Thanks To The Assembly

The final outcome of State College's appropriation for the next biennium has been practically settled, and from all present indications we are in line for a substantial increase over the amount we have had for the past two years.

Net increases recommended by the Budget Commission and the Appropriations Committee amount to $88,413 for the first year and $106,098 for the second.

State College, the Greater University, and North Carolina are fortunate in having men in the General Assembly who see the needs of our State institutions and who are willing to grant them a portion of the funds they need so badly. In the past it has been the custom of the legislature to cut the schools down before anything else in order to balance the budget. However, our present legislators have seen the need for increased educational facilities in the State. They have realized that progress is made through education, and they have provided as much money as they believe the State's financial condition will allow.

Although State College is still far from being the great technical and agricultural college that it will be in the not too distant future, we have come a long way this year if the present recommendations of the Appropriations Committee go through.

Experimentation

In accordance with the plan to allow each potential candidate for editor of The Technician edit one issue, this week's paper was directed by M. C. May. With the exception of the editorial directly above, all editorials were written by May. The opinions he expresses may not necessarily agree with those shown in the previous editorials appearing in The Technician. This statement also applies to all editorials written by other candidates which appeared last week and which will appear in the next two issues. We are attempting to give the student body an idea of what they may expect from each of the candidates.

Wake Up!

With this, the last issue of The Technician for the term, we take the opportunity to wish every student the best of luck on his exams.

Although some students may think that there isn't a chance left to pass the tough ones in which he has a low average, it isn't too late until the exam is over. Cramming might not qualify as a virtuous habit, but it may save the day for many border-line cases if it is done in time. The task before you might seem to be of such mammoth proportions that it appears almost impossible, but with the proper application of time and effort, something of value is bound to result.

"It is worth a thousand pounds a year to look on the bright side of things." Such a word to the wise should be sufficient, but oftentimes it isn't. Apply yourself with the objective in mind to succeed, not to go down in defeat and then laugh about it. If you find it impossible to accomplish anything in your room because of the noise and activity around you, go to the library or find some other suitable haven for study. Don't let the boisterousness of your unlearning friends be a millstone to your downfall.

Many a success has been made of failure, but only at the expense of hard toil and labor. Many students spend several hours dawdling over what they could do in 15 minutes of honest effort. These are usually the ones caught napping or left at the post. In a great many cases a thoughtless student may get back into the race if he wakes up before it's too late. That is the job we have to do; wake up before it's too late! It is better to have tried and failed than never to have tried at all.

Danger

There has been a remarkable lack of care displayed by many students who persist in crossing the railroad tracks after a train has blown a warning of the danger. A short time ago, on the day of the parade for our South American visitors, a group of students were crossing the track in front of an oncoming train and they continued to cross until the engine was almost upon them.

This carelessness is entirely unnecessary and the practitioners of such an offense should be reminded that their intelligence does not warrant any excuse for such foolhardiness. An effort has been made by the administration to prevent the necessity of so many students having to cross the tracks by having an underpass constructed near A and C dormitories and the bridge should furnish ample means at this end.

It is true that there is a great deal of inconvenience involved in walking some distance to a bridge or underpass but logical reasoning should be enough to convince almost anyone of the importance of going to so little trouble to avoid a terrible misfortune which would likely result in death. There might possibly be some excuse for saving time if the coast is definitely clear before venturing to cross, but the daring of some students to challenge the right-of-way when a locomotive is coming just doesn't make sense.

If it is found that nothing else can be done to prevent such foolish adventures, then someone should go to the trouble and expense to construct an underpass at every interval at which crossings are made. Such an expense should not be necessary if the students stop and think about what they are doing.

The Youth of America

The youth of America is today faced with one of the most trying problems ever imagined. This statement is heard almost every day and many thoughtless youths discard it as an idle diversion.

The true significance of such a situation cannot be fully realized without a great deal of serious contemplation. We and ours will be left with the dregs of civilization and all imaginable horrors which accompany such an existence, if we don't tread with utmost caution and premeditation into the future. We must prepare ourselves with an impregnable constitution which must be derived from thorough training and knowledge of methods to combat the plague which is about to overtake us.

It seems that the very foundation of civilization has been demolished elsewhere and ours will be next unless we exert every effort to avert any such possibility. All around us industry is teeming with activity in which the adult element of the population is striving to prepare us for an undertaking which no person in his right mind can admit is rational. If such an ordeal should come to pass, we would be confronted with the vastness of the entire universe as odds against rebuilding a lost civilization which required centuries to build.

Ours is the job to prevent the useless expenditure of valuable resources and the exertion of man-power that is needed to build for existence and progress, not to build for disintegration. One may ask the question: how can we exert our efforts for the prevention of the catastrophe? Although one single answer cannot be given for the question, the vital essential necessary to solve the issue is at least to concentrate our facilities in an effort to extricate ourselves from the predicament we are now in. We should apply ourselves while we are here at State College to learn the fundamentals indispensable for the welfare of the nation. Certainly the opportunity is not lacking, if we will take advantage of it. The universal importance of our fate demands that we spend every spare minute of our time doing little things that add up to a great deal if everyone does his part. Studying is no longer a matter of the success or failure of an individual. It is the responsibility of every State College student to do everything within his power, no matter how small or seemingly insignificant, to increase our chances to retain a wonderful nation that is too young to die.

OPEN FORUM

Colonel Thomas W. Brown
Room 1-A, Holladay Hall
Campus

Dear Colonel Brown:

On behalf of the Inter-American Institute Committee of N. C. State College, I wish to express to you, your staff, and the members of the R.O.T.C. our thanks and appreciation for the very excellent military parade given in honor of our South American guests on February 20.

I have received many expressions of admiration for the fine parade that morning, and I quote you from the letter received from Dr. J. C. Lyons, Executive Secretary of the Inter-American Institute of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill: "I ought not pick out for special congratulations any single event in a day that was generally perfect; however, I may say that our visitors were especially impressed by the military review staged by the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. We hope that you will be good enough to convey our sincere thanks to all of those who had anything to do with assisting you in preparation for this very interesting visit to Raleigh—students, faculty members, and citizens of the city."

Again assuring you of the appreciation of our committee, I am

Yours sincerely,
BLAKE E. VAN LEER
Chairman, N. C. State College

Quadrangle Quibblings

By WARD BUSHEE

Are you good looking? Does a girl go into a taltipin when it comes near you? If you are better looking than that rambling wreck from Knoxville of third floor eighth (go look in a mirror if you are wondering who he is) then tell your friends to vote for you. Q. Q. is running a poll this week for the best looking boy in the freshman class. This poll is the result of repeated demands by the daisies of the surrounding institutions. They have a special ceremony planned for the winner. It seems that the next time they have a fog on St. Mary's campus the lucky boy will be asked to walk into this great mist, and woo like the great Adam La Zonga a girl who has been shown Deley Kase. Besides, this woman killer will have his name printed in this column in not less than 98 point type along with the 10 runner-up. The ballot is at the bottom of the page. You have until next Wednesday to fill out your ballot and slide it under the door of The Technician office.

Here and There
Carroll's commotion causing comment. "They laughed when I got up to sing. How did I know I was under the table?" Willy saying that a woman's promise to be on time carries a lot of weight.

The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street Album release date has been set for March 17. It will be made up of "Mood Indigo" with Dinah Shore and the Laval Ten, "Muskrat Ramble" featuring Sidney Bechet with Levine's Philharmonic, "Ramming Will" with Paul Laval and the Wood Windy Ten, "Dinah's Blues" featuring Dinah Shore, "Shoemaker's Holiday" with the Wood Windy Five, and "Basin Street Blues" by Levine's Barefooted Philharmonic. The Album is released by Victor and will cost $2.00.

WPTF
Horace Heidt will bring his Pot of Gold Band to the Bandwagon Sunday night. Heidt's band has a well diversified musical attack and plays anything from hot swing to "Ave Maria." His singing stories using parts of songs is one of the most popular attractions of the band. Larry Cotton and Frankie Carle are the featured members of the band. Heidt was forced to enter the band business because of a broken back received in a University of California football game. The band was organized after he left the hospital and went on a theatre tour of the nation. They broke records wherever they went and so quickly went to the top.

GLEANINGS

JUST THINKING OUT LOUD: Seeing "Buck Privates" at the show Sunday night revealed another unpleasant side to the national defense program... we'll probably be snowed under with movies of that calibre from now on... But there's one consolation—they can't be any worse... Wonder if the coming elections have anything to do with the bright expressions junior politicians are wearing these days? ... Even Henry Rowe, the Technician's official weather man, has said that spring was here to stay... Get Sam Welch to tell you about how he helped Duke celebrate their tournament victory last week-end.

It looks as though George Funderburk has given up that idea he had of selling magazines to work his way through school... You can find Bob Cathey and Dick Watts in the vicinity of Patterson Hall every morning at 9 helping the Farm Security girls get to work safely... Whatever became of Charlie Chaplin's picture, "The Dictator"? ... Wish you could have seen the eating contest Coach Holman Hickman and Professor Jim Weaver staged the other night at the Town House... Yes, you're right, Holman won again.

Add little-known facts about well-known people: Fabe (Dorsey) Clements spends most of his spare time at Stoney's reading those Super Man comic books... ditto Bill Hawfield... Alumni Secretary Dan Paul is writing a sequel to Margaret Mitchell's book... He has titled it "Gone with the Draft"... From Angus (Sam) Ray comes the information that the campus will soon be divided into two powerful political parties... The local charmers may be interested in knowing that Jerry (What's-Do-Doing-Tonight) Mitchell has retired from the collegian ranks and is now working at Fort Bragg.

Bill Friday has really been taking a ribbing since that Charlotte Observer story described him as "the mayor of Dallas' barefoot son"... That freshman election described in an adjacent column on this page reminds us that Jimmy Burnham was voted the cutest freshman during his first year... If you want to go in for some deep, gory reading, curl up with "Out of the Night," a tale of what goes on in Nazi concentration camps, etc... we'll guarantee that it will even make Ed Perry's hair stand on end... Have you heard about the "Blackout Ball" that's going to be given on the Friday night preceding the Officers' Club Ball... Admission 25c and anything goes with the proceeds going to aid British relief.

Our best get-well wishes to a couple of swell people, Dean and Mrs. Romeo Lefort... And a pat on the back to the publications big-wigs for a swell banquet Wednesday night... Among other things, there was enough local glamour on hand to make Hollywood sit up and take notice... A pleasant way to spend an afternoon is feeding squirrels and pigeons in Capitol Square.

Just a reminder: There are 295 shopping days until Christmas, but only 23 more days until the Military Ball... The three Johnson brothers, one short, one tall and one round... That Davidson-Halsted rivalry has another contender to face, the initials are R. B. and he's an announcer at one of the local radio stations... Joe Koonce became a pupil after meeting that little school teacher on the recent Ag practice teaching trip... They say that it's impossible to get a word in the English language to rhyme with "orange"... after sitting up half the night trying in vain, my advice is to take their word for it.

There's a movement on foot to abolish the Alpha Sigma Sigma results being published in the Agromeck... what do you think?... Katie, the cozier spaniel, is a serious contender for the title of "Dream Girl of PIKA" this year... Familiar faces in front of Boon-Isley's, the Mills twins and Bones McKimney of basketball fame... Substitution in the Reid University line-up, Suttentuff for Miller at quarterback... Picture of the week was Big Jim Graham calling the moves at the publications banquet square dance... "Country" Perkins and "Shimmy" Harris of the old Jimmy Poyher band are now depending on the bugler at Fort Jackson for their musical kick... Curtis Ramsey was keeping that pitching arm in shape with snowballs last week... Okay, Oscar, take it away!

STEPHEN SAILER.

Shakespeare didn't know the half of it!

... when he wrote
"What's in a Name?"

The Bard of Avon was right about the rose—its name is unimportant. But if he'd had anything to do with naming telephone exchanges, he'd have learned a lot! Names must be easy to pronounce and transmit—must not look or sound like other exchange names—must not use the same dial finger spaces. Take MUIR and OTIS, for example. Fine!—except they dial alike! For the first two letters of each appear in the same finger spaces on the dial. Often hundreds of names are listed, studied, discarded before one is found that meets all requirements. Such care in every phase of Bell System work helps to make your telephone service the world's finest.

Why not telephone home often? Long Distance rates to most points are lowest any night after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday.

Remember Sir Francis Drake?

Remember the old story from the pages of history about Sir Francis Drake in his miraculous defeat of the invincible Spanish Armada back in Queen Elizabeth's day?

If you don't remember the story surely you have heard about how the Duke Blue Devils pulled a similar trick in defeating the Invincible White Phantoms in the Southern Conference tournament, and if you do remember your history then you saw history repeat itself.

Cameron, the Coach of the Year

In the opinion of your writer, Coach Eddie Cameron is the basketball coach of the year. Why? Well, he's the fellow who coached the Boys in Blue, mapped out a defense for the unorthodox shots of Glamorous George Glamack, and at the same time was the head knocker of the Southern Conference basketball committee. Coach Cameron put the first feather in his cap when he stopped the White Phantoms for the first time in regular season play.

We won't say the Tar Heels are making excuses for their defeat but it is poor publicity to say your star center has a sore arm and that same sore arm hurt his play in the game that lost the conference tourney.

The Rest Is From Here and There

The best comment on the Duke-Carolina game of the conference tournament was made by the demon star gasers—Zodiac. In a radio comment Zodiac said, "There were two of the best Pennsylvania ball teams on the floor tonight I have seen in a long time."

A one-point margin gave the University of North Carolina's swimming team the State title last week. They defeated Coach Romeo Lafor's State tankers 38-37.

Arnold (Speedy) Katterman, crack State swimmer, defied all rules of physical etiquette last week in the State-Carolina meet. Katterman was sniffling with a bad cold and really should have been abed in the infirmary but instead he packed his swimming outfit and went to the Hill for the meet. The result is that he is now confined to bed in the infirmary with the flu.

Baseball Outlook

The outlook for baseball is somewhat brighter for Coach Doc Newton's State baseball team this year. The addition of some promising freshmen of last season and the leftovers of the 1943 team should make quite a brighter picture for the followers of the apple-boys.

Th Mills twins, famous for their basketball abilities, should add strength to the infield. They make a good shortstop-second base combination. Sonny Gilbert, Mt. Airy flash, should be a strong candidate for the third base honors. Jim Barber will add strength behind the plate.

Probably the greatest gap left for Doc to fill is at first base. Captain Cader Harris, star first sacker last season, has graduated and as yet there has been little talk of who is groomed to fill his shoes.

Wade Brown, 1941 baseball captain, is the No. 1 outfield candidate, pushed by Benny Constant and Peanut Doak.

Ray Smith, veteran twirler; Sophomores Dave Wood, Ray Hardes, and Big Crump Ramsey, junior pitcher, are the leading candidates for the mound duties.

A Note to the Reformers

As a parting shot we offer a word to the wise that should be sufficient. The Southern Conference basketball tournament was a big success in Raleigh—and has been for some years. There is no school in North Carolina that would welcome the idea of having the event run off in their gymnasium. There are too many headaches tied up in the affairs of the tourney for them to consider such.

At the Negro mammy once told her kinky-haired pickaninny: "Son, jes' yo' stay in yo' own back yard. I'll be angling at you.

MURAL MUSINGS

By JOE LAVASSEUR

By capturing five titles out of a possible eight in the Intramural All-Campus boxing matches held last Wednesday night in the gym, the fraternities won the Intramural boxing tournament.

In the first fight of the evening, Armstrong, A.K.P., defeated Lathan, 1st eighth, to gain possession of the 115-lb. title.

E. F. Miller, representing Sigma Nu fraternity, won the 125-lb. title by beating F. N. Ullrich who fought for 1st seventh.

The fraternities continued to surge on and won their third successive bout of the evening when H. M. Searcy, fighting for Kap, Alpha, defeated Joe Schoub who represented 2nd "C." This fight was the best of the evening and created the most excitement among the spectators.

B. F. Starnes, the best boxer in the tournament, put a temporary halt on the fraternities by defeating J. W. Andrews in the 145-lb. class. Starnes fought for Upper South dormitory and Andrews represented P.K.A. fraternity.

J. F. Nicholson, fighting for Delta Sig fraternity, won the 155-lb. title by gaining the decision of the judges in his fight with Ham Sloop who fought for 2nd "C."

With one more victory needed to assure the fraternities of victory, P.K.A. put W. L. Winn into the ring to fight H. C. Strickland who represented 1st eighth. The first two rounds resulted in a draw with neither fighter showing any superiority. However, in the third round, Winn put on the extra drive needed for victory and gained a close decision of the judges.

H. A. Hardenson, 2nd seventh, defeated A. Seifart, Phi Kap Tau, in the 175-lb. class, and F. H. Wagoner, 3rd eighth, won over

BONES is the name of this good looking gentleman, and if you have ever seen him play you have missed a good show. He stole the show in every game this season, as well as leading his teammates in scoring. He finished the season with an average of 17 points per game.

Latest Communique From High Command of Athletics Reports Strong Eastern Teams Planning Invasion

State's baseball team will play 15 games this season, the latest communique from the athletic high command reports. ## Basketball Tourney Believed Greatest Ever Held in Raleigh

Duke Upsets Carolina White Phantoms in Opening Round; 4,500 See Game

The Southern Conference Tournament of last week-end was one of the greatest thrill-producing athletic events ever staged in this vicinity.

Always considered a good place to get your money's worth in action sports this past meet was a real value. Upsets were plentiful and thrills were a dime a dozen.

In the opening round of the meet two of the top clubs in the Big Five were pushed out of the picture by superior ball teams. The William and Mary Indians made quick work of the Deacs of Wake Forest by rubbing them off by a sizeable majority on Thursday afternoon.

Duke vs. White Phantoms! The battle of the Big Five—Duke vs. Carolina—blitzed opening day and it brought the 4,500 fans present to their feet more than once before the final whistle blew. The Dukies had successfully polished off the Phantoms exactly one week to the day before they met that night, and the big question was—could they do it again?

Big Chuck Holley stopped George Glamack, a performance that won him a place on the mythical all-tournament team, Cy Valasek and Hap Spuhler shot the points that gave the Dukies that needed punch to push them through.

Lof Dahl Stays

Lanny Lof Dahl and his mates from the Palmetto state of South Carolina were big favorites during the semi-finals and concluding rounds. Not much was known about this group of ball players before they took the hardwood and they were the darkhorses of the meet. They rolled over the Richmond five handily in the opening round and went on to the final night against the Blue Devils of Duke who licked them 55-30 in the final round.

Emil Sotnyk and Eddie Stumpf starred for the VMI Cadets from Lexington, Va. These two boys put on one of the finest exhibitions of

Bus Tickets

Joe Ermalovich and Pat Fehley are in the ticket business now. Both of these boys will fix you up a round trip ticket to anywhere and back. Joe is with the Carolina Trailways and Pat represents the Greyhound Company. If you would like to get your ticket for your trip home at spring vacation drop by Room 11 at the fieldhouse and see Joe or contact Pat at Room 303 South.

Frosh Track Slate

Two dual track meets have been arranged for the North Carolina State Freshies. They are with University of Richmond at Richmond, Va., or April 12, and Belmont Abbey Junior College here on May 10. These are the respective dates of the varsity's engagements with Richmond and South Carolina and the frosh events will be run off simultaneously.

Of 2,800 students at the University of Idaho last semester, 20 made perfect grades.

Mass Meeting Called To Drive Lend-Lease Bill Through Congress

Mrs. Z. P. Metcalf has announced that there will be a mass meeting in the ball room of the Sir Walter Hotel tonight at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of drawing up resolutions to have the Lend-Lease Bill passed by Congress immediately.

Colonel W. T. Joyner will be in charge of the meeting in which the issue and proper measures for action will be discussed. There will be several speakers who will endeavor to stimulate enthusiasm and register the weight and importance of passing the bill as soon as possible. Many citizens of Raleigh and vicinity, who are opposed to the continuous bantering of congressional leaders concerned with the bill, will attend the gathering and express their convictions and present proposals for action.

The meeting is open to the public and State College students in particular are urged to take an active part. Any and all persons who wish to be heard on the subject will be given an opportunity to address the gathering and to participate in the discussion. An effort is being made to bring this matter of great importance before the public and to find means of promoting action. All persons interested in the question of delaying such an important measure at a critical time are invited to attend.

Seniors
All members of the class who have not paid their dues for this year are urged to do so at registration next term.

Fisher Chosen Head Of New Study Group

Recently Formed Organization To Discuss Vital Military Problems

Professor H. A. Fisher, head of the Mathematics Department, has accepted a request from Colonel Harselson that he become active head of the newly formed student military study group.

The unanimous choice of the student organizing committee, Professor Fisher brings to the movement a complete Navy background—he was a lieutenant commander—and a recognized ability as an organizer and director of students' activities.

Meeting again last Monday, the student committee completed its tentative plans for a program next term, and had a practice discussion session on propaganda as it applies to a nation at war.

Subject to revision by Professor Fisher, the group expects to offer to interested students in all schools—Engineering, Textiles, and Agriculture—their choice from a list of vital but little-known military subjects. The list of subjects already planned is extensive. Included are: Camouflage methods, submarine detection and attack, intelligence service and propaganda, ordnance, radio technique in war, and trench and bridge construction in the field.

The military services have expressed unofficial approval of the student extra-curricular plan, and have advised that textbooks and handbooks now in use will be provided. Colonel Harselson has been in active touch with Army leaders and believes complete support will be forthcoming.

The student organizing committee will have its final meeting of the term on Monday.

DEBATERS WIN!

State's top ranking debate squad added to its list of victories by taking all the honors last week-end when they won the Direct Clash debate section of the important inter-sectional Savage Forensic Tournament in Durant, Oklahoma.

The State College squad competed against more than twenty-five teams representing fourteen colleges. A trio of State men won the finals, eclipsing a team from Northwestern State College of Ada, Oklahoma which held the title of women's national debate champions of 1940.

The Publications Board will render its decision on whom it is to allow to be candidates for the various journalistic offices at its meeting Monday. At this time, however, the race for business managerhips of the Watagan and The Technician seem to be between only two men, while the editorship of The Technician is hovering between four possible candidates. So far, there have been no announcements by candidates for the presidency of the Interfraternity Council, but, for some reason, this is not expected to be a very hot campaign.
