

Directors Announced for Student Fair

Two men to represent each of eleven departments of Agricultural School

Directors for the annual Students Agricultural Fair which will be presented by students in the State College School of Agriculture at the State Fair Oct. 8-12 have been announced by Roderick Adams of Willow Springs, Ag Fair president.

Two youths will represent each of the 11 departments in the School of Agriculture. The student fair will occupy considerable space in the main exhibit area.

Directors, with their assistants named, are: T. F. Spiker of Drexel Hill, Pa., and Julian G. Rothmann of Raleigh, forestry; J. S. Wickler of Sanford and W. L. Hammett of Edinboro, agriculture; J. C. King of Laurinburg and Paul J. Brown, Jr., of Charlotte, animal husbandry; J. D. Simmons of Seven Springs and C. E. Mayo of Greenville, agronomy; A. T. Uzzell, Jr., of Moore Haven, Fla., and C. B. Hatcher of Gastonia, agricultural economics; W. C. Warwick of Clayton and E. E. Sanders of Roxboro, agricultural engineering; E. B. Stokes of Linwood and W. D. Lewis of Fairmont, agricultural education; V. H. Underwood of St. Pauls and J. E. Brewer of Clemmons, horticulture; V. B. Hair of Faison and M. P. Chestnut of Turkey, botany; W. Saunders of Ruffin and H. C. Furbush of Camden, agricultural chemistry; and J. H. Davenport of Cresswell and F. M. Bennett of Jackson Springs, poultry.

J. D. Simmons of Seven Springs was appointed director in charge of the booth which will be maintained at the fair by the State chapter of Alpha Zeta, a national honorary agricultural fraternity. Students at the booth will receive visitors and register alumni, and will give information concerning the fair.

The fair within a fair not only will show the value of accepted agricultural practices, but also demonstrate some of the latest developments in scientific agriculture. Each of the 11 departments will have displays entered in spirited competition for the prizes. The student exhibits will be set off by attractive entrances, with the displays arranged on either side.

Thirty-Four Accept Bids to Fraternities

Sigma Phi's Lead Campus By Pledging Thirteen; Sigma Nu's Second With Eight As Rush Week Ends

Seventy-four freshmen have accepted bids to become pledges of State's fraternities following the largest rush-week in the history of the college. After bids were issued to the chosen men last Thursday, the rushweek was given a seventy-two hour "silent period" in which to consider their choice.

Leaders in number of men pledged this year were the Sigma Phi, who pledged thirty-four, and the Sigma Nu, who pledged twenty-two men. The roster of fraternities and their new pledges follows:

Alpha Gamma Rho—N. G. Duke, Lawrenceville, Va.; R. A. Holcomb, Tennessee; and T. F. Leonard, Henderson, Va.

Alpha Kappa Phi—C. B. Armstrong, Davidson; Edmund Church, Franklin; Robert Driggs and Kenneth Fleisch, Rochester, N. Y.; C. E. Hamilton, Beaufort; Edward Houghton, New Bedford, Mass.; Jack Ormand, Kings Mountain; V. V. Rodriguez, Puerto Rico; and Raymond Wood, Coral Gables, Fla.

Alpha Lambda Tau—Karl Fitchgerald, Burlington; Bill Norwood, Patterson, N. J.; and Watson Bell, Raleigh.

Delta Sigma Phi—Thad Carmichael, Rowland; and Charles Shubert, Maplewood, N. J.

Kappa Alpha—Douglas Allison, Pine Bluff; Bill Hayward, Maryland; News, Va.; Robert Reynolds, Raleigh; Jimmie Shields, Scotland Neck; Graves Vann and David Williams, Raleigh.

Kappa Sigma—C. T. Blake, Jr., Greensboro; John Brien, Midway; Williamson, Raleigh; William Brooks, Red Springs; John Grier, Statesville; James Hunter, Charlotte; John V. Moore, Kingston; and John M. Pharr, Concord.

Phi Kappa Tau—Raymond D. Light, Warrenton; David Moore, Charlotte; John Wooten, Gastonia; and Bob Young, Henderson.

Phi Kappa Alpha—Dick Calloway, Henderson; Reginald Gowan, Charlotte; and Rousseau Shields, Scotland Neck.

Phi Kappa Phi—Ward Bushee, Mount Holly; Bill Quicke, Lincoln; and Charles Latham, Balhouston.

Sigma Nu—Fred Allen, Raleigh; George Epps, Henderson; Charney Gatzinger, Chevy Chase, Md.; Emil Hiker and D. B. Panton, Raleigh; W. C. Holder, Asheboro; Don Marshall, New York City; and Andy Eubank, Searsville.

Sigma Phi Epsilon—Joe Buice, Charlotte; Ed Carroll and Jack McRath, Edinboro; Clarence B. Steele, Statesville; Montgomery Steele, Winston-Salem; and Tom Wiley, Key West, Fla.

Raleigh Businessmen Entertain Freshmen in City Auditorium

Governor Clyde R. Hoey Speaks to Hundreds of Students; All Raleigh Schools Represented

Friday evening saw approximately five hundred eager State freshmen gathered at the Municipal Auditorium in Raleigh, together with seven hundred first year students from the various Raleigh's and Pease Colleges, at a general get-together sponsored by the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Raleigh Merchants Association, and the N. C. State Student Council.

The evening's activities commenced with informal introductions of the students made easy by the name plates which were worn. Martial airs, played by the State College Red Coat Band, greeted the guests as they filed into the auditorium. During the evening's festivities, Major Kuntz and the Red Coats introduced for the first time a stirring march written for State by Fred Warding.

Also on the musical side of the entertainment were a number of popular pieces played by a local jazz band. Since there was a lack of room, and the girls from the colleges not being, every one left with his or her feet in fairly good condition.

The William and Mary-State game was broadcast as a major part of the evening's entertainment. And the cheering rang loud and long when the audience realized that the State team was on a victory march.

Between halves the students were addressed by Governor Clyde R. Hoey and Democratic nominee J. B. Broughton, both of whom spoke briefly to the freshmen. Mayor Andrews, Wesley Williams, Secretary of the Raleigh Merchants Association, and Charles Fox, Secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, all made short welcome speeches to the assembled students during the course of the evening.

Door prizes, donated by Raleigh merchants, were given to the holders of lucky numbers. Refreshments supplied by the colleges were served in the lobby by girls from the various colleges.

Book Exchange Tops All Previous Records

Student Council Project Steadily Gains Popularity As Cooperation Increases

The State College Book Exchange, which closed last Wednesday, has sold over one thousand dollars worth of books during this year. It was announced by W. J. Reams, vice president of the student body. This term's sales far exceed those of any term since the establishment of the organization by the Student Council last year.

The demand for books, especially for freshmen texts, far exceeded the supply. However, there was better cooperation on the part of upperclassmen in purchasing their used books over to the exchange than there has been in the past, Reams said, and wished to make it known that the Student Council appreciates the cooperation that the student body has given them in this project, and he hopes that we may be able to give even greater service in the future.

The exchange will reopen one week before the close of the term, and books now in the exchange will be sold then.

Originator to Return As Judge At Ag Fair

C. L. Newman to Attend Modern Version of Show Which He Instituted

Coming back to judge the modern version of the event which he inaugurated twenty-seven years ago, C. L. Newman will attend the State College Ag Fair during the State Fair Week. It was in 1913 that Mr. Newman, professor and head of the Field Crops Department, offered prizes for the best exhibits of corn. From this beginning the infant corn show of Mr. Newman's sponsoring has grown to include not only the Field Crops department but every branch of modern agriculture associated with State College. This year the Ag Fair will consist of exhibits devoted to the eleven departments of the School of Agriculture and Forestry. It is appropriate that the originator of the fair is returning to act as a judge of the occasion which he instituted when State College was younger than many of its students are now.

The fair is swiftly becoming a reality. The various groups, representing every department of the Agriculture and Forestry School, are busy manufacturing coming plans into living realities. The Ag Fair sections of the State Fairgrounds are becoming illustrations which will be of significance and

Annual Hello Week To Open October 14

Reams Will Present First Button to Col. Harrelson

Hello Week, an annual affair originated to foster fellowship among State College students, and sponsored by Golden Chain Honorary Society, will open on October 14, with the assembly on the R. O. T. C. in Riddick Stadium, where the first button will be presented to Colonel Harrelson by W. J. Reams, president of Golden Chain.

Following the presentation of the button, Colonel Harrelson will say a few words to the students about the purpose and aims of Hello Week. Dean Cloyd, with the aid of the Red Coat Band, will lead the group singing State College songs, while Bill Ward, the head cheerleader, will take charge of the cheering section.

Since the inauguration of Hello Week, it has become a tradition to speak to everyone from dean to janitor. State has become known throughout the South for the fine spirit that prevails here on the campus between students and faculty. Students are asked to cooperate in making this year's affair a success by printing their names in the department office. There, interviews with the Meredith director, Miss Frances Bailey, will be arranged.

Bailey is very much interested in forming a State College-Meredith dramatic group, with the possibility of producing plays on both campuses.

Meredith Needs Men For Play Production

Famous Play By Oscar Wilde To Be Given By Little Theater of Meredith College

Seven men are needed for the cast of Oscar Wilde's famous play, 'Lady Windermere's Fan,' which is the first play scheduled for production by the Little Theater of Meredith College.

Professor Lodwick Hartley, of the English department, reports that State College students are eligible for the parts, and all those interested in acting are invited to leave their names and addresses in the department office. There, interviews with the Meredith director, Miss Frances Bailey, will be arranged.

Bailey is very much interested in forming a State College-Meredith dramatic group, with the possibility of producing plays on both campuses.

Welfare Committee Appointed by Lehman

Lehman, Reams, Friday, Rowe, Reeves, Morris, Rowland, and Kirkman to Serve As Student Members

Paul Lehman, president of the student body, announced today the names of the eight student members who will serve with eight faculty members, elected by the general faculty, on the Student Welfare Committee.

Students chosen by Lehman are Bill Friday, president of the senior class; C. H. Kirkman, president of the Y. M. C. A.; F. W. Morris, vice president of Tau Beta Pi; Tom Rowland, president of the Honorary Program Club; Henry Rowe, editor of THE TECHNICIAN; R. E. Reeves, president of the Engineers' Council; and W. J. Reams, colonel of the R. O. T. C. regiment. Lehman is automatically a member of the committee.

Serving with these students will be the following faculty members: F. M. Haig, A. C. Campbell, L. G. Hartley, E. S. King, C. G. Munford, C. E. Schulenberg, J. L. Stuckey, and L. F. Williams. Dr. Hartley will serve as temporary chairman of the committee.

A special meeting of the group has been called for next Tuesday afternoon at 5:00 p.m. in the Y. M. C. A. At that time the constitution of the College Laundry will be discussed and a special five-man committee representing both faculty and student members will be appointed to carry on the investigation.

Ordinarily, meetings are held on the second Tuesday of each month, but a special meeting may be called at any time.

Formed as a direct result of a student mass meeting held in the spring term of 1938, the Student Welfare Committee brings the representatives of the faculty and student body together on a common meeting ground. The main purpose of the committee is to discuss problems affecting the entire college community.

Kirkman Selected As YMCA President

The Y. M. C. A. Cabinet at its regular meeting Wednesday nominated C. H. Kirkman, Jr., for the office of president of the Y. M. C. A., made vacant because Hubert M. Willis was unable to return to school on account of his health.

Jacob Tinga and Charles McAdams were nominated for the office of vice president.

John Boger was appointed to membership on the Cabinet as interfraternity council representative and William Greenlee was appointed chairman of the program committee. At the Y. M. C. A. meeting Thursday night Kirkman was elected president and McAdams was elected vice president.

Reverend Lee C. Sheppard spoke briefly at the Thursday night meeting on the subject, "Personal Religion" and led a discussion on this topic after his talk. A good crowd was out for the meeting and plans for this year were discussed.

G. T. Dixon Is Chosen President Of Society

S. E. Adcock Elected Vice President In Annual Election By SAM

At a meeting held recently to choose new officers for the coming year, the Society for the Advancement of Management elected George T. Dixon as president of the organization, which automatically places him on the Engineers' Council, while S. E. Adcock was chosen vice president.

Dixon will replace Bill Better, who did not return to school this year, while Adcock will take over in the position formerly held by Ray Boyette. Tom Moran, the representative to the Engineers' Council for this year, did not return to school, and John Nicholson, the former student representative to the council, will serve in his place. Bill Brown is the alternate for this year. Ed Edmundson will officiate at the meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Management, while Wilbur Bryant, the remaining officer elected at the meeting, will act as secretary of the society.

President Approves Appropriation Bill For College Laundry

WPA to Furnish $17,593 Toward Erection of New State College Building

Colonel John W. Harrelson announced today that President Roosevelt had approved a Works Progress Administration bill which provides State College with $17,593 in Federal funds to be used toward the construction of a new building to house the laundry and a campus garage.

Work will start immediately on the building which will be located near the power house and the college warehouse. The project, in which the college must invest $12,000, is expected to be finished before the end of the current school year.

The space to be allotted the laundry in its new quarters will be approximately the same amount as it now occupies in the basement of the cafeteria building.

With the removal of the laundry to its new quarters, the A.A.A. office now located on the second floor of the cafeteria will be moved to the basement. Tentative plans call for the establishment of a college restaurant on the second floor in the space vacated by the A.A.A. The restaurant would stay open from noon until midnight for the convenience of the college students.

Representative Harold D. Cooley was one of the principal figures in the passage of the project by President Roosevelt.

Van Leer Appointed To SPEE Committee

Appointment of Blake R. Van Leer, dean of the State College School of Engineering, to the Membership Committee of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, was announced today.

Dean Van Leer was notified of the appointment by F. L. Bishop, secretary of the Society. State College ranks second only to Purdue in the number of teachers of engineering holding membership in the Society. The University of Illinois and Massachusetts Institute of Technology are tied in third place.

Approximately seventy-five student leaders met last night in the State College Y. M. C. A. for a leadership banquet sponsored by the administration of the college. Representatives of the faculty at the banquet were Col. John W. Harrelson, dean of the school of engineering; Dean Thomas Nelson, head of the Textile School; E. L. Cloyd, dean of students; Romeo Lefort, assistant

Should Furnish Adequate Facilities For All Masse Camp Activities

By ROBERT POMERANE
A new $641,000 Coliseum, with seats for over ten thousand at basketball games, will be finished in time for use in September, 1942, if a new appropriation measure being presented to the State Legislature is passed.

The Coliseum will be located on the site of the old barracks, between the tennis courts and "A" Dormitory. Designed by Ross Shumaker, official college architect, the Coliseum represents the most modern trends in this type of structure.

When finished the Coliseum auditorium will become the largest indoor arena in Raleigh. It will become possible to hold assemblies of the entire student body at one time. A suitable auditorium will become available for commencement exercises indoors. Seating will be available for the ever-increasing basketball crowds.

A substantial portion of the Coliseum will be turned over to the Military department, thus filling a long-felt need on the campus of consolidated Military offices and armory.

The building will be in the form of a rectangle, 372 feet long by 248 feet wide, and there will be 157,000 feet of floor space on the three floors. The huge arena will rise two stories and will contain three

BE THERE! Every student is urged to be out there in Riddick Stadium tonight for the big pep meeting of this football season.

Bill Ward, head cheerleader, announced that the Red Coat Band would be on hand to play the new song written for State College by Fred Warding last year.

The Wolfpack really gave the students something to be proud of last week by taking the Indiana "William and Mary" and they really deserve all of the real fighting spirit behind them that the student body has.

BE AT THE PEP MEETING IN RIDDICK STADIUM TONIGHT AT SEVEN.

Ag Men Establish Sociology Department

Dr. Horace Hamilton, Former State Professor, Returns As Department Head

The State College Agricultural School has established a new Department of Sociology, Dean I. O. Schaub announced recently.

Dr. C. Horace Hamilton, who taught and did sociological research at the college from 1931 to 1936, has returned to be in charge of the newly created department.

Dr. Schaub, dean of the School of Agriculture, said his decision to establish the department came as a result of increasing needs and demands for study and research into the social problems of North Carolina farm families.

Sociology is not new to the college curricula, having been included heretofore in the Department of Agricultural Economics.

During the past period of service here, Dr. Hamilton made extensive studies of farm living standards, farm tenancy, and other social problems. Also he published a number of bulletins on the result of his studies.

With the new department offering rural graduate study to the State College, a more careful study of the social problems facing North Carolina's rural population.

In addition, extension work, in which the social aspects of the department are placed on a practical basis and which may be disseminated through county and home agents, will be conducted.

After 1936, Dr. Hamilton saw service at Texas A. and M. and in the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Degrees Are Awarded Summer School Grads By Mail This Week

Thirty-three Receive Coveted B.S. After Large Summer Session

Degrees have been awarded to 33 graduates who successfully completed graduation requirements during State College's 1940 summer session, Registrar W. L. Mayer announced today.

All of the graduates, which are being mailed to the graduates, are in the bachelor's category, no graduate degrees having been awarded. A list of successful candidates follows:

Forestry—John D. Atkins, Jr., Gulfport, Miss.; and Raymond S. Swanson, North Carolina.

Civil Engineering—John C. Holbrook, Albemarle.

Industrial Engineering—John H. Kennedy, Waynesville; John H. Posten, Atlanta Highlands, N. J.; U. V. Tomicola, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Sam W. Turner, Washington, D. C.

Field Crops and Plant Breeding—James L. Langdon, Selma; and Thomas V. Harding, II, Morven.

Agricultural Engineering—Robert T. McNeely, Mooresville.

Soils—Zeno Herbert Funder, Marshall.

Industrial Engineering—Arthur G. Raymond, Raleigh.

New Shop in Operation Four Months; Now Printing All of College Publications

By M. C. MAY
This year for the first time, State College has a small but complete and efficient print shop in which all authorized student publications and other official matter will be printed for the college.

The shop, which is located in the basement of Tompkins Hall, is a joint enterprise sponsored by the Board of Student Publications and the General Alumni Association. A special committee representing the General Alumni Association perpetuated the installation of the plant as a means to save money for the college.

The first regular issue of THE TECHNICIAN to come from the new press was dated Friday 13. Although Friday 13 is generally considered to be an unlucky day, we of the staff sincerely hope that no evil overtakes our pride and joy.

All student publications except the Agronomist, the college annual, will be printed in the campus shop. Contracts for these publications were formerly held by Raleigh commercial shops. No personal printing orders will be accepted nor will the college publish or train any students in the graphic arts.

During the last session of the General Assembly, Master Printers of North Carolina attempted unsuccessfully to have a print shop established at the college; to teach courses in printing. The college, it was felt, should not attempt to install such enterprises.

The financing of the shop was taken care of largely by reserve funds which have been accumulated by student publications over a period of years. It is operated under the direction of a Print Shop Committee headed by F. H. Jeter, chairman, representing the faculty. Other members are David Clark, Charlotte and Elin Chapman of Raleigh, representing the alumni. Henry Rowe and John D. Boger are the student representatives.

In addition to Sutton, the shop has two regular employees, a Linotype operator and business manager, and two student helpers are on a part-time basis. The machinery is valued at $35,000. One Linotype is used as are two automatic presses and one hand press.

For Our Country

The nearness and actuality of the defense program was brought home to us in a startling manner last night at the leadership banquet when Romeo Lefort, during the course of what we consider to be the most inspiring talk ever given at State College, announced that he may be called as a reserve officer to serve his country.

We were shocked by the reality of his statement, for somehow we had not considered the possibility of his having to leave State College. We know that Romeo would never try to claim exemption if he thought, and it is clear to us that he does think so, that it was his duty to go with the army.

However, we believe it is far more his duty to stay here at State College where he exerts such a tremendous and good influence over all of our students. Probably he does not realize just how important he is to State College and to us, as students and young men. In the army he could train perhaps 100 men a year to meet the emergency which calls him, but here he can help to make men out of 2,500 boys who look to him for guidance and help. Isn't it more important to the nation that he help to train 2,500 in creative work than a much smaller number in a potentially destructive, though necessary, occupation?

If Romeo does have to leave us, we hope it will be after every possible effort on his part to stay, and we know that it will be after every possible effort on our part to see that he does remain here as Romeo, to us an indispensable part of our school, as much a part of State College as the campus itself. If he does leave, his position can never be properly filled until he returns.

For Your Convenience

In order that you may express your views and opinions on any question you choose, The Technician maintains its Open Forum column for the use of the students and faculty.

However, we cannot accept the responsibility for what is said in Open Forum letters, and we do not always agree with what is said in that column. Therefore, it is imperative that you sign your name to all letters addressed to The Technician, and we reserve the right to refuse to print any unsigned letters.

We strongly urge that you avail yourself of this opportunity of expressing your personal opinions about campus questions. Many good ideas and suggestions remain unheard of because those who think them up never tell others or get their thoughts before the public. The Technician is your newspaper; so use it as a medium for your expression.

Are We Morons?

A few days ago, a member of the Raleigh Woman's Club, in an address before the club, demanded that the members write letters to the presidents of all the colleges in the state advocating a rule preventing the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in their colleges from owning and operating automobiles.

Of course, we understand that the speaker probably had the "best interests" of the students in mind when she made this suggestion, but we cannot understand why anyone would wish to impose such a dictatorial rule on the college students of the state. A great number of students probably do have accidents, but the number of wrecks among underclassmen is certainly no greater in proportion to the number of drivers than the wrecks among seniors. Also, we doubt that college students have as many wrecks in proportion to the number of drivers as do people who are not in college.

According to statisticians, the average mental age of the American public is approximately 12.2 years, while the mental age of the average college man runs several years higher. If, then, we college students have a higher intelligence quotient than the American public, why should we not have more civil privileges, instead of less, than other Americans?

It seems that whenever anyone is seeking to remedy any maladjustment in our legal system, they always start with the students in colleges, instead of starting where the greatest portion of the trouble originates. The idea that college men are wild and irresponsible seems to have so permeated the mind of the public that they seem to take it for granted that a college football game, for instance, will result in a gigantic drunken brawl in which the majority of the students will get drunk and do everything in their power to be as much trouble to the police and citizens as possible. We who are in college, however, could paint a much more accurate picture of our own situation than those on the outside would be able to. We have seen a great many evidences of the actions which give colleges a bad name, and we know that it is not the students of colleges who cause the wrecks and other mishaps that accompany so many games, but the older people who come to football games as an excuse to "tee off" for a big week-end.

This is only one example of the many injustices that are unwittingly done to college students by outsiders, but we think it sums up rather thoroughly the basis of the unjust implications that students have to bear up under, and we hope it will counteract some of the unjust accusations made against college students.

Movies

Through a recent interview with Mr. E. S. King, general secretary of the campus Y. M. C. A., we learn that the "Y" will not present its weekly program of movies this year. Although, in the past, the movies, usually free, have been shown at times for a small admission price, this would hardly cover the expense to the "Y" in presenting this type of program. At the beginning of these showings, a few years back, attendance was good. However, this rapidly declined as the months passed. Whether it was due to a lack of appreciation of this type of entertainment or to an increase in the popularity of off-the-campus activities is a matter of conjecture. Certainly those of us who did attend the movies shall miss them very much.

Mr. King states that the "Y" has plans under way for a full program of desirable entertainment during the winter months, and that it might be possible to present an occasional picture relative to some problem of social or economic interest. These pictures will probably be shown in one of the halls of the Y. M. C. A. building and will be announced early enough so that all may plan to attend.

An Opportunity For You

The experience gained from extra curricular work in college is a valuable asset. For many years this fact has been recognized by men who are the leaders in industry. For example, take this comment by Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, a Cleveland economist and business executive:

"I know two men about the same age, graduated from the same college and employed by the same company for a number of years. Both came from respectable, but not distinguished social strata in the community. I believe that if both were to take an examination on the knowledge of their business, their grades would be about equal. Yet, one of these men receives a salary of $3,000 a year, and the other gets $23,000.

"Why? The reason lies largely in the ability to deal with and influence people."

Industry does not usually seek men with high scholastic averages, but instead it looks for men who have the extra qualities of leadership and ability to cooperate that are so essential to good management and operation of any business.

While we cannot all make "A" grades, or make letters in intercollegiate sports, there are a number of opportunities open to any State College student who wants to get more out of college by taking part in extra curricular activities. One of the most predominant of these opportunities is the chance to work on student publications. The staffs of our college publications are not limited by any sort of narrow-minded prejudices. No student is prevented from working on any publication because he does not belong to the right "clique" or to any special college group. Work on the Technician, Agromenck, Wataugan, and other school publications is open to any student who is interested in the opportunity to help his school and to gain valuable experience for himself.—W.A.R.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB—NEWS

With the political campaign swinging into high gear throughout the nation, the Young Republican Club of State College has scheduled a series of meetings and talks to be held on the campus from now until election day. An open meeting is called for Monday, September 30, at 7:30 p. m., in the "Y."

Having reached the necessary membership quota, the club has received its official charter from the Young Republican National Committee.

Several hundred gold objects dug up from ancient Indian burial grounds in Panama by University of Pennsylvania archeologists have been placed on exhibition in the university museum.

BEHIND THE MIKES

By JACK THURNER
AND
ALBERT JOHNSON

The American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, and the Broadcast Music Incorporated argument is the most important matter which has confronted the musicians and broadcasters in the history of radio. The broadcasting chains are trying to break the control that the A.S.C.A.P. has over published music by sponsoring Broadcast Music, Inc. The A.S.C.A.P. is an agency which runs a clearing house for all the songs published. The broadcast chains, desiring larger halls, one Radio must pay a license fee to this society in order to use the songs that the society controls. Membership in the society is by invitation, and is determined by the number and quality of the songs that a writer has published. There are different grades in the society which pay yearly dues. Ted Hildebrand and Irving Berlin draw $15,000 a year, which is the highest salary paid by the society. The B.M.I. for the present is society to which any songwriter can belong by writing a song and having it published, there being no need for quality in the song written. Of course, if the songwriter writes a song which does not come to an agreement by January 1, on the price of the license fee no more A.S.C.A.P. songs can be played on the air. For radio broadcasts there will have to be new orchestras, themes acquired, new arrangements, and all the records which the studios have will have to be done away with, that is if they are A.S.C.A.P. tunes. This would mean the end of "Sleep, I'm Getting Sentimental Over You," "One O'Clock Jump" and many other popular broadcast themes. It would sound strange to hear Glenn Miller come on the air playing some theme, other than "Moonlight Serenade" or any of his good arrangements like "Stardust," "Little Brown Jug," and "Tuxedo Junction. Some bands are being forced to play B.M.I. tunes every broadcast or lose their air time. While the younger bands, such as Dick Shelton, are playing whole programs of B.M.I. tunes so as to get air time. This is a great help to the young bands because it is practically impossible for them to get coast to coast air time. In their effort to break the control of the A.S.C.A.P., the broadcasters are telling the advertisers that there will be an increase in air time rates if the broadcasters have to pay the increased license fee; but they have not said that they would reduce them if the B.M.I. took over. This is the point the A.S.C.A.P. is bringing out to the advertisers. Of course, James Pettilo, the man who will have a lot to do with what will happen, has not commented. If he had to be done away with, the Federation of Musicians will be hurt by this change, he probably would call a strike. Bing Crosby told NBC that he would not renew his contract in December if he could not use A.S.C.A.P. songs on the Kraft Music Hall. This alone will make the broadcasters think twice before changing over to B.M.I. tunes exclusively, because this is the most expensive program on the air.

Count Basie refused offers from both the Republican and Democratic parties to stump for their candidates, but he refused because he claimed to be an independent—Nov. 15-16 are set as the tentative dates for the Intrafraternity Council dances. A band has not been chosen, but this year all booking agents are getting a chance to bid this year instead of only M.C.A.—Bob Chester would be a good band to have or Vaughn Monroe. Monroe's band is a new band which has been broadcasting over MBS this summer, and features a good powerhouse trumpet player on the swing, with Vaughn taking care of the vocals on the sweet side. He is heard on Decca records.

Them Tunes—Larry Clinton Band "Bolero in Blue" and "Shades of Twilight" from Rimeky-Koraskow "Scherharade" are the two best sweet tunes of the week. They are in bolero rhythm, and feature a great deal of soft ensembles. Kay Kyser (C) "Who's Yehood?" is another good novelty tunes with vocals by Kay, Harry Babbitt, and Sully Mason. The Merry Macs (D) "The Way You Look Tonight" and "I Get The Blues When It Rains" are slow tunes which sound like copies of the Pied Pipers on "I'll Never Smile Again." Glenn Miller (B) "Crestown" and "What's Your Story Morning Glory" are two sides with beautifully phrased tenor

GLEANINGS

Here we go again in our first attempt at Gleanings this year. The floor is littered with beginnings so we guess this will have to do for a start. All of which goes to prove that line after line of copy can be written without saying anything. Didn't we tell you, we already have five typewritten lines on the page.

Doc Newton's surprise package Wolfpack certainly came through in fine style last Friday night, and many a harsh word is being eaten without salt and pepper as a consequence. We must admit that we are eating some of the excuses we made ourselves, but they taste better than anything we have had for a long time. Furthermore we will be willing to take them as a steady diet if we make any more, but right now we don't expect to be making any more excuses for the Pack if William and Mary is any indication of what is to come. Apparently we have the surprise team of the conference, no outstanding stars, but a good bunch of boys that really work together. All hats are off to Doc and his no longer toothless Wolves, and we hope they will stay off. Of course we can't expect to win all our games by any means, but remember, and we would like to point out to Carolina and Duke, there's always another year.

Not to be outdone, the Frosh went out Saturday night and put on a scoring exhibition the like of which Riddick Stadium has seldom, if ever, seen. Our idea of Heaven on earth would be to watch a Wolfpack roll up a score like that on Carolina and Duke. If that should ever happen, we would advocate a month's celebration without classes and with A's for everyone. Come to think about it, that might be a good idea win or lose, and after careful consideration we are inclined to believe that the majority of the students are in favor of it.

After a heated debate on the question of classes, the staff has come to the conclusion that college would be much more enjoyable if we met classes at twelve o'clock, took an hour off for dinner, and finished classes at one. This would give every student plenty of time for dates, sleep, and extra-curricular activities. A student could even attend about half of the society and fraternity meetings he is supposed to. This plan would also give the student the type of college education the people think he is getting. After all, who are we to dispute the theories and opinions of the great masses of humanity.

Our venerable State College brethren have not been very active in the scandal department lately, or else they have been able to keep their underhand practices a secret. However, a few bits have come our way, and we will spare none, friend or foe, in order to give you all the news that's fit to print and some that is not. Wade Eagle really got around at camp last summer, and earned for himself the glorious title, "Belle of Edgewood Arsenal." Women even ran a double gauntlet of guards just to look upon his many features, or so he says. James W. "Aches Moneybags Penny Squeezer" Until the Indian Hotters Pay Your Dues or Else" Call is doing his best to get a chance to squeeze something besides pennies these days, and he is turning his attention towards a certain girl's school located a mile out of Raleigh. We would not want to be quoted on this, but what he needs is the personal attention of one Adam Lazonga, exponent of the Dogpatch Style.

James Neelley apparently thought trains pulled in on time as well as out the other night when he woke up and found his train in a station. A hasty glance at his watch told him that the train was supposed to be in Raleigh, but after getting off an investigation proved that he was in Durham. The train had departed before he discovered his mistake. We would like to add that if it had been in the day time he would probably have registered at Duke without noticing the difference.

Beautiful June Dickson is a welcome addition to the Students Supply Store staff. We would buy ice cream in January just to get a chance to talk to her. We hereby award her a separate paragraph.

Prediction—Paul "Powerhouse" Lehman is going to run into serious difficulties at a certain Raleigh school next term, and we don't mean North Carolina State either. Spud Davidson was seen rushing madly out on a date Sunday night, late as usual. We would like to know where Ed Todd was Monday night when his (7) girl was seen with another young man at the College Court.

By now we have named enough people to dodge for the coming week, and the staff is not large enough to combat any more; so until the next time we stick a knife in your back, we'll be hearing about you.
Henry Rowe

LEADERS' BANQUET

(Continued from Page 1) Main speaker of the evening was Romeo Lefort, who reminded the assembled students of their duties and responsibilities as campus leaders. Those present were unanimous in the opinion that Romeo, as he is affectionately known to thousands of present and former students, made the best and most inspirational speech they had ever heard, here or elsewhere, and all expressed the wish that every State College student could have heard him.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The concert orchestra will rehearse in Pullen Hall Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock. There are still some openings for players of violin, viola, cello or string bass, and players are urged to be on hand Tuesday. Others interested in joining may report then for tryouts or may confer privately.

Barry McKinley's Band Is To Furnish Rhythm At Homecoming Dance

"Melodies By McKinley" Will Entertain Dancers At Annual Celebration... The signing of Barry McKinley and his band to play for the annual Homecoming Dance, which climaxes this year State College Homecoming Day and Greater University Day, was announced today by Bruce Hester, chairman of the joint Blue Key-Golden Chain dance committee.

The program for Homecoming Day will begin Friday night Oct. 18 at seven o'clock in Pullen Hall with the annual Stump Night, which will consist of a number of skits put on by the various college organizations, with a silver Victory Cup for the winners.

Following the stunts, the students and their guests will move over to Riddick Stadium for a gigantic pep-meeting, which will be broadcast over Station WPTP from 8:30 to 9:00 o'clock. This pep-meeting will feature, besides the celebrations of the students, music by the band and the Drum and Bugle Corps, and short inspirational talks by members of the coaching staff of the college.

At 2:30 Saturday afternoon the high-spot of the celebration, the annual State-Carolina football game, will take place in Riddick Stadium. Between the halves of the game, there will be a brief program on the field featuring short talks by representatives of the three branches of the Greater United University of North Carolina. This program will be in connection with the celebration of Greater University Day.

Uzzell To Manage Ag Publication

Publications Board Recommends Uzzell As Business Manager of Agriculturist... Tom Uzzell was recommended to the Ag Club as business manager of the Agriculturist for this year by a unanimous vote of the Publications Board at their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

R. L. Burrage, who was to have been business manager, left the post vacant when he withdrew from college. Uzzell has been acting as business manager of the magazine since early in the summer.

Plans were discussed for the annual pulque smoker, which will be held around the first of October, and final arrangements were left up to Dean Romeo Lefort, secretary of the board.

Ag Club Meeting Features Coltrane

Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture Speaks of Work of State Department

Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, D. S. Coltrane, was guest speaker at the Ag Club meeting Tuesday night. Speaking of the work of the State Department of Agriculture, Mr. Coltrane enumerated many of the duties which the department performs. Among the many services which the department renders the agriculturists of the state is the one of protecting them from substitution of inferior grades of grain, feed and fertilizer for the quality which they expect to receive in their purchases.

Average State College Students Never Really See All Of Campus

By SID TAGER

For four years we live at State College, yet none of us really get to see the school. Of course we all know our own departments, but I venture to say that very few of us, engineering students have never been near Polk Hall, while many ag students never even saw the new Textile Building. Perhaps the reason for this is that many of us don't know what is going on in other parts of the school, and to remedy this lack of information, we have prepared the following guide.

With this outline in mind, it will be easy for anyone to roam the campus at will and pick out the various departments are extremely courteous and quick to answer unmolesated and just by using your eyes and ears, you can pick up a wealth of useful information, and above all, you will get to know your school. Every student should make it his business to investigate the activities of the different departments other than his own. Freshmen especially should welcome this opportunity to see what this institution is really like.

AT THE WAKE

Ace talent and a streamlined story of modern marital entanglements mark the fast-paced delightful comedy entertainment "My Favorite Wife," which makes its local bow at the Wake Theatre next Sunday.

Reunited for the first time since their appearance in the memorable comedy hit, "The Awful Truth," Irene Dunne and Cary Grant are co-starred in "My Favorite Wife." The reunion also includes Leo McCarey, producer-director of "The Awful Truth," who guided the current production for RKO Radio.

"My Favorite Wife," penned by Bella and Samuel Spewack, authors of "Boy Meets Girl" and "Clear All Wires," is described as a breezy, laugh-laden sophisticated comedy.

Miss Dunne, cast as Grant's wife, disappears when a scientific expedition takes her to the South Seas. After seven years Grant has her declared legally dead and marries Gail Patrick.

Unfortunately, Irene is very much alive, and is rescued from the desert island with Scott, a handsome scientist with whom she has been married alone all this time. She arrives home on the very night her husband embarks on his second honeymoon.

Chartering a plane, she flies to Yosemite to overtake the newly-wedded pair, and is rescued by Grant with her appearance. "My Favorite Wife" attains dizzying heights of hilarity! Irene tries to outwit Gail for the love of her husband. Grant grows frantic in his efforts to tell his bride the startling truth of Irene's return. Gail can't understand her groom's sudden coolness. And when Grant learns of Irene's island mate, Scott, who now wants to marry Irene, the picture unrolls a series of spicy situations and scintillating moments unique to the screen which are climaxed by a whirlwind laugh-finish!

cat is manufactured and the school cafeteria utilizes the entire output. It is a real treat, for those who have never been nearer a farm than Wendell Willis, to see the new and complicated machinery that engineers students have never been near Polk Hall, while many ag students never even saw the new Textile Building. Perhaps the reason for this is that many of us don't know what is going on in other parts of the school, and to remedy this lack of information, we have prepared the following guide.

With this outline in mind, it will be easy for anyone to roam the campus at will and pick out the various departments are extremely courteous and quick to answer unmolesated and just by using your eyes and ears, you can pick up a wealth of useful information, and above all, you will get to know your school. At The Theatres

AT THE AMBASSADOR

You'll have to travel far and wide to find a better hour of entertainment than "Spring Parade," which opens Wednesday at the Ambassador.

The star is Deanna Durbin. Perhaps this review should be ended with that statement, for it seems all-sufficient. But details are, in this instance, interesting, for, although it is not surprising that Deanna's pictures should be great, it is astonishing that the young star should blaze all day long. They also have a room full of rats, four-footed ones, that are used extensively for breeding and physiological experiments by the students. Upstairs,

Eight great pictures in succession is now Deanna's proud record. And proud she should be, for no other star, either on the stage or screen, has ever been able to create such an unbroken line of triumphs.

To try to analyze just why "Spring Parade" is such a masterpiece, is to try to explain, note by note, the beauty of a symphony.

there are huge insect collections on view and some of the specimens are rather rare. The Zoology Building alone will provide a good afternoon's sightseeing.

Since the completion of the new Textile Building about three-quarters of a mile from the campus, few students other than textile men have had the endurance or the courage to take the hike, but I assure you it's worth while. The basement of the building contains the dyeing department where the cotton yarns, manufactured elsewhere in the building, are dyed and finished. Students can be seen conducting a myriad of experiments almost any afternoon. The research is situated the newly-purchased wool unit (which is in operation on Monday afternoons) and where the wool is converted from the raw fibre to the finished yarn. On the main floor is located all the offices and many of the classrooms of the building plus the intensely interesting Jacquard looms. (Something even the engineers ought to be puzzled by.) The main floor also contains fully completed testing lab and a cotton classing room where students are taught to grade and classify the different kinds of cotton. Upstairs, the weaving, designing, and manufacture of an infinitely fabric is carried on. In fact, the textile school is analogous to a completely equipped industrial plant except that it is operated by students, and anyone interested in modern methods of manufacturing will undoubtedly visit the Textile Building not once, but many times.

(Ed. Note: This is the first of a series on Places of Interest in State College. The next will appear in an early issue.)

It would be like dissecting an emotion.

But a description of "Spring Parade" would have to include such items as these: The picture presents the star as a young village girl who goes to the city. In the metropolis, she meets and falls in love with Robert Cummings, a young blade, and the picture tells the progress of their love affair over a bumpy—and highly laugh-filled—road of complications.

Deanna sings (more beautifully than ever) four numbers—three of them from the pen of Robert Stolz, famous Viennese musician who composed, among others, the beautiful "Two Hearts in Three-Cuarter Time." The fourth is "Blue Danube Dream." All four carry words by Gus Kahn, dean of American lyric writers.

In the large supporting cast are Mitchell Auer, Henry Stephenson, Butch and Buddy, Anne Gwynne, Walter Catlett, and S. Z. Sakall.

School children operate the largest amateur museum in the world. Located in Washington, N. C., it is known as the Bughouse.

The game tomorrow should provide some thrills and chills for the spectators before the final whistle has blown. The Wildcats are small, but they have all the grit and determination their name signifies. Last year State had a mighty hard time taming the Davidson boys, and the victory was a mighty close one, 18-14. The game ended with Davidson on State's 9 yard line. And don't let anyone tell you that State will outgrow our visitors tomorrow. Their team is as heavy or to be correct, as light as ours, and they are preparing a little blitzkrieg for us. They specialize in passes and hipper-dipper, but Coaches Newton, Hickman and Wood will, no doubt, have a little reception of their own planned for Gene McIver's boys.

The win over William & Mary has boosted State's stock quite a bit, and indications point to a good-sized crowd tomorrow. If State can hurdle Davidson, the Clemson game should be a sellout, what with the added attraction of three, and possibly four Charlotte boys performing for State—Jack Luckeback, Frank Owen, Bob Cathy and possibly the injured John Barr.

In tomorrow's tilt, keep your eye on "Curly" Dickerson and "Red" Singer. Both are sophomores, but are hot. Dickerson didn't play last Friday because of injuries, but he is OK now. He is a brilliant back, who can pass while running, and who can run like a scared rabbit. Singer is small, weighing 160, but he is one of the shiftest runners to play here in years. His style is strongly reminiscent of Carolina's Strmweiss.

Dick Watts blossomed into his own last week, and the handsome one will be in there tomorrow heaving the ball around, with bad affects on Davidson. Pat Fehey will do most of the kicking for State. It was his toe that netted the Pack 3 points against the Indians last week. Howell Stroup, the Cherryville "Terror" will anchor down the center of the line, like the famed Seven Iron Dukes rolled into one. Wade Brown and Marion Stillwell will probably share the left end post; Brown has been suffering from a knee injury, but it is hoped he will be ready tomorrow. Stillwell is fast, and did well in his varsity debut last week.

Clemson Game

The clash between the tech schools of the Carolinas, next Saturday promises plenty of excitement. The Tigers looked impressive in beating Presbyterian 38-0, but they will miss Shad Bryant and Banks McFadden as the season progresses. In Chippy Mannens they have a fine all-round back, but he is the only one of mention on the Clemson team. Then too, the South Carolinians have a new coach, which is always a disadvantage. I'll string along with State to take the game by one touchdown.

Here's hoping that the seating arrangement for our boys will be better than it was last year . . . then, our students were scattered all over the stands . . . let's hope they will be seated in a bloc this year, and as near the fifty yard line as possible.

Gilbreth Figures He Has The Winner After This Week-end

He Thinks State Will End Up In Fourth Place; Hopes He's Right

(Editor's Note—This article is reprinted through the courtesy of Mr. Frank Gilbreth and the Associated Press.)

By FRANK B. GILBRETH Associated Press Writer

Don't get out your slide-rule just yet to figure the exact percentages, but it's a fairly good bet that the final Big Five standings can be computed down to the last decimal point after the very first intra-loop games on Saturday.

It's a fairly good bet, that is, if the experts are correct in predicting that the Durable Durham Dukes will be the State champs again this year.

If you don't trust experts, just forget all about the above wage-and-please wait patiently for an explanation later in this piece of two absolutely guaranteed feed-box specials, which are making a new group of millionaires in these parts.

Take it or Leave it

Accepting the premise that Duke will be undefeated in the loop—and if you're a Carolina supporter we expect you to accept no such thing—the final ranking of the four other teams. Here's why:

Both Carolina and Wake Forest, which will meet in Chapel Hill, are rated as much stronger than Davidson and N. C. State, which will meet in Raleigh.

Consequently, barring a major upset and still accepting the Duke premise, the winner of the Chapel Hill game should wind up the season in second place, and the loser in third. The winner of the Raleigh game should finish fourth, and the loser fifth.

Bully Football

There's little to choose between the Heels and the Deacons. Both played bully football in their season opener last week—Carolina bullied Appalachian, 56-6, and Wake Forest bullied William Jewell, 70-0.

Since the Carolina and Wake Forest regulars appear to be about on a par, reserve strength probably will provide the margin of victory. Carolina seems to have the better reserves.

The Davidson-State game should be equally close. State last week scored an upset 16-0 victory over a highly rated William and Mary eleven, but it's difficult to tell whether State has developed a good ball team out of second-rate material or whether the Sovereigns had been built up for an awful letdown.

Davidson, which beat Rollins, 19-7, looked much stronger than the cellar-dwelling Wildcats of last season.

Those Country Boys

The Wolves, after years and years of rugged individualism, finally have developed an honest-to-goodness team spirit. Coach Doc Newton's tricky type of offense hinges on a precision which can come only from team work—something Doc had not been able to get before.

But this year the Wolves have that teamwork, and Wade Ison, sports publicist at the college, may find little further use for that phrase of his about the Wolfpack "touchdown famine." If the era of good feeling continues at the State camp, the Raleigh team will go places.

About those two feed-box specials: A few shrewd folks have been offering tremendous odds that Wake Forest won't win more than three Big Five games, and the same odds that Davidson won't lose more than three such games.

They're bound to collect, since the Deacs and the Wildcats have severed football connections, and won't play more than three games in the Big Five.

Biography Of Doc Newton

Four years ago this fall Williams (Doc) Newton stepped into the hardest football job in these parts and came out with flying colors. His North Carolina State teams haven't won any championships, but they have pleased the alumni with their fighting spirit and colorful football that have made them "look better in defeat than previous State teams looked in victory."

Coach Newton is a native North Carolinian. His father is a retired Baptist minister of Thomasville. An athlete himself, the personable State coach was sought after as a prep school player while at Cluster Springs Academy in Virginia. From there he went to the University of South Carolina and then into professional baseball to become a member of the famous Baltimore Orioles of the late Jack Dunn's time.

The World War broke into his athletic career and he served the last days of the conflict as an Army captain, missing the opportunity of going overseas. After the Armistice was signed he continued his baseball and 1924 took up coaching as a profession at Jones Valley high school, near Birmingham, Alabama.

In 1925 he began his college coaching career, serving until 1930 at Birmingham-Southern and Howard colleges in Birmingham as an assistant and freshman coach.

Tennessee Scout

The year 1931 found him on the University of Tennessee staff as a scout and the following year he accepted the position of head coach of football at Davidson College, bringing with him Gene McEver, the All-American halfback from U. T.

For five years he coached Davidson teams to their greatest half-decade of football success. Twenty-three times his team returned victories against seventeen defeats and five ties.

Signed to a five-year contract at State during one of the bitterest feuds in Wolfpack history—a feud over a previous coach that divided the alumni, students and faculty into two distinct factions—Newton was greeted by nine boys the first day he called spring football practice. His patient, human ways of handling young athletes won him the admiration of all with whom he came in contact and by fall he had rejuvenated the Wolfpack, which went against its opponents in such a determined way that it gave State its best football record in five years. Only three games were lost against five won and one tied.

The next spring when he sounded the call for candidates 103 players reported.

Suicide Schedules

Coach Newton pledged to the students, faculty and people of Raleigh that the State team would play the finest opponents available and during his regime Carnegie Tech, University of Detroit, University of Tennessee, Duquesne University and University of Alabama have been added to the Wolfpack football program.

His second Wolfpack team won only three games, lost seven and tied one, but went down in history as a gallant outfit that played such opponents as Duke University and Carnegie Tech within a span of five days and had only three touchdowns scored against it. It was an eleven that lacked just a little of being a truly great team.

Last year his Wolfpack team won but two games, and lost eight, although it played great games against Tennessee, Duquesne and North Carolina.

Coach Newton teaches the Tennessee variation of the Warner system of football.

The Wolfpack coach is an expert baseball coach, tutors State's varsity, and usually devotes his summers to coaching American Legion Junior baseball teams. He is a golfer of note and can be counted on to win the championship flight in almost any tournament. He is a Ft. Kays Phi, is married to the former Miss Annie Dea Rogers of Birmingham and they have two children, Jean and Jimmy.

Light is Right for Active Sportswear

FROM THIS ANGLE

by Edwin Perry

The scene opens on an open area of ground enclosed in an oval cinder track near North Carolina's Capital City on September 1, 1940.

But our attention is drawn more to the gathering of some fifty young men, well built lads, bronzed under the withering summer sun.

We begin to ask questions. A youngster, not more than 12 years old is questioned first. "Who are these fellows out here on the field?"

We begin to see light. This is the team of North Carolina country boys which Doc Newton has been talking about.

Scene II

The scene changes. This time we are in Foreman Stadium in Norfolk, Va., some twenty days later. Those same country boys, clad in bright red jerseys and silky grey breeches, have taken the field to oppose William and Mary football team.

The country boys of State begin to march. They outplay, outclass the highly touted Indians from William and Mary, so greatly that experts predict great things for them.

That's a fact folks... they're not country boys and they don't especially relish the fact that they're called country boys.

I'm as proud of that Wolfpack team as a kinky-haired Negro boy would be over a half-dollar present but I am afraid of one thing.

Just to show them what we think, what say we form an avenue from the field house up to the field for the players' bench for them to enter through.

The man of night, one Dobie Nelson, was forced to go slumming this week... imagine Dobie at Duke... but don't worry, he's only in the hospital for a knee operation.

Hats off to this freshman team... 59-0 looks mighty good... keep up the good work boys... there is talk of recruiting some of our newly acquired coeds as cheer leaders.

If some of your freshmen don't know by now you will be expected to turn out on mass (that means everybody be there) for the game Saturday evening.

That's enough of this till next week... here's for bigger and better country gentlemen.

Grant Wood, celebrated artist, has been granted a year's leave from the art department of the University of Iowa to devote full time to painting.

About Dobie

The condition of Big Dobie Nelson, sophomore back, was reported as well as could be expected following a knee operation in Duke Hospital Tuesday.

The grid star is expected to be back on the State campus about next Tuesday unless complications arise, a situation which is not expected.

Nelson's knee was injured in practice and doctors ordered an operation to correct the trouble. From reliable reports, a piece of the cartilage of his left knee was removed.

New Coliseum Means Extra Space For Athletic Department

Committee Appointed By Athletic Council to Investigate Sports Use of Proposed Building

The proposed erection of a new State College Coliseum will mean a great deal to the athletic department.

When the R. O. T. C. moves over to the Coliseum, half of the basement space now taken up by the gym in the winter, and the handball courts are blocked up.

A committee composed of Professor Miller, Coach Bob Warren, and Bill Sullivan, alumni of Greensboro, has been appointed by the athletic council to look over the proposed Coliseum plans.

If possible, the centralization of sports department offices—publicity, coaches, manager—will be effected. Present spread of these offices makes for lack of efficiency in handling of sports matters.

MURAL MUSINGS

Athletic Tickets

Many of the students, especially new ones, have asked where, when and how they were to secure athletic tickets for the game Saturday night.

Those tickets are being given out in the registrar's office on the second floor of Holladay Hall. Mr. Mayer requests that all students secure their tickets as soon as possible for no tickets will be given out at the game.

The registrar's office will be closed after 12:30 Saturday so be sure to go by for your ticket before that time or you'll be missing that ball game between the Country Gentlemen of State and Davidson's Wildcat Men.

Big Davidson Team Expected to Give Wolfpack a Run For the Money

The old story about a big, overweight North Carolina State football team meeting a greatly outweighed Davidson College team won't go this year, for when the two Big Five and Southern Conference rivals clash here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Riddick Stadium, they will be evenly matched in weight.

By actual pounds, the State linemen will average 194 pounds and the backs only 176 pounds.

Weights released by Davidson give the Wildcat players like poundage, which is considerably heavier than the usual Davidson team.

There is a great deal of speculation over the result of tomorrow's skirmish after the outcome of last week's encounter. As is known to everyone, especially to the Monday morning quarterbacks, Davidson whipped Rollins College 19-8 and State pulled out a 10-0 victory by whipping William and Mary 16-0.

The two victories sent the whip of the two teams soaring to great heights, with some experts predicting this to be a banner season for the Davidson team while others give State a great chance of being the best since Doc Newton took over here.

But all these questions will be settled come Saturday evening. In the past, it is recalled, it has been the State team that has had the stars in its lineup.

But that situation is reversed this year, what with no so-called stars in the State lineup and Davidson's lineup bedecked with a formidable array of such stars as Johnny Fredericks, Packanack Lake, N. J. youth who conforms to Davidson's scab back style plus plenty of power afforded by his 190 pounds of brawn, and Granny Sharpe, Burlington lad who threw those telling passes against State last year, makes the story read different.

Coach Gene McEver has always been known to put out one of the fastest, most elusive backfields in the Big Five and with the comparatively heavier set of speedsters in his backfield this year the odds stack up greatly in favor of the Wildcats.

Four years ago State's head Coach, Williams (Doc) Newton, and Davidson's McEver were coaching mates at the Presbyterian school and it was that year that the Wildcat outfit gave the Wolfpack a 6-2 shelling.

It was in that year that Newton and McEver had a batch of heavy set backs similar to the ones listed in McEver's backfield this year. The 'Cats are poised for another kill. To me the odds even more favor Davidson, State is having its leanest year in many moons, quite different from the big-experienced team which lost to Davidson four years ago.

Runaway Win Shows Freshmen Have Reserve Power

Faircloth and Gordon Display Abilities As Triple-Threat Backs

The freshman football team's game with Presbyterian Junior College last Saturday night revealed that Coach Warren has a wealth of material on hand, though some of the boys are a bit green.

The freshmen steamrolled the visitors to the tune of 53-0, and displayed a dazzling running and passing attack, led by halfbacks Art Faircloth and Bobby Gordon, high school stars from Washington, D. C. Both are well polished performers and stand-out triple-threat backs.

Several other backs played bang-up games. "Buck" Senter, former Raleigh High star, and Joe Ermalovich did some steam-rolling from the fullback post. Ermalovich is a whale of a blocker. Joe Sunnewick, a diminutive youngster who holds down a quarterback position, turned in some pretty runs and seemed adept at passing.

Line Excellent Facing the line was Guard Gene Rayburn, who tips the scales at around 235, but whose speed and agility belie his size, and Mike Andreach, a husky lad who plays end and is a brilliant blocker.

He seems particularly adept at playing on the defense. Another big boy playing on the line is Ray Topper, a first-string tackle who hails from Easton, Pa., the home town of Bill Retter, captain of last year's Wolfpack. John Boley, another tackle, from Wilmington, N. C., shows promise of developing into varsity material.

Ends Jim Jackson and Carl Fitchette played good ball. Jackson was an All-State at Rocky Mount, and Fitchette, a Dunn boy, played at Georgia Military Academy. Another chap who played well at an end post was Vladimir Kostokuvitch.

ball, would be located in the Coliseum. This plan is an ideal one and whether it can be included is problematical.

Nevertheless, if it is worked out, the gymnasium will become of increased value to students and faculty for recreation purposes. The present program takes the Frank Thompson Gymnasium facilities beyond their capacity.

YMCA Outing Held At Tech Hill Forest

Kirkman In Charge of Successful Program; Student Interest Growing

Hill Forest, the picturesque camp that belongs to the Forestry Department, was the scene of the Fall Retreat of the State College Y. M. C. A., Sunday, September 22nd. Leaving from in front of the "Y" Building at about 9 a.m., the trip to Hill Forest was made in two of the busses owned by the Forestry Department.

C. H. Kirkman, vice president of the Y. M. C. A., was in charge of the very constructive program and introduced the two main speakers of the day. The program was opened with the singing of hymns, after which Mr. Ed. King, general secretary of the "Y," made an informal talk on "The Personal Religious Life of a Y. M. C. A. Member." Mr. King stressed in his very interesting talk, the importance of the Y. M. C. A. member leading a Christian life.

After the morning program, dinner was served cafeteria style and until the afternoon program, which started at four o'clock, the group read books, which were brought along for this purpose, pitched horseshoes and played softball.

Reverend Lee Sheppard of the Pullen Baptist Church made the afternoon address using the subject "The Challenge of Present World Conditions to Christian Youth." After his talk, Rev. Sheppard led the discussion on the problems that confront the youth of today and many suggestions were made as to how these problems should be met. After supper the group assembled down by the lake near the camp and joined in evening vesper which was led by Charles McAdams. With regret and with the assurance that the day was a beneficial one the busses were once more loaded and headed back to the college.

Those attending the Retreat were: Mr. and Mrs. E. S. King, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Watkins, Dean Cloyd, David Whitted, Tom Morgan, S. P. Dobson, Johnny Brown, Bill Johnson, C. D. Umberger, Bill Le Grand, Robert Ward, Dennis Hoffman, H. V. Fryer, Jennings Teal, Grover Swinney, Selby Kornegay, Edwin Harrelson, Robert Landon, Cade Covington, Ophus Fulcher, Richard Alexander, C. ### Results Announced From Placement Test

Class of '44 Falls Below Average in Knowledge of English

Results of the freshman I. Q. test were made available recently and they were found to be somewhat disappointing.

This year 812 freshmen took the test and the total scale score average is 45. Two years ago 652 men took the test. Last year 758 took it and the average for each individual group for the past two years has been 46. Thus we should indicate the fact that the I. Q. of the class of '44 has dropped one point.

From the data available, it was discovered that the lowest scores made during the three years are those in spelling. Excepting the year of 1939-1940, the highest scores are those in vocabulary.

C. M. Appleberry, who attended New Hanover High School in Wilmington, N. C., was high scorer with 77 for his final grade. E. L. Briggs of High Point ran a close race with a score of 76, while N. H. Gwyn of Lenoir and D. N. Chadwick of Wilmington tied for third place honors, each reaching the 75 mark.

There were 29 students who received grades of 66 or above. These should be the "A" students according to figures.

Foresters Planning Annual Club Rolleo

Event Will Be Held October 12; Hoffman Speaks of Effect of Defense Program

The Foresters held their second meeting of the term in Ricks Hall Tuesday night with President Pete Cromartie officiating.

After a discussion of old business, Leigh Wilson, dance chairman, presented his plans and ideas for the club's social activities. A committee was appointed to help Wilson work out proposals to be presented at the club's next meeting.

Jeff Surratt, Rolleo chairman, announced the Rolleo date as October 12, on which day all forestry students will leave their school work in order to spend a day in the woods. All new members of the club will be initiated that night in the cabin at Hill Forest, which is on the outskirts of Durham.

Dr. J. V. Hoffman, head of the New Forestry School, spoke on the "New Defense Program and Its Effect on Forestry."

Before the meeting was adjourned, the club was given all available information concerning the cabin being built in Slocum's Hollow.

Textile School Offers New Course

Special Instruction to Be Given On The Finishing of Rayon

A short course giving intensive instruction in the manipulation and dyeing of rayon will be presented next spring by the State College Textile School, Dean Thomas Nelson announced today.

The course will be open to all persons connected with the textile industry, Dean Nelson said, adding: "It is planned to supplement lectures and demonstrations by the Textile School faculty by bringing outstanding men in the rayon field to the college to discuss the latest developments in the throwing, weaving, knitting and finishing of rayon products."

The short course will be designed especially for practical mill men, but it also will be available to upperclassmen in the Textile School. Exact dates for the course have not been determined, but it probably will be conducted during the first two weeks in May, Dean Nelson said.

OTHER PAPERS SAY

From The Old Gold and Black
One big question in the minds of American thinkers today is: "Why does the American college student take so little interest in national affairs?"

The answer may seem phenomenal; the campus affords sufficient means of employment of mind with out unnecessary additional burdening of the student's attention with government matters.

But this explanation does not eliminate the scholar from what is really his duty. What an irony it is that the most qualified source of assistance in the direction of national problems should care little about them to carelessly shrug off their every issue.

Of course the student himself is not solely responsible for this neglect. If he did not believe the government to be in efficient hands, how in he, an isolated little unit of the public, to remedy the situation?

The truth is that the system of education of the average American college is not conducive to interest in politics. The student comes to believe, through the medium of certain courses of study, not purposely designed to such an end, that he is an almost insignificant little interloper in the scheme of his environment; that any display of ability for helpful suggestion on his part would be disregarded as a transgression of technical rights.

The University of Minnesota law school has decided to continue its three year course for students who enter with a B. A.

MURAL MUSINGS

Horseshoes start at 4:30; 5-man team.

Wrestling starts October 22 for fraternity men. In past matches it has proved advisable to have several weeks of conditioning, so Mr. Miller advises that the boys participating start now.

A call for the formation of inter-collegiate fraternity and inter-dormitory bowling leagues is being made by the new ManMun Bowling-Alleys. The new alleys have already become the center of student bowling activity, but in the main all bowling done has been somewhat disorganized. Interest has been expressed by several groups for the formation of definite leagues, with probably some inter-league play scheduled near the end of the year.

Present plans call for at least separate leagues for fraternities and for dormitory groups. Mr. Brooks, of the ManMun Alleys, is handling the league formation and application by interested teams should be made to him.

Sure, it seems far-fetched, but you'll be surprised what a great big difference it makes in your grades to carry a sure-fire pen like the Parker Sacless Vacuumatic.

It's this revolutionary streamlined Beauty that never runs dry unless you let it. For its sacless Television barrel holds nearly twice as much ink as our old type, and it lets you SEE days ahead if it's running low.

It's the only Style that looks like circles of shimmering velvet - ring over ring of lustrous Pearl and Jet. The One-Hand sacless filler with the "Inkbot" Point of extra fine-ground 14K Gold, extra realness - tipped with Osmium that writes "as smooth as oil."

It's the college favorite by nearly 5 to 1 - so it rates one "In the Know" to carry the gamine.

Be sure to look for Parker's Blue Diamond - it means Guaranteed for life. Avoid all substitutes - then you'll have no regrets.
