

STUDENTS READY TO EXHIBIT WORK AT ANNUAL FAIR

THOUSANDS EXPECTED

Engineers Working at Top Speed to Complete Exhibits; Departments Vying for Top Honors in Friendly Rivalry; Marks Eleventh Year of Engineers' Fair

By C. A. UPHOURCH, JR.
Students of the law or ministry must try a case or deliver a sermon before they can realize definite, practical results from the years they spend in college.

But students in any of the engineering branches can see their own handiwork months before diplomas serve them as passports into the ever-widening fields of science and industry.

From these laboratories in which creative capacity of the collegian is measured in terms of plans for great buildings or construction of television apparatus spring engineers charged with keeping the march of progress at its steady pace and utilizing nature's vast resources for the betterment of mankind.

Because they are builders in their college days, students in engineering learn the thrill of creating and putting life into the products of their minds and hands. Before them is a tangible result of their training; ahead lie unlimited possibilities for more expansive creation scaled to the needs of humanity.

Probe Mysteries
Picture an enthusiastic youngster probing the mysteries of aerodynamics, or pondering a problem in hydraulics, or conditioning clay for a graceful piece of pottery, or fashioning a scale representing a great dam, or harnessing the flow of electric energy—and you have one of the most earnest students in any college.

Transporting this enthusiasm from the laboratory to a prominent place of prominence in the public eye is the moving ambition behind the annual Engineers' Fair at North Carolina State College. Last year over 19,000 persons found much to interest them in the technical displays prepared solely by engineering students, and a larger number is expected to visit this year's fair April 8 and 9.

Students in each of the seven departments of the School of Engineering at N. C. State College have been working for weeks on their displays, vying in friendly rivalry to produce better exhibits than their colleagues or their predecessors at any of the 11 previous fairs.

Through their effort the public may see secrets of various sciences revealed interestingly and instructively, and get a broader appreciation of the intimate part science plays in everyday life. At the same time, visitors may sense the youthful pride of these students so eager for the public to view the fruits of their labor.

The Engineers' Fair is sponsored each spring by the Engineers' Council, which is composed of two students and one faculty representative from each of the seven professional engineering societies having chapters at N. C. State College.

The fair is held at near Saint Patrick's Day as circumstances will permit for jobs and education.

Brigadiers Win In Straw Vote

Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers seems to be the student's choice for the band that will lead the parade at the Finals. Heidt led the music at the Finals. Heidt led the music at the Finals. Heidt led the music at the Finals.

Tommy Dorsey was second with a vote of 40, Benny Goodman third with a vote of 37, Sammy Kaye next with a vote of 27, Hal Kemp with a vote of 15 and Glen Gray came last with a vote of 8.

The Technician does not feel that these are the sentiments of all the students, so for this reason, and because there has been a rumor that the ballot was stuffed, another vote will be taken this week. Therefore, anybody having a desire to swing and sway to the music of his favorite orchestra at the Finals, which are not so very far off, should take advantage of this opportunity to let it be known who would like to see holding the baton at the last dances of the year.

Spring Enrollment Largest on Record

According to figures released by the registrar's office yesterday, approximately 1,763 students have registered this quarter, assuring State College of the largest spring term enrollment in its history.

Of those enrolled, 1,737 are students who were here last term and are returning, and 26 are students who were not here last term. Last year the spring term enrollment was 1,698.

Fifty-five students were not allowed to reenter this quarter because of poor scholarship. There are 64 students eligible to return who have not registered. Monday is the last day for registration and for changes in registration.

CADET OFFICERS WILL BE OFFERED ARMY POSITIONS

Applicants Selected Will Have One Year of Active Service With Unit

Professor of Military Science and Tactics Colonel C. S. Caffery received official instructions from Corps Headquarters to submit by April 1st names of applicants for active duty under the provisions of the Thomason Act.

Accepted cadet officers, under the provisions of the act, will receive one year of active duty with the regular Army, at the conclusion of which a number will be selected for permanent commission as second lieutenants of the regular establishment.

Names of all applicants will be forwarded arranged in the order of their military efficiency in the following three groups:

a. Graduates who have been commissioned from the institution during the fiscal year 1938; applicants who are expected to graduate from the institution in 1938, and applicants graduated from the institution prior to 1938, who on July 1, 1938, will be in the United States Army.

b. Nongraduates of the institution commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps during the fiscal year 1938.

c. Other outstanding former members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps of the institution commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps prior to 1938 and who, on July 1, 1938, be less than 28 years of age.

The office of the Military Department will receive all applications for this active duty until March 29th, that date having been set by Colonel Caffery as the final date for their consideration.

Promise Support Of New NYA Bill

The State College delegation to the National Youth Congress returned last week from Washington where they met and conferred with North Carolina Senators and Congressmen in an attempt to have the National Youth Administration appropriation increased back to the amount given in 1936.

Joining with colleges from all over the nation, State College officials charged its delegates to support bills advocated by the National Youth Congress. Upon their arrival in Washington, the student delegation found that the policies advocated by the National Youth Congress did not meet with its approval, and following the first meeting, the House of Representatives, the State delegation confined its efforts to lobbying only for the increased NYA appropriation.

The National Youth Congress advocated a $500,000,000 appropriation for jobs and education. Senators and Congressmen who were asked their opinions on the measure, viewed it with skepticism and voiced the opinion that the government, at the present time, is more concerned with raising funds for the national defense than it is with furnishing jobs to every boy or girl who wishes an education.

Every North Carolina member of Congress gave the delegation definite assurance that he would support the bill that will increase the NYA appropriation back to the amount given in 1936. Last year the appropriation was cut by 33 per cent.

The State College delegation was warmly welcomed in each office they visited, and every member of Congress who was interviewed gave the students definite assurance they would support any reasonable measure that would aid the advancement of education in North Carolina.

RINGS

The representative of Herff-Jones will be at the college Y. M. C. A. Theatre, March 31, to take additional ring measurements for the Class of 1939 (Junior class)—J. R. Burdham, President.

SPONSOR ENGINEERS' FAIR AT N. C. STATE COLLEGE

Plans for the annual Engineers' Fair at North Carolina State College April 8 and 9 are in the hands of the 14 members of the Engineers' Council, shown above. The public is invited to see the displays of student work from each of the seven departments in the School of Engineering. The Grand Overal Saturday evening, April 9, will climax the two-day exposition.

W.C.U.N.C. Girls To Sing In YMCA

State College students will have feminine visitors on the campus tomorrow night when thirty-five young girls, all members of the Glee Club of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, arrive here to give a concert.

The program will begin at 8:15 and will be held in the large auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. The concert is under the direct sponsorship of the college Y. M. C. A.

A large crowd is expected to attend; especially are State students expected in vast numbers, for the program is free to them if they have admission cards given out by the Y. M. C. A., and these cards can easily be obtained from the Y. M. C. A. desk.

HONOR SOCIETY TO INDUCT TEN

Ten outstanding juniors and seniors will be inducted into Tau Beta Pi this evening, thus attaining the highest honor that an engineer may receive.

The ten students who have been singled out for the fraternity are: J. W. Foster, W. D. Jacobson, R. V. Powell, N. S. Hertz, C. D. King, A. M. Smith, E. J. Angelo, S. C. Holmes, R. A. Loos, and J. C. Haynes.

The Alpha chapter of N. C. State College will join with the Beta chapter of U.N.C. at Chapel Hill and the members and initiates will participate in a formal banquet, following which the new members will be received into the fraternity. J. G. "Pete" Bronson, president of the State College chapter, will preside over the ceremony.

Tau Beta Pi membership is considered an outstanding achievement because only leading students are chosen and these are selected on a basis of leadership, scholarship, and character. In order to become a member, a junior must stand among the upper eighth of the class, while a senior must be in the upper quarter, in addition to participating in other campus activities.

The members will be honored with invitations to attend the Sophomore Hop on Saturday evening.

Ceramic Seniors Take Week's Tour

Professor Greaves-Walker, head of the ceramics department of State College, will take the seniors of the Ceramic School on a seven-day trip to New Orleans today to attend the convention of the American Ceramic Society.

Four seniors will make the trip to New Orleans: W. W. Sackins, J. J. Amero, Addison Maupin, and R. L. Stone. "Mr. Stone is an instructor at State College and has written several papers on various phases of ceramics. This convention will be doubly interesting and important in that the biannual convention of Keramos, the professional ceramics engineering society, will be held at the same time.

The ceramic seniors will return to their regular classes next Friday.

Harrelson Speaks

In observance of National Wildlife Restoration Week, Dean Harrelson spoke to the Kiwanis Club of Greensboro yesterday on the subject "Wildlife Conservation."

Dean Harrelson is former director of the Department of Conservation and Development of the State of North Carolina and now is a member of the board.

Politicians Buying Twofors and Dopes In Desperate Effort To Chisel Votes

The grass is getting greener, the birds are beginning to sing, trees are budding forth, and so are our erstwhile campus politicians.

Not only does the spring bring the sweet fragrance of the lilac trees, but it also brings us other contributions of nature that, alas, everthing.

We are confronted with the problem (are you?) of selecting our Student Government officers for the coming year. The primaries will be held on April 13 and the final balloting will take place on April 30. All candidates must file their names in the office of the dean by April 6.

It is reported that "Lu-Lu" Ivy, well-known campus figure (er), commented that if these "muddling" contests were pulled off a little bit more often, say about six times a year, he would be able to declare a one-day profit in his tobacco and carbonated water business.

The old boys (six-year men, to you!) around the institution say it always becomes evident long before election time as to who is running by the increased insistence of "come on and have a dope." Smiles become more abundant and fellows that you know have never even lifted an eyebrow to you, gush out

Politics Warming For Campus Jobs

COLLEGE VIEWS

A new issue of the State College Record, devoted exclusively to views of the State College campus, and general write-ups concerning the college has been printed and copies have already been sent to 1,200 prospective students and high school libraries across the State.

The picture booklets are much the same as those which have been distributed in past years, except that they are bound lengthwise instead of on the edge as formerly. Among the full-page photographs in various colors which are reproduced in the booklet are views of the D. H. Hill Library, 1911 Dormitory, and Pullen Hall.

DEBATING TEAM BEATS COLGATE

In a direct clash debate held at Meredith College, Wednesday evening, the State College debating team continued its march to the top in forensic circles by defeating the Colgate University team by a score of two to one.

The members of the audience voted on each claim. The State College team, representing the affirmative of the national debate question, "Resolved: That the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration of all industrial disputes," won the first clash by a very close vote.

Colgate, representing the negative, won the second clash by a decisive majority. State won the third and deciding clash by another close vote.

John Hall, Vincent Perles, and Ralph Newcomb debated for Colgate while C. K. Watkins, H. R. McSwain, and Harold Sekaria represented State College. Professor Edwin H. Paget of State, acted as chairman.

Word has just been received from the national headquarters of Pi Kappa Delta, at Greeley, Colorado, that C. K. Watkins of State has been elected to the order of Special Distinction in Pi Kappa Delta, the highest honor conferred by that organization.

Watkins becomes one of the very few sophomores in the history of Pi Kappa Delta to achieve this high honor. The distinction came as a result of forensic honors won by Watkins at the Dixie and Appalachian Mountain Tournaments, particularly in After-Dinner Speaking.

Juniors Collect On Coming Dance

Plans for the Junior-Senior Prom are progressing rapidly, according to Curtis Todd, chairman of the dance committee.

Approximately one-third of the Junior-Senior prom, a voluntary assessment of $1.00 each in the registration line Thursday, and we hope that additional dollars will come in from the remaining members of the class within the next week or two," remarked Todd last night.

The dance will be held on May 7 in Frank Thompson Gymnasium. No orchestra has as yet been selected for the event, but the band will be announced as soon as a satisfactory one can be chosen.

Featured at this annual affair is the placing of school rings on the fingers of the juniors by their fair ladies, which is traditionally accompanied by a kiss.

Military Fraternity Accepts Ten Cadets

Upsilon Sigma Alpha, honorary military fraternity, accepted ten new R.O.T.C. cadets for membership at a smoker held in the Y.M.C.A. last night.

Frank Johnson, president of the organization, welcomed the members and their guests and turned the program over to Major Kenneth Althaus. Major Althaus exhibited moving pictures of camp at Alabama taken last summer and pictures of last year's freshman-sophomore push-back contest.

The ten men accepted were W. W. Nichols, L. E. Thornton, J. L. Murray, H. L. Lane, E. P. Henley, G. V. Hanna, J. E. Brown, Dick Bloodgood, John Millholland and Pearce Fleming.

Plans were discussed for the annual banquet to be held in the spring and for the national convention which will take place in the near future in Raleigh.

MANY OFFICES OPEN

Political Talk Fills Air as Prospective Candidates Prepare for Hot Battles; April 6th Deadline for Candidates To File; Primary Election On April 13th

The annual races for political offices on the campus are already under way, with more keen competition expected to appear within the next few days, although the Student Council has granted until April 6 for candidates to file their intention to run for office.

According to Student Body President J. C. Frink, April 6, without exception, will be the deadline for announcement of candidacy. The offices affected by this ruling are Student Council, Publications Y.M.C.A., and Athletic Council jobs. Class officers may be elected by the various classes at any time which is convenient to the members of the class, and are independent of the campus-wide elections.

The winner of the Alumni Athletic Trophy award is picked by the various classes and schools by the various classes and schools. No nominations are made prior to the campus primaries on April 12—a week before the final election. At the time of the final balloting the voter is privileged to write any name he chooses on the ballot. The two leading men are placed on the final ballot.

The Student Council representatives for next year must be selected by the various classes and schools by the various classes and schools which they will represent before April 6. These representatives from the rising senior class will automatically be placed on the primary ballot to run for president of the Student Body. However, anyone can run for the office, and if an election he receives more votes than the man from his school he will replace on the council the man so defeated.

In case a student has not served on the council previously it is not legal for him to serve as president of the Student Body. He may, however, serve in the capacity of vice president.

The candidates for publications jobs must be recommended and approved by the Publications Board before they are eligible to run for the various positions on the staffs. This ruling applies to the Agromock, THE TECHNICIAN, and the Wataugan. The staffs of a school or departmental publication are selected by the school or department in any way that is seen fit by the persons in control.

To be selected this year for the first time are three student members of the Athletic Council, a group composed of five faculty members, five alumni members, and five students, which has the power to control all intercollegiate athletic affairs of the college. The president of the Student Body and the president of the Monogram Club automatically become members of the council. The remaining three members are elected by the student body at large, one additional man from the senior class and two representatives from the junior class.

The candidates for these three positions will be selected by a nominating committee composed of vice president of the Student Body, vice president of the Monogram Club, president of the Y.M.C.A., president of the senior class, and president of the junior class.

Forestry Seniors On Inspection Trip

Thirty-three State College seniors in Forestry left Wednesday of this week on an inspection trip which will take them through five states so that they may get some practical knowledge of forestry.

This is the sixth annual trip made by the seniors in Forestry. The students are accompanied by Dr. J. V. Hoffman, head of the Forestry School, and Professor Leathall Wyman, professor of Forestry. This is the largest number of students to make the inspection trip in the history of the Forestry School.

The itinerary of the trip includes such places of interest as Camp Oleno, Florida; the Hercules Paper Company, and Union Bag Company, in Fernandina, Florida; the Superior Pine Products Company, Thomasville, Georgia; the Billmore Plantations, near Asheville, North Carolina; the Pisgah Game Preserve, and the Tannin and Board Mill, both of which are near Bent Creek, N. C.

The purpose of the senior Forestry trip is to acquaint the seniors with practical problems in Forestry which they will have when they begin their professional careers. During the trip they will observe logging operations, saw mill, turpentine operations and experimental work.

To the Unsung Heroes

A GLOWING tribute to the men who have done work in athletics this year has been paid during the past week with the announcement by the Athletic Council that 76 men will receive monograms for their excellent services. To these men we offer heartfelt congratulations.

But there are other men who have worked just as hard in athletics as the men who have received recognition. They are the reserves who did not see enough action in their respective fields to win their awards, but who nevertheless formed a mainstay in their sports without which State College could not have made the record it has this year.

Many men go out for the various sports and never see a minute of action, but they keep plugging along, giving confidence and support to their more fortunate teammates. Unrecognized and unheralded for their efforts, they nevertheless form an integral part of the team and are always ready to plunge into battle at a minute's notice when they are needed.

Some people make distinctions in the value of the different athletics to the school, but if a man works just as much in his minor sports as do those in the major sports, his gift to the college is just as worthy, and it is appreciated by the students just as much.

Can You Save a Life?

THERE are many people who claim that the life of our beloved and lately deceased schoolmate, Phil Winslow, could possibly have been saved had artificial respiration been applied immediately after he had received a severe shock from the 2,400-volt circuit with which he came in contact.

This newspaper does not take a stand one way or another in the issue, but merely takes this opportunity to stress the importance of training our students in the use of artificial respiration. Disaster gives no advance warning of its striking, and as there are so many casualties whose lives can be saved by application of artificial respiration treatment, it is essential that the method be known to all.

You might some day be placed in a position where quick resort to the prone pressure treatment may save the life of a victim of shock or drowning, and if you are ignorant of the method and no one is present having knowledge of artificial respiration, you may let a precious life slip through your fingers; one that you could easily have saved.

Courses in life saving are given free of charge on this campus to anyone who wishes to take them; in fact, those finishing the courses are given valuable awards. If you are interested in taking the course in life saving, and every man on this campus should be, see Johnny Miller at the gymnasium and he will be glad to make the necessary arrangements for you.

A Word to the Campus Officers

IN EVERY endeavor there must be a leader, someone who will take the initiative and go into action while others sit back and do the talking.

Since writing an editorial in this newspaper recently about the telephone situation on the campus, we have had considerable comment from the students at large, both in letters and in personal conversations, and of all those who have offered comment on the situation, we have yet to find a man who does not favor the installation of telephones in dormitories. And we have yet to find a man who objects to paying the small sum that would be required to pay for the installation and maintenance of the system.

We are all aware that the students desire and actually have great need for such a telephone system on this campus, and if talk could have any effect, we would already have the system, for every man has offered his solution; and each one has cursed and bemoaned the fact that no one would do anything about the situation.

But mere words are poor tools unless they are applied where they will do the most good. The time for the expression of opinions on this matter has passed. Now is the time for some of the campus leaders to organize their wits and abilities and put their demands before the proper authorities. After all, the men who hold campus offices were elected to their honored positions to act as representatives of the students as a whole, and if the majority of students wish a certain measure passed, then it is the lawful duty of the officers to do all in their power to see that the measure is passed, regardless of their own personal feelings on the matter.

Now the students want these telephones and they are willing to pay to get them. And the only way they have to voice their wishes to the authorities is through their elected representatives, the officers they selected to lead them, and it is now time for those officers to get busy and show some real action.

Help Keep the Campus Beautiful

THIS year our campus will be the prettiest it has been in the history of the institution, and we should all do our best to keep it beautiful. How can this be done? If you see anyone walking on the grass, do not be afraid to tell him to get off, because if he had thought about the harm he could do across the grass, he probably would not have walked across the lawn in the first place. And if you call one man down, he will be ashamed and will be careful not to commit the misdemeanor again, and will probably tell other people to be careful where they walk.

A great deal of time and expense has gone into the improvement of our campus in the past few years, and now we are witnessing the results of our efforts. We should preserve the beauty of our campus, for it is a treasure only patient toil can bring into being. You will be proud to carry your family and your friends over the campus, and you will be bursting with pride.

Some of the boys have taken a great interest in the campus and have gone to the trouble of resodding barren spots. That was a good deed, and here's a bouquet to the Alpha Gamma Rho boys who undertook the project.

Spring and Elections Forthcoming

"IN THE spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," and that is not all. In the spring a young man's fancy also turns to thoughts of politics; campus politics.

We invest our power in the hands of our selected representatives and expect them to voice our opinions in affairs that are of interest to us. It is not logic, then, that we should use great care in selecting the candidates for the important positions they hope to fill?

Too many men go into office on the strength of their hand-shaking and back-slapping ability. They are elected because they are good mixers and because they belong to the right political circles. That is hardly a righteous platform for any candidate to lean on, and should the candidate gain his office, you will soon find that he is not a clear-thinking, scholarly statesman, but a "bull-shooting" politician whose only abilities are telling you what's wrong with the school. What we want is a man who will stand up for the rights of the students they represent.

Campus elections are in the offing, and now is the time to be looking around you in an effort to choose the candidates you think are most worthy to represent you. Elect the man who can get action for you when you need it, not the man who promises you everything, but who can really accomplish very little.

Every man should vote in the elections. As a general rule, less than half the students ever cast their votes, and these men are as much a part of the Student Body as you are. Urge them to vote, but urge them to vote according to their own dictates.

Senior Fund Goes To Three Figures

With collections toward the senior class gift standing twice as high as the record of the class of 1937 at the same date last year, Senior Class President David Gilbert yesterday expressed confidence that the money needed to purchase a clock for the memorial tower would be forthcoming before graduation exercises in June.

Twenty-six per cent of the class have already paid their voluntary assessment of $3 on the gift, bringing the collections up to $261, with $739 remaining to go on the $1,000 total. Collections on the registration line Tuesday are responsible for two-thirds of the money we have taken up to date," announced Gilbert. "The number of seniors contributing during the winter term was 25, while 59 paid Tuesday."

The honor roll for the week is as follows:

- Dillingham, M. M. Ward, L. B. Edwards, W. A., Jr. Pitman, R. L. Jones, W. W. Calwell, W. L., Jr. Goodman, V. J. Andrews, Jack M. Thacker, W. C. Greaves, John, Jr. Smith, O. F. Von Canon, J. C. GLEANINGS

By THE STAFF

Do you ever have desires to do odd things, things that other people don't do either because they are afraid or because they think such actions are not conventional? I am a fiend for doing such things, and following my exams last Thursday, the urge swept through my veins and the old desire struck me squarely between the eyes.

So donning my overalls and down to the railroad tracks in front of the gymnasium to wait on old Number 87, the crack freight train of the Seaboard, and while waiting, struck up a conversation with a few of the college boys. Well, when 87 whistled for the curve, I was ready to go, but the boys standing with me didn't suspect a thing. The train, pulled by what railroaders commonly call a "Molly-hopper" and which is really one of the Mally engines and strong enough to pull harder than Steve Sailer can pull Dean Brown's leg, was coming by now, and I was ready for the catch. The boys started a conversation about how they would like to hop on a train and ride. About that time an old tanker came by, and the freight was beginning to move up the grade rather fast. Well, that was to be my pullman, so I just reached up and grabbed me a handful of ladders, leaving behind a wild-eyed group of unbelieving boys.

Have you ever ridden seventy and seventy-five miles an hour on a freight? No? Well, don't, because if you do a sudden jerk of the cars might catch you off-guard and send you splashing off into glory. The romance of freight-train riding is in the telling of it, but if there is any romance in getting your eyes filled with cinders and your neck nearly jerked off with the uneven motions of the cars, then I missed my share of the enjoyment; and you had better not have any cinders in your eyes if a railroad detective gets in behind you; better to put your shirt tails in the wind and show the "dick" your speed, else you might be cooling your heels in one of the convent lock-ups.

But I enjoyed my ride, and I wouldn't have missed it for anything in the world. I wasn't so very worried about being caught because Jim Espey, one of our good State College boys, is one of the railroad detectives, and we all know he can't run fast.

Who says these State College boys don't get around? At the Carolina Steeplechase in Pinehurst last Saturday afternoon, the place had the look of a State College reunion, and our boys were hobnobbing and rubbing elbows with the "holty-toity" as if it were an everyday occurrence. I had the most fun after each race tearing off my hat and stomping it on the ground furiously, cursing myself loudly for dropping that last hundred smackers on "Corn Dodger" or "Tall Wind." Everybody looked at me pityingly and felt sorry for me in my losses; but I was really sick when I lost a two-bit honest-to-goodness bet on some old nag that couldn't even clear the first hurdle. But the money was there that day, my friends, and many a good man went home with that hollow feeling that you sometimes have when you can't feel that wallet bulging in your hip pocket any more.

Well, I guess you boys are wanting to know if you got your money's worth when you sent us off to Washington last week on our four-day lobbying trip. We slumped shoulders with the Senators and Congressmen, promised every one of them we couldn't possibly vote for anyone but them in the next election, and mixing business with pleasure after we had completed our business, we really went the rounds. Some of the boys went dashing off to the burlesque while I, naturally, went to the Library of Congress for a little research. (Oh, yeah?) What I got out of that trip was a C in economics when I should have had a B and an incomplete on two other subjects. But that city is too big for us little country boys, and I hadn't been there two days before some slicker had moved me off of two dollars. I was ready to come home then. My hardest job during my stay in Washington was getting past the IH-Hat cocktail lounge in our hotel. Every time we left the hotel we had to pass by the bar and I have often heard of the luscious Capital City high balls. But I closed by eyes every time I had to pass the lounge and I only ducked in once or twice. And while on the subject of bars and joints, here's some advice to our athletes: The best way to avoid stiff joints is to stay out of them.

Down to the Ambassador Theatre for the showing of "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," making some of my boyish pranks look like those of a sissy. . . And while speaking of pictures, don't miss "Mercury We Live." It will keep you in the aisles. . . Which of our good students were "released into the custody of" Dean Cloyd Thursday night following the Bob Crosby dance? . . . Students laying around on the grass in the warm sun too lazy to raise their heads, reminding me that Doc "Sawbones" Campbell had better prescribe something for our spring fever, else we will all be busting out of school. . . The street in front of the Kappa Sigma house looks like an automobile showroom; what large Buicks and Oldsmobiles, and the boys make Tom Ragsdale hide his new sporty Interfraternity Council V-8 in the back yard. . . The little polio we ran two weeks ago to find out which orchestra the students would rather have for Finals showed a decided advantage in favor of Professor Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers with Sammy Kaye the runner-up. . . but regardless of which band is selected, leave it to the council to get one that will please everyone. They've produced some mighty nice orchestras in the past. . . The time draws nigh for our boys to start digging deep for coin to pay for the new spring outfit and for the young maid's Easter corsage, and I've already spotted some flowers growing in my neighbor's yard that would look mighty pretty on my girl.—DICK MCPHAIL.

DOAKMEN TO PLAY W. & M. IN OPENING CONTEST TUESDAY

Veteran Mentor Depending Upon Last Year's Reserves for Diamond Success

By ART RAYMOND

Thirty-six candidates reported to Coach Charles "Chick" Doak over the spring holidays as diamond practice got underway in full speed. The squad has been working out every afternoon since the first of March and the prevailing warm weather has been helping the Doakmen get in shape.

Coach Doak has but a few monogram men to rely upon this year and is depending greatly on his reserves from last year's diamond squad. Graduation of Gadd, Norwood, Rabb and Sandness, last year's ace hitters, left a gaping hole in the ranks of the Doakmen. These men were some of the best hitters in the Conference and a lot of rebuilding will be required to fill the vacancies. The lack of experience and trained men will be the main problem in this year's nine.

The team roster was completed when Connie Mac Berry, Bill Mann, and Little "Buzzer" Berinski swapped their basketball togs for baseball uniforms. Wicker, Beam and Griffin, holdovers from last year's outfield, are expected to step in and do a good job in the field and at bat. In the infield, Coach Doak is relying upon Bill Mann at first, Jimmy Kearns, ace shortstop from last year's freshman nine, and Hoyle at second base. Hoyle and Kearns present a good combination at second base. Miller and Intramural sports for the spring term will include softball, tennis, volleyball, and track. The date and schedules are posted at the gym. The 12-inch ball will be used again this year in the softball games and the games will be played on freshman and 1911 fields. The fraternity league is broken into three brackets, while the dormitory league is divided into the upperclass and freshman sections. Competition is always good in softball, and interest should be even greater this year, since the competition for the cups is so close. The Pikas won all of these sports last year. Fraternity sections: Section One—Pika, ALT, Kappa Sig, Lambda Chi, Phi Kappa Tau. Section Two—Sigma Nu, Sigma Pi, Pi Kappa Pi, Delta Sig, KA. Section Three—SPE, TKN, AGR, AKIL. Dormitory sections: Section One—Second 7th, First 1911, Third 1911, Second 1911, First Watauga, Second Watauga. Section Two—Second and Third South, Third 7th, Fourth, First and Basement South, Sixth, Fifth. Schedules: Tuesday—Pika vs. ALT; Sigma Nu vs. Sigma Pi. Wednesday—Second 7th vs. First 1911; Second and Third South vs. Third 7th. Thursday—Kappa Sig vs. Phi Kappa Tau; KA vs. Pi Kappa Phi.

New Tennis Court Rulings Released

Students To Be Given More Opportunity For Use of Courts

In an effort to provide State students with more opportunity to play tennis, the athletic council has instructed J. F. Miller, head of the physical education department, to enforce certain rules regarding the use of the courts. 1. No one except students and members of the faculty may use the courts under any circumstances. 2. If the courts are filled and there are some people waiting, those having courts are limited to one set until the newcomers are able to secure courts. 3. The first two courts, near the railroad tracks are reserved for the use of the varsity and freshman teams. 4. The next two courts, numbers 3 and 4, are to be used for the intramural games after 5 o'clock. Mr. Miller explained that students were at liberty to use the first four courts whenever the teams were not practicing or whenever there were no intramural games scheduled, but they would have to relinquish the courts to the team men and intramurals.

SORRELL GAINS KNOCKOUT WIN

Russell Sorrell, brilliant welterweight and captain of State's 1938 boxing team, advanced to the finals of the Carolinas-Virginia amateur ring tournament by virtue of a convincing first-round knockout victory over Marvin Pruette of Lumberton.

Sorrell sailed right in at the bell and floored Pruette with a jolting right to the jaw. His opponent regained his footing after taking a count of seven, but Sorrell closed in to put him away for good. The time of the knockout was 1:41 of the first round.

He will meet Kenneth Raynor of Linden or Carlyle Council of Raleigh for the title tomorrow night in the finals. At present there are only eight

State Netters Lose To Duke

Murray of State Paces Tech Attack With Brilliant Performance

P. G. Hill, on the left and Bill Mann, two vital cogs in the 1938 basketball team, who were elected co-captains of next year's Red Terrors to succeed Connie Mac Berry.

The State College tennis team dropped its first match of the 1938 net campaign here yesterday to the strong Duke aggregation by the score of 6 to 3.

Jim Murray, seeded number two on the Tech squad, was the individual star of the contest. In his singles match with Ted Collins of the Blue Devils, Murray played the best tennis of his intercollegiate career to down the Duke ace, 9-7, 7-9, 6-3. He played in 68 games, including the 41 singles matches and teamed with Captain Jordan Dulin to hammer out an impressive 10-8, 6-3 win over Collins and Doyle.

The summaries: Singles—Merchant, Duke, defeated Dulin, 6-3, 6-0; Murray, State, defeated Collins, 9-7, 7-9, 6-3; Parsons, Duke, defeated Speer, 6-2, 6-2; Doyle, Duke, defeated Fanning, 6-0, 6-0; Gross, Duke, defeated Cline, 6-3, 6-2; Boney, State, defeated Mulligan, 6-4, 3-6, 5-6. Doubles—Dulin and Murray, State, defeated Collins and Doyle, 10-8, 6-3; Merchant and Parsons, Duke, defeated Speer and Fleetwood, 6-0, 6-3; Mulligan and Gross, Duke, defeated Tucker and Samels, 6-2, 6-2.

Tech Golfers Win Season's Opener

Defeat Hampden-Sydney By Eleven and One-half to Six and One-half Count

The State College golf team defeated Hampden-Sydney College of Virginia by the score of 11½ to 6½ at the Carolina Country Club last Tuesday. The State linkmen, despite the loss of Captain Ernest Remmey who is no longer in school, showed plenty of promise in taking their initial contest of the current campaign. The team this year is under the able tutelage of Coach Doc Newton. Bill Ford, lanky newcomer to the Tech golfing forces, paced the victors' attack. Ford defeated Lindsey of Hampden-Sydney, 3 to 0, and then paired up with Schreiber of State to down Lindsey and Burns. The summaries: Ford, State, defeated Lindsey, 3 to 0. Schreiber, State, and Barnes, drew, 1½ to 1½. Ford and Schreiber defeated Lindsey and Barnes, 3 to 0. Waldin, State, and Ritterberger, drew, 1½ to 1½. Cauthen, State, and Sander, drew, 1½ to 1½. Waldin and Cauthen drew with Ritterberger and Sander, 1½-1½.

Oddities

We spent a nice, restful vacation on the campus, with one venture into Duke territory, and we have concluded that the only thing they have that we haven't is a clock with hands, in their tower. We observed with surprise that the students passed within a few feet of each other without exchanging greetings, but then they know each other better than we do.

Dancer Is Feature Of Waring's Show

The most beautiful dancing legs in America will keep time to the music of Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians when they open at the State Theatre next Saturday afternoon for a one-day engagement.

They belong to Betty Atkinson, tap-dancing drum major, who is fresh from the University of Southern California. She is a tiny, vivacious blonde with the charm and exuberance of a sweet campus kid. Betty, for all her blonde self is an intense worker constantly routineing herself in her dancing art and baton twirling skill. She finds time for hobbies—of the extensive variety—such as collecting rare dolls and glassware. Sticking to the old rule of "work hard when you work and play hard when you play," Betty is blessed with being able to relax completely in such spare time as she provides for same.

Perhaps the real reason for Betty's present baton and tap dance is found in the story of her early childhood when she discarded, on a certain Christmas morning, all other toys to save a box of tin soldiers gaily colored and led by an arrogant drum major. Swinging two batons with a military tap routine, Betty danced her way from college to Hollywood and into the carefully selected fold of talent-wise Fred Waring, and can claim the added distinction of possessing a beautiful pair of legs—not of the show girl variety—but well worth any sculptor's second look.

Hod Williams To Play For Informal Dance In Gym Tomorrow Night

The annual Sophomore Hop will be held in the Frank Thompson gymnasium tomorrow night, Saturday, from nine until 12 o'clock. The music will be furnished by Hod Williams and his orchestra. These popular musicians are well-known in North Carolina, as they have played for several years at Lumina at Wrightsville Beach. They have often been heard over the Columbia Broadcasting System, broadcasting from Buffalo, N. Y., where the band has played for extended engagements.

Sponsors for the dance are: Miss Jacqueline Provost with C. P. Harris, president of the class; Miss Mary Frances Futrell with R. C. Stuckey, vice president; Miss Mary Helen Watkins with A. E. Withrow, class secretary and chairman of dance committee; Miss Betty Sexton with H. C. Thomas, dance committee; Miss Virginia Holt with Dick Everette, dance committee, and Miss Mary Green Thiem with L. W. Cartwright, dance committee. The script for the dance is only 75 cents, tax included, and this low admission price is an added inducement to go. The dance will be informal, and this also is an attractive feature. The sophomores are offering a swell band at a low price. And it's informal. Let's be there!
