R. O. T. C. Your Opportunity

1. Under the requirements of the Land Grant Acts Colleges receiving financial aid from the Federal Government are required to include Military Science and drill in connection with Agricultural and the Mechanical Arts, for at least two years. This college is the Land Grant College of North Carolina and as such is required to give military training.

2. The R. O. T. C. was created by the National Defense Act of 1916 and amended by the Act of June 4, 1920. This college immediately applied for a unit of the R. O. T. C. Infantry Branch, and has been able to hold it. The requirements of the R. O. T. C. are simple but strict. No college is permitted to retain the R. O. T. C. unless the work is satisfactory to the Federal Government. Inspections are made by officers detailed by the War Department at least four times during the year.

3. Requirements: A college to make a success of the R. O. T. C. must maintain a unit of sufficient strength of physically fit students above the age of 15 years. The military work must be progressive and satisfactory. This means that students must take the proper interest in the work and be able, upon graduation, to qualify as an officer of the Officers Reserve Corps. There is no requirement to become an officer but his progress must have been such as to qualify him by the same standard whether he desires to become an officer or not. The first two years (Basic Course) are required of all students at this college. Upon the completion of the basic course the student may, if selected, elect the Advance Course of two years and one summer camp not to exceed six weeks. At least three hours of drill and one of theoretical work are required during the basic course and three hours of drill and two of theoretical during the advanced course. Students not taking military are required to take the same number of credit hours in other subjects as indicated in the catalogue.

4. Benefits: During the basic course students are furnished one uniform a year by the Government. This uniform must be turned in before leaving college. During the Advanced Course the student is furnished one uniform a year, 53 cents a day as commutation of rations and one dollar a day for the period of camp attendance. Mileage at the rate of 5 cents per mile to and from camp is also furnished. The financial benefit derived by a student who completes the

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

STUDENT GOVERNMENT.

The students of State College have for a long time felt that as men they should be self governing.

Self government is the greatest heritage and fullest expression of manhood and if college men are to express themselves, to be bearers and promoters of law in the world, they can do it to the fullest extent only by training. A college student is not a boy till his day of graduation then to suddenly down upon the world a full fledged man and reliable bearer of civilization. In fact he is far on the road to manhood when he enters college for he has doffed knee trousers for the badge of manhood and therefore turned to manly things. It is conceded that he must have training in all branches of the calling he is to follow if he is to be an asset to that calling. It is also conceded that he must share alike with all others the burden of law. Then is it not just as behooving that he have training in law, not only in obeying but in applying and building? College men are called on as leaders for of the man with the greater number of talents is the most expected. Each opportunity adds a new demand. Therefore the burden of law falls much to the college man and he should have training in it. The college is the logical place to get this training and the logical way is student self government.

The Board of Trustees of our college appreciate that there is something wanting in our student life and think that this want can be filled by a reliable form of student government. We have asked for student government and have been granted the privilege of organizing with the assurance that they will support us in a government that is what it should be.

We have labored for the exercise of manhood in college to the fullest extent and our labor has been rewarded. We have not wanted laws handed out to us and now we are not to expect a system of laws to be handed to us. We must build it ourselves. The time is here and as men it is up to us. It is our move next, what are we going to do?

The tendency of the times is for self government in colleges. University, Guilford, Wake Forest, V. P. I., University of Virginia, and others have it. The North Carolina College for Women has it and had it before Susan B. Anthony came on deck. Is it not time we were bringing our chins up to the line?

If we have a government that is to mean anything it must be built on honesty, sincerity, and truth. To substitute our present order with any other thing will mean license rather than law and will lead to untenable conditions. It must not be a semblance but a real government, something with stability and teeth.

Our Board of Trustees are reasonable men and consider carefully our wants and needs. They have considered us as student government and have given us the privilege of organizing. The time for action is now here. Failure will be admitting unfitness and then it will be back to the nursery.

four years may be itemized as follows:

1st and 2d years; two uniforms including shirts and shoes...	$84.00
Use of overcoat two years (estimated)	10.00
3d and 4th years; 19 1-2 months at $16.00 per month	312.00
42 days in camp $1.00 per day	42.00
Uniforms as for 1st and 2d years	94.00
Total	$542.00

Actual cash received $354.00.

This should pay the entire expenses of a student college course for one year besides the use of the clothing.

5. The most important benefits to be derived from the R. O. T. C. course is the training received. Only those who have gone through with this training can understand its full value. The R. O. T. C. is primarily to teach men to serve as officers in time of war but it is believed that with a citizenry so trained in National Defense that wars will be unlikely. There is no one who will do more to prevent war than the educated man who is trained and who understands the cost of war. He is also a safe advisor and an effective, trained defender if his services are ever needed. The N. C. State College has made very good progress in the past two years of its R. O. T. C. history. It is better prepared this year as the cadet officers have been selected with care and are believed to be well prepared for their duties. The Army personnel has been increased to four officers and four sergeants. It is believed that this year will be the best in the history of the college and that there will be no other college with a better record.

The following is the Army personnel on duty here:

Major D. D. Gregory, U. S. A., Ret., Prof. Mil. S. and Tactics.

Major Chas. N. Hulvey, Inf. U. S. A., Commandant.

Capt. H. E. Fischer, Inf., U. S. A.

1st. Lieut. N. L. Simmonds, Inf.,

1st Sgt. C. B. Rickert, Inf.

Staff Sgt. H. C. Thomas, Inf.

Sgt. J. E. Baker, Inf.

Sgt. A. H. Hammond, Inf.

6. The R. O. T. C. Band, under the direction of Capt. P. W. Price, is starting out this year where it left off last session. The prospects are fine for the best college band in the Department. Several trips are being planned and, no doubt, the band will be able to take a trip to Washington next March to attend the inauguration exercises. Some plans are being investigated to arrange a trip for a picked battalion of the R. O. T. C. to the Inauguration. No doubt this can be arranged all right provided the unit has made progress enough to justify it. Now is the time to begin talking up this trip. We have the best looking unit in the South, so far as physical appearances are concerned. This year the unit should be well uniformed and equipped, so that there should be no real reasons why we can not make a good showing, not only for the State College but also for the State of North Carolina. Every other State has its military college, of which the State is proud. We all should not be satisfied this year with anything less than a Distinguished College rating.

Our Glee Club.

Our Glee Club is for the purpose of furthering the interests of music in college. It is open to every one, and especially invites those who are interested in or take part in music.

Every first-year man is invited to come out and take part, and it is sincerely hoped that none will feel that his musical ability will not count or that it will not pay him to put his time on the work. We are going to do some thoro training, and that alone, regardless of trips of personal pleasure, will be well worth one's time. Every man who sings or plays is expected to come out and take part; and is assured that he is welcome and will be made to feel at home. If there are yet old men who have decided to take part, they are as welcome as ever. A club that will make State College known in music is our purpose. Come out and let's have one that will put our college on the top in music. Meetings at 6:30 in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

Civil Society Begins Good Year.

The Civil Engineering Society held its first meeting of the year on the night of September 15th. It was a strictly business meeting. Professor Tucker made a short talk to the Society regarding its affiliation with the American Society of Engineers, which was enjoyed very much.

The President, Mr. M. P. Moss, appointed the committees for the year, thus completing the organization of the Society.

New members will be taken in at the next regular meeting and it is hoped that all Civil engineering students eligible will join. All Civil engineering students above the Freshman class are eligible.

ATHLETICS.

Harvard is noted for lawyers.
Yale is noted for men.
John Hopkins for its doctors.
For honors go to Penn.
Pittsburg for its "huskies."
Columbia your fortune to make.
Georgetown for its many sons.
For football, N. C. State.

On September 9th about 50 men answered the call of the gridiron and enlisted in Coach Fetzer's army period football practice was started immediately. With the opening game of the season with Davidson only a few days away, practice is being rushed. Riddick Field is crowded every evening with eager youths in football togs. The wheat is rapidly being sorted from the chaff. Indications point to the fact that we will have one of the best teams in the history of the college.

We have a number of veterans of former teams back with us this year. These men are being rushed by the new men for positions, however, under the efficient leadership of Captain Weathers the team is rapidly being rounded into shape. No one has his place cinched, however, and there is keen competition all the time.

Among the men out for positions are: For ends, Kirkpatrick and Lawrence, "old timers," and Wearn and Strong. If Bill Wearn does not play one end position this year somebody has got to hump. There is a possibility of getting "Sol" Homewood back again this year. We hope that the big boy can come back for he is one of the hardest playing ends in the game. Many other good men are working hard for these positions. Ripple and Capt. Weathers will probably hold down the tackle positions although McKinnie will make one of them realize that he has got to work all of the time to stay there. Floyd veteran of two seasons, will most likely hold down one guard position. The other guard is open unless Bob Young can be induced to come back. There are many good men out for this position and it will be well filled. Bostin and VanSant are having a hard fight for center. There are several other good men for this position too. The backfield material is the most promising in quite a few years. The most notable backfield men out are Gurley, Hudson, Faucette, Pierson, Johnson, Parks, Hill, and McCoy. Manning and Silverman show good form and are capable of holding down a position any time they are called. Quite a few other promising candidates are out for the backfield positions. All of the men show worlds of PEP and are working hard.

The schedule for this season is as follows:

AT RIDDICK FIELD.

September 25—Davidson.
October 21 (fair week)—Carolina.
November 6—William and Mary.
November 20—Wofford.
November 25 (Thanksgiving)—Wake Forest.

ABROAD.

October 2—Navy at Annapolis.
October 9—Georgetown at Washington.
October 16—Penn. State at State College, Pa.
October 30—V. M. I. at Lexington.

November 11 (Armistice Day)—V. P. I. at Norfolk.

This year we face three of the largest teams in the East; namely, Georgetown, Penn. State, and the Navy. The prospects are that we will give them a good game. After the northern trip we will return home to play our ancient rival Carolina in Raleigh during fair week. The next big game on the schedule is with V. P. I. at Norfolk on Armistice Day. This day should be a holiday and the whole student body should go to Norfolk to see this game and cheer the team to victory. The season is ended at Raleigh with the game with Wake Forest on Thanksgiving Day.

Coach Fetzer is working very hard this year to turn out a good team. Fetzer is one of the best coaches in the South. What he doesn't know about football is not worth knowing. He is a championship coach and with the material out that we have we may expect great results.

Just one more word, fellows, this football team is yours. It cannot win games without your support. If you are called upon to back the team financially do it. No one can get more out of anything than he puts in. Put your whole soul behind the team. Back it on the field and off the field, in victory or in defeat. Let the boys who are upholding the honor of N. C. State College on the gridiron know that we are behind them body and soul. Then and only then may we expect to have a championship team which will sweep everything before it in its onward rush to victory.

Freshman Night.

"Starting Right," was the subject of Dr. Peele's interesting talk to the Freshmen on Wednesday night. Speaking of ancient Rome and its greatness, he told of two great institutions, the Forum and the Temple dedicated to Janus the God of Beginning. Janus was represented by having a key in one hand and a staff in the other. The staff represented support and the key the open door. From this god came the name January, meaning the beginning of something—a new start. Dr. Peele suggested to the Freshmen how to make a good beginning, telling them to start with the right spirit—to start at the fire of the pistol, and go with it all the way: above all to start seriously. "Have a program and with a good start don't be there like the lightning that just flares up, but let your college life be like a light shining through to the end, never forgetting that a successful end should be your end.

Coach Fetzer also addressed the students, calling on them to catch the college spirit, and in athletics and college life to play the game fairly. "Stand for something—do something—be something—and let everything count," was his advice.

Mr. E. S. King spoke on "What the 'Y' Stands For," telling his hearers that beside the recreational privileges the "Y" affords, it is primarily a religious organization. Its purpose is to help every student develop Christian character. He explained to them the qualifications for membership and invited them all to take a part in carrying out the program of the organization.

After the close of the program a social and "get-together" meeting was held. Refreshments were served, and the new men we hope have caught the college spirit.

Supporting the Technician.

In preparing this issue of the TECHNICIAN the staff has had no little trouble in getting news items that would supposedly be of interest to most of our readers.

Direct calls have been made to departments and they have responded gladly. However one of the main purposes of the TECHNICIAN, to portray student news and life, is sadly wanting. You may find out that some one is in love, or has left a girl behind, but it is really surprising how little one half knows of how the other half lives here in college. This should not be. Every man should feel the call of his college paper and not hesitate to contribute happenings. We ought to be a college community well knit and held together by its news paper. The staff would gladly supply all the material desirable, if possible, but it is beyond their power. Then too, their duty is to compile the happenings of college life as contributed by college members, and publish it periodically. The periodical to be a college paper must draw its material from the college.

Get busy and contribute all the happenings. If you see or hear something, don't take for granted it would not be worth while. Give us a chance at it. Write it up and drop it into the news box in the dining hall. If you are one of those who feels like writing it out of their line, just give us the facts. We will fix it.

College Spirit.

One of the most vital things we learn at College, and one of the things that tend most towards the rapid advancement and uplift of an institution of this kind is "COLLEGE SPIRIT." By "College Spirit" we mean loyalty, that is, giving faithful allegiance to your college by boosting the various activities; such as Athletics, College publications, and the various societies and clubs. This spirit is developed simply by the process of education, the constant instilling of pride and enthusiasm in the students, with enough spirited competition to add plenty of "pep."

And how is this to be brought about? By means of rallies. Welcome the Freshman with a rally. Impress upon the newly-born class the traditions and glories of Alma Mater. When we entertain a visiting team, have a Rally. When we win have a rally. When we loose, have a rally. When preparing for a parade, have a rally. For we find that it is principally thru the "pep" meeting that this "COLLEGE SPIRIT" is kept alive.

Riddick Field is the scene of much activities at present, and one of the best football teams in the history of the college is expected to be rounded out within a few days.

Now that vacation time is over and the boys have found their way back to old N. C. State, we wish to extend to both the old and the new men a hearty welcome.

We hope every one has had a very pleasant and profitable summer, and that you who have been with us before have returned with a determination to do better work and fight a little harder for N. C. State than you have ever done before.

To the new men we especially extend the glad hand of welcome. We want you to fall in line and take an active part in the various College activities. Hit the line hard at whatever you go at, and thereby reap the reward that will surely come to those who are willing to do some real work.

Exchanges.

Having not heard from any of the other colleges, our exchanges naturally reverts to an invitation. Our paper will go to all our old exchanges and new ones too and all are invited and heartily requested to let us hear from them. We wish to let them know that we are on the map again and starting another college year lap on our journey and wish to learn how they are progressing.

Song.

Tho my body is asleep
 My heart is still awake
 My spirit goes to you Mignonne,
 For you, my love, to take.

Your beauty—nature's blessed gift
 Is drawing, drawing me;
 Indeed my heart cannot resist,
 I come, I come, to thee.

Our Buildings.

It is indeed pleasing to walk into Pullen Hall and see that we are at last to have a properly constructed auditorium large enough to accommodate the whole college population. Something that is what it ought to be has been our long need. We are to have an auditorium with a properly set stage, four dressing rooms, rear entrance, desirable balcony, movie booth, and the whole of first-class material and workmanship and even modern enough to have accoustics figured in it. We also have two small dormitories, slowly but surely on their way.

To finally see something tangible of our building program is indeed gratifying. We say "Best of luck" to the committee and "On with the program." Our need for buildings is departmental buildings and more dormitory space, both of the caliber of the interior of the auditorium, would lighten the strain. However, this is a good start, and we hope that work gathers momentum and goes on.

Diggs Farm; An Inspiration.

There is a progressive spirit in the air! Who of you, may I ask, has not felt it? If you would like to do so again, and also to get an inspiration of better modern agriculture, based on scientific principles and practiced right here in your home State, then visit "Diggs Farm," near Rockingham, down in Richmond county, on the banks of the Yadkin or Pee Dee, as they call it down there near the South Carolina line. Mr. Diggs, the owner and manager, is one of the most successful alumni and friends graduating with the class of 1903. His friendship and hospitality was exhibited to N. C. State dairy cow judging team recently in such a manner as to link the day spent with him and on his farm with the choicest of our college days.

To begin with, the farm, consists of about 2,000 acres of fertile Orangeburg loam, lying on the national highway, over which many tourists pass in their journey from North to South. The farm might more properly be termed "Diggs' Community," so nearly self-supporting is its broad level to rolling cotton fields, corn fields, great rolling pastures dotted with some of the finest Jerseys that ever crossed the Atlantic. Then there is a good herd of Duroc Jersey hogs which we did not see; a store, new modern cotton gin and storage houses. Transportation for men in furnished by the celebrated "Lizzie" and then on up to Hudsons, etc. Stock have their special trucks, and I saw a Packard backed up to the farm store.

You may judge the fertility of the soil when I tell you that last year from four hundred acres of cotton, the tenants harvested five hundred bales of sunny white lint and this year he has seventy-five acres of long staple cotton, now worth 60 cents per pound which will produce, on conservative estimates, one bale per acre. The thickness of the bolls on the stalk is evidence, enough that careful attention has been paid to the breeding and selecting of the seed.

In fact, we saw one field where the stalks were only about two feet in height and the negroes were getting over one bale per acre at the first picking in September.

We always save the best till last, and here it goes: Diggs' Farm has recently become the home of undoubtedly some of the prettiest Jerseys to be found anywhere in America. The herd consists of about 160 head of registered cattle, found roaming over the hills of green, being patiently milked and contentedly eating in the simple, substantial, but modernly equipped barn, chewing their cud in the shade of some forest giant, or perhaps bathing their hot feet, and whiffing in the delicious coolness of the trickling brook, or perhaps the Pee Dee itself.

I believe that the one outstanding factor around the dairy herd is the quality of the show herd and its inherent beauty. To get this herd Mr. Diggs bought very judiciously some of the best imported individuals of famous show ring families as well as the cream of over fifty years breeding of Allen Dale farms, Kentucky, exemplified in Raleigh's Farmer's Glory, the bull which is the pride of all who see him. It was on May 22d, of this year, that Mr. Diggs paid $7,500 for him at public auction, and since bringing him to North Carolina he has been offered $27,500 for him, it is said. But this almost ideal sire is to remain in the herd, and we shall wait with expectance and confidence the result of his being mated with the champion cow of North Carolina, holding a butter fat record of 786 pounds in one year, an excellent island bred matron now in milk, and some of the prettiest heifers to be found. Indeed, the year of 1920 marks a new era in North Carolina dairy cattle breeding. A word must be said about the splendid training the show cattle receive. We were particularly struck with admiration when a junior yearling (I believe) was lead out. I can see him standing now squarely on all four feet, each well out as if placed there by the most precise hands, a back and rump as level and straight as if it had been fashioned by a plumb, a neck so well shaped and a head held up so well as to give one a thrill and with every muscle of the body held so tense, we could not but remember that there are such things cut out of marble and granite and for a moment wonder if it was all a dream, when suddenly we heard the hum of a motor that told us that our day at Diggs' Farm was ending with the sinking of the sun—that never looked more glorious behind the far distant tree tops on the hill.

Do You Know the Purpose of Your Y. M. C. A.?

"To promote growth in grace and Christian fellowship among its members and aggressive Christian work, especially by and for students to train them for Christian service and to lead them to devote their lives to Jesus Christ, not only in distinctively religious college, but also in secular pursuits."

The Pullen Literary Society.

With a most splendid body of new men the Pullen Literary Society is about to begin the year's work. These new men have a responsibility resting upon them. Their aim should be not only to support the society but to do their duty and more by lifting higher the standards that have always been high, thereby making our organization a more widely known and a more vital asset to our college life.

Under the leadership of Mr. John D. Miller, nothing but a most successful and beneficial year's work is expected. Mr. Miller is deeply interested in every useful college activity and his greatest desire is to see N. C. State lead. He is not only desirous but with other men he is digging in order that this end may be reached. Let every member of the Pullen Literary Society get the old time pep and back our sincere and able president to the last ditch. If we do this our Society cannot fail to fill its noble purpose.

Here it is only proper to say that the success of our Society depends to a large extent on our friendly and powerful rival, The Leazer Literary Society. The regular Inter-Society contest adds zest and fight to our literary work here on the campus. This competition spurs both societies to put forth greater effort and to reap greater rewards. We hope for the Leazer Society a most successful and delightful year's work.

The future of the Pullen Literary Society is great. Come, men, both old and new—let's hit the line with all we have! The reward is great and sure, it may not come during our college career, but it will come in after years. This reward is not to the strong but to the worker who is faithful and persevering.

W. N. HICKS.

The Leazer Literary Notes.

Leazarites are back again with their high spirits and determination to accomplish some splendid training in debating, oratory, parliamentary law, and procedure as well as many other little technicalities met with upon the forum. Then, too, not forgetting the value of association and co-operation with ones fellowman, they are looking towards the bright future with even bright hope for helping train some of the leaders so much desired and in demand in the world today. Everywhere we turn, in the pulpit, in the traderealm, in our government, or down on the farm, we hear the cry for trained leadership and leaders who can sway an audience over to the right way of thinking. Executive ability is at a premium today in every part of the world, and it is our earnest desire that by voluntarily working together we may reach up to some higher proficiency in filling the demands to be made upon us when we leave our dear old Alma Mater.

Some very promising material is here among us, and they will soon come in and help take up the torch and carry it on until they, too, go out to show the "stuff they're made of." So, I say, it is with optimism that we view the future, even though we know the competition runs strong as the years roll by and therefore, that we must work and fight all the harder to win W. C. EAGLES.

Bible Classes.

Dr. J. Weston Bruner, of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, will lead the Bible class rally at the "Y" on September 29th. The program for year calls for both student and faculty leadership.

The course to be studied is "The Manhood of the Master," written by Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Why study the Bible?

1. Because it is a great English classic.
2. Because it contains a report of the experiences men have had with God.
3. Because it contains the biography of the greatest person who ever lived.
4. Because it is from the Bible that we get our standards of right and wrong.
5. International, political, social, and industrial problems will have to be solved according to the principles laid down in the Bible, or not solved at all.
6. Because it brings men into personal touch with Jesus Christ, the "Source of power" for right living.
7. Because it tells men what they must do to "inherit eternal life."

Gaston County Club Formed.

At a meeting on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 16th, fourteen of the Gaston County State College students were present and the first Gaston County Club was formed. Although this is our first club and we have no history it is all the more important that each one of us strive the harder to make this the liveliest and best club in school. It is not only our purpose to entertain the people who visit us but also to boost the old county in every way we can.

Next Wednesday night we will have a feed in the "Ag" building and every Gaston County man will be expected to be there. Don't forget the date for we will have a big time.

At the meeting the following officers were elected:

G. R. Sipe, President.
S. L. Carpenter, Vice President.
B. F. Norris, Jr., Sec. and Treas.

They met on the bridge at midnight.

They ne'er will meet again.

One was an east bound heifer.

The other a west bound train.

Electrical News.

It is hoped that the other societies had as active an initiation as did the N. C. State branch of the A. I. E. E. and that the new members are as enthusiastic over the year's work mapped out for them as are the Electrical Juniors.

Active work has now begun by the members of the Society in building new apparatus for the annual Electrical Show in the spring.

One of the most interesting features for the next show is the enlargement of the radio station. The additional use of this station as a "News Center" for the Raleigh papers besides its present important use of daily correcting the various "college chronometers" is contemplated. If we wish to know what China or Japan are fussing over all we will do is turn the switch and "tune them in." Or if we wish to know what disturbed "Bill" last night we will listen to some of the German military stations give their "Topics of the Hour."

A large transmitting set will soon be under construction which will cover a range of more than one thousand miles. It is hoped to have this set, also, completed in time for the Electrical Show.

Of no small importance is the construction of several wireless telephone sets by which means we will be able to carry on interesting experiments in simultaneous transmission and reception and by coupling up with the wire telephone talk from any point near Raleigh to a Raleigh telephone subscriber. A proposed use would be to "order dinner" on the way to town, facilitating quick service.

The Electrical Society, feeling pride in accelerating the growth of the department, intends to make the 1921 show the best yet.

Quite a bit of new equipment has been added to the department this year. Several new direct and alternating current generators and motors have improved the opportunities for instruction.

The chief requirement now, as is the present need of most other departments of the college, is more room. All available space is being used for class rooms and laboratories.

One of the large rooms is being fitted up for demonstration lectures to the Sophomore and Freshman as the present rooms have become insufficient in spite of the subdivision of classes to meet the large increase in sections of the old classes.

To meet the large enrollment this year in the Junior and Senior classes, all laboratories have had to be rearranged, thus enabling different classes to be assigned to the same room at the same time.

It is interesting to note that even the increased number of students has been insufficient to supply the demand for electrical graduates, as this year the department was able to meet only about one-fourth of the calls for men.

A decided advance has been made in the work of the department in the establishment of a much broader course. Beginning with the Freshman year lectures are given which acquaint the student with the scope of electrical engineering, from the development of electric power, through the transmission of it to its distribution and use for lighting and utilities. During the Sophomore year the student is given practical instruction in construction, maintenance and repair of all the important types of electrical machinery and apparatus. The student is, therefore, prepared by the beginning of his Junior year to devote his time to technical study and investigation of the fundamental principles of electrical machinery and apparatus.

Advantage has been taken, also, of the strengthening of the Department of Economics at the College and excellent courses in economics and sociology are given in the Senior and Junior year. With this broadening of its course, with the enlarged equipment, its enlarged number of students, its larger faculty, the Department feels that it is in better shape than ever before and that the interest and enthusiasm with which all classes have gone to work will make this the most successful year since it was established in 1893.

Hey, There, '23!

'Tis good to meet and see once more
The friends of bygone days,
And tread the paths we trod before
Together on our ways.

Vacation's passed. The life that we Have learned to love so well
Has now returned, and brings to me
A joy no words can tell.

So, fellows, pass the handshake 'round,
True friendship here have we,
Because no class was ever found
As good as '23!

First Meeting of the Poultry Science Club.

The Poultry Science Club of State held its first meeting of the fall term Thursday night, Sept. 16th, with a large number of men present.

A very snappy and interesting interesting program was rendered by members of the faculty and students. Dr. Kapp very tactfully pictured to us his visit to the American Poultry Association held in Kansas City. He also gave us some very helpful suggestions. Mr. G. R. Snipe then gave us a very interesting talk about his trip through several of the mid-Western States this summer. We were glad to hear that N. C. State College compared very favorable with the large Western colleges in poultry work. Mr. John Ivey urged in his remarks, a spirit of pulling together and boosting; he showed us the benefits that are invariably derived from pulling together for the cause in which we are working. Prof. D. H. Hall closed the program with a few well chosen remarks. He urged us to get to the foundation of our problems rather than jumping at hasty conclusions and taking a proposition on its face only.

The meeting was brought to a close after electing officers for the fall term. Mr. G. R. Snipe was elected president; Mr. G. L. Booker, vice-president, and Mr. J. F. Johnson, secretary.

We are still turning out men like these and have room for a few more in the course

The Ag. Club.

Many of you agricultural students missed a real treat by not attending the opening session of the Agricultural Club. Our new and enthusiastic president, E. B. Morrow, displayed some real ag pep in his opening address outlining the good things in store for us this year as club members. This was followed by an inspirational address by Dr. C. B. Williams in which he paid a fine tribute to the work of the club and declared it to be one of the finest things the college has to offer really ambitious agricultural students. We were also favored by an illuminating address by Dr. Cook of the Vocational Department who expressed a special interest in the club and its work. Prof. Ruffner was on hand with his usual good joke and gave the club a boost, assuring that he is standing four-square behind us.

On the whole the meeting was a good send-off and the spirit exhibited was proof enough that we are going to "do things" this year. Besides the usual attractions of special interest we are planning an Agricultural Carnival some time this fall. If you want to get in on this you had better come and find out about it.

To all the new men in agriculture we wish to hand this tip if you want a position after you finish here, if you really want to get something out of your course, if you want to belong to one of the finest organizations on the hill, then come and take a part in the club work. It needs you and you need it. The club is starting in for business this time and you are going to hear from it. You just watch out.

He was a coal black negro and on trial for making whiskey. "What's your name?" asked the judge.

"Are you the Joshua that made the sun stop?" asked the judge. "No, suh, yo' Honah, I'se Joshua that made the moonshine."
