Ted Jolley and J. B. Whitney Come Through in Competition With Students From Other N. C. Colleges

Over Forty Compete

One Man From Wake Forest and One From the University of North Carolina Also Get Nod; Part-Time Work To Be Given To Final Collegians Selected By Local Radio Station

Two State College students, Ted Jolley and J. B. Whitney, came through the fire of competition in the "Search for Talent" campaign held by radio station WPTF during the month of November and will now have a chance to show what they can do over the air.

The search was conducted from the 40 to 50 students of three leading colleges in North Carolina—State College, Wake Forest, and Carolina. One man from Wake Forest, Phillips, and one man from Carolina, Thurman, passed the test and will be given a chance to show their talents along with the boys from State.

The men selected will be invited back to WPTF for further auditions and at least one and possibly two will be offered part-time work the first of the year. Mr. Graham Poyner of the staff of WPTF said that they will not only be tested on their ability to speak over the air but also on their adaptability to radio, their ability to write commercial advertisements, and similar things. When asked what his advice is to the aspirants for radio Mr. Poyner said that the boys who combined dramatic and forensic work in their college work seemed to be the best prepared for radio.

WPTF plans to make this search for talent an annual event. All radio stations are on the lookout for new talent, and this seems to be a good way to bring it out.

YMCA Cabinet Members Give Christmas Presents

Some cabinet members of State's Y. M. C. A. have each selected an underprivileged child living in Raleigh and will endeavor to give these children a merry Christmas by presenting each of them with a toy on Christmas Day.

While they will be able to take care of several children, they can not begin to help them all, and anyone else who would like to play Santa Claus this year can get the name of some child at the Y. M. C. A. desk. Any inexpensive toy will do and the Y. M. C. A. will deliver it.

"Y" CONFERENCE HELD AT DURHAM

Delegates From College YM and YWCA's Guests of Duke Chapper; Kester Speaks

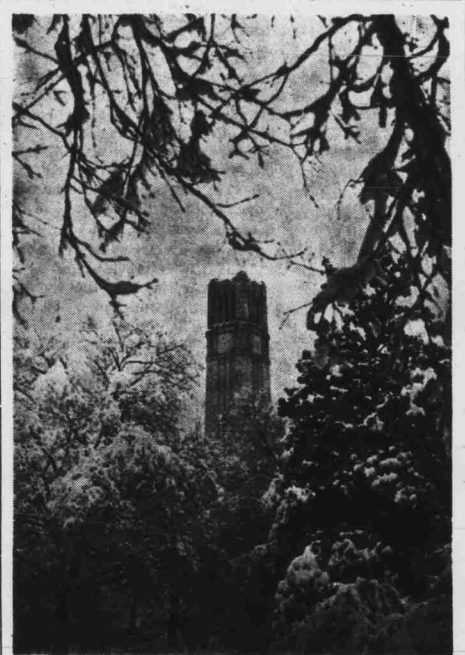

An assembly of over one hundred delegates from the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of the colleges of North Carolina was held in Durham at Duke University Sunday, December 5, and Howard Kester of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the committee on social and racial justice and principal speaker at the convention, spoke on the subjects "The Problems of Southern People in the Field of Labor and Other Problems Faced by Southern Workers and Students," and "What Religion Can Offer to Solve These Problems."

Kester's address dealt with the tenant farmer question, one of the most important and worst of the problems which the South faces today. Outlining the extreme poverty and distress of these people, he attempted to impress upon the assembly the need for a solution of this problem. Among the things advocated by Kester for the tenant farmers are: 1. Suitable quarters. 2. Schools for the children to attend. 3. Payment for labor in money instead of script redeemable only at the plantation owner's store. 4. The right to sell crops when and where the tenants please.

Presiding at the convention was Miss Carol Strauss, president of the North Carolina College Y. W. Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

At the afternoon session Miss Polly Pollack, president of the University of North Carolina chapter of the Y. W. C. A., gave an account of the work done by college students in the settlement houses in

Crams, Exams, Christmas Presents, Phony Hydraulic Pump Prove Too Much

By E. P. DAVIDSON

DEAR BROTHER: Have the way! Yes, in five more days I will depart for home, or some place like that. Right now I don't even know where I am, why, and so forth. Exams are here, Christmas is here, in fact everything is here but me. Right now I have something on my brain? that is all jumbled up with formulas, problems, answers, and something else. I just can't think what that is now, but as soon as I think of it I will write you.

What about your Christmas presents? I saw a nice hydraulic pump, composed of the locomotive of a freight train, two typewriters, and The Technician thrown in. I can buy it at the 5 and 10c store for $1.55, and you could use it to pass the exams that will be pushing you right now what is wrong.

If you should happen to see any scandal in the paper about anyone you know, just forget that you know them, or forget to read that part of the paper, or just forget. Of course it could be true, but when you can buy hydraulic pumps, fire engines, and the police force for $1.55, why bother to see if delta X plus two allowance brings a Christ-

30 AND 3 MEMBERS WILL ACT AS HOST TO VISITING TEAMS

Proposal Adopted By Members of Sophomore Leadership Society To Entertain Athletic Teams

Committee Is Named

Members Will Greet Teams On Arrival and Remain With Them During Stay Here; To Be Identified By Special Sweater of Society; Plan Approved By Athletic Coaches and Dean's Office

The Order of 30 and 3, sophomore leadership fraternity, has adopted a proposal for the formation of a greeting club for meeting visiting athletic teams that are to engage in contests on the State campus, and in this manner of hospitality will increase the prestige and interest of athletics here.

The duties of the members of this society will be to meet all visiting teams when they arrive here and remain with them until they terminate their visit. During this period they will assist in any manner possible to insure accommodations and service to the visitors. The members of the reception committee will be identified by a special sweater that has been adopted by the society. This sweater will bear an emblem significant of the purpose of the club, and it is to be worn by all members of the society during the entire period that athletic teams are staying here.

The proposal for the adoption of this duty by 30 and 3 came from suggestions presented to the society by the athletic coaches and Romeo Lefort, assistant dean of students. Similar greeting clubs are now active on campuses of the prominent schools throughout the country.

The establishment of such a group to extend the hospitality of the college to visiting athletes will do much to stimulate good feeling and interest between teams, and will also assist in making State College more prominent in athletic circles.

The proposal for the establishment of this greeting club was unanimously adopted by the members of 30 and 3 at their meeting last Friday night, and the committee will become active with the opening of the winter term in January. They will perform their first duties in the line of entertaining visiting basketball teams.

STAFF FOOLED THROUGH STORY OF "EXPLOSION"

The staff of THE TECHNICIAN was literally aghast Wednesday, believing that they had startling news to present to the student body. They received copy to the effect that there had been a large explosion in the Ceramic Engineering Department, causing untold damage to that department.

The copy read as follows: "A severe explosion in a pile of impure sillimanite in the Ceramic Engineering Department last Tuesday was followed by several other detonations, which wrecked completely a large water tank, several pieces of research apparatus, and blew two neat holes through a piece of sheet metal without moving it an inch. Those present agreed that there were between 10 and 15 concussion, with smoke and flame pouring out of a hole for two minutes or more. The immediate vicinity was darkened and totally obscured from observation for about thirty minutes."

"Before anyone was hurt, Professor R. L. Stone of the department rapidly made the necessary electrical disconnections, working calmly within twenty feet of the smoldering blast scene. After he got the situation under control, it became apparent that most of the serious damage had been done on a wall of the building."

A short paragraph accompanied the article, giving necessary explanations and also exploding the editor's belief that he had a scoop for the campus. It was finally revealed that the explosion had taken place in the department all right, but it had been shown in motion pictures that were being exhibited to a meeting of the American Ceramic Society. This particular film that brought forth the barrage of damage and copy was entitled "Dynamic: Types and Uses," and it was in the course of this film that all of the destruction had taken place.

Last Minute Advice From President Frink

To the Student Body:

Examination time is here again, and the Student Council wishes to take this last opportunity to urge the students to be honest with themselves and with their professors during the time of examinations. The Council does not wish to punish any student caught cheating on his examinations, but if cases do arise, then the Council will judge the offenders on the facts presented by the accusers.

There will be no second trial and no reconsideration of cases where students are accused of cheating.

Remember that the work you do during your stay in college is your own, and that you cannot profit by copying work that your fellow student does. Do your own work, and do your best.

We wish for you all a very merry Christmas. Very sincerely yours, J. C. Frink, President Student Body.

A Very Merry Christmas

AND that is exactly what the staff of THE TECHNICIAN wishes you to have when you leave here after the exams for your respective homes.

The staff of this newspaper is not composed of brilliant, eloquent writers, but they have done their best to give you timely news written in the most interesting style they know how to write. The members, without an exception, have diligently scoured the campus to make the paper as interesting as possible for you.

The reporters and the advertising solicitors who work for the paper receive no financial remuneration from any source. They work for you because they are interested in newspaper work, not because they are compelled to do a required amount of work. Nor do they receive any credit in their school work, although they should. They work for you.

And they take this opportunity to wish for you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year and to assure you that they will give you even better "Technicians" next year.

Bouquets for 30 and 3

THIS week the order of 30 and 3, sophomore leadership fraternity, passed a resolution for the establishment of a greeting club within the society for the purpose of meeting and assisting in the entertainment of all visiting athletic teams that engage in contests on the State College campus.

The value of this reception committee is indeterminable, but without a doubt it will do much to create not only a greater interest in our athletics, but wide renown for State. Such hospitality on the part of the State students to visiting teams will add much prestige to the College, and will do a great deal to boost our athletic rating in the South and elsewhere.

The members of the society have chosen a sweater bearing an emblem significant of their purpose, and it will serve as their mark of identity to the visitors. The members are to wear these sweaters during the entire period that the visiting team is on the campus. Through the establishment of this club, the members will perform a service for State College, and their sweaters will become a coveted and proud possession.

Thirty and Three is to be congratulated on this excellent move to further the fine spirit that is constantly increasing among students on this campus.

The Bitter With the Sweet

To the Editor:

ALL praise and a few bouquets for your splendid editorials concerning the cafeteria. Everything you say is true, and I hope you continue to say it, just as long as conditions persist contrary to the benefit of the student body. Your writings are a good step in the right direction, and I am sure that they will help bring about better conditions.

—A Student.

To the Editor:

I am in entire disagreement with last week's editorial concerning the cafeteria problem. I think it was a rather prejudiced and narrow-minded appeal to the students. Without even offering a solution to the problem by which both outsiders and students ought to benefit under some new system, you merely state that the outsiders are infringing upon the rights of the students in acquiring the chief necessity, food.

I believe it is due in a large part to the outsiders that our food is provided for us at such reasonable costs, and with this thought in mind, these town people cannot be prevented from partaking of the food at the college cafeteria. Then again, most of the outsiders have, in some way, been connected with the college, if not materially, then morally. I have seen numbers of them rooting for our team on the gridiron and at other athletic contests. They have certainly given the College much moral support. Should they be deprived of the college cafeteria service, it would create very detrimental results, by which many connections of friendship would be severed.

No one has complained of the meals served. They are of the highest quality. There is only one problem, and it has long been open for discussion.

How can students and outsiders benefit mutually under new regulations which will enhance and facilitate the service in the college cafeteria?—Harold Nass.

The bitter with the sweet. Mr. Nass, the writer of the preceding editorial, condemns the editor of this paper for his attempts to bring to light to the students the true cafeteria situation and how it affects the students of this College. I have offered no solution to the problem, he says. No, and I won't. I have a full-time job editing the news without taking time out to solve other people's problems. When we see a bad condition that affects the students, it is our duty, as newspapermen, to print the news and to give comments. We will let the men in charge of the cafeteria solve their own problems, and if they won't take necessary action, then we will continue to bring to light the bad aspects of the situation.

That a serious problem exists cannot be doubted by a man either in favor of, or against, any change in the cafeteria situation. And that many of the people who eat at the cafeteria are not connected with the College is another fact that is very true. And the crowds are getting larger every week, so where are we going to call a halt? If the crowd gets any larger, the cafeteria will not be able to provide for all, and from the looks of the situation, it is growing all the time.

Mr. Nass was correct when he said that we could not, at the present time, prohibit the townspeople from making use of the cafeteria. Laws of the State do not say they can't eat there. That is the principal reason we are trying to bring the bad condition to the eyes of the State law makers so that when they convene here next year, they will provide appropriate legislation for the benefit of the students.

And do you really think it fair to the Raleigh restaurateurs for us to allow the townspeople to eat at our College cafeteria where they can get good food at a price no cafeteria in Raleigh can compete against?

A Noble Gesture

THE fraternity men of this College are willing to do their part to see that the needy people of Raleigh have a merry Christmas.

The Interfraternity Council, represented by Tom Ragsdale, president of the group, presented a check for twenty-five dollars to the Goodfellow's Club, sponsored by "The Raleigh Times" and the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce.

This was an excellent show of spirit by all the fraternity men on the campus, and it shows that they are willing to share what they have with people not so fortunate as they.

It is often said that little sacrifices we make to give other people happiness are returned to us many times over. If we would all give a little more than we should to aid those in poverty, we would all be better men.

NATIONWIDE POLL HONORS SEVERAL TAR HEEL STARS

Collegiate Sports Writers Association Votes State's Berinski Position On Sixth Eleven; Rooney and Mark Given Honorable Mention

By STEPHEN SALLER (Technician Sports Editor)

Eighty collegiate sports writers in forty different states, from Maine to California and from Florida to Washington, have for the fourth consecutive year selected through the medium of the National Intercollegiate Sports Writers' Association their version of the 1937 football team.

The poll has been conducted yearly on a purely mathematical basis with no concessions being made to any player because of personal preference or because of the size of the institution which he represents. A vote was sent in by the sports' editor of every leading college newspaper in the country, and thus represents a national consensus given by those who are in a position best to judge the comparative merits of the potential gridiron greats. Any player who received mention from at least two colleges or a first team berth on the ballot of any one college, ranked at least honorable mention.

Robert S. Kunkel, president of the Sports Writers' Association, says, "I point with pride to the fact that the duplications of teams on this roster indicate the fallacies of many of the other All-American selections which attempt to pass the honors and publicity around to more schools and thereby pile up the recognition for one player on a team at the expense of others who are equally deserving.

"Can there be any doubt but what Franco of Fordham will not make several of the other All-American teams because of Wojciechowski. . . . and that Kilgrov of Alabama must suffer because of Monaky? Perhaps other All-American teams can be expected to have a California man on the first team because the brilliant record made by California warrants one. This team has none on the first team because no man from the California squad is of All-American first team calibre in the opinion of the eighty writers. But on the whole, the California team warrants more recognition than any other with three men on the second team and two on the third."

The State of North Carolina was well represented in the poll. Amos Berishak of Carolina rated an end post on the first team, Elmore Hackney of Duke was voted a back position on the sixth team, and State's own Eddie "Buzzer" Berinski, one of the greatest players who ever carried the mail for the Wolfpack, came close behind on the seventh eleven. Except for these three, no other North Carolina player made any of the nine teams in the poll. There were, however, some 470 footballers who received one or more votes from the scribes. Of this number 16 players were chosen from the State of North Carolina. Louis Mark of State, Eric Tipton of Duke, and Art Rooney of State were the outstanding members of this group.

Just a few minutes of before I begin to hit the books in earnest. . . . A tough life we college newspapermen have to lead, no rest at all. . . . Can't kick, though. It's a lot of fun even though our studies suffer. . . . I am turning over the sports editor's job to Steve Saller beginning with this issue and he will have the say-so about what appears on the sports page. . . . My attempts to improve the page during the last two terms may have gone for naught but the honest effort has been there. . . . My reason for retiring? Well, it seems that EE and worrying about stories don't mix. . . . Well, the Techs found Stuart Flythe and company too tough again this year. . . . Flythe's big league baseball doesn't seem to affect his court game in the least. . . . The Red "Terrors" showing wasn't bad at all considering that this was their first brush of the season. . . . Doc must have been intent on spilling the McCrary team, judging from the few replacements used. . . . Only six State men saw action in the practice game. . . . The play of Hamilton and Berinski is encouraging. They should make two valuable men in the ranks of the Sermonites. . . . With the return of James Rennie next term, the team will be further strengthened. . . . I like Bull Regdon's idea of having a B team in his boxing squad. He intends to arrange a schedule for the men who are not able to make varsity positions. . . . It should give inexperienced men some valuable help. . . . I've been finding a few minutes to get off and see the playoffs in the fraternity football round-robin. . . . The AKII's have one of the flashiest offenses ever shown in intramural campus. . . . Their reverses, passes, and laterals would make many a varsity coach sit up and take notice. . . . Adolph Honeycutt, AKII back, would make the Wolfpack a good triple-threat performer. . . . It is interesting to note how closely the Intercollegiate Sports Writers' All-American football team compares with the honor teams that have been picked by newspapers and boards. . . . I was given the honor of choosing two teams and my choices went in along with 42 other ballots from sports writers in colleges and universities in 40 states. . . . No writer could put men from his own college on the ballot but was given a space to mention the three outstanding players on his team. . . . I was glad to see that Berinski garnered a place on the 7th team. . . . It may not seem like much of an honor to place on a 7th eleven but it must be understood that these ballots, coming from all over the nation, naturally brought men on them from their own sections and therefore, the number of men from which the teams were picked was pretty large. . . . Berishak, Hackney and Berinski were the only Big Five men to land on any of the nine teams chosen. . . . A lot of the placements were due to intersectional battles played by elevens. Carolina gave Berishak a break by scheduling Fordham, N. Y. U. and Tulane, which Hackney received the benefits of the games played with Georgia Tech, Colgate, and Pitt.

Another intramural season has come to an end. The first of the season found the AKII's, the Pikas, and the Sigma Nus the favorites in the fraternity league. The Pikas were eliminated in their bracket by the AKII's who finished first. The Sigma Nus won their bracket, and the SPE's took the third bracket. In the playoff the SPE's were defeated by both of the other teams and the AKII's defeated the Sigma Nus for the championship. In the dormitory league, 1st and 2nd 7th were given the advantage by the pre-season d.o.p.e. This bracket ended in a tie between 1st and 2nd 7th, 2nd 1911, and 1st 1911. In the playoff 1st and 2nd 7th came out victorious. 2nd and 3rd South won the freshman bracket championship rather easily, and were unscared upon in their bracket. In the playoff the score was 6-6, but the championship went to 1st and 2nd 7th by virtue of four first downs to two. In the other sports 1st and 2nd 7th won everything else in the dormitory league. This includes horseshoes, swimming, and wrestling.

In the fraternity league the Pikas won horseshoes and swimming, and the Sigma Nus won wrestling. Immediately upon the opening of school next term, there will be a meeting of all the managers, and also a meeting of all managers and players at which Johnny Miller will explain the soccer rules. The standings, and the all-campus football team will be announced next term. Mr. Miller says that all entries for next fall sports must be in his office before the Christmas holidays. These sports include basketball, soccer, handball and boxing.

Intercepted passes gave the AKII's a 13-0 victory over the SPE's in the championship game of the fraternity league. The SPE's had blocked a punt on the one-yard line. After a couple of plays which failed to gain, a pass was thrown into the end zone where Honeycutt intercepted the ball and ran 105 yards for a score. The other score came in the last few minutes of play when Honeycutt intercepted another pass and ran 40 yards to score. Results for the week were AKII 13, SPE 0; 1st and 2nd 7th 12, 1st 1911 0; 1st and 2nd 7th 6, 2nd and 3rd South 6.

Desiring to get as much practice as possible, Coach Hickman has asked the Athletic Council to permit the wrestling team to return a few days before the Christmas vacation is over. The maisters' first match will be with Washington and Lee, last year's Southern Conference champs, and Coach Hickman wants the members of the team to be in good trim for the contest, as it has been a number of years since a State team has been able to beat a W & L team. This match comes off January 15. The last few weeks of practice has consisted mainly of light work-outs, such as rope climbing and running, and learning the fundamental holds and grips. Strenuous work-outs will begin as soon as the Christmas holiday is over. A number of men in the heavyweight class who were on the varsity last year have failed to come out because of the football season. However most of them will be willing and able as soon as the team begins competition. Coach reports a large number of candidates for the freshman team on hand, but very few with any previous experience. As yet there have been few freshman heavyweight candidates turning out, but it is not too late to do so. Any freshman wishing to try out for the team should report to the Thompson Gymnasium to either Coach Hickman or Captain Red Shimer any day at four o'clock or after.

TERRORS TRAIL ASHEBORO FIVE

Led by Stuart Flythe, former State College baseball and basketball star, the McCrary Eagles of Asheboro took Doc Sermon's Red Terrors into camp by a 50-38 count in a warm-up tilt played at Asheboro last Saturday night. The all-star aggregation took the lead at the start of the court battle and were able to hang on to it for the remainder of the evening. A free throw by Cockerham started the McCrary scoring, followed closely by a field goal tossed in the hoop by Royce. Cockerham added another singleton before the State quieted mapped out of its apparent lethargy. P. G. Hill, diminutive Tee forward, broke the scoring ice for the visitors when he tossed in a pretty shot for the first State points. The locals were out in front at the end of the half by a 22-23 score.

Flythe, who was also the star of last year's victory over his Alma Mater, led the evening's scoring by rolling up 18 points to feature the contest. The game, which marked the initial appearance of the Red Terrors this season, was the fifth for the McCrary basketballers. It was also their fourth win in the five starts. The new ruling which eliminates the center jump after a field goal has been scored proved quite popular with the fans, but wearing on the participants. The change was made to speed up the game and to provide steady action throughout. It seemed to accomplish this purpose very well Saturday night. Connie Mac Berry, aggressive State captain, led the scoring for the Sermonites with 10 points, followed closely by Bill Mann who rang up nine points. P. G. Hill, scrappy little forward, was the star of the contest, contributing seven markers to the State cause and playing a steady floor game.

FOOTBALLERS HONOR STARS

Eddie Berinski, shifty little back, and Louie Mark, spark-plug center, were voted the honor players of the 1937 State College Wolfpack. A custom inaugurated two years ago was observed again this year at a meeting held on Monday when the monogram members of the varsity football squad selected Berinski as the "most valuable player" on the team. This election makes him eligible to receive the State Theatre trophy awarded each year by Manager W. G. Eloe. Last year's trophy, which was of sterling silver, was twenty inches tall and was properly engraved before the presentation. It is thought that the cup this year will be a duplication of the one which was awarded to Joe Ryneska last year. Also at this meeting Louie Mark was named captain of the 1937 eleven. During the past season an acting captain was chosen for each game. This practice will be continued through next year, it was announced today.

Warren Sees Good Season

Yearling Cagers Show Great Promise In Daily Drills; Warren Worried Over Lack of Forwards.

Under the able tutelage of Coach Warren, the Techlets' quietest has been rapidly rounding into shape. The Baby Red Terrors have been practicing for the last two months in the gym, learning new plays and trying to fill the various posts. A large part of the work-outs in the last few weeks has been scrimmaging against the varsity. One of the main obstacles Coach Warren has been faced with thus far is the problem of filling the forward positions. There are ample guards and centers. It is hoped to have the matter straightened out by the time the first game rolls around.

The boys who have been outstanding in practice thus far are: Ray Smith, Granville Howell, Jimmy Waters, Grover C. Furr, Dick East, H. H. Richardson, F. A. Ackman, T. J. Fowler, J. W. Hollyfield and W. Brown. Other candidates for the team are: Charley Lennon, J. Fry, W. J. Sugg, E. W. Price, L. R. Johnson, G. H. Glass, H. L. Jordan, R. A. Lassiter, J. R. Wall, P. Avery, L. E. Gorrell, G. M. Linn, W. E. Harrison, H. S. Riddick and H. W. Fox. The schedule, which may be enlarged, is given below: North Carolina U.—January 14—here. Wake Forest—January 20—here. North Carolina U.—January 25—there. Duke U.—February 1—here. Mars Hill Jr. College—February 3—here. Georgia Military Academy—February 4—here. Wake Forest—February 11—there. Davidson—February 15—here. Odds and Ends of Gossip Picked Up On the Campus

Speaking of oddities, the best one that I have heard this week, or any other week in fact, was a little story told to the staff of THE TECHNICIAN by a college student. He said that he most innocently sent the first issue of the Watsons home, with the best of intentions of showing the family a product of the lower minds of State College. And to his surprise he received the magazine back in about a week, and it was accompanied by a little note which read: "If this is a sample, keep it, keep all future copies, and stay there yourself." And this can be verified by just asking. (No questions answered for any member of the humor magazine staff.)

If you have heard of funny jobs, here's one for the books. Last night I saw Charlie ($$$) Dunnagan, the magnate of the campus paper, hunting pennies in the city park. Charlie said that he was building up a little hope chest for weeks when he was shy of advertising and wanted to make a trip to Alabama. He's planning to take graduate work at the University of Alabama next year, just cause he likes the country (???)

McPhail, editor of the weekly of the school, is having a private telephone line installed to Meredith, in order that he might keep closer contact with the work being done on the business staff of the Trig. Someone said that he had been made honorary business manager.

Herb Whitley, the pride of Watsons, is making a special effort to keep his room door locked when he studies. Interference, of all kinds, seems to bother the lad. And then we wonder if he is, really studying for exams, or believes in the proverb: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Which brings up the subject of why we have examinations, anyway. Of course it would be nice if the professors just wished us a Merry Christmas, and told us that we wouldn't flunk, cause they didn't want us back in the class anyway, but that just wouldn't work. You see, they have got to have something to write away the time when we are on vacation, and what could be sweeter than grading a flock of papers. Of course they may use the system that someone spoke of that another professor used. They said that he took all the papers, threw them up a flight of stairs, and the ones that landed on the first step got an F, the ones that reached the second flight received a D, and so on. Anyway, you know that the best always reaches the top, so why worry. Of course, the fattest paper is the heaviest, but what difference does that make in overcoming the law of gravity, or something.

When Sailer read the paper last week he almost had convulsions. It pertained to a little article about some girl named Sally, and the bad part of it was that Steve didn't like it a bit. He didn't even pretend to like it, so it must have made him mad. The way that he has been slinging dirt at the rest of the campus, he should have expected a rebuttle.

I saw a student the other night working laboriously over some notes on a small piece of paper, and so, being curious, I had to poke my nose in. And to my surprise he was making out a gift list for Christmas. From the size of the composition he must be expecting to hold a family reunion, but anyway, the thing funny about it was his manner of selecting this gift for this member of the family, and such a gift for another unfortunate one. He was going to give mother a new razor, dad was to have a new traveling bag, and even sister was going to be the proud owner of a new overcoat. Now how this exactly figured into his plan, I don't know, but I still can't see what he was going to give his girl that he would have the nerve to borrow.

Oddities

The dean and 42 members of the class of '35 of Drake University marched around the campus carrying an ivy chain in a traditional ceremony. It wasn't till after the ceremony that they discovered it had been a poison ivy chain.

According to Professor Young, of the University of Illinois, laughter is 400 times more prevalent among college students than weeping. The chief cause of joy and gloom, he continues, are class marks.

At a recent union dance given at Purdue University, fellows could not attend unless they wore a flower presented to them by some coed. It was all a part of a plan by which the men were the weaker sex for three days.

At Washington University the male members of the A. S. U., a super-radical campus group, have refused to date girls wearing silk stockings in an effort to enforce a boycott against Japan. What about "unmentionables," comrades?

Complex College Life Gives Student Newshark the Bots

(Continued from page 1) mas present that you can use for train fare and study for exams with. Wait, now I am all mixed up.

Why worry if the Watsons fails to come out on time, 'cause they never do have to study for exams anyway, and if they did it would not help the student government erect a new memorial tower to play football with in a physics lab. If a slide rule worked backwards, could we add and subtract. Or can you do that anyway?

Are you working hard? Of course I never have to do anything, that is except study for exams, pound on this typewriter, cram, meditate in the library, date on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday night, attend meetings, worry about the Watsons, help McPhail call Meredith and go to a show. Now don't get worried, I have a whole day to do this, and besides they are thinking of giving us a 23-hour day and so that will make the task easier.

I am only writing a note to my brother, or is this a lab report, and why does it only snow in the winter time?

Sorry I didn't have time to write.

but I have been busy worrying why I couldn't find time to do anything, rushing to get nothing done in quickest time possible, seeing that I don't forget to remember to forget to come home when the paper is put to bed.

Sincerely, BROTHER, P. S. Dix Hill, here I come!
