

Student Pressmen To Meet Thursday

Delegates To Meet In Three-Day Session For Annual NCCPA Convention; Duke To Be Host This Year

One week from today the annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association, predicted to be the largest gathering of the pressmen in history, will be in full swing in Durham, with Duke University acting as host.

Final plans are being formulated by Walter James, president of the NCCPA and business manager of the Duke Chronicle, and the meetings will be held in the Washington Duke Hotel.

The name of the feature speaker for the convention has not been announced, but a program has been announced by the officers of the association.

This fall convention, one of the two annual conventions sponsored by the NCCPA, will begin next Thursday with registration in the Washington Duke Hotel, and with a meeting of officers on Thursday night.

Friday will mark the first assembly of delegates, as the students gather for their general meeting on the morning of the fourth. They will be feted at a special luncheon following their morning assembly, and in the afternoon the special group conferences will be conducted. The groups will be divided into divisions of Annual Editors, Magazine Editors, Newspaper Editors and Business Managers.

Friday evening the visiting pressmen will be entertained at the annual banquet and dance, which will be held in the ballroom of the hotel.

A short business session will be held Saturday morning, after which the conventioners will adjourn.

State College will probably send several delegates to the meeting, the usual rule being two men from the staff of each publication on the campus.

Dailey Is Chosen To Furnish Rhythm At Council Dances

Annual Presentation of Interfraternity Council Will Feature "Stop and Go" Rhythm; Football Teams to Be Honored

Frank Dailey, originator of the famous "Stop and Go Rhythm," and his 15-piece orchestra, will furnish the music for the Black and White Formals, annual presentation of the Interfraternity Council, it was announced late yesterday.

Dailey, a popular maestro with many Northern swingsters, will bring a new type of swing to the campus when he appears here on November 11 and 12 for the council series, which will replace the past pledge dances.

The Interfraternity Council has extended complimentary bids to the entire Detroit football team, and to two squads of the Wolfpack, and the two teams will be honored at the dance.

The set of dances, coming on the same week-end as the State-Detroit football game, will consist of a formal dance Friday night and a formal dance Saturday night. The football teams will be the guests of the council at the Saturday night dance.

Final plans for the Formals are being made by the committee in charge, consisting of Bill Hood, chairman; Bill Griffin, Al Hattaway and Charlie Weber.

MEMBERS OF GOLDEN CHAIN

The highest ranking honorary society at this school is Golden Chain, which limits its membership each year to 12 outstanding seniors. This year's members, pictured here, were selected for their exceptional abilities in scholarship and campus leadership.

Alexander M. Smith of Elkin, is president of Golden Chain. Other members are William McC. Bailey of Richmond, Va., president of the Student Body and cadet colonel of the ROTC regiment; Russell Burcham of Elkin, president of Blue Key; J. L. Murray of Newton, vice president of Golden Chain; Walter L. Fanning of Shelby, vice president of the Student Body; Stephen S. Sailer of East Orange, N. J., editor of "The Technician"; Horace R. McSwain of Shelby, president of the YMCA; Leslie C. Brooks of Bryson City, president of Eta Kappa Nu, honorary electrical engineering fraternity; J. D. Patton of Franklin, president of the Students Agricultural Fair; Joe Frye of Wardsville, W. Va., president of the senior class; G. W. Marsh, Jr., of Bath, business manager of "The Watauga"; and S. C. Holmes of Cambridge, N. Y., business manager of "The Agromock."

Committee Named For Senior Gift

Frye Selects Men To Pick Senior Gift to School; Class Meeting Poorly Attended

The first meeting of the Senior Class this year was held in Pullen Hall on Tuesday with only a small percentage of the upperclassmen attending.

President Joe Frye opened the meeting and spoke briefly urging the current Senior Class to cooperate in making a record second to none. He cited the splendid work done by last year's class under the able leadership of Dave Gilbert.

Dean C. R. Lefort also spoke to the seniors on the matter of compulsory attendance. "We want the entire class to manage the class affairs this year," he said, "not just a small group, as has been the case in past years."

"The current Senior Class is blessed with an unusual number of campus leaders," Lefort added, thus giving it an opportunity to leave an enviable record behind it.

Frye appointed a senior gift committee consisting of Jim Patton, Bill Bailey, Curtis Todd, Horace McSwain and himself to begin work on the gift annually presented to the college by the outgoing seniors. Any suggestions from members of the class will be welcomed by the committee.

First Graduate In Ceramics Visits Campus

First Student to Receive Degree in Ceramics Marvels At Progress; Finished With Class of 1927

The first engineer to receive a degree in ceramic engineering in the South returned to State College during the past week to marvel at the advances made in the Department of Ceramic Engineering since he was graduated in 1927.

L. R. Whitaker of West Columbia, S. C., became the first ceramic engineering graduate in the South because he was the first student graduated from the pioneering ceramics department at State College. He is the only professional ceramic engineer practicing in South Carolina today.

Whitaker believes the South offers a wide-open field to the ceramic engineer because of abundant natural resources.

"Any person interested in ceramics can establish a successful business in the South with very little capital outlay, because the natural resources are available to everyone in great and inexhaustible quantities," Whitaker declared.

He also said that ceramic resources in the South are of a high quality not obtainable in any other part of the United States.

Forestry 'Rolleo' To Be Presented Saturday Night

Forestry Students Travel To Hill Forest for Annual Outing; Upperclassmen Are Excused From Classes

Saturday, October 29, will be the date when Hill Forest will again furnish the setting for the annual outing of the School of Forestry. The event was promoted several years ago by students and faculty and met with such enthusiastic approval that it has been continued each year with increasing success.

Upperclassmen will be excused from Saturday's classes, and will leave by bus at 8:30; freshmen will leave at 12:30. An outdoor lunch will be served, and the remaining time will be spent in competitive events, which will include rock throwing, log sawing, wood chopping, running a compass line, and an accuracy and distance test for tobacco spitting. The competition is by classes and furnishes much rivalry between the groups. Honors were carried off by the senior class last year, but this year's strong class promises some junior competition.

On Saturday, November 5, the annual Logger's Ball will be held, with Key Seales doing the musical honors. The Forestry Club, which is sponsoring the dance, is planning to decorate the gymnasium in green and gold, the traditional colors of the department.

The affair, which will be chaperoned by Forestry faculty and their wives, is informal, and all students of the college are invited to attend. For members of the Forestry Club there will be no charge for admission; for others, the charge will be 75 cents for pre-sale tickets, and 85 cents at the door. Tickets may be secured from Mark Taylor, chairman of the dance committee.

McGeehee To Speak To Textile Society

The Tompkins Textile Society will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday night, November 1, at 7 o'clock, in the Textile Building.

Professor William McGeehee, prominent psychologist, will be the principal speaker of the evening. McGeehee will tell of several of his labor experiments and their relation to the textile industry.

All students in the Textile School automatically members of the organization and are urged to attend the meeting.

Juniors Advised To Collect Dues

Romeo Lefort Addresses First Meeting of Junior Class; Gives Suggestions on Annual Prom

At the Junior Class meeting held yesterday in Pullen Hall, Romeo Lefort, assistant dean of students, urged the juniors to make a ruling whereby every junior would have to pay dues. He suggested that this be done so that the Junior-Senior Prom, held each year in the spring quarter, would be an affair that the class of '40 would be proud of. By doing this it would not be necessary to sell tickets at the door, but would only be for junior and senior students.

The junior classes in the past, said Lefort, who had met with the most success in putting on the Junior-Senior Prom were the classes that paid dues.

Jim Mitchener, president of the Junior Class, urged all juniors who have not had their pictures taken for The Agromock to do so at once for this year's issue is in honor of the 50th anniversary of State College. He also reminded the juniors that attendance at class meetings was compulsory, and cuts would be counted just as regular class cuts.

Mitchener appointed T. R. Frazier and Tom Blount to serve on the dues committee with himself, and Sam Mann, Errol Durham and Henry Means to the program committee.

Flunk Slips Ready

Mid-term flunk slips are now ready for distribution and will be given out from the Dean of Students' Office beginning this afternoon and continuing through Tuesday of next week.

Romeo Lefort, assistant dean of students, announced yesterday.

These flunk slips do not mean that a student will fail the course for the term, but are simply a warning to the student that his work so far has not been passing, and that he must bring his average up to pass.

Dormitory Added To Expansion Plan

Low Bids on Dormitories Already Under Construction Allow College to Open Bids On Three More

Bids for construction of three additional dormitories at State College will be opened here Nov. 1. Architect Ross Shumaker announced today.

Originally embracing two dormitories, plans have been broadened to include another structure in view of the lower than expected bids on two dormitories already under construction.

Mr. Shumaker said the college would accept the best combination of bids on two dormitories if the proposals run too high to include the third building. Estimated cost of the dormitories is $23,836, of which the Public Works Administration will supply $145,000. Bonds for the State's share will be retired from dormitory rent receipts.

If three dormitories are possible in the Nov. 1 letting, State College will have living quarters for 808 additional students when the 1939-40 term begins. Two of the proposed dormitories will house 200 students each, and the third will provide living quarters for 58. The two dormitories now under construction will house 350 youths.

Although its enrollment has reached the record-breaking number of 2,155 students, State College lost a large number of prospective students this fall because sufficient dormitory space was not available. The new dormitories are vital projects in State College's $1,400,000 expansion program now well under way.

Dormitories scheduled for the Nov. 1 letting will be located near the present site of the dairy barns on the western side of the campus. Construction of new dairy barns at the Camp Park site near the fairgrounds is scheduled to start in December.

Mr. Shumaker is on leave from his duties as head of the Department of Architecture while preparing plans for the dormitories.

Theta Tau Initiates Twelve Engineers

Twelve Outstanding Engineering Students Initiated Into Professional Engineering Fraternity Last Night

The Rho Chapter of Theta Tau, national professional engineering fraternity, initiated 12 outstanding engineering students at their annual fall initiation last night.

This chapter was founded in 1924 by Col. J. W. Harrelson and 13 other men of high character and professional integrity.

Theta Tau is planning an extensive program of development for this year to place it at the top in its standing among the other professional fraternities on this campus.

The 12 men initiated into Theta Tau last night were Bob Wicker, F. O. Truslow, E. S. Pugh, Jr., K. V. Chase, Ed Davidson, T. H. Blount, C. N. Moore, P. Porcher Gregg, J. B. Hathaway, G. S. Achorn, J. B. Lashley, E. O. Randolph.

Military Society Pledges New Men

Upsilon Sigma Alpha, Honorary Military Fraternity, Extends Bids to Twelve Men

Upsilon Sigma Alpha, national professional military fraternity, extended invitations to 12 outstanding ROTC students last week and initiation for these new men is slated to begin today.

The cadets receiving the coveted invitation are E. Avery Williams, Warren Spear, Jones Pharr, Charles Smart, Perry Hughes, Ed Johnson, Louis Copley, William Searson, Ed Young, Frank Harris, Louis Cartwright and Buddy Means.

These men have just completed their pledge period which lasted for one week, and will begin the week-long initiation today.

Upsilon Sigma Alpha is rapidly gaining recognition on the State College campus. It was formed originally at Fort Meade in Maryland and has grown to its present six chapters. The State College chapter was founded three years ago by a small group of interested students and has now grown to include a membership of 33 military students.

The officers of the State College chapter are Walter Jones, president; Byron Nichols, vice president; Roger James, secretary; Bill Carter, treasurer, and E. Pierce Fleming, sergeant-at-arms.

Engineering Dean Will Attend Conclave

A paper outlining the services given industry through engineering research and extension work in land-grant colleges will be delivered by Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the State College School of Engineering before the American Association of Land Grant Colleges, meeting in Chicago, November 14, 15 and 16.

Accompanying Dean Van Leer to the association's meeting will be Colonel J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, Dean I. O. Schaub of the Agricultural Extension Service, and possibly others of the State College faculty.

Interracial Meet

The YMCA and the YWCA held a joint meeting in Chapel Hill on Saturday for the purpose of discussing interracial problems and their possible solutions.

Delegates from State College, Duke, Carolina, WCU, Greensboro College, Guilford, ETC., and Meredith were present at the conclave, in addition to representatives from Shaw, North Carolina College for Negroes, and A. and T. Brooks Patten of Carolina was chairman of the group, and Dr. Shelton Smith of Duke led the discussion.

Competition Keen In Race For Cups

Student Assembly Opens Next Week In State Capitol

Legislative Students Submitting Many Bills For Discussion; Plans Are Reaching Peak For Second Annual Mock Meeting

Southern youth "rejects the insinuation that it prefers poverty and undirected individualism to prosperity and progress," declares a joint resolution which will be introduced in the Student Legislative Assembly, which will convene in the State Capitol, November 4-5.

The resolution takes pointed cognizance of the controversy following President Roosevelt's description of the South as "America's No. 1 Economic Problem."

Attached to the resolution are the signatures of C. S. Harris of State College, chairman of the Student Assembly's economic research committee; C. K. Watkins of State College, president of the assembly; George Lippard of State College, secretary; Samuel E. Hobbs of the University at Chapel Hill, vice-chairman of the Carolina Political Union; Eugene Worrell of Wake Forest College, former president of the senate; and Bedford Black of Wake Forest, former speaker of the house in the student legislature.

"We urge the committee appointed by President Roosevelt to study economic conditions in the South to supplement their admirably thorough and destructive report by constructive proposals for specific legislation by the State and nation," declares the resolution.

"We urge defenders of 'Southern initiative' to give constructive proposals. Criticism of 'Federal interference' is not enough."

The resolution asks united pressure from the South on the next session of Congress "to effect the Interstate Commerce Commission to create an unfair freight rates against the South."

"We urge financial aid by the Federal Government for Southern schools. Without such aid, we see little hope that Southern education can approach Northern standards," the resolutions state.

"We urge Southern capital to invest more liberally in all worthwhile Southern industries, especially those offering increased employment of Southern labor at a fair wage."

"We urge the Legislature of this State to stimulate the increase in livestock by exempting from taxation all forms of animal husbandry."

"We recommend that tobacco warehouses and cotton gins be placed under State supervision, to insure better marketing practices."

The resolution also favors liberal Federal loans to tenants, to enable them to acquire above-normal, productive land.

Sigma Nu's and Fifth Dorm Win Decorations Award; Pikas Win Stunt Night; Freshmen Conquer Sophs in Bonfire

Winners of Stunt Night and the dormitory and fraternity decorations for Homecoming last week end have been announced by Blue Key and Golden Chain, honorary fraternities, who jointly sponsored the entire celebration.

Pi Kappa Alpha presented the best skit on the Stunt Night program last Friday, in the opinion of the judges, Major Kenneth G. Althaus, Dean B. R. Van Leer and Professor R. B. Rice, and thereby won the cup regularly awarded to the organization for taking first place. Members of the winning fraternity formed a band, and with a phonograph in the background actually providing the music, pretended to be playing. Alpha Kappa Psi came in second, and Kappa Phi Kappa was third.

Elaborate Display

In the fraternity decorations division, Sigma Nu, with an elaborate display showing the Wolfpack taming the Purple Hurricane, carried off first-place honors and the cup accompanying them. Pi Kappa Alpha was the runner-up, and Kappa Sigma came in third. Judges for these decorations were Major Althaus, Ed King and Professor Ted Johnson.

Fifth Dormitory, in the opinion of the judges, outclassed the other dormitories and won the first-place cup in the dormitory decorations competition. Its display consisted of big purple and white numerals spelling out "N. C. State vs. Furman" and a big sign which demanded that we "See the Purple Hurricane Reduced to a Lavender Breeze." In front of the building were two covered graves representing Davidson and Wake Forest, and an open one for Furman. Fourth dormitory came in second, followed by South in third place.

Fresh Take Bonfire

The freshmen won the right to paint their class numerals on the side of the dairy barns in the bonfire contest. The decision as to the winner, which was first announced at a Lavender Breeze, was reversed when the judges learned that the sophomores had not abided by the rule stating that the debris should be gathered only between the six o'clock and six o'clock the freshmen had the largest pile and ceased to add to it, while the sophomores added to theirs after this deadline until it was larger than that of the freshmen.

A snake dance around the blazing pyres and the burning of Furman in effigy concluded this portion of the Homecoming celebration.

Press Cameramen Chased Off Roof

Two Local Photographers Refused Permission to Remain on College Warehouse Roof

Two local press photographers, engaged in snapping pictures of the State College's drum majors last Saturday, were ousted from their vantage point atop the recently completed warehouse by the caretakers of the college.

Invited by the State College News Bureau to visit the campus and photograph the drum majors, the trumpet quartet and the "mystery" drum majorette, the photographers sought a background of new clouds for their pictures. The natural place for this seemed to be a roof, so they clambered to the top of the nearby warehouse and prepared to shoot the pictures.

Permittees had been granted them to use the upper deck of the press booth for the task. Apparently misunderstanding, the newsmen occupied the roof of the warehouse, which is adjacent to the press box.

Hearing the noise on the roof, Arnold Peterson, superintendent of grounds, went up to see what was happening. Seeing the men walking around in the new specially prepared composition roofing and fearing some damage might be done, he immediately ordered them to leave. Faying no attention, the photographers went on with their work, so Mr. W. F. Morris, director of the Service Department, also added his warning to that already given.

Whereupon the photographers departed, but only after they had secured the photographs they desired.

Council Refuses To Provide Funds For Band Trip

Athletic Council Decides Against Sending Band to Manhattan; Unit to Attend Duke and Citadel Games

At a special meeting called last Saturday morning, the Athletic Council decided, after careful consideration and investigation, that the Redcoat Band will not make the proposed trip to New York to play at the State-Manhattan football game.

The members of the Council expressed their sincere regrets that the band would not be able to make the trip, but stated that they did not deem it advisable at this time to finance the trip. According to a report submitted to the council by a special Band Committee, the actual cost of transporting the 80 members of the Redcoat Band to New York would be $1,300 by train and $800 by bus. The Council did not feel that the six or seven minutes which the Band would play at the Manhattan game would warrant the expenditure.

In commenting upon the situation, a spokesman for the Council stated that while in most colleges special financial arrangements are made for the bands, the present set-up at State places the entire responsibility upon the Athletic Council. This arrangement forces the Council to budget all its expenditures carefully.

The Redcoat Band made the trip to Charlotte for the parade and the State-Davidson game, and it will also perform at the State-Duke and State-Citadel football contests.

Carolina Player Leads In Scoring

George Radman Tallies Six Markers in Five Games to Pace Southern Conference.

George Radman, veteran University of North Carolina halfback, is the leader in the Southern Conference scoring up through last Saturday's games.

Last week's leader, Ed Clary, South Carolina, with 28 points failed to score against Clemson and dropped to third place.

The Big Five and Southern Conference leadership will probably be at stake when Duke meets Carolina at Chapel Hill Saturday.

Duke gets the nod, being undefeated up to this far, but last year Carolina upset the favored Blue Devils by 14-7 and is capable of again upsetting "the old dope-bucket."

Dean Van Leer On Committee

Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the School of Engineering at State College has been informed that he has been elected to the important nominating committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The committee, composed of seven men outstanding in national engineering circles, will nominate officers for the society's 20,000 members next year.

Berlinski Coaches At Former School

Eddie Berlinski, who was one of State's outstanding athletes last year and one of the nation's outstanding schoolboy backs, has recently signed to coach at his high school alma mater in Bloomfield, N. J.

Before taking his post at Bloomfield, Berlinski signed a contract to play pro football for the Newark Tornadoes of the American Pro Football Association.

Following graduation he took a course in aviation in Texas at the Army aviation post. He returned home this fall to appear in an All-Star game at Providence against the Chicago Bears.

Barnhill Speaks On Citizenship

Judge M. V. Barnhill, associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court, addressed the student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers Tuesday night on various phases of the State Constitution as compared with the United States Constitution.

In his talk, Barnhill pointed out the rights and responsibilities connected with good citizenship and the origin of many of the Constitution's provisions.

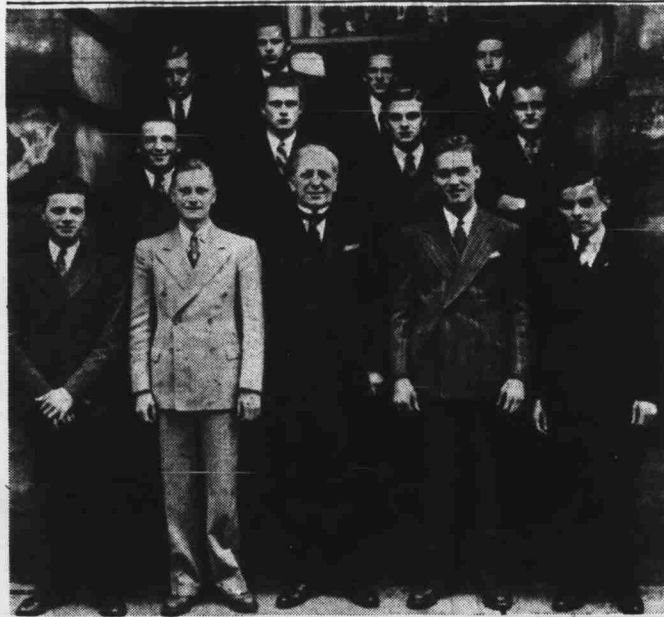

Fifty new members have been initiated into the local chapter of AICHE during the past week.

Current officers of the organization are: J. W. Foster, president; E. O. Randolph, Jr., vice president; R. L. Huffman, secretary, and V. F. Kasey, treasurer.
