Plans released late yesterday are complete for the largest Blue Key Stunt Night in the history of the organization. The annual event will begin tonight at 7:30 in Pullen Hall, with sixteen major campus organizations taking part. "Stunts" will be sponsored by Phi Eta Sigma, Golden Chain, Blue Key, Thirty and Three, Pine Burr, Phi Psi, Tompkins Textile Society, Mu Beta Psi, Monogram Club, Scabbard and Blade, Delta Sigma Pi, A. S. C. E., Engineer's Council, State College Band, Karamos, Alpha Zeta, and the cheer leaders.

The Stunt Night committee is composed of Dave Morrish, Walter Greenwood, John Findlay, and Bill Sullivan. Immediately following the Stunt Night program, students will gather on Red Field for a mammoth pep-meeting. They will be led in cheers before a huge bonfire, and later will stage a snake dance and an uptown torch parade.

Officials have announced that Fayetteville Street will be cleared of traffic between 10 and 10:20 o'clock for the parade. The Drum and Bugle Corps will take part in the pep-meeting.

At the foot of the Memorial Tower Saturday noon, Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, will open the exercises with an official welcome to alumni and parents who are visitors at the college. W. H. Sullivan, president of the alumni association, will also speak. Dr. Frank Porter Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, who was to have made an address at that time, will be unable to attend, it was learned yesterday.

GARDNER CLEARS SEVERAL DOUBTS OF NEW SYSTEM

Much Misunderstanding Arises As To Purpose of Faculty-Proposed System

DECLARES NEW SYSTEM NOT BACKWARD ACTION

Student Government President Says It Has Been Common Knowledge That Honor System Has Been in State of Decay for Past Three Years; Purpose of New System to Raise Scholastic Standards; Old System Abolished Last Week

Since the abolition of the Honor System last week, there has arisen on the campus a great deal of misunderstanding concerning the faculty-student proctor system.

Marshal Gardner, president of the State College Student Government, in the article which follows below has attempted to clarify the situation, so that it might be understood by all students.

His statement is as follows: "From all sides, there has been a great deal of misunderstanding concerning the purpose of the faculty-student proctor system for examinations and quizzes. Some have said that the underlying purpose of it is to gradually turn Student Government back into the hands of the faculty. Others have called it a definite refutation of one of the main purposes of any college, which is the developing of honor and character in its students. These are mistaken ideas which should be corrected."

"The purpose of the newly established system of rules for the classrooms is neither backward in its scope nor connected with ulterior motives. We merely admit, as does every other school of any size, that we have a certain small minority of students who are somewhat below the definite group standards as to honesty and truthfulness. We know that the actions of this small group tend not only to destroy the character of its individual members, but also to cheapen the standards of the school, lower its reputation in the eyes of industry, and thereby lessen each student's chance of securing a position on graduation. The problem which naturally arises, therefore, is that of curbing the activities of this harmful group as much as possible. The only logical solution of this problem necessitates that both the faculty and the majority of students become aware of it and cooperate together with a view to upholding honor at all times. That logical solution is embodied in our faculty-student proctor system."

"It is common knowledge that our Honor System had been in a state of definite decay for at least three years. Therefore, contrary to outside editorial opinion, we did not kill the Honor System at N. C. State College in the year 1934; we merely buried it in the year 1934 after allowing its corpse to lie in state for several years. "We are not doing away with honor. We are not trying to hinder the processes of character development. We are merely trying to give honest students a more wholesome atmosphere in which they may carry on their scholastic work, by discouraging dishonest practices at all times. "The sole purpose of the faculty-student proctor system is to raise the scholastic standards of N. C. State College, and thereby increase its reputation as a place where honesty and honor prevail."

HOMECOMING DAY

Weeks of planning and labor on the part of Blue Key and Golden Chain will be climaxed today and tomorrow when the annual Homecoming and Dad's Day celebration will be held.

The two societies have endeavored to bring before the visitors to State College one of the best shows ever staged. They have labored long and unceasingly toward that goal, but the culmination of their efforts will not meet with success unless they have the whole-hearted support of the entire student body. In past years students have always looked forward with a great deal of interest to the gala occasion, and have done all in their power to make it successful. There should be no reason why the students this year should not take an active interest in an affair which will build and boost the institution, and unless they are totally different from those student bodies in the past they will cooperate by supporting the entire program.

There is one phase of the celebration which those students in military can make successful or unsuccessful. That is their full attendance in the west stadium during the State-Clemson football game tomorrow. The military department has put forth an enormous amount of time and trouble in preparing the unit for an integral part of the occasion, and this can be achieved only by the spirit of cooperation which the R. O. T. C. unit shows. There is no means of making attendance at the game in military uniform compulsory, so it will be entirely up to the unit whether or not they wish to do their part toward making the show successful.

Hundreds of parents and alumni will be visitors on the campus today and tomorrow, and it is the desire of the college to make as favorable an impression as possible on them during their brief stay here. There are many parents who have never visited the campus before, and it is almost essential that they see the college at its best. It will also be interesting to the alumni to see what progress has been made other than that in the football team.

A majority of the credit for the elaborate preparations should go to the heads of the two societies, Dave Morrah, president of Blue Key, and Carter Williams, president of Golden Chain, although members of the two organizations should also have a large amount of praise.

A STATE COLLEGE PRESS AGENT

After seeing the results which Huey Long obtained with his much publicized generosity of providing free transportation for Louisiana State University students to the L. S. U.-Vanderbilt game, it might be a wise move if State College could somewhere find a press agent half as good as the Louisiana "Kingfish."

All the publicity which Huey Long receives is of the more sensational variety. Newspapers would probably scoff at any sensible move which he made. He has continually become involved in so many scrapes that he always furnishes good copy. Despite this fact, he has made long strides towards placing L. S. U. on the map. He has made many internal improvements at that institution of which a majority of the people have never heard.

If State College could produce someone on the order of Huey, there is no doubt but that enrollment would jump enormously. Of course, the graybeards would laugh at the idea of State College's having such a press agent, but the fact remains that Huey Long has done an excellent job at the Louisiana institution.

THE HONOR SYSTEM AFTERMATH

Since the abolition of the Honor System from State College classrooms last week, there has arisen a great deal of criticism and misunderstanding concerning the move both by students and by those on the outside.

The Honor System was abolished because it was found impracticable. It was made so by a few students, not the majority, and the faculty and Student Council saw fit to do away with it for that reason. For the actions of a few, a majority must suffer. All down in history the same has been true. There has always been that minority whose deeds have caused the rest to become branded as dishonest and worthless. A most excellent example of this is found in the Roman Empire. Due to the corruption of some of the patricians, people generally blame the fall of that vast domain to a general decay of the entire population. They have taken a wrong perspective of the entire situation.

The same will be true of the action taken at State College. People will brand a majority of the State College student body an aggregation of thieving parasites, who depended on others for support and for passing grades. The erroneous notion will very likely spread over the entire country due to the wide publicity given the passing of the Honor System here.

When industry tries one system and it fails to work successfully, that system is not clung to for sentimental reasons, but a new one substituted which will work better. The same was true here. The Honor System was tried and found wanting because it was not fair to those students who did their own thinking. They constantly fell victims to those parasitic students who never did any of their own work. It was unfair to the other students and to the cheater himself. He made his grades by depending on others and later he will depend on others to do his work after he has been graduated from college. If a large number of this type of students is graduated from a college, that institution will lose much of its prestige for turning out successful graduates. A record for successful graduates is one of the things on which a college bases its reputation, and a few students should not be allowed to drag down the name of the college.

Another question which has arisen in connection is whether or not State College has ever had a true Honor System. For the past four or five years it has practically ceased to exist. Most of the professors during examinations remained in the room and at the same time ordered the students to take alternate seats. That is not a true Honor System. Under a Honor System which is carried out to the last degree, the students are placed entirely on their honor to uphold a trust which has been placed in them, a sacred trust at that.

State College today extends a glad greeting to Major B. C. Riley, founder and national executive officer of Blue Key fraternity, who is making his first visit to this campus to attend Homecoming Day. His organization has established since its founding in 1924 an enviable place in the life of many colleges, and is one of the most active college organizations today.

HERE and THERE

By G. W. FORD

To use the old Latin expression, "Tempus sure is fighting." Here we have Dad's day and Homecoming again dropping on us with the suddenness of a mid-term quiz. The Blue Key and Golden Chain are joining to put on a bit of entertainment for the old-timers it is true, but don't let's let it go at that. Everything that we have here today was given to us through the efforts of our dads and the alumni. This is our chance to show them our appreciation. Let's give them a welcome that they'll go home and talk about.

Not that I like to talk about the weather all of the time, but last week-end we had to bring the Brass Week-ends in the house.

Speaking of last week-end, there are a lot of interesting slants on the Pledge Dances. Some of those fresh looked as though if you went up behind them and said, "Boo," they'd pull their heads in under their collars like turtles.

Then too, they changed the signs on the doors marked, MEN and WOMEN. Many a fellow made an embarrassing error on this account.

Friday afternoon a big Keystone Bombing plane swooped down over the campus and then put down at the Municipal Airport. It turned out that Glen Nye had borrowed one of Uncle Sam's big birds and had hopped over for the week-end.

Tuesday morning the water in the Y. M. C. A. basement reached a new high. If this keeps up the boys staying down there will have to sleep on air mattresses as a precaution against being drowned during the night.

I want to make a correction on what I said about the Yellow Dogs initiation last week. The boy, Sanford, was not actually cut but had to be treated at the infirmary. As to whether or not it is compulsory, let me quote a member: "Membership in the Yellow Dogs is not compulsory for those in the band, but those who are not members catch hell all year."

After speaking to a number of freshmen I find that Romeo Lefort is their idea of a "good guy" and a "regular fellow" . . . I'll back them on that.

The ousting of the Honor System surely seems to be a step in the wrong direction. Some look on it as the repeal of a noble experiment such as the recent national prohibition repeal. Let's not put these two issues on the same plane. There can be temperance in drinking but never in dishonor.

Suggested Readings

Each week a new list of books will be published as an aid to the student in selecting suitable reading matter. In this list will be included works of the foremost American and foreign authors.—Ed. Note.

"No man can be called friendless when he has God and the companionship of good books."

Delafield, E. M.—The Provincial Lady in America.

This is Miss Delafield's diary of a two months lecture tour in America. It is a very interesting and amusing account of her impressions that she, as an Englishwoman received, on her visit.

"Unfinished Cathedral" is a vivid and profound story which portrays a cross-section of modern American life. It is the final volume belonging to the series on Southern life of which "The Forge" and "The Store," the latter a Pulitzer prize winner, are the first two volumes.

Pitkin, Walter B.—Life Begins at Forty.

Mr. Pitkin maintains that people of forty or a little over are the luckiest generation in the United States. One person said "It is a book that will make those more than forty rejoice in their age, and will make those under forty anxious to get there."

Verrill, A. Hyatt—The Inquisition. Mr. Verrill has vividly traced the history of the Inquisition from its very inception. He explains how it gradually came to be established as a tool for the administration of politics and education as well as religion. He shows what powers the organization held and how it operated. He tells of penalties imposed, discusses superstition, sorcery and witchcraft as these existed in the period.

Lynch, Denis Tilden—An Epoch and a Man. Probably the best biography of Van Buren, the first professional politician to become president, that has been written. Well written and interesting.

Laut, Agnes C.—The Overland Trail. The part that the famous Overland trail has played in opening the west and building up our nation is considered in this book. Through a tale of adventure the trail's course is followed historically from Kansas City to its end at Seattle.

Let's find out why Turkish tobacco is so important to a good cigarette

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . . along the shores of the Black Sea . . . grows a kind of tobacco that is different from any other tobacco in the world.

THESE Turkish tobaccos are the only tobaccos of foreign cultivation that are used to any great extent in making American cigarettes.

Turkish tobaccos are famous for their spicy aroma, and a blend of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco with our own home-grown tobaccos is better than any one kind used alone.

In Chesterfield we balance mild, ripe tobaccos grown in this country with just the right amounts of the right kinds of Turkish.

It is by blending and cross-blending these different tobaccos that we make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

WOLFPACK MEETS CLEMSON IN HOMECOMING CLASSIC HERE TOMORROW AT 2:30

Both Teams Show Top Condition In Last Practices Preliminary To the Contest

CLEMSON BRINGS MANY STARS FOR THE GAME

Randy Hinson, One of the South's Greatest Running Backs to Play for Tigers; Anderson Continues Wolfpack Drill On Pass Defense In Preparation for Clemson; Many Added Features Planned to Entertain Returning Alumni and Parents Tomorrow

When the old grads and parents of present State students return to the college for the annual Homecoming tomorrow, they should be treated to a real football game. The Clemson Tigers ought to furnish plenty of competition for Hank Anderson's Wolfpack when the two teams meet on Riddick Field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Coach Jess Neely of Clemson will bring to State a team of Tigers that have shown that they have what it takes for real football playing. It is Clemson's last Southern Conference contest, and a win over the Wolfpack would materially improve the Tigers' standing.

Randy Hinson is perhaps the best of many fine Tiger backs. Last week, he ran 43 yards against South Carolina in the opening play of the game. He was taken out of the game soon after on account of injuries. Other fine Clemson backs are Captain Henry Woodward, Alex Stevens, who does most of the kicking for the Tigers, "Net" Berry, a really good sophomore backfield man, and Bill Dillard, who plays the halfback position opposite Stevens.

The State Wolfpack made a great showing in their tie game with Carolina last week, and they are all set to show the Homecoming crowds that they can beat the South Carolinians. Although Clemson beat South Carolina by thirteen more points than did State, comparative scores are sometimes misleading, and the 'Pack has improved greatly since the South Carolina game.

Coach Anderson spent most of the past week in a continuation of emphasis on pass defense. This department of the game was really good on the State side last week, good enough to keep Carolina from scoring when they took to the air in the final minutes of the game. The work of Ray Rex in State's backfield showed that the big fullback can knock down the aerials, and if he continues this practice tomorrow, he will aid the Techs materially.

Farrar was really the individual backfield star of the Carolina game. This State halfback scored the lone touchdown for State, and got his team out of many tight places by his kicking. He has become a real triple threat man.

The Tech line in this week's practices has been paced by the work of Ray Redding at the right end position. Redding was recently named as a potential All-American in a midseason compilation of the season's outstanding talent by the Associated Press.

The Tiger team will arrive at State College this morning, in order to get in the best possible shape for tomorrow's game. So far there are no major injuries on either the Clemson or State squads, and two gridiron machines in top-notch condition should put up a real battle. Anderson expects to start the same team he used against Carolina last week.

Spirit at State is running high, and several interesting features have been planned for the game. The R. O. T. C. regiment will march on the field in mass formation and will take specially reserved sections in the stadium where it will form a mass cheering section. The band and drum and bugle corps are planning added features, and everything is being done to give the great homecoming crowds which are expected an afternoon of real entertainment from start to finish.

Officials are expecting a capacity crowd at the Clemson-State game on Riddick Field tomorrow afternoon. In addition to this being State's home coming game, it is the only major grid contest played in this part of the state Saturday. Clemson alumni in this section are having a reunion at the game also.

Fine Work

In the game with Carolina last Saturday, the play of Isaacs in the left tackle position for State College was outstanding. The linesman was in on every play, and he contributed very materially to the final 7-7 outcome of the game with the Heels.

'PACK AND HEELS END IN 7-7 TIE

Farrar Scores State Touchdown Standing Up in 24 Yard Dash Through Line

A scrapping State College Wolfpack started a great offensive drive against the Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina in the third period to tie the score 7-7 in a game played between the football teams of the two colleges at Chapel Hill on last Saturday afternoon.

It was the 27th football game between varsity teams of the two schools, and State's supporters were well satisfied with the result. Carolina had lost to Tennessee alone this season, and according to pre-game dope was slated to give State a beating.

It seemed as if the dope might have come true when the Tar Heels gained their seven point lead by virtue of a touchdown in the first quarter scored by pass from Dashiell to Shaffer. But it was a different Wolfpack which took the field after the half. The first period had been marked by many fumbles on both sides, and the grade of football shown by both teams was not so good. But early in the third period, State got a kick on Carolina's 49 yard line, and in just five plays, the 'Pack carried the ball over for a touchdown.

After Ray Rex and Venice Farrar had each gained about a yard through the line, Farrar threw a beautiful pass to Howard Bardes, Tech halfback, who caught it on the 30 yard line, and ran to the 27 yard marker before he was tackled by Shaffer. Farrar then made three yards through the line, and on the next play, on a reverse, the State left halfback cut through the left side of the line and was over the final marker before a Tar Heel could touch him.

Alex Regdon, sophomore guard, deserves much credit for his cool kicking of State's extra point. He was rushed into the game after State scored, and his kick went straight between the goalposts in the first extra point he had ever tried to kick in a varsity football game.

The play of the whole State team seemed to have been improved in the game with Carolina. The entire Tech line should be praised for their work. Isaacs, Daugherty, Worth, and Stanko contributed materially to the stopping of Carolina's offenses. Perhaps the biggest improvement feature of the 'Pack was their defense against the Heel passes. The Chapel Hill team launched a desperate pass attack in the final minutes of the game, but the Tech backs led by Ray Rex and Roscoe Roy were right there Tomorrow's home-coming day and Jesse Neely and his Clemson Tigers will be here to assist in the celebration. This is the last home game this year for the Wolfpack. Seven members of the starting team and seven reserves will be playing their last game on Riddick Field.

Co-captain Ray Redding was named by Alan Gould in his mid-season roster of college football stars. Redding was one of nine ends selected from all over the country as potential All-Americans. There were two other North Carolinians selected.

And still there is no decision between the Tar Heels and the Wolfpack. Carolina had a mighty big seven points on the scoreboard at half time but V. Farrar didn't like the looks of State's goose egg, so he proceeded to toss a pass to Bardes for twenty-four yards and two plays later step off the remaining twenty-four himself. Bull Regdon's educated toe converted the point with a placement squarely between the uprights.

Just a word of praise for Charlie Shaffer, brilliant Tar Heel halfback. He played one of the best games seen in North Carolina this year. Shaffer got off a punt in the third quarter which was good for seventy yards. The ball stayed in the playing field until carried over the goal by a teammate attempting to ground it.

Clemson comes here with a high powered team with Randy Hinson the main cog in the backfield. He is ably assisted by several other backs who are regarded in South Carolina as star backs. Maybe we can show them a star or two.

It may be of interest to State's sports followers to know that Joe Sherman, efficient sports head of the Clemson news bureau is an old Raleigh man who attended Raleigh high school before he went to South Carolina to school and his present job.

Just a few shorts . . . Daugherty played a bang up game in the State line last week, in on quite a few tackles and down under every kick . . . Rex and Roy looked good in pass defense, Rex intercepted two, and little Roscoe was a mighty big Roscoe when it came to knocking them down . . . Five fumbles in the first six plays, that sounds like some kind of a record . . . State came near scoring after their touchdown when two Carolina backs allowed the ball to roll into the end zone on the kickoff. Shaffer kicked the ball outside, but there were several wolves close around waiting to pounce on that ball. A kickoff is a free ball . . . The combined hands of State and Carolina sounded mighty good during the half . . . Clemson gets in for a workout here today . . . Charlie Gadd and Ed Berlinski got together on a pass good for a total of 70 yards to defeat the Tar Babies, 6-2 . . . Wolflets play Duke there this afternoon.

to bat down the ball before it could reach the Carolina receivers. The contest had its comedy, too, when 14,000 spectators saw Carolina and State fumble five times in the first six plays of the game. On four out of these five fumbles, the ball changed hands.

FRESHMEN MEET BLUE IMPs TODAY

Feature Game of Strong Frosh Elevens to Decide Leader in Big Five Circles

State College's undefeated Frosh football team will journey to Durham tomorrow to meet the strong Blue Imp eleven in the Duke Stadium.

The game is expected to be one of the feature contests of the Big Five Frosh eleven this year. Duke has an unusually strong team with such men as Clark, Huggens, Smith, and Hackney being their outstanding backs, while the play of the whole State team in the Carolina game last Friday was of high order.

Both teams have won one game, in Big Five circles, the Wolflets over Carolina and the Blue Imps over Wake Forest. The team that wins this game will have full possession of the top ranking in Freshman circles of the State.

Coach Bob Warren has done a fine job with his 1934 Wolflets. In the Carolina game only fumbles kept the Techlets from running up a larger score than they did. The work of the team showed polish and power not usually seen in yearling elevens. The most pleasing feature of this work was the excellent blocking exhibited by the team as a whole.

This week's practice has been taken up with both offense and defense. The former included signal drills, blocking practice, and some new plays especially for the Duke game. The defensive practice was against Duke running plays and passes.

Marks, who broke a bone in his hand in the Carolina game will probably be replaced by Brownie. Hoek's injured hand has healed enough to permit him to start in the game and he will probably be at his best.

Coach Warren is taking the whole squad to the game tomorrow. The starting lineup will probably be: Berry and Futernansky, ends; Helms and Mathaney, tackles; Pilosech and Acel, guards; Brownie, center; Schwerdt or Gadd, quarterback; Entwistle or Berlinski and Graham or Lawler, halfbacks; and Hoek, fullback.

Watch These Tiger Backs

ALEX STEVENS

RANDOLPH HINSON

These two Tiger backs will probably cause State plenty of trouble in tomorrow afternoon's game. Alex Stevens, who does most of the punting for the Clemson team, has averaged 35 yards in his five games of this present season. "Randy" Hinson, a candidate for All-Southern honors this year, is a great running back. When he was tackled by a South Carolina man last week after running 43 yards, he was knocked cold, but he will be in fine fettle for tomorrow's contest.

STATE FROSH WIN OVER TAR BABIES

Berlinski Takes Twenty Yard Pass From Gadd and Runs 46 Yards to Score

The State College Frosh football team decisively defeated the Carolina Frosh 6-2, in Greensboro last Friday night.

This win opened a week-end of competition between the two schools in which they broke even, each with a win, a loss, and a tie. State won the Frosh game, lost the cross-country meet, and tied the varsity football game.

The Techlets touchdown came in the third period, when Gadd, State quarterback, passed twenty yards to Berlinski, who then ran 46 yards to score. Berlinski proved himself a great broken-field runner on the touchdown play, as he eluded seven Tar Babies.

Later in the same quarter Gadd tried a field goal from the 35-yard line, but the attempt missed by about a foot.

State's touchdown was made after three distinct threats had been repulsed. All three of these threats were inside the fifteen-yard line.

The Wolflets first threat came in the first period, when they made a drive from their own 46 to Carolina's 2 yard line. This drive was featured by runs of Jake Mahoney, who was injured on the next to last play of the drive. Hoek, who had his broken finger in a cast, subbed for Mahoney and fumbled on the next play.

In the second quarter, the Techlets took the ball on the Tar Babies 35 and advanced it to Carolina's 11, where Hoek again fumbled and Gaydos recovered.

Carolina then kicked out, but State came back into the Tar Babies territory. With the ball on Carolina's 41 the Wolflets gained 31 yards on three plays to put them on the 10, but here the ball was lost on downs.

The Tar Babies scored in the fourth period when a fumble gave Carolina the ball on the 10-yard line. State was then penalized five yards, and with two plays Carolina put the ball on the one-foot line, where Ditt fumbled and State recovered. On the next play Gadd intentionally grounded the ball giving Carolina a safety.

Berlinski with his running, passing, and defensive work was outstanding in the State backfield, while Futernansky played a good game at end to lead the line. Burnett's kicking made him the star of the Tar Babies.

HEEL HARRIERS DEFEAT STATE COLLEGE RUNNERS

State College's cross-country team went down in defeat 15-49 in a meet with Carolina's strong team last Saturday, October 27.

McRae, Waldrop, Curles, Hayward, and Gammon, all of the 'Heels, tied for first place. Bower, of Carolina, running unofficially, came in sixth.

Captain Jimmie Fallon led the State Harriers home, placing seventh. The other runners finished as follows: Conte (C), Gardiner (C), Womble (S), Curry (S), Davis (S), and Allen (C). Seventeen minutes 25.8 seconds was the time for the three-mile dirt and road course.

The Engineering School played a fine game of intramural tag football to defeat a strong Forestry Club eleven last week in the independent league. This independent league is really a fine idea and should be built up and encouraged as much as possible.

the Wellman Process does this —
..it makes the tobacco milder

In the manufacture of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

- ... it gives the tobacco an extra flavor and aroma
- ... it makes the tobacco act right in a pipe—burn slower and smoke cooler
- ... it makes the tobacco milder
- ... it leaves a clean dry ash—no soggy residue or beel in the pipe bowl

STATE TEXTILE SCHOOL HAS LARGE ENROLLMENT

Has Largest Number of Day Students Registered for Course in America, Says Nelson

The State College Textile School has a larger registration of day students than any other textile school in America, according to Thomas Nelson, dean of the school.

Three foreign countries, Canada, Bulgaria, and Turkey and more than fifteen states ranging from Massachusetts to Texas and the Middle West are represented by students. This enrollment is the largest in the history of the college, being an increase of more than thirty-four per cent above last year.

Several of the new men are graduates from other institutions who have decided to prepare themselves for service in the textile industry, while a still larger number is composed of transfer students who have attended other institutions for one, two or three years before deciding to take up textiles as a vocation.
