

TEN SENIORS GET MEMBERSHIP BIDS TO PHI KAPPA PHI

National Honors Society Extends Offers of Membership To Ten Seniors, One Graduate Student, and Two Professors This Week

The State College chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity, selected ten State seniors this week for membership to their society. It was announced this week.

The ten students honored because of their scholastic records are: Joe T. Massey, J. P. Overcash, W. L. Colwell, P. J. Lyster, W. H. Fisher, Donald Sener, C. J. Dulin, Arthur Dammann, L. A. Ward and G. C. Alexander. The initiation of these men will take place in the near future.

At the same time that the seniors were chosen, the society selected one graduate student and two faculty members for membership. Francis Tripp was the graduate student chosen, and the faculty men were Dr. L. C. Hartley and Dr. C. H. Boettgen. They will also be initiated at the same time as the seniors.

In order to obtain membership in Phi Kappa Phi, the student must have an excellent scholastic record and be outstanding on the campus in his college work. These men are selected by the members of the honorary fraternity, of which Dr. R. S. Dearyne is president.

Campbell Selected Ag Club President

J. H. "Doc" Campbell was selected as president of the Ag Club at a meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock, at which time the group also approved the proposal for the new arrangement of funds allotted to the club.

Following nominations and discussions on the candidates, other officers of the club were also chosen. Joe Hamlin was selected to serve the club in the capacity of vice-president, Ed Boyette was chosen as the secretary-treasurer, and Charlie Hunter was elected reporter.

After the election of officers, Professor Gardner, adviser of the club, read a proposal which had been drawn up by an Ag-Forestry council concerning the division and arrangement of funds for the Ag and Forestry clubs.

A vote of approval was given to the proposal after a few minutes of discussion in which a few amendments were made to the original bill.

FIND SUCCESS IN CROP JUDGING

Pictured above are the members of the State College crop judging team who have just returned from a two week's trip in which they successfully entered the Intercollegiate Crops Contest in Chicago, and the American Royal Crops Contest in Kansas City.

The State College crop judging team returned to the campus Wednesday morning, having participated in two international contests, capturing a second and third place. The team, consisting of J. T. Frink, J. F. Giles, B. P. Jenkins and Van Watson, left Tuesday, Nov. 16, and during their trip they entered the Intercollegiate Intercollegiate Crops Judging contest in Chicago and the American Royal Crop contest in Kansas City.

SENIORS VOTE TO BUY CLOCK FOR MEMORIAL

Graduating Class Decides On Gift After Weeks of Discussion; Money To Be Collected By Treasurer

After several weeks of investigation and discussion, the Senior Class, at its meeting yesterday, voted to purchase a clock for the Memorial Tower as its gift to the college.

The gift was discussed after a report by Bob Blackwood, chairman of the gift committee, and the members of the class—practically all of whom are present—practically all of whom are present.

Each year it is customary for the seniors to leave some gift with the college when they graduate, and this practice has been carried on for many years.

Another Scoop??

In their usual manner The Technician is giving us another scoop, and the glorious news is, dear readers, that there will be another issue of the so-called humor magazine, the "Wataugan," this term.

This unexpected, unanticipated, and unthought-of news has so taken the staff by surprise, in the same manner no doubt it will take the entire Student Body, that not even a preview of this pun (?) magazine was obtained.

Now Is the Time To Cram Next Week Comes Exams

Storm Warning: Students of N. C. State College take care when venturing forth next Thursday, for a storm is expected to strike the campus at two blasts of the Power House whistle after 2 p.m. on that date. The full velocity of the forecasted storm will arrive here sometime between next Thursday and December 15th, depending upon the student's chart. A lull before the storm is being experienced now, but it would be advisable to begin to stay indoors this week-end, for the intensity of the storm may depend upon the conduct of the student during this lull.

HIGH HONORS WON BY JUDGING TEAM IN CONTESTS

State Crops Judging Team Captures High Honors; Van Watson Sets New Record For U. S. In Judging

After having travelled 3,500 miles, and covered 22 states, the State College Crop Judging team returned to the campus Wednesday morning, having participated in two international contests, capturing a second and third place.

In the participation in Kansas City, the team won third place in the entire contest, and each member received a medal. The school was given a $50 scholarship. Frink was the high ranking man on the State team.

Chicago, the squad captured second place in the contest, and Van Watson set a new high record for the entire event. He exceeded all previous marks when he set a record of 81.1 per cent. In this competition each man also received a medal, and the school was awarded a $100 scholarship.

For 14 years State College has entered a team in these contests, which are open to all colleges in the United States, and they have had high man for seven years. For five years out of these 14 they have had the winning team, followed by one other school which had had four winning teams in this period.

Professor J. B. Cotner, who is the coach of the team, also made the trip with the students.

Girls Now Patch Up Rifts All Because of Xmas Gifts

With the exam season well on its way, we are filled with that type of rage-fright known as pre-exam panic. But let us pause in our nightmares and direct our thoughts toward another great American collegiate tragedy, the Christmas present buying season. This is the time of year when that cute little one you met at the beach last summer chooses to write you letters full of sweetness and tenderness forgiving you for not writing to your own little darling since last September. She just knows her big college man has been so burdened by his studies that he couldn't find a minute in which to write even to her, but he hasn't forgotten her, not for a second. And won't he please come to see her before Christmas, she can hardly wait to see his dear, dear face again. With tears in your eyes you tear the letter to bits and dig deep into your pockets to buy your well-worn pair of trousers. Average results: a cafeteria book with all the twobit and most of the ten and fifteen cent tickets missing, a crumpled pack of cigarettes, room keys, a pencil stub, and from seven to (if you're lucky) 53 cents. You smile

What's a Student To Do?

WITH examinations less than a week off, professors and students are mopping their feverish brows and are doing their level best to find a convenient time when all the students can take the exams.

Only yesterday two of the professors of the school came into direct conflict when they both arranged an exam period for their students on the same hour of the same day. Both claimed the preference in the choice of time, and the students who take subjects under both of the professors now have two examinations scheduled for the same hour on the same day. Both men are adamant in their stand and both say that if a student misses his exam that he will receive a failure on the course. Many of the students stand to miss one or the other of the classes. So what's a student to do?

Just this. You go tell your professor, if you have the nerve, that you will report for his examination on the day and time that it is scheduled by the College. Every course you take is scheduled for a certain time, and if a professor changes this time to suit himself without regard to the conflicts he is causing his fellow faculty members and students, then he is violating a rule of the College. That is not your worry. You conform to the rules set down on the official examination schedule and let the professor worry about the rest.

There Is Still Time

BUT there is not much time left before the exams strike us squarely between the eyes.

Are you ready for them? Well, you have exactly six days to prepare yourself, and a great deal of knowledge can be crowded into your brain in those six days if you will get down to some real studying.

Maybe your professor will tell you that if you haven't already learned the data assigned you during the quarter it is too late to get it now. Many psychologists tell us that information that is learned through "cramming" remains with us longer than that which we learn over a period of time. We don't advocate "cramming" for exams, nor do we entirely agree with the psychologists, but we do advise that if you are uneasy about your exams you can gain a lot of good information between now and the time for exams if you really get down to work.

The psychological influence that your diligent attention to your studies will have upon the professor might well be considered. He will be paying strict attention to the students that are really doing their best to improve their work, and that fact might possibly have its influence when he considers the grade that you are to get. There are not many professors in this school who would not stretch a point to help a student who is really trying to learn.

Our Stand On Subsidization

THE most outstanding problem on the campuses of the North Carolina Colleges today is the question of subsidization of athletics.

What does subsidization mean? It means that services are obtained by payment of a subsidy. And how does the problem affect us? How can we expect to have athletic teams to compare in strength to the teams of other colleges that pay good money to get the best players. If a boy is trying to decide which of two colleges he will attend, what do you think his decision will be if he were offered an enticing scholarship by one school and nothing by the other school? You know what the answer would be, especially if the boy is poor and has to make his own way through college.

And that presents the question: How can we expect to compete against other schools that offer monetary enticements to the athletes when we can offer them nothing.

If every college could guarantee that no athlete would be helped in any way, then the question would be solved. But you will always have your rich alumni and friends who will offer inducements to the athletes just to give their team new life and more strength.

We give scholarships to art students to promote the art of the college. We give scholarships to students of religion to further the study of religion, and music scholarships are given to aid the school culturally. And there are many other scholarships of the same type. But to the men who actually work for the college through their athletics and who bring untold fortunes into the coffers of the school, there is no reward. One football hero will bring more good publicity to a college than a hundred students of music who go to school on scholarships.

Make this comparison: Name eleven boys on the campus who are enjoying the privileges of scholarships. What fame and what financial aid have they given the college? Now consider the eleven boys who compose the first string of the football team. What fame and what fortune have they brought the school? You know the answer.

If we can't give scholarships to our deserving athletes who are working in the interest of the college, then let's cut out all scholarships. After all, the athletes are merely making use of their talents, and what said the Lord to the servant who buried the one talent that had been given him?

What Is the Solution?

MANY students and faculty members have been asking themselves the solution to the cafeteria situation which has become more and more a problem in the past few weeks.

On Thanksgiving day, many of the State students could not get home for the customary turkey dinner. They had to be content with staying on the campus and having their dinner at the cafeteria. But, lo! when they went into the cafeteria, they found that the ravenous mob of outsiders who continually prey on their food had arrived a short time before. When they ordered their big turkey dinner, there was no turkey. You talk about burned-up students; you should have seen the boys who had their dinners taken from under their very noses.

And they had plenty of right to be mad. What privilege do the outsiders have that allows them to come into our college and partake of our excellent foods at a price they cannot match anywhere in Raleigh, not even if they stay at home and prepare their own food.

And, maybe you think that the restaurateurs of Raleigh are glad to see their customers leaving them and patronizing an establishment against which there is no competition. You are wrong. They are plenty mad about the whole affair.

Once upon a time, State College began selling its surplus milk to the citizens of Raleigh. The State Legislature put a stop to that when the dairymen of Raleigh began complaining. They also sold meat. This was also stopped by the State Legislature. The commercial florists let out a painful howl when State College began selling flowers at prices against which they could not compete. This practice was also stopped. The college then produced an ice cream that was good in quality but low in price. That business did not last but a short while.

The marketing of those food products did not directly affect the students, but it did create a stir in the private business enterprises of the city of Raleigh. Now arises the problem which does directly affect the students: that of getting rid of undesired patrons of our college cafeteria who are in no way connected with the school.

The State Legislature passed laws to protect private business of Raleigh. Now let them pass laws to protect the students against the influx of Raleigh citizens who are monopolizing their cafeteria.

HERE and THERE

by Dick Mackenzie

The cry has been to give a little dirt, and so with my typewriter in hand, I go on what might be a "scoop tour." The first floor of the Watauga appears to be a most fertile field, and so here is a scoop sheet from there.

I hear that rumors are flying fast about J. S. Campbell being highly intoxicated at the Loggers' Ball. J. S. swears that he's a total abstainer.

Maybe Jimmy Hubbard, the flash of Watauga, is losing his power. His girl . . . sent her sister in answer to an invitation so graciously offered by J. M. y. Friend of the family, eh? And who said that Jimmy couldn't intermission?

Louis Asbury, Duke of Watauga, was somewhat taken back when he was called on to show hospitality to an unwanted pack of visitors. They had their own good spirits, but Louis couldn't seem to muster his.

Julian Richardson, that pretty boy of the Meredith variety, kinda took off in the big way by going home for the week-end with one of the angels from out at the farm. He must have pulled out there.

I hear that Steve Sailer has gone "daffy" over Sally, the State College delight. Eh, what! Stick with her, Steve.

Musso has really shown the boys of State College what the correct definition of power should be. A fair one from E. C. T. C. journeyed all the way up, rented a suite of rooms at the Sir Walter, and paid her own way to the football games . . . all to be with Musso. Should he be known as "Esso" Musso?

Carl Plaster seemed to be having a big time down at the wrestling matches Wednesday night when some strange woman became so enthused that she practically embraced him.

H. B. Smith got his rooms mixed up at the Carolina Hotel again when he found out where he was, he beat his girl to the door by three yards. A good track candidate, no doubt.

Sidney "disGRACE" Rogers has at last decided to change to the architectural school. Why do seniors wait so long to make up their minds?

"Second Fiddle" Wetzell is down in the dumps since his one and only is sponsoring one of those Davidson dances. Brace up Bill, she'll be back . . . maybe.

Everybody's wondering who the little brunette was that had George Suther and Griffin Beatty on the run for a week-end recently. She's mighty cute . . . I've heard.

Well, now that the Thanksgiving holidays have come and gone, perhaps we had all better forget about eating turkey and begin talking turkey. . . though, with these dreaded examinations looming so near in the future, it is difficult to think of anything not connected with reviews and those long, dreary hours of cramming. . . If someone would only discover a cure for my ever-present case of "quits jitters" perhaps life would once again be worth living.

Speaking of the jitters, it seems that it takes more than a few exams to worry Bill Zachary and some of the rest of the turtle legs. . . Bill, known as the Culbertson of the State College campus, has started the contract bridge craze in Watauga. . . anything to keep us from studying. . . Pre-Season Dope Reveals Terrors As Strong Team

Sermonmen Will Open Season Tomorrow In Asheboro Against McCrary All-stars; Many Veterans On State Club This Season

With the excitement and worries of the football season now a thing of the past, followers of the fortunes of State College teams in the collegiate sports circles now turn their attention to the formation of the current edition of Doc Sermon's Red Terrors.

Beginning strenuous work last Monday the varsity basketball squad, under the able guidance of Coach Sermon, has been holding intensive practice sessions for the past week. An eager squad of almost 20 candidates was on hand at the Frank Thompson Memorial gymnasium last Monday afternoon to answer the call for the first organized practice of the season. The group contained, for the most part, men who have had experience at State, either veterans of last year's crack quintet or sophomores coming up for their first taste of varsity competition.

Headed by Captain Connie Mac Berry, rangy center and leading individual Southern Conference scorer last year, the squad has been drilling in fundamentals and going through a few light scrimmage sessions. It is very likely that the genial head coach will find almost all squad members in excellent condition inasmuch as most of the candidates participated in fall sports.

Veterans returning from last year's court battles other than Captain Berry, are: P. G. Hill, scrappy little forward; Bill Mann, Hill's sharp-shooting running mate; Eddie Berlinski, fresh from a successful season on the football gridiron; Selby Jones, versatile guard, who is certain to see plenty of action this season; Adolph Honeycutt, fleet-footed forward; and Jim Renjie, one of the stars of last year's varsity five. Merton Yorks, Louis Satterfield, James Hamilton, Charles Beam, and H. M. Von Oesen, reserves back from the 1937 varsity, represent much potentiality which Doc Sermon will undoubtedly convert into the finished product.

The up and coming stars of last year's freshman team include such sterling material as Bob Sabory, J. A. Stapp, Monty Crawford, Billy Payne, G. B. Dewey, H. W. Stroup, H. L. Cromartie, and others. Although the varsity did not quite live up to pre-season forecasts this year, Coach Sermon believes that with the year's added experience, the veterans should be at the peak of their form. With the addition of the many promising sophomores, the mentor is convinced that the 1938 varsity five should give the State fans something to think about.

Though the loss of Neil Dalrymple, last season's captain and all-conference guard, will be felt severely by the Red and White forces, the returning veterans, with the aid of the ex-fresh, should be able to provide a defense which is capable of doing plenty of damage to the opponent's attack. The offense, at this writing, seems to be quite able to take care of itself as the varsity quintet of last year was noted for its fast-breaking attack, accurate passing, and chukker shooting.

As a warm-up for the Roanoke game, scheduled for December 15, the Red Terrors will journey to meet the McCrary Eagles at Asheboro Saturday night at eight o'clock. The game is billed in the papers as a practice tilt, but the Eagle team is composed of many former Big Five court stars, such as Stuart Flythe, ace forward at State several years ago; Sherk Swing, who played at Wake Forest; and others. This same Asheboro aggregation defeated the State varsity last year in a similar game. They present a formidable array of hardwood artists which should give any team in the State a real battle.

Sports Glimpses

by Bob Blackwood

Football is king no longer! Already basketball, boxing, wrestling, swimming and the other winter sports are breaking into the limelight, and are absorbing the interests of sports lovers. Prospects for each State varsity winter team are good this year. Every squad is blessed with top-notch performers and with large squads.

Doc Sermon is probably the most fortunate of the coaches. He has four of last year's quint back covering in State gods. His only worry is that of finding a man big enough to fill the shoes of last year's captain, Neil Dalrymple. Doc has switched Jones and Berlinski from forwards to guards in an effort to bolster that department. Hamilton and Beam will give them a battle for the position all the way, however. Doc's worries cease when he looks at his forwards and centers. Hill and Mann are back and along with them are York, Honeycutt, Satterfield and Sapp, all fine performers.

At center Berry will be attempting to make this his third year as top scorer in the Southern Conference. He is ably supported by Von Oesen. The new ruling doing away with the jump, excepting at the start of each half, is certainly going to make the hoop game a fast one this season. I'm inclined to think that it will take a lot of the color from the sport, as the jump is always spectacular.

At any rate, a team will certainly need plenty of replacements to play a complete tilt. The jumpless game has been used in women's basketball for a long time, and what little I've seen of it hasn't impressed me much. The next thing you know they will be adding a side center to the five-man team.

The boxing team has been flooded with a large turnout; in fact they are out of equipment. Coach Regdon is enthused about his material and thinks that his boys will win a majority of their matches. His most improved man is "Windy" Arnot, who has really developed into a nice looking scrapper.

Captain Russell Sorrell of the leather slingers should really go to town this year in the 145-pound weight. Russ cleaned up in that weight at ROTC camp last summer against a man who will probably be his closest rival this winter, Jones of Clemson. Coach Hickman has his boys working out and he is well pleased with the material he has inherited. He has two letter men back from last year's aggregation: Captain Red Shiner and Charlie Cheslock. Both of these men are tough hombres and should give the State team some valuable points as the season progresses. I'm glad that Jess Tatum received recognition for his fine play this season and landed an end position on the UP All-Conference eleven. I think that a few of the other State players should have been rated better than they did. Berlinski made the second team, but other than Buzzer and Helms, many a Wolf was mentioned.

RING WORKOUTS TOUGHEN PUGS

State's leather slingers are hard at work every afternoon in the Frank Thompson Memorial Gymnasium in preparation for a grueling season.

Coach Regdon is leaving nothing to chance in his desire to turn out a championship team. The first three weeks of practice were devoted to schooling the candidates for the team in the fundamentals of boxing. These three weeks of preliminary work is in direct line with Coach Regdon's ultimatum to team members that either they be in the pink of form or they will not be permitted to enter the ring.

During this period the boys were taught the proper stance, how to weave and, most important of all, how to use their fists. From the improvement noted it seems that Coach Regdon has been doing some fine work.

All during the past week the boys have been using the 16 oz. gloves. The highlight of the week's sparring was the bout between Art Rooney and Russ Sorrell, team captain.

The schedule has not been completed yet, but it will include, besides the regular Big Five opponents, some really tough scraps. Coach Regdon has started a B team to give those fellows who cannot make the varsity an opportunity to gain experience. The B team will have a regular schedule of its own.

At the present time there is a crying need for new equipment, the most noteworthy need being a new ring.

This Week's Star...

Pictured above is Connie Mac Berry of football, basketball and baseball fame. Mac is State's second three-letter man since Ray Rex graduated from State in 1935.

'MURAL MUSINGS

by BOB COLEMAN, JR.

The all-campus wrestling champions were crowned last Wednesday night in some of the most exciting matches seen on this campus for some time. The fraternity grapplers had an edge on the dormitory boys by taking five out of the eight matches. For complete results see the bottom of this column.

This past week my average was 300 with four right, one wrong and one tie. The results were: 1st 1911 6-1st Watauga 9; 2nd 1911 6-1st and 2nd 7th 7; 4th 14-6th 6; 5th 7-1st and Basement South 9; Sigma Nu 7-SPE 0; AKII 7-Sigma Nu 0.

Swimming results: 25-yd.—Banks (2nd and 3rd South) 12sec.; 50yd back—Banks (2nd and 3rd South) 23sec.; 100yd—Sykes (6th) 58sec.; Plunge—Watson (3rd-7th) and Nichols (1st Watauga) tie; Dive—Fry (2nd 1911) and Sykes (6th) tie; Relay—1st and 2nd 7th 54 1/5.

The snow has caused a shift in the football schedule, so see Miller for the dates your team is supposed to play.

During the coming week the AKII's will play the SPE's and if the AKII's win they will be champions, and if not, the Sigma Nu's SPE's and the AKII's must play again. But, there seems to be little possibility of this. The AKII title is much stronger than the SPE's, and the AKII's have much better passing attack and defense. The AKII's have defeated the Sigma Nu's who have previously defeated the SPE's. The AKII's should take this one by two touchdowns.

ond three-letter man since Ray Rex graduated from State in 1935. Mac was born in Spartanburg, S. C., on April 9, 1916. He was brought up there and attended Spartanburg High School for two years. While there, he began to show indications of being a great athlete by being chosen All-South-Atlantic high school basketball center at the Washington and Lee tournament. He also played football and baseball. He left Spartanburg in 1932 and moved to Greenville where he attended Parker High School, playing one year of all three sports at his new school. He was chosen All-State end in football during his first year at Parker High.

After graduating he decided to attend State College, and enrolled the fall of '34, taking the textile course. He has played football, basketball, and baseball for the three years that he has been at State and starred in each sport. This year he has been given honorable mention on several honor teams, and in basketball he has led the Southern Conference in scoring for two seasons. He is a pitcher on the College nine.

TERRORS BATTLE CRACK QUINTETS

Winter sports at State College will have their official opening on Wednesday night, December 15, when Coach R. F. Sermon's edition of the 1938 Red Terror basketball team swings into action against the crack Roanoke quintet in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium.

This year's basketball schedule, released on Tuesday of this week, calls for 16 games to be played after Christmas. Included on this year's roster of games to be played are Georgia Tech, Georgia, and The Citadel, highly-touted 'aves that State did not meet last year. Absent for the first time in quite a number of years are the Virginia schools and Maryland. The complete schedule is listed below.

- Dec. 4—McCrary Eagles at Asheboro.
- Dec. 15—Roanoke College at Raleigh.
- Jan. 7—University of Georgia at Athens, Ga.
- Jan. 8—Georgia Tech at Atlanta.
- Jan. 10—Wofford at Spartanburg, S. C.
- Jan. 14—South Carolina at Columbia.
- Jan. 15—Clemson at Clemson.
- Jan. 17—Davidson at Davidson.
- Jan. 20—Wake Forest at Raleigh.
- Jan. 25—Carolina at Chapel Hill.
- Feb. 1—Duke at Raleigh.
- Feb. 3—Clemson at Raleigh.

FOOTBALLERS JOIN MATMEN

The State College matmen, under the able coaching of Herman Hickman, have been improving by leaps and bounds and give every indication of going through their rigid schedule in a successful manner.

The beginning of practice was delayed slightly by the football season, but now that the pluckin has been tucked away in the old mothballs until next fall, Coach Hickman has his large squad going at top speed.

Included among the members of the football team who turned out are Bunny Hines, scrappy little 165-pounder who has been showing great promise during the preliminary drills, Warren Wooden, a member of last year's squad, and Bill Matheny. All of them show promise of winning their share of the grunt and groan matches.

- Since the first day of practice, genial Coach Hickman has been putting the boys through various calisthenic drills, which include—Continued on page 4.
- Feb. 5—South Carolina at Raleigh.
- Feb. 7—The Citadel at Raleigh.
- Feb. 11—Wake Forest at Wake Forest.
- Feb. 15—Davidson at Raleigh.
- Feb. 18—Duke at Durham.
- Feb. 22—Carolina at Raleigh.

Oddities

At Chicago University class attendance is entirely voluntary. The student is advised to be his own teacher if he thinks he can do a better job than the faculty can do.

The students at N. Y. U. have gotten a nice lady goat as a mascot. Their first mascot, an elephant, had to be given to a circus.

because it ate up all the gate receipts.

At St. Thomas College a late comer to the physics class can't sneak in undetected. He must cross a light beam which sets off an alarm.

In Chicago a school has been opened for only those people over 70 years old.

The Fresno State College band gets "lit-up" whenever it parades. All the instruments are outfitted with neon tubes.

At Armour Tech in Chicago, all fresh refusing to wear the green freshman caps are forced to attend classes in their underwear.

At Stetson U. in Florida, a freshman defined revelry as "the signal by a drum or bugle about sunrise summoning soldiers or sailors to duty."

At Conception College, Missouri, a free lunch counter is maintained for "gentlemen" of the road.

A date at Detroit U. must have the following requisites, according to the undergrad paper:
She doesn't eat much.
She's good looking.
She doesn't eat much.
She's a good dancer.
She doesn't eat much.

JOB-SEEKERS' DON'T'S

By ARNOLD KROCHMAL
Fordham University recently began what is hoped to be the solution to one of the nation's most vital problems, job-hunting by means of a placement bureau service which will "manufacture and service" men for industry.

Dean Dwight Bracken, formerly dean of men at Illinois, has been placed in charge. He has conducted a year's research, during which time interviews with 9,200 students and a large number of business men were studied.

As early as their sophomore year students will be "pointed" towards definite jobs, and the plan will function on the theory that no employer is morally obligated to retain any graduate whose work is not satisfactory. The employer can return him to Fordham for additional training.

Dean Bracken gives ten "don'ts" for persons seeking jobs:

- 1. Don't high pressure yourself.
- 2. Don't think you can blow up the "old timers" once you get a job; it's a short cut to job suicide.
- 3. Don't say to yourself, "I haven't got what it takes." If you feel you haven't got what it takes, then go and get it.
- 4. Don't be bold—be meek—but it must be intelligent meekness.
- 5. Don't talk too much. Listen, be guided by your interviewer.
- 6. Don't pull a personality act—be natural—be yourself—your personality will sell you.
- 7. Don't think "There are no jobs left." There are more jobs available today for men who have basic character values to back up their training than ever before.
- 8. Don't feel that you've got to "start from the bottom up" in every job. Industry would rather you learn at a college's expense than at its expense.
- 9. Don't "know everything." If you did you wouldn't be looking for a job. Admit your limitations—it personifies intelligence.
- 10. Don't say to yourself, "I'll ram this down his throat." It's ten years old. Offer him something new.

Over Sixty Attend Chemical Society's Biennial Convention

The program for the convention included a showing of motion pictures by Major K. G. Althaus, a banquet at the Carolina Hotel, and a tour which included visits to the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, Duke University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, in addition to the regular business sessions during the meeting.

The State College chapter has 19 active members and six honorary members. The delegate from State was J. E. Moore, Jr., president of the college chapter of the fraternity.

The committees were: Program, V. F. Kasey, chairman; G. R. Killam and C. M. DeMarcey; entertainment, H. B. Smith, chairman; J. G. Bronson and W. L. Hunter; banquet, J. S. Yates, chairman, and J. L. Katz; hospitality, R. L. Huffman, chairman; Walter Repony, W. D. Jacobsen and A. J. Lowdermilk; transportation, Donald Sener, chairman; J. F. Seeley and N. S. Hertz.

rope-climbing and chinning the bar. After these beneficial warm-ups, the boys are taken outdoors to run a few laps around the football practice field; and then indoors again for some real grappling instructions and mat workouts. Coach Hickman seemed to be very well satisfied with the progress that the candidates have been making, and has high hopes of turning out a team of championship calibre this year. This will require lots of hard work and plenty of hustling, as the groaners are slated to come against some real opposition. Such ace grappling aggregations as Duke, Tennessee and Carolina will be encountered.
