

Outstanding State Alumnus Returns to College Campus

Lieutenant-Colonel George C. Cox, Class of 1917, Visits Campus After Long Absence

WAS FACULTY MEMBER DURING SIX YEAR PERIOD

Cox Was First State College Graduate to Receive the Distinguished Service Cross

By HALL MORRISON
Lieutenant-Colonel George C. Cox, a graduate of State College in the class of 1917, and a member of the engineering faculty of the college for six years, was a visitor to the campus for several days this week. Since leaving State College, Lieutenant-Colonel Cox has been associated with the Carborundum Company, the United Chemicals Corporation, and associated companies.

The military record of Lieutenant-Colonel Cox has been just as distinguished as his record in civil life. He was the first State College graduate to be awarded a Distinguished Service Cross for valor in the World War. This award was made to Cox in July of 1923, by General John J. Pershing, with the following citation:

Military Citation
"George C. Cox, captain, Signal Officers' Reserve Corps, then captain, Signal Corps, 2nd Field Signal Battalion, 1st Division. For extraordinary heroism in action near Hill 240 north of Exermont, France, 4th and 5th October, 1918. Captain Cox made a most hazardous daylight reconnaissance in front of the American lines to determine the disposition of the enemy then holding this hill. During this entire exploit, he was under close range rifle and machine gun fire. Subsequently, he accompanied the assault wave in the attack, and, with two non-commissioned officers, established and maintained telephonic communication on Hill 240 under intense artillery concentrations and in spite of direct machine gun fire from 5-9 October, 1918. This action, above and beyond the call of duty, was vital to the combat efficiency of the command and the success of the 1st Brigade."

Immediately after the World War, Colonel Cox and his brother, Major Thomas A. Cox, Jr., took first and second honors, respectively, in a course for which they enrolled at Sorbonne University, the great French university in Paris.

Lieutenant-Colonel Cox received his Master's degree from State College in 1926. Since that time he has taken graduate work in metallurgy at Columbia University. He was one of 32 men appointed to the Command and General Staff School of the U. S. Army at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where he graduated seventh in his class. In 1932, Lieutenant-Colonel Cox was selected for a course with the intelligence division of the General Staff at the Army War College in Washington.

Cox is the inventor and co-inventor of several electro-chemical and electro-thermal processes for the Carborundum and Globar Companies. He has specialized for ten years in electro-chemical engineering and electro-metallurgical processes.

Stresses Important Items
The distinguished State College alumnus stressed the importance of scholastic and extra-curricula work both in his talks to the chemical engineering students and in his interview with a TECHNICIAN reporter.

"In the great competition of modern industrial work," said Cox, "anything which you can do well, in addition to your proficiency in your chosen field, gives you just that much of an advantage over the man you are competing against. Work on THE TECHNICIAN, or other literary publications may not seem as if it would be much of a help to a student after graduation, but the ability to write and express yourself may make the margin of difference in getting and holding a job."

Lieutenant-Colonel Cox expressed his happiness over being back at State College again after such a long ab-

Replaces Whistle

This historic ship's bell from the scrapped U. S. Navy cruiser Charlotte, formerly the North Carolina, will soon replace the strident notes of the present power plant whistle in calling State College students to classes. The action of college officials in replacing the whistle by the historic bell has been acclaimed by students and faculty members alike.

PROFESSOR CLARK ADDRESSES GROUP

English Professor Speaks to Open Forum Group on "The Need for Free Inquiry"

Professor J. D. Clark of the English department addressed the Open Forum Group last Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium on "The Need of Free Inquiry."

Professor Clark traced the search for truth back from the time of Aristotle, Plato, and Socrates, through the centuries up to our present time. Freedom of the press and freedom of speech were stressed as essential privileges in the life of every man.

The fact that the teaching of evolution should be barred from any school was deplored by Professor Clark, as he considered this topic, as well as any other, worthy of the right to be considered eligible for discussion.

Boshart Next Speaker
Professor E. W. Boshart of the School of Education will speak next week on "Some Possibilities in Industrial Education."

David Clark, outstanding State College alumnus, and editor of The Southern Textile Bulletin, who has long been an advocate of conservatism in all things, will address the Open Forum Group in the near future. His subject will be "The Divergence of the Democratic Party from the Democratic Platform, and the Adherence of the Socialist Party to that Platform."

NEW YORK CITY ALUMNI TO FETE COLLEGE GROUP

Colonel John W. Harrelson, State College administrative dean, Hunk Anderson, Wolfpack head coach, and L. P. Denmark, college alumni secretary, will be honored guests at a banquet to be held in the Ambassador Hotel in New York City next Friday evening.

The banquet will be given by State College alumni in New York City and its vicinity on the eve of the Wolfpack's game with Manhattan College on Ebbetts Field in Brooklyn.

"I certainly wish it were possible for me to be located in North Carolina again," he said.

Since 1930, Lieutenant-Colonel Cox has been employed as a research and development engineer for Westvaco Chlorine Products, Inc., of South Charleston, W. Va.

SEITZ ANNOUNCES DATE FOR HOMECOMING PLANS

Blue Key and Golden Chain Making Arrangement for Annual College Event

The annual Homecoming exercises will be held November 22-23, the weekend of the State-Duke football game, it was announced yesterday by R. W. Seitz, president of Blue Key.

As in past years the exercises will open on Friday evening in Pullen Hall with Stunt Nite, in which all campus organizations will be represented. Saturday will be Dad's Day. In the morning visitors will be conducted about the campus and allowed to glimpse the various classes at work. In the afternoon will be the featured State-Duke game. Preceding the game the military unit will give a demonstration and during the game they will present organized cheering by the entire regiment. A Homecoming dance on Saturday evening will climax the festivities.

Homecoming is sponsored jointly by Blue Key and Golden Chain, senior honorary organizations. Ken Krach is president of Golden Chain.

DR. T. P. HARRISON RECEIVES HONOR

Veteran English Professor Is Appointed to Committee of Engineering Education Group

Dr. Thomas P. Harrison, member of the State College English faculty, has been singularly honored by the appointment as a member of the committee on English in the Society For The Promotion of Engineering Education. The Society For The Promotion of Engineering Education is an international organization having as its members many outstanding faculty members in the leading engineering colleges of the United States, Canada, and several foreign countries.

Dr. Harrison was notified of his appointment by Dr. F. L. Bishop, secretary of the Society, a faculty member of the University of Pittsburgh. Colonel John W. Harrelson, administrative dean of State College, announced that he was pleased with the honor bestowed upon Dr. Harrison and the College by his appointment.

FRESHMEN PLAN TO RECIPROCATE FACULTY HONOR

Open House Night Will Be Observed in Freshmen Dormitories Next Wednesday

FRESHMEN WILL RECEIVE FACULTY IN DORMITORIES

Dean J. W. Harrelson Will Lead Visitation Through Freshman Quadrangle; Counselors Will Welcome All Visitors in Their Respective Sections; New Housing Plan Begins Second Year of Operation After Initial Success

The freshman class will play host to the faculty and administrative officials of the college next Wednesday evening, October 23, when Open House Night will be observed in Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, third floor of Seventh, and South dormitories.

On Open House Night the first year men will reciprocate for the official freshman reception given in their honor during orientation week.

Dean J. W. Harrelson will be the honor guest on the occasion and will lead the visitation through the Freshman Quadrangle. It is expected that in view of the enthusiasm being shown by the new students and their counselors living in the quadrangle, that those visiting the dormitories on Open House Night will be impressed with the effective adjustment of the freshmen to their new environment.

The twenty-nine counselors, who live in the quadrangle to serve as personal advisors to the members of the class of 1939 during their first year at State College, will be in their respective sections to welcome all visitors. The members of the Faculty Committee on Freshman Welfare will be on hand to serve as guides on the tours through the dormitories.

The present housing and counseling system is now in its second year at State. The objective of this arrangement is to assist every new student living in the dormitories, through the experience of personal contact with qualified upperclassmen and faculty members living with them, to make successful adjustment to college life and work. Faculty members and administrative officials have expressed enthusiastic approval of the new plan, and favorable reactions to it have been in evidence on the campus and throughout the state. It is hoped that this plan will make a considerable contribution to the tone of State College's dormitory and campus life.

BARBER SHOP IN Y. M. C. A. IS OPENED TO STUDENTS

New Establishment Opened Yesterday as Added Convenience to State Students

The new campus barber shop, located in the south end on the ground floor of the Y. M. C. A., has recently been completed and opened yesterday for students and faculty members.

The shop is operated from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. under the management of B. A. Britt, a master barber who was previously employed on the campus at Chapel Hill. It is large and airy, with three barber chairs, a shoe-shine stand, lounging chairs, and rest room accommodations. Four self-help stands are to be engaged to help Mr. Britt run the shop.

The college administration, in cooperation with the Y. M. C. A., has provided this modern and well equipped barber shop hoping that its location and reasonable rates will be both a convenience and a benefit to the students and the faculty of State College.

The barber shop is a part of a $7,000 renovation of the entire Y. M. C. A. building begun during the summer months and now nearing completion. Also on the ground floor of the "Y" a new game room has been constructed, and sleeping quarters for visiting athletic teams and other groups. The entire floor is covered with a composition tile.

At The Theatres

CAPITOL

Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles, famous domestic pair of the screen, are featured together again in "Ruggles of Red Gap," which comes to the Capitol Theatre Monday and Tuesday. They support Charlie Laughton, eminent English actor, who plays the title role. Roland Young, ZaSu Pitta, Lella Hyams and Maude Eburne are prominently cast in the supporting cast of the picture, directed by Leo McCarey. A variety act and a novelty act, "Movie Memories" complete the program.

PALACE

Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler are again co-starred in the new drama-with-music, "Shipmates Forever," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre all next week beginning Sunday.

The famous screen lovers who made their first hit in "42nd Street," following it with "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Flirtation Walk" and other screen successes, appear in their most pretentious picture in "Shipmates Forever," a thrilling drama of midshipman life at the Naval Academy at Annapolis. A News completes the program.

Fraternity Wins Third Place In National Efficiency Contest

COLLEGE DAIRIES TO BOTTLE MILK

New Bottling Unit in Animal Husbandry Department to Facilitate Milk Sales

With the installation of the new bottling unit in the animal husbandry laboratories this week all of the bottled milk sold in the future at the college cafeteria will, with the exception of buttermilk, come from State College cows.

The new equipment, costing approximately $1,500, includes a modern electric cooling system placed in the dairy barn, an automatic bottler and capper, and a new sink and bottle washer, all of which will be placed in the dairy laboratories in Polk Hall.

In the past the animal husbandry department has supplied all of the bulk milk used in the college dining hall in bulk form, in accordance with state health regulations. This year, however, with the conversion of the dining hall into a cafeteria, it was necessary that the milk be bottled to comply with the state code concerning the selling of foods across counters. Funds were appropriated late this summer by the college to install this equipment but its purchase was delayed until early fall.

According to W. L. Clevenger, professor of dairy manufacturing, the new project will be run entirely by college students and the work will be carried on as regular assigned course work during school hours and by hired students at other times. This now gives State College a complete course in dairy manufacturing, including practical work in all phases of the field.

The output will be a hundred gallons of milk a day to be bottled twice daily. Chocolate milk also will be made. It is hoped that a buttermilk unit can be added at a later date.

Bottles for the new plant, bearing the State College dairy seal, arrived yesterday. The new unit will start operation the first of next week.

Beneficial Speaks

Dr. Ivan O. Shuk, professor of botany at State College, was the principal speaker on the extension program broadcast from the State Fair grounds Wednesday afternoon at 1:45 p. m. His talk was entitled "Legumes." Mr. Shuk briefly pointed out the role of legumes in soil fertility and those adapted for conditions met in this state.

Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press) "This world is suffering today from uncoordinated thought. Never was there more brilliant thinking and never was brilliant thinking more productive of accomplishment, but the thinking and accomplishment of one group are entirely detached from the thinking and accomplishment of another." Thus saith the president of Dartmouth college, Dr. Hopkins.

Now that we have you thinking upon this sad situation, let us transfer the scene to Harvard University and demonstrate to you that truer words were never spoken by a college president. We will show you the swiftest piece of un-connected thinking that ever moved eyes within a university.

Not so long ago, the Rockefeller Foundation began sending literature out to the many halls of learning here and there, hinting about establishing campus departments devoted to the training of public servants—which is the newest wrinkle in the handling of political economy work. The politics department at Harvard thought that would be swell; they would like to have such a project. So did the business school. So did several other branches of the great university.

Result: The amazed gentleman at the Foundation received eight letters from eight department heads at Harvard, all asking for the project—and each department head unaware that his colleagues were doing the same thing!

We were telling you last week about the levels to which colleges have fallen in the procurement of students, especially good athletes. Comes this tale to light: In 1933 a state university in the south discovered and trained a brilliant halfback through his freshman year. In the fall of 1934 he did not return. An intensive search found him on the squad of a western school. A prominent political figure whose heart was with the southern team notified the boy that if he did not return, his father would lose his position with the state highway department.

A degrading spectacle? A perplexing problem for the boy? Take another chaw and listen closer: The whole darn family of the lad was transported en masse to the western university, where his father got an even better position in the highway department in that state.

NOTED SPEAKERS ADDRESS GROUP

Delta Sigma Pi Hopes to Continue Year with Many Speakers of Worth

As has been its custom for the past few years, Beta Delta chapter of Delta Sigma Pi opened its series of meetings for the year featuring speakers outstanding in their own field.

At the first meeting of this type this year, Mr. Paul F. Brown, for the past 12 years secretary of the North Carolina Bankers Association, spoke to the group. His subject was "The Banking Act of 1935." This was the second occasion upon which Mr. Brown had spoken at an open meeting. He first appeared before the chapter in February of this year, at which time he discussed banking as a profession.

On the whole, the chapter has been very fortunate in being able to secure able speakers. Among those who have spoken before the chapter have been the Honorable J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Governor of North Carolina, who spoke on "The Financial Status of North Carolina," Honorable Stacey W. Wade, Secretary of State of North Carolina on "Youth and Government;" Mr. John A. Park, publisher of the Raleigh Times on "Advertising and Layouts;" Mr. John Livingston, Librarian of the North Carolina Supreme Court, on "The National Recovery Act;" Dr. E. M. Bernstein, professor of economics, on "Unemployment Insurance;" Mr. A. T. Allen, certified public accountant, on "The Business Man and Income Taxes;" Mr. C. B. Shulenberger, professor of accounting, on "Proposals for Monetary Stabilization;" Mr. George H. Ross, on "Natural and Artificial Factors in Business;" Dr. K. C. Garrison, head of the psychology department of State College, on "Psychology in Business;" and Mr. B. F. Brown, dean of the school of Science and Business, on "The Prediction of the World Changes."

For the coming year, the chapter expects to obtain an array of speakers just as impressive as for the preceding year.

Speaking of federal students, a study made at the University of Southern California shows that these students get, on the average, better grades than those who do not have to work their way. While the "college aptitude" rating of the former group was scarcely higher, their records after a few months in college went "way up. Which leads one to the conclusion that they show more earnestness of purpose instead of more brain power."

DELTA SIGMA PI WINS HIGH PLACE IN COMPETITION

DELTA SIGMA PI MEMBERS LEAD

Survey of Commerce Fraternity Shows Many of its Members are Leaders on Campus

MANY CAMPUS OFFICES HELD BY ITS MEMBERS

Initiates of Group Hold Positions in Military, Athletics, and Publications

Members of Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi are not only leaders in the School of Science and Business, but they hold other responsible campus positions. This fact was brought out in a recent investigation by the honorary business organization into the extra-curricula activities of its members.

Micou Browne, present headmaster of Delta Sigma Pi, is vice president of the Senior Class and president of Pine Burr, a local honor society. He is also a member of the Golden Chain, campus leadership fraternity, Blue Key, national honorary and leadership fraternity, and Sigma Pi Alpha, a local honorary language fraternity. Browne is also major of the second battalion in the State College R. O. T. C. unit, and he is a member of Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity.

Claude Lloyd is the business manager of THE TECHNICIAN, campus weekly newspaper, and is a member of the Student Council. Lloyd is also captain of Company L in the R. O. T. C. unit.

Charles Turlington is president of the Interfraternity Council, a member of the Golden Chain, and a member of the Order of 30 and 3, a leadership society.

Harrie Keck is the editor of the Agroweek, the college yearbook, vice president of Blue Key, and a member of the Golden Chain, Order of 30 and 3, Pine Burr Society, and Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman scholastic fraternity. In addition, Keck is regimental adjutant in the R. O. T. C. unit.

Arthur Brown is a monogram member of the rifle team. He has broken several marksmanship records in the past few years. Brown is also a member of Scabbard and Blade, and is captain of Company E in the college regiment.

Jimmy Renn is the captain of the varsity tennis team and a member of the Monogram Club. He is also a member of the Pine Burr Society and of Sigma Pi Alpha.

Among the newer members of Beta Delta Chapter who are becoming leaders in campus activities are: Jimmy Fulghum, Student Council member; Mario Comoli, varsity wrestling manager, and first sergeant of Company D in the college regiment; Joe Newsome, R. O. T. C. lieutenant; I. M. Porter, captain of the band and a member of Phi Eta Sigma; W. W. Wesson, a member of Phi Eta Sigma; and Robert Keating, a member of the cross country team.

These attainments of Delta Sigma Pi members, as well as the record of the fraternity itself in the State College campus, show the present high standing of the commerce organization.

Local Chapter of National Commerce Fraternity Gets Efficiency Recognition

PLACE OF ORGANIZATION HAS ALWAYS BEEN HIGH

Success of Past Year Was Due Largely to Efficient Leadership of C. Furr; Commerce Fraternity Has Been Successful Since Its Organization in 1929; Delta Sigma Pi Sponsors Many Professional and Social Activities During Year

In direct competition with chapters located in 49 other colleges and universities throughout the United States, the local Beta Delta chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, national professional commerce fraternity, was given third place for the year 1934-35 in the national chapter efficiency contest, according to word received here from fraternity headquarters.

The officers who directed the work of the chapter during the past year were: W. Craig Furr, headmaster; Lamar Sumner, senior warden; William Myatt, junior warden; Micou Browne, treasurer; Harrie Keck, scribe and master of festivities; Charles Turlington, Delta Sig correspondent; I. M. Porter, senior guide; W. C. Perry, junior guide; C. H. Lloyd, master of ceremonies; James Renner, editor of news letter; W. H. Wesson, historian; and Dr. R. O. Moen, faculty adviser.

Beta Delta Chapter has ranked high in previous efficiency contests, placing twelfth in 1932-33 and sixth in 1934-35. However, the record made during the past year was the best in its history.

Installed in 1929

The chapter was installed at State College in May, 1929, but the movement for a strong professional organization of business students had its beginning several years before that time. Informal gatherings of seniors in the department of business administration were held as far back as the winter of 1921-22. A commerce club was organized at the college in 1923, with membership open to all business students, but this still did not satisfy the need of a professional organization. This need led to the organization in 1927 of Phi Delta Sigma fraternity by 22 students and several faculty members. The local organization petitioned Delta Sigma, Pi, and State College was granted Beta Delta Chapter. More than one hundred alumni and students and five faculty members have become affiliated with the chapter.

The fraternity sponsors each year a series of professional meetings to which all students are invited. Many phases of business and economic life are covered in these meetings. Last year Mr. John A. Park, Mr. Paul P. Brown and Mr. George R. Rose, prominent Raleigh business men, and Mr. John H. McKinnon, reading clerk of the House of Representatives spoke at these meetings. Professors E. M. Bernstein, R. W. Henninger, and K. C. Garrison of the college faculty, also addressed the fraternity. The members of the fraternity visit industrial and commercial establishments to learn (Please turn to page six)

GIVE "HUNK" A HAND

Once again North Carolina breaks into the national lime-light. This time by virtue of three great, and thus far undefeated football teams. The battle for the Southern Conference title apparently lies within the state. Also, within a radius of thirty miles, it is highly probable that a team will be selected to make the 3,000-mile jaunt to Southern California where the east and west will clash in Pasadena's Rose Bowl football classic on New Year's Day.

Now if Head Coach "Hunk" Anderson has visions of his Wolfpack running loose in the Rose Bowl this season, or if he sees the Southern Conference title within his grasp, we have no knowledge of it. If he has such thoughts, he has them closely guarded, but it is not likely that he has allowed his imagination to go beyond the limits of practical reasoning. Coach Anderson is a practical man. He fully realizes, first, that State has yet to meet its most formidable opposition of the season, and second, that no great football team can be built overnight.

When "Hunk" Anderson came here last fall he brought with him a national reputation, and placed himself and State College in the focus of the national football spotlight. It is not necessary that we defend him. His actions have shown clearly that he can produce a winning football team. Those who look upon Coach Anderson's coming here as evidence of selfish motives or as a "come-back" stepping stone to positions with larger institutions are greatly in error. No one wishes to build here more permanently than does Mr. Anderson. Much credit for State's new and enlarged Riddick Stadium goes to him. If its capacity is taxed during the next few weeks, then much credit for that should also justly go to him. It might be difficult to determine whether a winning football team will whip up enthusiastic student support, or whether a spirited student body must precede a great team, but the players and coach certainly reach their highest perfection when they feel the solidity of loyal student support. Mr. Anderson and his players did not have the backing that they should have had last year. They had too many "fair-weather" friends among the students, faculty members, and alumni. This year they are undefeated, and we predict greater triumphs for the Wolfpack, but they need your support.

Few will discredit the value to an institution of gridiron successes. A winning football team is a great advertisement for any college or university from the standpoint of publicity alone. But just as great is a fighting team backed by its institution. THE TECHNICIAN does not wish to in any way detract from the importance of other and minor athletic teams, but football is acknowledged as the national collegiate sport. It draws more student and alumni interest than does any other. The football squad is most representative of an institution in athletic contests.

Coach Anderson and his team can and will do much for State College. However, they will need every encouragement in their forthcoming engagements. The Wolfpack will be a great team winning or losing, but much greater with staunch student and alumni loyalty. THE TECHNICIAN wishes you, Mr. Anderson, and your men every success in your encounters with Georgia's Bulldogs, Carolina's Vol-vaulting Tar Heels, and other seasonal opponents.

Attendance at last week's pep meeting was a poor display of school spirit. Tonight another rally is to be held in Riddick Stadium. It would be a good plan if the members and pledges of each social fraternity, and the members of each dormitory club would attend in a body. In this way it might be possible to gather a sufficiently large group to constitute a cheering section.

JUSTICE IN NORTH CAROLINA

Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell has ruled that the sheriff of Iredell County stepped beyond his legal rights when he seized and held over a period of days a sound truck being operated by labor agitators in connection with a strike in Mooresville. It seems that the sheriff's actions in seizing the truck was legal at the time of seizure, involving the operation of a sound truck without licensing, but that he deprived the agitators of their strike weapon over too long a period of time.

The legal technicalities of the case are taken for granted, but the comment of the News and Observer on the case is interesting. Quoting, "It is an excellent thing to know that human rights are secure in the Supreme Court." This followed a casual hint that perhaps the sheriff's intent was not particularly to enforce the licensing laws, but rather to hush the voices of the strike leaders. Again quoting, "... the ignorant or prejudiced agents of the law at the base of the system can inflict injustice and harassment which in conjunction with the law's delays effectively deny the rights of men."

Now it is an excellent thing to know that in the Supreme Court human rights will be upheld. It is also good to know that there is a document of rules guaranteeing these rights, and on which the Court bases its opinions. This document denies no one the right of free speech, and it may even be greatly amplified except for petty restrictions of local governments, which may require the licensing of the necessary apparatus. But the regrettable thing is that local agents of the law can do no more to aid in the great drives for union membership in the South, protect the picket lines in their armed guard of company gates, and in the dynamiting of company property. Certainly these are necessary actions in all strikes incited and conducted by imported agitators. It is too bad that the Constitution does not make specific exceptions for the conduct of these strike leaders, most of whom are substantial citizens and taxpayers.

All too frequently, those who are over zealous in their defense of illegal actions on the part of men on strike are apt to forget the rights of the property owners and men at work; apt to forget that if the rights of one group are destroyed, then the rights of all are destroyed. Even the most learned editorial opinion may lean a little too far in sympathy with a group which often depends for the success of its operations on illegal violence. The merits of the Mooresville case, either for or against the cause of the strikers, is immaterial. Perhaps there was an injustice committed against them. No doubt the use of a sound truck would have done no one an injury. Certainly strikers are entitled to free speech as are other citizens. If the use of sound trucks constituted the only case against strike leaders and their followers in general, then there would be no reason for editorial comment.

But, unfortunately, the mere ranting of the agitators and the circulation of incendiary literature is the least cause of criticism. To be sure, the principal reason for the presence in the South of imported strike leaders is obviously the collection of millions annually in the form of dues from union membership. That, too, may warrant a critical attitude, but their means of extending their memberships are often most viciously irresponsible. In every major effort of the Northern unions to tap the payrolls of the South, bloodshed has resulted. They have made every effort to sow seeds of unrest and discontent among Southern mill operatives.

Perhaps the strike is not the best weapon of the working man to insure him an adequate livelihood, and provide him with the comforts of modern science. It is possible that his ballot may be a more effective means to an end than the following of unsympathetic agitators. It is also possible that North Carolinians may amicably settle their difficulties without the interference of outsiders. No one can point with pride to the results achieved during the General Strike a year ago. Neither are the merits of any other violent strike self-evident.

The Constitution guarantees every man the right to stop work, the right of a group to stop collectively, but it does not guarantee any individual or group the right to use violence therewith. The Constitution further grants the privilege to working men to organize, even in restraint of trade, but not to defy with armed resistance the privilege of others. More specifically, the desire of other men to work, the desire of others to carry on trade and commerce.

CANDID PUBLICITY

The action recently taken by the Publications Board and the Student Activities Fee Committee in giving candid publicity to their fiscal accounts is commendable, and should be followed by similar committees and organizations handling student funds.

If the funds received by such groups are administered in an unimpeachable manner, and for designated purposes familiar to the students, then nothing is to be feared by such publicity. Many students pay dues and fees for which they are unable to make account in tangible benefits. Perhaps it is because of disinterest, but more often than not, it is because he is unable to secure information from responsible sources. It is a responsibility of the officers of each group to make a complete financial report to specifically inform student contributors as to the ultimate use of their money.

In past years much misunderstanding has been prevalent regarding the handling of organization and committee funds, and more than one investigation has exposed misappropriation. There is no particular basis for any such investigation at present, but students should not be required to take too much for granted. They should know where their money goes.

HERE and THERE

By JERRY FORD

"Hi lookee, folks. Step right up this way and see some of the wonders of the modern world. Come see the sword swallower, the strong man, the dog faced girl. . . I've seen uglier gals than her walking around outside of the tents. . . and at no extra charge. But that's the State Fair. . . comes once a year and as a result many boys come home with the seats torn out of their pants. . . barbed wire fences. It's all part of life's big game."

No, Governor Ehringhaus was not breaking the law when he went flying down the left side of Hillsboro Street last Saturday night. He was just chasing that fellow on the motorcycle.

"Scoop" Lamberon simply can't refrain from making fun of THE TECHNICIAN. Too bad. . . and we used to have so much fun working together on 'this sheet. I can remember when "J. W." was running this column under the name of "Scenes and Savings."

Charlie Stott gets the prize for having the most original rumble seat. It's air conditioned; it won't fold up on you; in fact, it's a cross between a buggy seat and a ferris wheel car.

Remember the page the Wataugan used to run called "Wataugan Honors"? Well, this year the Agriculturist gets to press first and comes out with "Agriculturist Honors" . . . using the same style set-up, same type and all that. Call it what you may, it lacks originality.

Saw quite a few of the Alumni during the past week: Frank Gorham, Howard Strickland, Wally Bourne, and others. Wally tells me that he's having a great time at his work. He travels around to different high schools putting on educational plays. . . some fun.

And speaking of plays, let me tell you about the Red Masquers. They're coming into their own this year. With an appropriation granted by the administration, they will be able to put on plays and admit students on their registration cards. Unless I miss my guess, this organization will furnish a good many bright spots with its entertainments in the very near future.

Here's a bit of verse by Edgar Guest that would look well hanging over any fellow's desk:
*You are the fellow who has to decide
Whether you'll do it or toss it aside,
You are the fellow who makes up your mind
Whether you'll lead or linger behind,
Whether you'll try for the goal that's afar
Or just be contented to stay where you are.
Take it or leave it. Here's something to do.
Just think it over—It's all up to you.*

This new score board and field clock on the north side of Riddick Stadium will give the hoboos out on the railroad tracks a better idea of how the game stands.

Judging from the results of the last few trials conducted by the Student Government, the Aycock regime aims to do a bit of "weeding out." . . . Good going.

Get out the old soup an' fish and send your boiled shirt out for another cookin'. Pledge dances are coming on the 15th and 16th of November. Jim.

HARRELSON IS SPEAKER AT JAYCEE'S LUNCHEON

The Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce celebrated its annual "State College Day" last Tuesday with a luncheon attended by Dean J. W. Harrelson and representatives of the student body.

Dean Harrelson was guest speaker at the luncheon. Barnes Worth, Raleigh student and captain of the State football team; Billy Aycock, president of the student body, and Bob Knox, editor of THE TECHNICIAN, also spoke briefly.

Invitations were sent to the State delegation by the State College committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The objective of the committee is to promote closer relationships between the residents of Raleigh and State's student body.

Bell System set-up

THOUGH large, the Bell System is simple in structure. Think of it as a tree.

Branches: 24 associated operating companies, each attuned to the area it serves.

Trunk: The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which coordinates all system activities.

Roots: Bell Telephone Laboratories and Western Electric, whose functions are scientific research and manufacture; Long Lines Department of A. T. and T., which through its country-wide network of wires links together the 24 operating companies, handles overseas service; Advisory Staff of A. T. and T., which advises the operating companies on all phases of telephone operation and searches constantly for better methods.

Working as one, these many Bell System units enable you to talk to almost anyone, anywhere, any time.

Hurly, Lucille Aycock with Heston Martin, Nancy Campbell with Jim Burchette, Foy Allen with Carl Kelly, Katherine Glascock with W. C. Pickett, and Margaret Coleman with Chick Biddow.

Chaperones for the occasion were Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Moens, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Bullock, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith.

Pledge Dances

Pledge Dances, the first set of dances annually sponsored by the State College Interfraternity Council will usher in the fall social season at the college on Friday and Saturday, November 15 and 16.

Jimmy Poyner and his State Collegians will furnish music for the set which will consist of formal dances Friday and Saturday nights, and a tea dance Saturday afternoon.

M. L. Snipes, Alpha Gamma Rho, and W. A. Milloway, Sigma Pi, have been selected by the members of the council as leaders for the set. As is customary, the dance set will be in honor of the newly pledged members of the college social fraternities.

Sigma Nu

Beta Tau chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity entertained at a delightful house dance on last Friday evening, honoring the pledges of the fraternity.

Fall flowers decorated the fraternity house, and dancing was enjoyed during the evening. Wafers with punch were served from an ice bowl decorated with flowers.

Guests of Sigma Nu fraternity and their dates were: Alice Brown with George Ashby, Sarah Ruark with Peter Ihrie, Mary Helen Stewart with Joe Ashcraft, Janie Sinclair with Richard Edmondson, Anne Bynum with Bob Hodgkin, Margaret Brewer with Bill Truesdell, Helen Page with Beachie Gaither, Dorothy Prevost with Adial Oliver.

Becky Kearns with Jeb Davis, Dodie Smith with Bob Lake, Alice Alexander with Allen Julien, Mary Richardson with Dink Coachman, Clara Margaret Grantham with Sonny Murphy, Helen Morton with George Trostel, Miriam Houston with T. L. Ware, and Elinor Foreman with Perk Perkins.

Chaperones for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Ball, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hulick.

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS GETS ADDITIONAL DUTIES

Members of the Drum and Bugle Corps will take over the ushering task in the West stands beginning with the Georgia game this Saturday. It was announced by the military department yesterday.

In commenting on the statement, Major Althaus said that the students in the corps have done the ushering in the East stands and the plan worked so well that they will take over the task in the west stands. The work is entirely voluntary on the students' part. It is hoped that the students attending the game will assist in every way possible to keep things running smoothly.

The 75 members will be dressed in full uniform, and will be directed by J. D. Moore, captain of the unit.

Demolay Dance

The Raleigh chapter Order of Demolays will entertain at their annual Fall Dance on Saturday evening, October 19, in the ballroom of the Sir Walter Hotel.

The Demolays have selected as their sponsors for the dance Misses Dorothy Thurman, Helen Morton, Mary York Neal, all of Raleigh, and Marguerite Dewey of Goldsboro. Music will be furnished by Les Brown and his Duke Blue Devils.

The following chaperones have received invitations to attend: Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Denmark, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Neal, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Grimshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Holloman, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Foston, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Coleman, and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Woodrife.

To all Demolays and to those who scurried to the Sir Walter following last week's game, apologies for having erroneously placed the dance one week in advance.—Ed.

CUP IS PRESENTED TO FAIR WINNER

Successful ever held by State College students. It will close Saturday.

Directors for the various departmental booths were R. H. Tilley, horticulture; R. O. Bennett, forestry; W. A. Corpening, animal husbandry; C. C. Stott, zoology; M. E. Aycock, agronomy; D. B. Broome, vocational agriculture; J. N. Thompson, poultry; W. H. Pierce, agricultural economics; and J. R. Dossenbach, botany.

first hand more of the business world.

Social Activities

The social activities of the chapter include two banquets, two dances and two smokers each year. Guest speakers are invited to the banquets and in the past such outstanding men as Dr. Charles Lee Smith, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Mr. John Livingstone, and Hon. Stacy W. Wade, Secretary of State, have appeared before the fraternity.

The chapter publishes a news letter, the Beta Delta Record, which is sent to all national officers, and all chapters of the fraternity.

Each year a scholarship key is presented to the senior in the School of Science and Business, who has the highest average during his four years in college. Since the beginning of the chapter, the key has been awarded 6 of the 8 times to a Delta Sigma Pi member. Those who have won the award are the following: A. B. Holden and Dallas Holoman, Jr., tied for the award in 1929, and both received keys; E. W. Buchanan, 1930; Fred Herbst, 1931; C. E. Brake, 1932; W. E. Lynch, 1933; M. I. Annetta, 1934; and B. B. Culp, 1935.

In 1931, Beta Delta chapter held a joint banquet with the Alpha Lambda chapter at Chapel Hill. Mr. H. G. Wright, Grand Secretary and Treasurer of the Fraternity, visited the chapter in 1931 and in 1934.

Work of Furr
A great deal of the success of the chapter last year was due to the continuous, efficient work of Craig Furr, the headmaster. His performance has won him a life membership in Delta Sigma Pi.

The officers for the year 1935-36 are: Hicon Browne, headmaster; Arthur W. Brown, senior warden; Claude Lloyd, junior warden; Charles Turlington, treasurer; W. H. Wesson, scribe; J. D. Renn, Beta Delta Sig correspondent; Mario Comoli, historian; H. S. Koch, master of ceremonies and festivities; Herbert Fisher, editor of news letter; and Dr. R. O. Moen, faculty adviser. Other members of the chapter are I. M. Porter, W. A. Barefoot, J. M. Britt, Joe Newsome, J. R. Fulghum, and R. V. Keating.

These men are eager to place Beta Delta chapter number one this year in the efficiency contest, and they have already entered upon a well planned program.

Venable to Speak

Major B. W. Venable, U. S. Army officer attached to the R. O. T. C. unit at State College, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Raleigh Kiwanis Club today at 1 o'clock.

Enrolments Increased

New York (NSFA)—Reports from colleges throughout the country indicate an increase in enrolments averaging almost 3 per cent. This figure is based on unofficial advance figures which indicate that there will be more than 20,000 additional undergraduates studying this year and that the total number will at least equal the record figure set in 1929-30.

FROM STONE TO STEEL

THOUSANDS of years ago, a skin-clad workman pounded away with a cobblestone on a slab of hard rock. In a few years, that slab might be passably square and smooth.

Today, busy machines, supervised by trained workmen, pare off crisp, curling ribbons from whirling blocks of steel, as one would unwind ribbon from a spool, shaping the metal to a thousand purposes—to an accuracy within a few ten-thousandths of an inch.

CARBOLOY—a modern tool material developed by General Electric research—has made possible this speed, this precision. It cuts materials hitherto unworkable—cuts faster and holds its edge longer than steel tools—can be run at red heat without losing its temper.

CARBOLOY is only one of the contributions made to improved industrial processes by G-E research—research that has saved the public from ten to one hundred dollars for every dollar earned for General Electric.

...but, after all is said and done, it's the cigarette itself that counts

...the question is, does it suit you?

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you... you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident...

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobaccos to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

Outstanding
