, having a spotless record in that loop.

And Dr. Laffer had to give Carl Goode a sent in the rear of the room because he was too broadminded to sit in his regular assigned seat.

Red Terrors to Meet V.P.I. In Gymnasium Here Tonight

AYCOCK IS NOT LIKELY TO PLAY FOR TERRORS

Star Forward Has Been Sick With Influenza Since Team's Return From S. Carolina

State College and Raleigh sports fans will have the opportunity to see both the freshman and varsity basketball teams in action at the Frank Thompson gymnasium here tonight at 7 o'clock.

The freshman contest will begin at 7 o'clock, and the varsity game will begin as soon as the first game ends.

The loss of Leroy Jay is another misfortune that has happened to the Terrors during the past week.

Coach Sermon will probably start Woolly Lambeth and Robert Harris at the forward posts, Stuart Flythe at center and Captain Ray Rex and Chub Womble as guards in tonight's encounter.

Morrish's Team Expected to Take Win From Unexperienced Carolina Grapplers

When interviewed last night, Coach Dave Morrish struck an optimistic note in his predictions for the wrestling match with Carolina in the Frank Thompson gym Saturday night.

Both teams came through with wins in their meets of last week.

The Tar Heels will depend mostly on sophomores to bring them a win. They have a lone letterman in Captain Sim Eiland, 165 pound grappler, who will wrestle Craig Furr.

State has its own stars in Krach, Hall, Croom, and Bernhardt. The last three named won by falls in the V. M. I. meet, while Krach won by a decision.

The heavyweight class will give the Techs considerable trouble with E. W. Cooper definitely out for the rest of the season.

SOUTH CAROLINA TEAMS BEST NCS

State College Red Terrors Lose All Three of the Games Played in South Carolina Trip

The invasion of South Carolina by the State College Red Terrors turned out to be a rout for the State cage team in each of the three games they played.

In the game with Furman played last Thursday night, the Terrors made a valiant effort to overcome the lead which the Purple Hurricane had at the end of the half.

A series of intrasquad games tomorrow will mark the conclusion of the second week of winter football drills at State College.

It is quite a coincidence that State has been defeated by every South Carolina team that they have met this season, and the Terrors have lost no other games except to South Carolina teams.

STATE GRAPPLERS TAKE DECISION FROM V. M. I.

State Wrestlers Get Long End of 18-14 Score in Match With Cadets at Lexington

The State College wrestling team took a close match with the V. M. I. Cadets last week. The bouts took place at Lexington, Va. and the final score was 18-14 in favor of the Techs.

The summary: 118-Riley, VMI, defeated Bell. Time advantage, 8:21. 125-Sherard, VMI, defeated Kerr in extra periods. Time advantage, 3:37.

RIFLE TEAM WINS ONE MATCH AND LOSES TWO

The N. C. State College rifle team won one out of the three postal matches in which they were engaged this week.

Star Performers

WOLFPACK SQUADS PLAY TOMORROW

'Guards Back' System of Offense Is to Be Practiced By Squad During Winter Drills

Anderson held two intrasquad games last Saturday after a week of practice, and both games were decided by the same score, 13-0.

FROSH OVERCOME VIRGINIA QUINTET

Warren's Team Comes From Behind to Take 40-36 Decision Over Massanutten

Trailing 22-17 at the end of the first half, State College's freshman basketball team came through in the last half of the game to chalk up 23 points and beat Massanutten Academy 40-36 in their game last Saturday night in Frank Thompson gym.

Massanutten's two forwards, Tom Hale and Joe Dixon, set the pace for the Virginia club, the former collecting 19 points and the latter 11.

LEROY JAY RULED INELIGIBLE FOR BASKETBALL TEAM

Faculty Athletic Council Rules Player Had Completed Three Years of Competition

GAME WITH A. C. COLLEGE RULED VARSITY PLAYING

Practice Game Played During Christmas Holidays in 1931 Loses Player to Team; Game With Atlantic Christian Was the Only One Jay Played During That Year; Loss of Varsity Forward Will Be Keenly Felt By the Basketball Team

Leroy Jay was ruled ineligible for further varsity basketball competition by the State college athletic council in a meeting held last week.

The council met to discuss Jay's case after a report was published in a Durham paper last week which declared that Jay had played varsity basketball for State in 1931.

The athletic council ruled that participation in this game used up one year for Jay of the three years of varsity competition allowed by Southern Conference rules, and that Jay should have been through as a basketball player at the end of the season last year.

The loss of Jay to the Red Terrors will handicap them a great deal in the rest of their schedule this season.

Freshman Tea

The third of a series of teas honoring members of the freshman class and their guests will be held Sunday afternoon from four to five-thirty o'clock in the reception rooms of the college Y. M. C. A.

Dean W. C. Riddick and Miss Anna Riddick will be the host and hostess for this occasion. Carter Williams, president of Golden Chain and Ed Parry, president of the freshman class will provide also with the host and hostess.

The purpose of the freshman teas are to acquaint them with each other and to meet the students who are leaders on the college campus.

At the tea held last Sunday, more than a hundred guests called during the afternoon. Among those present was a group of young ladies who are freshmen at Meredith College. Each Sunday afternoon invitations will be extended to a different group of freshmen and young ladies.

The lower floor of the "Y" was thrown on suite for the occasion. Palms, ferns and cut flowers formed the background for the gathering.

Those assisting in receiving were: Professor and Mrs. J. G. Estes, Professor and Mrs. H. B. Mann, Professor and Mrs. J. S. Meares, and Mr. J. F. Lutz.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Jane McKimmon and Mrs. Robert Ruffner, and was served by Mrs. C. M. Heck and Mrs. H. A. Fisher. Sandwiches, mints and nuts were served by Misses Nancy Mann, Rosemary Schenck, Virginia Holt, Elizabeth Walker, Katherine Morris, Charlotte Ruffner and Elsie Winters.

Those in charge of the floral arrangements were Mrs. I. O. Schaub and Mrs. C. A. Sheffield, assisted by Glenn Randall and David Weaver. Mrs. J. D. Clark is the general chairman in arranging the weekly teas.

Today that picture is recognized as a great piece of art in this country after the French had declared it to be a good piece of art. Art of the people should be treated seriously and sympathetically and quick judgments should be avoided.

A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the Ceramic Engineering School—"I am definitely of the opinion that the McLean murals do not belong in the library. There is such a thing as fitness in art and the modernistic will not 'blend' with the colonial. Furthermore the murals are so crude they scream at one looking at them."

Alvin M. Fountain, professor of English—"Lay critics are seldom justified in spending an opinion about any particular work of art; yet all of us have some sort of basic reaction toward any of art's products, and it is in the light of such reaction that I am expressing myself. The murals at the library offend my sense of fitness because of their gaudy colors. We have all accepted the mal-proportions usually associated with impressionistic painting, and can overlook them in the extremes here evidenced; but the colors are unforgivable."

Correction

Inadvertently THE TECHNICIAN last week in an article on the selection of three professors for duty on the Student Council during cases involving cheating listed H. E. Satterfield as one of the professors. The name should have been G. H. Satterfield.

President's Birthday Dance

A delightful and entertaining floor show is being planned for presentation at the second annual "Birthday Ball for the President" which will be held in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium on Wednesday night, January 30.

The floor show will be presented under the direction of Miss Louise Williams, preceding the general dancing. There will be no formal figure or grand march at the affair this year, according to the arrangement committee. Among other features at the ball will be a huge birthday cake.

Music for the ball will be furnished by Jimmy Poyner and his State Collegians and by Margie Simms and her debutantes, a girls' orchestra from Washington, D. C. Admission will be fifty cents for spectators, one dollar for each couple and fifty cents for each stag. Reserved seats in boxes placed around the dance floor will be one dollar each.

Decorations of American flags and greenery will be used in the auditorium. It is anticipated that thousands will be present to participate in the entertainment. Last year's ball was one of the most largely attended dances held in Raleigh.

The birthday ball this year differs from the first one in that 70 per cent of the proceeds will remain in the community to be used for the treatment of infantile paralysis. The other 30 per cent will go to the Warm Springs Foundation fund.

Tickets for the ball are now on sale. Representatives from every civic, social, fraternal and patriotic organization are in charge of the sale of tickets.

Midwinter Dances

The committee on arrangements for the Midwinter Dances to be held Friday and Saturday, February 1 and 2 have completed all details concerning the dance, according to a report of the chairman of the committee.

Gene Kardos and his Victor Recording Orchestra has been secured to furnish the music for this colorful series of dances. Kardos' orchestra, which broadcasts frequently over the Columbia Radio Network, features a number of original musical arrangements.

A feature of the Midwinter will be the inaugurating of several no-break dances. Heretofore, no-break dances have not been permitted except the one no-break which is given members of the figure.

A short program of the Gene Kardos dance music will be broadcast from the ballroom floor Friday and Saturday nights over radio station WPTF of Raleigh.

A number of fraternities are planning to have house parties during the week-end. A complete list of the activities and young ladies who will be guests of the fraternities will be given in the next issue of THE TECHNICIAN.

Officers of the Interfraternity Council this year are: Walter F. Greenwood, of Rocky Mount, Kappa Sigma, president; Bill Shaw, Winton, Theta Kappa Nu, vice president; and Dean E. L. Clody, permanent secretary-treasurer.

BOXING DECISION IS AFFIRMATIVE

Lack of Action on Issue By Faculty Athletic Council Means That the Sport Continues

As a result of the faculty athletic committee meeting last Monday, boxing is due to continue as an intercollegiate sport at State College this year. The committee meeting to consider the case of Leroy Jay took no action whatsoever on the boxing situation and this indicates that the team will carry on for the remainder of the season.

Prof. H. A. Fisher, vice chairman of the committee, said last week that he saw no reason why boxing should be discontinued at this school. He went on further to say that so long as students took an interest in coming out for the team, it made little difference about especially good material. Prof. Fisher feels that if students can come down, and learn something about the art of self defense, boxing will always be on the State College sport schedule.

The team showed especially good spirit about the whole affair. They went to South Carolina, and handed them a 5-3 defeat. Then returned to continue working out while the question was still under fire.

Coach Johnson is fast developing a team that will win its share of the remaining fights. The team will be inactive this week-end, but will take on the strong Carolina team on February 2.

Charlie Garner, ex-captain of the State ring team and former Southern Conference welterweight champion, has a fast freshman team working out every afternoon. The freshmen have meets scheduled with Carolina, Duke and Oak Ridge. Jack Leet, freshman welterweight, has been showing some good stuff so far and apparently has the 145 class sewed up.

STATE

With the aid of a trio of gallant comedians, Roland Young, Alison Skipworth and Reginald Owen, who contribute outstanding performances, Bing Crosby and Kitty Carlisle have another smash hit in "Here is My Heart," newest musical romance, which will be shown at the State Theatre for four days beginning Monday.

A Mickey Mouse cartoon, a comedy and News completes the program.

CAPITAL

"Hide-Out," showing at the Capitol Theatre on Monday and Tuesday is heralded as one of those wholesome film productions which leave a lasting impression upon those who see it. It deals with a happy-go-lucky post-repeal racketeer who, believing he has everything one could wish for in life—money, without working for it, romance and pleasure—comes to his senses after he has been driven from New York by the police, only to find real love and happiness in a rural environment.
