News of N. C. Colleges Will Be Heard Weekly Through Station WPTF

Approved By NCCPA

Inauguration of College News Program Is Highlight of Recent Press Convention; Over Twenty N. C. Colleges Will Contribute To Regular Broadcasts

Students from the many North Carolina colleges will inaugurate a radio broadcast two weeks from now that will carry news articles and campus oddities from every college in this State to thousands of homes.

Originating in a plan proposed at the Collegiate Press Convention last week by Wesley Wallace, program director for Radio Station WPTF, every college will submit news articles concerning their own college directly to the TECHNICIAN, which will edit the news and prepare it for broadcast. Campus oddities, editorials, sports news, and socials will all be included in the broadcast, which is to be a regular weekly feature.

The program is not to be sponsored by any commercial concern at its beginning, but the delegates to the press convention voted their approval that the radio station should be allowed to sponsor the program if they so desired.

Although a definite time has not been set for the broadcast, it was predicted that the program would be aired between the hours of seven and eight o'clock in the evening, the best radio hour of the day according to radio officials, on any evening set by the students.

Campus newspapers of the colleges interested in the broadcast will prepare the news and send it directly to the TECHNICIAN to be edited. Annals, humor magazines, alumni news, and literary magazines will also present news articles to help in the broadcast.

According to officials of the program, this is the first time that a program of this nature has been presented to the State over the air.

Honor Society Holds Smoker

Blue Key Entertains Faculty and Honorary Members; Future Discussed

Meeting for the purpose of becoming better acquainted among themselves, members of Blue Key National Honor Society held a smoker at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday night with honorary members of the society and faculty members as guests.

President "Pete" Bronson gave a résumé of what the society has done this year and an account of its program for the remainder of the year.

David Ramsey, chairman of the budget committee, outlined the chapter budget for the current year. The trophies won on Stunt Night and Homecoming Day were exhibited to the society by Bronson, and it was announced that these trophies are to be presented to the winners at the next freshman assembly.

Bird Club To Hear Renowned Speakers

The Raleigh Bird Club will hold an open meeting in the auditorium of the college Y.M.C.A. Sunday evening at 8 o'clock and will present ornithologists of wide renown to discuss everyday bird problems with faculty, students and invited guests.

Speakers for the occasion will be Carl Buchshter, director of Audubon Nature from a camp in Maine, and William Bogt, editor of Bird Lore.

Moving pictures and slides will be shown of bird study, and an interesting program has been planned.

Everyone interested in ornithology is invited to attend.

ROTC MARCHES TO CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

Colonel Caffery Speaks After Parade; Wreath Placed On Monument

The State College ROTC regiment, participating in the Armistice Day celebration yesterday, marched down Fayetteville Street in platoons, front and very favorably impressed the thousands of spectators gathered to witness the colorful procession.

Despite a slight drizzle, the regiment, 1,000 strong, left the college campus at 9:45 a. m. yesterday morning and marched to the State Capitol, where they took their assigned position in the parade. After a short wait the procession moved off, and the State unit, in perfect step, marched down Fayetteville Street past the reviewing stand.

Back on the campus the entire regiment assembled again at noon beneath the World War Memorial Tower to honor the State students killed during the World War. With Cadet Colonel J. T. Massey as master of ceremonies, the State College Band began the program by playing the Star Spangled Banner. Reverend John A. Wright, Episcopal minister of Raleigh, gave the invocation.

Colonel Massey then introduced Colonel C. S. Caffery, commandant of the State College cadet regiment, who gave the principal address. He stated that the celebration of Armistice Day was not the glorification of war as many people contend. He outlined the conduct of the United States soldiers in our wars, asserting that there was nothing in their behavior to be ashamed of. He traced briefly the drawing up of the treaty of Versailles and stressed the part President Wilson, with his four-point program, played in drafting it and establishing the League of Nations.

Following Colonel Caffery's talk, a special detail laid a wreath upon the monument in the State College students killed during the World War, after which the regiment was dismissed.

NEW MEMBERS INITIATED BY STUDENT AG SOCIETY

At a meeting held last Tuesday night in the CE building, the AGC initiated a new group of members from the upper classes, which will end at a special meeting to be held next Thursday night, November 18th.

After the initiates were instructed as to what they will be expected to do, they were dismissed and a business meeting was held. Several important business matters were discussed, and a committee was appointed by the president to revise the constitution.

Reser's Got Electrical Swing And Nedra Gordinier Is To Sing

This week-end will hold many new thrills for the fraternity pledges, as well as the "vets." It gives the pledge a chance to step out in that new "tux" that he has been wanting to wear, and just show the fellows how big his chest really can be at times. The older members are also looking forward to the first "high hat, piccolo and cane" members affair of the year.

Harry Reser and his celebrated NBC orchestra have been engaged to play for the dances. Mr. Reser believes that electricity is the sign of the modern age, and what is more logical than making the full use of electricity in our present day musical organizations. The band leader has not let his belief stop as just a mere idea, but has built his whole musical combination on what he might call "anti-electrical rhythms," since his library is built around the function of the electrical organ and the electrical guitar.

John Zellner, who is featured at the Hammond electrical organ, included in the Reser instruments, is an artist in his own right, and the exceptional effects accomplished with this instrument offer a special attraction seldom found in dance units. This will be the

DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS IN ARMISTICE PARADE

The State College ROTC did itself proud yesterday in the annual Armistice Day parade. Shown above is the College Drum and Bugle Corps as they marched down Fayetteville Street beating cadence for the marching cadets.

DR. LOCHMILLER'S ADDRESS ON WAR PROVES POPULAR

History Professor Gives Talk, "Causes and Consequences of War" at "Y" Cabinet Meeting; To Speak On Subject Over Radio Sunday

Dr. David Lochmiller, professor in the history department at State, delivered an address on "The Causes and Consequences of War" at the regular meeting of the Junior-Senior YMCA cabinet Wednesday night.

On two previous occasions Dr. Lochmiller has delivered addresses on this subject, which is one of the leading issues in this country at the present time. He will deliver another address pertaining to this subject on the radio Sunday morning.

The speaker was introduced at the cabinet meeting by Ed King, secretary of the YMCA. In his address, Dr. Lochmiller pointed out that war had many causes, among which he listed fatalism, fantastical conceptions of national honor, the desire for control of raw materials, and the existence of a war cult that believes that war is necessary to prevent over-population.

These and others have been the causes of wars for the past 3,000 years, during which there has been only about 25 years of peace. The World War was not due to one particular nation, according to Lochmiller, but was due to the economic system and the military alliances existing in 1914.

Seventy Delegates Attend Convention For N. C. Pressmen

Over Twenty Schools Represented at Largest Convention in History of NCCPA

Seventy students from twenty North Carolina colleges met in Raleigh last week for the largest North Carolina Collegiate Press conference ever held in this State, and the largest convention in the history of the organization.

Coming from colleges large and small, the delegates gathered here to hear many of the State's best known publishers who were invited here to clear up problems encountered by student publishers of newspapers, annuals and magazines.

SENATOR BAILEY ACCEPTS MEMBERSHIP WITH CHAPTER OF STATE COLLEGE GRANGE

United States Senator To Be Initiated at Meeting of Grange Tonight

The State College Chapter of the Grange will be honored by having as a member United States Senator J. W. Bailey, who will be initiated into the society at a special meeting to be held in the YMCA Friday night, November 12, at 7:30 p. m.

Others who will join at the same time are: E. B. Browie, Sam Williams, J. T. Richardson, G. E. Smith, Jr., and Lillian Wicker.

Senator Bailey stated today that never before has he joined a fraternal order of any kind. G. W. Giles, professor of agriculture and master of the Grange, called the special meeting and will preside at the initiation ceremony Friday night.

The membership of the Grange is composed of both faculty and students, and all members are urged to be present. On Monday night, November 15, the regular meeting of the Grange will be held in the YMCA for the purpose of initiating over twenty new members into the State College chapter.

Beautiful Cover, 'Lurvely' Ads Turned Out By 'Wataugan' Lads

Strange as it may seem, and much to the surprise of everybody, including its staff, the supposedly humor magazine of State College—commonly called the Wataugan—has actually made its initial—and for all that we know, maybe the last—appearance for this year before the students.

After going up and getting my copy—this doesn't mean that I read it—I ambled into the TECHNICIAN office last Monday and found Cadmus situated very comfortably in a chair inclined at an angle of forty-five degrees with his pedal extremities elevated upon the desk. He was completely absorbed in what he was reading and did not notice me at first, but when he espied me, he quickly closed the cover of "that" magazine and attempted to hide it. Alas, he was too late, for I caught a glimpse of that very brilliant cover sheet, really the only thing of worth about "that" magazine. I asked him if he was reading such trash, for I had thought that he was on a much higher plane than to ever dream about descending to such a level. Very sheepishly and blushing profusely, he said "yes." Thinking this a very good chance to get an unbiased opinion about "that" magazine, I asked him just what he thought of it. "Summing it up in a few words," said Cadmus, "it is a magazine of ludicrous character led astray by its versatile staff. On second thought, I guess it is about all that could be expected, though. In a place in very small type and stuck away in a back corner, I read that the students may as well read THE TECHNICIAN for it was paid for; well, looking at the advertisements in "that" magazine, the students have not paid for it. Really, it is quite a task to detect those very musty, humorous stories cloaked between "lurvely" advertisements. "Since you're coming to State College," continued Cadmus, "and seeing the first issue of the Wataugan for that year, I have always looked forward to the next one, hoping against hope that I could send it to the folks back in Hogwaller Junction without them getting an adverse opinion of State College or its magazines. Well, from the looks of this issue they will just have to continue to live in sublime ignorance of the existence of "that" magazine."

RADIO AUDITIONS IN TALENT SEARCH TO BEGIN MONDAY

Preliminary Trials in WPTF's "Search for Talent" Campaign To Be Held On Campus Monday and Tuesday

Finishing touches were being made this week for the WPTF "search for talent" campaign which will begin on this campus next Monday and Tuesday, at which time State College students will be given a chance in the field of radio entertainers or announcers.

No restrictions have been placed on the entrants in this test, and any student who has ability to entertain, or who thinks he would make a radio announcer is asked to participate in this contest.

The preliminary tests will be given on these days by Professor Lodwick C. Hartley, who is in charge of the campaign of this campus. The "search" will be held in his office from one until two o'clock. Students who succeed in these trials will be given part-time employment by radio station WPTF, with possibilities of steady employment in the future. Entertainers who make good also have a great possibility of securing a sponsor for their program, which should insure regular work.

During the month of November WPTF is conducting their talent search throughout a wide area, and they consider State College as one of the most promising locations in the area in which they are carrying on their campaign.

Any student desiring to enter this contest should see Prof. Hartley this week.

Forensic Legislators Begin Sessions Today With Address By Hoey

"TED" MERCER SPEAKS AT "Y" ON MORALITY

Speaks Frankly To Small Groups On Personal Problems; Gives Advice

In a series of frank lectures to small groups, E. C. Mercer spoke at the YMCA this week concerning the intimate problems of young men of today.

"By far the most important problem of young men is the sex problem. During your college life you don't know as a 'trouble' because when you graduate and try to get a job your record here will be investigated. If your record is not clean, you don't stand a ghost of a chance to get a job," Mercer stated.

In a concluding statement of advice to students Mercer said, "Lead a clean life, read clean literature, take plenty of exercise, study hard, and let Christianity play an important part in your life." Apparently well pleased with State College, Mercer said, "State College is a college of high morals because the students are kept busy with their studies and other work. They have neither the time nor the money to spend in bad living."

Having spent a week here last year, Mercer returned at the special request of those who heard him at that time. It is in his belief that his lectures are beneficial to all and that no student should miss the opportunity to attend them.

His engagements for the remainder of his visit are as follows: Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Fourth Dormitory, Sunday at 9:45 a. m. at the Vanguard Sunday School of the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday at 6:15 p. m. at Meredith College, Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Sigma Pi house, Monday at 9:00 p. m. at the Seventh Dormitory, Tuesday at 6:00 p. m. at the Kappa Sigma house, Tuesday at 8:00 p. m. at the Kappa Alpha house, Wednesday at 6:00 p. m. at the Sigma Nu house, and Thursday at 7:00 p. m. at the Pi Kappa Tau house. Any other place in the area where arrangements with Mercer see E. S. King at the YMCA immediately.

DEBATE OF BOYCOTT BY U. S. PLANNED FOR FORUM MEET

The State College Forum of Public Opinion will discuss the subject "Resolved that the United States should boycott all Japanese goods and that we urge the other nations of the world to join with her in this boycott" on Tuesday, November 16, at 7 p. m. in the YMCA auditorium.

At the conclusion of the prepared speeches, there will be a thirty minute rebuttal period with all speeches limited to two minutes. Any member of the State College Faculty or Student Body may participate in the rebuttal.

FIRST IN SOUTH

Will Meet In State Capitol To Discuss Problems of Government; Program To Be Broadcast Over WPTF; Approximately 100 Delegates Will Attend

Representatives from seventeen colleges will convene at 2 p. m. today, November 12 in the State Capitol in Raleigh to hear Governor Clyde R. Hoey open the first Student Legislature ever held in the South.

Following the Governor's address, the House and Senate will elect speakers. As soon as officers are elected, the Rules Committee, composed of State College and Wake Forest students, will present the tentative rules for the assembly and the schedule of prepared legislation.

The galleries in both the House and the Senate will be open to visitors Friday afternoon and evening, and Saturday morning until adjournment. Radio Station WPTF will broadcast the discussion carried on at the Assembly from 9:30 a. m. Saturday morning.

Approximately 100 delegates representing Wake Forest, Peace, Meredith, Eastern Carolina Teachers' Institute, Mars Hill, Belmont Abbey, Saint Mary's, Appalachian State Teachers, Louisville, Campbell, Wingate, Atlantic Christian and the three divisions of the Greater University of North Carolina will attend. The assembly, sponsored by the State College Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, will adjourn sometime Saturday afternoon.

Following the adoption of the rules, the various bills at the end of legislation will make majority and minority reports in both the House and the Senate. State College committees which will make reports are the committee on educational reform, slavery, and educational reform.

Hartley Writes Book On Cowper

"William Cowper, Humanitarian" To Be Published Early Next Year

Dr. Lodwick C. Hartley, professor of English at State College, has just completed a book, William Cowper, Humanitarian, which will be published by the University of North Carolina Press early next year.

The book is a study of the poetry of the most popular poet at the end of the eighteenth century, William Cowper. This study is made showing the relation of Cowper's poetry to the great humanitarian movement in prison reform, slavery, and education taking place at that time.

This book is an extension of the dissertation that Dr. Hartley prepared to obtain his doctorate from Princeton University in February of 1937. Work on the book has covered a period of about three years.

Besides writing this book, Dr. Hartley has written many book reviews and articles for the Review and South Atlantic Quarterly.

McNatt Gives Views On Organized Labor

The members of the International Relations Club were guests of Delta Sigma Pi last Tuesday night to hear an address by Dr. E. B. McNatt, on "Current Trends and Policies in Organized Labor."

Dr. McNatt traced the labor movement from 1887 to the split in the labor party two years ago. He said that the future of American labor depended upon the ability of the two disagreeing factions to merge once again, and upon the movement of the business cycle. At the close of the address, the International Relations Club adjourned to its meeting room in order to hold a special election, in which Stephen Salter was unanimously elected president for the coming year.

Send the Team To Victory

THE train which will take our team northward to play Manhattan will leave Union Station at 9:05 tonight.

And we should be as eager to send our team off to battle as we are to receive them when they return victorious. With a rousing send-off a team necessarily has its spirit boosted to greater heights, and it is even more willing to do-or-die for dear old State College.

In an open-forum letter to the Student Body at this College, The State Magazine, edited by Carl Goerch, harshly meted out criticism to the students for the spirit they showed in sending their team to Boston last week.

Quoting, "So far as I know, there was no pep meeting or anything of that nature on the College campus prior to the departure of the team. At the Union Station in Raleigh there were probably ten or twelve people on hand to wish the boys good luck. And yet, when State defeated Boston College and returned home, there were close to a thousand cheering students on hand to welcome them."

That this is the stark truth cannot be denied, and the only excuse we can offer is that the team left when the students were busy preparing their lessons for Friday and were too busy to leave their work. However, we realize that we were partly in error.

But we will correct that error by showing our team a real send-off when they leave for Manhattan from the Union Station at nine o'clock tonight.

So be on hand and show your team just how much you are behind them.

You Are Invited

THE Pledge Dances this week-end are given by the Interfraternity Council which is the representative body of the social fraternities on this campus.

But because you are not a fraternity man does not mean that you cannot go to the dances. The fraternity men are glad to have you, and have invitations for any student that wishes to attend the set of dances. But to protect themselves from an influx of outsiders who are in no way connected with the College, they must necessarily demand that you present your invitation before you will be allowed to enter the dance hall.

Were this not their policy, anyone with the necessary amount of money could attend the dances, and the dances are not open to just anyone who wishes to attend. So if you expect to get into the dances, it will be wise for you to have your invitation with you.

If you have not been extended an invitation by your friends in fraternities, you can secure one, or find out where to get one, from the Dean of Students' office.

An Excellent Opportunity

STUDENTS of this and approximately twenty other North Carolina colleges will gather in the State Capitol Friday and Saturday to discuss weighty legislative problems.

And although their decisions will have no influence in the future legislation for the State, they will be given an excellent opportunity to delve into the intricate workings of the North Carolina Congress, consisting of both upper and lower houses.

Students will represent senators in the upper house and will represent legislators in the lower. Officials of the State will open the assembly for the students, and from then on, matters of the State will rest entirely in students hands.

There are a few seats in both houses that have not been spoken for, and students will profit greatly if they will take part in this student legislature. Students who are seated in either of the houses are excused from classes, so they need not fear losing their credits.

Visitors will be welcomed and this will afford them an excellent chance to see just how affairs of the State are conducted, a matter that should be of vital interest to every student.

N. C. STATE

Out of Our Own Home

STUDENTS are gradually being crowded out of their own cafeteria by people not in any way connected with the College.

For Sunday meals there are more people from outside eating at the cafeteria than students, or that is the way it looks to the students, for a long, continuous line of men and women with their families are there to get the excellent food at a price they could not match anywhere else in Raleigh.

And they come early, these invaders, and partake of the best foods, leaving the less-tempting remainders for the students, paying thirty or forty cents for a meal that would cost them twice that amount down town. And what right have these people to shove us aside in this manner, putting us out of our own home, in a manner of speaking. Simply because there is no law saying they can't.

To make a law to prohibit these people would mean that it would have to be presented and passed by the North Carolina Legislature, and it will not meet until next year. And even if we have that law passed, the manager of the cafeteria says that the law would necessitate an increase in price of board for students of from fifteen to twenty per cent, and the students certainly do not desire this.

This paper does not attempt to present a solution to the problem, but merely wishes to bring the exact situation to the eyes of the students, faculty, and college executives. That a bad situation exists is not to be doubted, and now is the time to correct it, not six months or a year from now. Those who think the situation is not bad should visit the cafeteria on Sunday and see for themselves. They will be convinced. Last Sunday, the management was forced to close its doors for a short time in order to prepare food for the ravenous mob.

Many students, rather than stand in line waiting to be served, have retreated to other boarding places near the campus. Is this forcing our own students out?

N. C. STATE

Protect Your Own Property

IT is the painful duty of this newspaper to warn the students that in their numbers is a rogue, or rogues, canvassing the college dormitories stealing anything they can get their hands on.

It is impossible to group together more than two thousand students and not have a few of the number who would stoop to any ignoble deed to promote their own interests. So the students are being warned to look out for that type of student, and when they catch him, to give him the reward he has invited upon himself. In the meantime, lock your doors when you leave your room, and do not leave money or anything valuable laying around the room, else you might come home and find them missing.

It is not our desire to throw a bad light on the College, but we think it is the duty of the paper to prewarn the students of their danger so that they will be prepared should a thief enter their rooms.

When a boy stoops so low as to steal stamps from letters that have been deposited in the college drops, it is time for students to join together and rid themselves of such an unworthy student.

There is only one just punishment for a thief, and the Student Council will take the necessary measures should they ever catch a man who has betrayed his fellow students by his thieving actions.

HERE and THERE

by Dick MacKenzie

After marching down town in the rain and then nearly freezing to death, I find my fingers positively refusing to move in response to my brain's request. I must not let Dick down so I am forced to make my fingers go around "Here and There" and put down those none too numerous scraps.

At last the "Big Apple" has reached the West Coast, according to the Los Angeles Collegian. This dance started off in the "Big Apple" but because of spreading, we will have to change the name. Who ever heard of an apple covering that much territory.

Why does Charles Dunnagan, better known as Munigan, have that far away look in his eyes. I don't know but they tell love has affected some people that way, but I think that maybe Charlie is just a little bit homesick for this past week. Brace up Charlie!

There are two people on this campus that never miss an athletic contest of any kind. If the entire campus had the same spirit that Dean and Mrs. Nelson show, I am sure that our team would be the best supported team in the country.

And while I'm speaking of the team, I might mention the fact that Citadel didn't show so much last Saturday even if they did gain more ground than we did. I'll predict another win this week.

The Sigma Pi's had a little excitement out their way last week when a frame-up fight ended in what appeared to be a serious gun battle. It seemed that Walt Chapman and Buck Branson had been at odds all week, and during the dance they had a few words. Later on, however, things reached a climax when Chapman came in and started fighting. The fellows parted them only to have Chapman pull a frightful looking weapon and begin firing. Immediately Buck fell to the floor, burst a small balloon of catsup in his pocket near his heart. He gave the real appearance of being mortally wounded. It took practically all night to quell the screaming masses and prove that all had been pulled in fun. Maybe these boys had better try out for the movies, or perhaps they are already of the professional calibre.

The S. P. E.'s are getting all dressed up around their house. They are not satisfied with the new wall paper and painting but have put in new furniture and draperies. I hear that Virgil Lane went kinda that way over the little secretary of NCCPA, or could it be Virgil's own pretty Pongalee she possessed. Luck to you, Virgil.

And speaking of Virgil, I had to make a personal inspection to see if he was sprouting wings after a brief perusal of the recent Watagan.

Dear Uncle Watt: I know A. B. Sorrell have his company halt and present arms at the St. Mary's girls when they passed on the way back to school yesterday? P. L. E. B. Dear P. L. E. B.: Wouldn't you give your arms to a real cute little St. Mary's "belle" if you had the chance.

News of N. C. Colleges Will Be Heard Through WPTF

(Continued from page 1) lanes, and it is expected that the broadcast will interest not only college students, but their families and friends throughout the State. Wake Forest College, because of its close proximity to Raleigh and radio station WPTF, will assist in the preparation of the news for broadcast.

At the Collegiate Press Convention held last week in Raleigh every delegate from the twenty colleges represented voted to support the program and to submit its program news in order to make the program a success.

The broadcast will be given to the students free of cost, and should any commercial concern sponsor the program, a salary will probably go to the manager, a student, who will have charge of the broadcast.

Seventy Delegates Attend Convention for Pressmen

(Continued from page 1) lems, students were counseled by well-known State Journalists who make their living in Journalism, and many new ideas and proposals for better publications were brought up by the delegates. Carl Goerch, versatile editor of The State magazine, addressed the group at a banquet in the Sir Walter Friday night, and he cited many news oddities found in North Carolina, but of excellent writing material for young journalists. Goerch pointed out to the delegates that there are many interesting facts in this State that afford great reader interest for newspapers and magazines.

The Honorable Clyde R. Hoey, Governor of North Carolina, addressed the association Saturday morning, but of course, his address was broadcast to the State by Radio Station WPTF, and at 11:30 a.m. the convention was officially closed. However, many student representatives stayed over for the State-Citadel game Saturday afternoon and for the dance that night. Charlotte will be the meeting place for the next convention sometime in the spring, but no definite date has been set by the host col-

"Already the World War has cost America more than 50 billion dollars," said the speaker, "and it has been estimated that it will cost 100 billion more before we get through paying for it."

The speaker offered the plan that we gradually begin to place more emphasis on peace and less on war as a means to achieve peace. He did not believe in an immediate scrapping of all armaments.

Immediately following Dr. Lochmiller's address, Sam Moss, president of the YMCA, gave a reading, The Unknown Soldier Speaks, which was an imaginary conversation between the author and the Unknown Soldier.

LOGGERS BALL

The State College Forestry Club will have its third annual Loggers Ball on Saturday night, November 20, in the Frank Thompson gymnasium.

Dancing will be from 9 until 12, with music furnished by Jimmy Fuller from the University of North Carolina.

The gymnasium will be decorated with pines and drappings, under the direction of J. W. Farris, chairman of the dance committee. Chaperones for the occasion will be Mr. and Mrs. Lenthall Wyman, Dr. and Mrs. J. V. Hofmann, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Slocum. Script will be seventy-five cents, tax included.

Error's News: This column will be conducted by members of the staff who will receive the sanction of the students. The column will be assigned each week to a different member; but if the readers have any columnist they favor, the column will become permanently his.

Trying to snap out of my day dreams long enough to get this column under way . . . and finding it almost impossible to keep my thoughts from wandering back to that grand week-end of the press convention . . . There seems to be something in a convention's roaring, it will all be over tomorrow atmosphere that gets me . . . and it seems to have gotten a number of others also . . . "Money" Dunnagan is still wandering aimlessly around practicing after dinner speeches and incoherently mumbling about his sadly depleted bank account . . . perhaps some kind soul should tell him that it's all over now.

Running in to Gene Dees the other day and listening to him tell of his romantic trials and tribulations thusly: "I met a little co-ed, and she was nice to me—But you can have her anytime, without expense or fee—For she is more than five-foot-six, and I am five-foot-three." Reading somewhere that there are two types of college men here at State . . . those who rest over the week-end in order to be ready for school, and those who rest during school in order to be ready for the week-end . . . and adding to that number the staff of the Watagan, who rest all of the time.

Still marveling at the display of military skill and precision shown by the track platoon from the Citadel during the half-time maneuvers at the game last Saturday . . . but more important was the success of our red-hot Wolfpack . . . they seem to be gaining momentum as the season draws to a close . . . the rejuvenated Manhattan eleven had best look to their laurels tomorrow . . . bearing that the powers that be are dicker with both Temple and West Virginia for games next year . . . with Furman being one of the teams to be dropped from the schedule.

Russell Burcham, who may be found at Morehead almost any night of the week, reporting that you can always tell a freshman girl because she says, "stopp!" . . . and you can always tell a freshman boy because he "stops!"

State College reverie: Heary-eyed students pulling down windows at seven-thirty in the morning . . . the swishing noise of bedroom-slippered feet in the hall . . . the odor of hot bread which wafts up from the cafeteria kitchen . . . the sound of stifled yawns and the shuffling of feet in the library . . . nightly calls to the "angel faces" . . . the bulletin board . . . monogram sweaters and crop-soled shoes . . . hour quizes . . . soggy doughnuts with lots of sugar on them . . . double-decker beds . . . the strident clanging of an alarm clock . . . an advance agent for a hard winter . . . pep meetings . . . letters from home, but no money in them . . . the blast of the whistle . . . worried seniors . . . a coca-cola with lemon . . . "Dynamite's" nimble fingers playing havoc with meal books . . . Raleigh prom-trotters and their time-worn lines.

Speaking to Hodges Boswell about his wanderings in Boston recently . . . He says, "I went to Chinatown the night after the game and drank so much Chinese tea that I woke up in the middle of the night and declared war on Japan." . . . My opinion of Ed. Davidson . . . an advance agent for a hard winter . . . Add ace faculty golfers . . . Prof. Hilton and Leda make up these two left feet.

Vainly endeavoring to float the necessary loans for the Pledge Dances which began this evening . . . and breathing a lengthy sigh of relief when a long forgotten debt was repaid . . . regaining my faith in humanity once again . . . Now to get the moth balls out of the old "tax" and warm up these two left feet.

And then there is the story making the rounds about a certain State College engineering professor who deserves a conspicuous spot in the ranks of absent-minded professors . . . The story goes that before leaving on a lengthy sojourn through Europe, this gentleman left very emphatic instructions that under no conditions were the specifications that he had drawn up for the construction of a new home to be changed in any way whatsoever, or he would refuse to pay for the job . . . Imagine his surprise and chagrin when he entered the house upon his return and found that there was no way of getting out of a doorway from his plans!

Downtown Thursday trying to be a one-man reviewing stand at the Armistice Day parade . . . one of the best of this correspondent has seen in years, by the way . . . too bad the weather man didn't come through with some parading weather . . . Wonder why Buddy Fry blushed so deeply when he marched past Woolworth's?

Home again after a short "lab" downtown and grabbing a heavy lunch in order to be on time for the kick-off of the Raleigh-Durham game . . . which proved to be quite a thriller . . . And realizing at last why the stadium is that brings the State men out in large numbers . . . it's a difficult task to keep one's attention on the game and not on Vernell Vaughan, Raleigh's cheer-leading eye ball.

I hear that the numerous "Dukes of Watagan" are planning a mass visit to the "angel farm" next Tuesday night under the leadership of Duke Richardson, who is said to be an old hand at the game . . . they seem to believe in the old broomde about safety in numbers.

Trying to figure out if Bunny Hines got a haircut or if he just got his head caught in a pencil sharpener . . . Jimmie Catlin has a new angle on the piano selling business which isn't bad considering the source . . . Get Eddie Berlmak to tell you about the autograph hounds who literally mobbed him at Bown-Inley's the other day . . . It looks as though it took that all-important trip to New York to finally get Eddie Ewistle to shave the shabby from his chin . . . Jimmie Worrell is said to be in the market for a horse.

Now off to the station to help give the team a real send-off . . . see you down there . . . STEPHEN SALLER.

Techs Amble To New York To Meet Jaspers

NEWTONMEN SEEK SEASON'S SIXTH IN GOTHAM FRAY

Manhattan Running Attack Dangerous; Displayed Weak Pass Defense In Past Battles

State's game with Manhattan tomorrow at Ebbet's Field in New York will be Homecoming Day for five members of the team—Cecil Brownie, Ed Coon and Tony Di Yesso, who hail from White Plains; Louis Mark from the Bronx, and Mickey Sullivan, a native of Staten Island.

These boys are sure to be on their toes in their home town. Eddie Berlinki is a native of Bloomfield, New Jersey, as is Paul Losier. Both these boys will carry the mail for State.

The game looms as the crucial one of the season, for if Doc Newton's proteges win, as they are favored to, this year's team will be the best one since the 1929 Southern Conference champion team.

This game will be the third of a series begun in 1935. So far each team has one victory to its credit. In 1935, with Steve Sabol, State's All-American center, and Charlie "Holy-cow" Gadd, the Wolves trounced the Jaspers 20-0. The next year Manhattan won by the narrow margin of 13-7.

Chick Meehan's boys are a powerful bunch, but are inclined to be erratic in their playing. They started the season off with a bang by defeating Michigan State, but were then swamped by Villanova 20-0. They are consistent in one thing, and that is in yardage gained on the ground. They have with almost clock-like precision gained more yards through rushing than have their opponents; but their pass defense has been weak and almost lacking. If State's man attack clicks as well as it did in the Boston fray, they should give the Jaspers plenty of trouble.

Line Coach Hickman, who scouted Manhattan in their game with Detroit last week, reports their forward wall to be heavy and hard charging, and says that Jim Moffitt, gigantic 6-foot 4-inch tackle, who tips the scales at 245 pounds, is the best he has seen this year. According to Hickman, Dorsay and Dally, their two flankers, are splendid on offense and defense, and Fusta and "Christ" Kingle are excellent backs.

Coach Newton gave the team several new plays this week, and sent the varsity against the B team, which ran through the game with ease. Line plays, blocking and tackling were emphasized, Doc feeling satisfied with his charges' passing ability. Berlinki was back in harness, having recovered from his injury, although he suffered in the Citadel game. However, Dick Thompson, stellar end, will be out for the rest of the year. Dick graduates this year, but he will be long remembered on the campus as a swell fellow and a grand ball player.

Pictured above is Alex Regdon, former football player and boxing coach. Regdon was appointed boxing coach this year, replacing Peele Johnson. Coach Regdon will meet all the fresh candidates at the gymnasium next Wednesday afternoon at 4:30. The varsity men have been working out for a week and according to Regdon, there is plenty of talent on the squad.

Sports Glimpses

by Bob Blackwood

Rack up number five for Doc Newton. . . . What a feather in his cap—to have so definitely changed the aspect of football on our campus in his first year as coach. . . . In the game 7-6, there was no let-down in the play of the Wolves. Instead they went ahead with the same serene confidence displayed by their mentor and proceeded to put the game on ice. . . . Rooney's play was about his best of the season, and tossing accurate passes and running like something possessed. . . . I think many of the fans present underestimated the small but scrappy Bulldog because of their comparative size. . . . The Wolfpack really had to "truck" to whip them the way they did. . . . The loss of Dick Thompson will hurt the Newtonmen in their next two battles. Dick played a whale of a game against Boston and was doing a good job Saturday before he dislocated his arm. . . . The final report on Eddie Berlinki's injury raised the State stock a couple of hundred points when it was found that his injury, although painful, would not keep him on the sidelines tomorrow against Manhattan. . . . I heard one old football follower comparing Bob Sabolyk's style of running to that of Tony Lafferty. The substitute Wolf back has certainly shown real talent and should be an important cog in the grid machine next fall. . . . Items from the Northeastern University News states the following about the Boston game: "Outplaying the Eagles in every department, North Carolina defeated them 12-7. A spectacular run through the whole Eagle team by Eddie Berlinki late in the last quarter gave the Wolfmen their margin of victory". . . . Sounds like the report on a Carolina win. . . . The Chick Meehan of Manhattan has been forewarned of the Wolfpack strength, as scouts have been returning from the last few State games yodelling praises for the Wolfpack. The Jaspers have been playing erratic ball all season, clicking some days but looking rather weak on others. . . . Their best bet is Dick Fusta, a galvanizing fullback who has done the greatest part of the ball carrying this season. . . . They edged out the powerful Detroit U. eleven last Saturday, after taking Georgetown the previous week-end. . . . I'll pick the Wolves to grind over the Jaspers by a couple of touchdowns. . . . The Duke-Carolina classic will occupy a warm place in the hearts of fans in the Carolina, tomorrow. . . . I still am bragging about that bet of mine with Dick Mac Kenzie in which he gave me Carolina and 21 points. . . . I'd almost bet the old family homestead on that one. "May be wrong but I feel that Duke can't take the Tar Heels by over 12 points at the most. . . . As the AP writer —Continued on page 4.

WOLVES MANGLE CITADEL'S DOGS IN TOUGH TILT

After Trailing 7-6, the Wolfpack Displays Flashy Attack To Score Three Touchdowns and Bury the Citadel, 26-14

State's football team, encountering much firmer opposition than it had expected, defeated a hard-fighting Citadel team last Saturday before a crowd of 9,000. The Wolves scored in every quarter, tallying on the ground and through the air, to take the game 26-14.

The victory gives Doc Newton the best record of any first-year coach State has ever had, and places the team among the best the campus has ever seen.

Although the Citadel led in statistical figures, and even held the lead for a short while, State had complete control of the game. The most outstanding player on the field was Carroll Conrad, who did everything an end should do—repeatedly breaking up plays and getting down under the punts with speed. He blocked well and tackled hard, and to sum it up, gave a brilliant performance.

Rooney, Sabolyk, Mastrolia, Acal and Retter played well for the Wolves. State's big gun—Mark, Brownie, Pileosno, Mac Berry, Mastrolia and Berlinki—saw little action. Doc Newton fearing injuries which might prevent them from playing in the Manhattan game.

Dick Thompson, the last man of the starting team to leave, was forced out of the game by a dislocated elbow. "Buzzer" Berlinki suffered a torn ligament, but the damage was not serious.

"Cookie" Robinson, the Cadet's dimpled halfback, was the star of the Bulldog's offense, and Andy Sabados, playing the pivot position, lived up to his reputation of being one of the best centers in South Carolina. The Cadets were forced to play without their regular ends, King and Manly, both of whom were injured in the South Carolina game. However, Bill Spahn, Raleigh boy, filled one of the positions splendidly. Orville Rogers, tackle and captain, played a good offensive game.

State's first score came within four minutes of the opening whistle, after a State punt had touched Cooke Robinson and had been recovered by Dick Thompson. Bob Sabolyk carried the ball across on the first play. The attempt to convert was no good.

Citadel struck pay dirt after a 32-yard run by Robinson. Mutt Gee carried the ball across and Robinson converted. State's next tally came on a 21-yard pass from Rooney to Berlinki, who romped across the end zone. Helms converted.

The Wolves' third score came after Ken Sands had intercepted a pass. Rooney carried the ball across and then added the extra point. In the fourth quarter Sabolyk heaved a long pass to Rooney, who crossed into the end zone for State's last score of the day.

This Week's Star . . .

Pictured above is Warren Woodson, scrappy Tech guard. Warren gets the place of honor this week through his fine play throughout the season. Woodson was born in Baltimore, Md., December 29, 1914 and attended Calvert High School there. He was a three-letter man participating in football, wrestling, and track. He was especially good on the gridiron, making all-State in his junior and senior years. Warren enrolled here in 1934 in the Forestry School, and he made a fine record scholastically, as well as athletically, being the possessor of an 84 average for his first three years. He played football his freshman year and then his junior year, making his monogram that season. After graduation this spring he will return to State and take graduate work and will be able to participate in football again due to his lay-over during his sophomore year. Last summer he spent his time at a forestry camp. He is a member of the Monogram Club and Forestry Club and is a second lieutenant in the ROTC Corps.

HE NABS 'EM!

When Connie Mac Berry is in the game for the Wolfpack the opposition frantically tightens up their pass defense, for the lanky State tight end is a pass receiver with spread far and wide. Look out Manhattan!

'MURAL MUSINGS

by BOB COLEMAN, JR.

I've been over at the Infirmary since Wednesday, so I've missed most of the intramural events of the week, but from what Krochmal has told me there have been plenty of fireworks. The fraternity wrestling finals led the intramural program during the past week as far as interest and attendance indicated. The Sigma Nus won the matches with 185 points; the SPES's second with 123½, and the AKII's came in third with 117½ points. A summary can be found at the end of the column. . . .

The defending champions lost their first fraternity football game in four years last Tuesday when a powerful AKII team defeated the Pikas 7-0. Honeycutt starred in the winners' backfield, while Grady and Lovell starred on the line. Harris led the losers. . . . 2nd and 3rd and South remained in the undefeated column by administering a 6-2 beating to previously undefeated 1st and basement South. Sineback played a fine game at the pivot position for the winners, and Holyfield was a splendid wingman. . . .

All the leaders have comparatively easy schedules this week and should come out on top. The AKII's play a twice defeated KA team. 2nd and 3rd South tackle an undefeated 5th team. 5th has not been at all impressive in their wins, and were tied by a weak 4th team. The SPES have their toughest opponents in the Kappa Sig's, but should emerge the victors. . . .

Last week my average came up to 300. I hit four and missed one. Below is printed a sports calendar with my choices starred 'vs.' Today: Football—Sigma Nu' vs.

Frosh Show Power In Dropping Game To Favored Dukes

Small Wolflets Give Hettler Opponents a Tough Battle But Go Down By a 22-0 Count

Duke University's flashy freshman football aggregation walked off with a 22-0 decision over the N. C. State Frosh footballers last Friday afternoon.

It was Duke all the way. From the first minute to the final whistle it was Duke. The first minute of play netted the visitors a touchdown and they scored in each of the remaining periods.

A strong passing attack almost gave the locals a touchdown in the final quarter but the whistle blew just as things were beginning to happen. When the game ended the Techlets had possession of the ball on the 20-yard line. This was as near as the local frosh got to "goal" dust.

Holmes came through on a lateral to score the Duke Imp's first touchdown. Two additional points were added when Frye was thrown for safety when attempting to pass. Captain Ed Morel scored the next touchdown. One of the tackles, Carl Deane, slipped off tackle to score the final six points.

Four Raleigh boys—Julian White, Everette Carter, Mac Williams, and Bill Smith—paced the losers. White, Carter and Williams starred in the line while Smith was the big gun among the backs. McAfee, Darnell, Morel, Winter-son, Hennis, Marion and Killian paced the winners.

STATE QUINT BEGINS DRILL

Flock of Last Year's Regulars and Substitutes Turn Out For Practice In First Week; Outlook Bright For Sermonites

State College, always a strong contender for the Southern Conference basketball championship will be a strong threat again this season.

The squad has been practicing in the gym since last Monday, the day on which Doc Sermon, the Red Terror's coach, called for candidates for the team to turn out.

State will play three practice games before the Christmas holidays, and will begin its official schedule after the vacation. A tentative schedule includes, besides the Southern Conference teams, Georgia Tech and Duquesne. However, this is not yet official.

Three varsity players of the 1936 team now in school are Mac Berry and Mann, high scorers of the Southern Conference last year, and Hill.

In addition to his seasoned material, Coach Sermon will have a number of promising sophomores coming up from the yearling ranks. The list includes a number who will give the varsity cagers a hard race for positions. There are also a number of reserves from last year's team.

again until their defeat at the hands of the Fordham Rams.

State will give New York fans a chance to see some of the finest football from the South when they tackle Manhattan. The Wolfpack will start the game minus Dick Thompson at end and will have two or three other halfway cripples in the line-up.

Davidson also journeys up into Yankeealand when they meet Harvard in Boston. The Wildcats probably will use Tony Lafferty very seldom, due to his weak ankle, and their chances of taking the Crimson's are slight.

The Deacons will finally meet a team of their own calibre when they take on Wofford. The injury-ridden Baptist team has never had a chance to put its full strength on the field of battle, but Wofford is underrmanned and should not put up much resistance.

Duke-Heel Battle Standout of Week

Featuring the Big Five card for the week-end will be the playing of the grudge battle between Carolina and Duke University. The game is always considered a classic throughout the nation and this year's battle should not prove to be an exception, with both eleven possessing fine records. Duke has traveled a long way since their heartbreaking tie with Tennessee, while Carolina also started slow and were not checked

Fourth Dormitory Holds Open House

Faculty Well Represented At Gathering; Meet Students and Inspect Rooms

Freshmen at Fourth Dormitory were hosts last Wednesday night from 7 to 9 o'clock at an Open House held in honor of all faculty members and administrative officials of the college.

Many of the members of the faculty, attended and all seemed well pleased with the neat and attractive rooms in the dormitory. Without exception the rooms were clean and orderly, and this indicated extensive preparation on the part of the freshmen.

Recently elected dormitory president, James Kalaf, received the visitors and accompanied them on a friendly tour of inspection through the dormitory, guests stopping here and there to talk with the students.

Refreshments were served and music for the occasion was furnished by the "Fourth Dorm Serenaders," an orchestra composed of boys living in the dormitory. Dormitory President Kalaf extended a personal invitation to Governor Clyde R. Hoey, who expressed his regrets that he could not come due to a previous engagement at Black Mountain.

In the Homecoming Day contest, Fourth won first place for dormitory decorations and the cup won by them was on display during the latter part of the evening. It will be formally presented to the dormitory at the next freshmen assembly.

STATE
It was left for the inimitable William Powell and his charming colleague of the screen, Myrna Loy, to immortalize the trailer in celluloid.

This is the combination which co-stars for the seventh time in "Double Wedding" coming to the State on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The picture is the adaptation of Ferenc Molnar's international stage hit, "Great Love." And again, as may be expected, the screen adds to the charm of the original.

No more laugh-provoking picture has been on a local screen in years. Powell and Miss Loy were delightful in "Labeled Lady," "After the Thin Man" and others, but their combination of talents has reached its peak in "Double Wedding."

They have the support of an unusually able cast, including Florence Rice and John Beal, as the principals in the first wedding, Jessie Ralph, Edgar Kennedy, Sidney Toler, Mary Gordon, Barnett Parker, Katherine Alexander and Priscilla Lawson. It is a hand-picked cast.

A crime doesn't pay series "Soak the Floor," and news are the "Idded subjects."

Open House Night Held By 7th Dorm

around the Naval Academy at Annapolis; and some of the best football sequences to be made for a motion picture are all found in "Hold 'Em Navy," which will play at the Palace Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The fun is heightened by the presence of Benny Baker, Archie Twitchell and Tully Marshall, and the football is executed by the University of California team.

The story has to do with the rivalry of John Howard and Lew Ayres; as both of them want the same post on the football team, and the same girl—Mary Carlisle. When Lew comes to Annapolis as a plebe, he incurs the enmity of Upper-classman Howard by falling in love with Mary, who has been Howard's girl.

In Ayres' second year he is competing with Howard for the post of first-string quarterback, which Howard wins. The night before the Army game finds Howard out too late. By playing drunk Ayres creates a diversion which allows Howard to get in unseem. Ayres is barred from the game, but Navy wins. When Howard tells the school of Ayres' trick, Ayres becomes the most popular man in the Academy, and also with Miss Carlisle.

The third floor of Seventh Dormitory played host to members of the faculty of the college recently by holding "Open House Night."

The object of this occasion was to bring about a closer relationship between the students and the faculty members. The boys were capable hosts, and their rooms were extremely pleasing to the visitors, being made more attractive by rugs, curtains, pictures, and banners. Punch and cookies were served to all the visitors.

Observers described the reaction of the faculty as one of "surprise and gratification" at the neatness and attraction of the rooms and the friendly attitude of the students.

The custom of having open house was dropped last term, but beginning with this term there is an indication that the custom will be revived.

The chairman of the entertainment committee was Arnold Krochmal, while the welcoming committee consisted of Tommy Keyes, Gary Magrath, and Le Grand Johnson.

Harvey Snipes, Clyde Kirkland, Frank Sabol, and Charley King are the upper-class counselors on this floor of seventh.

Tentative line-up of the Wolves is: Mac Berry and Conrad, ends; Mastrolia and Helms, tackles; Pilonso and Brownie, guards; Mark, center; Murphy, quarterback; Rooney and Berlinski; halfbacks; and Sands, fullback.

The team will leave Raleigh this evening, to arrive in New York early tomorrow morning, staying at the Vanderbilt Hotel. They will remain in the "Big City" until Sunday, and will start for home Sunday night.

Six Ceramic Men Get Keramos Bids

Six juniors in the Department of Ceramic Engineering have been extended bids to Keramos, national professional ceramic fraternity. They are: W. C. Cross, Mt. Uila, N. C.; J. C. Harris, chairman; and the committee on county consolidation and reappointment of the members to the regular Legislative Assembly, H. B. Uberman and E. A. Fitzmaurice, co-chairmen.

Joseph T. Frye of State College is the student president of the Assembly; Harold Zekaria, secretary; and Professor E. H. Paget, faculty director. Other representatives of State College at the meeting will be C. K. Watkins, T. N. Steinbock, C. V. Fowles, W. F. Lathan, G. Scarborough, W. M. Osborne, and Charles Beam.

This year Winthrop College will be the only out-of-state school invited to participate in the legislature. This is due to its activity and interest in forensic programs, especially its sponsoring of the Dixie Championships and Grand Eastern Tournament this year. However, if this year's assembly is successful, State College plans to invite all the colleges in the South Atlantic region to send delegates next November to a Student Congress which will consider national problems, especially those of particular interest to the South.

VAN LEER ENTERTAINS

Dean and Mrs. Blake Van Leer entertained the student members of the Engineer's Council of N. C. State at an informal buffet supper in their home Sunday evening. Included among the guests were Colonel and Mrs. Harrelson and Dean and Mrs. Riddick.

as Welcome as mail from home...

Anchored 47 miles off shore, the Nantucket Lightship guides traffic on the Atlantic Coast. Mail and supplies come aboard once a month—one of the most welcome arrivals is the supply of Chesterfields.

Chesterfields give more pleasure to smokers wherever they are...

On land or sea or in the air Chesterfields satisfy millions all over the world. They're refreshingly milder... They're different and better.
