Help Yourself

With graduation at hand, we would like to fire a few more parting shots on the subject of appropriations. Throughout the year we have preached appropriations to the students and to anyone and everyone else who would give us half an ear.

To begin with, you would like to have a better equipped cafeteria with better food and a more pleasant atmosphere. The reason you cannot is because the men who direct the financial destiny of State College, the legislators and particularly the Advisory Budget Commission and the Joint Appropriations Committee, count on the cafeteria to make a substantial profit during the year.

All of us would like to have better and cheaper laundry and dry cleaning service. We can't have it because the laundry's share of the appropriation is necessarily so small that we are unable to purchase sufficient equipment to do the large volume of work as efficiently as it should be done.

Your infirmary fees are high. They are higher than the expense of running the infirmary warrants, but they are high because the money has to come from somewhere.

Your tuition and fees are high. They are higher than in the majority of State-supported schools in other states.

The actual figures for tuitions and fees do not tell the whole story; remember that you must add all profits that the institution makes.

The sad part about this array of expenses is that we are at least partly at fault. We have not made sufficient effort to help ourselves to get the appropriations that we need so badly.

Traffic Hazards

With campus traffic becoming more of a problem every day, we believe that we are extremely lucky that no student has been severely injured or even killed on the campus.

We heartily endorse this suggestion as being an excellent solution to the problem. Even though it might be somewhat inconvenient to those who like to park in front of the cafeteria, we believe that a little inconvenience is necessary in order to save lives.

Information has reached us that the front of the cafeteria will soon be remodeled so that students will enter from the sides of the porch instead of climbing directly up the front steps.

As an alternate method to blocking off the streets, we would suggest that certain streets on the campus be made one-way streets. That is perhaps the most practical method of all. It would not only decrease the danger of automobile wrecks; it would also solve to a great extent the parking problem.

We make the following suggestions: That the street in front of the cafeteria be made a one-way street with cars going in the direction of South Dormitory.

As a further precaution, and as suggested by the Student Welfare Committee, we advocate the registration and issuance of licenses for all cars habitually kept on the campus.

New York Meeting

This week we received a letter from T. K. Mial, vice president of the Alumni Association, urging that graduating seniors who intend to be working in the New York area communicate with him in order that they may attend a meeting to be held in New York on June 20.

Mr. Mial has done an excellent job of organizing New York alumni of State College. Although the organization was small at the beginning, it is now one of our most active chapters.

We would like to urge every senior who expects to be living in the New York area to write to Mr. Mial and accept his invitation to the alumni meeting.

You will be starting out right as a loyal and active alumnus of State College. In past years the great majority of our alumni have drifted away because their occupations have taken them into other states and away from fellow-graduates.

Cafeteria Clocks

One of the more beneficial projects of the year was completed when Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, installed clocks in the front and back cafeterias this week.

The need for the clocks has long been evident to every State College student, and the fraternity is to be congratulated on donating such a fine gift to the school.

Alpha Zeta is one of the most active honor organizations on the campus, and under the able direction of Louis Trevaathan it has accomplished a great deal this year.

There are many other useful projects which organizations on the campus could have carried on this year, but many of them were neglected because of inadequate leadership.

If all the honor organizations on the campus would work together, and on one project at a time, they would get much more done and with practically no limit to what they could accomplish.

The honor council was an excellent idea, but apparently it did not function very well this year.

We urge that every man who has been elected to hold an office next year resolve to do the best he can to lead his group through an active year.

OPEN FORUM

The Technician North Carolina State College Raleigh, N. C.

Through the medium of your paper, will you please extend to the members of the 1941 class who will be located in the New York area after graduation, an invitation to attend as our guests a meeting to be held on June 20th in New York City.

At this meeting we hope to welcome many of the new alumni who will be located in this territory.

If any other of the graduating class are in this neighborhood at that particular time, they also would be welcome.

Please ask each man to advise me, c/o Johns-Manville, 22 East 40th Street, New York City, immediately whether or not he can accept this invitation.

BEHIND THE MIKES

By Jack Thurmer

Barney Rapp, who is to play for the Friday IFC dance, is one of the older and more experienced leaders in the dance field.

The hand has not made many records as yet, but has broadcasted over WLW. Playing more sweet than swing, the accent is on the sax section.

The Bandwagon The Bandwagon will have as its guest star this week Phil Harris, the drummer boy from Tennessee.

He has achieved his fame by the long number of years that his band has played on the Jack Benny show. Harris never does get much of a chance to play music like it should be played.

Finals Tony Pastor will play at the Roseborough at the Univ. of Maryland the night before his date here.

He is on his way to the Paladium in Los Angeles, where he is featured by Glenn Miller. Woody Herman has added saxmen Sam Rube and Herbie Hymmer who came over from the Jimmy Dorsey band.

The Turntable "Without a Song," "Deep River." Tommy Dorsey puts out a 12-inch record this week that should become a good seller.

"Good Enough to Keep," "A Snow-Covered One." Benny Goodman and the Sextet pour out some real swing in the best record that this group has discared in some time.

Jimmy Lunceford celebrates his return to Decca with two excellent tunes. There are some beautiful sax passages along with James Young and Dan Grissom doing the vocals.

The versatility of the Herman band is shown on this record. Woody sings both of the vocals while the latter is on the hillbilly side, featuring a lot of instrumental solos.

"Hurry Back To Sorrento," "Helen of Troy." Johnny McAfee does the vocal on the first side with Al Alvola writing the music for the reverse.

"Far Away Music," "Flamingo." The old and new style of the Bob Crosby band is shown with Bob and the Bob-o-Links vocalizing on the first and Eddie Miller and that fine Dixieland tenor of his spotted on the last one as a solo record.

"Woodland Symphony," "Oh For Heaven Sakes." The pretty Alvino Rey guitar is on the symphony number while he cuts up behind Yvonne King and Skeets Herfurt on the vocal.

Some other good records are: Larry Clinton's "Estrelita" and "Essential To Me." Steve Benic's alto is spotted on the little star, and Butch Stone and Peggy Mann on the other. Ray McKinley has a novel quartet made up of Freddie Slack, piano and celeste, Doc Goldberg, bass; Peanut Hucko, tenor; and Ray "We for Two" is the number and it has a very novel orchestration with some good Hucko tenor. Joe Reichman's "Dance of the Bayou" and "If It Is Be Love." These show Joe off as a very good pianist.

BAND, ATTENTION! Redcoat Band rehearsal Saturday at 1:30. Concert Sunday 3:30. Commencement Band rehearsals Monday and Wednesday at 12:00.

GLEANINGS

With the approach of the bitter end of our college life, we pause for a few moments, not to remember what we have done during the past four, five, or six years, but to hazard a few predictions as to what some of our class members and professors will be doing 10 or even 20 years from today.

Starting with the class officers, we shall run through a few of the members for as long as imagination and space will permit. Willie Friday has enjoyed a long and successful career as president of one of the foremost female institutes in the State.

Leroy Barnes, after settling down to a quiet existence as a county agent, suddenly disappeared in the company of a South American girl and has never been heard of again definitely, but it is rumored that he is president of Beachcombers' Local No. 1,000,001 on a little-known South Sea Island.

Ralph Williams, while driving a 60-ton tank with the B.E.F., suffered a complete loss of memory and crashed the lumbering vehicle into a distillery in Scotland.

Milford F. Cohen, now head of the Chemical Engineering Department at State College, spends most of his time in conference with Bill and F. C. in an attempt to devise ways and means of making the first two terms more fiendishly difficult for seniors.

William Angus Ray recently resigned his position at Shaw University to become head of the foreign language department at Heidelberg. When he left Shaw, he left these parting words: "Gentlemen, although the outlook here is exceedingly black, I believe that we have made progress. I leave you now, but I shall never leave you in spirit, though perhaps I am leaving you for spirit. On to the Heidelberg beer!"

Bruce Cushman Halsted, having been blighted by an unsuccessful romance in his college days, is now in Texas and owner of one of the largest ranches in that part of the country.

James Call, now known as "Diamond Jim" of the underworld, in a few short years after graduation, owned a string of pool rooms from New York to San Francisco.

Wayland Reams has made and lost several millions of dollars, but at present he is chief doorman at the Sir Walter. He and Howard Bell are planning to open a law office in the near future.

Dud Kaley is battling his way along the road of life as a day laborer. He has very little money and no luxuries, but he says that his wife and nine children are a great comfort to him.

Lewis Trevaathan is now occupying the position of State Commissioner of Agriculture. A strong advocate of the 40 acres and a mule theory, Lewis has put the farmer back on his feet; yes, right out of the tractor seat and back behind the mule.

John Laws, after long years of fighting from the very bottom, has at last risen to one of the highest offices in the land. He is now an office boy for Empire Magazine, which has its headquarters on the top floor of the Empire State Building.

Tom Rowland and Ted Johnson are traveling with rival circuses, each billed as the fastest man in the world. When last heard from they were trying to fatten up Herman Hickman so that he would be somewhere near their size.

The fate of the remainder of the class is shrouded in the mists of the future, but we are safe in saying that there has never been a senior class quite like this one, and that there probably never will be.

Band Will Present Patriotic Program

Last Concert of Season to Be Given in Conjunction With Observance of Memorial Day

The State College Band will present another out-door concert Sunday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock in cooperation with the American Legion's observance of Memorial Day.

The program will feature numbers with a patriotic as well as popular appeal. An audience estimated at more than 1,000 heard the last concert, and a still larger crowd is anticipated for next Sunday.

Orris O'Daniel, sophomore from Charlotte, will be featured as cornet soloist in a fantasia on "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," by Edwin Franko Goldman. Another feature will be "1776," a descriptive fantasia on scenes from the War of Independence. "Over There," a selection of World War tunes and current popular patriotic numbers will also be included.

Should inclement weather prevent an out-door performance, the concert and memorial exercises will be held in Pullen Hall. The program will begin promptly at 8:30 p.m.

Vacancies Existing In Defense Course

Openings Still Remain in Architectural Drafting Short Course

A few vacancies for students still exist in the architectural drafting course which State College is offering as part of the engineering defense training program. Director Edward W. Ruggles of the College Extension Division reported today.

Seventeen men already have registered for the course, which will last 12 weeks, and several others will be accepted if their applications are received this week. The Federal government pays all expenses of the defense courses with the exception of students' subsistence and textbooks.

Applications for other courses starting soon are coming in at a rapid rate, Director Ruggles said, adding that nearly 100 per cent of all men completing previous courses have been placed in jobs. Starting dates for the new series of courses are: June 2, aircraft inspection and electrical distribution; June 9, fabric testing and inspection; June 16, materials inspection and testing, and chemical testing and inspection; June 23, engineering drawing. A bulletin describing the courses may be secured from Ruggles.

Washington and Lee University's student body fund handled more than $40,000 in the 1939-40 term.

Scabbard and Blade Elects New Officers

R. F. Vaughn Chosen to Head Honorary Military Fraternity Next Year

R. F. Vaughn, junior in textile chemistry and dyeing, was elected Captain of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military society, at a recent meeting, succeeding J. E. McIver as leader of the organization.

Additional officers elected by the society were: First Lieut., G. C. Cox, junior in chemical engineering; Second Lieut., G. R. Sedberry, junior in textile manufacturing; First Sgt., H. C. Cameron, junior in general engineering; and Sgt. M. D. Martin, junior in chemical engineering.

Scabbard and Blade was formed for the purpose of raising the standard of military training in American colleges and universities, and to promote intimacy and good fellowship among cadet officers.

Episcopalians Plan Communion Service

Rites Sunday Morning Will Be Followed by Fellowship Breakfast in Cafeteria

Episcopal students will hold their last Communion Service of the year on Sunday morning at the campus on each fourth Sunday, Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock. The Rev. James McDowell Dick of the Church of the Good Shepherd will be celebrant, and a fellowship breakfast will follow in the school cafeteria.

Since January, the Episcopalians have held an early service on the campus on each fourth Sunday, and they plan to resume the custom next fall. The brief Holy Communion without sermon they consider the most attractive of all church offices, and it was planned to attend church without having to make long trips to the city. An early service helps one start the day "right."

EPISCOPAL STUDENTS

There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday, May 26, at 8 a.m. All Episcopal students are urged to be present.

Two Ceramic Students Initiated By Keramos

Miller Elected as President of Organization; Other Officers Chosen at Banquet

Keramos initiated two of the outstanding sophomores in Ceramic Engineering, Addison Hawley and J. E. Shoffner, in a formal ceremony last Tuesday.

Keramos is a national professional ceramic fraternity, founded in 1902. Membership is based on scholarship, leadership, high character, and the probability of success in industry after graduation.

Immediately after the initiation ceremony, an election was held to select the officers of the society for next year. Howard L. Miller was chosen to succeed Henry H. Thomas as president. Pickett Turner was selected for the position of vice president, while Addison Hawley will be the secretary next year. J. E. Shoffner was elected to handle the money in his capacity of treasurer for the coming year, and J. W. Nance will serve as herald.

The initiation banquet was held at Colonial Pines Hotel in honor of the new members. Guests of Keramos were the seniors in Ceramic Engineering who are not members of the organization. After dinner, Dr. A. F. Greaves-Walker presented his annual farewell address to the seniors, offering much helpful advice to those men who will be graduating this year and who will be working in the industry or serving in the army.

Santapolo Elected To Head Foresters

Crombie, Johnson Chosen As Vice President and Secretary of Forestry Club

Frank Santapolo was elected president of the Forestry Club for the fall term of next year at a meeting of the organization Tuesday night.

B. Crombie was chosen to act as vice president and A. Johnson will fill the secretary's post. The other officers are Jimmie Maynard, treasurer; Joe Marshal, sergeant-at-arms; J. Hoffman, program chairman; S. Turner, dance chairman; H. Epstein, public relations chairman; A. Pruitt, Rollee chairman; and J. Williams, initiation chairman.

The seniors in forestry are making their inspection trip, which continues over a large part of the third term. They are making an extended tour of the southern states.

Ag Club Elects Goforth

Members of the Ag Club elected G. M. Goforth to serve as president during the fall term next year at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Other officers elected were: J. R. Church, vice president; A. L. Ramsey, secretary; R. A. Halalip, treasurer; and S. D. Korngay. The treasurer serves for the entire year.

Professor J. G. Weaver of the Horticulture Department was elected faculty advisor for the entire year.

Forestry and Agriculture students will meet at a joint smoker in the back cafeteria Tuesday night at 7 o'clock for the purpose of electing officers for the Ag Fair.

Williams Heads ASCE

At a recent meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, L. C. Williams, Jr., was inducted as president of the organization.

Other officers installed at the meeting included I. E. Wintyre, vice president; L. D. Parker, secretary; R. C. Thurmond, treasurer; J. F. Kelly, representative to the Engineers' Council; J. G. Foushee, reporter; and J. F. G. Davis, agt. at arms.

Plans were also discussed for a picnic Saturday, May 24, at Crabtree Creek Park. Included on the social program at this event will be swimming, boating, softball, horseshoe pitching, and dancing.
