Freshmen to be Guest At Huge Party Tonight

Registration Nears Goal Of Over 2,500; Figures Incomplete

2,473 Students Already Enrolled; Deadline Set For Noon Tomorrow; All Records Broken

State College's enrollment neared 2,500 yesterday with a total of 2,473 students had registered, nearly a hundred more than the record number of 2,378 enrolled for the fall term last year.

First Year Students From Peace, Meredith, St. Mary's And State to be Entertained by Merchants

Freshmen from four Raleigh colleges will meet tonight at a gala get-together party in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium. Sponsored by the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Raleigh Merchants' Bureau, and assisted by the State College Student Government, the affair will be the first of its kind ever held in the city.

None of the several hundreds of participating institutions will have a quota exceeding 50, according to C. A. A. regulations. The flight training program is being spread over a larger number of schools while appropriations keep the total national enrollment from expanding for the present.

More rigid selection of students is being urged this fall. One rule prohibits students from hitchhiking to or from the airport, with disqualification as the penalty for violation.

Prof. Parkinson emphasized yesterday that no student can be accepted for the course unless it is a part of his regular roster, thus allowing college credit.

Ground school already has started, and flight training at the Raleigh airport is expected to begin by Oct. 1. The course calls for 72 hours of ground school and from 35 to 50 hours in the air, and must be completed by next Jan. 31.

W. R. Mann, formerly flight instructor at the airport, has joined Prof. Parkinson's department to serve as operations manager and to handle instructions at the Chapel Hill airport for Carolina students.

Mann, a 1937 graduate of State College, worked with the Piper Cub Co. before affiliating with the Raleigh airport staff.

Applicants for the course must be between their 19th and 26th birthdays. Youths with at least two years of college work, but not now attending college, are acceptable provided they meet all other requirements.

When the C. A. A.'s student pilot training program began in the spring of 1936, State College was one of 13 schools scattered across the nation to participate in the pioneering experimental course.

University Newsmen Describe Typical Sorority Girl In Latest Issue of Student Life

The Division of Teacher Training of N. C. State College is beginning the school year for 1940-41 with the finest outlook since the college began training teachers of vocational and practical subjects, T. E. Browne, director of the division, declared today.

Since the division moved its headquarters to the main floor and basement of Tompkins Hall, there is ample space for classrooms, offices and shops. When this space is fully equipped, it will be the most adequate quarters in the South for training vocational education and vocational arts teachers.

Dr. Dannie J. Moffie, who secured his B.S. degree from Ball State Teachers' College of Muncie, Ind., and his master's and doctor's degrees from Ohio State. Between the times when he secured his undergraduate and doctor's degrees, Dr. Ludington taught in the public schools of Muncie and also at Ball State, where he helped with the training of industrial arts teachers.

Dr. Dannie J. Moffie, who secured his Ph.D. degree from Pennsylvania State College this summer, will assist with the work of the department in psychology. The work of this department has grown tremendously.

Two of the state's leading teachers of vocational agriculture have joined the division's staff as teaching fellows in agricultural education. They are A. G. Bullard, who has been teaching at Bethel High School since graduating from State College in 1939, and R. B. Winchester in 1937. He and Mr. Winchester will work for their master's degrees while assisting in the training of teachers of vocational agriculture.

Rare Conversations Are Rumored As Dormitory Phones Get Busy

By SID TAGER

State College students have taken to the new dormitory telephones with a rush. Starting last Friday, the volume of calls steadily increased until today, when the phones hardly a week old, the exchange handles 50 calls an hour during low hours and over 150 calls an hour between the hours of 6:00 and 8:00 p.m. Incidentally, the choice rooms will be those situated farthest away from the phones.

Campus Disgrace

The State College laundry receives our nomination for being the poorest and most inefficient organization of its kind we have ever seen or heard of.

We do not believe that there is an upperclassman in school who has not had trouble with the laundry in some form or other. Faded clothing, lost articles, poorly washed clothes, torn shirts, and numerous other complaints may be heard on every side. The chief grievance against the cleaning department is double and triple creased trousers, not to mention the fact that many of the articles come back almost as dirty as they were when sent. Shirt collars seem to fray with incredible rapidity after being washed a few times.

If the students were really getting their laundry done at substantially reduced rates we would not have so much room for complaint, but an investigation will show that laundry finished at "pound rates" in a good city laundry costs just about the same, or a little less than we pay here. The service is better, quicker, and safer besides.

To add to the above grievances an inspection of your laundry ticket will show that the State College laundry is not liable for more than ten times the washing charges in case of lost clothes. Most city laundries will make full payment and are glad to do so, while charging no more for the service.

The ticket also states that, "As certain dyes are not fast, no responsibility is accepted for colors." That may be so, but we believe that a white shirt is generally white and will not fade, and we are unable to see any reason why a white shirt should come back with a blue or gray tint predominating.

We must admit that the cleaning is done cheaper than anywhere else, but we fail to see what excuse can be given for the ever present double creases. Besides, we believe the students would be willing to pay a little more for decent work.

The reasons for the above conditions we are unable to give, but they must be either poor equipment, very poor management, careless and indifferent work, or a combination of the above. As a cure we suggest an investigation by a faculty or student committee and a complete reorganization from top to bottom afterward. The students are certainly getting a raw deal.

OPEN FORUM

A senior manager, especially of football, should be one of the most sought for offices on our campus. Our student-body and campus as a whole should appreciate what this man has done to win this office. This position does not come by way of a moment's recognition by friends. It indicates four years of service to the campus activities which are of most interest to our students, faculty and alumni. This man by his stick-to-it-iveness and his merit is chosen for an office which has great possibilities and also responsibilities for service. He really is an assistant to the athletic staff. His responsibilities are not only practice sessions but he has a vital part in the equipment, in the trips, in the training room and with the games.

State College students have "slipped" in their interest and their enthusiasm to attain this office. In the past, managers ranked right along with the student presidency in the student's opinion of possible honors he could try for while in college. I want to open up this opportunity in the minds of our students. I want to make a plea for your cooperation in this position which means so much to our respective coaches and their endeavors to develop the best teams that it is possible to develop with the facilities at their disposal. You have the privilege of electing the sport in season to do your work in required physical education.

Our plan of managerships is as follows: We want all the freshmen who will assist to come out and report to the senior manager of the sport in season. Then starting the sophomore year, we want those who think they have abilities and possibilities to stay out as sophomore assistant managers. A committee composed of the coach, senior manager and business manager of athletics will choose three junior assistant managers from the sophomore group. This same committee will recommend to the Athletic Council one junior assistant to be senior manager of the varsity and one junior as senior manager of the freshmen for the next year. Senior managers are awarded their sweaters and monograms and have all privileges belonging to that group.

Football with its many details demands the above plan. Other sports follow the same procedure but will require a smaller number of assistant managers. We are proud of the spirit and loyalty of our student body under adverse circumstances. Let's not fall down because of a lack of interest in this most important and necessary assistance to our athletic teams. Report to the senior manager; he will start you off.
J. F. MILLER, Director of Athletics.

store cowboy on Saturday night. They acted as if they had never seen a female of the species before and were certainly nervous to get acquainted. We breathed a definite sigh of relief when they finally tumbled out of the car on Fayetteville Street.

It has been difficult for State College to live down the roughneck reputation that it once had, and we are proud of the fact that in the past few years we have been steadily building up a reputation of sportsmanlike and gentlemanly conduct. We do not think it is too much to ask of the freshmen that they behave themselves and try to act like gentlemen whether they are or not.

From your own point of view, do you think the people with whom you catch rides are going to pick up any more State College boys after an exhibition similar to that which we mentioned above? Even as students here we will not pick up those same boys again if we can help it, and we are willing to overlook a lot.

Probably the boys who rode with us represent only a small minority, but the people of the City of Raleigh are not going to pick up every freshman out here to see how he acts after such an example. The minority can cause the rest of us a lot of grief, and we will always be judged by the actions of the worst of us, not the best.

BEHIND THE MIKES

By JACK TURNER and ALBERT JOHNSON

Benny Goodman, even though his hand has been dislocated for the summer, gained his fifth title as King of Swing and was the favorite of all the bands in the recent "Metronome" contest. Tommy Dorsey was the sweetest hand, with Duke Ellington taking honors as the best non-swing band. Glenn Miller, as was expected, gave the leaders a lot of competition, taking second place in the sweet, swing, and favorably. This was the greatest showing of any band, in the history of the contest. Gene Krupa showed the best improvement of any band with a rise from 12th to 4th place in the swing, 38th to 11th in the sweet, and 13th to 4th in the favorite. This band has been helped out recently by good arrangements, air time and Irene Day's vocals. The younger bands of last year, Charlie Barnett, Harry James and Woody Herman showed improvement in their standings, and have noticed that they would soon be pushing Goodman, Dorsey and Miller for top honors. Of course with the rise of the young there are always some to go down. Artie Shaw, Hal Kemp and Horace Heidt took these honors. The Kay Kyser-Sammy Kaye battle was settled in the sweet division by Kaye's one point victory, while Kyser was two points ahead in the favorite; so this is one question still unanswered as to which is the better band. Although swing is supposed to be losing out to other types of music, the ten favorite bands are the best swing combinations in the country. There is a band in the group which finished in this order: Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Gene Krupa, Bob Crosby, Jimmy Dorsey, Woody Herman, Duke Ellington, Casa Loma, and Harry James.

Ginny Sims had a plastic surgeon operate on her nose to get ready for Kay Kyser's new picture, "You'll Find Out." It's supposed to have made an improvement in her looks. . . . Eddy Duchin, whose band played at the Finals, is slated to play the lead in the new Warner flicker about the pianist and composer George Gerahwin. . . . Count Basie, Jan Garber, Kay Kyser, Artie Shaw, Paul Whiteman, and the Andrews Sisters are also in Hollywood studios. . . . Tommy Dorsey will be heard beginning October 3 at 8:30 on NBC for Nature's Remedy. . . . Most of Benny Goodman's band is with Artie Shaw who is featuring a happyish. . . . Ziggy Elman took over Bunny Beigan's trumpet chair in Tommy Dorsey's band when the latter was fired. . . . Wayne King returns over CBS October 5, Phil Harris and Jack Benny return October 6, and Skinny Ennis with Bob Hope September 24. . . . Alec Templeton, the blind pianist, married Mrs. Juliette Vaise August 24. Chained slaves Africa started the very popular 1-8-8-hick dance, in Congo, according to a recent Xanier Cugat article. The slaves could walk easier this way, and when they were brought to Cuba the Spanish adopted it, and from there it came to New York.

GLEANINGS

One more week like this and the whole staff would be about ready for a double Mickey lazed with arsenic. What with rush-week, classes, a TECHNICIAN to get out, and various other duties, we're ready for conscription, for we would never be able to pass the physical exam. Sorry to hear that State's losing three of her first line football players to the army. According to some of the leading sports columnists, college football is liable to receive quite a serious setback because of conscription. Haven't noticed in any of the press releases that any of our neighboring schools have suffered any losses—don't think they need to worry much, for only American citizens can be conscripted. Best wishes to the Pack this week, for the Indians have twelve lettermen back this year, and would give any team in the country a tough fight.

State's student-body average will suffer quite a drop this coming week, for we see that "Room Town," one of the better movies of the year, hits Raleigh next week. Of course—the picture in itself might not drag so many of us from our textbooks, but the cast includes Eddy Lemarr, who is enough to make any college man forget the difference between a sine and a cosine.

Best idea we've heard this school year so far is the one suggesting that the name of our institution be changed to Carolina Tech. This idea was first brought up last year, and the more we hear of it the better it sounds. It would really be fine to have a more distinctive name.

Overhead: Bill Friday asking Pete Pop about the current rate for taking care of babies—what is this, Bill, a junior president for the class of '41? Also hear that George Coward is entering a petition for more and bigger carnivals—what's the matter, George, wasn't the last one enough for you? What about a guy who would send four girls in his home town postcards, and a selected one a five-page letter in order to make a good impression? It might be good psychology, but we'll refer you to Captain Haens of the Drum and Bugle Corps, as we understand he is doing quite a bit of research on the subject. Ask Leigh Wilson about the beautiful brunette who offered to teach him how to lula at a recent rushing party.

What about this consolidation of Meredith and Wake Forest that we were hearing so much about last year? Don't think that the State student body was ever very much in favor of it, so everyone's hoping that the idea has been abandoned. What happened to the course in movie appreciation that everyone hoped would be included in our curriculum this year? Guess they have decided to install it over at Carolina instead.

On the subject of courses, we're sure that the members of the faculty and the students of chemistry regret the loss, even for a year, of Dr. Singer, who has been associated with the chemistry department for some years.

Congratulations are in order once again for the business men of Raleigh, who are making possible a really fine entertainment for the incoming frosh of Raleigh's four colleges. In the past few years, both the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Bureau of Raleigh have done a great deal toward the establishment of more friendly relationships between the students of State and the people of Raleigh. They are showing us that they are really interested in State College, and it is up to us to show our interest in Raleigh by refraining from any actions that would cause the people of Raleigh any trouble or inconvenience.

It seems that in the newspaper business, there is a time for everything, and this is the time to stop, but we'll leave you with this thought, contributed by one of the Raleigh gals: "College is the most educating place in the world. The students come to school as freshmen knowing everything, but when they graduate they insist that they don't know anything."

FROM THIS ANGLE

... by EDWIN PERRY

We came, we saw and we went away—still wondering. That tells the story of the dress rehearsal staged in Riddick Stadium by Coach Williams (Doc) Newton's 1940 Wolfpack edition.

Stories have been written and stories are being written about the Wolfpack and what the "country boys" are going to offer the football world this year and yet they all draw the same conclusion we drew after seeing that dress rehearsal evening under the stars. They are just one big question mark. I seriously doubt if Hermann (Rubby) Dub-dub, the Tennessee tub) Hickman or Poker-faced Babe Wood know what to expect, and they have worked right in the midst of the "country lads" for some three weeks.

We can say this with a clear conscience. . . . They seem to be trying plenty hard, full of pep and if they do lack size and experience they have the determination to put themselves across.

Some people seem to think that it'll be the hipper-dipper of the Tennessee system that'll do the trick for the Wolves but I'll be different and stretch my weary bones on the farthest twigs of a limb and say we'll be one of the passingest teams folks around these hyar parts done ever peered at. Mark my word . . . or pick me up when the limb breaks.

Get Tough Boys

But seriously those home grown Tar Heels representing State this year are in there to put everything they have into the game just as you or I would do and I hope that if any of these pessimistic poops around this fair city start talking about that Wolfpack that some energetic frosh will smack the hell out of them.

The Guard Steps In

The hearts of wives, sweethearts and loved ones were torn with grief last week when Uncle Sam called out his National Guardsmen but nary-a-one felt near the grief that wrung the heart and hopes of one Williams (Doc) Newton, the one and only head football coach at North Carolina State, when the call was sounded.

Why!!! Well who wouldn't grieve the loss of three football players when the season was destined to be the leanest in many moons with all hands on deck. That is exactly the reason the Doctor was grieving . . . he had lost two left ends and a tackle. It wouldn't have been so bad had they not been some of the best in camp, one of whom was expected to rise to great heights. . . . He was none other than End Alvin Phillips, the blonde buster from Raleigh. His understudy Barrett Wilson and Tackle Julian White, also Raleigh boys, round out the trio. Now they spend the afternoons doing right shoulder arms instead of practicing for the scalping of the Indians of William and Mary in Norfolk tonight . . . either scalp or get scalped.

Now there is another angle to this National Guard coup that hasn't been emphasized much . . . and here lies a ray of hope. The Governor can still excuse these boys and says he will—provided that other states have excused college boys from service. All college students should be excused rightfully and now more than at any other time some of these string-pulling politicians should grasp the string and give it a yank for the sake of dear old N. C. S.

This'n and That'n

There was a little red-haired laddie alternating in the backfield with Dick Watts Wednesday evening who looks awfully good. . . . It's little Jackie Singer, a regular swivel-hipped ewingeroo . . . and about this coliseum . . . I started a howl in letters to the editor of this parchment last year for a decent meeting place for the students but this idea is an even better idea so my friends I plan to harp on the coliseum 'til I turn blue in the face this year. . . . How far the plans have gone I know not but if we don't let these folks know we are interested the idea may drop by the roadside.

These Frosh Have the Biz

We have not heered much about these corn-fed, Yankee-grown, men of might who have the conventional green of the frosh team this year but they are about the hottest thing in 48 states . . . well maybe 47. But if I am not mistaken terribly the boys from Presbyterian Junior College are in for a surprise Saturday night. Why they are so big we saw Howell Stroup looking up at one the other day. . . . Howell is six-feet-three.

Now is the time to say adieu, toodle-oo, auf wiedersehen, etc., and before I stop banging this antique model Royal I want to invite you all—each and every one—to criticize these quibblings of mine—they'll be as welcome as flowers in spring. . . . See you at the ball game Saturday night.

Guard Calls Gridders For Active Service

When spring practice came to an end last year, Doc Newton was well satisfied that in at least one position, left end, he was set for the coming grid season. He had monogram players Mickey Thompson, Alvin Phillips and Wade Brown, and Barrett Wilson, a crackerjack end from last year's freshman team.

But fortune was against the 'Pack, and now Doc hasn't one solitary man to play left end. Phillips and Wilson are leaving tomorrow for a year's duty with the National Guard while Mickey Thompson, a senior has been declared ineligible because he has been in college five years. Wade Brown the only remaining end is definitely out, for today's game at least, with a badly wrenched knee.

To fill this gap, Doc has switched Macdon Stillewell, a sophomore from right end to left end and he will probably start tonight against the Indians, but there are no replacements to fill that position.

In addition to these losses the 'Pack has lost Letterman Bill Windley, a first string guard, and Doby Nelson, a fullback from last year's frosh team who was slated for plenty of action this season. These men will probably be ready for the Davidson game.

Another letter man lost to the National Guard, is Julian White, a monogram tackle.

63 Boys Report For Frosh Grid Drills

Over sixty-three hopeful freshman footballers answered Coach Bob Warren's initial call for practice the first week of school and they have been hard at work for the last two weeks getting lined up for the curtain raiser with Presbyterian Junior College Saturday night at eight o'clock.

This crop of Wolflets looks like the best bunch of freshmen that have been on the campus in many a season. They are big and fast and show plenty of potentialities. Coach Gene Conrad and John Savini say the boys are in good condition and raring to go.

The squad this year is composed of boys from nine different states and it boasts of plenty of poundage. Heaviest of the contingent is John Culp, a 285 pound stalwart from Charlotte, N. C.

During last Saturday's scrimmage with the varsity the frosh showed a lot of class in some departments. Not much is known about the Presbyterians but they had better be ready for plenty of excitement with the kick-off in Riddick Stadium Saturday night.

MURAL MUSINGS

By JIMMY McDUGAL

Professor J. F. Miller's intramural program for this year will open next Monday, September 22, when the Kappa Sigmas' gridiron gladiators play the Lambda Chi Alphas on 1911 field. At the same time the Alpha Gamma Rhoes and the Alpha Kappa Phi's meet on freshman field.

The next day the dormitory boys begin their season with First A meeting Second A on the freshman field, and First C and Second C squaring off on 1911 field.

At a meeting last night the teams' managers were told of a new rule adopted for football. In passing the ball, the passer must be back of the line of scrimmage instead of 5 yards back of the line as was last year's rule. This should make scoring easier since it opens up the defense.

Another change in the program is the addition of leisure sports: archery, dart throwing and basketball throw. These sports will take the place of soccer. In previous years it proved difficult to get the soccer games played off because of bad weather and lack of playing space. Leisure sports will start next month and should prove popular.

Doc Newton Puts Lightest Team in Many Years On The Field Tonight Against Indians in Norfolk

The 1940 Wolfpack left the campus yesterday morning for Norfolk to meet the highly touted Indians of William and Mary in the season's opener.

William and Mary has a team that is better in many departments than was their last year's eleven. Twelve of their 22 lettermen of last year are returning with many of those top-notch freshmen of last fall to bolster the reserve strength.

Leading this impressive list of lettermen is Captain Chris Gundak, All-State end in 1939 and one of the outstanding wingmen in the Old Dominion. His running mate at the other end position will probably be Al Chestnut, rangy end from Stoughton, Mass. Chestnut is one of the siege guns in the Indian offensive attack.

John Brodka and Ed Goodlow will probably be in there at those starting guard positions. Brodka, playing his last year of college ball, has alternated at the blocking back post and he may see action in there again this year. Goodlow, his running mate, was a back during his freshman year, saw service as a center during his sophomore season, and last year came out at his present guard position.

In there at those tackle posts Voyles has one of the leading tackles in the state in the person of Hank Whitehouse. The 190-pound ace hails from Sayville, N. Y. Over on the other side of the line at the other tackle post is gigantic Jumbo Berry, a 220 pounder from Lynchburg, Virginia.

Bill Goodlow, brother of Tackle Ed Goodlow will be at the pivot post. He was one of the surprise packages in the sophomore contingent last year beating out Rudy Tucker, a senior letterman. He is a good defensive man and has a knack for intercepting passes.

The Indian backfield is blessed with returning lettermen and some classy sophomore talent. Voyles has been running ten backs during practice sessions and the most likely combination for the State game is Howard, Matthews, Hollingsworth and Fields. This set of backs averages around 175 pounds and packs plenty of speed and power. Matthews pulled one of those one-man stunts last season in their game with Washington and Lee. All he did was kick two field goals, pass for one touchdown and then reel off a thirty yard punt for the game-winning score. Hollingsworth does the fullbacking, Howard is the passer, and Fields is being touted as a good blocking back.

The game tonight will be the first meeting of these two clubs in twenty years. In 1906 the Wolfpack whipped the Indians to the tune of a 40-0 count and followed two years back by taking the William and Mary crew by a 20-0 score. The series rested for twelve years, being brought to life again in 1920. That year the Wolves put the Indians to rout by the score of 81 to 0. As the series now stands State has taken all three games and scored 141 points to 0 for William and Mary.

The probable line-up for State is Owens and Stillwell at ends; tackles, Curt Ramsey and Woody Jones; guards, Ralph Bart and Dink Cato; center, Howell Stroup; backs, Pat Fehley, Jack Huckback, Bob Cathey, and Dick Watts with Jackie Singer and Dick East alternating.

Announcements

There will be a very important meeting of the electrical engineering students Tuesday, September 24, at 6:45 p.m. in room 207, Daniels Hall.

The State Sampson Society will hold its first meeting of the school year in Peale Hall, Room 8, Wednesday at 7 p.m. All students in college from Sampson County are urged to be present.

There will be a meeting of the Industrial Arts Society Thursday evening, September 26, at 8 p.m. in Tompkins Hall. All freshmen and other Industrial Arts students are cordially invited.

Additional Officers Needed For Service In Engineer Corps

Additional officers are needed for the Civil Engineering Corps Reserve of the U. S. Navy, Col. J. W. Harrison, administrative dean of State College, was notified recently by a communication from Commander W. M. Angus, public works officer with the Sixth Naval District headquarters in Charleston, S. C. The call is for men interested in national defense work.

Civil engineers accepted cannot be called into active service except with their consent unless a state of war or national emergency exists, Commander Angus explained.

Listed as particularly desirable assets in officers of the Civil Engineering Corps Reserve are "practical field experience, especially on construction, the supervision of construction forces, familiarity with work outside the continental limits of the United States, and training in some branch of the armed forces."

Preliminary applications should be made in letter form addressed to the commanding officer, District, U. S. Navy Yard at Charleston. These preliminary applications, Commander Angus stated, should give a resume of the candidate's experience, briefly describing the nature of his work and the salary received during each engagement. Formal application blanks for commission will be forwarded to candidates whose preliminary applications indicate them to be men of the experience and caliber required.

Reserve commissions are open for ensign, junior grade lieutenant and lieutenant. All require several years of active practice after the civil engineer has received his degree. Excellent physical condition and good character also are requisites. The Navy will advance reserve officers in rank up to lieutenant commander in accordance with length of service and progress in the profession.

Accepted engineers will be required to take a correspondence course conducted by the Bureau of Yards and Docks in naval regulations, organization and methods of carrying on engineering work, duties of officers in the engineers' reserve and the work they will be called upon to perform in wartime.

At The Theatres

AT THE WAKE
Bing Crosby shares honors with his youngest co-star, little Gloria Jean, in a bright new Universal comedy, "If I Had My Way," which opens Sunday at the Wake Theatre.

Gay tunes, the best Bing has had in a long while, are enlivened by duet arrangements for Bing and Gloria that are particularly effective. And with the addition of a clever supporting cast and an excellent screen play, "If I Had My Way" is altogether an appealing film.

Bing appears as a steelworker, one of a trio of pals that include El Brendel and Donald Woods. Gloria is the daughter of Woods, and when the father is killed in a bridge accident Bing and Brendel take her to New York to live with relatives.

Complications ensue when Brendel generously buys a bankrupt cafe from a friend, and the story then concerns itself with the problems of the three comrades in making the business pay.

Crosby Outstanding

As always, Crosby's easy presence lends enjoyment to his performance, and makes it one of the best in his long string of successful pictures. Gloria Jean, hailed as a major screen discovery after her debut in "The Under-Pup," has a childish charm that is utterly captivating. In several dramatic and comedy scenes she proves that her talents as an actress have not been overestimated.

OTHER PAPERS SAY

From The Richmond Collegian
STAY WHERE YOU ARE

There are many familiar faces missing from the campus this season, men not here because they have thought that they were needed in "this man's army." There are some whom the campus has never seen. These potential students, believing that it was their patriotic duty to enlist, have given up the best opportunity possible to serve their country.

Today the American people are seeking men who can lead us into a peace, not men to carry the nation into a war. The toll of the last orgy took many of our potential leaders, the loss of whom is greatly felt now. To make up for this lost generation ours must produce the leaders in the army all hope of his becoming the one to aid the nation in making a new peace ends.

This country needs trained, educated men far more than soldiers. Intelligence, far-sighted thinking, and precision in looking to the future, and not in aiming through a bomb-sight, are to be sought in the men of our age. These qualities are not born in a man; they must be developed. Here, in a college community, a man studies the problems that confront his age and learns how to meet and solve such problems. He investigates the physical and social environment, finds how best to adjust to and improve them. He is surrounded by the influence of other men from whom he learns to think straight and to play fair. His college education prepares him to render the greatest service to his country.

To you, who perhaps have thought yourselves unpatriotic for not enlisting in the army, play where you are. Think twice before you leave school. You are aiding your country best by remaining in college.

The Walt Disney animated cartoon technique is a new twist in engineering courses at New York University to illustrate principles and mechanical theories.

Portrait in Cotton

Using cotton yarns, students in the Textile School at N. C. State College wove this portrait of Col. J. W. Harrison, dean of administration, on a Jacquard loom. The design was painted by John M. Mauney of Lenoir and E. J. Bendigo of Greensboro cut the cards for the loom. The portrait was completed during the summer session. Mauney painted perhaps 25,000 dots to produce this excellent likeness of Col. Harrison. The work was carried on in the textile school's new building, the most modern of its type in the nation, to demonstrate the Jacquard's capacity for fancy weaving.

Ceramic Department Head Appointed National Chairman of Sigma Pi Scholarship Commission

Dr. A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the Department of Ceramic Engineering at State College, again has been appointed national chairman of the Sigma Pi Scholarship Commission, it was announced recently.

Dr. Greaves-Walker has held the post since 1938. Membership on the commission is filled by the national president of Sigma Pi, national social fraternity. The commission is charged with developing an extra-curricular educational program for the college man and improving the scholarship of fraternity members.

The three-man commission, it was indicated, will be filled this year entirely by North Carolina educators. Prof. J. D. Clark of the State College English Department and Dr. E. E. Foltz of the Wake Forest College English Department are slated to serve with Dr. Greaves-Walker, who became a member of the fraternity at Ohio State.
