State College Unit to Participate in Downtown Parade; Ceremony to be Held on Campus

State College will observe Armistice Day tomorrow morning with exercises at the World War Memorial Tower starting at 11:45 o'clock.

Commissioner of Labor Forrest Shuford will be the speaker.

Major Kenneth G. Althaus, executive officer of the military department, said yesterday classes for the day will be suspended at 9 a. m. to permit the ROTC regiment, band and drum and bugle corps to participate in the Armistice Day parade downtown.

The regiment is scheduled to return to the campus and assemble on the west side of Memorial Tower at 11:45 o'clock. Cadet Colonel William H. Retter will call the regiment to attention and the band will play the national anthem.

Commissioner Shuford will be presented by Col. J. W. Harrelson, dean of administration. Following the address, a wreath will be placed at the base of the tower and "Taps" will be sounded.

The invocation and benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. Clarence E. Norman, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church.

Should the weather be inclement, Major Althaus said, classes will not be suspended until 11 o'clock and the Armistice services will be held in Pullen Hall.

Board To Examine Those Who Desire To Join Air Corps

Army Examiners to Arrive Here in Bomber; to Test Students of Four Institutions

Examination of applicants for appointment to the Army Air Corps will begin at State College on Monday, November 13, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Norris Perry, advance publicity agent for the 4th Corps Area.

The examining board will arrive in Raleigh either Sunday or early Monday in one of the Army's new bombers, the B-18, which will begin their examinations Monday in the State College infirmary.

Students from Wake Forest College, Duke University and the University in Chapel Hill are expected to come here for their examinations, Perry states, and he predicted that the examining board would be rather busy during their stay here.

The board plans to remain in Raleigh until the last of the week, and will not leave until Saturday if there is need for them to remain, Perry added.

Major Caleb V. Haynes, who will arrive on the enormous Army bomber, will be interviewed over radio station WFTS some time Friday afternoon, depending upon the arrival of the huge airship at the Raleigh airport.

The Army Air Corps is taking approximately 396 applicants every six weeks, Lieut. Perry stated, and out of this number around 250 go on to Randolph Field to continue their work and training. Training for the Air Corps is now being conducted at nine civilian flying schools, and there are 500 flying cadets at Randolph constantly.

The period of training at Randolph Field is 12 weeks, which is followed by a three-months course at Kelly Field.

The examining board is expecting a large number of State College applicants, and will begin their examinations in the College infirmary early Monday.

Students interested in further details on the applications for the Air Corps should consult with members of the local Military Department.

Annual Frolics Held By Faculty

The annual fall frolic of the State College Woman's Club was held last Monday evening in the college gymnasium with faculty members and representatives of the various student organizations on the campus as special guests.

Seniors Discuss Gift For College At Class Meeting

Several Proposals Before Group; Committee to Make Report to Class in Near Future

Three proposed gifts to the college, standards for the tower lights, a bronze door for the tower, and name plates for campus buildings, are under the consideration of members of the gift committee, who are investigating the gifts as to cost and plausibility.

Each member of the committee has been assigned to one gift for his investigation, and reports will be submitted to Jim Mitchell, who is committee chairman. Other members are Ike Yenn, Fred Webb, John Mauney and Ross Sigmon.

Before any gift pertaining to the tower can be given to the college it must meet the approval and specifications of the New York architect who originally designed the tower.

Each year the class presents some worthwhile gift to the college at their graduation. For the past few years the gifts have centered around the Memorial Tower, the most outstanding of which are the clock, given by the class of 1938, and the floodlights, presented by last year's seniors.

Carolina Plays Host to Greater University Delegation; Half-Time Program Features Observance

For the second time in the same number of years representatives of the three units of the Greater University of North Carolina met in Chapel Hill last Saturday to observe Greater University Day.

Feature of the day's celebration was the annual State-Carolina football classic, and the bands of the three units. State College's crack senior ROTC squad also presented a sabre drill before the game and during the half.

A special half-time program featured representatives of the three institutions, plus the administrative heads of all three units. On the program were Gov. Clyde R. Hoey, Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the Greater University; Administrator D. S. a n J. W. Harrelson of State College, R. B. House of Carolina, and W. C. Jackson of the Woman's College; and Student Body Presidents Jim Davis of Carolina, Ernest Durham of State, and Ruth Gilmore of the Woman's College.

Greater University Day was originated last year largely through the efforts of Dick McKenzie, former State student, and was held in Raleigh during the State-Carolina game of that year. It is predicted that the affair will become an annual event.

Representatives of the three institutions were special guests of the Order of the Grail at a dance Saturday night, which was preceded by a banquet at the Carolina Inn.

PLANS COMPLETE

College Sponsors Entertainment for High School Guests; to See State-Duquesne Game

Approximately 6,000 North Carolina high school seniors will converge on the campus tomorrow as the guests of the college at the first annual observance of High School Day, sponsored by the senior class and the Golden Chain, senior honorary society.

Student Council

Speaks...

By FRANK TRUSLOW

In our discussion of student honor the emphasis thus far has been on morals. This is certainly an important element and is undoubtedly of vital importance to everyone. Surely this can not be stressed too much.

There is, however, another factor that should be considered; that is, does a student gain from cheating? Without thought, the answer might seem to be yes. It is true the student who is dishonest will possibly make a higher grade than he would otherwise, and yet, this is actually a loss to him. Every time a person cheats on a test or exam, he is defeating the purpose for which he should be in school. Five years from now, or even one year, no one will care whether a student made an A on a course or a D. What will be of importance, however, is what was learned on the course. For as a degree has little value unless supported by the knowledge for which it stands. This knowledge is gained only by being fair with ourselves and avoiding all forms of dishonesty. Let's be practical, students, and decide irrevocably that "honesty is the best policy."

Saturday we are to be the host to thousands of high school seniors. This is an excellent chance for showing that State College's reputation of being a friendly school is not an idle statement, but an actual fact. Show these students an enjoyable time and many of them will be our classmates next year.

Since the Student Council is your choice of self-government, won't you help us make this truly representative of student opinion? This can be done by giving us your opinions of changes we have already made and by letting us know of any ideas or suggestions you may have for future improvements. It is our sincere desire to be of benefit to you, so we are hoping to hear from you.

OPEN FORUM

DEAR EDITOR:

Tomorrow the students of State College will put on one of their greatest selling campaigns for their school and themselves. We want to sell State College and the type of men it produces to every one of those four or five thousand high school seniors from all over the State. What we show these seniors and how we help them to enjoy their visit with us will leave a lasting impression with them of what State College is. Many of them will decide tomorrow if they care to select our college in which to pursue higher education by the impression that you and me while they are our guests.

A small courtesy extended to a single high school senior tomorrow may mean a very valuable future student to our campus. From the most lowly freshman to the most dignified senior (they just don't know any better) every one will be a host tomorrow.

—CHARLES A. HUNTER.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Since the last issue of The Technician made its appearance I have received some rather dogmatic criticism by my reference to our kin over at Chapel Hill. Sir, I have no retraction.

But, instead, I would like to criticize those gentlemen who objected to my writings. I wish I knew how much they have done to get something in the way of a new auditorium for State College. Mr. Editor, do you suppose that there may be some of those fellows here who do not have the interest of the school at heart? Well, maybe they will see their mistake some day.

I'll not bore you longer with these unalighted, unmeaningful gestures that our schoolmates have attempted to make and then sign off.

As a parting shot, let's remember when we go home this week-end to call on some of our influential citizens who may have a little ability in persuading a legislative representative to our cause. And, too, remember that sitting in the moonlight with a pretty member of the weaker sex (?) won't help get a new auditorium.

pected to make even more rigid the requirements of the school concerning scholarship.

Defeated only by Duke's yearling, State College's freshman football team ended its season last Monday in Riddick Stadium with a decisive 41-6 victory over the University of Richmond frosh.

Five Years Ago This Week

Freshmen engineers at State College may never teach English but they outscored the prospective students from the School of Education in the annual English placement test given at the beginning of the fall term.

Representatives of the State College campus publications left yesterday to attend the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association's annual fall meeting, which will be held this year in High Point.

Men's Glee Club To Give Concert

Mu Beta Psi, honorary musical fraternity, will again sponsor this year a series of concerts to be presented by the various musical organizations on the State College campus. It was announced last night.

The first of these concerts will be presented by the Men's Glee Club on Sunday afternoon, November 19, in Pullen Hall. The program will begin promptly at 4 o'clock.

There is no admission to these concerts and the general public is cordially invited.

Listening In

By JOE MICHAEL

It is said that Southern people appreciate swing more than those of other sections of the country. Whether they do or not remains to be seen, but one thing is sure, that a good band that deals out a good grade of swing always draws the best crowd. Perhaps this love for fast tempo influenced the Interfraternity Council when they selected Van Alexander to play for the annual Fall Frolics. Alexander has traveled the main road to becoming a very successful band leader. His mother was a concert pianist and like all proud mothers wanted her little Van to be a great concert artist some day, so she began teaching him how to play the piano. Mrs. Alexander's concert hopes were very high until Van was a sophomore in high school, then her hopes were shattered when Alec started banging out chords for some local dance band. He studied arranging and composing thoroughly, and at one time was a pupil of the famous Otto Cesa. With a lot of theory in his head he went to Chick Webb and asked for a chance to get some much-needed practical training. Chick, who was always on the lookout for new talent, signed Van up as the band's arranger.

It was not long after when Ella Fitzgerald joined the great drummer's crew. Van wrote all of her material and thereby launched a career that has carried both of them far. In case you did not know it, he wrote and arranged "A Tisket A Tasket" for Ella. This song led the "Hit Parade" for eight consecutive weeks and sold more than 250,000 records. Van's other tunes include "Got a Pebble in My Shoe," "In a Good-for-Nothing Mood," "Alexander's Swingin'" and "Where Has My Little Dog Gone?" Alexander's arrangements are found in the music libraries of such bands as Benny Goodman's, Duke Ellington's, Tommy Dorsey's and Cab Calloway's.

Now you stage need not worry, because Van will have Phyllis Keny, a very charming canny, to sing for you, and Butch Stone will entertain with his comedy choruses.

A Resolution of Respect

Resolutions of respect for the late Dr. Alfred Alexander Dixon, for 23 years a member of the physics faculty at State College, have been adopted by the executive committee of the faculty of the School of Engineering.

Dr. Dixon died October 15. He became an instructor in physics in the fall of 1917 and served continuously until his death with the exception of a leave of absence to go to Cornell University for his doctor's degree. He was awarded the degree in 1925, after which he was made a full professor.

In a statement accompanying the resolutions, the faculty committee said Thursday: "Highly trained for his profession and having a pleasing and friendly manner, Dr. Dixon held the esteem and respect of his colleagues and students and he will be missed by a host of friends throughout the State of North Carolina. To those of his family and his colleagues in the physics department we wish also to express our sympathy."

The resolutions were signed by Dean Blake R. Van Leer of the School of Engineering.

Richmond Takes Government Job

Dr. A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the Department of Ceramic Engineering, announced yesterday that J. C. Richmond of Alfred, N. Y., graduate student at the college last year, has received appointment as a junior engineer with the United States Bureau of

On Armistice . . .

Tomorrow the State College contingent will join with millions of persons scattered all over the United States in the celebration of Armistice Day. Twenty-one years ago we celebrated November 11th because that day we saw the end of the First World War.

On that eleventh hour of the eleventh day, in the eleventh month of 1918, hostilities ceased on all fronts—yet at that same hour rejoicing began anew, and souls the world over gave thanks that fighting was over. Weary men were glad to return to the work of beginning what many considered a "new life"—heart-sick women welcomed the opportunity to return to their domestic chores.

It is true that this year it will be exceedingly difficult to commemorate the signing of the Armistice with the same feeling of security—all sides we are confronted with the possibility of a world war again. But we can celebrate the fact that America possesses the greatest democracy in the world—that we live in a land where "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" reign supreme.

So at that eleventh hour tomorrow, stop and think what you are celebrating. You can truthfully give thanks that America still remains and always will be the "land of the free."

They're Our Guests . . .

Tomorrow, for the first time in our history, State College will hold High School Day for high school seniors from all parts of North Carolina. Those in charge of the program have predicted that the attendance will be between four and six thousand.

While these high school students are on the State College campus, downtown, or wherever they may be located locally, they are the official guests of State College. The college is cooperating in this program, and will have the high school boys and girls as their guests at the State-Duquesne game tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the senior class and Golden Chain have taken it upon themselves to act as official hosts for the visitors, and it will be their responsibility to see that they are entertained and shown over the campus.

At the same time, each student will play a part in the impression that these high school students get of State College, and naturally we want this impression to be an excellent one. If you have an opportunity to help these students or show them over the campus, do so. At the same time we should dress and conduct ourselves like gentlemen while we are entertaining guests.

It is our job to see that our guests are shown proper courtesy, have a good time, and go away with pleasant memories of our institution. Let's make this High School Day as great as any held in the country.

Some Are Left . . .

It seems that State College still harbors a few of those unwanted individuals who have not learned to respect what is the property of others. In other words, we find our campus infested with petty thieves, those who seemingly take delight in stealing whatever they can get their hands on.

Such a subject is not even a pleasant thing to talk about, and certainly nothing brings quicker hatred and dislike than to say, "He is a thief."

It is true that when you get a large collection of people together under one common roof and for one common purpose you will find all types of persons intermingled with the mass. It is natural to expect that some students will take a delight in being dishonest, but at the same time it is a dreadful thing to face.

In the last few days students have had numerous articles stolen from them on the campus. It is a tragedy to reach the time when it is not safe to leave personal property in the open for a few minutes.

We want to warn you to be on the lookout for the sneak thief. We only hope that some day we will be able to rid our campus of this type of criminal.

Despite our five straight losses, there is a note of optimism on the campus and downtown about tomorrow's game with undefeated and untied Duquesne.

Anthony McKevlin, Sports Editor of the News and Observer, struck the key-note in Wednesday's paper by comparing the State-Duquesne game to the Illinois-Michigan fray of last week. Before that game everyone agreed that Illinois had little chance of subduing the powerful Wolverines, yet the final score found the Illini on top, 16-7, and the Michigan might have found itself completely routed.

The psychology is all in favor of State tomorrow. The Ducks will be under the strain of trying to preserve their splendid record, and will also be slightly over-confident. State may open up with some tricks, because they can afford to gamble.

Duquesne is one of the four bowl or bowl-to-be teams State plays this year. Tennessee seems sure of the Rose Bowl bid, Duke was given $25,000, and Duquesne seems headed in the direction of the Sugar or Orange Bowls, and if Carolina's high flying Heels can take Duke, we will probably receive a bowl bid of one kind or another.

Legal. Before tomorrow's game the officials will have to decide on whether the rubber toe that Duquesne players have been using to kick extra points and field goals with is legal. This toe is a device that fits over the toe of the kicking shoe, because of its square front, minimizes the possibility of a crooked kick.

The Night Riders have scored 103 points while limiting their opponents to 26. . . 13 of the 26 were scored by Pitt while losing to the Ducks 21-13, and the other were scored by Marquette, when they lost to Duquesne by the score of 21-13. . . Coach Donelli has a young brother who plays quarterback for the visitors.

The law of averages is on State's side when we score only 13 points since the Davidson game, and we're due to hit pay dirt. To quote the Observer, "Saturday may be the day for the Wolfpack to rise—there's an old saying that every football team has one day to really get hot." And I think tomorrow will be State's day.

Freshmen. The frosh football team goes over to Wake Forest this afternoon to meet another one of those powerful Deaclet yearling teams, the little Duke team who topped Carolina's powerful frosh team 26-6. . . a win tomorrow for the Wake Forest yearlings will give them the State championship, as they also had a win over the Duke Babies. . . Carl Voyles has taken big-time football with him from Duke to William and Mary.

His freshmen, collected from Maine to Florida, east of the Mississippi, massacred the Wake Forest frosh 26-6. . . they're a powerful lot of boys, and those people who are under the impression that State's game with the Indians next year is a breather will be really disappointed. . . among his boys is another one of those McAfee people. . . a brother to Duke's George and Wes. . . what a family!

Here and There. Bill Mann, co-captain of last year's basketball team, will probably play with the Maryland Eagles, a fifty semi-pro outfit, this winter. . . I'll pick State over Duquesne. Duke over VMI. NYU over Missouri. Columbia over Navy. . . Clemson over Wake Forest. . . Northwestern over Purdue. . . Yale over Brown. . . Penn over Penn State. . . Alabama over Tulane. . . Georgia Tech over Kentucky. . . Richmond over VPI. . . and LSU over Miss State. . . so long, chillun, till next week.

The fencing team will have its first meeting of the year in the rear of the auditorium, Tuesday, November 14, at 8 p.m.

Undefeated Duquesne Makes Appearance Here Tomorrow

GREAT TEAM FROM SMOKY CITY IS HIGHLY FAVORED

Visitors Boast Wins Over Pittsburgh, Manhattan and Auburn; State Underdog.

State tangles with another Bowl hopeful tomorrow when the untied, undefeated Duquesne University team tangles with the Wolfpack in Riddick Stadium at 2:00 o'clock.

The Night Riders have averaged 209 yards rushing per game, and have rolled up 44 first downs. Their wins are as follows: Illinois Wesleyan, 21-0; Waynesburg, 20-0; Manhattan, 7-0; Pittsburgh, 21-13; Texas Tech, 13-0; Marquette, 21-13.

Biggest upset of the season was the Ducks' win over mighty Pitt, which had humbled Duke the week before. Duquesne got a new coach this year, Buff Donelli, who has installed a really hipper-dipper, razzle-dazzle style of offense.

Coach Donelli is worried about the game tomorrow. "We fear overconfidence on our squad as much, if not more, than we do N. C. State. We know the Wolfpack is strong enough to give us a battle even on our good days. But our boys may have trouble seeing beyond the fact that State has lost five out of six games."

"I'm depending on Duquesne's fighting spirit to carry us through against N. C. State. State has a good team, and there is reason for me to be worried."

George Rado, Duquesne scout, had this to say: "The 17 score in favor of North Carolina was not indicative of State's strength, since the Wolfpack outrushed Carolina and first downs were even."

State has been working hard all week, diagnosing Duquesne plays as run by the B team and the freshmen. The spirit is excellent, and the entire squad is in tip-top shape for the game tomorrow.

MURAL MUSINGS

By WALTER WILLIAMS

Judging from the results of the fraternity wrestling semifinals last week and the dormitory semifinals last night, the finals should be an event no wrestling fan wants to miss. Coach Herman Hickman should be able to uncover some varsity material at this meet. The finals are to be held in the big gym next Wednesday, November 15.

The finals, as far as I can find out now, are as follows: Fraternity: 115-lb. class: Coward (AKPI)—Waldin (PIKA).

125-lb.: Kelly (PIKA)—Ralston (SigPi).

150-lb.: Knowlton (PIKA)—Cook (SPE).

145-lb.: Barry (AKPI)—Murdock (Kap Sig).

165-lb.: Hanf (KA)—Smith (AKPI).

165-lb.: Smart (PIKA)—Maulitey (Phi Kap Tau).

175-lb.: Novitskie (AKPI)—Branson (Sig Pi).

Unlimited: Andrews (Phi Kap Tau)—Procter (SPE).

Dormitory: 115-lb.: Terry (1st 8)—Dicker-son (10th).

125-lb.: Flythe (10th)—Collins (1st 8).

135-lb.: Meisenheimer (2nd A) will wrestle McDaniel (Base South) and winner will tie up with Lee for finals.

145-lb.: Winner of Reeves (1911) and McPherson (2nd A) will take on Brake (Base South) in the finals.

155-lb.: Winstead (1st South)—Hummelcutt (3rd 8).

165-lb.: Leach (3rd 8)—Holshouser (5th).

State students wishing to see the Raleigh High-Stonewall High (Ohio) game tonight in Riddick Stadium may gain admission by presenting their athletic cards at the entrance nearest the YMCA, on the east side of the stadium.

Four Major Teams Unbeaten, Untied

Notre Dame, Cornell, Texas A. & M. and Tennessee Top Nation.

Today, there are only four major teams left in the unbeaten and untied, brigade of the nation's gridiron powers. The mighty Vols of Tennessee continue to lead the field, with Notre Dame, Cornell and Texas A. & M. running close behind in the national polls.

Upsets have come out of every Saturday's games, and tomorrow should be no exception. Many of the leading teams are out for bowl bids and the steam will really be on.

The highlight in Southern football will find Clemson tangling with those Deacons of Wake Forest. Both of these eleven have probably the greatest teams in the history of their respective schools, and they will furnish plenty of excitement for the customers. McPadden will hold the edge with McPadden and Bryant in there, but Mayberry and Polanski will give them plenty of trouble.

Crimson Tide vs. Green Wasp. Further south there will be three other top-notch games reeled off Alabama takes on the strong Tulane eleven in what should be a swell game. The Crimson Tide will come back strong, but "Jitterbug" Kellogg & Co. should come out with a win.

Down in Atlanta the Engineers of Georgia Tech will do battle with Kentucky in a major Southern Conference clash. The Yellow Jackets are hot and they should take the boys from the blue grass country. L. S. U. and Mississippi State tangle in the other major Southern clash.

Out in the Midwest the pressure is a little lighter. Michigan will come back after last week's defeat and take the Golden Gophers of Minnesota. Tom Harmon, Wolverine ace, is a sure bet for all-American honors this year, and he should be a little too much for the Gophers. Notre Dame will carry their winning streak on by taking Iowa after a struggle. This looks like another one of those unbeaten clubs for Layden this year.

Bill DeCorrevont finally came to life and led the Wildcats of Northwestern to victory over Minnesota last week with a 61-yard gallop for the winning touchdown. Tomorrow they meet the Boiler-makers of Purdue, always a tough team, in a major clash, and they should take them after a hard game.

Other Midwestern clashes will see Oklahoma taking Kansas, and in the East may be old rivals will clash. Army takes on Harvard in one of the ivy-covered rivalries and the service boys should come out victorious. When N. Y. U.

Tomorrow's game should provide plenty of thrills for the customers. These three men are the ones who will do their share of running, passing and kicking.

Reading from left to right are Art Rooney, State's quarterback, who turned in a beautiful defensive game against Carolina last week; Duquesne's triple-threat back, Johnny Furchey, who kicks, runs and passes, and Pat Fehey, another triple-threat Wolfpack back.

There has been a lot of talk about open football this season. Well, it's here. Fans around these parts have had a chance to see the speed of Tennessee's Volunteers, the aerial attack of Coach Ray Wolf's Tar Heels, the reverses of Wake Forest's Deacons, and the power of the Blue Devils of Duke. Now, from the smoky hilltop of Pittsburgh comes Duquesne's mighty Night Riders with something new—a wide-open style of football.

Five Lettermen Lead Swimmers

Duke, Carolina, Florida and Randolph-Macon to Swim in Thompson Pool.

Daily practice sessions are slowly bringing the State swimming team into shape. With only five lettermen to lead the team through this year's tough pool schedule, Coach Romeo Lefort is laying much stress on a series of increasing distance swims for each man on the varsity squad.

Opponents listed to compete in our pool this year include Duke, Carolina, Florida and Randolph-Macon. The total schedule, which covers eight encounters, starts January 13, and is expected to put the team through its paces before the important Southern Conference swimming meet, the first week-end in March.

Led by Co-captains Bob White and Tom Rowland the team lines up like this: Backstroke—Cartwright, Ingram, C. Kelly, Mann, Neuer, Haene, Breaststroke—Donnell, Felt, Gerber, Rowland, Sheldon, Sturkey, Dashes—Bower, Knight, Peel, Prout, Scholtz, Turner, Weather, White. Distance—Bolteck, Cox, Goldman, Hunter, Katterman, Madero, Struther.

Coach Lefort has his eye on a few of the boys in particular, and thinks that they have record-breaking possibilities.

tangles with Missouri tomorrow the Violets will get a sample of an aerial attack that has brought on a reign of terror in the Corn Belt this year. Paul Christian, the Missouri singer, has a record for completing passes that is rivaled only by "Sweet" Lallane. He defeated Nebraska with his aerials last week by the biggest score in the history of their annual clashes, and N. Y. U. had better look out. Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech clash in their city series again tomorrow, and the Panthers should come back.

Other Eastern battles find Cornell over Colgate, Dartmouth taking Princeton, Yale subduing Brown, and Holy Cross overpowering Temple.

Mustangs vs. Aggies. The game between Texas A. & M. and S. M. U. should determine the titleholder in the Lone Star State. Both of these clubs are primed and a battle is on tap. Baylor will take Texas U. and Arkansas should trounce Rice easily.

Nimrods Expect Good Season

Team Meets Georgetown, Davidson and Oak Ridge Here.

No loss through graduation is being felt by the State riflemen this year. Nine members of the ten-man team saw action on the range last season. That last season was the marksmen's most successful bodes well for State this year.

Three shoulder-to-shoulder matches feature this year's schedule. Georgetown University, Davidson and Oak Ridge Military Institute will compete on the same range with State. The balance of the roster, which covers a dozen matches, will be worked on the postal system, in which each competing team fires on its own range and mails copies of the scores to its opponents.

Major R. E. Jones, director of the Rifle Team, feels that the boys have a fine chance to place higher in all competitions this year. Champions of the Fourth Corps Area last season, the team placed third in the William Randolph Hearst Trophy matches, under the coaching of Sergeant L. M. Knight.

Captained by Ralph W. Brake, the team is composed of R. K. Lee, T. W. Shalington, B. N. Harley, P. J. Wetmore, David Dodge, C. H. Sheetz, B. T. Griffith, W. J. Roberts and J. S. Smith.

Frosh Basketeers Begin Practice

The State College Techlets have been working on fundamentals for the past few weeks, in order to accustom themselves to the type of basketball played at State. They are rounding into shape rapidly, though as yet no teams have been chosen. However, if you should be in the neighborhood of the gym some evening, drop in and watch the boys a while. Two boys will immediately catch your eye, for the reason that you can't tell them apart. They are the Mills twins, and I hope the opposing teams have as much trouble distinguishing them as I did.

Night Riders Use Swing Football

Duquesne Uses Wide-open Style of Football; Spread Formation Featured.

By EDWIN PERRY

Football-goers in this section are due for a treat to a new style of football when Coach Aldo (Buff) Donelli brings his Duquesne Night Riders to Raleigh Saturday to play State's Wolfpack.

There has been a lot of talk about open football this season. Well, it's here. Fans around these parts have had a chance to see the speed of Tennessee's Volunteers, the aerial attack of Coach Ray Wolf's Tar Heels, the reverses of Wake Forest's Deacons, and the power of the Blue Devils of Duke. Now, from the smoky hilltop of Pittsburgh comes Duquesne's mighty Night Riders with something new—a wide-open style of football.

It may be remembered that Coach Jim Weaver used a similar formation when he held the reins at Wake Forest a few years ago. Another team that couldn't make the system work was George Washington University. But that isn't the case at Duquesne.

The Smoky City Ducks have made it work. They used the spread formation to topple the famous Pitt Panthers a couple of weeks past. The system has brought fame to the Ducks as they have ridden roughshod, undefeated, over 111 of 112 Wesleyan, Waynesburg, Manhattan, Pitt, Texas Tech, and last week over Marquette.

Carolina's Heels Beat State, 17-0; Pack Improved

Carolina Held to 38 Yards Gain on Ground; Thompson and DiYeso Shine

The new system adopted by the Wolfpack last week certainly did bear results in the game with Carolina. The line outcharged the Heels and the deception used by the backfield had the Carolina secondary guessing all the time. The Pack outplayed and outcharged the Heels through the entire second half, and all the more a day morning quarterbacks unanimously agreed that it was their best game and that the Newtonmen weren't through winning games this season.

We have seen many outstanding plays since being at State College, but one of the best yet was when Rooney stopped Stirweis on the four-yard line. Stubby, behind three m-e-m interference, was sweeping the left end, and Rooney broke through to stop him. Art has been named an ace defensive back, and this play was one that brings out such statements.

Notes on the Cliff. Tony DiYeso, leading the Heel secondary with that sneak play over center. . . Pat Fehey waving at the pigskin after fumbling on a hard tackle. . . Mickey Thompson coming out of the huddle like a spirited charger. . . That ever-present spirit of the student body. . . John Savin's dog Prince leading the Wolfpack on the field. . . Coach Lefort's "Sweet" Lallane. Too bad he didn't hit him solid! . . . That thrilling spectacle of the hands of the three divisions playing the national anthem. . . The contrasting colors of uniforms of the bands brightened up a gloomy day. . . "Jock" Stroupe juggling the ball after a pass interception. . . Coach Ray Wolf's Tar Heels, the reverses of Wake Forest's Deacons, and the power of the Blue Devils of Duke. Now, from the smoky hilltop of Pittsburgh comes Duquesne's mighty Night Riders with something new—a wide-open style of football.

That terrific passing attack of the Heels. . . Look out, Blue Devils! . . . Dunkle's terrific punt in the last period was one of the longest boots this season.

Van Alexander Chosen To Play At Pledge Dances

Modern Swing Band Features Phyllis Kenny, Songstress, and Butch Stone, Comedy Vocalist

State College's Interfraternity Council has signed Van Alexander and his orchestra for the annual Pledge Dances, which are to be held November 17 and 18 in honor of the men pledged to the 13 Greek letter social fraternities on the campus.

Alexander is called "King of the Swing Composers," and swing is the type of music he generally plays. For contrast, however, he has many sweet arrangements.

Featured as vocalists with his orchestra are Phyllis Kenny, lovely songstress, and Butch Stone, comedian. Special arrangements, which Van himself provides, are one of his greatest assets. An arranger for Chick Webb he wrote all of Ella Fitzgerald's material and he has also written arrangements for Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Benny Herringan, Cab Calloway, Duke Ellington and many other famous bands.

One song is largely responsible for Alexander's success. He wrote "A Ticket A Ticket," which led the "Hit Parade" for eight consecutive weeks and sold more than 350,000 records. He also wrote "Got a Pebble in My Shoe," "Ray Barber," "In a Good for Nothing Mood," and "Alexander's Swingin'." Among the places the orchestra has played are the Roseland Ballroom, New York; Raymore Ballroom, Boston; Chez Firehouse, New York; Steel Pier, Atlantic City; "Murray's," Tuckahoe, Virginia Beach, and the Top Hat, Union City, N. J.

Bartlett Speaks

On Wednesday evening at the weekly meeting of the ASAE Professor Bartlett gave an interesting talk on amateur photography. He stated that expensive cameras have many more devices than cheap ones. Unless one knows how to use these devices, one can obtain equally good results with cheap or inexpensive cameras. After he had finished his talk,

Professor Bartlett took a group photograph of all those present.

In the early days at the University of Arkansas, carrying concealed weapons was such a common practice that the faculty found it necessary to make a special ruling to force the students to leave their shootin' irons at home.
