

Extensive Plans Get Underway For Great Celebration

Textile Building Nears Completion

College Moves Equipment in New Structure Three Months Ahead of Schedule

Nearly three months ahead of schedule, the new $350,000 Textile Building is practically completed, and the actual moving of the machinery and equipment has been started this week. When the construction was started last spring, advance estimates stated that the new building would not be in use before Christmas of this year. Favorable weather accounted for the earlier completion date, and the contractor will turn over the building to the college authorities within the next few days.

The first branch to move its equipment was the chemistry and dyeing department, which will be located in the basement of the new building, and as soon thereafter as feasible, the various other departments of the school will be transferred. Dean Nelson refused to commit himself as to when the moving will be completed, saying, "It's up to the movers themselves." Conservatively, however, estimates that the school should be completely at home within three or four weeks.

Despite the fact that the new building is three-quarters of a mile from the College Court, school authorities have issued no statement regarding the possibility of increasing the time between classes so as to allow students with classes on the eastern end of the campus to get to the new textile building. As it stands now, and if nothing is done to remedy the situation, students will have to make a mad dash or else take a bus. Neither of which alternatives appeals to anybody. Some of the students have already equipped themselves with bicycles, and it looks as if the rest will have to follow suit.

The building is four stories in height and shaped like an inverted T. The first floor contains many offices and classrooms and has one large room which will be a museum of old textile machinery and fabrics. The second and third floors will consist mainly of laboratories with some offices and rooms sprinkled throughout. One of the outstanding features of the building is the huge windows. Each window is approximately 12 feet high by 15 feet wide, and all the panes above the bottom row are blue ground glass. This permits an even distribution of light and filters out all sunlight and ultra violet rays which might damage the fabrics.

As yet the new building is without a name. Towards the end of last year, the students circulated a petition with the demand that the building be named after Dean Nelson, but so far no action has been taken.

College History Nears Completion

Book by Dr. Lockmiller on State College to be Released Soon

Dr. David A. Lockmiller's 310-page book, "History of The North Carolina State College," will be ready for distribution within the next 10 days, the bindery announced today.

The book was written especially as a feature of State College's 50th anniversary observance and covers the history of State College from its conception to the present.

A limited number of copies are being printed in the first edition and only 500 will be available for sale. Already nearly 100 reservations for copies have been received by the Alumni Office, which is handling distribution. The volume is sponsored by the General Alumni Association.

The book will be attractively and durably bound, with the cover and jacket in the college colors of red and white. It was dedicated to Col. John W. Harrelson, dean of administration, Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the Great-University of North Carolina, wrote the foreword.

Dr. Lockmiller is acting head of the history department at State College and is the author of "Maggie in Cuba" and "Sir William Blackstone."

State College will observe formally its 50th anniversary on October 2, exactly a half-century from the date the college first opened to about 45 students. Principal speaker will be former Governor G. Max Gardner, member of the Class of 1893.

A 50-page issue of The Technician, campus newspaper, will be issued in connection with the anniversary observance.

Greeks Send Bids To Selected Men As Rushing Ends

"Silent Period" to End Monday at Noon; All Bids Must be Answered by Then

State College social fraternities are now observing a "silent period" following five days of extensive entertainment for prospective pledges from the freshman class.

Midnight Wednesday marked the close of one of the most extensive rushing periods in the history of the college. During the "silent period" which will extend until noon on Monday, fraternity men are barred from communication with the freshmen at any time or place in order to give the prospective pledges an opportunity to make up their minds. Bids to join have already been sent out and Monday noon has been set as the deadline for the selected freshmen to accept or reject.

The current rushing policy is a departure from the deferred rushing plan tried as an experiment last year, when the season was observed during the second term.

There are chapters of fourteen national fraternities located on the State campus. H. W. Branson is president of the Interfraternity Council, governing body for the organizations. H. C. Byrd is vice president.

Enrollment Total Climbing Steadily

2,330 Enrolled by Wednesday Night; Passes Expected Top Mark

Registration figures, completed up until Wednesday night, show a total of 2,330 students already enrolled with two and one half days left before registration officially closes at noon tomorrow.

Spokesmen for the Registrar's office expressed the belief that the total might rise to 2,355, 200 more than last year's final figure of 2,155. The largest single gain of any class came from the freshmen who now have 747 registered as compared with 647 last year.

Upperclassmen numbering 1,382 have returned to college and 186 transfer students have enrolled for the current term.

It is interesting to speculate on the possibilities of enrollment at State if more housing facilities were incorporated, for this year's great increase can be directly traced to the building of five new dormitories. Prior to this year half the student body has been forced to live in houses off the campus.

Classification of students according to schools, residence and nationality is to be completed by next week. So far no figures have been available as to increases and decreases in enrollment in the various schools.

Publications Smoker Planned

The faculty council, the members of the staffs of all State College publications, and L. L. Ivey, manager of the Student's Supply Store will be the guests of the Publications Board at a smoker to be given in the YMCA next Wednesday night at 7:30.

Frank Rector, chairman of the publications board, will be in charge of the meeting and will welcome the group as well as make the principal address. Colonel Harrelson and other members of the faculty will be called on for short talks.

After a short meeting a moving picture entitled "News of the Air" will be shown through the courtesy of the Standard Oil Company. All members of the staffs of the publications are invited and urged to attend the meeting.

Team Send-Off

A pep meeting will be held tonight in Riddick Stadium at 8 o'clock in order to give the State College Wolfpack a rousing send-off before they open the season against Davidson in Greensboro tomorrow night.

Wolves Open Against Davidson Tomorrow

State Rules Slight Favorite in Curtain-Raiser to be Played in Greensboro

This year's version of the State College Wolfpack will make its bow to the public tomorrow night in Greensboro when they tangle with the Davidson Wildcats.

Up to this point both eleven are question marks, but the State gridgers will enter the fray as slight favorites due to their superior strength and the showing made against Davidson last year. The Wolfpack emerged from last year's contest on the long end of a 19 to 7 count.

All during the past week Coach Williams (Doc) Newton has had the State squad go through its paces in scrimmages and passing drills. A workout was held last night under the lights in Riddick Stadium with the entire squad participating.

Early Losses
Doleful Doc has appeared more doleful than ever due to the loss of End Fred Gardner and Fullback Paul Loezler who are out for the season, but with Co-Captain Andy Pavlovsky holding down the fullback berth and Wade Brown filling in ably for Gardner, the Pack will be near top strength tomorrow night, barring further injuries.

According to their showing in the practice scrimmages, Little Aie Rooney and Ed (Ty) Coon are both in for a banner year. Rooney has been going through the drills with all the enthusiasm of a sophomore and Coon, looks as the principal leading tackle in the nation. The line is shaping up rapidly with Bill Windley improving daily at the guard post.

Dayton will be sorely handicapped by the loss of varsity Guards Dick Arnold and Ben Moore and their star sophomore back, Chick Mackney. The latter is out with an injury and scholastic difficulties have caught up with Arnold and Moore. The Cats will rely mainly upon a passing attack to overcome the superior State strength.

The probable State starting line-up will be: Brown and Sullivan at ends, Coon and Burt at tackles, Savini and Windley at guards and Co-Captain Rector at the center position. Rooney, DiYesso, Pavlovsky and Fehey will make up the backfield.

Dance To Climax Homecoming Plans

Monogram Club Will Sponsor Annual Dance Next Saturday Night

Coming as a gala climax to next week-end Homecoming celebration, the Monogram Club will sponsor the annual Homecoming Dance in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium next Friday night from nine until twelve o'clock.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Duke Ambassadors, who are well-known to the local dancing contingent for their smooth rhythm. Admission to the dance will be $1.10.

Present Tony DiYesso of the Monogram Club has announced the following members of the dance committee: Bill La Morte, chairman; Leslie Boney, Bob Saboly, Andy Pavlovsky and Cedar Harris. Dance tickets may be secured from any of the above members of the dance committee.

Gala Program To Feature State's Finest Homecoming

HELLO WEEK

"Hello Week," an annual program to promote friendliness on the State College campus, will begin officially next Monday at noon with the presentation of the first "Hello Week" button to Colonel Harrelson, dean of administration, by Buddy Means, president of Golden Chain, before the entire ROTC regiment assembled in Riddick Stadium.

After the presentation, Colonel Harrelson will make a brief talk and the regiment will be led in songs and cheers by Dean Cloyd. Buttons will be distributed among the cadets.

The observance of "Hello Week" was begun on the State campus a number of years ago by Golden Chain, honorary fraternity, in an effort to increase the friendliness on the campus. During this week every student who passes a fellow-student on the campus is asked to exchange greetings.

Means, student leader in charge of the event, has made a plea that all non-military students be present in Riddick Stadium at noon Monday to receive buttons. Every student is asked to participate in the event and cooperate with the committees in charge by placing his name on the button and wearing it throughout the week.

"Hello Week" will be climaxed by Homecoming and the football game with Tennessee next Friday. Since its organization on the campus, this method of increasing fellowship among the students has gained much favorable praise. The students are urged to carry the "Hello" spirit with them through the year, and to maintain State's reputation as one of the friendliest campuses in the South.

Dean Emphasizes Personality Value

Van Leer Praises Efficient Personality at Frosh Meeting in YMCA

"One with an efficient personality will seek the best things in life in the easiest and quickest way possible," stated Dean B. R. Van Leer, speaking on "The Value of Efficient Personality" before a group of seventy-five freshmen in the YMCA Monday night.

"One should make up one's mind promptly," he continued, "and start along a definite line of action. To have a plussing personality one must be healthy, have companionship, leisure, self-control, and a religious philosophy."

In regard to etiquette Van Leer told the group they need not know much about detailed rules. He compared the underlying principles of engineering to those of conduct, stressing the fact that consideration is of utmost importance.

"Much can be learned by observing the actions of those who know what to do and when to do it, and especially does this apply to table manners," stated the Dean.

Welfare Group Selects Chairman

Dr. Lodwick C. Hartley Is Chosen Head of Student-Faculty Group

Gathering for their initial meeting of the year, the Student Welfare Committee met in the college YMCA Tuesday night to elect Dr. Lodwick C. Hartley, acting chairman of the English Department, as head of the committee for the ensuing year.

The meeting was presided over by Professor Fred M. Haig, retiring chairman of the group, who led the Welfare Committee through its first year of campus activity.

Other officers elected by the committee were: E. E. Durham, vice-chairman; Prof. C. B. Shulenberger, secretary; and Ben Pace vice-secretary.

The Student Welfare Committee was formed in the spring of 1938 as a result of a student body mass meeting, and for the purpose of creating a closer relationship between students and the administration. Set up as a democratic body, the membership is made up of eight faculty members, with an equal number of student representatives.

Broadcast Sept. 28

The annual Homecoming festivities will officially get underway Thursday night when the entire student body turns out in Riddick Stadium for the broadcast of the mammoth pre-Tennessee game pep meeting to be held from 7:15 to 7:45 o'clock.

The entire rally will be aired over radio station WPTF. Music and color will be supplied by the State College Band and the crack Drum and Bugle Corps. Organized cheering will be under the direction of head cheerleader Warren Spear.

Colonel J. W. Harrelson, Coach Doc Newton, and Co-Captains Rector and Pavlovsky will be asked to speak. It is also hoped that Major George W. Gillette, president of the General Alumni Association, will speak. Steve Saller will serve as master of ceremonies.

It is expected that in addition to the student body, hundreds of friends and alumni will be on hand for the broadcast. A similar broadcast held prior to the Carolina game last year was very favorably received and it is hoped that a record turnout will be on hand Thursday night.

Students are requested to be in the stands shortly after 7 o'clock in order that the broadcast may start on time.

University Day Plans Being Made

Second Annual Greater University Day Celebration to be at Carolina

Plans for State College's participation in the second annual Greater University Day celebration, scheduled to be held at Carolina this year, are under way, with the announcement by E. E. Durham, student body president, that he had written the Carolina Student Council urging the continuation of the event and pledging the support of the students at State College.

The celebration was originated here last year by Dick McKenzie in an effort to promote greater friendship, a spirit of unity, and better sportsmanship among the three units of the Greater University.

Last year the event was held here on the day of the State Carolina football game, and was attended by a number of prominent North Carolinians, including Governor Hoyer, President Graham, and the deans of the three units of the Greater University.

Greater University Day met with great favor with the W. C. students last year, and Dean Jackson of the Woman's College has indicated that they would like to see the celebration continued this year.

Merchant

P. G. "Junior" Hill, former basketball star and outstanding member of Doc Serrano's "Six Iron Men," has now turned country merchant, taking over the new commissary in a Dairy-tory.

Extending an invitation to all the small town politicians and country customers, P. G. is operating a modern, up-to-date business establishment.

PLANS COMPLETE

Climaxing weeks of preparation on the part of committee chairmen and their fellow-workers for State's Homecoming Day and Golden Anniversary celebration to be held next week-end, plans are rapidly being completed for one of the most elaborate programs in the history of the college.

The festivities will get underway Thursday night with a mammoth pep meeting to be broadcast from Riddick Stadium and will extend through a busy twenty-four hours to its climax in the annual Homecoming Dance to be held Friday night. Alumni and parents will be entertained on Friday, the day of the State-Tennessee football game.

Sponsoring the Homecoming celebration are Blue Key and Golden Chain, honorary organizations headed respectively by Frank Sabol and Buddy Means.

Judges Chosen
Chairmen of the main committees were announced today. Judges for the dormitory and fraternity house decorations will be Major Kenneth G. Althous, Professor Ted Johnson and Secretary Ed King of the college YMCA. Judges for the Stunt Night program, which will be presented following the pep meeting Thursday night, will be Dean Blake R. Van Leer, Professor R. B. Rice and Major Althous.

Committee chairmen in charge of the program are Steve Saller, pep meeting broadcast; B. S. Pace, stunt night; H. R. Crawford, decorations; P. P. Gregg, bonfire; and T. R. Frazier, alumni luncheon.

Following the pep meeting broadcast which will be held from 7:15 to 7:45, the program for Thursday night will include the annual Stunt Night in Pullen Hall and the freshman-sophomore bonfire on Red Field. Alumni registration will take place in the YMCA from 9 until 12 o'clock Friday morning.

During the entire day all classrooms, and laboratories will be open to alumni and parents. An alumni luncheon will be held in the cafeteria from 1:15 until 2:15 o'clock followed by the football game. Professor A. L. Wilson will be the principal speaker at the luncheon. Fraternity houses and dormitories will be decorated for the occasion, and prizes will be awarded for the most original and best-prepared decorations in each group.

After the game all dormitories and fraternity houses will hold informal open house for visitors, alumni and parents.

Senior Officers Receive Ratings

Appointment of Men to ROTC Posts for Entire Year Nears Completion

Final appointments of seniors in ROTC by the military department place W. H. Rector as Colonel and commanding officer of the regiment with H. D. Means as Lieutenant colonel and second in command.

On the regimental staff are Captain T. H. Blount, second lieutenant; Captain J. D. Atkins, assistant adjutant; Captain R. P. McCabe, plans and training officer; Captain A. R. Williams, personnel officer; Captain J. A. Newman, intelligence officer, and Captain L. N. Boney, publicity officer.

H. S. Gibbs has been chosen lieutenant colonel commanding the first battalion, Lieutenant Colonel T. H. Blount, second in command, and Captain L. F. Williams holds the position of adjutant. William LaMorte will be captain in command of a Company with Captain Sol Felt as second in command. Other companies and their officers are: "B" Company, Captain Cartwright, O'Brien, captain and second in command; "C" Company, Captain Higgins and J. N. Andrews; "D" Company, Captain J. W. Renne and Berkert.

Third battalion staff officers are: Major H. F. Randolph, second in command, and Ernest Koella, captain adjutant. Company commanders and their second in command are: "E" Company, Captain J. Y. Pharr and W. H. Spear; "F" Company, T. C. Johnson and M. L. Fullwell; "G" Company, Captain M. E. Davidson and T. T. Tyson; "H" Company, Captain C. Y. Fowles and E. M. Britt.

Hello Week...

Monday at State College will mark the beginning of the college's sixth annual Hello Week, sponsored by the Golden Chain to give the students a chance to become better acquainted. A State man has always prided himself upon the fact that every student on the campus is friendly and will always exchange a polite greeting, although the student body is much too large to know everyone's name.

To keep alive this tradition, and in order to "break the ice," Golden Chain inaugurated this plan of Hello Week six years ago, and the outcome was so successful that it has been continued from then on.

Its intention is not to have the students exchange greetings with their fellow-workers merely for the duration of one week, but to serve more as a prime to keep the pump of friendliness flowing.

To insure the success of any plan at State College, the co-operation of the entire student body is necessary, and each of you can play a vital part in making another successful "Hello Week." Be friendly with your neighbors, and I am sure the results will please you.

State's Best Year...

This year is truly destined to be the largest and most eventful in State College's fifty years of educational achievements. We who are fortunate to be students during the celebration of the Golden Jubilee Anniversary will undoubtedly see history in the making.

Topping the entire year's list of activities is the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the college on October 3, which will be pre-diminished by the Homecoming celebration. Thousands of alumni and visitors will return to State College to join in the festivities.

When State opened its doors fifty years ago, in the fall of 1889, approximately forty students were here for the first registration. They went to class, dined, and slept under the roof of the one and only building on the campus at that time, Holladay Hall.

Our student body now approaches the 2,300 mark. Dotting the campus are more than thirty-five modern classrooms, laboratories, and dormitories. There is no doubt that our college has made remarkable growth and development, and we feel as proud of the fact as the oldest alumnus or a veteran faculty member.

Aiding in the celebration of the anniversary, a comprehensive history of State College has been written by Dr. David A. Lockmiller, and will be ready for distribution next week-end. Setting a new high in journalism in the South, THE TECHNICIAN will publish a special fifty-page edition.

As our school ends 49 years of progressiveness, we are proud to stand up and say, "We, too, are a part of this great institution."

We're Behind You, "Doc"...

Tomorrow night the State College Wolfpack engages Davidson College in their first game of the season, a game which sport writers predict will be won by the Wolfpack by a touchdown or so. However, nothing is ever certain in a sports contest, and that is a strong influence in making the games more thrilling.

The squad appears to be in fine shape, and displays a spirit that is unmatched by former State teams. Apparent also is a much needed student body spirit, and undying support from every man. These are the things that help produce a winning team.

Whatever the outcome may be, "Doc," at the Davidson game or at any other game, you can rest assured that the entire student body, almost 2,300 of us, are behind you all the way.

Financial Support Helps...

This week additional honor came to State College, in the form of an invitation to the forensic squad to participate in the Rocky Mountain Speech Conference held in Denver, Col.

To add to the honor, this is the first time in the history of the conference that a Southern school has been invited to attend its annual meeting, which is considered as one of the two leading conferences of its type held in America.

A handicap has appeared, however, as is often true, in the form of financial backing for the trip West. The forensic squad receives annually a small allowance for the trips which they must take, and the budget is far too low to make room for such a trip to Colorado. It is often necessary to slash expenses to the bone to include all of the Southern tournaments.

It is beyond question that the forensic squad has the moral support of the entire student body. Members of the squad are beginning a campaign to raise money for the trip West, and lots of luck to them. You can't travel many miles on moral support alone.

Student Council

Speaks...

This column, which appeared in The Technician for the first time last week, will be continued throughout the year. Its purpose is two-fold. First, the Student Council will use it as a means of conveying its problems and its actions to the students. Second, we want you to use it to voice your ideas and suggestions about student government. After all, the council is not the Student Government; YOU are the government. We are merely the group that carries out your desires. Our actions, I assure you, will always be in the best interest of the students and the college.

The council does not want to be looked upon as a disciplinary court. This is just one phase of our duties. The policy of our disciplining is one of helping the student, not of condemning him. However, if anyone is accused of a breach of honor, and we hope that no one is, that individual will be shown very little leniency. There is no place for dishonor on the State College campus.

We are your servers... use us as such.

BUDDY MEANS.

OPEN FORUM

To the Student Body:

We are one group left in the world which has the freedom of the press. Since we are blessed with this privilege, we should use it often. I am making this plea to get student expression and student opinion before the public.

Often we discuss valuable subjects in our "bull sessions" which the total student body should hear about. Sometimes we get an idea or want the order of things changed. But so often we take the easy way out and forget to do anything about it. Then, too, our administrators want student opinions and feelings. They need these opinions and we are in a position to help them. These are the reasons for expressing ourselves.

You might feel as though you can't do anything as an individual, but you will find some people reading your editorials. If you really have something to offer, you will immediately secure sympathy and gain followers. This is our chance. Let us all use it freely.

E. E. DURHAM.

Fellow Students:

I am not only speaking for THE TECHNICIAN, but for the other publications on the campus as well.

You know that State College means a lot to the City of Raleigh, and what the City of Raleigh means to us. I know that you want to help State College and the citizens of Raleigh at the same time, and here is your chance.

Patronize those merchants that advertise in your publications. Tell them that you are a State student and that you read their ad in a State publication. After all, they help make it possible to continue these publications.

If you show the merchants that you have an interest in them as well as wanting them to have an interest in you, they will realize the true value of State College to them.

Every publication on the campus is anxious to put out the best issues possible, so visit the publications' advertisers and help them while they are helping us.

BILL ALDRIDGE, Bus. Mgr.,
THE TECHNICIAN.

Listening In

By JOE MICHAEL

For those new men on the campus the writer of this column would like to say a few words in regard to just what this column attempts to place before them. I dare say there very few rooms in the dormitories that do not contain a radio of some kind, and it is a friend in need. For it puts you in contact with the world and brings the latest news, plays, outstanding speakers, and last but not least, gives you a chance to hear some of the nation's outstanding dance bands.

In the fast-moving world that we are living in today it is almost impossible to keep up with events. But the three major broadcasting companies; namely, NBC, CBS and ME, should be congratulated on the way they are presenting the European situation. Thanks to them we get news from 6 to 12 hours before the newspapers are on the street.

In the dance-band bracket the summer has been a very successful one. A radio hookup is the prime aim of every band leader and by the number of bands that have risen to fame during the last several months, it seems as if lots of them are reaching a place on top of the ladder. At the head of the list stands Glen Miller, who has come to be known as one of the best vindicators of good radio music in radio land. Woody Herman, the man who plays the blues, stepped out of some unknown night spot with a band that has no equal when it comes to playing the blues, and his version of the "Woodchopper Ball" just about proves it. The Camel Caravan prides itself by always having the country's number one band on the stand and now they are breaking in Bob Crosby, and Bob himself is busy trying to tame that bobcat that Benny Goodman sent him. Incidentally, Bob Zucko, one of the best swing piano players in the world, just left the Crosby crew to lead his own unit.

The Question: Why did you come to N. C. State College?
The People: Freshmen.

The Place: Freshman Quadrangle

Jasper Joiner, Winter Garden, Fla.: Friends advised me of the fine agriculture school here. I wanted to get out of my home State and Carolina, particularly appealed to me. During the summer I visited here and was impressed with the friendliness of the people I met and with the school in general.

James Wicker, Pinehurst, N. C.: "State has one of the highest rated engineering schools in the South. I am seeking a chance to take the civil aeronautics option in engineering and am more liable to be able to here, since State can accommodate more students in the course."

Peter E. Pop, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "N. C. State College is well known for its friendliness and hospitality. I felt that this would be an ideal place to complete my education. Also, a graduate told me of the proximity to St. Marys, Peace, and Meredith colleges."

Fulton Allan, Wadesboro, N. C.: "Every technically minded North Carolinian thinks of coming to State College. I wanted a course in textiles, and everywhere I went I was told of the fine course given and the high quality of the teaching staff."

John Valentino, Yonkers, N. Y.: "During the summer I worked in the Connecticut woods and was advised by graduates of the superior course in forestry. In general, expenses seemed reasonable and I was glad of the opportunity to take the R.O.T.C. course."

Edward Woodall, Smithfield, N. C.: "Only a few colleges in the country give a course in ceramic engineering, and of these State is one whose course is certified by the engineering councils. Natu-

LOOKING 'ROUND...

By "COBRA"

(The Original Snake-In-the-Grass)

With the new year just starting, there hasn't been much opportunity for you lads to go gallivanting about the countryside, but the time will come when you and YOU will be doing something you wouldn't want in print; that's the time to look in this column. Anytime you have something on your worst enemy (or your best friend) just slip it under the door of the office. Steve Selzer, ye olde ad, is back in Raleigh again smoother and slicker than ever. From the way Steve looks at those new cute textile co-eds, you'd get the impression that Steve feels that he was born a year too soon.

Mike Strong has been puzzling his friends for quite a while now, by staying out practically every night. Those on the know say that Mike's got a "gal."

A number of boys who attended the Glen Gray dance a few weeks ago, still haven't gotten over the effects. It seems that during the intermission they struck up an acquaintance with a charming group of married women, who invited them over for something to eat. One of the boys, who's initials are Vic King, woke up a few hours later in South Boston, Va.'s gutter and to this day insists he was born hit on the head and robbed.

Jimmie Watters and his roommate, Roy Cromartie, were feeling too good on night and decided that it was too far to walk all the way out to "A" dorm. Watters got the bright idea of getting one of the moo-mooes to act as a bus so the two of them could spend the next twenty minutes chasing the bovine. When they finally managed to corral the cow, she refused to accommodate the boys despite Jimmie's determined prodding on the rear.

Jack May still hasn't satisfactorily explained what he was doing on the lawn of Hugh Moren high school a couple of nights ago. Hans Frel, a student here born in Germany, and Paul Gawkowsky, of Polish descent have signed a peace treaty. The reason they room together... That's all for now, see you next week.

Raymond Marks, Tuckahoe, N. Y.: "I came to State for its highly rated engineering school and because I could get a good education cheap. I wanted to be away from home and Dixie in particular appealed to me."

Howard Brown, Asheboro, N. C.: "I was working in a hosiery mill with no future, and decided to get chemical engineering training. I picked State because a graduate is almost assured of a good job."

There will be a meeting of the business staff of "The Technician" in "The Technician" office Tuesday at 4:30. All who are interested in working on the business staff are invited to attend.—J. W. Aldridge, Business Manager.

GLEANINGS

by THE STAFF

State College is beginning its fiftieth anniversary celebration in an enviable position. We are progressing with leaps and bounds and begin this year with a bigger and better institution than ever before, a record number of students, larger faculty, more buildings, more dormitories, and even modern dairy barns are on the way. We can't help wondering what the future holds in store for State. How large would we grow if new buildings were built every year to meet the ever increasing demand? Wade Ison and Abe Upchurch are our idea of the unsung heroes of State College, they have really put us on the map with their excellent publicity department. Universal's new reel showing the Wolfpack at practice was shown even in New York with Doc's boys occupying the key places in the sport section, according to reports from a couple of local belles who were vacationing in the Big City. When the Pack appeared on the screen the North Carolinians in the audience (all two of them) went wild. It is remarkable that they did not parade barefooted in the aisles. And speaking of girls, they seemed to get a bigger rush than the freshmen during rush week. The fighting was heavy on some fronts in the scramble for dates to entertain the freshmen, but no casualties have been reported except in a few cases when some enterprising young gentlemen attempted to bring two dates to the same place at the same time without first explaining the situation. During the moaning and gnashing of teeth which came the next day one lad remarked, "Is there such a thing as a broadminded woman?" From all indications the answer is NO. Ace "Little Flower" Krochmal can't seem to think of anything except his girl and the sports page occasionally. Perhaps marriage would be the best solution, Ace. Credit for the best expression of the week goes to Professor L. L. Vaughn, quoted as dry as theoretical prohibition, unquote. Did you know that Art Rooney's picture which decorates so many posters about town is considered the best action picture taken during the football season last year? Ed Coon is in the national spotlight this week with an action picture in The Saturday Evening Post. True story of the week: The studs were stewed. After unsteadily weaving his way from the court, he paused momentarily on the steps of the library in an attempt to pierce the fog, only to find his way blocked by a large marble column. With utmost concentration he placed both hands on the column and moved cautiously round and round, first in one direction and then the other. It was no use, the column remained, he sank exhausted. A moment later he began to wall pitifully, "M'Gawd," he cried, "I'm walled in!" Our nomination for the title, "one man dynamo": Spud Davidson, the only man in captivity who can work night and day without rest, he turns out copy by the barrel. Plaintive moan from the staff: Oh, to be like that. Occasionally we recall with a shudder those torrid days and frigid nights at McClellan, saying it was worth a million in experience, but it will be a couple of years before we feel like doing it again. Question uppermost in everyone's mind, Will we be able to keep out of war? Most students seem to be in favor of a national referendum before declaring war for any reason, except an attack by another power on our own soil. Ask our news editor to explain an embarrassing encounter with a co-ed and two dogs near 1911. As soon as rush week and the fifty-page paper are out of the way the entire staff will feel as though they have nothing to do in comparison. See you at the pep meeting tonight.

By "ACE" KILGORE

Wolfpack followers will get their first glimpse of this year's team tomorrow night when "Doc" Newton sends his team against Davidson's Wildcats at Greensboro.

After watching State scrimmage I'll go along with the Pack to whip Davidson by at least two touchdowns, even though I haven't seen the 'Cats. There's something mighty impressive in the way those State backs have been running, and in the way the line has been charging. It looks as if the only sophomore to break into the starting lineup for State will be Wade Brown, a big 210 pound end, who was a reserve player last year. Brown hit hard and can really snap passes—the sort of end that "Doc" Newton would have given an eye for last year.

Sops

Other sops who should play tomorrow night are Dick Watts, a mighty pretty back who runs and passes; John Barr and J. D. Johns, two small but excellent guards; big, 230-pound tackle Curtis Ramsey; pass-catching ends Frank Owen and Al Phillips; and back Jack Hockabee and Reuben Morgan. State's starting lineup will probably be as follows: ends, Wade Brown and Mickey Sullivan; tackles, Ed Coon and Ralph Burt; guards, Bill Windley and John Savin; center, Bill Retter; and backs, Art Rooney, Andy Pavlovsky, Pat Fehley and Tony Di Yeso.

Aerial Bombardment

The ample supply of pass-aging ends on the State team this year assures a brilliant aerial offense, with Art Rooney, Dick Watts and Pat Fehley flinging them. On the receiving end will be Brown, Sullivan, Charley Smart, Monte Crawford, Owen and Phillips. Last year the Pack quit passing pretty much after one of the Carolina backs intercepted a State pass and ran 45 yards for a touchdown with it.

Watch the 'Cats

However, don't sell those Davidson boys short—Stan Yoder, a 195 pound fullback who will be a locomotive; Gales McClintock is a end who can diagnose plays with rare ability and Tubby Hand can really carry the ball.

Last year's game was no clinch, and the 'Cats' aerial attack which wasn't opened up till the closing minutes of the game, and which netted them a touchdown, really threw a scare into State followers.

State will have an advantage inasmuch as they have been playing night games for the last six years, while the Wildcats have just recently taken up the sport.

Here Comes the Vols

Exactly six days from tomorrow, the leading contenders for the national championship, the two All-American candidates—Tennessee's back, George Cafego, and State's Ed Coon.

The Vols won ten games, and ran up 309 points while yielding two touchdowns and a field goal last year. Only two starters are missing. The ingenious Major Neyland should be able to find replacements. One of these is Babe Wood, now a member of State's coaching staff.

Here and There

A great big bouquet to Sports Publicist Wade Ison for the fine job he is doing. His latest achievement is the issuing of a brochure for newspapers and radio, entitled "North Carolina State 1939 Football Facts." This brochure contains all sorts of information about the Wolfpack-coaches' history, players' history, last year's statistics and all sorts of valuable information.

I was speaking to John Marshall, sports editor of the Raleigh Times yesterday, and he certainly is a staunch State supporter. Thanks, Mr. Marshall. State's new freshman backfield coach, "Babe" Wood, is looking forward to the Tennessee game for more than an opportunity to renew old acquaintances. His wife of two months, a University of Tennessee co-ed will be here. . . . With all the bicycling Tom Rowland, co-captain of this year's swimming team, is doing, he should be in tip-top shape by the time the season rolls around. . . . I was lugging a picture of the first State football team around the campus with me yesterday, and stopped to chat with some of the fellows. A couple of them looked at the picture, and one exclaimed, "Why there's Babe Frank."

Tennessee To Engage Pack On Homecoming

NEYLAND'S MEN ARE STRONGEST OF OPPONENTS

Vols Rated as One of Ace Teams in South; Will Feature Play of 2 All-America Men

Mighty Tennessee, one of the few teams to remain in the universally sought unbeaten and untied ranks last year, and rated by the majority of sports writers as the best team in the nation this year, will meet Doc Newton's Wolfpack before a Homecoming crowd here next Friday in what promises to be one of the greatest football classics ever played in Riddick Stadium.

Unanimously picked as underdogs, the Techs will undoubtedly have an uphill fight all the way against the superior power and reserves of the Vols, but, as they proved conclusively last year against Alabama, Carnegie Tech, Duke, and others, the Wolfpack is known far and wide as a real ball club not to be taken lightly.

Since Friday's clash will be the opener for Tennessee, the 'Pack will have the advantage of one game's experience over the Vols after they meet Davidson tomorrow. However, this might prove a handicap in case of injuries to outstanding members of the State Club.

Carrying the weight of the attack for Tennessee will be All-America Halfback George Cafego, nicknamed "Bad News" and picked as number one back of '39, but to take care of Cafego and maybe a few linemen on the side Doc will have Ed "Ty" Coon, potential All-America tackle. Many other stars stud the Tennessee line up, for Tennessee is a team among teams. We refuse to make any predictions on this game, for the game is not won until the final whistle, and in football, anything can happen. But undoubtedly, the Tennessee-N. C. State game will remain a topic of discussion for many days to come.

Archery Used In Hunting Game

Wade Ison's Brother Hunts Boars in Georgia With Bow and Arrow

Hunting wild game with bow and arrow is becoming more popular, what with hunters bagging deer and wild boar in the wilder sections of the South.

Ros Ison, brother of Wade Ison, N. C. State sports publicist, who has hunted in this country and Haiti recently participated in a hunt for wild boar in the mountains of North Georgia. His story of the hunt, during which tackle made by the young Atlanta, Ga., sportsman was used, follows:

"Two friends and I left Atlanta one morning at 8 o'clock and arrived at our campsite in time to get the fire going and other overnight camping essentials lined up. Next morning we got up in 20 degree weather and joined a mountaineer who had a Pit bull dog.

Through some of the wildest mountain country we wandered for a couple of hours before starting a boar. We were spread out as far as we could see each other and began driving down through a laurel thicket. Having no success, we called the drive off and got over to a trail.

Those bo-haws are wild as deer, range as far and feed at night. He had heard us coming down the mountain and left his thicket.

"We struck his trail, loosed the dog, split the party and tore after the dog who'd bolted into the thicket. I joined the dog owner just as we heard a roar, and immediately tore through that thicket in the direction from which it came. About a hundred yards in I broke out on the dog and the boar. The dog had his ear. The boar would give the dog slack so he could rip him, and the dog would take it up.

"One of my mates had come upon the scene and loosed a broadhead from his 55-pound bow just as I entered the melee. I saw a wound on the boar and blood was oozing from it. But the boar acted as though it was just a scratch. He tore loose from the dog. My friend who had shot the arrow slipped and fell, just as I shot, hitting the boar a little high. I thought. The dog grabbed his ear again and as my other companion came on the scene the boar broke for him with the dog dangling his 70 pounds from his ear. Fortunately, my second companion dodged safely.

Tickets

All students who have not as yet secured their student athletic books of tickets should do so either today or tomorrow, as these books will be needed to purchase fifty-cent tickets to the Davidson game tomorrow. Extra tickets, for dates, will cost a dollar and a quarter.

The books may be obtained in Mr. Von Glahn's office in the gymnasium.

Hickman-McEver Feud Boils Anew

State's Line Coach and Davidson's Head Coach Were Team-mates and All-Americans at University of Tennessee

There's a new angle to the State-Davidson College football feud, which will be renewed for the thirty-second time in Greensboro tomorrow night.

The new angle deals with Herman Hickman, the ponderous State line coach, and Gene McEver, Davidson's head coach.

Hickman and McEver were born within twenty miles of each other. They attended the University of Tennessee, both were named on All-America teams and both lived together while they played on the all-East team in San Francisco. They married girls from the same town.

Then McEver took to coaching, and Hickman to professional football and wrestling. Later Hickman entered the coaching field and they became professional enemies.

As assistant coach at Wake Forest, Hickman saw McEver twice ride to victory over Wake Forest as an assistant to Doc Newton, then head coach at Davidson. Newton came to State, and Hickman joined him here. In the two games played since Newton and Hickman have been here, State has won both—by the score of 6-2 in 1937, and 19-7 last year.

Now Hickman is out to get ahead of McEver, because a win for State Saturday will give Hickman a 3-2 advantage over McEver.

Hickman entered Tennessee when McEver was a sophomore, but Gene laid out a year, due to an injury, and they finished together. Hickman married Miss Helen Smith and McEver married Miss Joyce Bennett, both of Knoxville, within a month. Neither has any children.

About McEver, Hickman says, "He is the greatest ball carrier I ever saw, college or professional." That is some compliment, because Hickman has seen many of the collegiate greats and all the professionals.

Swimmers, Look!

Swimming practice begins October 2 at 5 o'clock in the pool of the Frank Thompson Gymnasium. All upperclassmen interested in joining the varsity swimming team are urged to be present.

'MURALMUSINGS

By WALTER WILLIAMS

Well, everyone is getting ready to start out on another year of intramural sports. From the looks of the different practice fields I think there will be plenty of keen competition in both the fraternity and dormitory brackets.

The touch football schedule is the first of the 12 events to get under way. The barnyard sport better known as horseshoe pitching was so well liked last year that they have decided to make it a seven-man team instead of the two-man team as before. The first match is on October 2 between 1st 8th and 1st 7th, and on October 5 the Alpha Gamma Rhos will throw with the Sigma PIs.

The Sigma PIs and the SPE's will start the ball rolling in the fraternity touch football and 1st South will have it out with 1st Watauga in behalf of the dormitory bracket.

September 26—Kappa Alpha vs. Kappa Sigma; 2nd South vs. 2nd Watauga.

September 27—Pi Kappa Phi vs. Sigma Nu; 5th Dormitory vs. 1911.

September 28—2nd 7th vs. 1st 7th.

GYM OPEN

Starting this Sunday, September 24, Frank Thompson Gym, swimming pool, and all courts, fields and equipment will be open and available for use by students from 2 to 5 in the afternoon.

PLAY BUSTER

Mickey Sullivan, varsity end, is a whiz in diagnosing enemy plays and smearing them. Last year Mickey was bothered by a bad shoulder, but he is in fine shape this year.

OPPOSING BACKS IN TOMORROW'S TILT

Big Five Teams Go Into Action

All Teams Except Duke Play Tomorrow; State-Davidson Game and Wake Forest-South Carolina Game Top List.

Four of the teams composing the Big Five swing into action tomorrow, to ring up the curtain on the 1939 grid season, which promises to be one of the best ever.

Topping the list is the State-Davidson match, which takes place tomorrow night at Greensboro. State's team will enter the fray as heavy favorites to whip the Davidson Wildcats.

The 'Cats will be sorely handicapped by the loss of varsity guards Dick Arnold and Ben Moore, and sophomore star back Claude Hackney, who had been counted on to be one of the chief threats against State. Hackney is out with an injury, and scholastic difficulties have caught up with Moore and Arnold.

Wake Forest's Deacons, who played Elon last week and won 34-0, take on the tough University of South Carolina team at home. Last year the Baptists eked out a 20-19 victory over the Gamecocks in a spine-tingling contest.

This year Coach Enright of South Carolina hopes to avenge the defeat—but the Deacons' coach, "Peahead" Walker, has different ideas. Said he, "They'll have to block a whole sight better than if they want to take out those Carolina's Heels open their season with a breather, playing The Citadel at Chapel Hill. This game will give Tar Heel stars Stinewiss and Lelanne a chance to warm up for a heavy schedule, which includes Wake Forest, State, Penn. N. Y. U. Duke, and Tulane. The Heels are favored to win by two or three touchdowns.

Forensic Squad Invited To West

Receive Invitation to Demonstrate Direct Clash Debate at Denver

A signal honor came to the State College forensic squad this week when they were invited to attend the annual Rocky Mountain Conference at Denver, Colorado, for the purpose of supervising the introduction of Direct Clash debating into the Conference's program.

The invitation came as a climax to a long series of honors paid State College for their origin and development of the Direct Clash plan. It was received by Professor Edwin Padgett, coach of the State debating squad, and was submitted by Dr. Elwood Murray of the University of Denver, president of the Rocky Mountain Speech Conference.

The Rocky Mountain Conference is attended by over forty leading colleges and universities in the West and Pacific Coast, and is considered one of the two leading speech conferences holding annual meetings in America.

This is the first time in their history that a Southern school has been invited to initiate a prominent feature of their program.

Participating in many debating conferences from coast to coast, the State forensic squad has brought fame to the direct clash system of debate. The system is being adopted by many of the leading forensic squads of the country, and it is anticipated that the demonstration at the Rocky Mountain meet will install the system as a permanent system on the West Coast.

Enthusiasm by the invitation to the conference meet, members of the State forensic squad are now engaging in a campaign to raise money for the trip to Colorado.

Clyde McCoy

It's a far cry from being a hill billy Kentucky farmer boy to stardom as one of America's greatest trumpet players and orchestra leaders, but such are the strides that have been made by Clyde McCoy, famous "Sugar Blues" maestro, who brings his great radio, recording and movie orchestra, to Ambassador Theatre on Saturday, September 23.

As a boy, Clyde received a brass cornet as a Christmas gift and started to take lessons on it. By the time McCoy left the family's Ashland, Kentucky, farm and moved to Louisville to enter the Male high school, he had mastered the instrument and was ready for a berth in the school band.

In 1926, lanky, brown-eyed McCoy was enlisted in a band which Walter Davidson had organized in Louisville. This was the beginning of the once famous "Louisville Loons" and the start of a professional career which eventually led Clyde to stardom as a trumpet player and orchestra leader.

Organizing his own band in 1928, Clyde quickly won popularity and played some of the Midwest's finest hotels and ballrooms. Notable among these engagements were the Drake Hotel, Chicago; Lowry, St. Paul; Rio, Houston; Claridge, Memphis; Brown, Louisville, and the Morrison, Chicago. Since coming East the Clyde McCoy orchestra has starred in theatres, hotels and night clubs; recorded for Decca and made several Vitaphone movie shorts.

Civic Music Week Is Observed Here

Membership Rolls Will be Closed for Season by Tomorrow Night

This week is Civic Music Week in Raleigh. Saturday night terminates the period in which membership in the Civic Music Association may be obtained. Membership card admits the holder to five concerts by some of the greatest artists, including Kirsten Flagstad, renowned Metropolitan Opera star, the famous Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, John Charles Thomas, also a famous Metropolitan Opera star, Efrem Zimbalist, noted violinist, and Misha Levitski, one of the outstanding pianists of today.

Student memberships cost only $2.50 for the entire series of concerts. Membership fee for non-students is only $5. This is an unusual opportunity for anyone to enjoy upwards of $15 worth of the finest musical attractions for a very nominal fee; but in order to do so it is absolutely essential that enrollment for membership in the Civic Music Association be made before tomorrow (Saturday) night. For convenience of State College students and faculty members, enrollment may be made through Mr. Kutschinski, director of music, or Dr. Lodwick Hartley of the English department—or enrollments may be made directly at the Civic Music Association headquarters in the Sir Walter Hotel.

State Glee Club Begins Rehearsals

Fifty-one Men Register; to Sing at Kiwanis Club Convention

Responding to a poster announcement, 51 students registered for membership in the State College Men's Glee Club which began its regular rehearsals Monday night, C. D. Kutschinski, director of the musical organizations, expressed his gratification for the talent and interest manifested and the progress being made by the singers. They will make their first public appearance of the season next Sunday night when they will sing on the opening program of the convention of the Kiwanis Clubs of North and South Carolina at the Sir Walter Hotel.

It is believed that there are still quite a number of students desiring membership in the Glee Club who did not know that the rehearsals would begin this week since the announcement did not appear in The Technician last week; therefore, any additional students who are interested are extended the privilege of joining next week. Rehearsals are held in Pullen Hall on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m.

No Dance...

It was announced by the Intercollegiate Club yesterday that due to circumstances beyond their control, Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra would NOT play in Raleigh on Sept. 26.

Announcements...

A smoker for all students in the School of Electrical Engineering will be given by the AIES next Tuesday, September 22, in Room 207, Daniels Hall, at 8:45 p.m.

During the smoker Prof. R. S. Fouraker will present a short talk to the students present. All E.E. students are invited and urged to attend.

The orchestra will hold its first rehearsal Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Pullen Hall. All who wish to try out for it privately are asked to report to Major Kutschinski in Pullen Hall Monday at 5 p.m. All who have had experience playing violin, viola, cello, or string bass are particularly urged to try out.

The student branch of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences will hold its annual reception and smoker for aeronautical students tonight in the YMCA parlors at the north end of the "Y" building. All aeronautical students, and especially freshmen, are invited to attend. Plans for this year's aeronautical program will be explained and discussed. Refreshments and cigarettes will be served.

All boys interested in varsity tennis are asked to report to the college tennis courts Tuesday, September 22, for fall practice.

Tompkins Textile Society will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 promptly, in the YMCA. All textile students are requested to be present. The moving picture, "College Days," depicting life on this campus, will be shown at this meeting.—H. C. Woodall, President.

Last Call... All students who have changed their address or who have an address now but lacked same on registration day, should leave it at the office of the dean of students for the Student Directory. The directory will go to the printers in the next few days.

YMCA To Continue Free Movie Policy

First Picture of Current Year Will be Shown

"Mississippi," the first in a series of free motion pictures to be presented by the YMCA throughout the school year, will be shown tonight at 9:00 o'clock in Pullen Hall.

Tried out last year as an experiment by Alexander M. Smith, State graduate of '39, the pictures which he termed "painless education" met with such hearty approval that the YMCA decided to incorporate moving pictures as a part of their regular yearly program. The substance of Smith's plan is the sandwiching of educational short subjects between comedies and feature pictures.

Starring in the feature picture are Bing Crosby, Joan Bennett and

W. C. Fields. This week's picture has been secured under the sponsorship of L. L. Ivey, manager of the Students Supply Store. All members of the student body and faculty are invited to attend. Those attending are asked to refrain from smoking in the hall in order to eliminate any fire hazard which might result.
