Since North Carolina State College has been approved by the United States Government to carry on a phase of the pilot training under the Civil Aeronautics Authority, final plans are under way to install the training division.

Business Leader Speaks To Juniors At Class Meeting

Business Analyst and Lecturer Presented to Class by Raleigh Times

Members of the Junior class heard H. W. Wischaupt, lecturer on personality building, a business analyst and merchandising counselor, at their regular meeting in Pullen Hall yesterday.

Wischaupt's visit to Raleigh was sponsored by The Raleigh Times, and he was introduced by John Park, editor of the paper.

Looking into the future, the speaker thought he saw in the assembly before him a future Governor of North Carolina, but also one or two of the best juniors State College would have in the same group.

Choosing Work

The choosing of work should be done with consideration for the type of mind which one has, stated the lecturer, and bearing these in mind every man should plan his work ten or fifteen years before the time when he hopes for success. "There is a scarcity of good, dependable young men to fill the really good jobs that are open," said Wischaupt. He advised the juniors to have dreams, and then to work for their fulfillment.

Discuss Dance

President Jim Mitchiner then called for a discussion of the class on the annual Junior-Senior Prom, and asked for the juniors to decide whether they wished to have the dance in conjunction with a fraternity or have a separate dance on Saturday night.

With an almost unanimous vote the class members decided to have an exclusive dance on Saturday night.

Textile Society Features Johnson

Mill Conditions Discussed By Professor at Tompkins Textile Society

"The people that are working for you are far more valuable than the machines you rely on to earn money in the textile industry," stated Professor Ted Johnson Tuesday night before the members of the Tompkins Textile Society.

Johnson spoke on the subject of "Mill Sanitation and the Conditions in Modern Mill Villages." He stressed the importance of educating the workers in sanitation and showing a genuine interest in their welfare.

Elections Held

Prior to Johnson's address, elections were held for members of the dance committee to be in charge of the annual Lint Doggers' Ball, which will be given on April 21. Two members of the senior class, two members of the junior class, one sophomore and one freshman were elected to serve. The seniors chosen were E. P. Henley and Steve Saller; the juniors, Don Hamilton and Charles Eggs; William Morrison will serve as sophomore member and Gordon Sandridge as freshman member. Henley was appointed chairman of the committee by President Ed Johnson.

C. A. Reddick, a State graduate of the Class of 1907 and present owner of the Carlton Mills, also spoke briefly to the group.

Red Terrors to Meet Gallopers Cadets To- night; Play Host to Terps Tomorrow

Two Southern Conference basketball teams will come to Frank Thompson Gym this week-end to battle the Red Terrors of State College in two of the season's important clashes. V. M. I. will play the Terrors Friday night and the Terrors will be host to Maryland Saturday night.

The starting lineup for the Red team will be the same as that which faced Duke last Tuesday night. The six iron men are all in good shape and will see plenty of action in the two clashes. P. G. Hill and Boll Mann will be at forwards and Selby Jones will hold down the pivot position. At guards Doc Sevier, last in Sevier, Kennie and Hamilton three of the finest guards in the State, and the invaders will see plenty of them this week-end.

V. M. I. Veterans

The sophomores will be out to take the honors away from the veterans on the V. M. I. team. The leading soph on the team is Bob Foster, who will be bidding for a starting berth on Jimmy Walker's all-monogram five, which consists of Captain Taylor, Andy Trezick, Win Coleman, Paul Shu and Doc Saunders. Other leading sophs on the team are Shelby and Stumpf.

Paul Shu, All-Southern football player, will be the sparkplug in the Cadets' attack. Shu led the conference in scoring last year, and besides this plays a brilliant floor game. Trezick, winner of the Jacobs Trophy for blocking in football, will spark the Cadets' attack from the floor.

Bob Foster, star of the freshman team, is living up to his reputation as a speedy floor man, and may get the call to start tonight.

Date Is Announced For Military Ball

Committee Making Final Arrangements for Annual Ball by ROTC

The annual military ball, eagerly looked forward to each year by the local dancing contingent, will be presented this year on Saturday night, February 18. The dance is sponsored by the State College ROTC regiment of the orchestra scheduled to "provide the music for the occasion has not been announced as yet, but the committee is dickering with one of the best bands in the South. Dick Ballou and his radio orchestra played for last year's ball.

The gym will be attractively decorated and there will be a special figure composed of all the senior officers and their dates. The dance will be formal and all cadets will wear their full dress uniforms. Members of the dance committee stated that despite rumors to the contrary, freshmen and sophomore cadets may wear their regular uniforms with the white shirt and white dress belt.

Engineering Dean Joins Fraternity

Van Leer Initiated Into Theta Tau, Professional Engineering Society

The Rho Chapter of Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity at State College, formally initiated into its ranks as an honorary member, Blake R. Van Leer, dean of the School of Engineering at State College, in ceremonies held last night.

Dean Van Leer was unanimously elected by the active members of the chapter, and by two hundred and thirty-seven alumni scattered throughout the United States. Many of the alumni were present at the initiation, and among them were Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration at State College; W. Vance Baise, State highway engineer; C. L. Mann, Jr., and Harry Tucker, professor of highway engineering at State College and an honorary member of Theta Tau.

Before coming to State College in 1937, Dean Van Leer was dean of engineering at the University of Florida. He is a member of many organizations and societies and is an outstanding figure in the engineering world.

A banquet and dance will be given by the chapter at the Carolina Hotel on February 11, in honor of Dean Van Leer and the new members taken in last term.

Ag Club Hears Noted Lecturer

Clarence Henry, educational director of the Chicago Board of Trade, was the feature speaker at the meeting of the Ag Club last Tuesday night.

Henry, introduced by Dr. Cotner, spoke on international trade and the agricultural problems. He is now on a tour of the United States.

The next meeting of the Ag Club will be held on Thursday night, February 9.

Pilot Training. Authorities Inspect College Aeronautics School and Raleigh Airport

Officials of the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the National Youth Administration this week inspected and approved facilities at the Raleigh airport and State College for teaching aeronautics in connection with the experimental program designed as the forerunner of a national project to train 20,000 civilian pilots annually.

State College is one of 13 colleges and universities selected to participate in the demonstration project. It broadens the program for training civilian pilots is feasible.

The government-subsidized training of the 20 students allotted to State College should begin about mid-February, the officials announced after conferring with Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the School of Engineering, and Prof. Leslie R. Parkinson, head of the college's mechanics and pilots training division.

Advisory Committee Coincident with the visit of the Federal officials, Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, appointed an advisory committee representing several professions to handle problems concerning health, legal matters, discipline, engineering and educational aspects of the flight training program at State College.

Asked to serve on the committee were Dean Van Leer, who was designated as chairman; Prof. Parkinson, representing Serv-Air Corporation, operator of the Raleigh Airport; Attorney General Harry McMillan; Dr. A. C. Campbell, college physician; A. F. Bowen, college treasurer; Prof. L. L. Vauqu, head of the mechanical engineering department; E. L. Cloyd, dean of students; and Prof. C. M. Heck of the physics department.

NYA Enrollment At All-Time High

2,304 Students in North Carolina Will Receive Aid During Current Year

College and graduate NYA aid will reach an all-time peak in North Carolina this year. In 1938-39, when 2,324 students will receive a total of $313,635.

Aubrey Williams, NYA administrator, announced that the program would reach $7,886 more students this year in the United States since the program has been enlarged to take in 13 1/2 per cent more than last year.

The number aided is based on the total enrollment of students between the ages of sixteen and twenty-four, 9.3 per cent of the total being taken as the number to be helped. Undergraduates may receive an average of $15 per month and graduates an average of $30 per month.

In November of 1938 an average of 12.11 dollars was paid to 112,844 students. More and more students are desiring to receive NYA help each year, but the only solution to this problem other than larger appropriations is the reduction of amounts paid monthly. The appropriation for the present year stands at $11,838,555.

Ag Engineers Form Chapter of ASAE

Newly Chartered Student Branch Is First National Society In Ag School

Students in the School of Agricultural Engineering at State College have recently organized a student branch chapter of The American Society of Agricultural Engineers, the first national society of any kind to be established in the agricultural school.

The object of this chapter is to foster a closer relationship between students in agricultural engineering at State College, to encourage leadership, to acquaint the students with activities in agricultural engineering, and to promote a greater interest in the profession.

Glee Club Gives Prison Concert

In response to a request from the Reverend Doctor J. H. Cooper, chaplain at the State Prison, the State College Glee Club will present a concert at the prison chapel on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Glee Club members will report for a special rehearsal this evening at 6:20 p.m. and will meet at the central gate of the prison at 2:10 Sunday afternoon.

Hart, Deering, Philpott and Bodein to Address State Students and Faculty

Religious Emphasis Week at State College will get under way Sunday night, when three of the four visiting speakers will appear in local churches, and will continue through Friday night, when the last in the series of lectures will be presented in the college "Y."

Harry Philpott, secretary of the Christian Council at Washington and Lee University, will be the speaker at the West Raleigh Presbyterian Young Peoples meeting at 8:45 o'clock. Paul N. Deering, "Sage, humorist, and Bishop of Blackburg," will lead the forum discussion at the Church of the Good Shepherd, and Dr. Vernon F. Bodein will speak at the evening service in Pullen Memorial Baptist Church. Dr. John R. Hart will not arrive in Raleigh until Monday.

ROTC Audience

In order to give the student body an opportunity of hearing at least one of the visiting speakers, Major Kenneth W. Althaus will ask the ROTC unit to march into Pullen Hall, Monday at noon. Dr. Bodein will speak to the students at this time on "Flying Blind."

Tuesday at noon the visitors will address the four sections of the freshman class, at the invitation of the deans of the four schools. Dr. Jack Hart will speak to the engineering students, and the textile students will hear Dr. Bodein. Philpott will address the students in education, and Paul N. Deering will speak to freshmen in agriculture.

Thursday at noon Dean E. L. Cloyd has invited Jack Hart to speak at the assembly of the entire freshman class.

Program

There will be four evening meetings held in the YMCA to which students, faculty members, and the general public are invited. Each address will be a unit, beginning promptly at seven and closing at eight o'clock. Monday the subject will be "Lollypops and Soothing Syrup," and no meeting will be held Tuesday on account of the Wake Forest basketball game. Wednesday the topic will be "Real Estate Religion," followed by "Wake Up and Live." —Continued on page 2.

Publications Key and Annual Banquet Reports to be Presented for Discussion

The State College Publications Board will hold its regular meeting today at 4 o'clock in the Publications Building. C. R. Lefort, secretary of the board, announced yesterday.

The official report of the annual committee in charge of the annual publications banquet will be presented at that time. The banquet this year is to be held at the Carolina Hotel, on Tuesday night, February 21. The speaker for the occasion has not been secured as yet, but the committee has asked Johnathan Daniels, editor of the News and Observer and author of "A Southerner Discovers the South," to serve.

The committee appointed to approve the awarding of publications keys will also present its report at this meeting. The keys are presented each year at the banquet to members of the various staffs who meet the necessary requirements.

State To Play Tennessee Vols In '39 Classic

Wolves to Tangle With Colorful Orange Bowl Victors Here September 29

True to the promise to give football fans of the state a chance to see the best teams in the country, the football schedule committee of North Carolina State College today announced that the University of Tennessee, Orange Bowl victors, will play the Wolfpack here September 29.

Scheduling of this game assures football lovers of the opportunity to take in a double-header in the Raleigh sector, for the next afternoon the annual North Carolina-Wake Forest game will be played at Chapel Hill.

Efforts were made to book the Tennessee game for Saturday night but Coach Bob Neyland refused and in order to have the Vols play in Raleigh, State officials agreed to play host on Friday afternoon.

Colorful Team

One of the finest and most colorful teams in the nation, Tennessee's most recent triumph was the rout of the highly-touted University of Oklahoma eleven in the Orange Bowl game at Miami, Fla., New Year's Day.

Tennessee long has been a football power and a producer under the famous Neyland of all-Americans, including State's own line coach, round Herman Hickman. It so happens that Coach Williams (Doc) Newton, a junior, was a member of Neyland's staff eight years ago, before becoming head coach at Davidson and then moving to State.

Vols Popular

The Vols are popular in this area, having played two of the Wolfpack's sister clubs—Carolina and Duke—in years gone by.

This fall they will meet two all-Americans, Halfback George Cafego and Guard Bob Snuffridge. The latter is one of the few sophomores ever to make an all-America team, while Cafego, a junior, was the sensation of the Southeastern Conference, of which Tennessee is a member.

Besides these aces, Tennessee will have a veritable team of being heralded as the greatest of Neyland's many great football productions.

State Debaters Enter Tournament At Appalachian

Forensic Squad to Compete With Over Seventy-five Students for Honors

Seventy-five representatives from twelve colleges and universities of this and surrounding states will assemble in Boone, N. C., Friday and Saturday, February 3 and 4, to participate in the third annual Appalachian Mountain Forensic and Speech Tournament and Model International Conference. The tournament is an inter-collegiate program of competitive participation in all phases of forensic activity.

State College debating squad will have already left for the event, and will enter several speakers in the tournament. Professor Paget of the English Department is in charge of the group.

Several other colleges will take part, including Appalachian State, Bowling Springs, Brevard, Mars Hill, Carson Newman, Lees-McRae, Maryville, Winthrop, Emory and Henry, and Lenoir-Rhyne.

The tourney will officially begin on Friday morning at 9:15 with registration of all contestants. Immediately following there will be a round of improvised speaking. The remainder of the day will be spent in debating, direct clash debate demonstrations, extemporaneous speaking, after-dinner speaking, and a model international conference. —Continued on page 4.

Forestry Club Initiates Men

The Forestry Club gathered on Tuesday night in Slocum's Hollow, behind the gym, for a campfire meeting, winner roast, and the winter term initiation of new members.

The program for the night consisted of the formal initiation, followed by a series of songs, stunts, jokes, and tall tales by the initiates, interspersed with numerous hot-dogs and apples. After the new men had been fed and informally initiated by the old members, they were taken for a little banquet to members of the various staffs to complete the process of initiation into the club.

LOOKING 'ROUND

By "LE SCOOP"

Zan Smith seems to always get his share of flat tires, on dates and otherwise. He borrowed his roommate's car for a date in Chapel Hill last Monday night. The car and Smith both had flat tires. THEN the battery ran down and he had to push. What we can't figure is why flat tires and dead batteries are related to each other!

Just because Hanna and Dees were FORTUNATE enough to have attended a party at the Carolina Hotel last week is no reason why they should post hotel rules in their room and make all the poor fellows that visit them observe and obey same. WE OBJECT!

That so-called FRUIT CAKE from home, must have been power-ful good. Dwight Turner spent two days in the hospital after partaking of it. Maybe it was just the spice he drank off the cake. . . . One never knows, does one?

The frosh grow braver day by day, for soon (maybe) they will become sophomores. They showed their prowess Wednesday when three little fellows about nine years old walked by South Dorm. The mighty thirty-five dumped water and threw paper wads at them. Gee, Mamma! We go to college now.

E. V. Helms was seen walking into CAMERON PARK APARTMENTS near dusk Thursday afternoon. By June, he should be brave enough to go in during broad daylight. (Ahem. . . does she have a friend, E. V.?)

former for Coach Shipley's Old Liners. The Old Liners will show a fancy first-string outfit, but his club lacks reserve strength. Reserves probably will be needed in the Marylanders' attack on the Big Five teams. They will play Duke and Carolina before they take on the Terrers. Maryland defeated Duke and Carolina in earlier games.

The proceeds for the State-V. M. I. game will be donated to the national fund for fighting infantile paralysis. J. L. Von Glahn announced yesterday. The college has pledged to give the proceeds of one of this season's games to the fund, and this game was chosen.

Following this Mitchiner stressed the necessity for the juniors who have not paid their class dues to do so, as there are 163 juniors who have not paid. He said that it would be necessary for these men to pay in order to have an exclusive dance.

The president appointed a ring committee composed of W. S. Hughes, J. L. Langdon and himself. Further discussion on the junior rings is to be taken up at the next class meeting.

On Saturday the last round of debating will be carried on. The subject for the debate will be, "Resolved that the United States should cease to use public funds for the purpose of stimulating business."

The State squad left yesterday for Boone, North Carolina, where they are entered in the Appalachian Mountain Tournament, to be held today and tomorrow.

In this tournament State will be defeating champions in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and after-dinner speaking, and the honor of having two debaters chosen for the best ten debaters. Some twenty schools from six states have been entered.

In addition to the public lectures and discussion groups, students may have the privilege of scheduling interviews with any one of the four visitors.

Informal discussion groups will be held each evening in the dormitories and fraternities from which invitations are received. A. H. The Question: What are the five things you dislike most in girls?

Ed Young, Junior in E. E.: "These are the five things I dislike most in girls: Too much makeup; smoking on the street; their habit of talking of their former heart throbs in my company; and last but not least, I dislike a girl I date necking with other boys."

O. D. Andrews, sophomore in Forestry: "I dislike the following things most in girls: Most of them do not know how to carry on a conversation; supposed young ladies behaving like kids; a girl who does not neck acting as if every fellow they date is going to try to neck them; too much mind-changing; and finally, they forget that we boys are men."

Henry Rowe, sophomore in Chemical Engineering: "I dislike girls who wear too much makeup; who break dates; who get too affectionate toward the different boys they date; who are unkind in their conversation with boys, and who lack any real conversational ability."

Don Traylor, Junior in Forestry: "My pet peeves concerning girls are: Chewing gum; smoking cigarettes; bragging of their previous conquests when in our company; over-talkative, and sloppy dressing."

William Craver, Junior in Agricultural Education: "First of all, girls are too inconsistent. They make you think they love you, then they act as if they hate you. Secondly, they do not always stick to the truth. Thirdly, they shoot as good a line as many boys do. Fourth, they seem to belong to everyone in general and no one in particular. And fifth, they try to get all they can out of a fellow and try as hard as they can to pull the wool over his eyes."

George Mahler, Junior in Electrical Engineering: "I don't like girls who neck too freely; who smoke too many cigarettes; who talk about other fellows when they are on a date with me; who use baby talk, and who use too much makeup."

Alumni News Has Pictorial Section

January Issue Features 24 Page Supplement; Gains Favorable Comment

With the highlights an attractive red-edged cover showing the two co-captains of the 1938 State basketball team, P. G. Hill and Bill Mann, and a twenty-four page section of pictures and general information about the campus designed for prospective students, the January issue of The Alumni News has attracted widespread and favorable comment throughout the State.

This issue contains a twenty-four page supplement taken from a recent edition of the State College Record, issued by the Registrar and forwarded to prospective students throughout the state. Feeling the alumni would be interested in the contents and perhaps contact high school seniors and graduates, the contents were incorporated into the January issue of the Alumni News.

Color Plates
This section contains, in addition to a number of smaller, black and white photographs of the campus and the buildings, six full-page, colored engravings of Holiday Hall, Primrose Hall, Pullen Hall, Ricks Hall, the D. H. Hill Library and the Memorial Tower. A brief discussion of each of the different courses offered undergraduates at State is included, followed by three pages of general information—requirements for admission, tuition and fees, estimate of expenses, self-help possibilities, extra-curricular activities, etc.

Cameron Speaks To YMCA Group

Initial Speaker on New Lecture Program Discusses Religious Topics

"There are conditions under which a Christian might be forced to enter war," stated E. W. Cameron, instructor in the State College English department, before a large number of students gathered to hear the first in a new lecture series sponsored by the college YMCA.

Speaking on the subject, "Jesus' Conception of God," Cameron stated that Jesus' conception of God was a "personal God," meaning in his explanation that the failure to do good is just as sinful as the committing of a wrong.

An open forum discussion followed the address, in which it was suggested that the "Y" sponsor a "Town Hall Meeting" on February 27, during the visit of Kirby Page, prominent literary and religious writer.

Famed Author
Page has gained much fame through his books on international, economic, social, and religious questions, and for his definite stand against participation in war. In the planned meeting during Pages visit, he would take the stand that a Christian should never engage in war.

A Year Ago This Week

A rejuvenated Red Terror basketball quintet snapped out of its scoring slump here last night, clanking the conference-leading Clemson Tigers to the tune of 55-35. Bill Mann returned to top form last night to tally 18 points and lead his team to victory. Diminutive P. G. Hill was State's second best scorer with 12 points.

Architects of North Carolina were invited by Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration and secretary of the building committee, to gather at State College this week to consider requirements for the construction of a new chemistry building on the campus.

Meeting in Thompson Hall yesterday afternoon, a large group of textile students elected T. M. Tyner of Shelby to head the annual Students Textile Exposition which has been given on the campus since 1920.

Three Years Ago This Week

Dean E. L. Cloyd issued a statement yesterday in which he emphatically discounted the persistent rumor on the campus that a minor outbreak of sickness threatened the close of school. However, the visiting room of the "Y" was hastily converted into a temporary hospital as the influx of students to the infirmary increased.

(Special to THE TECHNICIAN)

After witnessing a turbulent week during which 48 University students were suspended indefinitely for participation in a cheating racket, comparative calm has settled on the Carolina campus, Phil Hammer, editor of The Daily Tar Heel, said tonight.

Five Years Ago This Week

The Student Council unanimously endorsed an open forum letter which appears in this week's issue of THE TECHNICIAN attacking "moderate" tendencies of the Student Supply Store, written by M. J. Gardner, member of that group.

When asked Tuesday as to who might be his choice for the dean of administration of State College, Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the Greater University, said that he had no idea, and that every man recommended for the position will be given equal consideration.

nati. In the summer of 1937 they were featured at the popular playland in Rye Beach on another NBC hook-up.

However, during the fall of 1937, the band broke up, and the members returned to their careers as doctors, teachers, and journalists. But the success of the unit had convinced Brown that he had something to offer, and so he ventured into New York City alone.

Lee began arranging, and soon he was doing work for topnotchers like Rudy Newman, Isham Jones, Red Nichols, and Don Redman. The success of his arrangements convinced him that he was hiding his talent, and so completely on his own responsibility he organized a band and returned to an engagement at Budd Lake.

A New Band
The new organization clicked immediately, winning for them an invitation to play at the Green Room of the Hotel Algonquin—where they are still being featured.

Lee still plays the clarinet solos with his Edison crew, but he concentrates more than ever on his own arrangements. During the past years Lee Brown and his orchestra have made a series of recordings for Victor Bluebird.

Brown, still playing several times weekly on NBC, is probably one of the youngest men currently playing at an important New York spot.

perimental phase would be limited to youths registered at State College, explaining that the main purpose of the demonstration here was to ascertain if the college can handle the program adequately.

Previously, Dean Van Leer and Prof. Parkinson expressed the view that students in Wake Forest, Duke and Carolina might be included in the demonstration training, for which NYA has set aside $100,000 to be expended by June 30, in the development of student pilots. The college officials emphasized they wanted to show no partiality in the matter, and Mr. Webster's announcement was entirely unexpected by them.

Inspecting All Schools
Accompanying Mr. Webster on the tour of inspection, which will carry the group to each of the 13 colleges and universities, were Sam Glazier of Washington, director of finance and accounts for NYA; Harry L. Kinner of Washington, NYA contracting officer; James G. Nail of Charlotte, Department of Commerce aeronautics inspector; Wiley E. Wright of Atlanta, senior aeronautics inspector for the Southeastern States and John A. Lang of Raleigh, State director of NYA.

We don't mind the "Tar Heel" of Carolina reprinting our editorials for word, but we do wish they would have the courtesy to acknowledge the larceny properly.

The fame of the newly organized "Bachelors Club" at Harvard is rapidly spreading to other campuses. . . . The Harvard men have a strict no-date pledge, claiming that the modern college man does not have time to leave his studies for women, especially in view of how the girls mistreat them. . . . Girls at Radcliffe College have started an opposition movement called the "Spinsters Club."

Kappa Sig's Ernie Koella got a real scare the other night when one of his friends called up and fooled him into believing his car had been stolen. . . . Johnnie Aiken has already begun his campaign for the title of "the handsomest senior." . . . Fred Gardner, Hubert Woodall and Ed Hiedelbach are Richmond-bound this week-end for the University's dance set. . . . Local collectors are passing up a rare deposit by not examining the entrance to the chemistry building closely. . . . It's an even-money bet whether any one using the entrance becomes the target for a flock of sharp-shooting pigeons or not.

One recent radio quiz program, nine out of ten contestants missed this question: In total darkness, which could see the best, an owl, a leopard or a monkey? . . . That magician who appeared here Wednesday night really had the St. Mary's girls in an uproar. . . . Imagine one lovely's embarrassment when the trickster pulled a live pigeon from her skirt. . . . Whoops! Bob (Sleepy) Lake is rapidly gaining the title of the campus night-owl since he has taken to sitting up all night to listen to broadcasts by leading swing bands. . . . J. V. (Moon) Kirkman is seriously thinking of teaching Industrial Management after graduation. . . . What Mort Brown needs is a manager to keep his romantic affairs straight. . . . Wonder if that item in the Meredith paper about Joe Frye's romance being on the downgrade is true? The answer to that query above is logical enough. . . . RIGHT or WRONG?

A 2-minute test for telephone users

1. The Bell System handles about 48,000 telephone calls per minute, on the average. ☐ RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

2. One of the first uses of vacuum tubes was in telephony—years before commercial radio telephony. ☐ RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

3. The largest telephone cable used by the Bell System contains 2424 wires. ☐ RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

4. The Bell System employs about as many people as live in the city of Dayton, Ohio. ☐ RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

5. This is part of a page taken from a telephone directory published in the United States. ☐ RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

6. Lowest rates to most out-of-town points are available every night after 7 P.M. and all day Sunday. ☐ RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

ANSWERS
1. Right. In 1938 the Bell System handled about 48,000 calls per day was about 70 million.
2. Right. The reporter vacuum tubes, which make possible long distance telephony, was first used in 1913.
3. Wrong. 8236 wires are used in the largest telephone cable in the world.
4. Wrong. The population of Dayton is about 200,000—200,000 telephone employees.
5. Right. It is from San Francisco's Chinatown telephone directory.
6. Right. Why not telephone family and distant friends often?

College Credit for Outside Activities . . .

The problem of the relation of extracurricular activities to the regular college course is one that has never been successfully solved on the State College campus.

A sharp dividing line separates the two phases of student life here, despite the fact that the trend in numerous colleges has been to correlate the two and to fit them into one complete educational program. A notable instance of this may be found in any of these visionary colleges where the English department works closely with the student newspaper to the benefit of both.

A step in the right direction was taken in 1929 when a group of State College student leaders petitioned the Administration to give college credit for work on the various publications. The plan was finally abandoned, however, going the way of many other worthy student suggestions.

Here was an idea advocated by alert and far-seeing student leaders. An idea which contained a valuable recommendation for an adjustment in the college curriculum which would prove worthwhile to both the student and the college. The only visible fault was that it did not go far enough—why limit credit to publications, when in the many other fields of extracurricular activity students are learning things which will later prove invaluable to them.

The powers-that-be may well consider the entire field of extracurricular activities as a laboratory where students actually cope with problems they will meet in life after college. The knowledge gained in these activities will prove of far more value than that gained in classroom because it comes as a result of personal interest, not from lectures which will probably be forgotten in a few years.

There is no reason why the men taking part in outside activities should not be relieved of some of the burden of classroom work and in its place receive credit for work which is truly elective in the true sense of the word.

A student in engineering may attain prominence in debating or public speaking by virtue of his work on the forensic squad. Is there any better evidence of good use of his time even from the standpoint of education in his particular course? This same student will some day address the public or his fellow employees concerning his work and will thus be a more valuable man to his profession.

Credit for such extracurricular work would tend to encourage students to enter the realm of outside activities which is so essential to a well-rounded education. For years education has been received by students sitting and listening to a professor's lecture, and justly so. But education comes in other ways and State College can now take a step forward toward more constructive educational methods.

We realize, of course, that the awarding of credit should not be made haphazardly. But the college administration could well consider a plan to give credit for a worthy activity as the equivalent of a three-hour course.

Never Too Late . . .

Again we approach that thing which strikes terror in our minds—examinations. Mid-terms are here upon us, and now we begin to realize just how little we have done during the past six weeks.

Before the next week has passed these reports will have gone from the hands of your professors to the office of the registrar, and if you are below average in one of your subjects, a note of warning will be dispatched to you.

These warnings, and they are only warnings, are given to you for your own information, and to prompt more effort on some particular subject.

It is never too late to dig in, but you don't have to wait until the night before to uncover the mysteries of an entire textbook.

This is a short term, and before another six weeks has gone by, final exams will be knocking at the door to our brains. So buckle down now, and dig deep. Glean a little knowledge each day, and you will not have that sickening feeling on the day of exams. Only a suggestion, but who was it that said a word to the wise is sufficient?—E. P. D.

Everything went crazy in the Big Five last Tuesday night when the underdogs kicked back at the league leaders. . . . A bet on the outcome of the Big Five is about as safe as a pacifist in Germany. . . . Carolina may have something in this boy Glamack. . . . Sounds like another Mac Berry. . . . That game produced 110 points in 60 minutes. . . .

I see they give State a 2 to 1 chance of getting in the tournament next month. The way things are going, I believe the Tar Heels would almost rate that. . . .

Pay Off
A story I ran into the other day which may show the way some schools run athletics. . . . A coach was having trouble getting a prize prospect past the academic department. . . . A research paper on which a great deal depended was required of the athlete. . . . The coach promptly got the boy a finished paper, but instead of copying the paper the boy turned it in as the coach gave it to him. . . . The pay-off came when the president of the department, asked the boy the topic of the paper. . . . You guessed it, the boy didn't know and the prof pressed the button which summoned the boncer. . . .

Charity Games
State College officials announced yesterday that the V. M. I. game would be played as a benefit game. . . . Proceeds going to the national fund for fighting infantile paralysis. . . . I hear that the Deacons over at Wake Forest are doing the same thing. . . . A worthy cause, and we ought to get out and push it a little more. . . . Bill Bailey, ace swimmer, out with an infected foot. . . . Reminds me that the State winter sports sure have been in for their share of old man bad luck this year. . . . First it's the basketball team, then the wrestlers lost a couple of men before the meet with Carolina and the boxers find a couple of men ineligible. . . . Now it's the swimmers. . . . If somebody sees that guy had luck, send him around. . . .

Here and There
Pinky Novick, sending a letter to a Mrs. Walter Novick and Ty Coon tells me he had another date. . . . Butch The Great Lozier had trouble with that knee again in practice and will be out until next September. . . . Let's hope it's all right then. . . . San Turner, knock-out king at the Golden Gloves, although losing in the finals in a close decision. . . . Pitt has at last decided to go under Big Ten ruling in the Middle West football conference. . . . This looks like the end of those mighty Panthers. . . .

George Strayhorn, the real find on the frosh basketball team, will come in handy next year when Doc Serron tries to rebuild the team. . . . They lose five first-stringers this year. . . . Gerald McHugh and Jumbo Czerniewski, two promising backs on the frosh squad, were among the thirteen who didn't return this year. . . . See ya.

Tanksters Lose Star Captain

Bailey Out With Infected Foot for Initial Meet With Tar Heels
When the sister schools of the Greater Universities class in a swimming meet Saturday afternoon at Chapel Hill, the State tankmen may be without the services of Co-captain Bill Bailey, who is in the College Infirmary with an infected foot. . . .

Captain George Kurfels, meanwhile, has been grooming Charley Cook to fill Bailey's place in the 50 and 100-yard dashes and the 200-yard relay. . . . The State team will be seeking to retain its Big Five crown, while Carolina's mermen will be making their initial bid for State honors. Swimming started this year at The Hill since the completion of Bowman Gray pool. . . .

State Host To Demon Deacons Tuesday

Return Cage Battle Promises Thrills For Rabid Fans

Conference and Big Five Loops in Merry Tangle; Change Lead Often; Wake Forest Loses Top Spot

Southern Conference and Big Five basketball took on a mixed-up complexion this week as two of the favorites in this section went down to defeat before two supposed underdogs in two of the hottest fought games in the State in a decade. . . .

Over at Duke the Southern Conference champions hit their stride as they handed the State Red Terrors a set-back 43-37, while the Faded Panthers played over their heads in defeating the high-riding Deacons 56-54 in an overtime battle. . . .

Wake Forest Again
Next Tuesday night it looks like history will be made again as Captain Jim Waller brings the Flying Demon Deacons over to do battle with the Red Terrors. Both teams are stinging from their recent upsets at the hands of Carolina and Duke and this fact should make the game interesting. Every time these two old rivals get together there are plenty of fireworks. . . .

The Deacons have a trio of sharpshooters in Captain Jim Waller, Owen and Convery. The Terrors will attempt to match these three men with Rennie, Mann and the other Tech sharpshooters. In a previous meeting, the Deacons defeated the Terrors in a hectic game. . . .

Lead Changes
As a result of the past two games the lead in the Big Five and in the Southern Conference changed hands with one exception. Davidson, the only member of the family circle did not play this week, maintained its hold on first place and the Blue Devils moved up as co-headers. . . .

State and Wake Forest dropped out of the first rung position by virtue of the two defeats. Carolina, by losing to Wake Forest in an overtime game at Chapel Hill, won its first game in the Big Five and their third in the Southern Conference. . . .

Invasion
This week-end will see the Old North State invaded by two teams from the North when the Cadets from V. M. I. and the Maryland Old Liners come to take on the three potential leaders in the State. . . .

The Cadets play at State Friday night and trek over to Carolina to take on the Tar Heels in two feature games. Meantime, the State will be faced with an invasion by the Conference leaders when Maryland opens at Duke Thursday night. Friday they play at Carolina and Saturday the Liners are the host of Doc Serron's Red Terrors. . . .

A glance at the standings in the two loops will show that victories for these teams in the week-end games will place them in the tournament and losses will put them on the outside. . . .

Football Team To Lose Nine Men

Only Nine of 28 Monogram Men to Graduate This Year; Veterans to Form Nucleus Of Squad

Nineteen of the 28 letter-winning players on Coach Williams (Doc) Newton's 1938 N. C. State football team are slated to return this fall to form the nucleus of the Wolf-pack that has to face another harder-than-usual schedule. . . .

Missing from the ranks of the veterans will be five guards, Captain Bunnie Hines, Warren Woodson, Steve Acai, Freddy Mastrolia and Bill Matheny; three tackles, Alternate Captain George Fry, Walt Novick and J. B. Thompson, who won his letter in 1937 and was not in competition the past fall; one end, Wayland Stuart, and one back, Ken Sands. (Novick, Thompson, Stuart and Sands have one more year of eligibility, but it is doubtful if they will return.) . . .

It is evident that the guard positions are a big question mark, for John Savini is the only veteran returning. The ends, with six vets coming back, also have Coach Newton in a quandary, for none of the flankmen measured up to expectations and Newton used more than the usual amount to replace injured men, etc. . . .

Er (Ty) Coon and Ralph Burt give the Pack two A-1 seasoned tackles, despite Fry's loss. Coon was practically unanimous choice for all-time, was placed on Grantland Rice's "Colliers' All-America" squad and gained honorable mention on practically every all-America selection. Bill Windley is another letter tackle. . . .

Bill Retter and Howell Stroup are the returning centers with experience. . . . Seven of the eight backs who carried all of State's load last year are returning. They are Little Atter, Rooney, all-State; Don Traylor, Pat Fehey, Andy Pavlovsky, Bobby Sabolyk, Tony DiYeseo and Paul Lozier. . . .

Of the prospective squad of 60 players, Coach Newton will have 11 seniors, 11 juniors, ten members of the '38 reserves (who have three years of competition) and 28 lads from the Freshman team. Thirteen members of the original Frosh squad have dropped by the wayside, including three promising backs—Quarterback Gerald McHugh, Halfback Don Gillespie and Fullback Jumbo Czerniewski. . . .

Boxers Split With Virginia Tech

Frosh Split Two Points But Come Back Strong; Varsity Lost Tough Fights
Before 500 fans, Virginia Tech's boxers defeated State College's ringmen 4½ to 3½, here last Saturday night. . . .

Ed Young featured the show by stopping Fred Jackson after a minute and 20 seconds of the second round, with a slashing right. Spider Abrams supplied a laugh when he broke through the ropes in the second round of his bout with Frank Oliver. After a slight delay the fight was resumed and Abrams in a draw for K.O. route for State. . . .

Student Golf Tourney Slated

An all-campus championship tournament that will establish the top ranking golfers at N. C. State College will be staged this spring, according to an announcement from the Athletic Council yesterday. This will take the place of the golf team that the council customarily sponsors. . . .

Doc Newton, head coach of the college's golf team for the last two years, will direct the event. Newton said the tournament will last the better part of two months and that it would be staged the spring term. He is already at work on arrangements, which will be announced shortly. . . .

A PAIR OF STARS

Roommates Hines and Fry Lead Like Careers

Star Athletes Lead Parallel Careers Throughout College Life; Both Lead Monogram Club

Roommates and two of North Carolina's most outstanding students, are Bunnie Hines and George (Buddy) Fry, whose many accomplishments and activities throughout their college careers have been inspirations to their fellow students. Football players, good students, wrestlers, campus organization leaders, they are two of the busiest lads on the State College campus. Right now both are handling varsity assignments on Coach Herman Hickman's wrestling team, Bunnie in the 155-pound class and George in the heavyweight. They are majoring in textile manufacturing. Bunnie gets his degree this June and George will have considerable work piled up on his master's degree by that time. He completed his course last June. . . .

Bunnie succeeded George as president of the Monogram Club, State's athletic letter organization, and has launched the most active program in the history of the club. In addition young Hines has organized the 42 Club, Freshman letter organization; coaches the Frosh wrestlers, and supervised the concession sales at the winter athletic events. . . .

Last fall, Hines was elected captain of the football team and Buddy George promptly was elected alternate captain and handled the team most of the time, for Bunnie was a substitute guard called by members of the team "the best qualified man to captain the squad." . . .

George's accomplishments, while not so manifold as Bunnie's easily give him a place beside his roommate. For three years he played regular tackle on State's eleven and many times did he and Bunnie line up side by side and scrap some of the greatest teams in the nation. Only recently George returned from Montgomery, Ala., where he was a member of the Southern team in the Blue-Grey football game of all-star college performers. . . .

A year ago he handled the Monogram presidential duties, the concessions and served as a member of the college's athletic council—just as Bunnie is doing this year. This is a case of a roommate stepping into the shoes of a roommate, it seems. . . .

There was plenty of activity on all fronts this past week. The sport had its share of thrills. Seven more games were run off in the basketball league, five games in soccer and four handball matches. The preliminaries in the dormitory league in boxing were fought and last night the semi-finals in both leagues were run off. . . .

The finals in boxing take place this Thursday night, Feb. 9. The boxing matches are the best that have ever been held, according to many of seeing them, and the finals really should be hot. After these matches the all-campus fights will be held. . . .

The basketball results: AGR 14, AKP 9; Delta Sig 12, Sigma Nu 6; PKA 22, ALT 10; PKT 22, Sigma Pi 6; Kappa Sig 15, PKP 8; 3rd South 22, 4th 16; 3rd 1911, 1st 1911 8. . . .

The fraternity soccer league is rapidly narrowing down and some hotly contested games are being played. The dormitories are coming along pretty good and it looks like interest has picked up. Here are last week's results: . . .

Delta Sig 1, Kappa Sig 0; SPE 1, AKP 0; Lambda Chi 2, Kappa Alpha 0; Sigma Nu, forfeit over Pi Kappa Phi; 3rd Seventh 1, 4th 0. . . .

In the handball brackets the fraternities were the only ones who played this week. The results: AKP over Lambda Chi; PKP over ALT; SPE over PKT and Delta Sig. . . .

The semi-finals in boxing were run off in great style last night. The results show that there should be some interesting fights in the finals, so don't forget to be on hand February 9th to see them. Here are the results of the semi-finals: . . .

Terrors Lose To Blue Devils In Close Game

Techs Lose See-saw Tilt at Durham; Mann, Sevier, and Rennie Lead Sermonmen.

Coming from behind in the last minutes of play, the Duke Blue Devils took a victory from the Red Terrors in the first meeting of the two teams this season. The final score was 43-37. . . .

It was Duke's second win in the conference and it tied them with Davidson for top honor. Co-captain Bill Mann led the night's scoring with 9 points, while Parsons and Swindell of Duke tied for second honors. . . .

The teams left the floor at the half-time with the score standing 18-13 in favor of State. When the two teams took the floor again the fireworks began in earnest. The Dukes pulled up to within two points of the Terrors and Swindell sank a long shot from center court. Rennie gave the Techs a one-point margin with a free throw. O'Mara and Swindell made two goals and then Duke added a free throw to go ahead, 23-19. . . .

State Goes Ahead
Mann, Hill and Sevier found the range and, aided by Jones' free throw, State forged ahead, 26-23. Two field goals gave the Devils a one-point lead and then Rennie added a long one to put State ahead by one point. . . .

This marked the last time the State quint had the lead. From here the Dukes went ahead and via some tight guarding and the use of reserves the Terrors were unable to go ahead. Up to this point the game was a seesaw affair, with first one team leading and then the other. Sevier went out on fouls in the last of the final quarter, and as he left the court the crowd gave him a great hand for his fine defensive play. O'Mara, Parsons and Swindell led the Devils. . . .

Wrestlers Meet Davidson Wildcats

Squad at Full Strength for Matches With Cats; Davidson Strong

The N. C. State varsity wrestlers returned from their invasion of the Virginia Tech camp last Monday and began preparations for the varsity-frosh engagement with Davidson at Davidson Saturday. . . .

Back and in good health was Herman Hickman, who reported back to Coach Doc Newton, head football coach, for the first time in more than a week. Hickman, gigantic line coach, was confined to his home with influenza for a week, but took the wrestlers to Virginia his second day out of bed. . . .

The wrestlers will meet the strongest team ever to represent the school when they take to the mat against Davidson. The State team is in the best condition they have been in all season and are expected to make it tough for the Wildcats. . . .

New Marriage Course Gains In Popularity

Large Number Register at Second Term; Described as Perfect by Professor

By C. A. UPCHURCH, JR.

Of the 777 classes taught at North Carolina State College, only one can be described as practically perfect from the professor's point of view.

It's the class in marriage. Absence from class is rare, students do all their outside reading assignments and more, they show a keen interest in the subject that would delight any professorial heart and they have a wholesome enthusiasm that is seldom equaled in any classroom.

All this interest is generated even though there is nothing sensational about the subject matter and no emphasis is placed on sex. "Sex is only one of the many factors involved in the marital relationship," explained Prof. W. N. Hicks, teacher of the class. "Sex is entitled to careful and thorough analysis, but it does not and should not dominate the course."

Started Last Fall The marriage course at State College, technically called "Problems of Marital Adjustment," started last fall with 20 students. So successful was the course during the fall term, and so eager were students to learn how to live happily ever after, that enrollment jumped to 66 at the winter term registration.

"Attention and interest in this course surpass anything that I have experienced in the 15 years of my teaching career," commented Prof. Hicks after looking over the mushroomed class.

Prof. Hicks, a graduate of N. C. State, Duke University and the School of Religion at Oberlin College in Ohio, heads the Department of Religion and Ethics at State College. He's as enthused about the marriage course as any student in

Band Will Give Sunday Concert

The State College Concert Band, under the expert direction of Major C. D. Kutachinski, is rapidly rounding into shape for a concert to be presented on Sunday afternoon, February 12.

Rehearsals in preparation for the concert will be held on Thursdays at 6:45 and Fridays at 5 p.m., in addition to the Monday noon practice periods.

The personnel of the Concert Band is essentially the same as the Red Coat Band, which provided musical entertainment at home football games this fall. Small sections of the band are also detailed to furnish music at State's home basketball games. These sections are in charge of R. S. Lake, Roland Taylor and M. H. Hoyle.

The two large sections pursuing the subject of Personal conferences with the students constitute an important part of Prof. Hicks' work, and during the fall term he gave as many hours to personal conferences as to classroom lectures. Students are encouraged to discuss their problems on class, but when an individual feels that his problem is too personal for open discussion he may have private conference with Prof. Hicks.

Frank Study "We are making a frank and thorough study of marriage problems," declared Prof. Hicks. "There is no place for subtle ambiguities or pious platitudes in our course. Any question that is an honest and sincere question gets a full answer if the information can be had."

"No two marriages are alike," explained Prof. Hicks. "Every marriage is a new and, for that matter, unique relationship. We do not bother to memorize a set of rules in our class. In our reading we find a proposed formula now and then, but a little objective analysis usually reveals the inadequacy of rule-of-thumb procedures."

"The students in the modern marriage course want the best available answer to practical problems of pre-marital and post-marital adjustment. They have many problems now, and in anticipation of other problems later they wish to seek understanding. The rapidly growing knowledge of college students in this connection, plus their wholesome frankness and seriousness of purpose, enhance very significantly their chance for happiness in marriage."

Student Opinion At the end of the fall term, Prof. Hicks asked each student to make a brief and frank statement of his opinion regarding the value of the course. Each student voiced hearty approval. One student said: "This has been one of the most interesting and worthwhile courses that I have ever taken. It has cleared many hazy ideas that I had in the beginning, and it has surely started me to thinking along more correct lines in regard to marriage and sex."

And a married student stated: "This course has been worthwhile to me and, incidentally, to my wife. We have found that our problems are very similar to those of other people. The course has been especially valuable in that it brought out clearly the importance of economic and domestic adjustment, thereby correcting the notion that nothing matters in marriage but sex adjustment."

Announcements

All engineering students who did not receive the January issue of "The Southern Engineer" may do so by calling by the office in the Publications Building on Wednesday, January 8, between 2 and 5 p.m.

If, for any reason, you have your address incorrect, please drop by and leave a note under the door.—Sid Rogers, Business Manager.

There will be a meeting of the American Ceramic Society on Tuesday, February 7, in the Ceramics Building at 7 p.m. Moving pictures will be shown on "Copper Mining in Arizona."—J. N. Smith.

There will be a meeting of Phi Eta Sigma on Thursday, February 9, in the YMCA at 7 p.m. for all members and initiates.—Dud Kaley, President.

All students who are juniors but are listed as sophomores, or are seniors and listed as juniors, please see Jim Mitchell, president of the Junior class if they wish to attend the Junior-Senior Prom.

There will be a meeting of the AIEE on Tuesday night, February 7, at 6:45 in Daniels Hall. All members are urged to attend.

A special meeting of the Radio Club will be held tonight at 6:45 in room 4 of Daniels Hall. All "hams" are requested to be present as this will be an important meeting.

The State College Symphony Orchestra will hold rehearsals at the following times: Tuesday, February 7, at 8 p.m.; Monday, February 13, at 8 p.m. and Friday, February 17 at 8 p.m. All violinists are requested to meet in Pullen Hall tomorrow at 2 o'clock for a special sectional rehearsal.

Mid-term reports are due Monday, February 6, according to a report today from E. L. Cloyd, dean of students. These mid-term reports are issued so that you may check up on your unsatisfactory work. A failure on the first half of the term does not necessarily mean flunking the course for the term, and merely serves as a warning for students to work harder on that particular course in which he is failing at mid-term.

At the end of the fall term, Prof. Hicks asked each student to make a brief and frank statement of his opinion regarding the value of the course. Each student voiced hearty approval. One student said: "This has been one of the most interesting and worthwhile courses that I have ever taken. It has cleared many hazy ideas that I had in the beginning, and it has surely started me to thinking along more correct lines in regard to marriage and sex."

And a married student stated: "This course has been worthwhile to me and, incidentally, to my wife. We have found that our problems are very similar to those of other people. The course has been especially valuable in that it brought out clearly the importance of economic and domestic adjustment, thereby correcting the notion that nothing matters in marriage but sex adjustment."

Textile Chemists Hear Lectures

Alabama Tech Professor Explains Methods of Handling Crepe Rayons

Charles B. Ordway, former professor of textile chemistry and dyeing at the Alabama Institute of Technology, presented an interesting series of lectures to the members of the State College Student Section of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Dyers this week.

In this series of lectures, Ordway explained and illustrated the various methods of handling crepe rayons from the greige to the finished product. He also spoke on the increasingly popular "napthol" dyes.

Ordway is now associated with the American Aniline Products, Inc., and is in charge of research and technical problems. So well received are his lectures that arrangements are being made for him to return at an early date to continue the lecture series.

The senior class in the textile manufacturing school also heard Joe Moore, of the Class of 1936, speak on the various machines used in random dyeing on Saturday.

Moore discussed the American and foreign makes of machines and explained in detail the manner in which the dye was applied in the random process. He stated that so novel is the dyeing method that the machines are not sold outright, but are rented to the users.

Moore, a leading textile student during his stay at State, is now connected with the Washington Mills at Mayodan.

Textile Faculty Guests At Party

The State College chapter of Phi Psi, honorary textile fraternity, entertained new members and the Textile School faculty Saturday night at a wieners roast and party at Merritt's cabin on Lake Johnson.

After the wieners roast, the members of the party enjoyed songs, dances, games and contests.

E. P. Henley, chairman of the arrangements committee, was as-

Greek Bowlers Battle For Prize

For the past several weeks the majority of the fraternities have been participating in some very close-fought bowling matches.

The first of the two tournaments to be run off is practically over, with several games yet to be played. The fraternity with the highest average will win a prize of ten dollars for the first tournament. The winner of the second tournament will receive a trophy, which will be awarded by the management of the Hayes-Barton bowling alley.
