THANKSGIVING OR GIVING THANKS?

Thanksgiving! Several decades ago that word was a symbol for happiness, for reunion of families, for thanks to the Supreme Being for all His goodness during the year. It was a time when the harvest had been completed, the grain stored away, the wood cut and stacked in long cords in anticipation of many long and pleasant evenings spent before a blazing open fire.

Several days were spent in preparing for the day of days. Cakes were baked, turkeys were baked, pies were baked. Turkey, lamb, pork were all cooked until the housewife probably wondered if there would be room for all the food on the long dining room table.

Relatives were invited in from far and near, and few times there were when some poor unfortunate was not invited to partake with the family of that feast. It was a time of good cheer, of hearty reunion, of thankful praise.

All the family attended church in the morning, and joined with the minister in giving thanks to God for his many mercies. All reverently considered the many times the Lord had aided them during the year.

After the Thanksgiving meal was over, the family gathered around the fire for an informal chat. Many times those were present who had been absent during the most of the preceding year. Many times members of the family were absent from the circle around the hearth, and wishes were made for their well-being.

Contrast that day of thanks if you will with the average Thanksgiving today. In all probability, there has been a dance the night before, and brother and sister come downstairs just in time to eat a hasty meal and jump in the car to drive off with thousands of others to the football game. There they spend the afternoon, generally accompanied by the rest of the family. They return, probably eat another hasty bite, and dress for a dance or a party that night.

Thanksgiving now is looked upon as just another holiday, another chance to get out of a day's work. It's real purpose has been lost with the years. Few people think of the real purpose of the day, even after they read the holiday proclamation of the President and the Governor setting aside the day as one "for giving thanks."

We do not mean to infer that today should be a day of hypocritical thanks, of religious dominance, or of puritanical discipline. We do think that it would be a fine thing if all of us at State College would at sometime today give sincere and hearty thanks for the goodness of God to us during the past year.

ENGINEERS AND EDUCATION

Said W. J. Andrews in speaking to a group of mechanical engineers the other night, "The best definition of an engineer that I know is that he is a man whose education is never complete." No one who knows engineering practice can doubt the truth in that definition. An engineer is always learning. If he did not, his profession would leave him behind, and a heavy brake would be put on the wheels of progress.

No engineer can afford to stand still. He is a member of a profession which is progressing faster than any other in the world. In his hands he holds the keys to such progress, and his responsibility is always to be possessed of an open mind.

TOO SHORT A TIME

When the Athletic Council meets early next month, it will mark the termination of a season during which State College has received more athletic publicity than perhaps any school in this state. Unfortunately, most of this publicity is not the type which the school could be proud of. Talk has not been on what kind of a football team the college had, but on what is wrong with the team and with the athletic department.

That something is wrong is certainly apparent, for there could scarce be so much smoke without a kindling spark somewhere. What this spark is it will be the duty of the Athletic Council to find out. Whether the joint student, faculty, and alumni group will get to the bottom of things remains to be seen. The fact that the Council has an exceedingly difficult job to do becomes increasingly apparent.

We have been interested in the athletic situation here throughout our three years at State College. This year our interest has been increased by the mere fact that so many rumors, so much publicity both printed and oral has been given to athletics here.

The more we learn of the said situation, the more we become aware of how deep-rooted are the issues at stake, and of what vital importance to the institution is the decision which must be made. Really so much has been said on both sides that it would seem the more we learn the less we know. It is to be seriously doubted if any one man thoroughly understands what has been termed the State College athletic situation. Too many factors enter; too many diametrically opposed statements are made by the factions involved.

This athletic situation here is not something which has flared up suddenly. We would rather term it the outgrowth of the athletic department's policies during the last decade. That an athletic problem has existed for that long a period of time is news to most of the student body; it is nonetheless true.

It is entirely possible that the Athletic Council may evade the thrashing out in their next meeting of the issues at hand. If so, the battle may be postponed, but it will not be called off. However, it is unlikely that the Council will fail to heed the storm warnings which have surely been displayed this year, and we certainly hope that they will thoroughly investigate the situation which exists.

We think it is absolutely impossible for the Council to get to the bottom of the vital issues involved in the one day which has been set aside for the meeting, for we know for a fact that the committee appointed by the Student Council of the college to investigate the situation here has spent over two months looking into the matter in their spare time, and at the present time every member of the committee is far from having all the information useful for a decision.

Although members of the Athletic Council are perhaps more in a position to know the inner workings than have been the members of this student committee, we seriously doubt even the Council members' ability to reach the correct decision in a one-day session.

THE OPPORTUNITY WAITS

The coming of the Preaching Mission to Raleigh should be an event of considerable interest to the inhabitants of this city, and also of special interest to the students of State College. Not but once in a lifetime would the superb speakers and youth leaders who compose this group be brought together in one city. Raleigh is indeed fortunate to have the privilege and honor to have this group as their guests and leaders for a four-day period.

But as good as these Christian men and women are; as high as their ideals are; as pure as are their thoughts and words; as clear as may be their conception of the principles of Christianity; the mere fact that they are among us will not help the citizens of this community toward higher and lasting precepts. Their presences in Raleigh will not help one whit to raise the moral standards of our city. Only can they have a beneficial effect if they are allowed to speak to the hearts of the people.

There will be many on this occasion, as on most like occasions, who will sit around, expressing to other people how much they think the value of the Preaching Mission will be to the citizens of this community, but they will never stir out of their places to attend one of the meetings and find out the benefits that may be derived.

For the Preaching Mission to be a success there must be goodly audiences at every speaking. Though numbers are not the prime essential, they will contribute a great deal to the success of the meetings. Numbers make it easier for the speaker to put his heart thoroughly into the address. The more people who hear the Christian principles as these renowned men of God interpret them, the more people will have an opportunity to hear the Gospel by word-of-mouth.

The students of State College are known for their laxity in attending lectures, discussions, and other assemblies where people get together to think over world problems. They do not seem to realize that they are citizens of a world, a world that no one knows any too much about, and that even the wisest know very little. Therefore it behooves them as college students to take advantage of every opportunity that is offered to learn more about this ticklish matter of living.

The chance is here, the opportunity waits with open arms, it is up to the State College students to take advantage of the splendid speakers who are offering their services, free of charge, to the student.

LISTENING IN
 By THE DIALER

It's funny how many blind alleys you have to stumble down before you find the one that leads to your destination. Wayne King is no star-sprinkled exception to this general rule, because he bumped his head against many unimportant businesses before he finally got under way in the musical world. His first job was playing the clarinet in a trio similar to Benny Goodman's. Not much, but a start.

Now his hand is not one of the top-notchers, but the top-notch in the musical world today. He was recently replaced at the Waldorf-Astoria Starlight Roof by Shep Fields and went on a tour through North and South Carolina, and Virginia. When the Waltz King plays, his style is a part of the person Wayne King. He told reporters in Charlotte something that ought to make us appreciate him more: "Gee, how I love to play for dances in the South because southern audiences are a lot more receptive than northern ones and, too, they like better music."

The maestro cut his musical teeth on the sax which was ideally designed for the interpretation of modern music. The first time that he played his sax in public was at a college dance. Not being able to read music he couldn't follow the rest of the band so well. When the leader snorted, the sax player boasted, "I can play music better than you fellows any day." This was too much for the rest of the boys so they plied him on a chair in front of the band and the music rolled which had never been heard before in Chicago. Gladys Swarthout saw that Wayne had something back in the days when they were unheard of. Now both have to dodge admirers and reporters. The big break came at the Aragon in Chicago, years ago when the director of the band resigned and being next in line Wayne fell heir to the baton. "Anyone with a start like that should have made a name for himself. The Waltz King is trying to squelch the fallacy that his band plays only waltzes, because waltzes are confined chiefly to radio work. When playing for dances he mixes them up and plays waltzes, hot music, and even hillbilly numbers."

STATIC: Andre Kostelanetz presented an intricate arrangement of "I'm An Old Cowhand." A young fellow stepped out to do a bit of work. The words he sang were:
 "I'm a rhythm-ma man
 From old Spokane
 I used to sing with Bing
 Until he learned to sing
 Now we both sing on the radio
 Bing's in the money and steals the show
 I'd rather be Bing if you'd like to know."

His name was Al Rinker, one of the Rhythm Boys, a once famous trio, in which he used to sing, accompanied by Harry Barris and another unknown—Bing Crosby. . . . Talk among radio people is that Jack Benny needs a new script writer as this year's programs have not been up to the old standard. . . . Alec Templeton, Jack Hylton's pianist, is totally blind. . . . Martha Ray's salary as guest star is $9,000 an hour—not bad.

One of the last things I want to be accused of being is a "scare artist," or "sensationalist," but the dark clouds lowering over Europe and Asia are matters that should be looked upon with at least a little concern. It is more or less conceded that the civil war in Spain is more than a conflict between brothers; it is really a behind-the-scenes struggle between Italy and Germany on the one hand, and Russia on the other, to see what "ism" will dominate the land of the Castilian. Communism or Fascism, which one?

Up until the last week or so, the rebel General Franco had been meeting with great success in his drive on Madrid, leveling everything in his path with comparative ease. Just now, he is still outside the gates of the capital city, battering away with all his old strength and fury, and getting exactly nowhere. This sudden and unlooked-for stiffening of the loyalists' defense is food for thought. At the beginning of the war, the rebols were two-to-one the better equipped; now, they find that the loyalists are an even match. Who knows but what Russia has poured arms, ammunition, and perhaps men into Spain in an effort to stem the rebel tide of Fascism?

Perhaps that is one of the reasons for this unwritten pact between Germany and Japan, which has caused the Russian Bear no little amount of worry the past ten days or two weeks. Now, the Russians have been pretty hard to scare in the past, but this alliance between their two natural enemies wasn't long in bringing a demand for repudiation from the Kremlin. So serious is it considered that Russia has announced to the Japanese foreign office that unless the pact is forgotten, she will not renew the Japs' lease on the fishing grounds off the coast of Siberia, one of the principal sources of food for the little yellow man. If the pact is actually signed by Germany and Japan, Russia will find herself hemmed in as was Germany in 1914; Germany in the west, the Little Entente to the south, and now Japan in the east. Russia is zealously fervent in her attempts to spread the doctrine of Communism, and she might start something in an effort to break this intangible but altogether dangerous (to her) ring that surrounds her. And conditions are thoroughly capable of instigating another world conflagration. More closely and more darkly hover the war clouds in all parts of the globe. Are we re-living 1913 in 1936?

Ho hum! Another week rolls around, another paper goes to press, and another column must be dashed out. . . Sometimes it gets kinda tiresome writing this piece. . . So after a few local squibs I'm gonna put in a few "steals" from some of our ex-changes. . . I've got a feeling that Duke will come out of the Thanksgiving Day game with us a sadder, wiser bunch. . . Don't put me if I'm wrong, but I'll stick by the boys and say it'll be a close game. . . By the time you read this piece, you'll know just what happened. . . Why not try this all-state contest we on the sports staff are putting on this week? . . . It'll not only be a lot of fun, but it'll be profitable to somebody. . . Might as well be you. . . And now to go else where. . . ### LEADERS TO MEET IN TAG FOOTBALL

Delta Sigs, Pikas, Sigma Nu's Lead Frats; 2d 7th Leading Upperclass Dorms

With the fall intramural season drawing to a close, the Delta Sigs, Pikas, and Sigma Nu's have won out in their respective sections of the Fraternity League, while 2d 7th, and the winner of the 3d South-3d 7th game will meet in the playoff of the Dormitory League.

2d 7th has won the upperclass section of the Dormitory League, but 3d South and 3d 7th must still meet to decide the winner of the freshman section. These two teams will meet tomorrow, and the winner of the game will meet 2d 7th on Tuesday to determine the winner of the Dormitory League.

The three Fraternity games will be played as follows:

Nov. 30—Pikas vs. Sigma Nu's.
Dec. 2—Pikas vs. Delta Sig's.
Dec. 4—Delta Sig's vs. Sigma Nu's.
All the championship games will be played on Freshman Field and will start at 4:15. In the case of a tie among the three fraternities, the team having the best average will win. This average will be determined on the basis of points scored by and against a team. The game to decide the all-campus championship will come off on Monday, December 7.

In the finals of the Dormitory day night, 1st Watauga and 1st 1911 tied for first place with ten points each. 2d 1911 came next with eight points and 3d 7th and 6th Dorm tied for the next rung with five points each.

The individual winners in each weight of the Dormitory meet will grapple the individual winners of the Fraternity League in the all-campus matches, which will be held on Tuesday. The final winner in each weight class will be awarded an all-campus medal. There will be a small admission charge for the all-campus matches and this charge will go towards paying for the awards.

The results of the Dormitory matches:

115 lb. class—Kellam, 2d 1911, won to get a bid to the Rose Bowl. . . They all add that it is only provided they lick State by a large score. . . Mathey says that the game is called more time than anything else on the campus. . . Hate to disappoint them, but I figure that we'll take them. . . A stuffed Thanksgiving to ya' all. . . See you next week.

CLASH OF RIVALS AROUSES INTEREST

Southern Conference and Big Five Titles Hinge on Outcome of Clash Today

By BOB BLACKWOOD
Duke Stadium will be the focal point of the eyes of football fans in this section today, as the annual grid classic between State and Duke is scheduled to swing under way there at 2 o'clock.

For years one of the outstanding games of the year, this season's game proves to be no exception. The powerful Duke team has taken command of the Southern Conference and Big Five leads, but has its eyes on a still greater goal. By an overwhelming defeat of the Wolfpack in this game the Blue Devils might possibly receive the coveted invitation to represent the East in the Rose Bowl game, New Year's day. The Blue Devils have had clear sailing through their schedule, except for their unexpected upset at the hands of the Tennessee Vols. They have steamrolled Carolina, Georgia Tech, College, Clemson, and other equally formidable teams. With such men as Captain Parker, Hackney, Hill, Talliaferro, O'Marra, Tipton, and Liann in the line up they have proven practically invincible.

Odds Against State
The State College Wolfpack will be entering the game decidedly the underdog. After a season full of tough breaks, injuries, and rumored dissension, the Techs will for the first time, since the Elion game be able to start with their full team. The morale of the team is at a new high, due to the (Please turn to page four)

TANK TEAM WILL HOLD INTERSQUAD MEET SOON

Two Teams Will Compete Against Each Other in Meet to be Held on December 5

Coming as a climax of two months of strenuous practice, an intersquad swimming meet will be held by the State tank team on Saturday, December 5, according to word from Coach Romeo LeFort recently.

The squad has been divided into two teams with Captain Ned Whitton as the leader of one team, and Red Kurfels will lead the other. One team will be known as the "Reds" and the other team as the "Whites." The winning team will be feted at a spaghetti supper given by Mrs. LeFort.

The teams will be made up of the candidates for the State swimming team and anyone else that the teams might choose. Should either team choose a swimmer from the campus who has not been out for the team, the addition to that team must spend the week before the meet practicing for the meet.

The meet will close the fall practice of the team.

And that isn't all. Somebody is going to benefit from this balloting. It runs something like this. You submit your ballot, along with everybody else that cares to. Now if your ballot comes closest to conforming with the final results as shown by a tabulation made at the end of the voting, you will get a prize. If you come in second to the winner, you will still get a prize.

Huneycutt to Give Prizes
The prizes? Well, we rushed down to see W. O. Huneycutt, the man behind the counter of Huneycutt's London Shoppe, the swanky haberdashery just across from the college store. "Huney" said that he would supply the prizes. For first prize, "Huney" is offering a choice of any $2 shirt in the store. As second prize, a choice of any $1 necktie in the store is being offered.

In case of ties, the winner will be decided by drawing as in a lottery. We'd like to give everyone a new shirt, but it's impossible, so this'll have to do.

So come on and enter. If your old shirt is getting frayed around the collar, or that favorite tie with the soup spots has a bad case of wrinkles, just fill out one of the above ballots, and drop it in the box that has been placed in the Students Supply Store for this purpose.

The rules are simple:
1—You must be connected in some way with State College and your name must be in the directory.
2—You must PRINT PLAINLY on your ballot. One name on the ballot that is unreadable disqualifies you.
3—Drop your ballot in the box provided in the Students Supply Store.
4—More than one ballot with your name on it disqualifies you.
5—Deadline is noon, Wednesday, December 2.

I'm putting three selections in this story just to start some of you disagreeing with the selections. Now the way to show your side of the argument is not by a lot of talk that gets nowhere, but by expressing yourself through the ballot.

The first selection comes from Hunk Anderson, head coach of football around here. Hunk likes the following: First team, ends—Cara, NCS, and Bershak, UNC; tackles—Brunansky, DU, and Bartos, UNC; guards—Regdon, NCS, and Rogers, WF; center—Hill, DU; quarter—Lafferty, Dav; halves—Parker, DU, and Daniel, WF; full—Ryneska, NCS. Second team—ends, Buck, UNC, and Shore, WF; tackles—Bugg, NCS, and Power, DU; guards—Dick Johnson, Dav, and Badgett, DU; center—Mumford, WF; quarter—Little, UNC; halves—Hackney, DU, and Berlinski, NCS; full—Hutchins, UNC.

Next is the selection of Fred Dixon, sports editor over at the News Bureau. Fred picks: First team—ends, Cara, NCS, and Bershak, UNC; tackles, Brunansky, DU, and Bugg, NCS; guards, Regdon, NCS, and Dick Johnson, Dav; center, Hill, DU; quarter, Parker, DU; halves, Lafferty, Dav, and Daniel, WF; full, Ryneska, NCS. Second team—ends, Buck, UNC, and Talliaferro, DU, and Williams, Dav; tackles, Bartos, UNC, and Power, DU; guards, Lipscomb, DU, and Rogers, WF; center, Mark, NCS; quarter, Gadd, NCS; halves, Burnette, UNC, and Hackney, DU; full, Tipton, DU.

And last comes the personal choice of yours truly. My pick: First team—ends, Cara, NCS, and Bershak, UNC; tackles, Brunansky, DU, and Bugg, NCS; guards, Regdon, NCS, and Dick Johnson, Dav; center, Hill, DU; quarter, Parker, DU; halves, Daniel, WF, and Lafferty, Dav; full, Ryneska, NCS. Second team—ends, Buck, UNC, and Talliaferro, DU; tackles, Trimpey, UNC, and Power, DU; guards, Rogers, WF, and Lipscomb, DU; center, Mumford, WF; quarter, Little, UNC; halves, Hackney, DU, and Burnette, UNC; full, Tipton, DU.

Now send in a ballot disagreeing with us.

Bachelor's Club

A high-light of the Thanksgiving week-end social activities will be an informal dance Saturday evening from 9 'til 12 given by the Bachelors' Club, newly organized social organization of Raleigh, in the Woman's Club.

Music will be furnished by Jimmy Poyner and his Famous Collegians and a script of one dollar will be the admission charge. Proceeds from the dance will be used to create a fund to help needy families of Raleigh. Decorations for the occasion will be in keeping with the season.

The club has elected as its sponsors Miss Mary York Neal, Miss Dorothy Thurman, Miss Jeannette Bagwell and Miss Anna Lee Johnson; and has invited the following young women of Raleigh to act as patrons of the club: Misses Louise McLeod, Elizabeth Wade, Eula Beth Warner, Helen Morton, Elizabeth Davidson, Lillian Phillips, Violet Crowder, Elizabeth Park, Mary Helen Stewart and Elizabeth Deas.

The following have been invited to attend the dance as chaperones: Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Browne, Mr. and Mrs. Stacey Wade, Mr. and Mrs. John Park, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Ponton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bagby, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Neal.

Delta Sigma Pi

Delta Sigma Pi entertained new pledges of the group Tuesday evening with a dance at the home of Dr. R. O. Moen. During the evening, the impressive candlelight pledging ceremony was held as prescribed by the ritual of the commerce fraternity.

Those present were: Shirley Riddle with David Gilbert, Rachel Biddle with R. L. Stallings, Mary McVair with Bob Keys, Josephine Strickland with W. R. Fountain, Dorothy Danely with Mario Connolly, Frances Darden with Alton Smith, Josephine Rand with Kenneth Rand, Valeria Garlington with Herbert Fisher, and Joe Ryneska, Tommy Allison, William Bell, W. B. Small, Alfred Templeton, Ray Jordan, and Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Moen.

The home was beautifully decorated with the fraternity colors of old gold and purple. Refreshments were served during the course of the evening.

Post-Thanksgiving Dance

The Social Service Committee of the Rex Hospital Guild is sponsoring a Thanksgiving dance Friday evening, from 8:30 'til 12, at the Woman's Club.

Paul Moore's orchestra will furnish music for the dance and the feature of the evening will be a dance figure presenting the sponsors and their marshals. The dance is informal and a script of fifty cents will be collected from both stags and couples to be used for the social service department of the Guild.

The club rooms will be decorated with autumn leaves and flowers suggestive of the Thanksgiving season.

Clash of Rivals Arouses Interest

(Continued from page three) ever-increasing improvement of team play. The Wolves have exhibited a fine defensive game all season, but the offense had been lacking. The Catholic U. and Boston College games were enough to convince all followers of the sport, that the State team had a well-rounded offense as well as a strong defense. The team has consistently outgained its opponents and had there been a slight change in the breaks, the Tech's record to date might be decidedly more impressive.

The wins in the Duke-State games have been split up to date, each college winning six. The last victory by a State team was made in 1932 by a 6-0 score. Since then Duke has been able to take three wins in successive years, although outfought and outgained in several of the hits. This year the seniors in the Tech lineup will be out to make this, their last chance, their first victory over the Devils.

Several of the State men will be playing their last football game for their Alma Mater. Captain Mac Cara, Joe Ryneska, Alex Regdon, Nick Hayden, Phil Davis, Dick Thompson, Herb Kirshner, Carl Goodie, Eddie Jankwich, and Roger Mass will all be winding up their college football in this one last attempt.

Prizes

All you intramural fans who play the game for the love of it might do well to read this and discover that you will now reap a reward if you play hard enough.

"Beechie" Galtner, cartoonist plenipotentiary of "The Technician" and representative extraordinary of the Beechnut Company, has announced the offer of four awards for leading intramuralists this term. A carton of 16-5c packages of Beechnut products will be given the leaders and runners-up in both the Fraternity and the Dormitory Leagues at the end of the present term.

THREE GROUPS PRESENT FOR JOINT MEET HERE

W. J. Andrews, Carolina graduate in the class of 1891, gave an account of some of his engineering experiences at a joint meeting of the State, Duke, and Carolina student ASME chapters Tuesday night.

The speaker said that he was the oldest living junior member of the ASME and the oldest mechanical engineer in North Carolina. He gave as his definition of an engineer, "A man whose education is never complete."

Both the Carolina and Duke chapter put in a bid for the next joint meeting, and a decision as to the date and place for the next session of the three groups is to be made at a later date.
