TO THE GRADUATES

Monday week, just at twilight, two hundred and eighty of our fellow students who are deemed worthy will pass up to the platform in Riddick Stadium and receive their diplomas. The sheepskin that these men will receive represents four year's work.

Is that work worthwhile?

It would be hard to find out from each graduate as he takes his diploma just what he thinks college has meant to him; in fact, in most instances, some years from now, the graduates will be unable to decide whether college really meant anything to them in a material way, for they will not be much ahead of the high school graduate who was able to get some years start on them.

It is only after the graduate begins to near the top in his particular field that he becomes distinctly separate from the high school man. Then, he finds that while his superior and advanced training enables him to occupy the position of authority, the man with only elementary education finds that he has reached his peak, and can go no further.

It is a great credit to State College training that most of the graduates of this year's graduating class have already been placed. Business firms have had past experience with the quality of men that State College produces, and they are always eager to identify new men with the State College stamp on them with their organizations.

Yet, though we know that graduation lies back of attendance to college, we wish that we could always keep with us the friends that we have made here; that the State College community would remain intact; that we would not have to say "good-bye" each year to some 275 of the friends who have grown very close to us during the years that they have been at State College; but since that cannot be so, since each year we must exchange seniors for the incoming freshmen, we hope for our graduates the best of luck.

The class of '37 has been a great class. Not knowing what else to say, we can only tritely, but sincerely, wish them all the success in the world. State College is proud of you!

VANDALIZATION

Last Friday night during the intense rivalry which existed prior to the freshman-sophomore push ball contest on last Saturday afternoon some students smeared red and white paint over valuable permanent State College property.

This type of self-vandalization is one of the most dastardly deeds in the realm of so-called "practical pranks."

We do not know who the boys were. Efforts are being made by Student Body President J. C. Frink to find the miscreants, but even if the evil-doers are found, it does not mitigate the damage done by their thoughtlessness. Evidently most of the self-assumed sign painters were freshmen, because the numerals "40" were the ones which greeted the eyes of the student body on Saturday morning.

State College is not blest with any too much beauty in the way of buildings, and we could well forego the pleasure of having the edifices that we have smeared with class numerals. Perhaps the perpetrators did not realize, when they carried out their midnight exploit, that they were marring the appearance of the stadium and the other property painted, perhaps permanently. Because, as is well known, it is almost a hopeless task to completely remove paint from such surfaces as concrete, on which most of the painting was done.

The freshmen have been here only one year. We should think that in that time they would have learned that there is one thing which cannot be tolerated at State College, and at any other college for that matter; that permanent buildings must not be defaced.

We do not believe that a great percentage of the freshman class had anything to do with the painting; the work evidently was done by a small group which, under the cover of darkness and the noise being made by the freshmen and sophomores in their water fight in the freshman quadrangle, sneaked into the stadium and committed the atrocity. But this group will make the entire freshman class bear the stigma of their deeds.

We hope that President Frink will succeed in his efforts to correct the damage done, with the aid of the members of the freshman class who have consented to help scrub the paint off. Nevertheless, the sight of the faded markings on the press box, the time clock, and other parts of the stadium will continue to remind us that there are some students among us who care so little about their own property, care so little about the beauty of State College, that they will sacrifice it all for a few minutes of what might be facetiously called a manifestation of "class spirit."

The behavior at the rush last Saturday afternoon was as good an evidence of fair competition as we have seen in a long time, but any praise that might be given for the sportsmanship shown there, is lost in the utter condemnation that should be meted out to those who under the cover of night committed that dastardly defacing of your property, and mine.

DEAN RIDDICK RETIRES

Dean W. C. Riddick, the oldest member of the State College faculty, both in age and in period of service, has handed in his resignation to Administrative Dean Harrelson.

What Dean Riddick wrote in his letter of resignation is very true. "My life is in the College, and I am unwilling that any personal consideration be shown me, if the College suffers thereby." Dr. Riddick has often been called the "father of engineering at State College," and in broader terms, but true, "the father of engineering in North Carolina."

Dr. Riddick has seen fourteen classes of engineers graduate since he resigned from the presidency of the College to become dean of engineering. The greatest possible tribute to his worth to State College is told in the men who have gone out from here to take their places in industry. What greater memorial could there be than the memorials which are carved in the lives of men, some young, some older, who have gone out from this institution?

Not only has Dr. Riddick meant much to the College scholastically, but he has been the chief proponent of athletics since he came here in 1892 as the institution's first football coach. Riddick Stadium is very properly named in his honor.

Since we are going to press Wednesday night instead of Thursday, we do not know what the decision of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees of the Greater University will be in its meeting Thursday but we know that it will have a hard time selecting a man who will compare with Wallace Carl Riddick, the father of engineering at State College.

"AUF WIEDERSEHEN!"

With this issue, THE TECHNICIAN ceases publication for this year; a year which to us had brought many enjoyments in our efforts to serve the students of State College; also, we have had a great deal of work to do.

THE TECHNICIAN has endeavored this past year to present a finished, readable and interesting product to its readers. As to whether we have accomplished that end, the answer must come from the students. We have enjoyed the work. We can only hope that you, the reader, have enjoyed the weekly issues.

After a lapse of three months, we will resume publication again, but some of the members of our staff will be missing, a great many of the readers will have received their diplomas and gone out into their individual fields to represent themselves and State College.

We hope that those who go out from our midst will have the greatest success that they might wish. We hope that those who will be back at State with us next year will have a fine summer and be ready to "carry on" in the fall.

We have enjoyed our work with you, and for you, during this year, and we hope that next fall we will resume our pleasant relations. Until then we say, "auf wiedersehen!"

WHY?

In our Open Forum column this week, we are carrying a letter written by one of the participants in a minor sport at State College. Previous to receiving this letter, we were amazed to learn that the sweaters which are due certain leaders in the four minor sports have not arrived, although the coaches turned in their lists of recommendations at the middle of the Winter term.

Another illuminating fact is that though the basketball sweater list was turned in to the athletic business office, in most instances at least a week after the other lists had been turned in, the sweaters for the lettermen in that sport arrived and were distributed more than a week ago.

We believe that these letter men in the minor sports are fully as deserving of awards as any others, and no definite reasons have been forthcoming from the athletic business office as to the reason for this delay.

The boys will begin to leave early next week. Where are the sweaters?

HERE and THERE

By DICK MCKENZIE

The freshmen won the annual sophomore-freshman battle but State College lost. How did we lose? In that the buildings and stadium were painted and marred to an extent unexcusable in any war or battle. The boys who did this evidently do not have a real college spirit. When a college means so little to a fellow that he can paint its buildings and call it fun, it is time that he find another institution that would present a more favorable situation for him to show his "art."

The campus has become covered with wires to prevent pathways across the grass. It took wire entanglements to stop the eager warriors during the world war, and the same must hold true for eager prospective engineers. From now on the shortest distance between two points will be around the end of the wires.

Since Louis Asbury has become the "Duke of Watauga" it has come to light that he is not the "Duke" at all, but the honorable Prince Humbert. All of this news is due to the thorough investigation held in his home "country," Watauga.

To the right of me and to the left of me are great writings. Those of Herman Melville, Chesterfield, Descartes, Rabelais, and even Plato. Maybe if I'd quote a little Chesterfield, I'd be more satisfying.

I wonder if Joe Hamilton is going over to Duke so often for education. Could it be that he is dissatisfied with State College as an educational institution?

The minor sports seemed to have been neglected in the disposition of sweaters this year. After all, the only reward that is obtained from this time and energy spent by the boys who participated in a sweater. These sports have upheld their name, and everyone in State College is proud of the wrestling and boxing team. Why shouldn't they receive sweaters?

Herb Whitley seems to be trying to get the "hand" of the law. I am unable to find out just what his "chief" trouble is.

There has been considerable criticism concerning the wearing of shorts by State College boys. We agree that the wearing of shorts on Fayetteville Street would not be the right thing to do, but here on the campus, we reserve this right.

Open Forum

To the Editor:

I thought that the following might be of interest to you and those of the faculty and students who take an interest in minor sports. The other day I received a notice from the treasurer's office saying that I owed the college eight cents and that I could not take my exams until my account was clear. The note amused me for I could not help wondering when the college was going to clear its accounts with the boxers, swimmers, and wrestlers who had earned their monograms during the last winter season.

I have been to Mr. von Glahn's office several times, but have not managed to catch him in. Those who have found him get the answer that the sweaters have been ordered, but I wonder just how much truth there is in that. Why do I wonder? It so happens that our season ended before the basketball team's, and they have already received their awards. From Mr. Riverbark comes the report that the school owes the sweater company some $600. That does not happen to be our fault, nor does it explain why the basketball team received their awards and none of the other winter sports have had that satisfaction.

We represented State College, and while we may not have been world-beaters, we did do our best for the school as well as ourselves. The school does not take care of our tuition—either directly or indirectly—as it does for many of our other athletes, and we don't ask them to. But, we do ask that we be given the customary award for the services we have rendered.

If the college demands that we clear our accounts with them before we can take our exams, then surely we are not asking too much when we beg them to give us just a little recognition and encouragement in our sports.

Sincerely,
Albert F. Hein.

Campus Heads For Next Year

The recently elected campus officers who will direct the activities of the major student organizations at State for the college year 1937-38 are pictured above.

AS WE SEE IT

By JOHNNIE BING

With the last issue of this year's TECHNICIAN, I bring to a close, and, maybe, my career as a columnist for you. I've thoroughly enjoyed writing this for you, and wish I could continue to do so. I can't. I'm through, and I must say that I am sorry.

Man is by nature, I suppose, given to argument. He had rather do that than eat when he is hungry. It stimulates his brain to try to win you over to his way of thinking. I know that I have been guilty of doing that time and time again. If I angered you by doing so, I'm sorry. Such wasn't my intention at all. Perhaps I was assuming the unwelcome role of reformer in writing this column.

Such a role is a dangerous one, and one that is quite capable of bringing wrath untold down on one's head. My purpose was to stimulate an interest in the things that happen around us every day. So many of us are prone to let them pass in the night, as it were, not realizing that we should keep on our toes. I, myself, have been often guilty of the same thing. So thinking that provoking argument would be the best means to an end, AS WE SEE IT was inaugurated, and I hope it served the purpose intended.

I hope that next year will find someone in my shoes. It's a job I will be proud to pass on to another. I wish I knew how to write a graceful obituary, my own, but it eludes me. I know that the time to do so was coming, yet I hated to think about it. Perhaps I should fade out of the picture without a word, but I can't do that without saying something that I will always remember.

I have been on the campus of a great many schools and colleges, and have seen the finished products of a great many more. To date, I haven't seen any school or anyone graduated from a school that can even favorably compare with State College. Boys, they are all the finest I have ever known, and I mean that from the bottom of my heart. So long, see you in the papers!

All juniors who have ordered their rings and have not received them, get them at Dean Cloyd's office.
Pete Bronson, president.

Little Publicized State Men Are Making Names In Big Time

Several Tech Baseballers Shining In The Big Leagues

Mr. Charlie Doak Has Lanning, Brown, Wicker, and Wade Playing in Majors

By BOB BLACKWOOD Mr. Charlie Doak, State's veteran baseball mentor, who has just ended his 13th season at the helm of the baseball team has a long and successful record to show for his work, but above all he can point with pride to the array of stars which he has started on their way to the glory of the Big Leagues.

Mr. Charlie although not often given publicity, has sent his share of hopefuls up to the majors and many of them have stayed up in big time. Right now Mr. Doak can boast four State men running the basepaths for major league teams.

In the National League, State has two men firmly entrenched with their respective teams. On the eastern division of the circuit we have Johnnie Lanning pitching for the Boston Bees. Lanning graduated from State in

JOHN LANNING

'32 and was prominent on this campus in football and baseball. He went up with the Bees last year and has remained, pitching great ball. Out West we find Jimmy Brown, State '33, breaking into the majors this year with the Cardinals. Jimmy moved up from the Gas House Gang's Rochester farm where he shone in the infield. This season Jimmy has been filling in for Leo Durocher at shortstop.

In the American League there are three taking their turn on the roster for the Detroit Tigers and the New York Yankees. Kemp Wicker, State '27, spent a long period in the minors before getting his chance with the World Champion Yanks. He now is one of the porters on Colonel Ruppert's league leaders.

Jake Wade, State '27, also depends upon his soup bone for his salary. He is tossing them up for the Detroit Tigers and is one of the team's starting hurlers.

Among those who have been up into big time in the last few years and who have after a time gone back to the minors are Dutch Holland, State '27, who played in the outfield for Detroit and Cleveland in the American League and Boston in the senior circuit and Chick Outen, State '28, who caught for Brooklyn for a number of years and who now is out in the Pacific Coast League. C. Wade, State '26, was up with Detroit for a time before being farmed out, and Stuart Flythe, who ended his athletic career at State last year was up with the Athletics last year and this year he is playing in the Coastal Plain League.

There are several State men in the minors who are scheduled for advancement in the near future. Outstanding among these are Willie Duke, who is an outfielder with Nashville of the Southern Association and Mason Bugg, luminary on this year's football team and on State's nine for the last three years, who went to Alexandria of the Louisiana State League early this spring and who is doing mighty well, hitting over .340.

Other State greats have done well in the professional field of the nation's sport. Such men as Red Correll, Charlie Shuford, Rock Gladstone, Larry Allgood, Red Johnson, Johnnie Gilbert, and Red Lassiter have all made names for themselves with minor league teams.

SPORTS GLIMPSES By CLARENCE GALE

And so for the final time I turn out a column for this sheet. For four years now I have worked on this page and tried to give you readers something of an insight on the sports around here, and have even gone so far this year as to try to give a behind-the-scenes view through "Sports Glimpses." Most of it hasn't been very good. In fact, most of it has probably been very bad, but anyway, maybe you were able to bear with me and figure it out. That four years has been mighty short to me, although along the sports line, several interesting things have happened. . . . Seems only yesterday that Ray Rex, Bob McQuage, Don Wilson, and a few of the others were cavorting around in the backfield for the Wolfpack. . . . And it was during my freshman year that the east stands of the stadium were completed, a real accomplishment. And came the next year with Rex and Vince Farrar both working hard for the fullback position. And Morrison's headline that went to the dogs, "Rex and Farrar Fight For Post." Queer doings! . . . One baseball hit that sticks in my mind was Fairley Scales' home run in the Easter Monday Classic with Wake Forest during my sophomore year. That night the Pika Ball was the thing of the hour, and Fairley's girl was in the stands pulling for him to sock the pill. When he did smash it, it hit in the middle of the road and bounced to the gym, and did Fairley grin as he came from third to home. . . . The next fall it was Cowboy Robinson and Eddie Berlinski that everybody was counting on. Both boys came through pretty well, and especially so in the Wake Forest game. In that tilt Robinson started things off by circling end and doing some nice broken field running for 45 yards. Then Eddie trekked 62 yards in another exhibition of how-to-run, and the game was definitely ours. . . . The Manhattan game of that year was another nice one. 20-0 was the score with the Wolfpack on the big end. . . . It was that same year that the basketball team took ke, 36-33, in one of the many thrillers I've seen here. My voice was AWOL for the next week. . . . Donkey baseball came in that year. Remember how some of the fellows carried the donkeys instead of riding them. . . . A three-run rally in the seventh was all that kept Davidson from licking the Doakmen in one of the outstanding games of the year. The final count was in State's favor, 5-3. . . . The beginning of this year wasn't so pleasant. We had "footballitus" on the campus. Some of the boys weren't backing the team as they should have, and rumor was rife. However, that was finally straightened out. . . . And it was during this period that your truly and Homer Lucas had a little verbal battle. . . . Then came the basketball tournament and we lost to a too-powerful Washington and Lee team that went on to win the crown. . . . And then baseball season with your scribe working with a mighty one frosh team that won the Big Five championship and played the best game seen here in a long time against the Wake Forest yearlings to close the season. The final count was 2-1 after twelve innings during which I lost a lot of those few remaining hairs. . . . And so it goes, or rather, and so my thoughts go, and even with that, so I go. So long!

Net Team Captain

Pictured above is Jordan Dulin who was recently elected by the tennis team as their next year's leader. Dulin has starred on the State College courts ever since his freshman year and was the number one man of this year's team.

DEACONS OUTHIT BUT TECHS LOSE

State Nine Loses Final Game of Season to Wake Forest By a 6-2 Count

The State College baseball team lost the last game of the series with Wake Forest on the Wake Forest home ground Saturday, being turned back by a score of 6-2.

This was the last game of the season for the Doakmen and they were bending themselves to pull out of a bad slump into which they had fallen when three of their best men were declared ineligible. Their efforts were well displayed Saturday but they were not able to produce in the pinches. State had nine hits which netted only two runs, while Wake Forest had only eight hits which produced six runs.

It was expected that Mac Berry would be on the mound for the Techs but instead Steele was doing the hurling throughout most of the game. Steele, however, pitched fine ball with the exception of giving too many walks.

Barb, of State, drew first blood when he knocked a circuit drive into the left field bleachers in the first of the third. Wirtz, Wake pitcher, after a nice double came home on a single by Morris to tie the score. In the next three innings Wake Forest kept the Techs busy with a couple of hits each time they came to bat.

The Techs came out of their slump long enough in the eighth to tally one run by virtue of a hit by Berlinski and another single by Dalrymple to get one run and end the scoring.

'MURAL MUSINGS By GEORGE BETHELL

With the closing of the Intramural season Wednesday afternoon after the game between 2d Watauga and 1st 1911, we find that the points are lined up as follows:

Dormitories
2d Watauga	1,297
1st Watauga	1,199
3d 7th	1,073
1st 1911	1,043
2d 1911	1,022
3d South	1,013

Fraternities
Pikas	1,975
Sigma Nu	1,090
SPE	1,070
Delta Sig	1,057
AKPI	931
PI Kappa Phi	924

The total points gained by the Pikas in, according to Johnny Miller, Intramural director, a new record. They have won ten out of the twelve Intramural sports offered. The two sports they lost, horseshoes and handball, were both minor sports.

2d Watauga, on Wednesday afternoon, defeated the softball team from 1st 1911, 8-5, to win the softball championship and also gain the points to give them first place among the dormitories. Carlisle, their all-campus pitcher and athletic manager, pitched them to victory. They scored two runs in the first inning to take the lead which they held throughout the game. 1st 1911's last inning rally scored three runs, but they needed just twice that many to tie up the score.

The Kappa Sigs, winners of their bracket in softball were put out of the championship series when they were defeated by the PI Kappa Phi's, 10-2, and by the Pikas, 4-2. That left the Championship to be fought over by the PI Kappa Phi's and the Pikas. This game was played Wednesday afternoon and instead of being a fight it was more or less of a massacre for the Pikas won 12-3. The first three innings were nip and tuck between the two teams with the Pikas leading 2-1, but in the first of the fourth the PI Kappa Phi's tied things up, 2 all. That seemed to start the ball rolling, for in the last of the fourth the first two men at bat for the Pikas, Bailey and Scales, both knocked home runs starting a merry-go-round which ended with the score 5-3 in favor of the Pikas. The Pika all-campus battery, Scales and Davis, went all the way for the Pikas while Sloan and Barber were the PI Kappa Phi battery.

The following men have been selected by Johnny Miller, Intramural director, and Umpires Hayden and Cook, as members of the all-campus softball team: Catcher, Davis (Pikas); Pitchers, Carlisle (2d Watauga) and Scales (Pikas); 1st base, Warren (Sigma Pi's); 2d base, Hamilton (2d Watauga); 3d base, Robeson (3d South); Shortstop, Cheslock (AGRA's); Fielders, Ragdale (Kappa Sig); Smith (1st 1911), Mauney (Sigma Nu); and McFayden (1st South).

In the volleyball match played to a two all tie last week between the Pikas and the AKPI's, the Pikas came out on top by a 3-2 count. The match was replayed Monday night. The AKPI's took the first two games with

Frosh Battery

HOWLES LEADS AT BAT FOR WARREN'S CHAMPS

Regular Left Fielder Has .407 to Top Batting Averages of Fresh For Past Season

Charlie Howles, regular left fielder on Bob Warren's championship Techs, led yearlings in batting during the past season, according to figures released last night.

Howles had 13 hits for 32 official trips to the plate for a percentage of .407. Larry Smith, catcher, ranked second with 13 for 34 and a percentage of .382.

The frosh closed their season here against Wake Forest by taking the Deacons, 2-1, in twelve innings in the most interesting game played here this year. The victory pulled the Techlets up into a tie with the Baby Deacs for the top of the Big Five. The subsequent win by Duke over Wake Forest placed the Techlets in undisputed possession of the top.

The batting averages:
Fowles	Ab.	H.	Pct.
Smith	32	13	.407
Smith	34	13	.382
Kearns	38	14	.369
Barnette	28	9	.322
Holshouser	30	8	.267
Ireland	35	9	.257
Tatum	9	2	.250
Harris	39	9	.231
Gardner	29	6	.207
Sabolyk	10	2	.200
Washam	27	4	.148
Freeman	21	2	.095

ase but the Pikas won the next three games to win the match and also the volleyball championship.

Well, that ends this last "Musing" for this year and as your Intramural reporter I hope that I have pleased all concerned in one way or another. I know that I may have been a little prejudiced, but in the end the best team always wins.

GOLFERS FINISH WINNING SEASON

Venable-coached Team Ends Season With Record of Five Wins and Three Losses

Another season of golf is closed and State College is proud to show a record of five wins and three defeats with one tie.

The Techs had a tough schedule, playing matches with all the Big Five teams with the exception of Davidson and also played several games with teams outside the state. The State-men handed Carolina the only defeat that the Chapel Hill players suffered during the season. Duke won out over State at Durham and also won a return match at the Carolina Country Club in Raleigh. If however, we make a comparative study of scores, basing our analysis on Carolina's win over Duke last week, it appears that State should stand at the top of the list. The Techs beat Carolina and Carolina defeated Duke which therefore gives State a theoretical win over Duke, who were winners of the Big Five Title.

Next year State will have back three varsity men around which to build a strong team for the 1938 season. Two men, Captain Scales and Marlon Palmer will be lost by graduation and their places will be difficult to fill. Another loss which will be deeply felt, not only by the golf team but by State College as a whole, is the departure of Major Venable. The success of the golf team this past season can be traced directly to the Major's keen interest in the boys and his ability in knocking the old pill around. His will be a position not easy to fill and his shoes may go empty for some time to come.

It has been rumored that Romeo Lefort will take the golfmen in hand next year. If this should come to pass all our worries will be wiped away and we may rest assured that the Techs will be supervised by a very capable person.

Honors for the most valuable man on the team should go to Tommy Card. Card lost only one match to his opponents during the season and only

LITTLE FELLOWS UNDER BIG COACH

Raleigh's Entry in American Legion Junior Tourney Working Out Under Doak

If you see a handful of youngsters cavorting about freshman field during the next week or two, don't be misled and believe that it is the State team of next year out getting a head start on the rest of the Big Five.

Yes, Mr. Charlie is out there with them and they look good, but they are only 17 year-older or below and that gives them away. They are Raleigh's entry in the American Legion's Junior Baseball Tournament out getting into shape for the coming campaign against some of the best teams of the nation.

This is a novelty for the city of Raleigh which has not been represented for a number of years. In fact the last attempt of a Raleigh team was so weak that the discouraged baseball lovers in the city lost interest in the tournament; the last team was eliminated by Dunn in the first round of the tourney by a top-sided score.

Mr. Charlie Doak, veteran State mentor, volunteered his time and knowledge of the game this year, in an effort to give the Raleigh youngsters a team that they could play on. His efforts will not go unrewarded as each boy who goes out for the team gets valuable experience and will be molded into an athlete who will be of great value to Raleigh High teams and maybe State teams in years to come.

The value of the tourney can be seen by the number of boy stars that are uncovered each year and who have made good in professional baseball. Among them is Buddy Lewis from Gastonia, who was a star third baseman on the Gastonia championship team in 1935 and who was acquired by the Washington Senators as soon as he graduated from high school.

then was he bested by the Southern Conference Champion, Morris of Duke. Alfred Oliver, a promising young sophomore, came through the season undefeated.

HARRELSON TALKS TO 'Y' CABINETS

Dean of Administration Delivers Main Address at Joint Meeting

At a joint meeting of the Freshman 'Y' Cabinet with the sophomore, junior and senior cabinets Wednesday night at 8:30 in the north end of the State College YMCA, members were addressed by Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration.

Wednesday night's meeting was the last meeting that will be held this year, this meeting having an attendance of 48 members, including students, board of trustees, and Col. Harrelson. The program began with an invocation by Professor Boshart, followed with a plate lunch. The music for the occasion was furnished by Gilbert Lipscomb, who played the guitar and sang. The board of trustees was recognized, and following this was a talk by Col. Harrelson.

New Officers Installed
E. L. Cloyd, dean of students, installed the new officers and cabinet members, and the installation was followed by short talks from the representatives of the four classes on the purpose of the YMCA at State College. These speakers included John Ogilvie from the Senior Class, Sam Moss from the Junior Class, H. R. McSwain from the Sophomore Class, and Jack Price from the Freshman Class.

A short discussion was then held on the Blue Ridge Conference, after which the cabinet adjourned.

ECPD REPORT OF SCHOOL TOLD OF BY HARRELSON

Dean of Administration Tells of Council's Report During Talk at AICHE Meet

Colonel J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, addressed the student members of the AICHE at their regular meeting this week, during which time he brought out some facts about the report of the ECPD group that visited the campus recently.

In his speech, Colonel Harrelson commended the progress that has been made in the chemical engineering department, and he also said that the ECPD had been well impressed by the department of chemical engineering. The dean of administration went ahead to say that the Engineers' Council for Public Development had some criticisms as well as some commendations for the entire engineering school. Six curriculae were inspected, and all six will be accredited.

The speaker added a word of advice to the seniors, and advised them to continue to be students after they leave this institution. He stated that it is necessary to keep up with the field after graduation, or it will get ahead of the graduate.

After the talk, D. W. Durham presented an award to David Colvin for having the highest average of any chemical engineering freshman. This award was a badge presented by the national organization, and was won by Colvin because he had an average of 94.1.

RATING OF "EXCELLENT" GIVEN STATE ROTC UNIT

ROTC Unit Rated As Excellent By Inspection Held Here Recently By Government

The Reserve Officers' Training Corp at this college has just received the rating of "excellent" following an inspection of the unit made annually by the United States Government.

In a letter to Colonel J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, Major General G. V. Horn Moseley commented highly on the showing made by the State College unit in the inspection, and he congratulated the students and the faculty on their fine cooperative work.

The "excellent" rating that was awarded this school was based on a thorough study of the training the student receives, discipline, leadership and morale. Instructors are also considered in the judging according to their proficiency and their ability to train the young cadets.

Students and instructors were observed by the judges in classroom work and on the drill field, and the decision handed down was a compilation of all factors concerned with the military department.

In commenting on the decision, Colonel Harrelson said that he thought that the military training on this campus one of the outstanding features of the institution, and that it was supported by students, faculty and alumni.

STUDENTS SHOULD GIVE REGISTRAR THEIR NAME

Mayer Says it Will Save Worry When Students Register for Summer Term

"If all the students who wish to attend summer school and are in school now will give their names to the registrar's office at once," said W. L. Mayer, director of registration, "it will save them a good bit of trouble on registration day. Their registration cards will be ready for them on that day, and it will eliminate their having to stand in line."

Registration for the summer session at State College will begin at 9 a.m.

Wins Honors

J. W. Pou, above, rising senior in animal husbandry at State College, has been awarded the Danforth Fellowship which will provide him with four weeks of study at St. Louis and at the American Youth Foundation Camp on Lake Michigan during this summer. The award is made jointly each year by the Purina Mills and the American Youth Foundation to a student in a leading agricultural college. Pou is very active in campus activities, having lately been elected editor of the Agriculturist, treasurer of the Ag Fair for next year, and member of Golden Chain.

on Monday, June 14 in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium, and will end at 5 p.m., on Wednesday, June 16. A fee of $2.50 will be charged to all students who do not complete their registration on June 14. Classes will begin at 8 a.m., on Tuesday, June 15.

The summer term at State College will be in accordance with the plans that are being carried out in the consolidation of the Greater University of North Carolina, and it will be conducted as an integral part of the regular college year under the guidance of the regular administrative staffs.

Besides the regular courses in technological training, there will be three short courses offered by the mechanical engineering department and the chemical engineering department to those who are already employed in particular fields of work.

SENIORS IN ROTC VISIT FT. BRAGG

About Eighty-five Military Seniors Make Annual Inspection at Army Reservation

Approximately eighty-five senior members of the State College ROTC regiment made an inspection trip to the U. S. Army reservation at Fort Bragg Tuesday, during which time they reviewed much of the latest in fighting equipment, and were highly entertained by the entire staff.

Riding in two large Greyhound buses, the students arrived at the reservation at 9:30, and from that time until late in the afternoon they were shown all types of war materials.

The officers at Fort Bragg had a regular program planned for the visiting students, which began with a demonstration by a battery of the 83rd field artillery. Following the demonstration of the field artillery, the students visited the gun sheds to inspect the new guns. The operation of the guns was explained to the visitors by an officer of the reservation.

One of the main events of the day came as the students were served an enjoyable meal when they dined with Battery "D" of the 17th Field Artillery. After the meal the ROTC seniors assembled in the day room of battery "D" and listened to an explanation of mess and mess management.

Following this the students visited the barracks of Battery "D", and went into the store room of this same battery. After this the visitors were shown the gun sheds and received an explanation of material and motor equipment.

The final event was the observation of the guard mounting and the firing of a sub-caliber gun of the 17th field artillery, after which the students again loaded into the buses and returned to the campus.
