South American Students Feted On "Raleigh Day"

Visitors from Eight Neighboring Republics Spent Morning Looking State College Over

State College was host yesterday to over sixty visitors from eight South American countries as part of the "Raleigh Day" program planned for them by the Inter-American Institute of the Greater University, and sponsored by State College, the Raleigh Rotary Club, and Meredith.

The guests arrived yesterday morning in time for welcoming exercises in the YMCA, after which they were conducted on a tour of the campus by the members of Golden Chain, campus honorary society, assisted by C. H. Kirkman, president of the College YMCA, and Henry Rowe, editor of The Technician.

Following their tour, the visitors were entertained by Mr. Ivey of the Students Supply Store, after which they witnessed a dress parade in their honor by the State College ROTC regiment.

After the parade, the South Americans were entertained by the Raleigh Rotary Club with lunch in the Sir Walter Hotel, later going on an extended tour of the city conducted by Professors Greaves-Walker and Johnson of State College.

Meredith College entertained the visitors at an informal tea late yesterday afternoon, after which they departed for Chapel Hill, where they are enrolled in a special course planned to improve friendship between the people of the two American continents.

Basic English

There are over 130 South Americans enrolled in this special course at the Hill, many are taking the new "Basic English," which is a course compiled by noted linguists who work on the theory that a person can learn to speak English by learning a "selection vocabulary" of some 800 words. This is one of the most revolutionary developments in the linguistic field, and the South Americans in North Carolina are being tested to find out whether or not the system is practical.

The southern visitors have been in this country since the first of January, and most of them by now speak very understandably English, so the students who conducted them on their tour of the campus had little difficulty in making themselves understood.

Gifts for Ladies

When the guests visited the Textile School as part of their tour, the ladies in each group were given presents of twenty-five yards of any kind of cloth manufactured by the students as well as souvenirs of the State in the form of pictures of Governor Broughton, woven in cloth.

Also during the campus tour the visitors witnessed a special demonstration given by the members of the Ceramics Department.

Annual Barnwarming Tickets Available

Brad Hunt Signed to Play For Ag School's Most Important Dance

The Frank Thompson Gymnasium is about ready for its annual version into a rustic dance floor as plans are completed for the Barnwarming from 8 till 12 o'clock, Saturday night, March 1.

Brad Hunt's orchestra, featuring vocalists Jenne Regal and Billy Carmichael, has been secured to play for the dance. The Barnwarming, probably the most unique dance given on the campus, is sponsored by the Ag Club, and is the most important event in the social activities of the Agricultural School.

The dance is strictly a dress affair, and boys must wear blue denim, bibbed overalls and girls wear print dresses. Overalls should be secured early, for they will be hard to find at the time of the dance draws near.

Tickets are now available in Room 106, Sixth Dormitory, and may be secured free by students in agriculture upon presentation of registration cards. These tickets cannot be obtained later than Friday, Feb. 28. Other tickets may be secured for $1.00, tax included.

WRONG NUMBER

Two for costs of the same style and color were somehow mixed at the dance last Friday night. Anyone whose date received the wrong card, please see us as soon as possible.

Dave Clark To Talk To Senior Assembly Tuesday At Noon

Staunch State College Supporter Will Address Upperclassmen At Last Meeting Of Term

As a result of the diligent efforts of Bill Friday, president of the senior class, Dave Clark of Charlotte will speak to the seniors Tuesday at 12 o'clock.

This will be the last class meeting of the term for seniors and a roll will be checked to insure perfect attendance. Important business will be taken up at the assembly after which Mr. Clark will address the group.

Henry Rowe, chairman of the senior legislative committee, will give a report on recent legislative action and the senior loan fund committee will also give a report.

Dave Clark, who is owner of Clark's Publishing Company in Charlotte, will speak on "Being Active Alumni." The speaker is a graduate of State College and is the holder of three degrees from this institution. He is a member of the Athletic Council, the Wolfpack Club, and is a staunch State supporter in all enterprises. Mr. Clark is responsible for a large part of the successful drive for a college-owned printing plant. His efforts on behalf of State College are never ending and most often produce results. Many leading newspapers of North Carolina publish editorials expressing the opinion of Dave Clark and it is expected that he will give an interesting, suggestive talk.

All seniors who desire a cut or mat for pictures of themselves will be presented a plan whereby they may secure the sets at a very low price. Many seniors have bought these sets in the past and have paid exorbitant prices. It is likely that several mats left over will be given to the graduating seniors to carry with them for use later on.

Publications Board Sets Banquet Date

Colonel Harrelson Will Award Keys To Juniors Having Completed Three Terms of Service

The eighth annual Publications Banquet, one of the outstanding events of each school year, will be held at 7:30 on March 1 in the Virginia Dare Ballroom of the Sir Walter Hotel, it was announced last Tuesday by Dud Kaley, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The affair, a banquet and dance, held each year by the Publications Board for members of the various campus publications and their dates, will have as its Master of Ceremonies Mr. Frank H. Jeter, Editor of the Agricultural Extension Service. The guest speaker of the evening will be someone famous in the publishing world, and attempts are now being made to secure a man of nation-wide renown, Kaley announced.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the awarding of publications keys to those men deserving them. Keys are awarded to those juniors having completed over three terms of service on their respective campus publications. The awards will be made by Colonel J. W. Harrelson.

Invitations will be sent out within the next few days to members of the various publications. Members of the committee request that the invitations be returned to the Dean of Students' office as soon as possible so that final arrangements may be made. The members of the committee are Dud Kaley, chairman; Jim Graham, and Graham Chamblee. All questions concerning the banquet should be referred to them.

Dorsey Tickets

All members of the Officer's Club who have not yet obtained their bids to the Military Ball may get them by calling by the Agromeck office Monday or next Friday afternoons between 2 and 4 o'clock. Tickets are also ready for the thirty people on the reserve list, and they may obtain them at the same time.

Avalanche Of New Votes Roars In For Alpha Sigma

"Army Big Boy" and Electrical Engineer In Close Race For Top Honors

Alpha Sigma Sigma, the ultimate ambition of many a State College Big Wig, may become a reality to several of our most distinguished students before many moons if the tremendous volume of votes that are pouring into the Agromeck office give any indication.

The race for president, or G. H. A., as the leader of this campus ornery society is called, is really hot and heavy this year with two student government men vying for the lead. A prominent member of The Technician staff is a dark horse to be reckoned with, however, and seasoned observers are predicting victory for him in a camera flash.

A senior in engineering who lives in Raleigh and has long been mentioned as a possible member is doing very well for himself this time although he has not come out so well in earlier years. Another senior in his department has quite a few votes, but if more do not come in for him soon he will be far behind and may lose out altogether.

"Even your best friend won't tell you" when you are being railroaded into Alpha Sigma Sigma, and the usual procedure is to do some railroad-ing of your own in self defense.

This is the last week that ballots will be printed in The Technician; so clip your ballot and see that the man you think deserves this signal honor gets your vote.

Deputations Planned For Spring Quarter By Honorary Society

Golden Chain Members To Visit 22 High Schools on Annual Good-will Tours

Members of the Golden Chain, honorary leadership fraternity, will soon begin a series of trips to various high schools in the state, where they will impress upon the minds of the high school students the necessity for higher education.

The purpose of the trips is to build up the reputation of State College, but to show the advantages a college-trained man has over the untrained man. In order to make the talks more interesting, the members will take along a moving picture of the campus and life at college entitled "College Days." Approximately twenty-two schools will be visited by the members of the society, each member speaking at two schools.

These visits will follow a precedent established many years ago by Golden Chain. The first trip is scheduled for February 27, when representatives will address the seniors and the student body at the Roanoke Rapids High School. On March 26, a member of Golden Chain will go to Kannapolis. No other definite dates or high schools to be visited have been announced, but several will probably be given out in the near future.

MUCHO FLORES, SENORITA Vidal stops during her tour of the State College campus to admire the flowers in the greenhouse. Senorita Vidal was a sponsor at the R. O. T. C. parade.

Chinese Men Suffer Numerous Hardships To Continue Studies

Funds To Be Collected Soon By Pine Burr for Use In Aiding Needy Students In Foreign Countries

State College students will soon be given a chance to help provide for the education and future leadership of other continents, when Pine Burr, in conjunction with the World Student Service Fund, will put on an intensive campaign to secure funds to be used for educational purposes in the Far East.

There is an intense desire to learn in China, but the physical means of preparation have been all but wiped out. Laboratories have been destroyed with all their valuable equipment, while few, if any, libraries have been left standing in the last few years. Students have been known to walk over a thousand miles in order to continue their studies, suffering untold hardships on the long trunks. Books are so scarce that much that the students learn must be taught them purely from the memory of the instructors.

The World Student Service Fund was created primarily to take care of the needs of these needy students in foreign countries. The policy of the group is to direct attention and relief, to the extent of the funds available, to any students in dire need of supplies, irrespective of the political, religious, or racial status of the applicants.

It is necessary to help foreign students, because American intellectual life, even though we have needy students, is not jeopardized. At the present time the intellectual life of many foreign countries is in danger of being entirely disintegrated, especially in China. If (Continued on Page 4)

Noted Newspaper Editor Speaks Here Next Week

Pine Burr Co-Sponsoring With Lecture Committee to Bring J. T. Williams, Famous Publisher, to Campus

Mr. James T. Williams, former editor of the Boston Evening Transcript and world authority on political science, will speak to the student body in Pullen Hall on Tuesday, February 25, at 8 o'clock on "The Truth About the President's Program: An Answer to All Appeasers."

A native North Carolinian, Mr. Williams began his journalistic career as the Washington correspondent for "The State" of Columbia, S. C., in 1901. Following the initial assignment came a series of positions on the Associated Press, the Tucson (Ariz.) Citizen, the Chicago Daily News, and contributing editor of several national syndicates.

Throughout the more than 30 years of his distinguished journalistic career, as Washington correspondent and metropolitan editor, Mr. Williams has dealt with many men who make history, at home and abroad. He has known every President from Roosevelt to Roosevelt. His far-flung assignments

Budget Figures Get Half Million Boost

Potential Ensigns To Be Interviewed By Naval Officers

Approximately Half of State College Applicants Will Be Chosen for Reserve

Latest reports indicate that 2,000 men will be given commissions in the Naval Reserve upon graduation in June 1941, and 5,000 more will be commissioned sometime during the following year.

It is expected that approximately half of the State College students who have submitted applications will be chosen for the reserve. Professor H. A. Fisher, who is in charge of affairs at State College, announced recently that interviews will be conducted here by Captain Haggart and Commander Cross beginning Monday, February 24, at 1 p. m.

All students competing for reserve commissions should go to Professor Fisher's office, 201 Tompkins Hall, and make appointments. This should be done this week, or as soon as the individual can secure information desired by the Navy.

Applicants should supply the investigators with three copies of the application blank which they have been given, or which may be obtained in Professor Fisher's office. Letters of recommendation should be submitted, one from the Dean of Engineering and one from head of the department in charge of the students curriculum. A properly authenticated transcript of college record is necessary as is also two recent photographs of head and shoulders, each 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches. Photographs in duplicate of profile and full face will be necessary.

Candidates will be judged according to academic record, letters of recommendation, and interviews by Line Officers Haggart and Cross of the U. S. Navy. The report of the interview from the Line Officers is stressed as being very important.

Ag Club Features Amateur Program

Large Crowd Attends Joint Ag and Forestry Club Smoker in West Cafeteria

A joint smoker meeting of the Ag and Forestry Clubs was entertained by an "amateur program" last Tuesday night.

The meeting was held in the West Cafeteria. The audience was so large that it was found necessary to install a public address system. Ag Club President Brice Ratchford presided over the meeting.

Judges C. A. Upchurch, Jr., head of the College News Bureau, and Professor Fred Haig of the Animal Husbandry Department, awarded the first prize to Jim Graham. Graham presented his famous "donkey bray" which drew much applause and laughter.

State College Gets Recommendation For More Than $200,000 Additional For Next Biennium

The Joint Appropriations Committee overwhelmingly voted Wednesday night to recommend an increase of over half a million dollars to the Greater University of North Carolina in its appropriation for the next biennium.

Of the increase over the Budget Commission's recommendation, State College would receive the largest share, its recommendations totaling $100,975 for the first year and $107,975 for the second. The University at Chapel Hill would receive $94,758 for the first and $102,208 the second, while the Women's College at Greensboro would receive $64,730 and $69,730.

Having the approval of Governor Broughton, the measure encountered little opposition, but those who were opposed debated vigorously in an effort to prevent the increase over the Budget Commission's recommendation.

Additions to the three branches of the Greater University run the entire biennial appropriation up to $3,269,944, or within $556,624 of the original request submitted to the budget group by Dr. Frank Porter Graham.

State College's actual appropriation for students is now approximately $475,000 per year for the next two years if the proposed increase is granted.

The bulk of the increase will go for additional teachers and increased salaries for those who are already employed here. A $7,500 lump sum was earmarked for an elevator for the Textile building.

Any permanent improvements that are passed will probably have to come up as special bills, but observers were optimistic in their hopes for any further legislation in favor of the Greater University.

Freshmen To Enter Editorial Contest

Five Winning Editorials Will Be Published in The Technician

In cooperation with the Technician staff, the English department of State College is sponsoring an editorial contest for the students in first-year English.

Every student taking the freshman course in English will be required to write an editorial as a part of their regular course. The editorials are to be handed in by Saturday, March 1. After the editorials are graded by the professors teaching the course, the best are to be chosen and passed on to the editorial staff of the Technician.

The editorial staff will then meet with the various professors and choose the five editorials that they consider the best in the group. These five editorials will then be run in the newspaper. The next ten best editorials will be given recognition in news stories that will appear in the Technician.
The subjects for the editorials will be chosen by the Department of English.

4-H Supper Clubbers Hold First Election

Harold Sharpe Chosen President As Novel Organization Gets Under Way

The State College 4-H Supper Club, only known organization of its kind in the United States, held a reorganization meeting Monday night in the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A.

Elected to guide the destinies of the club for the next year were Harold Sharpe, president; John Wagoner, vice-president; Robert Wood, secretary; Mark Goforth, historian; and Walton Thompson, reporter.

At this meeting, also, plans were made for a conference of the Southern Federation of Collegiate 4-H Clubs, which will convene here tomorrow. Meeting here at that time to make plans for their work in 1941 will be representatives of the collegiate 4-H clubs of the University of Georgia, Clemson, Wakefore, W.C.U.N.C., and State. The 4-H Supper Club here is to be host to the gathering.

Charles MacAdams, outgoing president of the club, and Dan Holler, County Agent at Lenoir, spoke briefly to the group, challenging them to better and greater things during the next year.

Tug Of War

During our three and more years at State College we have heard much about Mr. David Clark, our well-known alumnus from Charlotte. We have heard him praise him and we have heard him denounce him. No doubt he has his bad points as well as his good ones, but we are convinced of this: State College has no alumnus who is more loyal and sincere in his efforts to help her than David Clark. David Clark has done a lot for State College, and in the future we know that he will do a whole lot more. If every alumnus State College has were as loyal as David Clark, we would not be struggling along with inadequate buildings and equipment as we are today.

Another man whom we have heard praised and denounced is Dr. Frank Porter Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina. Dr. Graham is not an alumnus of State College, but there is no man we had rather see as president of the Greater University. State College could have no greater friend than Dr. Graham. It is a known fact that he literally saved State College when the consolidation of the University took place. It was Dr. Graham who prevented the engineering school from going to Chapel Hill and kept all engineering at State College even when a prominent member of the State College faculty suggested having engineering at both places. In his appropriation requests Dr. Graham has always been more than fair to State College, and he has done all that he could to see that the requests for State College were granted. In these and many other instances he has proven his friendship for State.

Recently, at an alumni meeting in Charlotte, Mr. Clark accused Dr. Graham of being unfair to State College and of being one of those who treated the institution like a "red headed stepchild." Mr. Clark's criticism of Dr. Graham is nothing new. He has been violently opposed to him for a long time. In fact, he has criticized Dr. Graham so much and on so many occasions that the people of the State have grown accustomed to it.

Here we have two men who are both great friends and supporters of State College. Yet, and this is the part we are at a loss to understand, they are bitterly opposed to each other. They are engaged in a meaningless tug of war, and what is worse, it is an intramural tug of war. It only serves to disorganize our alumni forces, for those who approve of one usually do not approve of the other.

Even pulling against each other, these two men have helped State College reach the position it holds today. They use different methods, one using diplomacy and the other a battle axe, but each has taken a part in building State College. Since they have accomplished so much independently, is it not reasonable to assume that they could do much more if they were working together? We are inclined to favor the method of diplomacy, but nothing would please us more than to see these two friends of State College on friendly terms and working together for its benefit.

Not Over Yet

While we are congratulating ourselves upon being in line for a badly needed appropriations increase which the Appropriations Committee has recommended, we must not forget that the battle is only half won. Before the appropriations can become a reality it must pass both divisions of the Legislature, and you may rest assured that attempts will be made by the opposition to cut it in any way they can.

Not only will we have to be on our toes to see that the sentiment in favor of State College and the Greater University does not die down, but we must now concentrate on getting the permanent improvements requests passed. Now that we have been tentatively granted our maintenance increase it will be even harder to get our permanent improvements program through.

With the battle only half won, we must go out and work with doubled effort before we can see the remainder of our program for the advancement of State College become a reality.

We have come a long way in our appropriations drive, but we must carry it on to the finish. Then, even if we get the improvements we want, we must not forget appropriations, because the fight will go on and on, year after year. After we leave State College we will be able to do even more as alumni than we have been able to do as students.

A Real Example

In spite of all the appeals that have been made to the student body, stealing has continued unabated and, if anything, it has grown worse. In one instance, five overcoats were reported stolen from the cafeteria in one night. In another, twenty dollars was taken from a room while one of its occupants was asleep.

There is no use in appealing to the non-existent sense of honor that these thieves have. The only thing that we can do is to take care of our own property and watch for those who are guilty. The person or persons who have been guilty of these crimes can not get away with it forever. Steps are being taken by the Student Government to trap the culprits, and if they are caught they will be turned into horrible examples of what can happen to thieves.

We came very near to catching one not long ago. A friend of ours had his coat stolen, but found it in the cafeteria the next day. Instead of finding out who had taken it, however, he took pity on the criminal and took his coat back without investigating. We strongly urge that, should you find yourself in a like situation, you wait and see who comes back to get the coat. Then, if you do not know the man, find out his name even if you have to follow him to his room. It would be wise to have a friend wait with you so that both of you may follow him in case he later denies having the coat in his possession. Then, without saying anything to him about the coat, report the matter to the Student Council. There your responsibility, other than that of acting as a witness at the trial, will end. The Student Council will decide whether or not the man is guilty.

Anyone caught and convicted of stealing will be immediately dismissed from State College. The Technician will publish a full account of the proceedings, and the convicted man's name will be given special prominence.

Whether any actual prosecution by the police takes place will depend upon the circumstances. We would like to say again that stealing from a room in which a person is sleeping is a very serious crime, and under certain conditions it is punishable by death. Of course a student would probably get off with five or ten years, but that is quite a while to spend behind bars.

Say Hello

It seems that for some unknown reason the spirit of friendliness and good fellowship on our campus has suffered a definite setback in the past few months. This is a sad state of affairs, and one which doesn't reflect very much credit on our school and student body.

One thing that visitors notice especially when sightseeing around the campus of a strange school is the spirit of the students of that particular school or about the campus. And it is this spirit that makes such a definite impression on visitors, just as much as the impression a beautiful campus will make upon them. For the past few years State College has been constantly commended for the fine spirit of friendliness prevailing on the campus. This has probably resulted from the annual "Hello Week" held each year to promote fellowship between members of the student body and between students and faculty members.

Just because we are not having such an affair right now is no reason why this commendable spirit should suffer a major relapse. It seems that most of the students can't take the trouble to say hello when passing some other student or member of the faculty. We certainly don't wish to be considered a snooty school or to be considered in the class of some of the other schools we know. We want North Carolina State College to be known and recognized as the most friendly school in the south. At the rate we are now going, however, we'll never acquire such a reputation.

To achieve this goal is not the work of just a small handful of students. The goal will never be attained that way. The student body must cooperate to its fullest capacity, and every student must do his part in order for this spirit to become prevalent on the campus again. It is up to each and every one of us to help rebuild this traditional spirit that has lapsed into decay in the past few months. So, speak to other students when you pass them. It certainly won't hurt you; it will probably do you a world of good. And it will surely make the recipient of such a courtesy feel much better.

SENIOR OF THE WEEK

By REECE SEDBERRY

Lee Roy "Shorty" Barnes, senior in Poultry Science, was born in Oxford, North Carolina.

"Shorty" attended elementary school at Oxford, and graduated from the Oxford High School in 1936. While in high school, he was a member of the National Honor Beta Club, and graduated with scholastic honors. "Shorty" took post-graduate work in the Durham High School, following his graduation from the Oxford schools, and entered State College in the fall of 1937.

"Shorty" did outstanding scholastic work his freshman year, and was initiated into Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholarship fraternity.

During his sophomore year, "Shorty" having already been recognized as an outstanding student, began to take his place among the campus leaders. He was selected for membership in Thirty and Three, elected to represent the Agriculture school on the Student Council, and initiated into Alpha Zeta. In the spring "Shorty" was elected by the student body as secretary of the Student Government for the following year.

The next year "Shorty" continued to be recognized as an outstanding student. He was selected for membership into Golden Chain, Blue Key, Pine Burr, and Lambda Gamma Delta.

This year "Shorty" is again representing his department on the Student Council. He is vice president of the "Ag" Fair, secretary of Blue Key, treasurer of Pine Burr, secretary of Lambda Gamma Delta, and chronicler of Alpha Zeta. He is also a member of the dance committee on the "Ag" barn-warming.

"Shorty" is a member of the advanced R.O.T.C., and because of his outstanding ability as an officer he has been selected for membership in Scabbard and Blade.

"Shorty" has taken an active part in most of the extra-curricular activities, maintained an average of ninety, and at the same time worked on N.Y.A. and served as a Dormitory Assistant in order to help pay his college expenses.

BEHIND THE MIKES

By Jack Thurston

Albert Johnson

Since much has been said about Dinah Shore as a vocalist, here are some personal facts about the Tennessee Thrush. She is a native of Winchester, Tenn., which is a wide place in the road near Chattanooga. At Vanderbilt she was a cheer leader and four years of cheering for the Black and Gold caused her voice to change from a soprano to its present pitch.

While attending Vanderbilt she sang in the glee club and over a local Nashville station. Upon receiving her diploma she headed for New York to try for vocal recognition. There she sang over a local station for six months. Then came a big break. A popular band leader was auditioning vocalists for a new show and Dinah applied, together with fifty others. She was selected but the program failed to materialize.

Discouraged by this she was ready to return home when a friend got her the job of vocalist on the Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street. This program plus her records helped Dinah to get her present job with Eddie Cantor.

Twenty-three years ago she was christened Ernestine Rose, Shore which was later shortened to Dinah Rose by her friends. Recently the name Dinah was legalized. One of the greatest compliments was from W. C. Handy, writer of "Memphis Blues" and "St. Louis Blues."

Handy was the guest on the Lower Basin Street Show when she sang his "Memphis Blues."

"Miss Shore," Handy told her, "Memphis Blues" was never really sung before. You turned the clock back thirty years for me."

The Bandwagon Alvin Rey and the King Sisters will be the featured guests on The Bandwagon over WPTF Sunday night. Rey, who is inventor of the electric steel guitar, and the King Sisters achieved their fame while with Horace Heidt. They left Heidt to go into radio work on the coast and were so popular that they were persuaded to come east. At the present they are featured on Bluebird Records and broadcast from the Rustic Cabin at Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey.

GLEANINGS

After seeing some of the South American beauties who visited the campus yesterday, we are highly in favor of sending a delegation from State College to an Inter-American Institute in Argentina. From now on we will be speaking American with a Spanish accent, especially an Argentina accent. Who would have thought such girls could come from anywhere other than the good old U. S. A. Now we know that something good besides beef comes from Argentina. Si, Si, Quien Sabe Machacha? We wish we did, better.

Next Saturday night will bring an annual event to our campus that has always been one of the best social events of the year—the annual Ag Barnwarming. In the past it has been the one dance of the year at which one can relax in overalls and bandanas. The girls must wear gingham dresses too; so you don't have to worry about stepping on the train of some prom-trotter's dress. That has always been one of our secret fears, and we have often wondered just how much stress and strain the material would stand. Quite a bit, probably, from some of the antics put on during the Conga.

Speaking of dancing, one of Jim Neelley's ex-friends really put on quite an exhibition at Mid-Winters. Later reports said there were no black eyes the next morning, but we are inclined to disbelief. Note: She absolutely was not at the dance with Neelley.

Steve Sailer had quite an experience last week. On Valentine's Day he was engaged in an important business conference in his office. A Western Union boy entered, inquired for Mr. Sailer, was informed that he was in the presence of that exalted one, and then proceeded to whip out a singing Valentine from Nancy. The resulting vocal rendition was all that could have been expected, and red ears were in vogue.

With the wind comes dirt, and everything. It is now nearing courtin' time (spring to you) and soon Dan Cupid will be on a full-time schedule for all. Bill Blyan is already infested with the disease... he was recently seen flitting about like a butterfly... can it be that W. C. is producing? Gloom permeates the air as campus romantics think of possibilities concerning the report of term grades. An example of such a person would naturally be none other than Clarence Foreman who has been covering "Dixie like the dew." Clarence has suddenly developed a liking for wedding bells in June. An excellent photographer has been discovered in Lewis Wright who has been showing some very choice "exposures." We wonder why blackmail isn't declared a legitimate business. It is rumored that business is so bad in Hollywood that King Kong has started working for an organ grinder.

"Quien sabe, senior?" Though this question may not have been asked very often yesterday, it's a 3 to 5 bet that it rose a great many times while the members of Golden Chain were escorting our South American visitors over the campus for "Raleigh Day."

Can you imagine "Blue Key Bruce" Halted, pride and joy of the E. E. school, explaining the difference between a loom and a spinning frame to that lucious Latin he was showing around? And in broken, dandy English at that. Also picture Nelson Strawbridge starting a motor in the E. E. lab to show the sophistic how the wheels go round; Tom Rowland, another engineer, showing the visitors the proper approach to milking a cow; Shorty Barnes, Ag student, explaining the mysteries of electricity to his group; and last, but not least, Chemical Engineer Paul Lehman revealing the secrets of the greenhouses to his astounded followers.

Henry Lowe seemed a little puzzled when he was told that the periring comment "I hope I'll see you later" of the streamlined Argentinian he was concentrating on didn't mean that he had a late date, but was only her way of saying "I'll see you later." And it was fully two hours after the visitors had left before Halted stopped saying, "Boy, the way her eyes sparkled when she talked! How far is it to Chapel Hill, or even to Brazil?" All in all, it seems that our invasion by a little bit of the outer world was quite a success.

"THREE ON A MATCH."

"Of course I know your voice!" "Of course" pays an unconscious tribute to Western Electric. It means that all the equipment used in the connection is made so skillfully that it transmits the familiar tones and inflections. As a manufacturer for the Bell System, Western Electric makes some 43,000 different items of telephone apparatus. As part chaser for the System, it buys raw materials and supplies from all over the globe. As distributor, it sees that all these things are available where and when needed. This helps to give you the world's finest telephone service. Western Electric is back of your Bell Telephone service.

From This Angle

by Edwin Parry

The early arrivals of 3,500 basketball folk who crammed themselves cardine-like into the confines of Frank Thompson Gymnasium last Monday night were a happy lot when the freshman game was over, but not one of them was half so tickled as Horace.

Now Horace is the long drawn-out drink-of-water who probably some day, if not already, will be called the "Clown Prince of Basketball" or the "Court's Jester." But just now, to make ourselves understandable, we'll continue to call him the name that fits his physique—just Bones.

The history of Bones has been told many times over and we need not repeat it, but we have just a word to pass on to you that the lanky fellow had to say after that game the other night when he scored 22 points to lead his frosh teammates to a 47-45 victory over Duke's yearlings.

Victory was sweet for Bones, for it was Duke's three-star frosh players—Bob Gantt, Cedric Loftis and Garland Loftis—who had rubbed it in so hard when Bones and the boys lost 60-30 in Durham a few weeks ago. Those same three boys were teammates of Bones in high school and didn't like it a bit when he foretold them and came to State—they were so sure he would go to Duke.

That fateful night in Durham was a hard one for McKinney, that's Bones' last name, because it was the home folks he was playing before, and to lose by such a one-sided score was rather heart-breaking.

After the game Monday I wandered down to the dressing room where the jubilant frosh were washing the sweat of their labors from the brow, and Bones, still grinning from ear to ear, confided in me the real reason for his new-found happiness.

Between handshakes and verbal congratulations Bones said, "I hated to set-up and rub it in so much tonight but I just couldn't help it. When we went to Durham I knew they were going to beat us and I asked them to let us off light, but they wouldn't do it and you know what the score was, 60-30. Well, we couldn't run up such a score but I could make them feel mighty bad over losing and now I am just tickled pink." A few minutes later Bones received a great hand from the folks when he reentered the gym and took his seat beside a very nice looking brunette—still wiping the sweat from his brow.

Another Frosh Star

Another prospective star appeared on the horizon in the frosh lineup Monday. He was Lewis Hartzog, a Lexington boy who played a swell game at forward. When he fed the ball to Bones and Bones was covered, he was right there to help the big fellow out, and many times when the big fellow was covered, he fed the ball to Hartzog who made good his shots.

He handles the ball well and probably will be a great asset to the fast-break system of Coach Bob Warren next year.

Football in the Air Again

The doctor always feels his patient's pulse in diagnosing a case, and Doctor Williams Newton, M.D., of football at State, will feel the pulse of the 1941 Wolfpack next Tuesday afternoon in a practice game with Catawba (the latest pronunciation is Cat-a-wa-ba) in Riddick Stadium.

Doc Newton isn't saying much these days but the quiet, well-mannered old gentleman has something up his proverbial sleeve—we can tell by the twinkle in his eye.

Southern Conference Tourney

Only a miracle could put State's Red Terrormen in the basketball tournament next week. That miracle could lie in the fact that some team, far off from North Carolina's capital city, may not be able to accept a tournament bid because their boys would have to travel so far and miss too many classes and then State, being near at hand, would be tendered an invitation. This seems the only salvation for Dr. Bob Warren's boys.

Remember Hickman?

A column by yours truly wouldn't be complete without a word about Coach Herman Hickman. . . The little fellow orders the refreshments, eats and drinks alike, for the coaches and newsmen who will be visiting in Raleigh for the basketball tourney. Hickman is "Chef Deluxe" of the tournament each year and looks personally after the barbeques and the like for the big boys. . . big in name not like Coach Hickman.

With Sports Editor Bill Friday smiling from ear to ear over his new job, I'll say so long 'til later.

Track Team Competes In Indoor Contests At Hill Tomorrow

12th Annual Meet To Draw Over 50 Contestants; Hamf and Johnson Favored

State's track team will compete with fifty teams from the south and east and more than 400 participants in the twelfth annual Southern Conference Indoor Games to be held at Chapel Hill tomorrow, February 22.

Carolina's indoor track field is considered to be the best of its kind in the south. The track in Woodfin Gymnasium is eleven "laps" to the mile while the Madison Square Garden track is twelve and a half "laps" to the mile.

Radio Stations WPTF and WRAL will carry the track meet on their program Saturday night starting at 8 o'clock.

Nig Waller, assistant track coach, has announced that the following men from State will compete in the meet:

70-yard high hurdles—J. M. Aquilino, J. E. McDougall and J. M. White.

One-mile run—V. H. Johnson.

Broad-jump—R. H. Wright and W. K. Lee, Jr.

Pole-vault—"Ike" Hamf, "Joe" LeVasseur and G. P. Cloe.

60-yard dash—J. Pearson, J. N. Pease, R. H. Wright and R. Holoman.

High-jump—J. E. McDougall, Jr. In the freshmen division, Mike Andreacchi will run in the 60-yard dash.

In the half-mile run—in the non-conference division, twelve of the best middle-distance runners from the south and east will be shooting for a new record. Navy's Barney Oldfield set the present record of 1:38 two years ago.

Dave Bunting and Bill Ayers of Navy will attempt to break their former teammate's record. Bunting is one of the leading quarter-milers in the east, and is also a consistent winner in the half-mile.

John Corbett, Charles O'Keefe, James Maloney and James Street will represent Catholic University in the half-mile with Corbett given the best chance of eclipsing the record.

In the Conference pole-vauling event, "Ike" Hamf, co-captain of State's track team, is expected to set a new record. "Ike" has been practicing at Chapel Hill for the past two weeks in an attempt to get in shape for the track meet.

State's other co-captain, V. H. Johnson, is expected to place high in the mile run which promises to be run off in less than 4:25.

The winners in the dormitory and fraternity finals will "battle" it out for All-Campus honors. A fee of 10c will be charged at the door, and all proceeds will go towards buying medals for All-Campus selections at the end of the year.

6th dormitory advanced to the All-Campus finals in hand-ball last week by beating 2nd "C."

Newton Issues Call For Baseball Squad

Practice To Start After Basketball Tourney; Ramsey Back on the Hill

Coach Doc Newton will issue the initial call for all baseball candidates immediately after the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament is over next week, it was learned yesterday.

Early practice will center around limbering up drills and indoor work due to the cold weather.

Coach Newton will have a goodly portion of his last season's squad to begin work with and prospects are fairly bright for a good season. Curt "Crump" Ramsey and Ray Smith will be back to take turns on the hill. Coming up from the freshman squad of last spring to aid these two in mound work will be Dave Wood and Hay Hardy. Pat Fahley, the Fighting Irishman, will be behind the plate doing the catching.

Bill "Gabby" Morrison will be back to handle the hot corner, Lon Constant should hold down the shortstop post, and Wade Brown will be patrolling the outfield for another semester.

Last year's frosh squad will give plenty of competition to the holdovers on the varsity squad. The Mills brothers had good seasons last spring along with Woods, Hardy, Gilbert and several others and they should bolster the varsity nine.

The schedule hasn't been completed up to this week, but it will be released in The Technician upon completion.

"Bones" Leads Techs Over Imps, 45-43

Lanky Center Bags 10 Field Goals; Season Average of 16.7 Points Leads "Frosh Squad"

By playing faultless basketball and by scoring 22 points, "Bones" McKinney led his State College freshman teammates to a 45 to 43 win over the previously undefeated Duke freshmen. By smooth teamwork, the Techs completely overshadowed the Blue Imps in the second half, after trailing 24-18 at the end of the first period.

Revenge was sweet for the Baby Terrormen who were previously beaten by the Baby Devils. Revenge was especially sweet for McKinney, who was playing against three of his former teammates from Durham High. So brilliant was the play of "Bones" that his former mates behind them scored only seven points more than did "Bones" alone. Leaders for the Blue Imps were Garland and Cedric Loftis with 14 and 10 points respectively.

The closest Baby Terrormen to McKinney were Magee with seven points, and Palmer and Hartzog with six. Steiner and Pomeroy were especially outstanding for State, although each of the Baby Terrormen could easily be called a ball-hawk in the literal sense of the word.

Speaking of sports and sportsmanship, the boogie at basketball games seems to be getting worse. We don't contend that the officials are perfect, but razzing them doesn't help.

Seafood Mama . . .

Wade Inon, State College sports publicist, will enjoy seafood for several days to come. His better half (Mrs. Inon) won the five dollar prize given on the Hudson Sea Food Wheel of Fortune program over WRAL this week. The award is good in trade at the establishment. How do you like 'em, Wade—fried or on the half shell?

Conference Tourney Begins Thursday

Annual Basketball Meet To Draw Capacity Crowds; Glamack Out for Record

Its tournament time again. The twelfth annual Southern Conference Tournament is scheduled to begin next Thursday afternoon with the eight top basketball aggregations—in the conference taking the hardwood to do battle for the first round of the meet.

Glammack a whirlwind season that has seen many upsets and many outstanding individual performances this tournament should stack up with those of the past as thrill producers. History of previous a tough time making the final round on Saturday night and often they are eliminated before the final night.

The high riding White Phantoms of the University of North Carolina are the odds on favorites to make a walk out of the meet with Gigantic George Glammack leading the parade with his now-famous hook shot. The Tar Heels have been moving through all competition this season with comparative ease and they should reach the final round without much trouble. Dye in the wool fans of the game will recall the famous fight between the Generals of Washington and Lee and the Phantoms three years ago when the Virginians eliminated the Heels in the first round of the meet and say that anything can happen and Carolina might get taken for the proverbial ride again.

Virginia will be well represented this year with several of the top teams hailing from that state. The Generals of W. and L., the V. M. I. Cadets and the William and Mary Indians are sure of bids and they are ready for the pairings for the first round. Not much is known about the Indians but Big Five clubs have lost many games to the Cr. Jets and Gens this season.

Westmoreland will lead the hopes of South Carolina and especially those of the student body of the University when the Gamecocks do battle. He has been the top scorer in the Palmetto state during this year.

Movie Presented At ASCE Meeting
Film Traces History of Asphalt and Shows Its Many Uses Today
A picture depicting the great value and diversity of uses of asphalt was shown to the American Society of Civil Engineers at their meeting Tuesday night.
The film entitled, "Asphalt, Nature's Most Versatile Product," was an account of the services of asphalt to man down through the ages.
The first evidence that asphalt was used by man goes back to the ancient Egyptian and Babylonian civilizations. It was used as a mortar between the stones and rocks used in constructing the huge buildings and monuments which modern archeologists have found so helpful in eking out the story of these ancient cultures. The giant asphalt pit in California has yielded perfectly preserved skeletons of extinct animals.
Asphalt was once the "ugly duckling" of the petroleum industry but has now become one of the industry's most important products. Its major use is in the construction of smooth, dustless surfaces of considerable area—such as city streets, highways, sidewalks, tennis courts, and airports.
The picture continued with a complete list of the many uses for asphalt and was acclaimed by all the members as being one of the most interesting pictures of its type ever presented before the society.

All funds collected are distributed to needy students in the form of books, food, medical supplies, equipment, and living subsidies. Since most of the relief workers are volunteers, practically all of the funds can be put to use in aiding the students. Local committees, located in the foreign countries investigate all students before granting them any aid.
In furthering their campaign, Pine Burr members will soon bring a prominent speaker to the campus to speak on the subject of aid to foreign students. It is hoped that students will do their utmost to make this drive a success.
