

...AS WE SEE IT...

JOHNNIE BING

I see by the papers that the Constitutional Commission has recommended five new amendments to the State Constitution. Well, that sorta took me aback. The Constitution of the State of North Carolina is so antiquated that I was beginning to think it was being preserved as an oddity of colonial days; an antique, as it were. That is one thing I haven't been able to understand; the good Legislature of the State wholeheartedly gave President Roosevelt its endorsement on Supreme Court reform, a sort of renovation of the Federal Constitution, yet it was blandly ignoring its own Constitution. It can be presumed by this that the influence of the New Deal has been for the good of the state.

One of the proposed amendments would give to the Governor the power of veto. His Excellency is the only one of the forty-eight state chief executives that doesn't have that power. For years, his only functions so far as could be seen, consisted of riding around in the big limousine bearing the No. 1 license tag of the state, addressing honored gatherings, and holding press conferences. Now, if a man is elected Governor of his state, he expects to be able to do something. He feels that he has been called by the people of the state into public service, and he wants to do something. Yet, there has been nothing for him to do. Of course, if the Legislature was in approval of His Excellency, it obeyed his wishes, and instituted measures that he might want in effect. However, this has been more or less a courtesy extended by that august body to the number one man in the state. If he desires to work with the lawmakers, he must do so through intermediaries, and that can't be very gratifying to anyone. By this amendment, the Governor would have the right to sign or not sign all measures passed by the Legislature, thus giving him a right to have his say, uninterrupted by undercover work. If he saw fit to veto a bill, he could send it back to the Legislature with recommendations that he might deem necessary. The Governor, unhampered by the bustle, bustle and confusion that one expects and gets on the floors of the two chambers of the Legislature, can more readily and easily see flaws in a proposed bill, and in the quiet seclusion of his study, can think out the proper changes in the bill that would give it "teeth," so to speak. I sincerely hope that this amendment is ratified by the people of the state, if it comes before them. A man of high caliber intellectually readily gives up, perhaps, a more remunerative occupation to obey the call to public service, if he knows he will be of real service. No man likes to be a figure-head, a clothing-store dummy, if you will pardon the simile. The State of North Carolina would be by far the winner in giving unto her chief executive the right to perform the services he longs to do.

Cabin Kids . . .

I saw an item in the paper the other morning that saddened my heart. It seems as though the mother of the Cabin Kids, Negro children group of movie fame, had promised them watermelons galore when they got down into their native state on the tour they are now making. Well, when they got down here to Dunn, they had to be told that there wasn't any Santa Claus, in other words, no watermelon. I know just how they must've felt. I know that they saw huge ice-cold melons in their sleep every night, and envisioned themselves sunk into those juicy delights up to their ears and eyes. They could have all the ice cream and cake they wanted, but to them nothing could compare with a good ole North Carolina watermelon. I reckon it only goes to show you that the higher you go in the world, the more appreciative you become of things that are, in the final analysis, just common everyday commodities. Just like a woman; when her husband is making $6,000 a year, she hates to have it said that she cooks all their meals. If he is a millionaire, she takes delight in publicizing her famous dinners, and midnight snacks. Once it was something to hide; now that she is on top, she can afford to make it an eccentricity.

FARLEY TO SPEAK ON PARTY FUTURE

Carolina Union to Hear Postmaster General James Farley Speak on Future of Party

Postmaster General James A. Farley will speak on "The Future of the Democratic Party," at 3:00 p.m. in Memorial Hall at the University of North Carolina next Tuesday, March 9, as a guest of the Carolina Political Union.

A large reception is being planned for the Democratic national committee chairman, whose trip to Chapel Hill is being made in connection with his appearance at a postoffice dedication in Reidsville.

Dynamic Speaker

Farley, one of the most dynamic speakers in the Democratic organization today, is the right hand man of President Roosevelt and is probably in closer intimate contact with the President than any other man living. At the beginning of the Democratic campaign for presidency in 1932, Farley started the New Deal on its way with Roosevelt as leader, and since that time, the party has developed great potential power.

This is not the first time Farley has been in North Carolina to dedicate government buildings and also stump for the Democratic party. He has made numerous addresses throughout the state and is well known and well liked in every city he has visited. Principal cities in this state where he has appeared are Greensboro, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, and Durham.

Other Prominent Figures

Among the prominent state Democrats who will welcome Farley at the meeting are Governor Clyde R. Hoey, ex-Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Congressman Frank Hancock, and J. Wallace Winborne, state chairman of the Democratic party.

Farley, who is now 50 years old, began his activities with the Democratic party in 1919 when he was chosen chairman of the Rockland County, N. Y., Democratic committee.

Since 1924 he has been a delegate to every national convention of his party. He was elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee in Chicago on July 2, 1932.

Farley will be introduced by Frank McGlinn, U. N. C. senior and president of the Political Union, and Governor Hoey. Many out-of-town visitors are expected at the address.

Recent speakers that have been presented in Chapel Hill by the C. P. U. are Governor Paul McNutt, Col. Frank Knox, and Senator Millard Tydings.

Tentative plans of the Carolina Political Union are to have Farley's speech broadcast over radio station WDNC in Durham in an effort to reach those who will be unable to attend the rally.

To Speak Before Carolina Group

The Carolina Political Union will have as its guest and speaker Postmaster General James A. Farley next Tuesday night when the Democratic mogul will be in Chapel Hill. Postmaster General Farley is in North Carolina in connection with the dedication of a new postoffice at Reidsville. Tentative plans have been made to broadcast his speech over Radio Station WDNC in Durham. Governor Clyde R. Hoey, and Ex-Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus will also be in Chapel Hill for the Carolina organization's program.

It Was a Swell Week-end, But Oh, The Morning After!

bent on punching someone's nose, only to discover that it was the ticking of my alarm clock. And it announced in its own clever little way that it was forty-five minutes before class time. Well, I started dressing, but sat down on the edge of the bed to put on my shoes. I was color-blind that morning; I couldn't tell brown from white. (I put on a brown suede and a white buckskin). And my thoughts kept going back to the week-end.

Gosh, Mary sure did look swell! There wasn't a better looking gal on the campus during the dances. She sure did get a rush Saturday night; too much of a rush, doggone it! Didn't get many dances with her, but she seemed to be having a good time without me. Yeah, there's something fishy about that, too! And just because I talked to that cute little girl singer a lot, Mary didn't have to get peeved about it. She didn't mind handing out the ole oil to a lot of the fellows. Oh well, I reckon it was alright. She'll forget all about it before long. But I still don't like all the snaking that from white. (I put on a brown suede and a white buckskin). And my thoughts kept going back to the week-end. Hum . . . so that's what it was. Jo Ann . . . oh yeah, I remember; that little blonde. I'll save that

'phone number, though; may be able to use it some night. She sure did ruin a good shirt writing it on there with a lipstick. It might be worth it, yet, though.

Wonder how I lost Mary down at the Psi Psi's after the dance? Last thing I remember was getting a plate of grub knocked outta my hand. Don't recall seeing her around. Bet that durn snake with slick hair had her off in a corner. Well, the brunette I took down to the hamburger joint evened that off well enough. "Toots" . . . nice name, nice date, nice gal. Mary didn't have to get mad about the lipstick on my face when we got back. Could I help it if I saw my Aunt downtown? 'Course not! I'll bet little Mary cooled off when I stuck her head first in a snow bank. Heh heh! 'S'funny. I sure did have a swell time this week-end.

I'll never forget . . . good gosh, it's quarter to eight! Hey, roomy, lend me your meal ticket book. Why don't

I buy one? Boy, I'm so broke that if razor-back hogs were selling a dime a dozen, I couldn't buy a "shave" off one. Hey, what did I say that gets a pillow in the puss?

Carole Lombard says: "Advised by my singing coach, I changed to Luckies"

"In my new picture 'Swing High, Swing Low' I sing a song for the first time since I have been on the screen. To do this, I spent months taking singing lessons. And with this added strain, my throat was not in good shape. My singing coach suggested that when choosing cigarettes, I select a light smoke. And so I changed to Luckies. Since then I've found that a light smoke and my throat get along together just fine."

CURRENTLY STARRING IN PARAMOUNT PICTURES' "SWING HIGH, SWING LOW"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Lombard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Organization Plans of Athletic Setup Finally Worked Out

Harrelson Tells The Boys Who, Why, How, And When

Dean of Administration Lays Down Duties of Each Member of Athletic Staff

By FRED DIXON

Col. John W. Harrelson, dean of administration at North Carolina State College, announced recently the duties of State's athletic staff under the new Department of Physical Education and Athletics.

In making his announcement, Col. Harrelson said there should be no doubt in any one's mind as to the organization and the responsibilities of its staff members.

Committees

According to Harrelson there will be two committees responsible for the policies of the department. These are the Faculty Council, for educational policies, and the Faculty Athletic Committee, for intercollegiate policies.

There also will be three sub-committees for study: budget committee, schedule committee, and eligibility committee.

J. P. Miller, as head of the department, will be responsible for the administration of the policies as given by the two committees. He also will be responsible for correlating the programs of the three divisions of the department and the duties of the staff members in doing the work in the three divisions. Miller's direct responsibility will be in conducting the physical education and intramural programs.

Col. Harrelson stated that the business manager will have the sole responsibility of the business and financial details of the intercollegiate division.

MILLER

He will act somewhat as an assistant treasurer to the college treasurer and will be directly responsible to the Dean of Administration for the performance of his duties.

Responsibilities of the coaches also were outlined by Col. Harrelson. They are to have complete charge of the development of their sport. They will cooperate and give technical assistance to the business manager in arranging details of their sport. They will be directly responsible to the head of the department for the performance of their duties.

No individual will be responsible for budgets or schedules. A schedule and budget for each sport will be determined by a committee composed of the coach of the sport, the business manager, the head of the department, and Col. Harrelson. The committee's recommendation will be submitted to the athletic committee for approval.

It is planned to have weekly meetings of the athletic staff to discuss the week's athletic program and to iron out any difficulty that may have presented itself.

About Miller

Many years of experience as a player, teacher, coach, and administrator make Miller a man adequately equipped for the job.

Miller has been at State since the fall of 1924. When the present Frank Thompson Gymnasium was completed in that year and the Board of Trustees authorized the setting up of a Department of Physical Education, Miller was brought to State to organize the department and to serve as director of athletics and professor of physical education.

Miller served in the dual capacity for three years. In 1927 he gave up the duties of athletic director and became professor of physical education and director of intramurals. Today his department is recognized as one of the largest and most active in the South.

Miller was a typical all-round athlete in his college days. He was captain of football, basketball and baseball at Central Missouri Teachers College where he received a B.P.E. degree in pedagogy. He also played football, basketball and baseball at Springfield College of Physical Education where he received a B.P.E. degree in physical education. He played professional baseball with the St. Louis Americans, Tacoma in the Northwestern League and Sedalia in the Missouri State League.

Coaching Days

He begins his coaching days as director and coach of all sports at Kemper Military Academy and was there four years before going to the University of Missouri where for three years he was head coach of basketball, baseball, freshman football and supervisor of required courses in physical education. SPORTS GLIMPSES

By CLARENCE GALE

Comes the news that Johns Hopkins University, up Baltimore way, will not charge admission for sports events beginning with those coming off next October. Three points have been brought out by the administrative officers and the board of trustees: 1—Beginning in October of this year there will be no charge for admission to any university athletic contest.

2—As soon as existing commitments are absolved, the university will neither pay guarantee to visiting teams, nor will it accept guarantees when its teams play away from home. Contests generally will be scheduled on a two-year, home-and-home basis, the visiting team always paying its own traveling expenses.

3—The university will finance and encourage an intercollegiate and an intramural athletic program as necessary and desirable college activities. It will maintain a staff capable of providing effective coaching and instruction, and it will supply adequate equipment for both intercollegiate and intramural sports.

And apparently the officials have something there. In hitting at the "gate"—the money involved, the kale, the potatoes, the means of exchange that brings in the bacon—they have gone straight to the heart of the matter rather than beat around the bush. From the trend of things nowadays it seems that there are two courses open to college officials. One is to lift the ban entirely and countenance open subsidization, and the other is to rid sports of the money side. Hopkins has taken the latter step. It will be interesting to see how the experiment, for it is really nothing more than that, will work out. . . . With at least two legal fights afoot, Madison Square Garden will soon have enough "suits" to start a haberdashery. The Garden officials will go after Max Baer, who signed to meet Bob Pastor March 19 in the Garden and then sailed for dear ole, dreary ole Lunnion for two fights over there, and Jim Braddock, who signed to meet the methodical Teuton, Max Schmeling, who would lick the socks off him and then ran out to meet Joe Louis in the Windy City. Think of the size of those lawyers' fees! Give the fighters their purses and their punishment, I'll take the lawyers with their lucre and their legal lashings. . . . A hand to Mac Berry for leading the Southern Conference cagers in scoring this season. Mac has done well. . . . Can't keep it off the sports horizon. Baseball is crowding back again with the players setting in trim down further in the Sunny South. All summer they play the regularly scheduled games. All the fall and winter they wrangle about their salaries—salaries that you and I dream about making someday—being too low. All spring they furnish copy from the training camps. One of the most far-fetched ideas to break forth recently was that of a certain Representative in Congress who decided the boys needed protection and wanted to organize a union for them. Can't you see Jimmy Fox knocking the cover off the ball with a wallop that sends it over the fence, and then stazing a sit-down strike at the plate until an irate manager either murders him or runs the financial office in the well-known red by raising his salary. . . . Johnny Weissmuller broke into print a few days ago. Johnny is the famous swimming star of a few years back who set so darn many records that nobody can keep up with them. In his first four starts in competition Johnny broke four world's records. He set a new record in his first competition and then broke this same record three successive times. But to get back to his recent exploits, Players who are really in the center of things are pictured in the above cut. The six shown there are the pivot men of six of the teams participating in the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament being held here. In the background is the North Carolina State Capitol illuminated as it was last night and will be throughout the duration of the tourney.

'MURAL MUSINGS

By GEORGE BETHELL

In the All-Campus Intramural boxing matches, held last Monday night in Frank Thompson gym, the dormitories came out on top with five wins out of the eight matches. There were seven fights, only one match being forfeited, and each fight was packed with excitement. All the bouts were won by decision except the 155-pound battle between Dossen-bach, Delta Sig, and Whitley, 2d 1911. Referee Glenn Penland stopped this fight at the end of the second round when Whitley suffered a cut under his left eye.

The feature event of the evening was a battle-royal between five Negro boys representing fraternities. After ten minutes of high and wide swinging, James Blount, Pi Kappa Phi entry, was the only remaining survivor and consequently the winner.

Summaries:
118 pounds—Martin, 2d 1911, won by default from Lewis, SPE.
125—Means, Kappa Sigma, decisioned Broyhill, 1st South.
135—Hamlin, 2d 1911, decisioned Barchette, Lambda Chi.
145—Leconey, 2d Watauga, decisioned Garrett, Pi Kappa Phi.
155—Dosenbach, Delta Sig, defeated Whitley, 2d 1911. Fight stopped end of second round.
165—Norman, Pika, decisioned W. Hunter, 2d 1911.
175—Richardson, 1st Watauga, decisioned Smart, Pika.
Unlimited—Pendleton, 1st Watauga, decisioned Bailey, Pika.

Another All-Campus event this week came off in soccer when the Pikas, fraternity champions, defeated 3d South, dormitory champions, 2-1 last Wednesday on Riddick Field. 3d South made the first score in the first quarter when a ball kicked by Pika Norman near the goal was hit by Morrison, 3d South, through the goal. The score remained the same until three minutes before the end of the game when Pika Schots neatly placed a kick between the bars. Then just as everyone was beginning to look forward to a few extra periods, the winning point was scored by the Pikas just a second before the whistle ending the game.

Basketball has arrived at the final stage. The fraternity championship will be decided between the Pikas, the Delta Sig, and the Kappa Sig. The dormitory championship will be decided when 1st South plays 1st 1911 today at 4:30.

The Pikas defeated the Delta Sig Wednesday night, 25-7, with Schreiber as high scorer, in the first fraternity championship game. The Delta Sig will play the Kappa Sig this afternoon in the second game of a series, and the Pikas will play the Kappa Sig next Monday in the last game of the series.

The All-Campus basketball game will be played next Wednesday at 7:30.

The AKPis' came out on top of the handball league as the Fraternity champions. The Pikas and the Sigma Pis have yet to play to decide the winner of the consolation matches.

3d 7th won out as champions of the Dormitory League in handball when they defeated 3d South. 1st Watauga won the consolation matches.

BASEBALLERS GET DRILLS UNDERWAY

Southern Trip to be Taken During Spring Holidays to Meet Rollins and Florida

The baseball team, under the tutelage of Chick Doak, State diamond coach, has already begun its daily practice sessions in preparation for the approaching season.

This year's edition will be sadly handicapped by the loss of such stalwarts as Stuart Flythe, D. C. Williams, Mason Bugg, Charlie Gadd, and Jake Mahoney from last year's nine.

The weakest spot on the team at present is the pitching staff. Billy Griffin is the only experienced hurler reporting for duty, but Doak has hopes that Red Blount, one of last year's starting pitchers, will report soon. E. C. Hart should prove a great asset to the staff if he can learn to control the pill.

The schedule this spring is featured by a southern trip during Spring vacation on which the team will meet Rollins and the University of Florida. Other high spots of the season should be games with Rutgers, VMI, VPI, and Big Five opponents which will be played here.

Veterans reporting include Tom Hines, Jim Barb, and Walter Rabb with Nell Dalrymple and Eddie Berlin expected after basketball season. Others reporting were: J. H. Ashcraft, J. T. Richardson, P. Bruinoxon, L. E. Auman, M. J. Chapell, J. B. Council, E. V. Crist, W. H. Cutchins, F. M. Davidson, Don Dixon, W. L. Franklin, M. A. Gill, A. H. Green, D. B. Harper, P. A. Hoover, W. F. Hoyle, R. L. Miller also served as chairman of the department of athletics one year when the Director was given a leave of absence.

Leaving Missouri, Miller entered upon administrative work at Albion College in the Michigan State Conference as athletic director and coach.

It was because of his all-round preparation, experience and success as a coach and teacher that Miller was brought to State College in 1924.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press) What University of Texas students thought was going to be a "pipe" examination turned out to be a viciously circling boomerang.

"Fellows," announced the instructor, "I'm just as tired of these darn exams as you are so I've decided to give you an easy one today. Just one question, in fact."

Everybody in the class did a series of simple mathematical calculations and arrived at the sum of 100 for the answer.

"Just a minute," said the instructor, "I forgot something. Recall the number of times you were absent from this class, multiply that by two and subtract it from the answer on the problem."

The "A" grades that students had envisioned slid down the alphabetical scale and even a few "F's" blemished the instructor's record book.

Men are more curious than women, insist coeds in the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority of Northwestern University. Here's how they proved it:

They painted a barrel, labelled it "Danger," and placed it on the campus. For one hour hidden Zetas kept tab, counting 106 men and 24 women who stepped off the sidewalk to peer inside.

Which, protest the males, proves nothing except that 106 men and 24 women passed the barrel during the test-hour.

Even scholastically bum college students make poor hoboes. This announcement comes straight from the dean—the Dean of American Hoboes, one Dan O'Brien.

"Fifty years of hoboeing have convinced me that students from colleges furnish poor material for hoboes. Hoboes come from boys—and hoboes from girls, from a status that does not allow or privilege them a college training—except that of Hobo College," writes O'Brien.

"As dean of the Hobo College of America, I am aware that to become and remain a hobo one has to have these superior qualities: first, courage; second, a desire to travel, see things and learn, and, last, a strong constitution and tremendous power of adjustment and adaptability as well as a love for freedom and beauty," adds Dr. O'Brien.

"The official college trains students to fit themselves into a business world. Take them out of that environment and you have perfect fools, but the Hobo College learns its students the nobler art of hoboeing—how to cope with life."

Despairing even more of coeds, Dean O'Brien says "they are hopeless material. Now you take regular hoboes, they get more wisdom in one year than they possibly could have gotten from a college training or being locked up in the Congressional Library for four years."

RICE SPEAKS TO ASME ON DIESEL ENGINE USE

Professor R. B. Rice gave an interesting and informal talk on "Diesel Engines" at the regular meeting of the ASME last Tuesday night. His talk was augmented by various slides which helped to illustrate the operation of this type of engine.

Professor Rice's talk was sponsored by a committee under the direction of G. E. Betts, Jr. This is one of the four committees into which the ASME has been divided in order to rotate the duties of preparing the programs and performing the special duties of the bi-monthly meetings. Each group also has one main project to complete for the Engineer's Fair the details of which are, at the moment, secret.

In the near future, the ASME is planning to attend the national convention of the society at Chattanooga, Tenn., and also during next term, the group plans to go to Duke University for a meeting. The trips to be made by the society are in line with the present policy of the organization which is to make as broad contacts as possible with other students in its field of work.

Recruiting

New York, N. Y.—(ACP)—If colleges and universities continue to "recruit" students and don't restore their high standards for selective admission, they will impair seriously the value of academic degrees.

DESIGNED BY THE CAMPUS FOR THE CAMPUS

WE make the statement—pretty positively and flatly—that there is no ONE style authority. Styles are born and begin to thrive before style "authorities" recognize and report them.

AMONG YOUNGER MEN, those styles are born on the Campus—all of Younger America, in college and out, takes its cue from Campus stylists. And the leading reporters of the Campus Style Scene are the makers of CAMPUS TOGS.

CAMPUS TOGS designers literally camp on the Campus—observe, report, compare and adapt what they see—offer it to well groomed men when it is new. This Spring, our assortments of CAMPUS TOGS are large, complete and interesting—see them.

Humming right along

All over the country, you hear more people mention the refreshing mildness and the pleasing taste and aroma of Chesterfield cigarettes.

You hear somebody compliment Chesterfields at a party. Another time, the grocer tells you it's a darn good cigarette. Or you see a group of men on a street corner, most of 'em smoking Chesterfields.

Because they have what smokers like, Chesterfields are bumming right along...

They Satisfy
