Four delegates of the State College International Relations Club are attending the Southeast International Relations Club Conference being held at William and Mary College this week-end.

The conference began Thursday and will continue through Saturday, and during this time the delegates will hear addresses by distinguished speakers.

The outstanding feature of the program will be the student round tables on present day situations, which will be held on Friday and Saturday.

The speakers will include Miss Amy Hemmings Jones, Carnegie representative; Dr. Calvin E. Hoover, of Duke University; Dr. Clyde Eagleton, of New York University; Virginia Fabney, editor of the Richmond Times Dispatch; and Dr. Douglas Freeman, editor of the Richmond News.

At a meeting held yesterday in Pullen Hall, the junior class nominated senior officers and the various schools elected student government representatives.

The nominees are: for president - Charlie Hunter and Don Hamilton; for vice president - Bill Gibson and Ed Young; for secretary and treasurer - Ed Britt and Tom Bivens.

Those elected to represent their various schools on the student government council are: Frank Truslow, Engineering School; Tommy Leake, Textile School; W. T. Weston, Agricultural School; and E. E. Durham, Agricultural Education School.

Four members of the physics faculty at North Carolina State College returned Monday from a two-day meeting of the Southeastern Section of the American Physical Society at the University of Georgia in Athens.

Papers were presented by three of the State College representatives: Dr. J. B. Derieux, "Gasoline Mileage at Different Speeds and For Different Grades of Gasoline"; Dr. A. A. Dixon, "Change of the Viscosity of Liquids in an Electric Field"; and Prof. C. M. Heck, "Measurement of the Radiation of the Sky".

The annual meeting was attended by 175 professors of physics from Southern institutions. A symposium on the relation of physics to life processes was held, and physicists associated with large hospitals presented the results of research on the use of X-rays and other radiations in the treatment of disease.

The Forestry Club celebrated the treat of the season Tuesday night when the Meredith College "Little Theatre" group presented a short two-act comedy before the club in the YMCA auditorium.

The group, under the direction of Miss Bailey of the Dramatics Department, presented the play in form with improvised settings.

In a short business meeting the club nominated men to represent the Forestry School in the election of officers for the 1929 Ag Fair.

Candidates Are Announced for Campus Offices; Final Election Date Is Set for April 17

With the primary elections, scheduled for Monday, April 10, less than one week away, most of the probable candidates for office have filed their applications at the office of the Dean of Students, according to an announcement last night by Bill Bailey, president of the student body.

In the race for president of the student body H. D. "Buddy" Means and E. E. Durham are the only candidates, but there is a possibility of a late-entering "dark horse."

For secretary and treasurer of the Student Council, the candidates are John D. Boger, Leroy Barnes, and W. J. Reams, all sophomores who were elected to the Council at their class meeting Tuesday, will appear on the primary ballot.

In the field of publications all the candidates have been announced after the approval of the Publications Board with the exception of the editor and business manager of The Watsonian and the business manager of the Pinwheel. These are eligible for these positions have not been voted on by the board at this time, but there will be only two candidates for each at most, which eliminates the necessity for a primary vote.

For editor of THE TECHNICIAN E. P. Davidson and P. P. Gregg have been approved by the board, and J. W. Aldridge and T. F. ...

Cast Your Vote . . .

During the course of the next week and a half the student body will trek to the polls to select their leaders for all campus offices, beginning with the primary election on Monday, April 10, and ending with final elections the following Monday, April 17.

The men selected are the men who will preside over your student organizations, publications, and who will represent you in the eyes of the faculty and public.

By rights you have as much voice in the student government as the next man, and you will have an opportunity to express your opinions during the elections.

Be awake and take part. Cast your vote in every election held.—E. F. D.

N. C. STATE

Beautification . . .

The beautification of the State College campus is progressing rapidly and a very noticeable improvement has been made in the last few years. Grass has been planted in the bare spots, walks have been made where paths used to exist, eye sores have been removed, shrubbery has been planted, and many other things have been done to make the campus a place for the students to be proud of. But, if one walks around the dormitories, especially those without screens in the windows, one sees quite a bit of unsightly objects such as orange peels, paper, boxes, bottles and trash of all description adorning the landscape. Everyone's room is furnished with a wastepaper container and there is a janitor on every floor of each dormitory to remove the waste from these containers every day except Sundays. So, let us all cooperate with the grounds superintendent and throw our trash in the wastepaper container instead of out of the window—it is just as easy.—P. G.

Alumni Athletic Trophy

Awarded annually to the most outstanding athlete in the Senior Class.

Write the name of the senior whom you consider the best athlete in the Senior Class.

YOUR ROVING REPORTER

By WENDELL LEONARD

The Question: Do you think athletes should be openly subsidized? The People: State College students.

Sam Wolfe, Junior, Chemical Engineering: "I don't think that athletes should be openly subsidized. The players wouldn't want the public to know that they were only going to school to play ball. They want to continue to be amateurs."

C. M. Starkey, Junior, Chemical Engineering: "Openly subsidized athletes seems to be the only practical way to carry on our present athletic system and under the circumstances I am in favor of it. To make it complete the grid stars might organize a union."

Virgil Byrley, Sophomore, Textile Mfg.: "Yes, I think we should have open subsidized athletics. Everyone knows that it is necessary in many instances to pay athletes. So why try to hide something that is already known."

Sprague Schworn, Junior Geology Engineering: "If college athletes are to be subsidized for their athletic ability, they should be given it outright, and not like some colleges do; that is, declare that they do not pay their athletes and then have many in the school on money from the alumni. I also believe that minor sports should be given as much attention as the major sports by the athletic department."

Walter Smith, Junior, Poultry Science: "I do not think college athletes should be openly subsidized because it would destroy the purpose of college athletics. College athletics is a good advertisement, but if athletes were openly subsidized it would be looked upon as just another professional sport."

Art Raymond, Senior, Industrial Engineering: "I certainly do. A majority of the larger colleges subsidize their players in an underhand fashion. The present college athlete is in a more or less competitive business and should receive open pay award, scholarship or money due him."

LISTENING IN

By JOE MICHAEL

It has been the general rumor along 7th Pan Alley for quite some time that the Goodman Band was going to be the largest college band to play in the business, will introduce Duke Ellington's new concerto for alto sax and orchestra at Carnegie Hall sometime this month.

Lester Young has replaced Herschel Evans, Harold and short time ago, as Count Basie's tenor sax soloists. Evans was known far and wide for his unique style and was composer of many tunes featured by the Count's new band.

His new band of sixteen members including many well-known names, is only two months old and has already moved in at the Hotel Lincoln. Malcolm Smith, one of the country's outstanding writers on swing, believes that Cuban natives started this ball calling swing away back about 1712. He has collected a series of historical data that prove his statement.

The king of swing in Mexico is Leopold E. Olivares, who takes his rides on the tenor sax. . . Charlie Barnett's band is making swing history at the Famous Door. Charlie has a good brass section to back up his get-off on the tenor sax. The Barnett recording of Bob Haggart's "I'm Playin' Humble" is not quite up to the Crosby standard, but is good enough. . . Fletcher Henderson, top notch arranger, has a B. A. in chemistry from Atlanta University. It is not generally known but Henderson has arranged for Benny Goodman, Isham Jones, Jack Hylton, the Dorsey Brothers, and Glen Gray. . . Kenny Sergent is back at the mike after an operation on his vocal cords, some think that it improved his voice, if that is possible. Sergent plays sax when not at the mike, heard his voice once on a record and says that he doesn't remember how it sounds. Here is wishing WRAL a great success in the record playing business. Hats off to the announcers because they call them records, and not, recorded features. It is a shame that Artie Shaw had to go to bed just as we were planning to throw an all-night stomp.

FROM THE FILES

A Year Ago This Week

Dean of Students W. L. Cloyd revealed yesterday that the Faculty Council has unanimously decided to abolish the Monday night dances of the Interfraternity Council Finals series.

Because of a misunderstanding between the chemistry department and the architect who was awarded the contract for the new chemistry building, the complete plans for the new building will have to be redrawn and corrected.

The political pinwheel began spinning in earnest Wednesday as the final names which will appear on the ballot of the campus-wide primary elections on April 13 were officially filed in the office of the Dean of Students.

Three Years Ago This Week
John V. Guzas, senior in education, who was stricken with spinal meningitis on February 12, died early last Tuesday morning in the Memorial Hospital at Richmond, Va.

Polling more than two and a half times as many votes as the second high man in the race for Student Body President, Lloyd Brown clearly led the field when the results of the primary election were tabulated last Tuesday night.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, the room rent on all dormitory rooms was raised $1 per occupant, according to an announcement released today by T. T. Wellons, superintendent of dormitories.

Five Years Ago This Week
Leading his nearest opponent by nearly one hundred votes, Marshall Gardner, independent candidate, polled the largest number of votes for president of the Student Government at the primary election Tuesday.

Joe Canady, vice president of the Sophomore Class, issued a challenge to the entire Freshman Class at freshman assembly held in Puller Hall last Friday, for the annual Freshman-Sophomore battle.

Preparations for the seventh annual State College Cotton Style Show to be given in the Textile Department on April 26 are being made by all members of the Textile School.

Nation's Future Depends On South, Says Sociologist

wealthier sections should recognize problems in the South and attempt to alleviate them—not only for the good of the South but for the benefit of the nation as a whole.

Education
"Don't get excited about taking danyankee money," the speaker advised. "It is good sense to educate Southern children and give them good bodies and let the richer states pay for it. Some of those danyankee dollars belong to us in our own right if we have sense enough to take it."

Births in 27 states are insignificant to maintain a stationary population, Dr. Raper explained, and as a result the United States is destined to become a nation of old people shortly in the birthrate in poorer states declines.

"It is not as stupid for the sharecropper to have a houseful of children as for the family with a big income and a big house not even to reproduce themselves," he declared.

"Children in the South are not a threat to democracy but a challenge to democracy to see that they are properly clothed, housed, fed and educated."

Three Talks
Three talks were delivered at the college during the day by Dr. Raper, research secretary of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation. He addressed a faculty luncheon at noon, and spoke on "Racialism and Democracy" at a public meeting in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium last night.

Dr. Raper is a native of North Carolina, having been born near Winston-Salem of Methodist and Moravian ancestry. He was educated at the University of North Carolina and Vanderbilt, and is the author of "The Tragedy of Lynching" and "A Preface to Peasantry" and has prepared a new book on the South for early publication. A brother, Prof. Ralph Raper, is a member of the State College faculty.

At last night's meeting, Dr. Raper stressed the need for better cooperation between the white and Negro races. When the Negro is kept down, he asserted, it is inevitable that poorer whites will go the same way and thus cause a general reduction of standards.

Engineers

All students registered in the School of Engineering will be admitted to the "Grand Brawl" in Frank Thompson Gym Saturday evening by bid only. Each engineering student is entitled to one bid.
Bids will be sent to the office of the head of each department and may be secured there starting Friday morning, April 14. Voting will begin in the Y.M.C.A. registration cards to present at the time of securing bids.
Parents who wish to attend will be admitted at the door, if accompanied by students.

ON the Beat

By FABE CLEMENTS

Well, here we are again "out of this world" with more jive for us jitterbugs. The recording that takes first place in swing history for this week is Glenn Miller's "Romance in the Family." This recording has every thing—hot trombone by Glenn Miller, sweet vocal by Marion Hutton, and strictly sweet sax as only Miller's organization can play. On the other side is "Cuckoo in the Clock" with vocal by lovely Marion Hutton. This arrangement is also tops. Two other Miller recordings that are very good are "Gotta Get Some Shuteye" and "How 'd Like to be With You in Bermuda."

Jimmy Dorsey recorded a sensation this week when he released a new arrangement of the old number "All of Me." Jimmy has finally found a good female singer in Helen O'Connell. She sings the new "All of Me" with a swing of both Mildred Bailey and Billy Holiday. The record features trombone player Bobby Burns along with leader Jimmy Dorsey on his famous sax.

No "Jump Session" would be complete without music by Charlie Barnett. His top recordings of the week are "Jump Session" and "Swing Street Strut." Barnett features a hot tenor that is similar to the style played by George Auld. Barnett recently left the "Famous Door" to go on tour. Let's hope he comes down our way. Four swing collectives will be complete without Barnett's theme song—"Swing at the Famous Door."

Other hot recordings of the week are Erskine Hawkins' "Strictly Swingin'" and "Do You Wanna Jump Children?" Hawkins has an up-and-coming colored band which features himself on the trumpet and Oscar Brown on bass sax. "King of Blue Blowers," Harry James, has recorded "Two O'clock Jump" while playing with King Benny. Benny has recorded "Cuckoo in the Clock" and "A Home in the Clouds," which features the vocals of "Queen" Martha Tilton.

Remember when Artie Shaw made himself famous by his arrangement of "What Is This Thing Called Love?" His recording in tone, but the one that tops them all is Glen Grey's recording of the same piece. New zoom is added to the piece by trombones featuring "Pee Wee" Hunt, and the hot "Pumpkin" last Friday, for the annual Freshman-Sophomore battle.

Benny Begeran's last recording before he goes to the tenor man, George Auld, is "High Society." The piece is nothing more than ordinary, but it features Auld's immortal hot tenor rides.

Records that have been overlooked. The recordings that you want to listen to while wooing your gal is Dick Himber's "Blame It On My Last Affair" and "I Promise You," which features the vocals of Stuart Allen. Possibly the best "swag song" of the month is Larry Clinton's recording of "I Get Along Without You Very Well." It features the romantic vocal of lovey Bee Wain. The tune is written by Hoggy "Stardust" Carmichael.

Benny Goodman's own new recording of the week is "Pick-A-Rib," featuring Buddy Shutt on drums, Lionel Hampton on the "wood-pile," and Teddy Wilson on the piano. It's a good quartet number—if you like his quartet.

Recordings arrived yesterday featuring Lee Brown (Pledge Dances) playing "Lightly and Poetically," "Darling Nellie Gray," and "You, You, You." Artie Shaw did not record this past week.

Well, that's all for this week, but we will have another "Jump Session" in this corner next week.

Political Pinwheel Whirls As Preparations Are Made For Primary Election Monday

Parks will race for the business manager's post. THE TECHNICIAN and The Watsonian are the only publications for which heads are chosen by a vote of the entire student body. The other publications are voted on by the respective groups which they represent.

Agromeeck
J. Y. Pharr and L. E. Wooten are candidates for the editorship of the Agromeeck, while E. L. Milks and J. M. Burnham are running for business manager of the same publication. These men will be voted on only by members of the rising senior class.

On the Agricultural School ballot S. N. Mann and J. L. Langdon are seeking the editor's post of The Agriculturist and M. E. Starnes, James McGinnis and W. H. Davernport will run for business manager.

Troy D. Williams has been selected as the editor of The Southern Engineer for the year. Dalton and T. H. Blount will be voted on by the Engineer's Council for the position of business manager.
The Pinetum, Forestry School publication, will be edited by John D. Atkins next year. The candidates for business manager have not been announced.

YMCA Nominations
Candidates who have been nominated for offices in the YMCA are: president, O. J. Howell and Kenneth Murchison; vice president, Jack E. Price and W. E. Watkins; treasurer, Bill Greenlee, Eugene Starnes, and Fred Webb; and secretary, C. H. Kirkman, Ward Andrews, and Woodley Warrick. All voting will begin in the YMCA all day Monday under the supervision of election officials. A sample primary ballot is printed in this issue of THE TECHNICIAN on page 2.

GLEANINGS

by THE STAFF

There is the old story about when the cat's away, the mice will play. . . and so, while the editor is away the staff will play. . . not sweet music or a game of "London Bridge," but a spotlight on the unpublished news of the campus.

They are really fixing up the names of these dormitories. . . first, they tack the names of Eighth and Ninth on the two now completed. . . and then to complicate matters further, the titles of A and C have been given the two under construction on the old site of the dairy barns. . . and when you put all of them together, look what a collection of names you have—1911, Watauga, South, Fourth, Fifth, and a dozen other numbers, and then A and C.

Politics seem to be taking the upper hand now, and the first voting will take place Monday in the primary elections. . . Cigars seem to be the vogue at present, plus a good word for a fellow man. . . But the real fireworks start next week, cause the final elections come off on the following Monday.

And from all indications, it looks like our school work will begin to interfere with outside activities again this term. . . There comes the Engineers' Fair, followed by the Textile Style Show, plus the Junior-Senior, and a couple of dozen fraternity and society dances thrown in on the week-ends. . . the question before the floor is, when do you study?

A hand to the sophomores for the excellent hop which they sponsored last Saturday night. . . but the "jitterbugging" ran high—so did the temperature. And now we are rejoicing over the fact that the administration has declared that there shall be no classes on Monday afternoon, in observance of Easter. . . and also the annual Easter Monday baseball game with Wake Forest.

And does the Forestry Club rear. . . the Meredith College "Little Theatre" group gave them a two-act comedy at the last meeting, and we hear a mighty good affair was presented. . . More power to these female actors. . . and speaking of acting, has the State College Red Masqueurs organization vanished altogether?

"Caught on the Run": Strange tales are coming back with the aeronautical seniors of their inspection trip to New York. . . a subway train was under the sidewalk on which Jim Murray was standing, and Jim got excited. . . he yelled, "Run quick, we're having an earth quake." . . and what could be the sudden interest that Tom Blount has in the Treasurer's office? . . . and why is it that Harill and Wilkeson have to keep up tradition in 1911 Dormitory. . . of course, they have lots of help.

Faithless Education? really be kin to the Smith Brothers. . . these "Faithless Education" movies of his are really going places. . . they have switched from the "X" auditorium to Pullen Hall to get more room. . . and he's having a real Westerner tonight. . . Wonder how Paul Loefer is getting along in his struggle against Deacon Deacon Bill Sweet. . . better watch those Deacons, Butch, they're red hot. . . And here's a hand to Ted Johnson, a tough and a loon wrestler, for his captaincy of the team next year. . . And what is this new attraction that has got Ed Coon going around in circles. . . hear he's going to run for sheriff in the next election.

And then for the famous last words: . . . such as—Now what did I do with that date book, Troy Williams; I'll bet I capify this aeroplane upside down and backwards, Leon Williams; You know this girl is different, Russel Burcham; a cigar, Bill Aldridge; I'll get to class on time if it kills me, "Rube" Mitholland; Professor, you know you haven't got time to grade these quizzes, W. B. Coward; I feel sick all over, Hugh Johnson; So do I, Jim Mitchell; and, "Why do they have classes on Friday?" the Staff. . . See you in church Sunday. . . ED DAVIDSON.

When the Library search failed the telephone succeeded!

FIVE sophomores at a New England university had been assigned to report on the residential districts of a southern city, its principal products and the location of its plantations.

Hour after hour they thumbed through book after book in the library—all to no avail. Then one of them had a happy idea—why not telephone the city's Mayor? They did—and in a few minutes had all the information they needed.

No matter what the question—in college, in social life, in business—you'll find the telephone is often the quickest, most economical way to get the answer.

The baseball team suffered from another blow when Pitcher Holshouser was ruled ineligible for this season because of scholastic difficulties. Thus far this year Coach Doak has lost three of his outstanding players — catcher Smith, shortstop Kearns, and now his star pitcher, Holshouser.

The burden of hurrying for State will be carried by "Ace" Green, southpaw Sammy Kaufman and Pete Bruinoge. All are able men, but Holshouser will be missed.

The recent clash with Catawba was not as bad as would seem from the score. The Indians had played several games previously, while that game was the Tech's opener.

Is Polanski Eligible? I sincerely hope that none of the Wake Forest boys will think I am being petty when I propound the question of their star freshman athlete's eligibility.

Due to a bad start against the Catawba Indians and the loss of last year's star pitcher, Yie Holshouser, Coach Chick Doak has been doing everything in his power to be at full strength for the game this afternoon.

Washington and Lee are rated as a very powerful club, and State will be considered the underdog. However, as long as wily Chick Doak is at the wheel, spectators at today's game will not be disappointed.

At the dinner recently given by Coach Ray Sermon for members of the basketball team, the monogram men on the team elected Rollins Sevier to captain of the 1939-40 Red Terror.

Sevier is a rising junior, and the only one of the famous Six Iron men who will play next year. He is from Asheville, and attended Biltmore Junior College before coming to State.

His first year on the team, as he was ineligible the previous one. In addition to his prowess on the basketball team, where he plays guard, the captain-elect is a member of the State tennis team.

Herman Hickman's highly successful wrestling team met recently to elect a man to lead their team for next year. Their choice was 176 pound Ted Johnson, a rising senior in engineering whose home is at Paws Creek, N. C.

State College's baseball team tangles with Washington and Lee this afternoon at 3:30 in what promises to be a very entertaining program.

Sevier is a rising junior, and the only one of the famous Six Iron men who will play next year. He is from Asheville, and attended Biltmore Junior College before coming to State.

His first year on the team, as he was ineligible the previous one. In addition to his prowess on the basketball team, where he plays guard, the captain-elect is a member of the State tennis team.

Herman Hickman's highly successful wrestling team met recently to elect a man to lead their team for next year. Their choice was 176 pound Ted Johnson, a rising senior in engineering whose home is at Paws Creek, N. C.

Johnson was highly successful this year, losing only one match on a decision, and winning a medal at the A.A.U. wrestling matches held at Greensboro. He has been a member of the team for two years.

His brother Able, is a varsity wrestler, too, and wrestles in the 135 pound class.

Unusual is it when a football player can play the part of the model student of a school?

Edward Arthur Rooney, better known as Little Artie, is a triple-threat football star filling this unusual role at State College this year.

He not only plays a fine game of football, and is a member of the college's athletic council, but doubles on the swimming team as a sprinter and during summers serves as lifeguard at a local pool.

Rooney gets a big kick out of playing the entire 60 minutes of every football game. He runs hard, tackles hard, blocks well, and passes well.

He expects to continue the fine play he did against a hometown team, Carnegie Tech, when the Dukes from Duquesne, also of Pittsburgh, come here November 11 for an inter-sectional game, as well as against Tennessee, North Carolina, Duke, Detroit and State's other outstanding foes of 1939.

Catawba Team Beats State 8-1 in First Game

Visitors Bunch Seven Runs in One Inning To Take Game; Kaufman Turns in Good Performance as Pitcher

Catawba College's Indians handed State College's baseball team a crimp when they repulsed the Techs 8-1 in the Techs opening game of the season last Saturday afternoon here at State College.

Most of the credit goes to Price Ferguson, former Belmont Abbey star. The big right hander limited State to five hits, and only one of those figured in the Tech's lone tally.

However, the third inning proved to be State's downfall, for in this inning, the Indians touched Pete Green and then Sammy Kaufman for seven runs.

Kaufman stepped into a tough spot, but held on until the eighth when he was replaced by Delmore Harper.

Except for the big third inning, the Indians were as helpless as State in the run-making column. Hero of the day was Leo Morgan, who timely hit paved the way for the Indians.

Morgan with a triple and a single and Peiffer, with two singles led the batting for the Indians, both batted .500. Honeycutt led the Tech's by garnering a double and a single.

ALL'S WELL
State College alumni like the switch in their alma mater's football schedule, that moved the game with the University of North Carolina from the early part of the season to November.

They also like the fact that this year Coach Williams (Doc) Newton will have two weeks to get ready for the Tar Heels, for an open date precedes the Carolina game.

FILM FEATURES

at the AMBASSADOR
The biggest collection of stars to be seen in any one picture for several years makes up the cast of "Midnight," gay new comedy which opens Sunday as a special Easter attraction at the Ambassador. Headed by Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche, the stars of the production, it includes John Barrymore, Francis Lederer, Mary Astor, Elaine Barrie, Hedda Hopper and Rex O'Malley, thus more than justifying the current Hollywood wisecrack: "Midnight brings out the stars!" The story of "Midnight," written by Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder, from an original by Edwin J. Mayer and Frans Schuis, plots the escapades of a beautiful young American girl whom a Paris business-man hires to steal his wife's sweetheart and restore his previously happy marriage. Miss Colbert, of course, is the American, Barrymore her protector, Miss Astor the wife, and Lederer the "other man." Ameche, who now appears with Miss Colbert for the first time, plays a charming taxi-driver who complicates matters for the adventures.
