

State Advances Into "Big Time"

NEW SPORTS EDITOR DIES

Universities of Detroit and Alabama Added to Already Stiff Football Schedule; Wade Ison, Charlotte News Sports Editor, to Handle Publicity

Wade Ison, former sports editor of the Charlotte News and one of the outstanding sports writers in the South, has been selected for the position of sports editor of this College by a committee appointed by the Athletic Council.

Ison will replace Fred Dixon, former sports editor of the College, who has been promoted to the position of news editor in the News Bureau. Dixon has served as sports editor for seven years.

Rounding out his twelfth year on the sports pages of the Charlotte News, having served nine years as sports editor, Ison leaves an enviable record which has placed him at the top of his profession in this State. His popular columns in the Charlotte News, "The Footballer" and "The Footballer's Notebook," are widely read and is considered one of the best.

The position of sports editor has long been connected with the News Bureau of the College, but is now a part of the athletic department. The nice salary that the position now commands will be paid by the athletic department and not by the College, as it has in the past.

Ison will be a valuable addition to the College because of his important contacts throughout the State, and the reputation that he has established for himself will make one thing certain—that all the sports copy he turns out about this College will be eagerly sought after by the local and daily papers throughout the State.

"Moving the well-known sports writer into the position of sports editor for the College is the third step that State College has taken in an effort to put the College into the realm of 'big-time' football," an official of the school was overheard to remark. "The first two steps in that direction," he said, "were the addition of the University of Detroit and the University of Alabama to the football schedule for the next season."

Visual Lectures "Y" Innovation

"Y" to Present Problems by Means of Movies, Illustrated Talks and Discussions

Sam Moss, president of the State College "Y," announced yesterday that a program of motion pictures will be presented in the auditorium on Wednesday, January 12, at 7 o'clock.

"This program," Moss said, "is the first in a series of programs based on a new technique for presenting social and economic problems, as well as life situations for discussion by student groups. The films in this series will be entertaining as well as educational."

For 45 years he was a member of the faculty at State College, and in 1932 he was made professor emeritus of mathematics.

During the period of nearly half a century that he taught, Professor Yates instructed several thousand students and was one of the most popular members of the faculty.

Late Registration Fee To Be Changed

W. L. Mayer, director of registration, announced yesterday that a new late registration fee of $2 for the first day and $1 for each additional day, with a maximum of $10, will go into effect next fall.

1,884 STUDENTS REGISTER HERE; RECORD NUMBER

Largest Winter Term Enrollment in the History of the College; 148 Students Not Permitted to Re-enter, 113 of Which Were Freshmen; Saturday Marks Final Day For Registration

A record number of 1,884 students, representing the largest winter term enrollment in the history of State College, registered Monday in the Frank Thompson Memorial Gymnasium, according to figures released by the registrar's office.

With the rest of the week still left for late registrations, this enrollment surpasses by 109 that of January, 1937, when 1,775 students entered school.

There were 250 students less registered than attended school during the fall term. Of the 2,114 registered in September, 69 withdrew after school started. Because of their failure to maintain a credit average, 148 students were not allowed to re-enter. Of these, 113 were freshmen, 22 sophomores, 9 juniors, and 4 seniors.

Included in the total registration this quarter were 7 new freshmen, 7 transfers, and 41 uppermen who did not attend school in the fall and have returned.

The total enrollment of individuals last year was approximately 2,000, compared to approximately 2,200 so far this year. The number of individuals means the number of different students registered during the year.

January 12 is the final day for registration, and after that only students with express permission may enroll. Saturday is also the last day for changes in schedules.

Professor Yates Taken By Death

Died During Holidays at Rex Hospital Following Long Illness

R. E. L. Yates, professor emeritus of mathematics at State College, and one of the most widely-known educators of North Carolina, died at the Rex Hospital on Friday, December 24th.

Born near Raleigh in 1866, Professor Yates attended the Fry and Morson College here and Wake Forest College, where he made an excellent record for scholarship, receiving his master's degree in four years and graduating as salutatorian of his class.

In 1891 he was elected adjunct professor of mathematics at N. C. State College, and in 1906, after spending a year in study at the University of Chicago, he was promoted to professor of pure mathematics at State. He married Miss Minnie E. Johns of Auburn in 1892.

Professor Yates was a member of the honor society of Phi Kappa Phi and the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, a national educational organization.

For 45 years he was a member of the faculty at State College, and in 1932 he was made professor emeritus of mathematics.

During the period of nearly half a century that he taught, Professor Yates instructed several thousand students and was one of the most popular members of the faculty.

Zekaria's Speech Wins Recognition

"Flight From Bagdad" Chosen Among 31 Best College Speeches In Contest

An oration by Harold Zekaria, "Flight From Bagdad," has been chosen one of the thirty-one speeches written and delivered by college students in the United States during 1936-1937 most worthy of publication.

The selection was made by Eran E. Anderson, professor of speech at Gustavus Adolphus College, from a national survey of prize-winning speeches made during the past year. Including speeches made in the preliminary and final contests, over 5,000 orations were entered in the competition.

This is the third national honor in oratory to come to State College within the past twelve months. Last spring two speeches by J. G. Gaw were published in similar collections.

Zekaria has recently returned from the Dixie Tournament at Winthrop College, where he won four contests in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, after-dinner speaking, and impromptu speaking, the first time in the history of the tournament that one man has won events in four finals.

JUST DREAMING BUT GEE, THESE WOULD BE NICE

Some New Year's resolutions we would like to see:

"If you've overslept any of your classes, except my office and I will mark of your cuts. I ain't even going to ask for any more excuses. I been being too hard on the boys."—Dean E. L.

"I'm getting off of this fence I been on so long. From now on, what I say is law. Got it?"—Colonel J. W.

"I ain't hunting up no more football players. If they want to come they got to look me up."—Yon Glahn.

"You college boys ought to have more spending money. If you're running short of change, drop by the office and let me fix you up a little loan. You can pay me back any time you get ready."—Treasurer Bowen.

"I'm going to put in a bar on every dormitory floor. The only ain't no use in making the boys go all the way down town for medicine to cure their colds."—Wellons.

"If you got any changes you want made in your roster, I won't charge you nothing. Drop by any time for a friendly chat."—Mayer.

"I'm going to make yarn manufacturing a crisp course. You got nothing to be afraid of in my class."—Short Doc.

"Ditto for my courses."—Dean Nelson.

"I'm going to cut my exams in half. They ain't no use in making my boys sweat for fifteen minutes."—Appreciation of Fine Arts.—Paulson.

Council Considers Drastic Revisions

State 'Y' Men Represented At SCA Meet

Attend National Assembly of Student Christian Associations Held In Ohio

State College was well represented at the National Assembly of Student Christian Associations, which was held at Miami University and Western College, in Oxford, Ohio, from December 27 to January 1, 1938.

There were approximately fifteen hundred delegates from colleges in every state of the Union, and fifty delegates from foreign countries were represented at the assembly.

All the delegates from North and South Carolina went on a chartered coach, which left from Asheville.

The assembly was divided into ten commissions, in which the following important subjects were discussed: The Student and Campus Living; New Relationships of Men, Women, and the Family; The Church in the World Today; Economics and Labor; The Student as a Citizen; Strategic Vocational Opportunities; Students and the Christian Faith; Students and the World Community; The Christian Group on the Campus; Students and the Educational System; and Students and Agriculture.

Meeting every morning, the students in each of these commissions discussed, among themselves, the miserable bits of humor that The Wataugas has been throwing at the students for their own solutions. At a meeting of the entire conference on Saturday the resolutions adopted by each commission were read and passed on by the group.

That Ace Krochmal does not lose his zest for working, or at least his talking about it. . . . that Jimmie Hubbard be more polite to young ladies who greet him so profusely in the five-and-ten. . . . that an upholstered chair be put in front of Boon-lesley's for Johnnie Miller. . . . that someone bring Myrna Loy to Mid-winter. . . . that Ed Davidson will be able to return to the staff of THE TECHNICIAN. . . . We had better cease all this crystal gazing at this point. Perhaps we are asking too much of Kid 1938.

Late News Flash

Reports from an unidentified source late last night revealed that more than 120 Meredith College students were put on strict campus for a minor violation of a rule. Reporters' attempts to get the true facts about the case were fruitless.

STUDENTS INVITED

All State students are cordially invited to attend the meetings of the Methodist Young People's Epworth League, held every Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the south auditorium of the 'Y'.

Frink Terms Proctor System "Old" and "Inefficient"

NEW CAMPUS SPIRIT

Modified Honor System to be Substituted; New Rules for Daily Quizzes; Alterations to be Made in Organization of Council; Board of Review Already Functioning

"Placing professors in classrooms during examinations to act as spies or detectors is a flagrant breach to student integrity," was the opinion of the campus leaders of the American universities when they convened in New Mexico during the holidays to discuss current campus problems.

Returning from the convention, J. C. Frink, president of the Student Body, immediately went into action and put forth a plan by which the Proctor system, now in use on this campus, would be replaced by the honor system, which is in use in the majority of colleges and universities in this country.

"It is our desire to make these changes because the atmosphere has changed greatly in the past half year on this campus," said Frink. "We believe that the school is again ready, and even asking, for the honor system which was taken from them four years ago."

Under the new plan, which is being supported by a large number of students and many of the faculty, a somewhat modified honor system would replace the Proctor system, which requires a professor to be responsible for his students' actions on examinations and quizzes.

Other minor changes which have been proposed are changing the structure of the present council and other small details which will be published at a future date.

"Besides the plans we are making, the council has been active in its regular duties," Frink said. "Three boys were expelled for cheating on their exams and quizzes. A. L. Novitski and A. L. Jolly were expelled for one term, and H. M. Sparger, who appealed his case to the Board of Review, was also expelled for one term for copying a chart from a textbook during a quiz. The board upheld the decision of the Student Council at its meeting yesterday afternoon."

Cloyd Celebrates 20th Anniversary

State Dean of Students Passes Second Decade of Service To College

On Wednesday of this week Dean E. L. Cloyd celebrated his twentieth year of service at N. C. State.

For the past 17 years he has held the position of Dean of Students and as such he has come into contact with more of the Student Body than any other administrative official. He is well known for his friendliness toward the students, despite the fact that he is chairman of the disciplinary committee.

When interviewed at his office in Holladay Hall, he declined to go into details inasmuch as the term has just begun and the many routine matters to be attended to have kept him extremely busy. He did say though that he intended to work for the next twenty years and maybe twenty after that.

The College officials have already expressed their best wishes and THE TECHNICIAN also wishes to take this opportunity to congratulate Dean Cloyd for the splendid service he has rendered the Student Body.

Book Written By Lockmiller

Published By University Press, Book Will Deal With U. S. Intervention In Cuba

Magoon in Cuba, an account of the second United States intervention in Cuba (1906-1909) under the Provisional Governor Charles E. Magoon, written by Professor David A. Lockmiller of State College, will be published late this month by the University Press.

Dr. Lockmiller, Assistant Professor of History and Political Science, discusses in detail the causes and course of the intervention. The numerous problems which beset the Provisional Governor are discussed—problems of the census, public order, public education, options to purchase church property, and government aid to cities. He treats of the extensive public works, health and sanitation program carried on.

The book, 265 pages long, is being printed by the University of North Carolina Press at Chapel Hill and will sell for $3.00.

To Have One Term Of Summer School

There will be but one summer school term this year, according to a new ruling by the college, which will replace the two six-week terms which have been used in the past.

The summer session will begin on June 13, and will close on July 22, and many new courses have been added which will give the students a better possibility to catch up with work they are required to complete before they can graduate.

The summer school catalogue is now ready for distribution, and copies may be secured from the Registrar's office. Several new engineering courses will appear on the new summer school curriculum. The new courses have been added primarily for the convenience of the South's engineering students who cannot obtain instruction in those courses at their schools during the regular school year.

These new courses are expected to attract many outside students to this campus.

New Textile Course

The Textile School of State College has added a course in cloth calculations to its curriculum this quarter. This course is to be only one quarter long and has a value of three hours toward graduation.

Professor Shinn is to be the instructor. The course in cloth calculations is to be an elective, but it should be very beneficial to all textile students, especially so to those who are specializing in weaving.

rect the habit before it becomes indelibly marked in their character. Those people should be helped.

But what queer quirk in a man's make-up makes him eager to make another man break a resolution? If I decide to stop smoking, I am beset with friends offering me cigarettes, those who never thought to offer them before I made my resolution. Instead of helping you to keep your resolve, they thoughtlessly let the smoke from their cigarettes waft to your nostrils; and is there any greater torment or any greater test of will than the offering of such a temptation?

Or let a man swear off drinking, and he immediately has more invitations to drink than he has ever had before. The reason for such an action must lie in the fact that others are afraid to put their will power to a test, and are afraid that someone else is accomplishing something they cannot even attempt.

At any rate, man is a funny creature in such respects.

What About Our Honor?

HAVE you ever tried to concentrate on an examination with a professor stomping up and down between the aisles en garde to see that his students do not cheat?

And isn't that a fine way to place a student on his honor! We are told that when we enter a room to take an examination, we are placed on our honor, and that if we take the work of another person, we are merely hurting ourselves. Yes, placed on our honor!—with the professor ever on the watch for cheaters, and his appointed stooges, who have accepted his appointment because they were required to do so, supposedly on the lookout for "cribbers," whom they would not report at any cost.

We are men. And we are old enough to realize that if we cheat on our examinations, we are not helping ourselves one particle. Nearly all the schools in this country place their students on their honor, for they psychologically figure that by doing this, the student is given more responsibility. Few men will violate their honor, but many do not feel that their character is hurt when they are able to gain a little information when the professor has turned his back.

Put the preceding statement to a test. You have been on classes where the Proctor system was in use. When the professor left the room for a minute, the room was immediately filled with a subdued buzzing of many voices. Compare that case with one where the professor enters the room, puts the quiz on the board and says, "You are on your honor, gentlemen, if you have an honor." Then he walks from the room, leaving a class of boys who would look disdainfully at any student who even attempted to violate his honor.

And that is the system that we should use. Proctor systems versus honor. What is your choice?

N. C. STATE

Are You Prepared for College?

ARE our freshmen fully warned of the perils and pitfalls that confront them in their attempts to get an education?

An alarming percentage of freshmen who enter this college fail to pass their work, and only one out of every three students who enter these portals ever receives his degree. Does such a showing not prove that a great number of freshmen are not thoroughly prepared for college work when they are admitted?

And what is the solution for such a problem? Why not make the entrance requirements more stringent so that we will get only students who will be able to make the grade. By doing this, the rating of the college would be raised, and we would graduate a higher type and more thoroughly prepared student into industry.

Our work here is hard. Were it not, we would not have such a great number of students flunking their work. Hard work gives a student a firm footing in his selected vocation, and if the student is not thoroughly equipped with certain fundamentals which are necessary to him in his future college work, then he should not be admitted to college until he possesses the necessary requirements. This will serve to his advantage in the long run, for he will be able to understand his work and he will be on a more equal footing with his fellow students.

It is generally known that all a student needs to enter this school is sixteen acceptable high school units, or credits. But a man who barely managed to get his credits from high school will have a difficult time passing his work in college, and it is doing him harm to allow him to take college work he has little chance to pass.

GLEANNINGS

By THE STAFF

Back to the controls of my trusty typewriter, which has been standing idle for the past three weeks, and reaching far back into my mind to find choice morsels of gossip to feed to you. But after my week of pre-exam legging, my mind is rather befuddled and my fingers tremble at the keys of this machine, but now is a good time for me to get even with a few of my good professors who had me thinking of the good grades I was due to get; who threw me a curved ball when I turned my back. Man and boy, I've walked these paths of State College these three years, but never before have I seen such intrepid and intricate legging. I did my share, but I'm slipping fast. One professor even had the audacity to tell me I should try to study to get a good grade instead of trying to inveigle one out of his cruel soul.

After staggering from my exams, I packed my gun, boots and roommate, talked the pater out of a few crinkly bills, and headed straight for the coast for duck and deer; and saw not one duck and only one deer. But walking through the vast forests in the deep recesses of Brunswick County helped me forget the evils of exams, even if I didn't get any game. And sitting around a large open fireplace with the flames from large oak logs licking around a mess of tasty oysters, and spinning yarns with the native fishermen, is a life I really enjoy. You've never had the best in life until you can sit around the campfire at night after a good day of hunting. You don't need an education to enjoy that kind of life.

After living in this big city, going home to my small town was an event. Fairly teeming with excitement, the whole town turns out to see the trains when they come by. Other than the trains, we had little excitement, other than a drunk man falling down in the middle of Main Street, a dog getting run over, a young divorcee, just moved to town, who will give the scandal-mongers enough gossip to feed on for the coming year, and one good street fight climaxed my two weeks of vacation thrills and excitements. Wow! I ran across the strangest bird dog, and probably the best, I have ever seen. No ordinary dog, this one. In fact, his intelligence makes me blush with shame, as it will you, if you will read further. We took to the woods with this dog early one crisp morning in a valiant search for the elusive "feathered dynamite." After a three-mile trek without a point, my dog suddenly darted around a hedgerow and I lost sight of him; then, with the speed of a bullet, one bird hit the air, and I missed. Another bird got up and I shot him. Then another came by me, and another, all in singles. I wondered why they were going in singles rather than in a covey, as is customary, so I stopped shooting and peeped around the hedge; and you would never guess what that fool dog had done. He had run a whole covey of quail into a hollow log and was sitting contentedly on the log with his paws blocking the entrance, letting one bird loose every time he heard me shoot. Now there may be some skeptics who do not believe this, but they will have to admit that mine was a real bird dog. Boy, he was red hot that day!

None of the riff-raff for me. I was sitting on the edge of an express truck on the station grounds one day last week, waiting for the Southern States Special to pull into the station, when a not-too-impressive gentleman sidled up to me and began making talk. Being a smart college lad, I immediately began to convince the gentleman that maybe I wasn't quite as dumb as I looked. Well, we chatted until the train came, and by that time we had gotten into the arm-in-arm friendship stage; and he asked me to go with him to meet his wife. Well, she turned out to be the pretty Virginia Moore who can be seen on almost any Saturday Evening Post or Cosmopolitan frontispiece, or in one of the cigarette advertisements. Boy, she was keen. And who do you think I had been slapping shoulders with all the while? None other than the famed McClelland Barclay, the world-renowned artist. And I stratted home like a peacock with the feeling that I had done something big, but when I excitedly told my friends of the incident, they sorta nodded to one another with that knowing look. Then I slunk home via the back alleys.

Taking off to Lumberton one night last week in white tie and tails for a holly-toity shindig, I met one of the fairest of the fair and had

State College will have a livewire sports editor in the personage of Wade Inge, former sports editor of "The Charlotte News" and writer of the popular sports column, "The ISONGLASS." . . . I once did a piece for a little weekly paper he owned. . . . And popular Fred Dixon, the former sports editor, has been moved up a notch in his organization. . . . Thinking how easy it is to filibuster on paper; as I have been doing for so long a time. . . . My hardest job over the holidays was keeping a roommate along the straight and narrow. . . . Dr. David Lockmiller, plenary government educator, gets my vote for being the best professor who ever came down the pike; and this corner eagerly awaits his plunge into big-time politics. . . . And closing this column with a hope that breaking New Year's resolutions doesn't necessarily shade one's honor; I'm fading fast.—DICK McPHAIL.

"Big Time" Football

IS State College really going "big time?"

It evidently is, what with the addition of two great colleges to its football schedule for the next season and the addition of a real, live-wire sports editor, fresh from the sports pages of the Charlotte News, one of the State's leading daily newspapers.

And how do you feel about our plunge, or our first attempts to plunge, into big-time football? Maybe you feel that we have lost some of the sport of the game. Or perhaps you think that we are turning a sport into a business venture. And you are probably right in both surmises.

But why can't we make some money on the biggest drawing card in sports this country has ever known? If people are going to pay their hard-earned money to see football games, then it is up to us to furnish them their money's worth. They are paying for a football game, not for love of the college. No, you say? then why do we not have the large crowds for the small games as we do for the games with well-known schools? If it were for the love of the school that our alumni and friends turn out for the games, then they would be as well satisfied with seeing the cheaper games with the smaller schools. But they want football, and if we are to keep pace of the other large North Carolina colleges who are making their bids for bigger game, then we must follow their suit and go for the big game ourselves.

And what better publicity can a small college get than being heralded as a producer of fine football teams? I think that such publicity, in itself, is cheapening, but can you think of one thing that can bring more and better publicity to a college than a good football team? I can't.

That the officials of this and other colleges near us have recognized the publicity value that lies in a good football team and the profits that go with it is very evident for they have sanctioned the new schedule and have gone to the expense of getting a widely-known sports editor who will help put this college on the map.

About These Resolutions

IS it hard for you to keep your New Year's resolutions?

Well, if there is any test of a man's will power, then keeping a beneficial resolution is one of the best tests known. To make a resolution is not a hard job; to keep one is a real task, for usually it requires giving up something we have become attached to, or doing away with some practically unbreakable habit we have formed.

But some people make resolutions with no intentions of keeping them. Those are the type whose will power is weak. But many people see where a bad habit has become a hindrance to them, and they resolve to cor-

Will He Bid $10.00 or $40.00?

Fletcher Valentine knows tobacco values...like so many other independent experts he smokes Luckies!

"I'VE bought 4,000,000 pounds of tobacco at auctions in the past ten years," says Mr. Valentine, independent buyer of Westfield, N. C., "and my bread and butter depends on making the right bids. That's why I have to know tobacco values."

"Now I've smoked Luckies ever since 1918, and the reason is, they suit my taste to a 'T'. Nobody knows better than we tobacco men that Luckies are made of the finest center-leaf tobacco."

Yes—and that isn't all...Luckies' exclusive process, "It's Toasted" takes out certain irritants naturally present in all tobacco—even the finest! The result is that you will find Luckies not only taste good but are easy on your throat.

Surely, independent experts like Mr. Valentine make good judges of cigarettes. . . . Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined!

RED TERRORS OFF TO MEET GEORGIA IN SECOND BATTLE

Opening Game With Roanoke Cagers During Holidays Shows Up Numerous Rough Spots In Terrors' Court Game

State's fast-stepping quintet will leave today for travelling games with Georgia, Georgia Tech and Wofford.

The outlook is bright for victories for the Red Terrors if the brilliant form they displayed in the Roanoke game is brought into use.

Doc Sermon's proteges looked good in that game as they snapped the visitor's winning streak. The State quintet was unable to get started in the first half and was able to tally only two field goals, one by Berry and the other by Mann. The Terrors kept on breaking through the Maroon defense, but were unable to sink their shots. They lacked pep and were sluggish. The half ended with the visitors leading by an 18-8 score.

The second half was a different story. Coming back after the intermission the State team displayed an amazing reversal of form. They seemed revitalized and began sinking difficult shots from all angles. Their defense tightened and their offense began to click.

With only a minute to go the score was 23 to 23. Bill Mann sank one that apparently clinched the game, but Roanoke came right back to tie the score, and the game went into overtime.

The Maroons scored five points within three minutes of play. Then the Terrors started to work.

Berry started by sinking a charity toss. Mann added two more points on a follow up, and the score was 34-23 with two minutes to go. Mann made good on his first free try of the game to knot the score at 34-34 with 50 seconds to go.

With five seconds to go Hamilton intercepted a pass and passed to Mann. Working the ball in, Mann leaped into the air and sank a beautiful left-handed shot to win State's first collegiate contest of the season.

OUTLOOK GLOOMY FOR MAT SQUAD

Despite Coach Hickman's mournful statement that the wrestling team is in poor condition and that there is little hope of their winning the season's first match against the strong Washington and Lee aggregation, the boys have been drilling nightly and have been improving with each session.

The choice of Washington and Lee was an unfortunate one for an opening match, but January 15 was the only date on which a meet could be arranged. The Generals won the Southern Conference championship last year and finished second in the National Intercollegiate wrestling matches. However, Bunny Hines reflects the team's sentiments by saying that opening with a strong opponent was like pulling olives out of a bottle; get the first one out and the rest just fall out with ease.

Most of the grapplers were employed during the holidays, and so the squad was unable to get in any practice. However, since the beginning of school, Hickman has had them making up for lost time. Prospects brightened considerably when it became known that George Fry would wrestle. Fry is big and fast and would gladden any coach's heart.

The team is pointing for its match with V. P. I. which will be held in the Frank Thompson gymnasium on January 24, and they hope to be in top form by that date.

Sports Glimpses

By Stephen Sailer

Numerous happenings of athletic importance have taken place since we all turned our backs on final examinations, packed the old suitcase, and headed homeward for a well-earned vacation. . . . Southern Conference moguls gathered at Richmond for their annual ball session and as usual the ever present topic of the paying of college athletes dominated the discussion. Practically the first thing accomplished was the discarding of the Graham plan by an almost unanimous vote.

State continued to step-up its pace in the big time football round-up when it scheduled the University of Detroit for November 12 to complete the 1938 schedule. . . . Doc Newton, attending the annual coaches meeting in New Orleans, closed the deal with Gus Dorais, coach of the celebrated Detroit eleven. . . . The Titans had the nation's high-scoring team of 1937, and along with Alabama make up one of the strongest schedules ever arranged by State officials.

Dick Thompson, crack end on the 1937 Wolfpack and one of the finest backs that ever came down the pike, has been appointed physical education instructor at Piedmont Junior and Tech High Schools in Charlotte. . . . He will also coach at the latter. Best of luck, Dick. . . . State fans will be given their first glimpse of Coach Regdon's current ring squad tomorrow night when the boxers meet the strong Appalachian aggregation at Richmond.

Doc Sermon's Red Terrors have been given a considerable boost by the return of Jim Rennie, elongated guard who hit the old hodp with startling regularity last year. . . . With Berry, Hill, Mann, Berinski, and Rennie in the State line-up, the going should be mighty tough for opposing basketeers. . . . The new court ring coming the elimination of the center jump after a field goal has been the topic of much discussion pro and con. . . . Doc Sermon seems to regard this change in view of the fact that Mac Berry is still throwing them in for the Terrors.

It will be almost impossible now for a player to stand the gaff for an entire game. . . . In my opinion, if they speed the game up any more it will have to be played on a banked court.

"Mickey" Sullivan, Doc Newton's stellar sophomore flankman, was a guest at the annual New York World-Telegram's football banquet during the Christmas holidays. . . . Sullivan was in some pretty fast football company in that Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh's contributor to the All-American roster, Villanova's Wysocki, and many other gridiron luminaries attended the classic get-together.

Look for Bill de Corveant, Chicago's fabulous football star and rated by Mid-Western observers as the nation's prize prospect for collegiate football, to enroll at Notre Dame in September. . . . Despite Coach Hickman's gloomy outlook on the wrestling future, George Fry seems to be the silver lining in Hickman's cloud of gloom. . . . Surprisingly fast and agile for his 210 pounds, Fry has made local mat observers sit up and take notice. . . . Other football stars due for their share of grappling victories are Bunny Hines, Warren Woodin, and J. B. Thompson.

Professional football scouts have more than a passing interest in several of the State gridiron stars. Rumor has it that tempting offers are being made to Louie Mark, Eddie Berinski, and Jess Tatum. . . . Louie, in full football regalia, has his picture in a recent edition of Pic, one of the popular photo magazines.

REGDON'S TEAM BOXES SATURDAY

State's pugilists will inaugurate their season this Saturday with a match against Appalachian in the gymnasium.

Appalachian will invade the campus with a strong, experienced team. They are a well-coached outfit, and a number of their men took part in the Golden Gloves tournament at Charlotte last year. Appalachian always turns out a good team, and this year's edition should provide plenty of opposition for Coach Regdon's charges. Most of the mountaineer's team are veterans with long experience.

Coach Regdon declares that all the positions are still open and tryouts for them are welcomed. He says that the boys are, for the large part, green and inexperienced, but that they are in top-notch physical form. The members of the team returned to school December 29, and have been working out twice a day since then. A large part of this time has been spent in road work in an effort to improve the pugsters' wind and endurance.

The boys who will box against Appalachian are as follows: 115 lb., Foster; 125 lb., Young; 135 lb., Upchurch; 145 lb., Sorrell; 155 lb., Bateman; 165 lb., Yelverton; 175 lb., Arnot. State will have no representative in the heavyweight group, as Yost the only man on the team in that class has been disqualified. There are still a number of

Few Changes Made In Gridiron Rules

The football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association announced recently two changes made in the playing regulations, both of which will aid the offense.

Announcement of the changes was made in a prepared statement by William S. Langford of New York, secretary of the committee. The group had deliberated the rules since Saturday night and reached a decision shortly after noon Monday.

For the 1938 season, only fourth-down passes behind the goal line will be ruled as touchbacks. This was the most drastic alteration made by the governing body. Hereafter, said the statement, any forward pass which becomes incomplete behind the goal line will be treated as though it had struck the ground in the field of play. An incomplete forward pass behind the goal line on the fourth down will, as now, result in a touchback.

The other change applies to a ball going out of bounds between the goal lines. In this case, or if the ball becomes dead within fifteen yards of the sidelines, it shall be put back in play at a spot fifteen yards from that sideline, instead of ten yards, as heretofore.

Vacancies on the freshmen team, and any freshmen wishing to try out should report to Coach Regdon any day at four in the back gym.

'MURAL MUSINGS

by BOB COLEMAN, JR.

The all-campus football team selection was released during the past week by Mr. Miller. This mythical team is picked by Mr. Miller, Mr. Doak, and the intramural officials. Men picked on the all-campus team will be awarded all-campus medals.

The end of last term found the Sigma Nu's leading the fraternity league for the intramural cup, while the team from 1st and 2nd 7th was holding top place in the dormitory league. Below is printed the standing of the teams at the end of last quarter.

Oddities

By Arnold Krochmal

This week's column is humbly dedicated to State's co-eds, all eight of 'em, bless 'em!

Blue-eyed brunettes are preferred to blondes at Washington University. In a poll of the male students the brunettes received 58 per cent of the votes, blondes 36 per cent, and red-heads 6 per cent.

Despite the fact that they foot most of the "date" bills, the 750 men at the State University spend less per year than the 450 co-eds.

All freshman girls at the University of Pittsburgh get a copy of "Fittinette," a book of social customs at the university. It says: "Save the rumba, tango and Southern swing dances for private showings."

"Collect names. Make it a point of finding out the name of someone who speaks to you, so that next time you can say, 'Hello, Mary.' Not, 'Oh, hello-o'."

"Go to class on time. Also say good morning to the prof and sit at least in a semi-becoming manner."

"Learn to smoke fastidiously. 'Don't go in for blind dates.'"

According to tests given at Miami University, Joe College has almost twice as much rhythm as Betty Coed.

In New York a mother is attending Hunter College while her two sons, aged 14 and 13, do the housework. She says she gets more from them than many mothers get from their daughters.

At Brigham Young University a poll was taken among the co-eds to determine which male student was most preferred as an escort for the evening.

FACULTY OF ENGINEERING HOLD NUMEROUS DEGREES FROM MANY INSTITUTIONS

Many Foreign Colleges and Universities Represented as Well as Schools All Over the United States

A survey of the faculty of the School of Engineering at State revealed that the 65 members of the engineering faculty, ranging from instructors to the dean, have attended 75 different colleges and universities in the United States and in foreign countries.

However, the results show that more than 50 per cent of the faculty attended and received degrees from North Carolina schools. Of these, 22 received degrees from State College, ten from the University of North Carolina, and four from Duke.

This survey was conducted by R. B. Van Leer, dean of the School of Engineering, and is part of a study on the faculty of the Engineering School being made in an effort to obtain information which will determine solutions to the numerous problems confronting the Engineering School in its current drive for national recognition.

Foreign education of the faculty is almost as broad as has been the domestic. The University of Berlin, The Technische Hochschule of Munich, McGill University and the University of Toronto in Canada, and the University of Caen and Grenoble University in France are a few institutes which have given degrees to members of the faculty.

More than a week ago the ECPD accredited four of the departments in the Engineering School. The dean is endeavoring to receive national approval for all of the departments in his school, and for this reason, he is conducting these surveys of the faculty members.

Red Terrors Off To Meet Georgia In Second Battle

Studebaker led the Roanoke scoring with 14 points. The new rule abolishing the center tap did not seem to affect either team's playing. 'Connie Mac Berry seemed to echo the sentiment of most of the players saying, "the other team has to use the same rules, so what's the difference?"

At the beginning of the season there were comments that the small-sized teams would have the advantage now, but these notions have been dispelled, most noteworthy being the L. I. U.-Stanford game in which the oversize Stanford team defeated a small Long Island team.

The men who will make the trip with the team this week-end are: Bill Mann, Connie Mac Berry, P. G. Hill, Bill Cromarty, Adolph Honeycutt, Van Oesen, Ed Berlinkski, Selby Jones, Elwin Hamilton and James Rennie.

The team will leave today and will meet Georgia this evening at Athens.

Ag Club Meets

At the regular meeting of the Ag Club Wednesday night a slide of the Ag Club key, as selected by the committee, was shown to the attendants, after which moving pictures of the State-Duke and State-Manhattan games were presented through courtesy of the Athletic Association and Jimmy Weaver.

The committee, which had been appointed by ex-president Harvey G. Snipes to investigate the possibilities of obtaining a key for the club, submitted a slide of the design which they decided upon. A vote was taken whereby the submitted design was approved and authority was given to the committee to make any minor changes and to draw up a contract with a manufacturer of such articles.

The State's advertising campaign will receive another boost with the publication of another engineering bulletin authored by the ceramic engineering department under R. L. Stone and Prof. Greaves-Walker.

For more than three years, the two men have been investigating that little-known mineral, olivine. Large deposits have been uncovered in the State. This will be especially interesting to refractory engineers.

Frosh Improve In Daily Drills

"Prospects are just fair," reported Coach Bob Warren after watching his frosh netters go through their drills late yesterday afternoon.

Coach Warren is working his proteges at top speed these days in preparation for their opening engagement with Wingate Junior College here. The game will be played in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium on January 11.

Frosh mentor Warren went on to inform the gentlemen of the press that he had not seen any exceptional material among this year's candidates. However, he stated that, with a little hard work, some of the boys might develop into real basketball material for the varsity next year.

Of the sixteen candidates who have reported for drills, nine are making strong bids for first team berths. The bidders are: Ray Smith, H. Richardson, Granville Howell, Jack Fowler, Jim Watters, Dick East, Bill Suggs, Dick Furr and F. Auman. Other reportees are: Price, Leer, Gorrall, Parker, Glass, Jordan and Sanders.

PALACE

Chalk up an "A" in comedy for "Beg, Borrow or Steal," which plays at the Palace Theatre Sunday and Monday. It is one of the laugh hits of the season.

With a cast running over with comedians, the picture offers Frank Morgan an excellent vehicle for his top-billing. Florence Rice and John Beal are featured with him.

"Beg, Borrow or Steal" is the story of an American bank-steerer in Paris who promotes a chateau on the Riviera to carry out a bluff with his family in America and to give his daughter a wedding in the manner in which she is not accustomed.

Surrounded by crooks posing as nobility, Morgan gets into one difficulty after another and the climax is reached when the girl, being a daughter of her father, up-

Telephone lines are planted with plows

RURAL telephone wire—not in cables—can now go underground where bad weather and grass fires can't harm it.

To make this possible, an entirely new kind of wire had to be developed. Special insulating compounds, special splicing methods were devised. Then a simple, economical method of burial had to be found. A special plow solved this problem—one that digs a furrow and tucks away the wire in a single operation.

Just one more step in the process of making Bell System service constantly more dependable.

Why not telephone home tonight? Rates to most points are lowest any time after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday. BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM
