Fraternities End Rushing Season; 123 Men Pledged

A. G. R.'s LEADING

Number of Men to Pledge This Year Falls Eleven Short of Last Year's Figures; New York Leads in Out-of-State Students to be Pledged, With New Jersey Second.

Climaxing a week of feverish rushing, followed by a four-day silent period, the fifteen Greek-letter social fraternities of this campus have announced the names of their pledges, the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity leading all others by pledging fourteen men.

Only 123 men accepted bids to the fraternities, eleven men short of the figure set last year, when 134 men were pledged. The total number of pledges has declined steadily in the past three years, but fraternities are pledging more men during the school year now than they have in the past.

During the rushing period, all fraternities entertained extensively with parties, dances, teas, and picnics.

New Rushing Program
This is the last year that men will be pledged to fraternities in the fall quarter, according to a new plan adopted unanimously by the Inter-Fraternity Council at a meeting last year. The new plan for "delayed rushing" will go into effect next year, and fraternities and prospective pledges will have three months to observe each other before making their decisions.

Frat Men Will Hold Cafeteria Smoker

Greeks Will Be Guests at Smoker Given By College Week From Monday

The annual fraternity smoker, given each year by the College in order to bring about closer cooperation between the fraternities and the institution, will be held on Monday, Oct. 11 in the west cafeteria. Dean E. L. Clroy announced yesterday.

All fraternity men and pledges have been invited to attend and although attendance is not compulsory, Dean Clroy stated that "all fraternity men are urged to be present."

The meeting will consist of discussion, pro and con, concerning the policy of deferred rushing to be established next year. The meeting is expected to be much the same as last year's session, which was conducted as a general discussion, the fraternities giving reports on the progress made and the grounds for future improvements.

Probable speakers for the smoker will be J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, E. L. Clroy, dean of students, Romeo Lefort, assistant dean of students, and the president of the Interfraternity Council.

ENTRIES INDICATE INTENSE RIVALRY FOR STUNT NIGHT

Fourteen Organizations Enter Stunt Night Program In Try for Prizes

With a plaque as a trophy to the winner, hot competition is expected tonight between the 14 campus organizations entering the annual "stunt night" program, climaxing "Hello Week" and preceding the Homecoming celebrations. The program tonight, to be held in Pullen Hall at 6:15 o'clock, is sponsored by Blue Key, national honorary leadership fraternity, Charlie Dunnagan, chairman of the Blue Key stunt night committee, will be in charge of arrangements while Pete Bronson, president of Blue Key, will act as master of ceremonies.

Judges for the occasion are Major Kenneth K. Althaus, Major Robert E. Jones, and Professor William McGehee. Red Masquers, campus dramatic organization, will furnish the stage "props" with John Milliland in charge.

Begins Promptly
The program will begin promptly as scheduled, as we are having a bonfire and pep meeting afterward," announced Dunnagan. "All groups taking part in the program must be ready by six o'clock." The college cafeteria will open at 6:15 o'clock Friday night instead of the usual hour in order that everyone may eat supper early enough to get to see all of the stunts.

Scheduled performances are being kept secret by the competing performers, and the program is scheduled to be filled with surprises. The winner of the plaque will be announced Saturday night during the Homecoming dance.

The campus groups who have entered the competition are as follows: State College Band; Scabbard and Blade; 30 & 3; A. K. Pi fraternity; Red Masquers; third floor 5th dormitory, Fred Walsh directing; Agricultural Education Club; Upsilon Sigma Alpha, military fraternity; Ag. Club; Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity; Phi Psi; THE TECHNICIAN; and the Cheerleaders.

Get Your Cards

All registration cards will be ready for distribution today, according to an announcement yesterday by W. L. Mayer, director of registration.

Mayer also urged all students to secure their cards today, as they will be necessary to obtain admittance to the State-Carolina football game tomorrow afternoon. They will also be necessary for admittance to the freshman game that will be played in the stadium this afternoon.

The director of registration stated that the stubs would not be accepted for admission to either game, and that the students should get their cards at the registration office today.

Much Coal Used At Power House To Generate Much More Steam

By P. PORCHER GREGG

Although the mound of coal heaped around the rear of the Power House never appears to decrease, it evidently must, for 10,934,790 pounds, or for those that do not know the poundage in a ton—5487.39 tons were used last year, and for those that cannot count above ten, 3 tons per capita of coal were consumed by the ever hungry furnaces in the Power House of State College last year. Don't think that this coal was just dumped at this particular side track by the railroad because they had more freight to haul than their facilities could handle, for it costs somebody $23,089.82. All the steam that was generated and wasted in classrooms on the campus last year could probably have saved the school some money if it had been turned over to the Power House, for only 107,152,000 pounds were generated last year for heating, hot water, use in the laundry and for generating elec-

Ambassador Dodd Speaks On International Affairs

By DICK MCPHAIL

An overflow crowd poured into Pullen Hall last night to hear German Ambassador Dodd speak on Nazi principals and policies but heard instead a criticism of the United States which "overrules the will of the majority, upsetting the principles of democracy."

Dodd enumerated many instances where the Supreme Court of the land had overruled the will of the majority of citizens, and said that "no country in the world has a court that rules over the will of the majority to satisfy the minority."

Expectant Crowd
The Ambassador has created much speculation in political circles by his criticisms of Nazi policies, and the expectant crowd waited anxiously for his text off on that subject, but went away without hearing one word about the government of Germany.

That he was a pure believer and follower of Jeffersonian Democracy was clearly proved in his loud praises of President Jefferson and the policies he represented, and he bemoaned the fact that Jefferson had never been shown the signal honors awarded Presidents by history.

VAN LEER GIVES ADDRESS AT ENGINEERS CLUB MEET

Dean of Engineering School Presents Speech To Charlotte Engineers Club

On Monday, September 27, Dean B. R. Van Leer, new head of the Engineering School at N. C. State College, delivered a speech before the Charlotte Engineers Club meeting which was held in Charlotte. The Engineer's Club is composed of prominent engineers in and around Charlotte. At monthly meetings some man who is prominent in the field of engineering is invited to speak. This month the chairman of the program committee, Mr. M. K. Cannon, a General Electric Co. engineer, invited Dean Van Leer to be the guest speaker.

In his speech, "North Carolina Industries and Her School of Engineering," Dean Van Leer traced the growth and development of North Carolina's industries for the past forty years. He pointed out the fact, often not realized, that our State has changed from an agrarian one into an industrial one with only one-fifth of its total wealth invested in agriculture.

Later, when speaking of the School of Engineering, he stated that this school serves North Carolina in many ways through the training school for young engineers, the extension division, the research laboratories, and the experiment station. He then asked the cooperation of the Charlotte Engineer's Club in extending engineering education in North Carolina.

While in Charlotte, Dean Van Leer and Colonel Harrelson, who also attended the meeting, were guests of Mr. T. C. Hayward, Charlotte representative of the Combustion Engineering Co.

Stunt Night Entrants

Students who are taking part in the Stunt Night program will please be back-stage in Pullen Hall at 6 o'clock. This is very important, in order to complete Stunt Night in time for the broadcast of the pep meeting at 7 o'clock. The program will start exactly at 6:15 o'clock and students are requested to be on time, as tardy comers disturb the "actors" and the patrons.

Nelson To Attend Textile Meetings In Coming Week

Textile Dean Will Attend Two Gatherings In Providence, Rhode Island

Dean Thomas Nelson of the textile school will leave Raleigh, Saturday, October 2, to attend the annual meeting of the deans of textile schools in America, to be held in Providence, R. I. on October 4th and 5th.

The purpose of this meeting will be to discuss the textile curricula and the latest developments in the textile industry. On October 8th and 7th Dean Nelson will attend the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, an association of the leading cotton manufacturers in the North and South, also to be held in Providence.

At this meeting the Association will award medals to textile schools of recognized standing. These medals are then to be presented to the member of the graduating class, in these schools, who shows the highest proficiency in his work. The N. C. State Textile School has been awarded this medal for the past 25 years.

Following this convention Dean Nelson will proceed to New York City for a two-day visit to the various fabric commission houses there and will return to Raleigh, Sunday, October 10th.

Each Man Shall File New Copy of Roster With Dean of School

According to a new rule adopted by the college last year, each student is required to file a new copy of his roster with the Dean of his school not later than Monday, October 4.

This will give both the student and the advisor an opportunity to correct or complete schedules for the winter and spring terms, and avoid unnecessary changes later. This new rule will also save considerable difficulty in the January and March registrations.

STUDENTS MEET IN PULLEN HALL TO SELECT MEN

Athletic Councilmen Elected To Serve as Representatives of Students

Over half of the entire Study Body assembled in Pullen Hall auditorium at seven o'clock last Monday night and elected three men to serve as student representatives on the Athletic Council for the rest of this year.

George Fry was elected to serve as senior member of the council and Dick Payne and C. L. Mosley were elected to serve as junior members. According to a new rule passed at the meeting, three seniors and two juniors will represent the students on the council. The president of the Student Body and the president of the Monogram Club are automatically made members when they assume their offices.

Amid much hub-bub and confusion the election of the new representatives was conducted, and J. C. Frink, president of the Student Body, had to continually call for order.

Presents Plan
Frink submitted a plan to the Student Body for the election of the three representatives who would be nominated by a nominating committee appointed by the students and would enter the spring elections for the run-off. After detailed discussion, this plan was adopted unanimously by the students.

The nominating committee was chosen after heated debate, to consist of the vice president of the Monogram Club, vice president of the Student Body, president of the YMCA, and the presidents of both the junior and senior classes.

Fisher Talks
Prior to the election of student representatives, Professor H. A. Fisher, head of the mathematics department, addressed the students, praising them for the new spirit they had created and urging them to greater and better things.

"We are glad that the students have equal representation on the Athletic Council with the faculty and the Alumni. We think it is as it should be, and we should be better able to work together," Fisher said in his speech.

Colonel Harrelson, dean of administration, was scheduled to address the students, but was called to the western part of the State on business.

'Hello Week' Ends Tonight

Fourth Successful 'Hello Week' To Be Followed By Gala Campus Activities

"Hello Week" officially comes to a close tonight with the beginning of the Stunt Night program, the annual bonfire, and the pep meeting on Riddick Field.

"Hello Week" is celebrated each year on this campus in an effort to promote a better spirit among the students and to get the students to know each other better. The program was officially started last Monday when E. L. Clroy, dean of students, was presented with the first button after he had addressed the ROTC students at their military drill. Colonel J. W. Harrelson was also scheduled to take part in the program, but he was called out of town on business.

Following the address by Dean Clroy, buttons were presented to cadets in ROTC to be worn on their coats until Saturday evening. Students not in ROTC were given their buttons during the day.

Fourth Year
"Hello Week" was originated by the State College Unity Council four years ago in an effort to foster friendship on the campus. Golden Chain, honorary leadership fraternity, took over the idea when the Unity Council failed to reorganize three years ago.

DANCE IN GYM

Football Game to be Feature of Homecoming Celebrations; Climax of "Hello Week," With Stunt Night, Bonfire, and Downtown Parade as Attractions.

Beginning tonight with the presentation of Stunt Night at 6:15 in Pullen Hall, the annual celebration for Homecoming Day will get into full swing, climaxing the observance of "Hello Week," which began on the campus Monday.

The main feature of the Homecoming Day program is the football game with Carolina, which will be played in Riddick stadium on Saturday afternoon.

Stunt Night
Stunt night, sponsored by the Blue Key national honorary fraternity, is a series of stunts put on by different societies, organizations, and fraternities on the campus. The group presenting the best skill will receive a gold cup.

Immediately following stunt night, a pep meeting will be held in Riddick Stadium at 7 o'clock in preparation for the Carolina game, and will be broadcast over WPTF. At 7:45 the bonfire on Riddick Field will be lighted, and the annual Freshman-Sophomore contest will begin. These bonfires, sponsored by the Monogram Club, will consist of trash and debris collected by these classes and placed on their respective piles to see which can produce the largest blaze. As an honor to the winner of this contest, the numerals of the class that wins the bonfire contest will be raised during the half of the football game tomorrow afternoon.

After the bonfire, students will stage a parade downtown via Hillsboro Street, under the leadership of Charlie Dunnagan, head cheerleader and the Monogram Club.

Housing Decorations
In participating for prizes in their particular group, the fraternities and dormitories will be extensive decorating for the Homecoming celebration. These decorations—Continued on page 8.

Program Planned For Observance Of Founder's Day

Sexton, Tucker, To Be Main Speakers at Student Body Assembly Tuesday

The program for Founder's Day, which is observed annually by the College, will begin Tuesday with an assembly of the Student Body in Pullen Hall. The program will feature talks by Irvin B. Tucker, chairman of the Executive Committee of the General Alumni Association, and John W. Sexton, president of the Alumni Association.

Founder's Day is sponsored by the Pine Burr and the Order of 30 and 3, two honorary societies on the campus.

The exercises are being held at the sophomore assembly because students who are now sophomores will be seniors two years hence, when the 75th anniversary of the College will be observed.

Began In 1914
Founder's Day was first observed at State College on October 3, 1914, when a big celebration was held. W. A. Withers, chairman of the faculty committee, was in charge of the program at that time.

Although the day has not been observed each year since 1914, plans are now being made so that Founder's Day will be observed every year in the future. This year will make the fourth consecutive year that this occasion has been celebrated.

Founder's Day, as the name implies, means the observance of the opening of State College. The College was created by an act of the Legislature on March 1, 1887, which was ratified by the General Assembly on March 3, 1887. The College first opened its doors on October 3, 1889 with 72 students and a teaching and administrative staff of eight. Since that time it has become one of the leading institutions in the South.

Entered as second-class matter, February 10, 1920, at the post office at Raleigh, North Carolina, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Welcome, Friends and Alumni

THIS is the week-end that we have reserved for you, alumni, parents and friends of the students.

And we hope that your visit to this campus will be a pleasant one. Since the last time you were here, State College has undergone complete repair. We have a prettier campus than ever before, new students, a more efficient school system, and, foremost of all, a new spirit that is to be found between students, alumni and faculty members.

Days of dissension and strife between the students are gone forever, and we are working endlessly for a spirit that will go down through the years and give our school a life that will be alive forever.

Tonight we broadcast our pep meeting over the radio from Riddick Field, and those of you who hear our rally know that we do not lack a great spirit, and we will use it. Visit us again, and never forget that you are always welcome here.

N. C. STATE

Carolina, We Are Ready

TODAY we prepare for the Carolina-State football game which will take place in the Riddick Stadium tomorrow.

And we are getting off to a good start by having stunt night, always a source of fun and enjoyment, followed by a real old-fashioned pep meeting on Riddick Field which will be broadcast over the radio. Following the pep meeting will be the annual bonfire contest between the freshmen and sophomores which will be followed by a shirt-tail parade down Hillsboro Street and Fayetteville Street.

After all this spirit-raising program is completed, students should be in a fine fettle for the Carolinians tomorrow.

N. C. STATE

Don't Overlook Church Social

OFTEN overlooked in the procession of dances and dates which college students indulge in are the wholesome opportunities for "socializing" furnished by the Young Peoples' meetings held in most of the Raleigh churches on Sunday afternoon or early evening. Most of the meetings are open to students, and boys are welcomed regardless of their religious denomination or faith.

In these mixed groups of young men and women it is possible for the college boy to make friendships that he otherwise might not make. The girls with whom he comes in contact in these church sponsored meetings are more likely to be of a finer type than would be found assembled elsewhere, and the atmosphere of the church groups should be of an uplifting and helpful nature.

The friendly tone of the Young Peoples' groups, the fine companionship, and the interesting and useful programs offered, coupled with the religious atmosphere should make attendance at these groups a popular Sunday evening feature with State students.

Help Publicize Your College

STATE COLLEGE has received the best publicity through the newspaper medium it has had in a number of years. Newspapers dealt harshly with this school during the past three years, but this year, it seems, every newspaper throughout the State, large or small, weekly or daily, is doing everything it possibly can to help State College. We should all appreciate this service.

You can help a great deal in obtaining good publicity for the school by sending the college newspaper to your home town editor. He will appreciate the service and will gather material from our paper for use in his own.

THE TECHNICIAN will do its share in promoting such a publicity program by offering "mats," or pictures, of football players and campus scenes without cost to the editors of other newspapers.

N. C. STATE

Historic Home to Face Campus

THE historic home of Andrew Johnson, seventeenth President of the United States, will be moved into the cedar court of Pullen Park and will face the D. H. Hill Library.

By moving the famous home to this site, many more people will have a chance to visit the historic old home, and everyone that rides through the campus cannot fail to see it. It will be an additional wonder spot for the college, and will be located in a place of safety, away from careless hoboes who have used the home as a sleeping place and away from dangerous sparks thrown out from passing locomotives.

State College students should help guard this historic building, and every student should be proud to point out that home when he takes visitors on a sight-seeing tour of the campus.

N. C. STATE

One Student Lacks Culture

ONE student on this campus has no place here.

On Monday night half of the entire student body met in Pullen Hall to elect student members of the Athletic Council and to decide how men would be selected to serve on the Council in future years.

In the absence of Colonel Harrelson, called to the western part of the State on business, Professor H. A. Fisher generously offered his services and advice to the students. He highly complimented the students for their new-found spirit.

Finishing his address, the Professor sat down with applause that shook the rafters, out with the applause, some uncultured student gave a noticeable "boo."

We do not know how that student personally felt towards Fisher, but had the boy the least bit of fortitude, he would go straight to the man and face him with his denunciation instead of cowering behind a seat in the far recesses of a dark auditorium and shouting "boo."

Fisher addressed the students as a representative of the college, not as a man. And when he complimented the students for their unrelenting work in building up a great spirit, he spoke for the faculty and alumni of the college, not for himself personally. The student that "booded" Fisher that night did so to our school and the ideals the school represents.

That student represents the type of person that State College would rather not have.

Publications Need Men

MANY years after our college days are over, we will still have memories of something that we did during those four glamorous years we spent in acquiring an education.

One of the most select group engaged in extracurricula work is to be found toiling on the staff of student publications. The work not only requires the facility of being well versed in the English language but a capability of expressing individual thoughts on paper for other people to read. It requires personality, tact, and perseverance.

Publications work offers an outlet for ideas, opinions, and emotions. And at the same time it offers to the student a complete education in itself, a training school in a profession all its own, and an education that he will use the remainder of his life.

This year there are a few openings on the editorial and business staffs of all of the student publications. We know this is especially true of THE TECHNICIAN, and we extend a cordial welcome to any student who desires to become connected with our staff. He will be given a fair test of his abilities, his knack at writing, and his language usages. These positions may lead to campus fame, and even to greater things.

So if you are inclined to do any publications work, be sure to begin early. Be the early bird that catches the worm; drop by the publications offices and apply for a position on any of the staffs today or tomorrow.

HERE and THERE

by Dick MacKenzie

HELLO! Well, it must be a habit. And speaking of habits that might be good habits to form. All you have to do is to pass a fellow that knows you and fall to speak and that makes you one of those undesirable folks. Just because "Hello Week" ends Saturday, don't lose the urge to speak. North Carolina State must continue to be known as the most friendly college in the state.

Lost, one professor. . . The electrical engineers are wondering where their "Lone Cowboy" can be. . . Second time he's attended a trial recently and hasn't been heard of since. Could it be that he is riding the range again? The call of the wide open spaces can never be forgotten.

I'm not trying to suggest anything but it might be a good idea to anchor the tower and the down the various buildings around the campus. Those Carolina boys might not forget the episode of a year ago. We'll let the wolf take care of itself.

David "Fire House" Ramsey appears to be carrying on the old "Charlottian" tradition established so proudly by ex-editor Hall Morrison.

Hugh Johnson trucked into the limelight and won the "Big Apple" contest at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium last week. Hugh's still wondering what became of that big apple he won. . . All he got was two tickets to the game Saturday.

When that team from over at the Hill gets here Saturday, I hope that they leave that ever present member home. I even go so far as to say that I hope that he breaks his neck, legs, arms, and back. For the past ten years their best man has been a fellow by the name of Cline. After all there is a Southern Conference rule on five-year eligibility. I insist on an investigation!

What could Walter Cline be looking so melancholy about recently? Is he missing someone, or maybe "Becky's Boy" is just worried over his school work?

"Doc" Campbell is trying to find something that will really cure a bad cold. Those pink pills must have failed again as usual, or do you suppose he tried the little colored chokeys.

Dear Uncle Watt: Why hasn't the Wataugan come out? S. A. P. Dear S. A. P. Tradition, yes, tradition.

Library Features Picture Exhibit

W. P. Kellum, State College Librarian, has announced that a pictorial exhibition of early American architecture will begin today, October 1, in the library, and continue through next Friday, October 8.

Fifty-five selected photographs will be mounted on mats in the browsing room. This is the first of a number of exhibitions on various subjects to be held in the library this year. All students are invited to come in and examine the display.

Mr. Kellum also stated that in the future all new books received by the library will be placed on a special shelf in the browsing room for a period of three days so that students and faculty members may look them over and acquaint themselves with them.

CAN WE DO IT???

... from the Air!

North Carolina has been the home state for several of the big name bands which have set the styles in dance music from the time when "ragtime" and waltzes were the big things, and "swing" was a rope with a seat on it. You probably recall Hal Henry's "North Carolinians," one of the early recording bands whose music was among the best sellers. Jan Garber started to fame as an obscure violinist in Wilson, organizing his band from among the local boys. Although there is some dispute among the public as to the origin of the wavy sax and the mated trumpets, we all agree that Jan has a definite style which places him as one of the world's most popular dance bands.

Strolling down to the football field and finding myself witness to an amazing display of spirit and an air of genuine confidence concerning Saturday's game with Carolina. . . the GAMES!! And firmly believing that this is the Wataugan's year to howl.

NEW SOUTHERN ENGINEER WILL MAKE APPEARANCE ONE WEEK FROM MONDAY

Initial Issue of Engineering Magazine Will Contain Many Features

State College's engineering journal, The Southern Engineer, will make its initial appearance of the academic year on October 10.

The editorial content will bring to the campus and the engineers of North Carolina the latest developments in the technical world.

In cooperation with George Kilham, editor, H. B. Smith, features editor, has introduced a new series of shorts and incidentals including a reorganization of the queer mathematical feature to meet the demands of our puzzle conscious campus.

Although the magazine is well under way, the editor and business manager invite all students interested in publications work of this nature to attend a staff meeting on Monday night at 7 o'clock.

The boys are all members of the Golden Chain Society, senior honorary organization.

giddy gags and uproarious comedy. There's Joan Davis on a heart-lant for an Indian, of all things; Tony Martin, singing, swinging leader of the band; and Gloria Stuart, lovely queen of the campus. A special added feature of the program is the showing of actual scenes, in natural color, of the "Coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth." A news completes the program.

Presenting a brand new style of mystery story, which begins where most films of this type leave off, the production, "The Man Who Cried Wolf," plays at the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Lewis Stone gives a brilliant performance as the man wringing fesses to a series of murders in order to make police believe he is crazy.

His motive becomes clear when the audience learns his plan to kill a millionaire who stole his wife and son, years earlier. Stone's portrayal of the husband, haunted by his desire for revenge, is one that will not soon be forgotten.

A fine balance for the gripping realism of the drama is the beautiful love story woven around Tom Brown and Barbara Read, whose performances are excellent.

The dramatic high point is reached in the scene where Stone discovers in horror that his scheme is so perfect he cannot prove his guilt, in order to save his son from paying the penalty for his father's crime.

Others in the talented cast include Robert Gleckler, Forrester

Harvey, Billy Wayne, Jameson Thomas and Marjorie Main. A musical comedy "Cut Out For Love" and an adventure "Cradle of Civilization," make up the enjoyable program.

Students Organize Local IAS Chapter At Meet Wednesday

Student Chapter of Institute of Aeronautical Sciences Organized Here

A student chapter of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences was organized on the State College campus Wednesday night at a meeting of the engineering students.

The organization of this chapter came about largely through the efforts of Professor L. R. Parkinson, professor in the mechanical engineering department. At this meeting Wednesday night over 20 engineering students were present, and they founded the chapter in cooperation with the national chapter, and elected officers of their local chapter.

The purpose of this organization is to forward the interest and knowledge in the field of aeronautics on the campus, and membership will be allowed any mechanical engineering student.

During the course of the meeting the following officers were elected: L. H. Abraham, chairman; Robert Loos, vice-chairman; and Jack Leet, secretary and treasurer.

er. Professor L. R. Parkinson was chosen as the honorary chairman for this chapter.

CHEMISTRY PROF GETS WRITTEN UP IN NEWS ARTICLE

An interesting article concerning the works of Professor G. Howard Satterfield of the State faculty, and a note on the facts as to how students love the subject of biochemistry, was carried in The News and Observer the other day and was written by William E. Lindau.

In his article, the author explains how students learn to teach, jump, and even threaten to commit suicide at the sound of the word "biochemistry." And even now some of the State students have learned the true meaning of the word, and have accompanied this knowledge with a fear of the term.

For the study of biochemistry is something that takes every student into the mysteries of chemistry and presents to them a field in which little knowledge has been acquired and which is still open to extensive research.

In his story Lindau told of the teaching experiences that Prof. Satterfield had when he began as a faculty member of the college. He said that in one of the professor's general chemistry classes his first year he flunked 22 out of 26 students, which should establish a record for professors to shoot at. Being a hard worker himself, the professor expects that same hard work out of his students, and this particular year the students did not seem to come through with the proper amount of labor.

Professor Satterfield has prepared and has had published many articles pertaining to the subject of biochemistry, and he is quite an authority in this field. In the past he has done much research work on that subject, and he has produced three papers on the subject in three months, at the same time carrying on his teaching duties.

All upperclassmen interested in swimming will please report at the pool on Monday, October 4, at 5 p.m.—Bob Grady.

Alumni Interest Shows Increase

Alumni Meetings Throughout State Show That Grads Are Still Interested

An increase in the activity and interest of the alumni of State College is shown by the fact that last night there were three alumni meetings in session at the same time in different parts of the state.

At the alumni meeting held in Henderson, Colonel Harrelson, dean of administration, and Herman Hickman, assistant football coach, were the special guests from the college.

Another meeting was being held at the same time in Durham, where William "Doc" Newton, head football coach at State, and J. L. Von Glahn, athletic business manager, represented the college.

The third group of alumni assembled in Winston-Salem, and State College was represented at this meeting by Dan Faul, acting alumni secretary, and John Sexton, president of the General Alumni Association, and also a member of the athletic council.

State College Grads Erect Rayon Plant

N. C. State College graduates again stepped into the industrial limelight when the newly-erected mill of the Carter Fabrics Corporation was declared by the September 1957, issue of Textile World, a leading publication in its field, to be the most modern rayon mill of the year.

Both the president of Carter Fabrics Corporation, W. J. Carter, and his brother, H. C. Carter, vice president, are graduates of State College. W. J. Carter graduated in the class of 1924 and H. C. Carter in the class of 1932.

In the mill building a new design has been used as it is air conditioned and has the latest developments in machinery to turn out with a maximum efficiency, the highest quality rayon fabrics.

LISTENING IN
by JOE MICHAEL

It looks as if we are in for a real treat, that is for fellows who don't get a chance to gallivant around to a football game every Saturday. WPTF, the most powerful NBC in North Carolina, has a top-notch gridiron schedule lined up for us this season. These broadcasts began last Saturday when a play-by-play account was broadcast from UNC at Chapel Hill, but the beginning as far as we are concerned will be at 2:15 Saturday when the Wolfpack tangles with the Rams. This will be the first play-by-play broadcast from Riddick Field since '36, and I know it will be thoroughly enjoyed by the alumni, who can't come to see the Wolfpack do its stuff, as well as the folks back home. Graham Poyner and J. B. Clark will handle the mike.

In addition to these play-by-play broadcasts direct from the scene of the games, WPTF will present prominent gridiron personalities in informal interviews from its studios throughout the season, as well as continue to furnish timely football chatter and scores on its nightly 6:35 Sports Review. Saturday at 10:00 p.m. "Pigskin Post-Mortem" will review all national games, giving final scores and highlights of each combat. Other interesting highlights of games that will be broadcast Saturday: NBC 2:30 Notre Dame vs. Drake. CBS University of Minnesota vs. University of Nebraska. STAYC: As I thumbed through the pages of one of the Nation's favorite radio magazines something that was very interesting caught my eye, this little something was EX-TRUCK DRIVER in large blue letters. The "Ex-Truck Driver" was that sentimental gentleman of "swing" Tommy Dorsey. Mr. Dorsey was born and educated in Shenandoah, Pa., is the brother of Jimmy Dorsey the equally famous West Coast bandsman. Tommy wanted to be an engineer when he was a kid, but driving a delivery truck—for $16 a week—looked better than studying engineering. Learning music from his music-professor father, Tommy made his professional debut as first trombonist with Jean Goldkette's band in 1924. He later played with Vincent Lopez, Paul Whiteman, and others. Several years ago the name Dorsey was seen as the Dorsey Brothers Band. When the split-up—came Jimmy took the band West, but Tommy had ideas of his own and formed a band of his own that swept into national fame as the interpreter of "swing" in the supreme form. His theme "I'm Getting sentimental Over You" is the signal for zealous Dorsey fans to join in a grand "swing" session. Here's the line up of the Dorsey crew: B. Freeman, F. Stulce, Herfurth and Mince Saxes; Pee Wee Irwin, Andy Ferretti, Joe Bauer, trumpeters; d. m. m. r. Davie Tough; bass, G. T. Traylor with vocals by Edythe Wright and Jack Leonard.

Wolfpack Tackle Carolina Tomorrow

State Frosh Gridders Open '37 Season Opposing Belmont Abbey

Eager Tech Team Primed For Battle With Ancient Jinx

State enters the game as the underdog; is outwitted in both line and backfield. Hard work in practice sessions make Newtonmen look better on offense. Bershak sure Carolina threat.

A crowd of 18,000 spectators is expected to pour into Riddick Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 to witness the annual battle between N. C. State and the University of North Carolina for the football supremacy of the Greater University.

The rivalry between the two institutions dates back to 1894 when the two met on the gridiron for the first time. The last Tech victory in the series came in 1927 when they swept to the championship of the Southern Conference. State came through with ties in '28 and '32 but was never able to end up ahead of the Tar Heels.

The experts rate the Wolfpack as the underdog of the day due to their unfamiliarity with their new system of play and to the potential strength of the Carolina team. The Tar Heel showing against South Carolina proved that they had a fine running team and that their line was hard to crack offensively.

Coach Wolf will bring to Raleigh several stars who are certain of getting national recognition. Andy Bershak is one of the South's outstanding wingmen and his four backs, Watson, Ditt, Little, and Burnette are among the top flight of backs from this section.

The Wolfpack will be outwitted by their guests both in the line and in the backfield. The State line weighs 186.4 pounds a man as compared to the Carolina 189.3, and the Tech backfield averages 177.5 against the Tar Heel's 183.2.

Although pleased by his team's showing in the Davidson game, Coach Doc Newton was dissatisfied with the eleven's lack of finesse in executing its plan. Since the Wildcat tilt, the Wolfpack has put in two strenuous weeks of blocking practice and of running through plays in scrimmages. The effect has been quite apparent. The variety and second team have found it increasingly easier to gain through a third team and the frosh eleven. In practice sessions this week, Art Rooney, Eddie Berlinaki and Paul Lozier have ripped off long gains through gapping holes left by the line. The blocking of Jess Tatum, Danny Piloseno, and Buddy Fry has been outstanding.

The game will bring together the teams of two exponents of the Warner system, each team, however, using modifications. Doc Newton's version is the more original of the two, he believing in an unbalanced line and a slightly changed backfield formation. The Carolina eleven will use a balanced line and revert to the double and triple reverses that make the system dangerous.

Carolina will be able to put the same team on the field that it started against South Carolina. Excepting for minor injuries, all of the team came through the game unscathed. The Wolfpack lost the services of Fred Gardner, number one fullback, who dislocated his shoulder in practice last week. His place will probably be taken by Paul Lozier who is a hard running sophomore. The return of Bill Retter to the squad will strengthen the 'Pack at the pivot position. Retter is also a sophomore.

The probable lineups are:

State	Carolina
Tatum	Bershak
Helm	R. T.
Wooden	R. G.
Mark	C.
Hines	L. G.
Fry	E. J.
Conrad	L. E.
Berlinaki	H. B.
Rooney	H. B.
Little	Q. B.
Lozier	F. B.

Sports Glimpses

by Bob Blackwood

This week will be a big one for State College, with the Alumni returning for Homecoming and the State-Carolina grid battle being scheduled for tomorrow. . . . Most of them will be coming with the idea of seeing for themselves whether the new spirit on the campus is just a lot of bunko. . . . Let's show them that win or lose, we act like gentlemen.

Personally, I think that they showed a powerful attack last Saturday and played a good game all the way. . . . Doc, Bob and Herman all made the trip to Chapel Hill Saturday and then spent hours laying out a plan of attack for the Wolfpack.

Speaking of Wolves, at last will be represented by a genuine timber wolf from Texas. Carolina also has a wolf from Texas. His first name is Ray. . . . The game tomorrow will be a battle of halves. Carolina will offer Watson and Burnette and the Techs will have Berlinaki and Rooney. . . . George Murphy, who is playing a bang-up game at quarterback. His generalship in the Davidson game was mighty near perfect.

Don't forget the Freshman game with Belmont Abbey today. Coach Nig Waller will put on the field one of the greenest and smallest first-year teams seen at State in late years. The spirit is there, though, and they may turn out to be a top notch outfit. . . . A touch of color will be added to the game tomorrow as the game will be sponsored by members of the fairer sex. It is a good idea and one that would be a nice addition to all of our home games. . . . Those who turned out for the Student Body meeting Monday night were royally entertained. . . . The blustering and fiery orations presented from the floor. Professor Padgett could have gotten some fine material from the group for his debating team. . . . The student body at last has equality of representation on the Athletic Council. We, as students, support the athletic program financially and physically and are therefore the most concerned about the destinies of our teams. It was a broad-minded step on the part of the Alumni to realize this.

Last week I came through pretty well in my predictions, missing the Tar Heel-Bird game by only a point and calling the exact score in the Duke-VPI tilt. This week it will be State over Carolina by six points, Duke to take Davidson by two touchdowns, and Wake Forest to mop up the Deacons by a Washington by 13 points. . . . Wake Forest will be outclassed by the Colonials but the Deacons will fight back and make a game of it. . . . Duke will have to watch Lafferty but will have little trouble in rumberling over the smaller Wildcats.

SO HELP MY SOUL THIS IS SHO'S AD
State Has Won Three Games and Tied Five Against Carolina Since 1894, When Teams First Met

The meeting of the Wolfpack of State and the Ram of the University this Saturday will be the twenty-fifth in a historic series of games begun back in 1894 when State was known as the North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College.

There is a new fighting spirit on the campus, which should encourage the State gridgers to do their utmost to add another win to the three over Carolina to their credit. The record of games is as follows:

Year	State	Carolina
1894	0	44
1895	0	16
1896	0	26
1897	0	40
1898	0	34
1899	0	30
1899	11	11

Four of Big Five Teams Swing Into Action Saturday

Wolfpack Meets Carolina Here Tomorrow; Duke Plays Wildcats

Four of North Carolina's Big Five football teams swing into action Saturday afternoon—State and Carolina playing in Raleigh, and Duke opposing Davidson in Greensboro.

From the latest observations it seems that State's Wolfpack is determined to take the Tar Heels—something that hasn't been done since 1927—while Duke's Blue Devils are picked to make quick work of the Davidson Wildcats.

Wake Forest, the fifth team in the Big Five, will go out of the conference and travel north to meet George Washington in Washington, D. C.

It has been ten years since the Wolfpack rung up that 15-6 victory over the Tar Heels. To date State has a fifty-fifty chance of repeating—for the first time.

State has won its only game this year—a big five engagement—6-2 over Davidson.

It was announced Thursday that Doc Newton had abandoned his "no huddle" style for Saturday's engagement due to the fact that a number of new plays have been issued recently. "The 'indicator style' may prove confusing for some of the players since they have no assignments," said Coach Newton.

Duke should have little trouble with the Wildcats in Greensboro Saturday. With Duke's outfit in fine shape, the pile driving power of Eric (the Red) Tipton and Elmore "Honey" Hackney's passing performance nothing short of a one-sided score should be the outcome.

On the other hand the hard fighting Wildcats, under the direction of their new mentor, Gene Melver, may spring a surprise and give the Blue Devils a real fight. The Wildcats will use the same style used by the Tennessee Volunteers, who will oppose the Dukes next week. Melver is a pupil of Major Bob Neyland, coach of the South Carolina's two teams to 13-13 deadlock. The South Carolinians had a second team that could equally match the strength of its first team and did so when the first stringers needed rest.

Tommy Burnette, Tarboro youth, and Crowell Little, Carolina's flashy signal man, may prove to be too much for State's high spirited Wolves.

We shall see what we shall see.

This Week's Star...

GEORGE MURPHY
Pictured above is George Murphy, quick-witted quarterback on this year's edition of the Wolfpack. George was born 23 years ago in Springfield, Mass. He liked the Springfield atmosphere and stayed there until he graduated from high school, playing football for Cathedral High School and making a name for himself on the gridiron. He was twice picked on all-city and all-Connecticut Valley teams. He decided to get his college education here at State and came in 1924, enrolling in the School of Agriculture for the purpose of majoring in Biology. George played freshman football and was a substitute right halfback for two years. He was then promoted to a quarterback and this year he is holding down a varsity position. He distinguished himself as a signal caller by his good work in the Davidson game. During the summer months Murphy spends his time inspecting vegetables for the State of North Carolina. He is a member of the Monogram Club and of the College Life Saving Corps.

'MURAL MUSINGS

by BOB COLEMAN, JR.

With the return of the school year, comes intramurals, and intramurals mean Mural Musings. This column was created last year to present in a more personal and pleasing manner intramural news. The sports editor has not appointed the regular commentator for the coming year. This week I drew the assignment, and THE TECHNICIAN will appreciate any suggestions you have for the improvement of the column.

During the fall term the spotlight will be focused on football, wrestling, swimming, and horse-shoes. Rules and points will be the same as last year. The curtain raiser for the football season will be next Monday afternoon, when the Pikas meet the K. As.

Coach Nig Waller Still Undecided As To First Team

N. C. State's freshman football outfit opens its 1937 grid campaign here this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when it opposes Belmont Abbey in Riddick Stadium.

E. M. "Nig" Waller, freshman football mentor, still can't decide which of his proteges will constitute his starting lineup today. When asked for a list of starters yesterday, Coach Waller submitted names of 22 players and explained that from these he would pick his starting team.

Drills have been stiff for the Techlets for the past week. In addition to the stiff workouts the Wolflets have been issued a new set of plays which are designed to clip the feathers of the Abbey boys this afternoon.

Listed below are the 22 players eligible to make up the starting lineup today: Philip Avery, Joe Cathey, Francis Hayes and Robert Shaw, ends; Paul Abrams, C. E. McCary, Wade Brown, T. M. Williams, tackles; John Melver, John Jones, Eldon Winslow, and R. E. McDowell, guards; Cutie Carter and Ralph Gewehr, centers; William Smith and Ted Chapou, quarterbacks; Garrett Reeves, Charlie Lemon, Winstead Watts, and Robert Cathey, halfbacks, and Clyde Frye and Willard Parker, fullbacks.

The Dormitory League Division I is made up of 2nd and 3rd Watauga, 1st 1911, 1st Watauga, 2nd 1911, 3rd 1911, and 1st and 2nd 7th. Section II has as its members 1st and Basement South, 2nd and 3rd South, 4th, 5th, 6th, 3rd, 7th.

Wolves Will Try Flashy Aerial Game

Lozier May Start In State Backfield Against Tar Heels

Sport Editor's Note: This article was so good that I thought it would be logical to bring it to the eyes of State College students and alumni.

by JOHN MARSHALL
Raleigh Times Sports Editor

The Wolves are snarling again—since a 6 to 2 victory over a scrappy Davidson team at Greensboro two weeks ago the West Raleigh team has been steadily gaining confidence. The victory, coupled with a new deal at State College in the coaching department, has worked wonders with the team. Last Saturday when the Heels tied by a classy South Carolina eleven it added more weight to the State band wagon.

That the Wolves will be out for blood Saturday when the two State schools tee off in their annual clash is no secret around the West Raleigh campus. While the team is silently working for the game with a new glint in their eyes the students at State are openly discussing a victory.

With the taste of blood still fresh, and the added momentum of the student body, the Wolves are howling longer and louder these days.

Not since 1927 when Jack McDowell and Bob Warren teamed up, have the Wolfpack succeeded in defeating the Heels. This week they hope to do just that. Doc Newton and his Pack are not saying much about the game and realize the going will be plenty tough. But you can't get away from the fact that State is riding high on the comeback trail.

The Tar Heels will encounter a different Wolfpack this week than they did last season. While this year's eleven does not sport the long list of widely heralded stars they have a good balanced line and a backfield that may prove troublesome. The biggest difference will be the spirit. The Wolves are fighting now and mark these words, "anything can happen."

Carolina may continue its offense to the ground and N. C. State to the air when the rival grid teams meet.

Carolina's running attack looked great against South Carolina last week. It was led by Co-captain Crowell Little and netted the Tar Heels 287 yards as compared to the 50 yards Carolina made on six completed passes.

State figures it will not be able to make much headway on the ground against Carolina's big and powerful forwards as South Carolina gained but 86 yards that way, but believes that it may meet with fair success by using passes. State defeated Davidson by the pass route.

The Wolfpack has a couple of good passers in Art Rooney and Eddie Berlinski and excellent receivers in Jess Tatum, Carroll Conrad, and Connie Mac Berry, ends. Rooney also is a good receiver as is Berlinski.

Carolina showed a weakness against passes in the South Carolina game, but Coach Doc Newton of State says this weakness will be ironed out of the Tar Heels this week by Coach Ray Wolf. Nevertheless, State expects to try the air frequently.

Both State and Carolina have good offensive clubs and the game here Saturday should result in one of the best of the year. Indications are that there will be lots of scoring with State entering the game as the underdog. State, however, would rather take Carolina than any other school on its schedule. In 29 games, State has beaten Carolina only three times. Carolina has won 21 and five resulted in ties. Both teams will be in good shape. Carolina suffered no serious injuries in the South Carolina game and State will have had two weeks to recover from its hard tussle with Davidson. The game will be played before a Homecoming Day crowd of more than 15,000 and the State students and ROTC regiment are planning special features to entertain the fans before the game and during the half.

STATE COLLEGE!

THUMP! A pigskin ball arcs up into the autumn air and projects its spinning, hard-to-handle bulk into the waiting hands of a husky gridman. The football season is on! We're always glad when the grid season rolls 'round, for State's teams have always been a credit to this rugged and typically American game. Everybody likes to win, and we're banking on a winning team this season, but we like to watch a State team, win or lose. There's a thrill to watching a group of clean, hard-fighting boys who work together and who play the game to its limit regardless of the score. Right now, before the Homecoming game of the season, we want to take this opportunity to say that, win or lose, we're wholeheartedly with the State team... a team that will be a credit to North Carolina because of its sportsmanship and spirit.

Golden Chain has as its purpose to foster prevailing traditions and to promote new traditions as they are needed. It is hard for the more than 2,000 students to become acquainted with each other on such a large campus, and the Golden Chain tries to make the new students feel that they are among friends.

ROTC Takes Part
Tomorrow afternoon, just before the annual clash between the football teams of State and the University of North Carolina at 3:00 p.m., the ROTC regiment will march on the field and sit in the student stands en masse. During the half, a special program has been arranged and the cadets will spell out and form certain words and figures with cards especially prepared for the occasion by Theta Tau, engineering fraternity.

As a climax to the entire Homecoming celebration, a dance will be held in the Frank Thompson gymnasium tomorrow night at 9:00 o'clock, and will be sponsored by the Blue Key and Golden Chain, honorary scholastic societies. The parents of the students will be the guests at this occasion. Music for the dance will be furnished by Freddie Johnson and his Orchestra, from the University of North Carolina.

ing large monuments erected for him as had all the past Presidents. Very careful in his criticisms of the court, Dodd nevertheless let his audience know his real attitude towards that judicial body.

Native of Carolina
Ambassador Dodd was born in Clayton, N. C., in October of 1869 and received his education at V.P.I. where he received his B.S. and M.S. degrees. He also received degrees from the University of Herzog, University of Alabama and Emory University, receiving his Ph.D. degree at Emory.

He is a noted author of many books of national and international interest, many on the history of the South and its prominent leaders. Many of his books were written while he was Professor of American History at the University of Chicago where he went to teach in 1908.

Dodd received his appointment as Ambassador to Germany in 1933 soon after the Democratic party and he has held that position since came into power under Roosevelt, that date.

Provoked Hitler
Ambassador Dodd provoked Chancellor Hitler's wrath when he did not attend a Nazi party conference held in Nuremberg. In his stead, Secretary Hull appointed Prentice Gilbert, American charge in Berlin, to serve as representative of the American government at the conference.

"Hull's action," according to a Washington newspaper, "was considered somewhat of a rebuke to Ambassador Dodd, and gave new currency to the belief that he would not return to his post in Berlin."

According to reports in diplomatic quarters, Dodd made himself unpopular with the Berlin government by criticizing Nazi policies in public speeches, but no recent developments of the situation have been reported.

While in North Carolina, Dodd will visit his father who lives in Fuquay Springs, and during his stay in Raleigh, he will visit at the home of his sister.
