

Mial Begins Movement To Organize Graduates

Former Grad To Locate "Lost" Alumni North of Mason-Dixon Line

An active campaign to try to organize some 3,000 "lost" State College alumni living North of the Mason-Dixon line into a strong group was launched this week by F. K. Mial, State graduate now connected with Johns-Manville in New York City.

Mr. Mial, who is a native of Raleigh, said that he and 14 other graduates of State, most of whom are connected with large business organizations, recently met at the Union League Club in New York and mapped out a campaign. Their main purpose will be to locate and organize State alumni living in the North who have lost touch with their alma mater.

The campaign was suggested when Mr. Mial discovered that a fellow alumnus of State had been working for seven years in his own company, without each knowing the other was from the same school. He investigated and then learned that no up-to-date list of State alumni was available, and that none had been issued since 1937.

Mr. Mial took his Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical and electrical engineering at State in the class of 1913. Today he is vice president of Johns-Manville Sales Corporation of New York, in charge of industrial sales.

"Imagine, with 20,000 living alumni holding good jobs all over the country, we don't have a really active alumni association," Mr. Mial said. "It seems to me that any college man, whether he is from North Carolina State or any other school, owes something to his alma mater. We should repay our schools by assuming, as alumni organizations, some responsibility for student graduates, to see that they get the proper start in life. We should help place them in positions, encourage them in their work, help them get acquainted in their new localities, and give them the benefit of our experience."

"Too many of us feel selfishly that we paid for an education and that our own progress is all that interests us. We don't realize sometimes that we get a great deal more out of our college training than we ever paid for. Democracy, itself, will not survive unless each generation contributes something during its span of life to make the future better for those to follow."

Frosh Quadrangle Plans Open House For Faculty Men

Professors will visit freshmen Tuesday afternoon; dormitories hold United Affair

Freshmen living in the frosh quadrangle will hold open house to faculty members Wednesday afternoon from four until six in order to give the faculty an opportunity to see how the students live.

Each student has been assigned a certain faculty member whom he is to bring to the reception, and upon his arrival at the quadrangle the professor will be shown through the first floors of the dormitories by student guides.

In the reception room located in eighth dormitory the visitors will be served refreshments and asked to sign a register which will be provided.

Another main object of the open house is to bring the freshmen into social contact with their professors so that they will be able to meet them with greater ease and less self-consciousness.

In former years it has been the custom for the dormitories to hold open house independent of each other, and since the affairs were necessarily small, attendance was not large. Sponsors of the new plan hope that every member of the faculty will attend and believe that its chances for success have been greatly increased with the cooperation of all four dormitories in the quadrangle.

A regular sequence for the tour of inspection has been arranged to include all of the first floors of the dormitories. All of the men rooming on the upper floors and in the basements will be asked to assist those whose rooms are under inspection.

Mr. Mial, who is a native of Raleigh, said that he and 14 other graduates of State, most of whom are connected with large business organizations, recently met at the Union League Club in New York and mapped out a campaign. Plan Is Discussed For Dining Room By Welfare Group

Committee Hears Proposal; Goes on Record as Approving New Measure

Possibilities of constructing a private dining room in the college cafeteria were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Student Welfare Committee Tuesday night in the YMCA.

The plan for building the room was explained by E. S. King, general secretary of the YMCA, who is also a member of the committee. The room would be used by various campus organizations for dinner meetings and could also be used for banquet purposes.

Following the discussion, the committee voted to go on record as being highly in favor of such a room being built in the cafeteria and agreed to assist Mr. King in the proposed plan.

Tau Beta Pi Picks 12 New Members

Electeds Must Pass Comprehensive Examination to Be Admitted to Membership

Eight juniors and four seniors were selected for membership in Tau Beta Pi last week, thus attaining the highest honor that an engineer may receive.

The electeds must pass a comprehensive exam for admittance to Tau Beta Pi. This exam, which will be given Saturday night, lasts six hours and covers a variety of subjects ranging from current news through questions on literature, history, science, and engineering problems. The electeds may use any reference material they so desire during the examination.

The names of the electeds will be released after the results of the examination Saturday night have been tabulated.

The successful applicants will be formally inducted into the society at an initiation banquet to be held Monday, February 26. Ben Pace is the president of the State College chapter of Tau Beta Pi.

Tau Beta Pi membership is considered an outstanding achievement because only leading students are chosen and these are selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and character. In order to become a member, a junior must stand among the upper eighth of the class, while a senior must be in the upper quarter, in addition to participating in other campus activities.

Theta Tau Men To Hold Banquet
Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity, will hold a banquet and pledge dance at Carolina Pines tomorrow evening at 7:30.

Main speaker on the program will be Dean Blake R. Van Leer, while Bruce Hildebrand, president of Theta Tau, will fill the position of toastmaster. Members of Theta Tau Pi will be special guests.

Theta Tau is composed of men from all branches of engineering. The members of the organization are selected through scholarship, character, and professional services rendered.

Military Ball Will Feature Becker's Band

Bubbles Becker Is Signed by Committee; Has Appeared Frequently on NBC Hook-ups

Bubbles Becker and his band have been signed to play for the annual Military Ball to be held in Frank Thompson Gymnasium on Saturday, February 24. It was announced this week by the dance committee. The dance will begin at 9 o'clock.

Becker has been widely heard in frequent broadcasts over the NBC nation-wide hookups, and has played many prominent engagements during the last two years. Among these are the Penn Club in Pittsburgh and the French Casino in Miami Beach, Fla., where he carried on regular broadcasts.

Other prominent locations on Becker's list include Club Edgewood in Albany, Isle of Palms in Charleston and Tantilla Gardens in Richmond. He also appeared at Lumina Pavilion at Wrightsville Beach.

Military students who attend the dance have been requested by the committee to wear their military uniforms, and the dance will be formal for others attending.

Tickets are being sold on the campus by ROTC officers, and will be on sale at the door.

Forty-One Seniors Commence Work At Practice Teaching

Seniors Get First Taste of Professor's Life; Work in State High Schools

Forty-one seniors in agricultural education at State College are engaged in practice-teaching in North Carolina schools. Dr. Leon E. Cook, professor of education, said today.

The seniors will spend six weeks in directed teaching in departments of agriculture selected on the basis of outstanding work in a balanced program in agricultural education. The work is required for graduation.

Three of the seniors already have been placed in permanent positions: W. F. Hoyle of Zebulon being placed at Laurinburg; B. L. Jones of Route 4, Greensboro, at Cleveland; and E. H. Wetmore of Woodleaf Creek School on Route 2, Newton.

During the practice teaching period the students get observation and experience in practically all of the duties of a teacher of agriculture, including the teaching of all-day classes, organizing and conducting part-time and evening classes, supervising home projects, doing community work and conducting chapters of Future Farmers of America.

Band Will Give Sunday Concert

The Redcoat Band will present a concert in Pullen Hall this afternoon at 4 o'clock. It was announced this week by John M. Foster, president of the band.

The concert is being sponsored by the Mu Beta Psi, and an invitation to attend has been extended to students, faculty, and the general public. There will be no admission charge.

With a view of presenting a variety of music representative of the countries involved in the present war, the program announced by C. D. Kutschinski, conductor, includes many selections which are typical of the music character and nature of the various countries.

Furtive Figures Stalking Ballot Box As Campus Wags Vie For SIGNAL Honors

Should you be wandering near the Publications Building rather late at night, you will undoubtedly see slinking figures darting from tree to tree, pause briefly, and dash into the building, only to return in a short period in the same manner.

You momentarily wonder what could be happening here, and then you probably are struck with the thought, it's Alpha Sig voting time, and these dark figures are only students casting their ballots for their fellow students whom they deem worthy of the honor.

After long weeks of waiting and sharpening of scissors, the boys eagerly snatch the first ballot, jot down the names of their three candidates and hasten out into the dark. So rapid has been the de-

Important!

All rising juniors and seniors who desire jobs next school year as Dormitory Assistants are requested to submit a written application to Leslie R. Mayton, chief dormitory assistant, before the beginning of the Spring holidays.

These applications should contain your class, course you are taking, and your reasons for desiring to become a Dormitory Assistant.

Student Contest Starts 2nd Week

'Technician' Continues Contest; Two Names Hidden In Ads This Week

Do you feel lucky this week? Well, if you do, start scanning the advertisements appearing in this week's edition of The Technician, for again this week we are giving away four free tickets to the Wake Theatre.

Listed somewhere in the advertisements will be the names of two students, chosen in an impartial manner by one of the college officials. If these two students find their names in the ads, each will receive two passes to the Wake.

And should your name be one of the two listed, all you have to do is tear out the advertisement in which the name appeared and carry it, along with your registration card, to the merchant whose ad your name was in. He will in return supply you with the two free tickets.

Who knows? Maybe this is your lucky week, so start looking through the ads now. And even if you don't win this week, remember that there will be two more names next week.

Young Democrats Announce Meeting For Campus Club

Local Group to be Organized Tuesday; State Officers to Attend

A special meeting of the student body will be held Tuesday night in the College YMCA for the purpose of organizing a Young Democrats Club on the campus. It was announced yesterday by Bill Friday, who is heading the movement on the campus. All students interested in joining the club are invited to attend the meeting, which will begin at 7 o'clock.

Plans were made last week for the organization of such a club, which is in operation on numerous college campuses throughout the entire United States. Officers of the club will probably be elected at this first meeting.

Heading the organization program are the State officers of the Young Democrats Clubs, headed by President Forrest Pollard of Durham.

Other officers of the North Carolina YDC include Miss Mary Graham Croom of Raleigh, national committeewoman; "Kidd" Brewer of Chapel Hill; State director of College Campus Committees; E. Hoover Taft of Greenville, chairman of the State organization committee; and Frank Castleberry of Wake Forest College, district supervisor.

Norris Describes the Fight in Congress for Engineering Experiment Station Funds

Progress in the long Congressional battle to provide Federal funds for engineering experiment stations in land grant colleges was related to the State College engineering faculty Monday by Col. Earle B. Norris of Blacksburg, Va., dean of engineering at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

A leader in the movement to secure Federal aid for engineering research, Colonel Norris emphasized how such a program could benefit little industries and bring out the natural resources of states having land grant colleges.

He was presented to the engineering teachers by Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the School of Engineering, likewise a leader in the movement.

The bill authorizing Federal funds for engineering experiment stations was introduced by Congressman Green of Florida, who was interested in the project by Dean Van Leer.

Colonel Norris explained that the measures authorizes the Department of the Interior to administer funds that might be appropriated, and said President Roosevelt had approved the project. Secretary Ickes, he added, is—Continued on page 2.

Debaters To Show New Clash System

Watkins and Price Attend Forensic Meeting in Denver, Colorado

Cary K. Watkins and Jack Price, Jr., star debaters on the State College forensic team, are in Denver, Colo., to demonstrate the direct clash method of debating before the Rocky Mountain Speech Conference which will begin a three-day session Wednesday.

The students were accompanied to Denver by their coach, Frot Edwin H. Paget, who originated and introduced the direct clash method in 1932 in a debate between State and Wake Forest College teams.

Watkins and Price, both of whom have outstanding forensic records, will give their demonstration before the crack collegiate speakers of the West. They are said to be the only easterners ever honored by an invitation to the Denver tournament.

Prof. Paget expressed the hope that the Rocky Mountain Conference would adopt the direct clash debate method for use in tournaments. The first national direct clash tournament was held at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S. C. in December, with the State College team winning championship honors.

Prof. Paget and the debaters, who went to Denver by train, are scheduled to return to the campus Monday.

Brotherhood Week Sponsored By "Y"

Event Intended to Promote Understanding Among Religious Sects

Rabbi F. I. Rybins, noted Jewish priest and lecturer, will lecture here next Wednesday night as a feature of National Brotherhood Week.

Brotherhood Week is sponsored on our campus by the State College YMCA in collaboration with the Conference of Catholics, Protestants, and Jews. This conference, founded to establish better feeling between the various religions of the United States, is headed in the South by Dr. Frank P. Graham.

Also on the program next week will be well-known local Catholic and Protestant speakers.

The idea behind Brotherhood Week is to "create justice, unity, understanding, and cooperation between Catholics, Protestants and Jews in the United States, and so to bring into greater harmony the people of our country."

Another well known personage being brought to the State College campus in the near future is Dr. Clarence Shedd of the Yale Divinity School, who is making visits to selected colleges and universities throughout the South to make a study of the programs of religious education being carried on in the various schools. Dr. Shedd will visit State College on March 6th.

Illustrated Talk Relates Problems Of Soil Erosion

Dr. E. C. Lowdermilk Speaks on Soil Conservation in College YMCA Lecture

"The frontier of new land is gone forever, so we must find new frontiers in our own land through soil conservation." With this thought, Dr. W. C. Lowdermilk, assistant chief of the Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D. C., opened an illustrated lecture last night in the State College YMCA.

Dr. Lowdermilk, who has been traveling for the past fifteen months through Europe, North Africa, and the Near East, gave an excellent talk, illustrated with colored slides, on the extent and efforts to control various types of soil erosion through the world. Having visited seventeen countries and studied 142 different areas of erosion control, he had it in fact, a picture of the waste of land at his fingertips, and was able to present a vivid picture of this problem to the large audience gathered in the Y.

Showing slides of the barren wastes that were once the famed "Promised Lands" of Bible fame, Dr. Lowdermilk pointed out that it had taken thousands of years of poor farming to cause wastage of these lands, while in parts of the United States almost the same amount of wastage had been done in only a few years.

Dr. Lowdermilk was accompanied by his wife, who had a short talk before her husband began his speech.

If You Think So, Say So...

Always present where a crowd of students are, or in fact any place where large numbers of people assemble, are those eternal persons who persist in living up to the title of "grippers." They busy themselves from early morning to late evening finding fault with any and everything, and always suggesting something that should be changed or abolished.

Not that we think everything is perfect anywhere, and undoubtedly there are some things wrong here on the campus that should be changed. But why must these "grippers" insist in sticking strictly to griping.

If they think that something is a great injustice to humanity and should be remedied immediately before it causes the downfall of civilization, why can't they do something about it other than annoying others with a long oration on the subject.

We are a firm believer in the old proverb that "action speaks louder than words." If these persons, who have as a hobby the constant righting of wrongs, would place a little action in front of so many words, probably something would change. If, when the occasion arises, they think a change beneficial, we are of the opinion that much more ground would be gained if they would do something about it other than talk.

But even here they would more than likely fall into a pit. For if anything is worse than talking at great length on some subject about which we usually know very little or nothing, it is "leaping before you look."

So, should you desire some ratifications, first investigate the matter thoroughly and get the facts on both sides. Then, only after you are familiar with the subject and understand it thoroughly, go after definite action.

Perhaps this would afford a partial solution to the seemingly many problems that confront us daily.

A Gentle Reminder...

Unpleasant as the subject may be, we would like to remind you that the time is not far in the distant when the entire student body will be faced by that dreaded, unnecessary ordeal of examinations. It is hard to realize that in just three weeks this term of school work will be over, and we will be ready to begin the third term of the 1939-1940 school year. And even nearer than that are final examinations, which will begin around the 8th of March.

We fully realize that this has been the busiest term of the entire year, and that there have been more activities, functions, meetings, etc., on the campus this term than ever in the past.

However, it's not too late to begin a little burning of the midnight oil and see if we can't pack some knowledge into that old head before the day of trials begins. Even if you were "flunking" a course at mid-term, you still can pull that average up and pass the course.

So let's all get into the harness for the next couple of weeks and make this school work our major and main hobby. When examinations are over you will have a week to play, so postpone part of the playing until then. Show these professors that you do know something after all.

Alumni Movement...

Last week T. K. Mial, State College graduate and former Raleigh citizen, began a movement to locate and organize State alumni living north of the Mason-Dixon line, a plan which appears as a partial solution to the long-standing alumni problem.

Mr. Mial is particularly anxious to help young graduates get a start in life, and for this reason called together a group of State men who are now living in the New York area. He has portioned out various sections of that huge area to numerous of his fellow workers, and has the movement well under way.

In our opinion this is one of the most spirited and helpful plans that has come to State College in many a decade, and we predict that his efforts will ultimately result in a better North Carolina State College.

This is the kind of spirit that points out active alumni.

A Radio Studio?

Some little talk was going on last week and this about the possibilities of installing a radio broadcasting studio here on the campus, the same to be the property of the college and to be used for the broadcasting of various programs college students put on. As is usually the case, there is some matter of finances to be involved in the question, and we understand that the cost of putting up such a studio would not be small. It seems that the administration cannot readily place its hands on funds which could be used for such a purpose. However, the idea is fine and could easily be worked out on the campus. From the appearances of things at other schools, it is a valuable asset to the campus. And there are several of them in use here in North Carolina schools.

The Petition...

Being circulated on the campus this week is a petition requesting "Doc" Sermon to withdraw his resignation and remain on at State College in the capacity in which he is now employed.

The petition states that "he is a coach who possesses all the true qualities that make for finer athletic teams and the moulding of high character in athletes."

And from the appearances of the petition after its first day of circulation, it would be fairly accurate to predict that it will carry the names of two thousand students when the route is completed.

This is a true indication of just how very much the students value "Doc" Sermon and his fine character, as well as his excellent coaching ability.

Fine Spirit...

It is also reported that the Interfraternity Council has extended an invitation to all teams attending the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament to be their guests at the Council's presentation of their trophies and medals, which happens to be the same time the Southern Conference Tournament will be in progress. Not knowing all the details from the surface we can say that this appears to be a fine movement in the fostering and promoting of excellent spirit among the various institutions of higher learning.

In connection with the Council's dances, it is also probable that the names of these dances will be Black and White Formal, carrying out the scheme of naming dances that was begun by this group last year.

Grand Finale...

Golden Chain will present the last in its series of radio programs, designed to interest high school students in attending college, next Thursday afternoon. And as its grand finale to radio for this current year, the members of the senior honorary organization will put on a round-table discussion of topics and problems which will interest and face students at colleges and universities.

The group will talk on such subjects as student activities, extra-curricular activities, campus organizations, and alumni relations. Many others are on the list.

Another Election...

Seniors will be tasked out in their finest regalia Tuesday and ready to wage a campaign, probably the last in their college career. The Student Body Class will hold a meeting to elect Senior Superlatives, an annual procedure. What the outcome will be we do not know, but we will have the guests at the voting will be close in several instances.

Hurricane...

This March gale that tore across the campus Wednesday also tore across the roof of several of the new dormitories, and in some cases carried with it numerous of the shingles. They say some of the freshmen residents thought a German air raid had begun when the shingles started dropping.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

At the beginning of this term the Student Council inaugurated the State College Student Assembly. The purpose of this assembly is to provide a system by which student bills may be brought up, debated and acted upon. If these first meetings get the necessary co-operation, the idea will extend through the years to come. Such a system is an outlet for ideas of improvement which otherwise would probably never gain attention.

Creative suggestions for bills can be brought up and acted upon for the benefit of State College. The next assembly will be held in the State Capitol at 7 o'clock on February 22. Let's fill both the House and the Senate chambers at the next assembly.

Several committees have been made recently concerning the conduct of some State College students. If we were only a bunch of b.y.s. concentrated here on the campus, this would be a minor problem. However, outsiders frequently visit the campus and carry back with them their opinions. With a little thought on our part we can make those opinions ones of compliments and praise. Several days ago a student was walking with a girl by Sixth Dormitory. Several freshmen suddenly began throwing waves of wet paper at them from the shower-room windows.

Such an example is unbecoming to a gentleman, but I feel certain this will not happen again. Whether we are aware of it or not, the public has its eyes on us. For the good of the school and ourselves, let's "look before we leap."

tends to "work actively" in behalf of the Greene bill.

"We can't do too much in the way of industry research in our state institutions," declared the speaker. The National Resources Board, he said, has approved the project as a means of benefiting little business and little industry. Big industry, he added, can spend millions on research and will swallow all little industry unless research findings are made available to the latter group.

Enlargement of the engineering research programs in land grant colleges also will keep the colleges better abreast of industrial developments and thus help them to serve the states better in other ways. One of the fundamental reasons for existence of land grant colleges, Colonel Norris declared, is to help industrial interests of the State as well as to aid agriculture, which is provided for by the Hatch Act, passed more than fifty years ago. Colonel Norris came to Raleigh in a plane piloted by Jack Wright, CAA instructor at V. P. I. He addressed the Raleigh Engineer's Club and the Raleigh section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Monday night on "Modern Methods of Gun Construction."

Youth Congress...

If we are to believe the reports of the Associated Press—and we usually do—the American Youth Congress, in session in the nation's capital over the week-end, resented "almost heartily" the President's pronouncement of Communism, particularly Russia's brand.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt were host and hostess to the convention. The AP report read in part: "An official representative of the Young Democrats, Miss Barnes, was cordially received, but her declaration of pride in President Roosevelt's leadership of the Democratic party received a stony reception."

In contrast, the audience cheered when John Lewis of the Congress of Industrial Organizations advised young people to "talk regardless of which persons in high places tell us what we say is twaddle."

These youths, who pride themselves as bearers of the cross for greater democracy and humanity toward "our neighbors," should remember that Franklin D. Roosevelt, for all his mistakes, has been greatly responsible for wider programs of workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, and the completely new social security program. All these panaceas for the relief of the world's ills are in keeping with the congress's aims.

Back to the 4,500,000 reputed members, we wonder with many others, if a number of organizations included are sponsoring the general program of the convention. The national organization of YDC certainly isn't, and it's quite likely that many members are listed there—as those who are Young Democrats, YMCA men and ASU members.

The congress showed discourtesy to its host and we cannot believe the attitude of this body is typical of the great number of American youth who were supposedly represented at Washington during the past week-end.

Here I sit... undecided whether to take off and lambast Wake Forest or Womans... I guess Women are the more permanent to buy. I'll take off on the Deacs... I predict that in a short space of time Wake Forest College will become one of the better known and more famous educational centers between Raleigh and Durham... the little college at the crossroads has gotten off to a fine start... they've got a nice little plot of land cleared... and a number of buildings... and an outstanding football team... lots of experienced men... rumor has it that Stan Rabb, frosh griddle, got some of his experience playing for the Brooklyn Eagles... the Deacs don't like rosters from visiting schools to cheer... one State boy was cheering for State Wednesday night and was threatened with violence if he didn't keep quiet... just that old pioneer spirit.

Candid Camera: Barry Griffiths is making preparations to room out at Meredith... they say the place is all of girls, so be careful, Barry... Dick Kelley seems to have anticipated St. Valentine's Day by taking the "fatal step"... Mike Strong will follow suit... dedicated to Vicki—"Every Little Breeze Seems to Whisper Louise"... Ben Alken and Paul Ausman are becoming permanent fixtures at Boon Isley's... Billy Weason seems to find some strange fascination in Ma Watson's front parlor... we think it's that cute blonde... Ray Sawyer is quite a woman killer... ditto for Cecil Fry...

It seems that the nicer you treat girls, the more they'll try to take advantage of you... the old adage "A woman, a dog and a walnut tree, the more you beat them the better they be"... is more truth than fiction...

If you think that the strong winds we're having now are something, wait till spring elections... there will be a lot more of them... and they will be a good bit hotter... three cheers for the library's exhibit of propaganda literature... are we wiser now than we were 23 years ago?... Hope so... spring is supposed to bring some real fighting on the Western Front... the Germans will probably hurl their troops at the Maginot line... some observers feel that this effort will weaken the Ratisa, and present an opportunity for peace talks... the Finns can't understand why we send them money to buy food and clothing, things they have a sufficiency of, but won't let them buy equipment to defend themselves against the invading Russians...

There has been plenty of fun entertainment in town this week. "Gone With the Wind"... Glen Gray... and Ephraim Zimbalist tonight in the Memorial Auditorium... the dance season starts a week from tomorrow night... the Military Ball... with its panoply of color... then Midwinters... hot dawg.

On the recommended list is "Three Comrades" by Erich Maria Remarque... author of the famed novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front"... it's in the library... also good reading is "So Free We Seem"... by Helen Todd... an entrancing novel of life on a farm in the Old West... the main character, Blaise, is strongly reminiscent of Rhett Butler... both are likeable villains.

Back to the campus for supper... downtown again to put the finishing touches to the sports page... hearing that Dave Pearall got a "bare" Valentine from L.K.P... thanks, Jim M... Howell Strong foretold a nice trip to Wake Forest the other night to court his girl... a bevy of beautiful babes has just abducted "Spud" lucky guy... telephone rings... it's hot news... all about the frosh swimming meet... Remember when you struggled with fractions?

You'd be surprised how telephone engineers put them to work for you

How to put more and more wires into a telephone cable without increasing its diameter is an ever present problem at Western Electric—manufacturing unit of the Bell System. Existing ducts beneath city streets limit both the number and the diameter of cables—but demand for telephone service continues to grow.

Until recently, the largest cable contained 3636 wires in a diameter of 2 1/2 inches. Years of study led to an entirely new insulating process that saved 3/1000 of an inch per wire. Multiply this tiny fraction of an inch by 3636, and you provide enough space to place 606 more wires in the same size cable—a total of 4242.

With such resourcefulness, Bell System engineers meet countless problems. Result: you can talk to almost anyone, anywhere—quickly, at low cost.

The Red Terrors are going to tangle with their ancient rivals, the Tar Heels, tonight in another of those yearly family fights. George Glanville, heel center and leading conference scorer, will be the man for the Terrors to stop. George is nearsighted and has a certain style that he uses under the basket from which he tips in those field goals. From the way the rangy pivot man has been shooting those points this year it doesn't look like he is afflicted.

Jimmy Howard and Paul Severin are the mainstays on the defense for Carolina. Both of these boys have gotten good press notices for their stellar play.

Jim Mills, sensational freshman forward, has been shooting the points this season. To date he has an average of 16 1/2 points for the last four frosh engagements. The Techlets have taken 11 of the 13 games they have played this season, losing only to Carolina and Campbell. They play the Tar Heels for the Big Five title tonight. A win would give them the title.

Rough Stuff

Over at the Wake Forest game last Thursday night the freshman game was handled by one official and a lot of rough stuff was going on that he didn't catch. The game has gotten so fast with the new rules that it is hard and almost impossible for one referee to handle it. That frosh game was one of the roughest we have ever seen, with those Baby Deacons carrying the torch.

Elsewhere on this page are the pictures of two of the popular members of the basketball squad, Monte Crawford and Roy Cromartie. Both of these boys have made good records for themselves this season. Roy is leading all conference forwards in scoring and Monte has played outstanding defensive ball, holding "Footsie" Cowan to nine points and Pete Davis without a field goal.

Coach Hickman's wrestling team is cleaning up all conference competition this season. The grapplers have lost only one match this year—that one to the Washington and Lee Generals. They go over to

State Plays Terrific Tar Heels Here Tonight

RED TERRORS
PLAY HOST TO
CAROLINA TEAMSermonmen Eager to Get Back in Win Column
at Visitor's Expense

By "ACE" KROCHMAL

State's in-and-out Red Terrors are hoping to pull an upset tonight against Carolina's high-stepping Tar Heels when the sister schools meet in Thompson Gymnasium.

The Terrors are still smarting from the loss they suffered at the hands of Wake Forest last Wednesday night, and are going to try hard to regain some of their prestige.

If the Sermonmen play the brand of ball they played in beating the Deacons last week, they have an excellent chance of upsetting the Terrific Tar Heels.

The visitors will bring with them a player who is almost certain to make All-Southern—none other than that gentleman from Pennsylvania, George Glanville. Glanville is second in conference scoring. When State and Carolina met earlier in the season, State's Monte Crawford held Glanville to 10 points while he scored nine, before leaving the game for personal fouls.

State will have an All-Southern candidate of its own, flashy Forward Roy Cromartie, who is the top-notch scorer among the forwards in the conference. He is averaging around 13 points a game thus far this season.

Another reliable is Capt. "Red" Sevier, who plays guard, center or forward with equal ease.

The Tar Heels have lost to Wake Forest, Duke and Virginia this season.

A spine-tingling frosh game which will decide the Big Five championship will be played at 6:45.

Carolina Wednesday night to meet the Tar Heels for the Big Five championship. The freshman team is headed for a title, too. They have taken all intercollegiate meets this season.

Tonight we play our brethren from Chapel Hill—and let's remember that they are our guests and treat them as such. During the football season we built up a good reputation for our sportsmanship toward our opponents, so let's carry it on through the rest of the year.

Krochmal Says . . .

"The petition now circulating on the campus asking that Doc Sermon be retained on the coaching staff is not one started by me. Doc resigned as basketball coach and a successor was named to his post. However, the track coaching and trainer jobs are still open, and I would like to see Doc return here next year filling these jobs."

Massanuttan Boys
Win Over FroshSisgero Leads State Scoring
With Two Second Places

The State College freshman swimming team was defeated last night by the strong Massanutten Military Academy team by the score of 54 to 12.

The strong Dominion club, hailing from Woodstock, Va., is one of the South's outstanding swimming teams. They placed second in the Intercollegiate Scholastic Tournament this year, and they have been taking all opposition this season.

Gene Sisgero placed second in two events for the freshmen to lead their scoring. He placed in the 220-yard free style and in the diving. Other frosh points were garnered by John Parks, placing third in the 100-yard breaststroke; Mack Fuller, placing third in the 50-yard dash; Conrad Wesell, placing third in the 100-yard backstroke; and Bill Meredith, placing third in 100-yard free style.

Pins to Shellack Blue Devils

An impotent Duke wrestling team was smothered by State's high-scoring outfit, 24-5, last Saturday night in Thompson gym.

State earned its points by virtue of five pins, one of which included the first sufferer by Duke's 121-pounder, Chuck State, in two years of varsity competition.

Charley Hunter turned the heat on State, registering a 3-minute, 55-second fall. Bill Murdoch, Able Johnson, Luther Canup and George Brandt won the other State falls. State's Troxler won by decision.

The heavyweight match found footballers Woody Jones of State and Bolo Perdue fighting it out. Perdue got a decision in a close one.

State's frosh did the usual thing by turning in a shut-out victory over the Impe, 36-0.

The heaviest and lightest men on State's team won the quickest falls. Pearsey Collins, 121, pinned his man in 53 seconds; C. C. Coffield, heavyweight, won in 22 seconds. Troxler, Miller, Sonney and Smart won by pins and Hankins and Goldstein won by decisions.

Hot . . .

It's usually the tall boys who do the scoring in basketball, but this little lad is an exception. North Carolina State's Roy Cromartie is the boy. The South Orange, N. J., lad, who stands only five feet 11 inches, is pacing Dr. Ray Sermon's Red Terrors with a grand total of 141 points in 12 games, an average of 11.75 points per game. In his nine Southern conference games, Roy has a total of 105 points, an average of 11.4 per game.

Davidson CatsRed Terrors Get 40-27 Win
Over Visiting Team; Crawford Stars

A fast-traveling, straight-shooting State basketball team got revenge for an early season loss by smashing Davidson's Wildcats 40-27 last Monday night in Thompson Gymnasium.

Tied at 20-20 at the end of the first half, State took a 22-20 lead after the beginning of the second half by virtue of Captain Sevier's field goal, and the Terrors were ahead for the remainder of the evening.

For the last ten minutes and 44 seconds, the Wildcats were held scoreless in one of the best defensive performances the Terrors have played this year. Although State appeared sluggish in the first half, they snapped out of it in the second and completely solved the Cat offense.

State's high scorer for the evening was Center Monte Crawford, with 14 points. Crawford was the outstanding player of the evening. Next in scoring was Captain Sevier with 12 points. "Footsie" Cowan paced Davidson with 9 points.

Score Pins as State Wins
With Score of 26-6

A great State College wrestling team continued its winning ways last Tuesday night by whipping Virginia Tech's wrestlers, 26-6, in Frank Thompson gymnasium.

State's wrestlers won six of the matches, half of these on pins scored by Charley Hunter, "Chub" Troxler and Luther Canup. Troxler pinned his man in the quickest time, 1 minute and 39 seconds.

Virginia Tech garnered its points on decisions won by Captain Holland, who decisioned Able Johnson, and by Heavyweight Zydak, who got the nod over State's Woody Jones.

As a prelude to the varsity encounter the State frosh took over the Tech frosh, 17 1/2 to 10 1/2, to remain undefeated in collegiate competition. Winners for State were Troxler, Miller, Collins and Hummcutt. All got decisions except Miller, who pinned his man in 8:05.

Feature of the frosh matches was the draw between State's Coffield and Tech's Ballard, who outweighed his opponent by a wide margin.

Baseball Team
To Practice SoonDoc Newton Calls Practice
For First Week of March;
Counts on Reserves

Although basketball is still in the limelight, plans are being made to begin baseball practice for this season's Red Terror teaming.

This spring the club will be handled by Coach Doc Newton, who has replaced "Click" Doak. Doc has been at the helm of the Gastonia entry in the American Legion junior series for the past several summers and has had good success. One of his squads won the national title and another was runner-up in the elimination series.

He has developed many good ball players since he has been at the Spindale City. Several of the boys were outstanding in the leading minor leagues last summer.

Holshouser Lost

The squad this season has been hard hit by graduation and the Air Corps. Vic Holshouser, leading State hurler, dropped out of school to get in the air force. Bob Wicker, home-run hitter and one of the conference's leading sluggers, graduated last spring. Several other members of the '39 squad were lost by graduation also.

The team this year will be built around reserves and regulars returning from last year. Leading the list of returning men is Wade Brown, outfielder; Cader Harris, Don Hamilton and Fred "Sluggo" Broynhill, infielders; Pat Feibley, Bill Ritter and Charlie Santore, catchers.

Coach Newton has called a meeting of all the boys out for the team tomorrow to make plans for the season. Practice will probably begin next week with limbering up exercise in the gym. Outside work will start as soon as the weather will permit.

The schedule of games for the team this season will appear in the next couple of weeks.

Freshmen Basketball
Team Beats Deaclets

The State freshman basketball team continued on its winning ways by downing the Erwin Red Devils, 43-33, and by eking out a 53-51 victory over Wake Forest's frosh.

The latter game was a repetition of the overtime thriller held in Raleigh last week. Trailing by the score of 30-25 at the half, the Techlets put on a spirited rally in the second half to earn the one-point decision.

Jim Mills whipped the hoop for 22 points, one point less than he scored against the Deaclets last week. Runner-up for scoring hon-

Team Undefeated in 36 Starts

Swimmers of the University of Florida, undefeated in their last 36 meets, come to the Frank Thompson pool tomorrow to tackle the State mermen. Since 1934 the Floridians have not tasted defeat in a dual meet, and they are rumored to have their best team this year. They are top-heavy favorites to win over Coach Romeo Letort's charges.

The 300-yard medley relay team and four individual stars have been standing out for State all season, and on them rest State's hopes tomorrow. The relay team, made up of Co-captain Tom Rowland, Sid Ingram and Joe Bower, has not lost any of the six meets this year. Several times they might have approached the Southern Conference record, but lack of threat allowed them to let up.

Top among individual stars is backstroke Sid Ingram, who has been winning consistently. Though in an unofficial meet, Ingram this season lowered by 2.4 seconds the present Southern Conference record. Out of a total of 247 competitive points scored by State in completing its 500 average of victories, Ingram has accounted for 40. Two free-stylers, Don Cox and Sophomore Joe Bower, are running neck and neck behind Ingram and together are responsible for almost 73 points.

Ralph Donnell has been doing fancy springboard work and although beaten twice in competition he possesses a real threat against Florida. On February 26, the natives close the season against William and Mary. Probable lineup for tomorrow's meet:

300-yard medley—Ingram, Rowland, Bower.
400-yard relay—White, Rooney, Cox, Bower.
440-yard free-style—Goldman, Katterman.
220-yard free-style—White, Rooney.
50-yard dash—Bower, White.
300-yard breast stroke—Rowland, Starkey.
150-yard back stroke—Ingram, Haene.
Diving—Donnell, Knight.

Geology Students To Hear Lecture

'Circling the Caribbean' to be Topic of Talk by Richards Monday Night

Dr. Horace G. Richards, well known scientist who has specialized in biology and geology, will give an illustrated lecture on "Circling the Caribbean" next Monday night, February 19, at 8:15 in Primrose Hall.

Dr. Richards is research associate of the New Jersey State Museum and has traveled extensively from Hudson Bay to South America, visiting the out-of-the-way places that are usually overlooked by the average traveler. Last summer he was on a field trip sponsored by the Geological Society of America in the West Indies and Venezuela. The main purpose of this trip was the collection of recent and fossil mollusks from the island of Margarita in the hope that these will shed some light on the paleogeography of the region.

In addition to visiting Margarita Island, he visited a number of different islands including Puerto Rico, Guadeloupe, Martinique, Trinidad, Curacao, and Haiti.

Allen Midyette, a sophomore at State College, was a member of Mr. Richards' party and was responsible for many of the photographs which will be shown by Dr. Richards.

This lecture is being sponsored by the Student Chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the public is invited to attend.

MAESTRO Shown below in the unique caricature is Bubbles Becker, who will bring his well-known band to the campus for the annual Military Ball, February 24.

Becker has appeared frequently on national hook-ups and is widely known for his "Bubble Blowing."

Harrelson Attends Textile Meeting

Administrative Dean Meets With West Carolina Alumni On Return Trip

Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration, returned to the campus last Friday after attending a meeting of the Southern Section of the Textile Foundation in Atlanta.

Following the Foundation meeting, he met with alumni in Atlanta Monday night and was in Asheville Wednesday night for a meeting of the Western North Carolina Alumni Club.

Col. Harrelson reported that the Textile Foundation is considering proposals to spend nearly $1,000,000 for specialized training in textile manufacturing and research and for the teaching of textile economics.

Those attending the meeting were requested to write their recommendations for use of the fund, which was realized from duties paid on German dyestuffs during the World War. The fund was turned over to the Textile Foundation instead of the United States Treasury.

The fund originally amounted to about $1,500,000, but part of it has been used to finance regular meetings of textile school executives and others called into session by the Foundation.

Col. Harrelson said he was not prepared to announce his recommendations at present. He was accompanied to the Atlanta meeting by Dean Thomas Nelson of the Textile School.

AICHE Members Plan Convention

Plans are rapidly progressing for the spring convention of the AICHE which will be held here early in April, according to Troy Williams, chairman of the convention committee.

Among the features of the program will be a trip through the Chesterfield cigarette plant in Durham, and tours through the campuses of Duke and Carolina. Tentative plans for the convention call for a date bureau, which already promises photographs and personal data for the visiting delegates from other schools.

Staff Meeting ...

There will be an important meeting of the editorial staff of The Technician Tuesday night at 6:30 in the Publications Building. All staff members urged to be present.

Coming Theatre Attractions

At the Ambassador

Co-starred for the first time in what promises to be the musical sensation of the season, Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell join forces in "Broadway Melody of 1940," coming to the Ambassador Theatre Wednesday for an engagement of four days.

Containing every conceivable type of dance number, from tap to ballet, "Broadway Melody of 1940" tells the story of a dance star and her search for a partner. The plot becomes complicated when, through an odd complication, George Murphy gets the try-out call intended for Fred Astaire. Murphy wins the role and Astaire, content to remain in the background, finds his hands full attempting to keep Murphy's feet on the ground and his head down to normal size. The final outcome is one that keeps the audience guessing.

Set to special music written by Cole Porter, the dance numbers are presented against spectacular sets, outdoing in size those used for any previous production. The finale, "Begin the Beguine," introduces a new note in dance presentation by staging the number against a mirror, 60 feet square, which swings on hinges and shoots varying backgrounds into the camera lens. The number was more than two weeks in shooting.

Other Cole Porter tunes to which dances are presented include "Please Don't Monkey With Broadway," "Between You and Me," "I've Got My Eyes on You," "I Happen to Be in Love" and "I Concentrate on You."

A strong supporting cast appears with the three dance stars. Frank Morgan finds an ideal comedy role as the musical show author whose shortcomings include a bad memory and blondes. Ian Hunter is seen as the producer, Florence Rice as Morgan's pretty secretary, and

At the Wake

Columbia Pictures' familiar trademark, the Goddess of Liberty, becomes the bright symbol under which is introduced, at the Wake Theatre on Sunday, a stirring romantic drama as thoroughly American as the Fourth of July, as sweeping in scope as the vast American nation. The film is the latest and most important of Academy Award Winner Frank Capra, his "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

The new film, whose screenplay was penned by Sidney Buchman, is the enthralling story of an earnest young man, steeped in patriotic ideals and in the teachings of history, who is suddenly catapulted into the United States Senate. There, as a junior member of the house, he becomes enmeshed in the toils of a political machine and successfully battles its widespread corruption.

Despite the magnitude of production which requires the construction of more than 50 settings ranging from office rooms to an exact replica of the Senate Chamber in the National Capital, each sequence mirrors some phase of contemporary American life.

Jean Arthur and James Stewart, hailing respectively from New York and Pennsylvania, co-star in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." Supporting them is a company in which Oxford accents and Latin intonations are conspicuously absent. Its members, Edward Arnold, Thomas Mitchell, Guy Kibbee, Beulah Bondi, Eugene Pallette and Ruth Donnelly, have descended from all parts of America to the call of the New York stage and have followed the shift of the entertainment center across the continent to Hollywood.

Lynne Carver as Emmy Lou Lee. Others in supporting roles are Ann Morris, Trixie Firsche and Douglas McPhail.

Course Stresses Safety In Streets Summer Session To Open June 10

Tucker Advocates Caution In the Granting of Special Parking Privileges

Special parking privileges should be granted only in the interest of public welfare, Prof. Harry Tucker declared Wednesday at the opening session of the annual two-day short course presented at State College for municipal street superintendents and their assistants.

"It is believed that if the granting of special parking privileges were discouraged, the parking situation on many public streets would be greatly improved," declared Prof. Tucker, who is a nationally known authority on highway safety.

He suggested that space allotted for service trucks be reduced to a minimum for each business location.

"The delivery of goods from transport trucks constitutes a similar problem," stated Professor Tucker, who teaches highway engineering at State College, in referring to situations that interrupt a smooth flow of traffic. "A partial solution of this particular phase of the parking problem can be obtained by requiring such deliveries to be made during the evening and early morning hours."

Declaring that the majority of motorists will obey reasonable traffic regulations if they are practical, fair and are understood, Professor Tucker urged adequate police supervision, with municipal co-operation in enforcing parking regulations. He also advocated complete elimination of "fixing" of tickets for violations of parking privileges.

Foresters Plan Timber Cutting

Forestry seniors at State College went to the Hoffmann Forest in Jones and Onslow counties Monday to set up a management plan for the cutting of timber.

The twenty-nine youths were accompanied by Dr. J. V. Hoffmann, head of the forestry department, and will return tomorrow afternoon. Freshman in the department will go to the forest next week.

Bids for the purchase of timber in the huge forest are now being received by the North Carolina Forestry Foundation, which has purchased the property for the sole use and benefit of the State College forestry department.
