University Day Features Talks By Unit Heads

Full Program Is Planned for Celebration of Second Annual Greater University Day

Alumni and student representatives from the three units of the Consolidated University of North Carolina will meet tomorrow at Chapel Hill for the second annual celebration of Greater University Day in conjunction with the State-Carolina grid battle.

A special half-time program has been arranged featuring short talks by Governor Clyde R. Hoey and representatives from each of the three units, and music by the three college bands.

Talks will be made by President Frank P. Graham, Dean J. W. Harnelson, of State College, Dean W. C. Jackson of the Woman's College, Jimmy Davis, president of the Carolina student body, Ernest Durham, president of the State student body, and Ruth Gillmore, president of the Woman's College student body.

Greater University Day was originated last year largely through the efforts of Dick McKensie, who graduated last spring. Mr. and Mrs. McKensie will be guests of honor during the celebration and game.

Five sets of sponsors from each of the units will also be guests of honor. The State sponsors are Miss Hilda Fate of Goldsboro with O. J. Howell, president of the Y.M.C.A.; Miss Helen Curran of Raleigh with Tony D. Yesso, president of the Monogram Club; Miss Margaret Martin of Raleigh with E. P. Davidson, editor of THE TECHNICIAN; Miss Della Murdoch of Salisbury with L. D. Mendenhall, vice president of the student body; and Miss Ella Eddins of New York with E. E. Durham, president of the student body.

Sponsors will be special guests at a dance tomorrow night which will be given by the Grall, Carolina honorary society. Dean Hudson and his Florida Club orchestra, which is fast becoming known throughout the country, will play for the dance which is to be held in Woolen Gymnasium from nine until twelve o'clock.

Student Assembly Favors Neutrality

Bills Flood Mock Legislation as Two Hundred Delegates Convene in Capitol

Student lawmakers from all parts of North Carolina gathered in Raleigh last Friday and Saturday for the annual Student Legislative Assembly, which held forth in the State Capitol.

Approximately two hundred strong, the college students gathered in joint session Friday afternoon as the assembly was opened by Thad Bure, Secretary of State of North Carolina.

One of the major bills passed by the assembly was the proposal of the State College contingent, for the maintenance by the United States of a strict neutrality towards all warring nations. Dozens of bills were introduced before both houses, and widespread discussion filled both floors.

Presiding over the Senate was Joe Tally of Duke University, who was serving his second year as president of that group. Another second-year man in office, Bedford Black of Wake Forest College, was elected speaker of the House of Representatives.

Registration was held Friday afternoon, and a joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives began at 9 o'clock. Following this, the separate meetings of the bodies were in session until 5:30, and the student lawmakers convened again at 7 o'clock for their three-and-one-half hour session Friday night.

Saturday morning the delegates gathered again in the Capitol for the final session of the assembly, which began at 9 o'clock and held forth until early afternoon.

Student Tickets . . . State students will be admitted at a special student entrance at the Carolina State game. Students are asked to enter gate two on the north side of the stadium. Admission will be fifty cents and the presentation of your student ticket book. Please bring the correct change.

STUDENTS INITIATED BY TAU BETA PI

Receiving the highest honor an engineering student can attain, the men pictured above were initiated into the local chapter of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity, last Thursday. Tau Beta Pi is the engineering equivalent to Phi Beta Kappa in liberal arts colleges.

The new members of the chapter are: John N. Strawbridge of Durham, junior in electrical engineering; Frank O. Truslow of Draper, senior in chemical engineering; William F. Morris, Jr., of Raleigh, junior in mechanical engineering; A. B. Wester, Jr., of Henderson, senior in chemical engineering; Hal F. Randolph of Raleigh, senior in ceramic engineering; T. R. Frazier, Jr., of Warrenton, senior in electrical engineering; and Henry C. Thomas of Rockingham, senior in chemical engineering.

The five seniors ranked in the upper quarter of their class scholastically, and the two juniors were required to have an average of 90 or better.

Heels Rule Favorites In Traditional Battle

Tomorrow, in Kenan Stadium, one of the South's oldest and most colorful football rivalries will again find the Wolfpack pitted against the Tar Heels of Carolina. The game will serve as a climax to the second annual Greater University Day and Homecoming for the Carolina alumni.

Carolina is one of the leading teams in the nation today. After opening with a smashing victory over The Citadel, the Heels went on to defeat Wake Forest, Virginia Poly, New York University, and Pennsylvania very decisively, and they tied the mighty Horned Ropes of Tulane. These triumphs have pushed Ray Wolf's charges to the top in Southern football supremacy.

The Wolfpack has not enjoyed the success of the Chapel Hillians so far this season, having suffered defeat in four of their five encounters. Coach Newton has had the 'Pack hard at work for the last two weeks pointing for this game, and there should be a real battle at the Hill from the starting whistle to the final gun.

Carolina Holds Edge The Wolfpack hasn't been able to take Carolina since 1927, and it was that year that Jack McDowall, Bob Warren and Chick Outen did the trick. The two clubs have engaged in 32 games since the rivalry began in 1894, and Carolina has been victorious in 23 of the contests. State has taken three encounters, and six have ended in deadlocks.

The game will feature State's running attack against the Tar Heel aerial circus. Lalanne's accuracy in passing the pigskin has given Carolina the margin in all of their major games. The Wolfpack will be out to stop any such bombardment. The Newtonmen had an open date last week and they have been hard at work for this struggle, pointing toward upsetting the dope bucket.

Thousands of Visitors Expected On First Annual High School Day Next week-end thousands of high school youths will converge on the State College campus for the first High School Day ever held by the institution. From the wilds of Cherokee to the swamps of Manteo, the students will represent every high school in North Carolina's one hundred counties.

Military Society To Present Dance

Duke Ambassadors to Furnish Music for Scabbard and Blade Armistice Day Dance

The local unit of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military society, will present its annual dance next Saturday night, November 11, in the Frank Thompson gymnasium.

The dance, which will be held from 9 o'clock to midnight, will feature the music of the famous Duke Ambassadors.

The major feature of the annual formal frolic will be the figure, which will feature members of the society and their dates.

Sponsors for the colorful ball and their escorts, who are members of the dance committee, are: Miss Josephine White of Charlotte with Ted Johnson, captain of Scabbard and Blade; Miss Helen Betts of Greensboro with Frank Sabol; Miss Betty Wells of Raleigh with R. Haywood Witherington; Miss Ray Williams of Windsor with Barton Betts; Miss Katherine Sigmon of Salisbury with Ernest Kowalski; and Miss Nancy Gilliam of Warrenton with T. R. Frazier, Jr.

Military Seniors To Drill At Game

Officers to Participate in Program at State-Carolina Grid Contest Tomorrow

The senior members of the State College ROTC unit will present a drill before the kick-off of the State-Carolina football game tomorrow at Chapel Hill, as an added attraction to the celebration of the second annual Greater University Day.

The unit will be commanded by E. D. Means and Tom Blount, who will be assisted by acting platoon leaders H. S. Gibbs and Avery Williams.

Record Number of Pressmen Register At Fall Convention

Seven Honor Men Formally Inducted Into Tau Beta Pi

Five Seniors and Two Juniors Become Members of Honorary Engineering Fraternity

Five seniors and two juniors were formally initiated into the State College chapter of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, last Thursday night. H. C. Bird, professor of civil engineering at Duke University, was also initiated for the chapter at Yale University.

Following the initiation, a banquet was given in honor of the newly elected members in the Sir Walter Hotel. P. O. Kruslow, senior in chemical engineering and former faculty member, was the feature speaker at the banquet, which was presided over by Toastmaster Ted Johnson, professor of sanitary engineering.

Besides the members and their dates, many of the faculty members of Tau Beta Pi were present. The new members initiated into the local chapter of the engineering fraternity are: Hal Randolph, senior in ceramic engineering; T. R. Frazier, senior in electrical engineering; H. C. Thomas, senior in chemical engineering; A. B. Wester, senior in chemical engineering; W. F. Morris, junior in mechanical engineering; and J. N. Strawbridge, junior in electrical engineering.

The purpose of Tau Beta Pi is to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal fellowship in the engineering colleges of America.

Scholarship is a primary requisite to Tau Beta Pi, and seniors must be in the upper quarter of their class to be eligible. Juniors taken in the first term of a school year are known as honor members and must have an average of 90 or better.

In combination with good scholarship, the candidate is judged on character, integrity, interest, and other qualities that make for a good student and citizen.

Army Fraternity Bids Eleven Men

Five juniors and six seniors have received bids to join the State College chapter of Upsilon Sigma Alpha, national army fraternity.

Under the original constitution of the organization, only officers, but has since been expanded to include cadets in the advanced ROTC course.

The officers of the ROTC course are: R. P. Hemming, F. M. Clements, Jr., R. H. Lane, W. F. Morris, and J. D. Simmons. Seniors receiving bids were J. M. O'Brian, M. E. Davidson, J. M. Foster, B. A. Hildebrande, C. F. Ireland, and J. H. Holcombe.

Spirit of Congeniality Apparent As Delegates Renew Acquaintances

The press convention is here, and we do mean here in full force. Crowding into the lobby of the Sir Walter Hotel yesterday afternoon was a score of delegates, all representatives of other Greater University Day events.

One of the highlights in the memories and thoughts of every pressman is a convention of the NCCPA. Not that there is anything particularly different about the convention as compared with others, nor is there anything so exciting or entertaining that it cannot be forgotten. But there is that certain congeniality, and friendliness among those of the publications game, that spirit of helpfulness, and the knowledge that you are in the midst of some who are faced with the same problems and who do the same kind of work that you do.

When you walk in, the first thing that catches your eye is a mob of delegates from E. C. T. C. and right there is one of the best times of convention delegates that I have ever seen. Honestly, E. C. T. C. girls are the first to arrive at a convention, the last to

Tonight at 7 . . .

Tonight at 7 o'clock in Riddick Stadium, a pep meeting will be held in preparation for the Carolina game at Chapel Hill tomorrow.

Every student is urged to be present at this mammoth pep meeting and assist in boosting Doc Newton and his boys to a victory in tomorrow's grid classic. The Pack, definitely the underdog in the experts' selections, is out to make the season a success by upsetting the favored Tar Heels.

N. C. Agriculture Subject of Speech By Governor Hoey

State Governmental Head Addresses Ag Club at Regular Tuesday Night Meeting

"The translation of our tenant farmers into land owners is the greatest single need of agricultural communities in North Carolina," stated Governor Clyde R. Hoey in an address at the State College Ag Club meeting Tuesday night.

"When a man owns his own land or home he naturally takes a greater interest in the advancement and improvement of the community in which he lives," continued the Governor. "He is more willing to learn new methods of soil improvement and crop cultivation, and he can observe the results of these methods on his own farm. But until we reach this ideal it is the duty of every landowner to see that his tenants all have gardens so that they may raise the majority of their own food."

"The State of North Carolina has such a tremendous variety of climate and so many different types of soils that we can raise almost everything that can be grown in the United States. Last year we ranked third in the Union in cash value of crops produced. However, most of this achievement can be credited to tobacco and cotton."

"We sent $100,000,000 out of the state last year to buy food that we might very easily have grown right here at home. We need to apply the knowledge that we have of farming to other crops and products that will bring the farmer a year-round income and at the same time keep a good portion of the money at home that is now sent out of the State for food."

Last Chance! . . .

Today and tonight are absolutely the last times that pictures can be made of the Agromeck, it was announced last night by Editor Jones Pharr.

Pictures will be taken for all classes. Agromeck officers, spent Thursday afternoon and night either counting money or worrying about some phase of association expenses. You see, Jonesy is treasurer.

Peeking away at a typewriter, and at the same time chatting with conventioners was Steve Sailer, executive secretary of the N. C. Pressmen. And if you look hard you can trace much of the work of the convention back to the tireless efforts of former Technician Editor Sailer.

Truly it has been a great start on what we think will be one of the largest conventions in the history of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association. Every- one seems to be having a good time and willing to cooperate in making this meeting a memorable one. More power to all of them and good luck, too.

Over One Hundred Delegates From 20 North Carolina Colleges Registered for NCCPA Gathering

By BRUCE HALSTED

The largest fall convention in the history of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association officially opened yesterday with the registration of delegates in the Sir Walter Hotel, convention headquarters, with State, Peace, and St. Mary's acting as host and hostesses.

Last night almost one hundred delegates had registered, a record for fall conventions. These delegates represent some twenty colleges and universities scattered throughout the State, and the officers in charge expect a few more to register before noon today.

This year's convention, predicted to be the best in the history of the association, officially convened yesterday at 2 o'clock when the delegates began signing the roll list, and will continue through a busy session today, a banquet and dance tonight, and a general meeting tomorrow followed by adjournment.

Reception Last night the delegates were entertained at a reception given at the Sir Walter by Peace and St. Mary's Colleges, followed by a theater party at the Ambassador Theatre.

This morning at 9:30 the general meeting will begin at the hotel, and at this time the business of the association will be discussed and a luncheon appointed. At 10:30 Governor Hoey will deliver an address of welcome to the delegates. Following this, the visitors will be the guests of the college at lunch in the college YMCA, at which time they will hear an address by E. L. Cloyd, Dean of Students at State College.

Radio station WRAL has made plans to broadcast a number of short programs concerning the convention today and tomorrow. This afternoon the group discussion meetings will be held, each group under the leadership of distinguished men in the field of work which the students represent.

Discussion leaders are C. A. Upchurch, Jr., Newspaper Editors; Harrie Keck, Annual Editors; E. E. Folk, Magazine Editors; and John Park, Sr., Business Managers.

Banquet Tonight the delegates will be entertained at a banquet in the dining room of the Sir Walter, at which time the banquet, Editor of the "State" Magazine, will address the assembly. Sherwood Station of Wake Forest, president of the association, will preside. Following the banquet, a dance.

Senior Committee Considers Gifts

Reports and Recommendations to be Made at Regular Class Meeting Tuesday

The senior gift committee will present its first report at the class meeting next Tuesday on its recommendations for the annual gift given to the college by members of the senior class.

Each year the class presents some worthwhile gift to the college at their graduation. For the past few years the gifts have consisted of the Memorial Tower, the most outstanding of which are the clock, given by the class of 1928, and the floodlights, presented by last year's seniors.

The committee members have urged all students who have suggestions for the gift to contact one of the members of the committee immediately.

Several gifts have already been proposed to the committee, and they will report on these suggestions at the meeting Tuesday. The senior gift committee is composed of Jim Mitchell, chairman; the Vann, Fred Webb, John Mauney, and Ross Sigmon.

No Classes . . .

Colonel J. W. Harnelson, dean of administration, announced yesterday that tomorrow, November 4, in accordance with the Greater University Day plan, no classes will be held at 10 noon. This action resulted at a meeting of the Faculty Council.

Entered as second-class matter, February 10, 1920, at the post office at Raleigh, North Carolina, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Welcome, Pressmen!

State College is indeed happy to be one of the hosts to the delegates attending the annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association, and we feel privileged that this group should hold their meeting in Raleigh again.

Our main desire is for you to enjoy your stay here, and we will try in every way to keep you entertained from Thursday afternoon until noon Saturday. State College, in conjunction with St. Mary's and Peace, has arranged many interesting programs, which we hope will prove to be both educational and entertaining.

In our opinion those in charge of the convention have secured some of the finest workers in their field to address both the group meeting and the individual sessions. We hope that this convention will provide you with new ideas and schemes, and that you will be able to take something of educational interest back to your campus when you go.

While you are in Raleigh, we take this opportunity of extending to you the invitation to make the State College campus yours, and we welcome you at all times. May you thoroughly enjoy this convention of the NCCPA, and we sincerely hope that your stay will be a pleasant one.

At Carolina...

Tomorrow State College, the Woman's College, and the University of North Carolina will again join hands for the second annual Greater University Day, an affair which will be begun last year by Dick McKenzie and a group of State College students.

Also on the morrow State College and Carolina will meet in another respect, not totally different except for the fact that this annual meeting has been going on for some thirty-five years. The traditional State-College football game will be the main feature of the Greater University Day—a day also when Carolina will hold her annual Homecoming.

Undoubtedly, big plans are under way and being enacted at the "Hill" for a large celebration tomorrow—a day which is being looked forward to by students and alumni of all three units of the Greater University.

Our part in the festivities of Greater University Day are just as great as those of our brother and sister institutions, and we should do all in our power to see that he second annual Greater University Day is a huge success. We know that our football team, although rated as underdogs, will be out there giving everything they have. We should be right up there in the stands giving them all of the support we know how to give, and sticking by them no matter what happens.

Each of you have a responsibility in this matter. It's about time that you shouldered some of it.

It's Our Opportunity...

A week from tomorrow the first High School Day in the history of State College will attract an expected five or six thousand high school seniors, who will be on the campus looking the school over as a prospective place to continue their education.

The impression we make that day will undoubtedly exert a great influence on a large number of our high school visitors who are undecided whether or not to enroll at State College next fall. A visitor forms an opinion of the college from the first impressions he receives when he visits the campus, and such an opinion, once formed, is hard to change.

With the cooperation of every student, we can make the high school students' visit with us a pleasant one, and send them away with a proud feeling that State is their future alma mater.

Any visitor to a college campus will tell you that the student body spirit is the first thing noticeable, and that it is one of the best indications as to the general "wholesomeness" of the student life there. The high school seniors are to be our guests at the State-Duquesne game in Riddick Stadium that afternoon.

It's our opportunity to really show them that the old State College spirit is unsurpassed by that at any other college in the country. College spirit is as catching as the infectious laugh of a pretty girl.

When our visitors walk out of Riddick Stadium after the game, no matter how the Pack fared with the Dukes, they will have instilled into them a portion of the "State College—Win or Lose" spirit.—B. C. H.

An Editorial

We, as a group of students at State College, would like to pass along these few thoughts that are foremost in our minds. First of all, let us assure you that we are fully aware of the team's record so far this season; but more important to us is the ever increasing spirit that our State College teams of the past years have strived for. Now, this spirit is coming forth. We feel that the presence of Doc Newton, Coach Hickman, Bob Warren, and the other members of our coaching staffs on our campus and on our athletic fields are greatly responsible for such a spirit. Then, too, with such a group of fellows, representative of the student body rather than a separated bunch, as compose our present Wolfpack squad, the spirit has been boosted to greater heights than ever before. This year, the boys have fought from beginning to end, and together. "This true we have suffered defeats, but we are building up something much greater than any one game or any dozen games, a winning spirit, a spirit of cooperation, of fellowship, and of sportsmanship.

We know that the friends of State want a winning ball club, but before we can have a club that can go through a season undefeated it must have the support of all. This is not true of our present ball club because out of the large number of our alumni, there are only a few who are active. Now, if you want a team, you can have one if you will only help a little instead of just rendering criticism of the ones who are trying.

Now the students and the school have a fine spirit started at State. Someone who claims to be a friend of the college wrote an editorial. His editorial wanted to do away with the present coaching staff and players who have helped build up what we have strived for so hard. They only think of a football team that wins games no matter how or what type of player that the team is made up of. We think that the fellow who wrote that editorial had just heard one side of the story. Remember, we are for State College, win or lose, and it is our earnest belief and desire that we will come out on top in the near future.

BLUE KEY,
GOLDEN CHAIN.

Student Council

Speaks...

By T. C. LEAKE

The Student Council, with the cooperation of both faculty and students, is attempting to establish a "sense of honor" here at State College. This column is devoted to the council each week for the purpose of relating the operations of the council to the students. Honor has been the main topic in each of these articles so far.

This is such an important topic that it cannot be stressed too fully. We are all aware of the conditions prevalent on the campus, and yet there seems to be no direct method by which to approach the problem. Last week the council sent letters to every faculty member on the campus, asking their aid in improving these conditions. They were asked to study various types of examinations to see whether or not they are conducive to cheating.

Such a study may help, but the ultimate results depend on each individual student. Webster's definition of the word cheating is "to deceive." Who are you deceiving, anyway? Certainly no one but yourself.

Recently there has been much comment concerning the State College football team. Some criticize the team and others criticize the coaches. Instead of letting them down now, we should continue to back the boys and the coaches, and prove this by showing up by the hundreds at the "Hill" Saturday. See you at Carolina Saturday!

LOOKING 'ROUND...

By "COBRA"

Hallowe'en called for the usual rounds of fun-making this year and ended up with few of the boys the worse for wear. Only one student, so far as we were able to determine, was clapped in the clink for becoming over-pugnacious. . . . The cafeteria girls were down there en masse that night—all escorted by State boys trying to get an extra lamb chop when the right time came along. That blonde really could dance and kept going till the music stopped. . . . The midnight show at the Ambassador was liberally patronized by the boys and proved a sitting wind-up for a rather hectic evening. . . . Speaking of the show, we'd like to remind you that its NOT Artie Rooney who plays in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever," but just some ham imitator, Mickey Roemer. Art, as you've probably heard, only stars in "A" pictures. . . . Those Winthrop girls down here last Sunday were a rather pretty bunch and Howie, Herrichson, Webb and the rest of the "W" men seemed to take their escort jobs too seriously. It smelled more like pleasure than work. . . . Ray Marks, one of the fresh frosh, checked his flunks last week and found that the only subject he passed was his B.I. lab. . . . Frankie Sabol and Ted Johnson made their dates for the coming Scabbard and Blade dance far in advance. They went to W. C. two weeks ago to pick 'em out so that the gals wouldn't have the crust to turn them down. . . . Complaints have come in from all quarters to the effect that Ed Towery has been annoying patrons of the State with his loud blasting. Ed hisses all through the show and makes people think he hates movies—those in the know say he has asthma. . . . Gene McGarrity embarrassed his friends last week when he tried to kiss one of the chaperones out at St. Mary's. He threw the place into an uproar—but after it was all over, he still insisted that it was worth it. . . .

Announcements...

All students desiring a copy of the "Alumni News" please call at the Alumni office in Holladay Hall.

There will be an important meeting of the AHEE Tuesday night at 8:45. The program includes short talks by Professor William Hand Browne and students and the initiation assignments for new members. All electrical engineering students are eligible for membership.

There will be an important meeting of the business staff of the Southern Engineer Tuesday night at 8:30. All staff members are urged to attend.—Tom Blount, Business Manager.

There will be a senior gift committee meeting on Monday night at 8:15 in the YMCA for a report on prospective gifts.—Jim Mitchell, Chairman.

There will be a meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Management Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in Room 223, Civil Engineering Building.

There will be a regular meeting of the A. I. C. E. Tuesday night, November 7, at 7 o'clock, in Room 113, Winston Hall. Freshmen in chemical engineering are invited to attend.

There are openings for saxophones, trumpets, trombones, pianists and a bass fiddle in a new college dance band. No experience is necessary, though helpful. All students interested should see Harry Sautersfeld, FKA house; Will U. Howorwitz, 209 O. Dorm; or Robert Pomerantz, 206 Seventh Dorm, or come to Fulton Hall Monday between 5 and 6 p.m.

The ASAE will meet Wednesday, November 8, at 7:30 p.m. in room 4, Patterson Hall. Professor Barlett will give an illustrated talk on photography. All agricultural engineering students are urged to attend.

Twelve special students have been selected to take every course offered at Oglethorpe University. It'll take each one six years to complete the task.

Following a recent investigation of the Student Supply Store by a Student Council committee, it was found that contrary to popular opinion the store is not doing an excessive profit on any of the merchandise or books which it carries.

Due to the small number of votes which have been cast in the contest to determine the most popular professor at State College, the balloting will be held over another week.

A scrapping State College Wolfpack started a good offensive drive against the Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina in the first half of the scoreless 0-0 tie in a game played between the football teams of the two colleges at Chapel Hill on last Saturday afternoon.

Artie Shaw says he is fed up with the music racket. Shaw's sickness last spring was due to over-working and too little sleep. Now that his hand is rated as one of the best, he is about ready to give up the old baton and take a little rest. Shaw says that one reason bands shoot up like rockets and then plunk down again is that when a band is in demand so much they do not have time to work out new arrangements and practice new hits. Artie has been under fire for the last month because he refuses to give autographs to the hounds. His answer to this is very simple: "I am a clarinet player who leads a band." It is not hard to understand what causes a fellow to act that way. A man is liked by the music he produces—at least this is what puts his name in the bright lights—but after he becomes famous people look at him and gawk, want his name signed to show to their friends, etc. . . . Gene Krupa has a good answer for the autograph hounds. He just hands them a picture of himself sitting behind his famous drums, with his name signed somewhere. Perhaps he signs them in spare time, or has his name printed in scrip, but they have the same effect on people. . . . British five men took no time in laying down their horns and picking up the thunder-stick to help their nation in wartime. Very few of them will go to the front, as most of them are being used at home in public relations department. One of the best known British cats must have smelled a rat, because about a week before war was declared he came to the University of Wisconsin to teach philosophy. The Wisconsin students thought Professor Taylor is one of the best tenor sax men to appear on their campus. He is one, or perhaps the only, man in the United States who can boast of having Ph.D. and a top as a first-class swing musician. . . . The latest howl in the realm of swing is about the so-called "Gal Yippers," or what has become known as torch singing. Many hand leaders care little for the female chippers and do not mind who knows it. Among them are such names as Guy Lombardo, Glenn Gray, Wayne King, Will Osborne, and Bunny Berigan. Berigan sums it up by saying: "No, sir. You can take all your female yowers these days and feed them to the Hittite, one by one. I guess this kind of music just wasn't made to be sung anyway by a gal." . . . Jess Stacy is holding down the piano with the Crosby band since Joe Sullivan left.

It is not hard to understand what causes a fellow to act that way. A man is liked by the music he produces—at least this is what puts his name in the bright lights—but after he becomes famous people look at him and gawk, want his name signed to show to their friends, etc. . . . Gene Krupa has a good answer for the autograph hounds. He just hands them a picture of himself sitting behind his famous drums, with his name signed somewhere. Perhaps he signs them in spare time, or has his name printed in scrip, but they have the same effect on people. . . . British five men took no time in laying down their horns and picking up the thunder-stick to help their nation in wartime. Very few of them will go to the front, as most of them are being used at home in public relations department. One of the best known British cats must have smelled a rat, because about a week before war was declared he came to the University of Wisconsin to teach philosophy. The Wisconsin students thought Professor Taylor is one of the best tenor sax men to appear on their campus. He is one, or perhaps the only, man in the United States who can boast of having Ph.D. and a top as a first-class swing musician. . . . The latest howl in the realm of swing is about the so-called "Gal Yippers," or what has become known as torch singing. Many hand leaders care little for the female chippers and do not mind who knows it. Among them are such names as Guy Lombardo, Glenn Gray, Wayne King, Will Osborne, and Bunny Berigan. Berigan sums it up by saying: "No, sir. You can take all your female yowers these days and feed them to the Hittite, one by one. I guess this kind of music just wasn't made to be sung anyway by a gal." . . . Jess Stacy is holding down the piano with the Crosby band since Joe Sullivan left.

GLEANINGS

by THE STAFF

Convention week-end . . . and carefree North Carolina student pressmen through the Sir Walter as one of the best conventions in the history of the association gets under way. . . . Walking up the steps leading to the lobby, the delegates first catch a glimpse of Steve Sailer, seated at a typewriter, genially chatting with other registering delegates. . . . as the executive secretary of the association, Steve has done a grand job of masterminding the preparations for the gathering. . . . but without the ever-present "filthy lucre" the convention could not exist. . . . and Josey Pharr, Agronomist editor and treasurer of the association, is there with Steve as the tax collector. . . . genial Sherwood Staton shaking hands with the delegates and welcoming them.

And if being excused from classes for the rest of the week-end and attending the press convention weren't enough to make a man happy, a letter from that girl back home arrived today. . . . and now I am really floating on air. . . . and to top a gay week-end off. . . . State plays a highly favored Tar Heel eleven at the Hill tomorrow as the feature of Greater University Day. . . . A number of State's commissioned officers, will present a sabre drill between the halves of the gridiron classic.

Just around the proverbial corner are the Pledge Dances. . . . Van Alexander and his top-notch band should give all the dancing contingent a swell time. . . . Van is definitely on the up-swing.

Out comes the little black book and the choky tips you students thought were deep, dark secrets are now the property of every gossip-monger. . . . Bob White and his latest heart-throb bumming back to college from the Capitol one night last week. . . . with her help, he didn't have much trouble catching a ride in a new Buick. . . . Troy Williams is very much interested in the City Hall. . . . couldn't be the documents down there, could it, Troy?

Ralston Pound and Bob Stucky came back the other night with the tale that a St. Mary's "belle" had slipped out to give them a bag of peanuts. . . . what powerhouse! . . . Bob Byrd is God's gift to women up at W. C. . . . eating with the girls up there, he was the object of numerous dreamy stares. . . . Conway Twitty seems to have a heart attraction up in Staunton, Virginia. . . . every week-end to Conway means a bumming trip to the heart of the old Dominion.

Jim Burnham, Sig Ep flash, has been courting a cute little blonde who has been visiting in Raleigh since the first of school. . . . what about Nancy, Stump? . . . Babe Rollins has been inquiring about freight train schedules to California. . . . could it have been as a result of that momentous telegram from a South Carolina girl, Babe? . . . Gregg Gibbs called up his girl the other night, but after a conversation of only a few minutes, he heard a click and the phone was dead. . . . was it the girl or the other fellow, Gregg?

Boner of the week. . . . This enviable distinction goes to Sam Turner, who popped off in a power plant class, "Doesn't a psychometric chart have something to do with a hospital, Professor?" . . . Paul Lehman is glorying in his newly acquired title of "Powerhouse" . . . and to carry on an old feud. . . . Walter Lee says Dot is his girl.

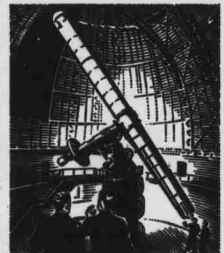

Earl Stewart of football fame is visiting quite frequently at Meredith these days. . . . Bill Aldridge was a little under the weather the other night. . . . when asked the trouble, he coyly remarked that his heart was breaking for his Birmingham girl. . . . an old flame never dies. . . . Ask the Sig Eps about that telegram they received signed Bill and Jean Aldridge.

"Schoolboy" Rowe is still as much as ever under the spell of Cupid's darts. . . . his every other thought is given to planning for the week-end of the Pledge dances when next he sees the one and only. . . . Ask Angus Ray how he managed to date two Fayetteville girls in one night recently.

The stories are written, the heads are written, Gleanings is written. . . . Convention, here I come! . . . BRUCE HALSTED.

RIGHT OR WRONG?

A 2-minute test for telephone users

1. Bell Telephone engineers are making exhaustive studies of solar data from observatories all over the world.

RIGHT WRONG

RIGHT WRONG

3. Twenty years ago, putting through a long distance connection took about three times as long as it does today.

RIGHT WRONG

4. Lowest telephone rates to most out-of-town points are available every night after 7 P.M. and all day Sunday.

RIGHT WRONG

ANSWERS

- Right. They're learning how and why sun spots affect radio transmission. In constant use, these batteries are used to charge batteries.
- Wrong. Broadcasting stations are linked by more than 60,000 miles of special circuits, developed to transmit the extremely high and low frequencies of music.
- Wrong. Since 1919 the average time for making a long distance connection has been cut down from 10 minutes to 1.4 minutes.
- Right. Why not telephone your family or distant friends often?

Carolina Favored Over Wolfpack; Game At Hill

University's Unde-feated Team Rated Heavy Favorites Over State; Lalanne and Stirweiss Carolina's Stars.

By SAM McDONALD Just a hop and a skip and holler from here over a couple of hills rests one of the nation's outstanding football teams...

There is a meeting on the date book between Wolves and Tar Heels on Saturday afternoon at around 2 o'clock...

Emphasis on Jim Very few of the great crowd of people that will witness the game at Chapel Hill will have eyes for State and its team.

Where you ask, will State's entry in tomorrow's game be all this time Lalanne is playing basketball on the gridiron...

State'll Be There State will be out of the game unless, as we hope, the Wolfpack shows a decided reversal of form...

There is a peculiar jinx associated with every athletic meeting between State and Carolina. The jinx, for some reason, favors Carolina at every turn.

Listen, Carolina! Listen Carolina if you want to hear The story of some brave engineers...

Mighty Duquesne Makes Appearance Here Next Week

Conquerors of Pittsburgh Play State in Feature Game of Big Five Competition.

Coach Aldo T. (Burr) Donelli, who brings his Duquesne University football team here November 11 to meet State, is football's new miracle man, according to Eddie Beachler, of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Press.

"His first year as head coach, with a team that started from scratch, shows four straight victories and a team riding higher than any in Duquesne history."

"Well, the Dukes did it again! They up and rocked the football world with another harum-scarum verdict that will foreshadow making this the most top-turvy season in 70 years of intercollegiate grid madness."

State officials appeared mighty well pleased with the triumph, for they had scheduled Duquesne last winter because Clipper Smith, former State coach, was the football mentor then. But Smith resigned early in the spring, leaving a sort of hollow feeling about the game.

But with the brilliant Donelli triumph, business immediately began to pick up and now State is planning to take care of a huge crowd here Armistice Day.

This is the second time in as many years that Smoky City conquerors of Pittsburgh will appear in Raleigh. Last year Carnegie Tech, 20-10 conqueror of Pitt, played State here Thanksgiving day, winning a hard-fought 14-0 game that clinched the Orange Bowl bid for the Skibos.

Frosh Swimmers Splash In Pool

Twenty-six First Year Men Answer Coach Lefort's Call for Candidates; Five Meets Scheduled.

Twenty-six freshmen were present at the first meeting of the freshman swimming team last week, when Coach Romeo Lefort resumed again his duties as mentor of the team.

Since then the team has been practicing daily. Looking particularly good under pressure during the last few practices are Charles L. Kelly and Eugene Sigoreto in diving and free style; Conrad B. Wessell and K. G. Althaus, Jr., in the backstroke; Walter Lowensberg and John Parks in the breaststroke; and James P. Chamblie, William B. Meredith, Leighton M. Elliot, George R. Fuller and Alan R. Partridge in the free-style.

A five-meet schedule has been arranged which opens against the mid-Atlantic swimming title holders, Goldsboro High School, and continues through Oak Ridge Prep School, Carolina Frosh, Raleigh High School, and Norfolk Division of William and Mary.

The last three meets will be held in our own pool in the Frank Thompson gymnasium.

State officials appeared mighty well pleased with the triumph, for they had scheduled Duquesne last winter because Clipper Smith, former State coach, was the foot-

Dance To Climax University Day

Dean Hudson Chosen To Play for Grail Dance Tomorrow Night at Chapel Hill

Dean Hudson and his orchestra, who have played as featured artists over Station WOR and the Mutual Broadcasting System, will play for the Grail dance at Chapel Hill, Saturday night, November 4, following the State-Carolina football game.

The dance will be the concluding event of Greater University Day at Carolina. State and Women's College students will be special guests. Script for the dance, which is informal, will be one dollar at the door.

The orchestra has received favorable comments from national music magazines such as The Billboard and Metronome. At a recent engagement at the Carolina theatre in Columbia, S. C., the orchestra was praised highly and "had the audience with them from start to finish."

ASME President To Speak Here

Dr. Roy V. Wright, managing editor of Railway Age and past president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, has accepted the invitation to be guest speaker during Engineers' Week and the Engineers' Institute at State College, January 24-27.

Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the school of engineering, in announcing Dr. Wright's acceptance, said "Transportation" will be the theme of the institute. Some of the foremost transportation leaders of the nation will appear on the program, he stated. Engineers throughout the State are expected to attend in large numbers.

Professors Join Chemical Faculty

T. C. Doody and W. A. Bain Are Added to Chemical Engineering Staff at Opening of Term

Two new members have been added to the staff of the Chemical Engineering Department this year. Both are thoroughly trained and experienced chemical engineers.

Professor W. A. Bain, a high honor graduate of N. C. State College, has been appointed assistant professor in chemical engineering. After his graduation at State College he received a graduate fellowship appointment at the University of Wisconsin. During the year he was promoted to an instructorship on the chemical engineering staff of the university. Since that time he has been on the permanent staff of that institution. In the meantime, he has completed the work for his master's degree and the preliminary work for his doctor's degree. He is a member of Tau Beta Pi, Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Xi, American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the American Society for Metals.

Dr. Thomas C. Doody has received the B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees in chemical engineering at the University of California. For three years he was research chemist with the Barium Products Company in California. He then worked on a termite investigation, a research project directed by the chemical engineering department of the University of California, investigating a termite problem on the Pacific Coast. This involved insecticide, toxicology, fumigation and wood preservation. He has also had experience with the Paraflex Company, Inc., manufacturers of paint and roofing and wood preserving specialties. After this practical experience he became connected with the Polytechnic College of Engineering in Oakland, Calif., in their chemical engineering department.

The Chemical Engineering Department feels fortunate in being able to induce these two men to leave their work at these institutions to become connected with State College. Dr. Doody is a member of Sigma Xi and other professional societies.

State Men Cast In Local Play

In the Raleigh Little Theatre's first fall production, prominent parts are filled by a number of State students and alumni. James Thiem, Jr., and Paul Obit, members of the former college dramatic organization, The Red Masquers, during 1935-36, continue their theatrical activities in the scheduled mystery-comedy, "The Last Warning." Paul Hoover, another former student, has an important role, and "Chick" Doak, Jr., Horace Rawls, and Fred Crossen, Jr., members of the present student body, are rehearsing minor parts.

The plot, which concerns the theatrical people in a haunted theatre, is filled with mystery action, relieved by moments of high comedy.

The play is to be presented at Needham Broughton High School, Wednesday, November 3, at 8:30 p.m. Student tickets are thirty-five cents.

Firm Seeks Work Of Art Students

A chance for amateur college artists has been offered recently by the W. Worthington Wells newspaper syndicate of Leonia, N. J., who have offered to purchase cartoon panels drawn by the students. In explaining the offer, Wells said that the primary purpose of securing the material direct from the student is to encourage this form of art, and to familiarize the student with this lucrative field. The syndicate is paying five dollars for all cartoons accepted, and they urge all students who have an artistic hand to send in their work. Students interested in art drawing should communicate with W. Worthington Wells, Leonia, N. J.

Record Number of Pressmen Register at Fall Convention

(Continued from page 1) will be held in the Sir Walter ballroom for the delegates. The convention will be brought to a close Saturday morning after a general meeting of all delegates and adjournment. This convention is the first of the two held each year by the NCCPA at the various colleges in North Carolina. Hosts for the spring convention have not been decided upon as yet.

Doc Sermon Ends Coaching Career

Track and Basketball Coach to Retire After This Season to Devote Himself to Private Practice

Another one of State College's ace coaches will ring down the curtain on his coaching career this year. With the close of the 1939-40 basketball season Coach R. R. "Doc" Sermon will wind up his 15th season as a member of the Wolfpack coaching staff.

During these 15 years Coach Sermon has served as mentor for the State track, football and basketball teams at various times. Many successful teams have been turned out under his able tutelage; several winning Southern Conference honors.

Coach Doc began his college career at Central State Teachers College at Warrensburg, Mo. Here he became one of the greatest athletes in the school's history. In rambling through his scrapbook we found that our Doc was one of the few four-letter men that have ever performed in the Missouri Valley. In football, at Central State, he was chosen on the all-Missouri Valley team for two seasons—1911 and '12—being captain in his senior year.

In basketball, Coach Sermon captained his Alma Mater during his senior year, and was chosen all-state forward. While at Central State Coach Sermon also made quite a record for himself as a baseball and track man. He had the distinct honor of being chosen as captain in all of the major sports during his last year at school.

Coach Sermon came to State as a college athlete Coach Sermon returned to his Alma Mater to serve as coach for a season. In 1914 he moved over to Wentworth Military Academy to act as athletic director and coach.

In 1917 Coach Doc relinquished his coaching duties to enroll at Springfield (Mass.) Y.M.C.A. College. Here, before getting his degree in physical education, he again majored in four sports, winning a letter in each one. In 1918 he returned to the coaching wars, being head mentor at Central College at Fayette, Mo.

Joined State in '25 Coach Sermon came to State in the fall of '25 from the Kirksville, Mo., School of Osteopathy. During his first years here he served as track and backfield coach. From 1925 to '31 his track proteges lost only six meets, some of the boys establishing records that still stand. In 1929 Coach Doc took over the Red Terror basketball aspirants and many good teams have been produced, several trying for the conference title.

Prominent Member of Staff Proves Eligibility for Mentor of Dix Hill Paper Doll Squad

Three o'clock in the morning. The mist hangs heavy over the streets in the darkness before dawn. (Don't get excited, Bruce, that was no tidal wave, just the nightly shower from the Raleigh Street Cleaning Department. Wonder why those birds always pass when we are walking down the street.) Only two more pages to go and we can go home to our studies. (Yes, that is what we said, studies. What are they, Bruce? I don't know, but it is rumored that those not engaged in newspaper work sometimes work at studies.) Guess we will have to write a box to fill that hole. Somebody I want to put in a "this space for rent" sign. I wonder what the price of eggs is in New York. I'll bid four spades. Say, what's the idea of bidding three on a king and jack and then raising me on the two and three. Conventions, meetings, and paper dolls. Where did you say Dix Hill is located?

Spots, spots, millions and millions of spots before my eyes like a leopard convention. Three milk slips. Carolina, here we come, right back where we should have gone. (Pause for three minutes and a half.) Guess we can go home now.

Three sinister figures creep silently from the alley beside the printing company, broken and depressed in mind and body. No, not the printing company, US. If a pin should drop it would sound like a railroad whistle. The silence is oppressive, a live, intangible thing that hovers like the ghostly mist about our heads. It seems to creep inside us and intensify the pounding of our hearts a thousand times. Oh, why, why must we suffer this terrible thing? Speak! Speak! voices inside us seem to say, but we can not. Our voices are stilled by this terrible thing that surrounds us. Suddenly out of the night comes a weird sound. It rises to a screaming, awful crescendo, we dodge behind a lamp post in terrible fear as the taxi halts before us. Trembling with fear we enter and clutch each other tightly as the two miles of narrow escapes and corner screaming begins. A truck comes directly in our path, and we lapse into merciful unconsciousness. After a time we open our eyes as the lurching vehicle comes to a spine-cracking stop. Can it be? Yes, we are at home! And so, boys and girls, another issue of "The Technician" has been folded gently and placed out of the way. Listen in again at this same time next week for another installment of our thrilling serial and learn how Spud, Bruce, and Henry go to press in spite of time, tide, and lack of copy.

Engineers To Hold Joint Convention

Mechanical and Heat and Ventilation Specialists Will Meet at Charlotte Tonight

The fall meeting of the North Carolina chapter of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be held in the Charlotte Hotel in Charlotte, Friday night, November 3.

Prof. R. E. Rice, of State College, president of the chapter, will preside. He announced the program today.

City Manager J. G. Marshall of Charlotte will welcome the engineers to the dinner session, which will begin at 7 p.m., and the response will be made by Prof. L. L. Faughn, head of the department of mechanical engineering at State College.

Professor Rice will introduce the principal speaker, Prof. F. E. Giesecke, director of the engineering experiment station at Texas A. & M. College, who will discuss "Radiant Heating and Cooling for Buildings." Professor Giesecke is vice president of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

Ag Engineers Take New Men

The State College student branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers took in five new members at their meeting October 28, after the candidates had undergone a period of initiation.

The addition of the new members brings the total membership of the society to twenty-five. The new men added are: Leon D. Hunning, Jr., Bruce E. Carawan, Shuford M. Wall, Oliver F. Watson, and Oswald Southerland.

Dash-Dot-Dash

The Radio Club, station W4ATC, has made new strides this year. New equipment, enlarged membership, renewed interest and activity have all contributed to a most promising year.

Membership is open to all who are interested in amateur radio. Regular club meetings are held each Friday night at 6:45 in room 4 in the electrical engineering building. Anyone interested in learning the code is invited to attend the code practice each evening from 6:45 until 7:15 p.m. Many have taken advantage of this group and wonderful progress has been made.

Each member of the club welcomes you and invites you to these meetings.

Gas Institute Will Open Soon

The third annual Institute for Gas Plant Operators will be held at State College, November 16-17. Director Edward W. Ruggles of the College Extension Division, announces today.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., November 16, in Room #23, Winston Hall, and the formal program will start at 10 o'clock with welcoming addresses by Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration; Dr. E. E. Randolph, head of the chemical engineering department; and Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the School of Engineering.

The first annual banquet of the Mid-Southeastern Gas Association will be held Friday night, November 17. Officers will be elected as the association completes its organization.

Faculty Frolic Monday Night

The annual Fall Faculty Frolic, which originated two years ago when the faculty decided to have a gathering early in each school year, will be held Monday night in the gym.

The theme of the frolic this year is visiting day in the old district school. On this day all parents attend a school performance to hear recitations and witness the public display of the attainments of their children.

Following this program, which is under the direction of Mrs. J. F. Miller, chairman of the Faculty Frolic Committee, old familiar games will be played. Student representatives of the various campus organizations will be the guests of the faculty at the event.
