A Chance For Better Government

The first Student Legislative Assembly ever held in the South will open for the second time today at noon. The mock assembly, which was attended by 125 students from seventeen North Carolina colleges last year, is for the purpose of acquainting forensic students with the workings of the North Carolina government and to prepare them for future legislative appointments.

A great deal of credit should go to Professor Edwin H. Paget, debating coach, for his efforts in making the Student Legislature a success. Through his efforts and the efforts of Pi Kappa Delta fraternity members, the assembly has taken the spotlight as one of the most outstanding collegiate events of the year.

With the training these college students will get in the handling of legislative matters, they should be equipped to handle the business of the State in case they are ever sent to the General Assembly to represent their county or district. In the past, many men who have gained their seats in the General Assembly came here on the strength of their popularity instead of their ability. The Student Legislative Assembly is in a position where it can train our men for specific jobs in the State and national governments. We wish continued success to the assembly and its promoters.

A Job Well Done . . .

Yesterday marked the opening of the annual fall convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association, and Walter James, president of the Association, predicts that this will be the biggest fall convention in history.

By sundown yesterday over sixty delegates had arrived in Durham, where the conventioners will begin in full swing in the Washington Duke Hotel this morning with the general business meeting.

This year's convention is being sponsored by Duke University, and President James and his assistants have done a fine job in the preparations.

And so we extend to the 1938-39 officers of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association a big hand for their fine work. May their followers use their same efficient tactics.

Get Behind Your Team . . .

The train carrying the State College football team left early this morning for New York where the Wolfpack will engage the Manhattan Jaspers in the third inter-sectional battle between the two teams.

The State gridder's record, examined upon a basis of wins and losses, is not particularly impressive. At times the team functioned faultlessly, combining spirit and ability to stand head and shoulders above its opponents. The State team which ran rough-shod over a favored Wake Forest eleven, would have given any team in the country a mighty tough afternoon. Yet, against Virginia Tech last Saturday the snarling Wolfpack appeared to be toothless. The spark was gone.

The past week has brought about several changes, however. It will be a rejuvenated State team which takes the field against Manhattan tomorrow afternoon. A captain has been elected to lead the Wolves into the remaining battles. The squad is going through its practice sessions with a new spirit of determination. The rest is up to the Student Body. The team needs your support now more than ever before.

Let's keep the school spirit at the high level it has been for the past year. Get behind your team and your college, and keep in mind that it is "State College, win or lose."

★ OPEN FORUM ★

DEAR EDITOR:

I would like for this to be an open letter to a deserving man, none other than William "Doc" Newton, head of our Wolfpack.

No doubt there is considerable "gripping" among students, alumni and fans over the fact that the Wolfpack hasn't turned in a hundred per cent season, or because they haven't won all the games someone rated them to win.

But does the score really count? I honestly believe that since Newton came to this campus, school spirit, athletic spirit and general public interest has increased one hundred per cent. Does it matter if the Wolfpack doesn't win every game, or should the capability of a man be determined by the success of a football team?

Undoubtedly, State College has one of the best coaching staffs to be found in any college in the United States. They are all competent, willing and untiring. It would be a difficult job to replace a single man among them.

I'm in favor of a person saying what he or she thinks. But I personally condemn any man who would pass judgment upon another because of his lack of knowledge, the dissatisfaction of not winning, and to join the general group of "deadheads" who have never done a thing to help the college, and who are the first ones to criticize it.

I say that "Doc" and his staff can ring the bell for me anytime. Are you with me?—E. D.

LOOKING 'ROUND

By "SCOOB"

This is a funny world. Can you imagine anything any funnier than the announcement by the incompetent staff of the Watauga, ex-humor magazine, that the publication would be off the press next week and in student hands? Why, we have been hearing that kind of rumor for months.

They tell me that "Bunny" Hines, recently elected captain of the Wolfpack, still has an interest in the Woman's College in the city of Greensboro. Of course, it's just hearsay.

And who could have been the person that said Joe Frye didn't have the interests of the state of Tennessee at heart, especially the section around Athens? He is so interested that he is inviting one of the inhabitants up here just so he can be sure she is in good hands this week-end.

Edgar Britt is manifesting a great interest in what goes on at Peace College nowadays. They say he tried to register there at the beginning of their school year.

Lou "Rube" Asbury is planning another trip to New York in 1942. He figures it will take him that long to get tangled from the Hayes-Barton section of Raleigh, especially from an almost permanent location on Fairview Road.

What interest is it that "Doc" Holmes and "Cheerleader" Mosley find around the College Soda Shop about the same time every day? It could be the passengers in a Plymouth, or could it?

And here's an interesting little item, self-explanatory:
Before: "How do you do, Mr. Lindsey?"
"Won't you sit down?"
"Have a cigarette, Mr. Lindsey."
"A little ice cream, Mr. Lindsey."
When: "Congratulations, Lindsey."
"Glad to hear you with us, Lindsey."
Later: "Hey, rat, did you take those letters to the post office?"
"Ya dumb mug, where's the package?"
"Come on, bend over, you swine. Don't be soft. We ain't halt through with you."
"Smack Smack!"
—The Davidsonian.

FRANK DAILEY

Dance history will be in the making the week-end of November 12 when the Interfraternity Council presents its first in a series of Fall Frolics. The dance committee was not satisfied with one of the "frolics," so they are having Frank Dailey and his "Stop and Go" music to entice steps out of dancing feet. A specialist in smooth-flowing dance rhythms of romantic spirit, Frank Dailey has played for practically every fraternity and sorority in his native state of New Jersey, as well as many of the leading colleges and universities throughout the East and Middle West. Leading theaters, hotels and night clubs around the country have also featured Dailey and his "Stop and Go" rhythms.

Dailey boasts of an orchestra composed of men who have been in the crew for over eight years. In addition to Maestro Dailey, leader and violinist, there are three of the original members of the group still together. They are John Kelsey, pianist and electric organist; William Berger, trombonist, and Harry Berman, trumpeter.

Mr. Dailey has unusual qualities as a talent scout and his best find is Barbara Bush, featured vocalist, who is better known as "Babs." He heard "Babs" singing in Meyer Horowitz's Hill-Billy Band, appearing at New York's famous Village Barn and immediately signed her up. We hear by grapevine telegraph that several movie scouts are reading screen tests for this lovely, brown-eyed, charming delineator of smooth songs. Howard Dulaney, baritone soloist, used to be the driver for the instrument wagon and by following the old custom of "Singing While You Work" he was soon discovered and placed in front of the band to do his stuff. Other top notch specialists are The Dailey Dandies, vocal trio, "Curley," drummer, and The Glee Club.

Frank Dailey was born in Bloomfield, N. J. His parents were ambitious to have their son become a priest, and with this objective in view young Frank applied for and won a scholarship to Stony Hill College at South Orange, N. J.

The Question: Do you favor freshman caps?

E. B. Morrison, '40: "I think we should have freshman caps for the following reasons: (1) The caps would provide a needed impetus to school spirit; (2) Caps would make it easier for upperclassmen to recognize freshmen and would insure the first-year men learning their alma mater; (3) Freshman caps would make it easier to distinguish the first-year men from the upperclassmen."

T. T. Tyron, '39: "Yes, caps should be worn as they would warn the town people what to expect when they came in contact with our 'rats.' Freshmen, wearing these caps, would work harder to stay in school and would look forward to being sophomores."

Frank J. Zedlitz, '40: "Why not? Caps would put the freshmen in their places, and they would have a feeling of importance when they shed them in their sophomore year. It would do a great deal to aid school spirit. No doubt, you can tell a freshman without his cap, but it would be symbolical."

Luke E. Stacy, '41: "I'm all for the idea. I think they would go far in creating a desirable class distinction and spirit. It would help us upperclassmen to keep our girls out of the clutches of the frosh."

Howard L. Pearson, '41: "Freshmen caps would be invaluable aids in creating class pride and spirit. Caps would increase quite materially the spirit of the campus and would promote relations between the freshmen and the upperclassmen."

Howard Bergman, '40: "Yes, because the caps would help us create tradition on our campus. It would be an external display of our college spirit. I think that after a few years our tradition would be equal to our spirit, which is unbeat by any part of the university."

Rambling around the campus: Listening to the many weird versions of that now-famous Sunday night radio broadcast which are floating around. . . Talking now about an invasion from Mars and an imaginary wave of depression sweeping over the country may sound rather fantastic, but it really has the State campus in an uproar. . . There were wild-eyed little groups gathered around every available radio at the College Court. . . Watauga Hall was panic stricken. . . Hubert Woodhall, the first to hear the all-too-real dramatization, ran from room to room spreading the alarm. . . Finis Murphy began hurriedly to pack his belongings, homeward bound. . . A resident of one of the State fraternity houses put in a long-distance call to his parents to have them come and get him (he had a pretty tough time convincing them that he was sober, by the way). . . Roy Thomas and several friends made hurried preparations to leave for their home in New Jersey, the center of the weird invasion. . . Dozens of anxious faces peered from the dormitory windows, searching the sky for traces of the meteorites, many of them still swearing that they saw "shooting stars," etc. . . All in all, it was a real scare, and as far as this correspondent is concerned, the powers that be had best confine radio broadcasts to something a bit tamer (such as Benny Goodman's crack swing band).

Halloween night snapshots: Paddles cracking briskly across the back of your lap. . . An old-fashioned free-for-all in front of Boon-Isley's with no holds barred. . . J. D. Parker mistaking an elderly woman wearing a mask for one of the high school cuties, with disastrous results. . . Howell Stroup leading an armful of young ladies through the dense crowd. . . Jimmie (What-a-Man) Kares carrying his date on his shoulders in order that she wouldn't miss seeing any of the fun. . . Willie Latham setting the pace for a mob of State men bent on doing their share toward making it a festive night.

Ten years from today: Russell Handly on his way to the Job of Secretary of Agriculture. . . Dad Kaley, dean of the famous State College Textile School. . . Jimmie Hubbard finally hobbling up to receive his diploma. . . Dick McPhail, cigar and all, barking out orders to his hirlings on the New York Times staff. . . Joe Frye well established in his post as dean of Meredith. . . Henry Rowe at last getting his heartbeat to take the plunge in the sea of matrimony so he can stop worrying. . . Ernest (Little Claude) Clark still trying to dodge all his feminine admirers. . . Avery Williams and Gilbert Robinson opening their town-renowned dancing school in New York. . . Popcycle Brown coaching at Alabama. . . Art Raymond in the movies now and still keeping the girls sighing. . . Jake Marsh and Ed Britt still trying to put out that first "Watauga". . . Fred Mastrolia owning one of the world's finest string of horses. . . Charlie Begg head of the country's top football school and best known for his sure-fire "sleeper" play.

Off to the NCCPA Press Convention Thursday. . . This year's get-together is being held in Durham with Duke as host. . . Rather missing Thursday night at the Capital Printing Company putting this paper to bed. . . But being more than consoled by the fact that the job is in responsible hands under the expert direction of Ed Davidson.

That freshman from Peace has Ace (Casanova) Krochmal walking in his sleep. . . Russell Burcham's new theme song, "I Hadn't Anyone 'TH' You". . . Add attractive couples: Newly married Mr. and Mrs. Doug Welch. . . Wonder what Boon-Isley's would seem like without Walter Cline? . . . My hat is off to Bunnie Hines, one of the most sincere persons this correspondent has ever known. . . Wait until you hear of his plans to really put the Monogram Club up where it should be. . . Best of Luck, Bunny. . . Looking forward to the new Black and White formal next week-end. . . With "Raz" Salenger at the helm, it's a sure bet that they will be more than worth while. . . We'll see you all down there. . . STEVE SAILER.

The Jaspers of Manhattan will be aiming for their first major victory of the season this Saturday when they take on a Wolfpack that has been upset twice this season and will be fighting hard to get back in the win column again.

In the three previous meetings, which have never failed to produce brilliant action, the Jaspers stood one up in victories, losing turned back a fighting Pack in a sea of mud last year 15-0 and 13-6 in the preceding year while the Pack took the series opener, 20-0. Shackled in the rain last year, the Pack never had a chance to work its razzle-dazzle attack and as a result failed to do itself justice. This year the team will be set to average the 15-0 set-back at the hands of the New Yorkers.

Detroit Next

The University of Detroit will bring a brother act with the team next week when they come to meet the Wolves in Riddick Stadium. Jim and Charlie Hathaway are the pair of brothers. Jim is a big strapping tackle, weighing 205 pounds, and Charlie is a 155-pound halfback reputed to be as fast as they come. This will be the first time since Gus Dorian came to the University of Detroit that the two teams have met on the gridiron and the game has the looks of turning into one of the best on the Pack schedule.

The addition of Duquesne on the State schedule for next year gives State another outstanding inter-sectional game. The Duke, coached by Johnny Clippert, will be remembered as the last team to beat the mighty Panthers from Pittsburgh. Clippert Smith, who coached at State several years back, can also be remembered as the only coach to have any continued success against Wallace Wade's Blue Devils. In 1932 the Pack, with Smith at the helm, took the Duke 14-0 and repeated in 1933, 6-0.

Coon Again

Coon again played a brilliant game against V. P. I. last Saturday. Even though the Techs did manage to score through Big Ed's position, the hard-charging tackle played a brilliant game. The Tech scouts did a brilliant job of scouting the Pack. The Tech coaches pointed their attack straight at Coon in an attempt to outman the big tackle. They used well organized cut-back plays that sent the heavy avalanche of interference straight at Ed after he had come into the backfield. He had an exceedingly hard task trying to break up the interference and the ball carrier all at once.

If you didn't see the slight error in prognostication this corner made last week, go see the rising Duke of Watauga (pardon us Dick). Let's go for this week... Wake Forest over V. P. I. Davidson over Wofford. Pitt over Carnegie Tech. Alabama over Tulane. Richmond over Citadel. Clemson over Geo. Washington. Syracuse over Colgate. Furham over St. Mary's. Northwestern over Wisconsin. California over Southern California. STATE over Manhattan. See you next week.

'Pack Ranges Northward For Manhattan Battle

Wolves Undaunted After Two Upsets; Head For Victory

State Men Expect to Avenge Last Year's 15-0 Defeat at Hands of Jaspers; To Play In Yankee Stadium.

A snarling, fighting Wolfpack, infuriated by two straight upsets is straining at the leash in New York City, anxiously waiting to jump on Manhattan College's Jaspers.

The enraged Pack, still smarting from a 7-7 tie with Furman and a 7-0 loss to Virginia Tech intends regaining its prestige through the medium of Manhattan, with the Gotham team acting the role of the sacrificial goat.

This is the fourth game in the series, which began in 1935, when a great State team, sparked by All-America Center Steve Sabol walloped the Kelly-Greens 20-0. The next two games both went to the New Yorkers, by the scores of 13-7 and 15-0.

Last year's game was played in a furious rain-storm on Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, which was under a half foot of water. State's razzle-dazzle attack was worthless under such conditions and Manhattan pushed across two touchdowns.

This year the Jaspers have been working under the tutelage of a new coach, Herb Kopf, formerly line coach at Columbia University. Kopf is a pupil of Lou Little's, and prefers a smaller line which uses submerging and mouse-trapping as its weapons. However, his predecessor, Chick Meehan preferred large-sized linemen, and that is what Kopf has had to work with this year. He has three victories to his credit, over Canisius, Providence and Niagara, and three losses, to St. Bonaventure, Holy Cross and Georgetown.

This game will offer State's All-American candidate, Jackie Ed Coo, the best possible opportunity to display his multitalented talents. If Ed is "on," his chance of making the mythical eleven will be enhanced more than it would be in any game, as the Metropolitan scribes are prompt to build up a good player.

It was largely as a result of his brilliant playing, State's center in 1935 that Steve Kopf, 'Pack center, made All-America that year.

The game will feature a clash of hard-charging lines. Manhattan has quite consistently out-rushed opponents all season long, even when going down to defeat, and State's forward wall has showed its might all through the season.

This game will be a sort of homecoming day for several of the players; Bobby Sabolyk, White Plains, N. Y.; Mickey Sullivan, Staten Island, New York; Ed Coo, White Plains, New York, and Tony DiYesso, White Plains, New York. All these boys are in the starting line-up, and will carry the mail for State with added zest so as to put on the best possible show for the home-town folks.

Grid-o-graph

The State-Manhattan game will be shown on the grid-o-graph in Frank Thompson Gymnasium tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

It is necessary that the students support the grid-o-graph so that it can be made available for further use in games away from home.

Come down to the gym tomorrow and watch the Wolves get back on the victory trail.

Freshmen Tangle With Blue Imps

Techlets Play Undefeated Duke Frosh Team in Second Big Five Appearance; Play At Duke

Duke University's undefeated freshman football team will show for the first time on their own field today when they take on the North Carolina State freshman team.

Coach Herschel Caldwell's Blue Imps have won three straight games disposing of three Southern Conference rivals and at the same time getting two wins over State teams. The Imps have beaten Wake Forest, Davidson and Clemson.

The Techlets under the direction of Nig Walter have not been as successful as the Imps. They lost the opener to Belmont Abbey and over in High Point last week the Techlets were bumped 7-0 by the Tar Babes from Carolina.

Leading the State attack, in the last two games has been McHugh and Czerniewski in the backfield and Phillips and Jones in the line. The Techlets looked good on the offense in both of these games but their defense was weak in the tough spots. The fact that the Frosh have spent so much time running enemy plays against the varsity probably accounts for this.

The Blue Imps have run up a total of 77 points; however, opposing clubs have picked up four touchdowns against them which is an indication of their defensive weakness.

High School Game

Raleigh High School football team will enter the high-powered Columbia, S. C., High School team in Riddick Stadium tomorrow night at 8:00 p. m. in one of the feature attractions of the week-end football card in North Carolina.

The invading Columbians from the Palmetto State are at the peak of their performance and carry a clean slate of no defeats and no ties. The game will probably be the best and hardest-fought high school game in this section of the State this year.

HINES TO LEAD WOLFPACK

Bunnie Hines Elected Captain of Wolfpack

James Burnette (Bunny) Hines, senior guard from Winston-Salem, is the captain of the 1938 N. C. State Wolfpack football team.

And George W. (Buddy) Fry, senior tackle from Raleigh and Princeton, W. Va., is the alternate captain.

The roommates were elected by the sixteen lettermen on the squad after several caucuses, arranged by the players themselves to revive the spirit of the Wolfpack that this week-end invades New York to play Manhattan College Saturday afternoon.

Senior members of the Wolfpack were nominated by the entire squad personnel and then the letter men, at a later meeting, elected the captain. A third meeting resulted in Fry being named alternate captain.

Since Coach Williams (Doc) Newton came to State a year ago the 'Pack has been led by game captains, sometimes elected by the lettermen and sometimes appointed by the coach, who heartily approved the plan of the boys to elect a permanent captain before the customary election at the close of the season.

Hines' election was a popular one with the boys, who openly voiced the opinion that he is an outstanding leader and capable of handling the important position. Bunny is president of the college's Monogram Club and also is a member of the Athletic Council.

His thumbnail sketch reads: Born October 14, 1915... attended R. J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem and earned monograms in football and wrestling... stands five feet, ten inches... weighs 160 pounds... hobbies are athletics and dancing... favorite dish is veal cutlets... easiest study is hygiene; hardest engineering drawing.

Here's Fry's: Raleigh resident four years... born October 10, 1915... attended Princeton (W. Va.) High School and earned monogram in football... plays tackle and is a heavyweight wrestler... stands six feet... weighs 195 pounds... hobbies are swimming and movies... ice cream is his favorite dish... likes math.

Fry was president of the Monogram Club and a member of the Athletic Council's executive committee last year. A post graduate, he received his diploma last June.

Duke Has Open Week-end as Devils Prepare for Syracuse; Carolina to Engage VPI at Chapel Hill.

The Duke Blue Devils towered over the Big Five and Southern Conference football leagues after their 14-0 conquest of the Carolina Tar Heels. The Blue Devils are the only major unbeaten team that has not been scored on. The Duke will be taking a rest this week-end in preparation for some tough ones ahead—Syracuse next week, State the next and then Pitt—with the Blue Devils considered an "underdog" despite their season's record.

While Duke's dynamo worked at curtailed speed other Big Five gridiron machines put on the pressure for the games of the week-end. The State Wolves journey this week-end for conquest over the Manhattan Jaspers in New York's Yankee Stadium. The N. C. State team last year was defeated 15-0, but it was a remarkable showing that caused much talk in football circles. The Wolfpack, none the worse from the defeat handed them by the Virginia Tech Gobblers of 7-0, will be on the field trying to regain their prestige and power that has ebbed in the last two games—Furman and Virginia Tech.

The State eleven will have a lot on their hands when they return, in the form of a game with Detroit. The Tar Heels are out for victory when they engage Virginia Tech at the Hill this week-end. Hostilities between these two elev-

Gobblers Rout Favored 'Pack To Gain Upset

Game Climaxes Steady Improvement by VPI; Push Over Lone Score Early in Third Quarter to Win 7-0.

Virginia Tech rose to unprecedented heights in crushing State's Wolfpack 7-0 in the former's last home game and the feature attraction of the V. P. I. homecoming celebration. The game was the climax to the fast and steady improvement the V. P. I. team has made this season.

Al Miller, long-legged senior halfback from Hampton, Va., tallied the only points of the game for the Techs. He started the drive by returning the second half kick-off 35 yards to the 40-yard line. From here the Techs drove to the State 4-yard line where Miller aloofed tackle for the score. Captain Pierce made the extra point from placement.

State halted two scoring threats in the fourth quarter. V. P. I. twice drove to the 1-yard line but were repulsed once by the heavier State line and the game ended with the ball in the Techs' possession on the 1-yard line.

The highlight in State's playing was Art Rooney's booming punts. Rooney reached a high average for the season with 45 yards per kick. Retter, Coo, and Acal shone in the State line halting the hard-running attack of the Tech backs.

Freshmen Entertain For Meredith Girls

YMCA Gives Halloween Party for Meredith and State Freshmen

The freshman class of State College entertained the freshman class of Meredith at a Halloween party this past week, under the sponsorship of the college Y. M. C. A.

Alexander Smith, president of the "Y," presided over the party which was held in the attractively decorated room of the Y. M. C. A.

Featured on the evening's program was E. L. Cloyd, dean of students, who read some funny experiences from his "Dean's Bible." The highlight of the affair was a session of magic tricks, performed by Roderick Adams, who held the students spellbound with his slight of hand.

During intermission ice cream and cake was served to the thirty-four girls and forty boys present.

General Contractors Take In Thirteen Men

Associated General Contractors Hold Annual Fall Initiation

Thirteen students in civil engineering were initiated into the Associated General Contractors society last Tuesday night at their annual fall initiation.

Slides of the George Washington Bridge were shown to the members and initiates before the initiation.

The new members of the AGC are: D. B. Betts, L. E. Wooten, S. Goldman, W. N. Campbell, Joe Padgett, H. G. Hinson, T. P. Armstrong, W. N. Norris, W. D. Aheron, P. S. Woodley, P. E. Stout, A. N. Mattocks and Max Collins.

Gas Plant Institute To Be Held At State

College Extension Course Will Bring Many Technical Men To Campus

A short course of study for gas plant operators in North Carolina will be conducted at State College, November 17 and 18 by the College Extension Division, Director E. W. Ruggles announced yesterday.

The chemical engineering department is cooperating with the extension division in sponsoring the institute. Members of the college's engineering faculty and industrial experts will serve as instructors.

Assisting the college faculty will be many prominent industrialists in North Carolina, who are connected with this phase of work in industry.

ons started back in 1895, with a lapse of 15 years. In the 22-game series Carolina has won five and tied five, Virginia Tech victors of 12. The ties were all scoreless.

Three Tar Heels are nursing bruises and injuries received in the Duke clash, but are expected to be in the game Saturday. So, after the defeat by Duke and being on the short end of the series, the Carolina team should pull out of the hat a taste for vengeance.

Wake Forest's sophomores will play V. M. I. at Lexington, Va., in the Cadets' homecoming game. The teams have only met twice before, with the Deacons the victors of both. Comparative scores show the Deacons and the Cadets stacked up pretty evenly, but the Cadets present nine senior lettermen in their number one starting line-up, with the Deacons depending on their sophomores. The Baptists came out of the Clemson fracas without injuries and on the short end of the scoring of 7-0, and barring further trouble will be in top form for their Virginia invasion.

LOGGER'S BALL

The lovely ladies shown above will act as sponsors for the Loggers' Ball, annual dance of the Forestry Club, which will be held in the college gym tomorrow night from 9 until 12. Music will be furnished by Key Scales and His Orchestra.

They are: Edith Goodman with Sidney Ingram, Evelyn Gurrin with William Beasley, Dorothy Finch with Mark Taylor, Becky Bunn Witherspoon with Theodore Spiker, and Dorothy Wilson with Joe Frye.

Davidson fresh from a 13-12 victory over Furman, has a breather this week-end in the light Wolford College team. The Presbyterians will be at full strength for the Terrier invasion, and indications are that the Wildcats should win.
